WALLER'S DEFENSE.

Major Accused of Cruelty In Samar Testifies.

VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL EXPECTED.

Natives of the Island Guilty of Inconceivable Treachery and Inhumanity—Justified Stern Measures Under Martial Law.

MANILA, April 12.—Major Littleton W. T. Waller of the marine corps, who is being tried by court martial on the charge of executing Samar natives without trial, addressed the crowded court yesterday. The major said he was either right or wrong in his actions and added that he desired to cite five precedents which came under the head of his own case. He alluded to the naval battle at Santiago and the humanity he had shown to Spaniards who were captured and said he had many letters from Spaniards thanking him for the kindness he had shown them.

Continuing, the major said that in 1882 he was with the British forces in Egypt, where Arabs captured pickets of Bengal cavalry, decapitated the prisoners and placed their heads on poles. Afterward all the Arabs who were caught were shot without trial. During the campaign in China the Chinese mutilated the dead and tortured the wounded to death. Consequently when a Boxer or a fanatic was captured he was executed immediately without reference. This was true in the case of the troops of every nation in China. It was true during the three weeks he commanded the Americans there, and the same thing occurred later when he was no longer in command. No protest was made, and he had every right to believe that his acts were approved, so far as the American forces were concerned. He knew they were approved by those of other nations.

"It is impossible to conceive such treachery as that of the natives of Samar," said the major. "They revel in blood and have an appetite for wanton sacrilege of the human body. These fiends stole Captain Connell's class ring, filled the soldiers' bodies with jam and jelly and attempted to murder my command. I shot them. I honestly thought then that I was right, and I believe so now. Neither my people nor the world will believe me to be a murderer."

Captain Arthur T. Marix of the marine corps, representing Major Waller, in a forceful argument maintained that Waller's actions were justified by martial law, quoting numerous authorities on the subject. Captain Marix also said he regretted very much that the prosecution had seen fit to call General Smith. He claimed that all the testimony went to show that the major was justified.

At the close of the arguments for the defense the general feeling was that the result of the trial will be the acquittal of the major.

May Punish General Smith.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Secretary Root is not now in a position to take any action with regard to the allegations of extreme military measures on the part of General Smith, who commanded the American troops in the island of Samar, which have been made in the Waller court martial at Manila. The secretary said that if General Smith had committed a breach of the rules of war in the Samar campaign the war department will take steps to discipline that officer. Up to this time, it is said, the statements concerning General Smith's administration have been made only during the taking of evidence at the court martial and have not been presented in an official manner to the secretary of war.

Dr. Talmage Still Alive.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—According to the latest statement of the physicians, there was no marked change in the condition of Dr. Talmage. If anything he is resting a trifle easier, with the pulse a little more regular and less fever. His condition, however, is very critical, and every hour which the present alarming symptoms continue lessens the chances of life.

A New York Race Riot.

NEW YORK, April 12.—West Thirty-seventh street was convulsed by a race riot last night. Before the police of the West Thirty-seventh street station could restore order more than a dozen negroes had been beaten and cuffed by white men. The trouble was precipitated by a negro who says he is Holmes Esley, nineteen years old, of 249 West Thirty-second street.

Japanese Financier In Boston.

BOSTON, April 12.—Count Masvoshi Matsukata, former prime minister of Japan, was given a complimentary breakfast by Mayor Collins. Among those present were the mayor, Governor Crane, ex-Mayor Quincy and Hon. Charles S. Hamlin. In the afternoon Count Matsukata and party were the guests of President Eliot of Harvard.

Mrs. Cleveland Returns.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 12.—Mrs. Grover Cleveland has returned to Princeton after spending two weeks with her husband in Florida. When seen in the afternoon, she said Mr. Cleveland's health has so much improved since he went to Florida a fortnight ago that he will remain there at least another week or ten days.

A Dearth of Bait.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 12.—The first contingent of French fishing vessels to reach the coast for the fishing season is in sore straits for bait. The Newfoundland reserve cruiser Fiona is vigorously enforcing the antibait law, which greatly irritates the French at St. Pierre. The weather is still too stormy to fish on the banks.

THE BELGIAN CRISIS.

Violent Scenes In the Chamber of Deputies.

POLICE AND RIOTERS IN A FIGHT.

Twenty-five Persons Wounded In the Encounter — Serious Outbreaks, With Bloodshed, In Various Cities.

BRUSSELS, April 12.—The sitting of the chamber of deputies yesterday was characterized by violent scenes. The premier, Count de Smeyer, referring to the deplorable events, said:

"The appeal of the Socialists to the population proves that it is their avowed plan to continue the struggle even after parliament has pronounced on the revision bill. Their aim is the dethronement of power and the triumph of revolution. The government is resolved that the debate on the revision bill shall occur in spite of the assertions of the Moniteur Socialiste to the contrary."

At this point in the premier's speech violent altercations, which nearly led to blows, arose between the deputies of the opposing parties. Liberals and Socialists engaged in a sharp discussion concerning the agreement concluded between them for the defense of universal suffrage, and M. Dembion, a Socialist, shouted, "We are betrayed!"

At the close of the sitting Socialist deputies, shouting, "Jesuit thief!" stormed the president's tribune. Ushers were then summoned to preserve order, and a violent scene ensued, in which blows were freely exchanged.

After the chamber was closed members of the Left party and Socialists proceeded to the Maison du Peuple with the intention of persuading the people to cease their demonstration until next week. The Maison was surrounded by the civic guard, but a meeting was permitted to be held inside. M. Van der Velder and other speakers at the meeting advocated that the people remain calm and have recourse to a general strike next week if the government used force. As the persons who attended the meeting were dispersing, and in spite of the precaution of permitting only a few of them to leave at one time, conflicts with the police occurred. Mounted gendarmes cleared the streets, and many of the demonstrators fired their revolvers.

During the course of the evening there were several other outbreaks in the city. The police charged the rioters, and about twenty-five persons were wounded. Many others were arrested. All those arrested were armed with revolvers.

Demonstrations and encounters also occurred at Liege, Ghent and elsewhere, the most serious being at Houdeng-Goegnies, in the coal district. During the collision between the police and strikers at that place the latter used brickbats and firearms. The police fired upon the rioters, killing a coal miner and a young girl. Fifteen persons were wounded, including two policemen. Mounted infantry finally dispersed the mob.

Sharp fighting between strikers and gendarmes occurred yesterday at Bracquegnies, near Charleroi. Several thousand strikers attacked and stoned a body of gendarmes, who retaliated by firing their revolvers.

A sharp fusillade followed, and the gendarmes were compelled to retreat. A squadron of lancers, however, galloped up and, charging, dispersed the mob.

It transpires this morning that at a cabinet council held yesterday, at which King Leopold presided, it was decided that the discussion of the suffrage question should be fixed for next Wednesday. The king appeared to favor a conciliatory attitude, but the government will oppose the introduction of universal suffrage.

A Mother's Terrible Crime.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 12.—Mrs. A. E. Tower, the wife of a millionaire resident of this city and a daughter of B. Platt Carpenter, for a generation a leader in the Republican party of the state, shot and killed her son and herself at the family residence here last night. It is believed that the murder and suicide resulted from a fit of temporary aberration of mind, for Mrs. Tower was wrapped up in her boy, who was fourteen years old and of manly disposition and bearing. Residents of the district along the famous Hyde Park road, where the Towers dwell, are stunned by the news of the tragedy.

Offer to Bail Rathbone.

HAVANA, April 12.—A surety company here has received a cable message from Boston asking if the court would accept the bond of the company for $50,000 as bail for Estes G. Rathbone. Nothing has come of this inquiry, as Rathbone's bail has already been fixed at $100,000. All except the best of the horses belonging to the American cavalry regiments in Cuba are being sold at auction.

Another Rockefeller Offer.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Lieutenant Governor Woodruff, president of the board of trustees of Adelphi college, Brooklyn, announces that John D. Rockefeller has given to the college $125,000 on condition that the friends of the institution will contribute an equal amount to be paid into the treasury within one year from July 1. The trustees of the college have pledged $25,000 of the amount.

To Renew Triple Alliance.

BERLIN, April 12.—The conferences held in Vienna by Count von Bulow, the German chancellor, have resulted in a decision that the triple alliance shall be renewed for another term of years.

Gray Hair A Crime?

Thousands of men and women are turned out of positions and many fail to secure situations because their gray hairs make them look old. This need not be.

makes age halt and keeps thousands in employment because it takes years from their apparent age. HAIR-HEALTH will positively restore gray, faded or bleached hair to its youthful color. It is not a dye. Its use cannot be detected. Equally good for men and women.

Gentlemen:—At forty my hair and mustache began turning gray. A friend on my road lost his place because his gray hair made him look older than he was. Profiting by his experience, I began using Hay's Hair-Health, with the result that I have the same dark-brown curly hair that I had at 21. Have held my position, although many younger men, whose only fault was their gray hair, have been dismissed. I thank you for my position.

A LIVELY DEBATE.

Southern Senators Take Exception to Mr. Depew's Remarks.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Some remarks which Mr. Depew (N. Y.) made concerning the proposed amendment to the constitution providing for the election of senators by popular vote, in the course of which he adverted to southern methods, precipitated a lively three hours' debate in the senate. Mr. Money (Miss.), to whose state reference had been made by the New York senator, replied tartly to some of the statements of Mr. Depew and defended the suffrage clauses in the Mississippi constitution.

Mr. Depew made a warm reply and attacked the election methods not only of Mississippi, but of several other southern states. He intimated that if fair methods were employed in those states Republican senators would be here as their representatives.

His remarks drew a sharp fire from several senators.

When the Chinese exclusion bill was taken up, an agreement was reached that a vote should be taken on it next Wednesday at 1 o'clock.

Debate on the Cuban reciprocity bill continued in the house, the principal speeches being made by Mr. Long (Kan.), a member of the ways and means committee, who from the first ardently supported the proposition for reciprocity and who originally favored a reduction of 40 per cent, and by Mr. Shafroth (Colo.), who vigorously opposed the bill on the ground that the sugar trust, which, he said, was waging a war of extermination against the beet sugar industry, would be its chief beneficiary.

Hallenbeck Murder Trial.

HUDSON, N. Y., April 12.—New and important evidence was introduced by the state yesterday in the case of the Van Wormer brothers, charged with the murder of their uncle, Peter A. Hallenbeck. Annie Althauser testified to hearing Burton Van Wormer threaten to kill his uncle if he had a chance, and Orviele Kellerhouse swore that Burton told him he would "get square" with Hallenbeck for foreclosing the mortgage on their farm. A number of witnesses were introduced to show that the three Van Wormer brothers and Harvey Bruce, their companion, also charged with the murder, but who has turned state's evidence, were close to the scene of the tragedy on the night Hallenbeck was murdered, Dec. 24, 1901. Harvey Bruce, it is understood, will be put on the stand by the state when the court opens again on Monday morning.

Quay Opposes Elkins.

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—After months of silence United States Senator Quay has announced that he is opposed to the nomination of Attorney General John P. Elkins for governor of Pennsylvania. This announcement came as a great shock to the friends of Mr. Elkins and has caused a tremendous stir in political circles. Insurance Commissioner Israel W. Durham, the leader of the Republican organization in this city, who some time ago publicly announced that he was for Elkins "sink or swim," has been won over and in an interview said that he concurred in the view taken of the situation by Senator Quay, who in a statement issued last night said that General Elkins' nomination would "threaten success of the state, congressional and legislative tickets."

Cable to End at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—San Francisco has been chosen as the landing place of the Pacific cable. This decision was made by George G. Ward, vice president of the Commercial Pacific Cable company, who has been in this city the past week examining proposed sites. The cable will start from a point near the life saving station on the north side of Golden Gate park and will be carried under ground about seven miles through the streets to the Postal Telegraph company's main office. It is expected to have the first link in the cable, from this city to Honolulu, completed before next winter.

Miss Stone With Her Mother.

BOSTON, April 12.—Miss Ellen M. Stone, the returned missionary, met her aged mother, Mrs. Lucy W. Stone, at the latter's home in Chelsea yesterday after being separated from her for nearly four years. The reunion of the daughter and mother was as calm and tranquil as the lives of both have ever been, even through the distressing period when the daughter's life was threatened by the brigands of Macedonia.

PEACE IS IN THE AIR

British Officials Profess Ignorance Regarding Rumors.

BUT LONDONERS ARE CONFIDENT.

Lord Roberts Is Said to Have Cabled to a Friend That "War Is Over." A Special Meeting of the Cabinet Called.

LONDON, April 12.—Inquiries made last night at the war office elicited the statement that that office knew nothing about the rumors of peace or the alleged telegrams from Lord Roberts to Dover in which he is reported to have said the war was over.

In the house of commons at midnight A. J. Balfour, the government leader, replying to a question asked by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader in the house, declared that the government had no information concerning the peace rumors and that there was no foundation for them.

It was reported that Lord Roberts had sent a message to a friend in Dover saying, "The war is over."

The announcement in the house of commons that peace terms had not been agreed upon indicated only that the announcement was premature.

Unexpectedly a special meeting of the British cabinet has been called for today to receive news from the conference of Boers and British in South Africa.

The talk in the clubs here is all one way. Everybody believes that the peace negotiations will succeed and that the actual announcement of the ending of hostilities in the Transvaal is a question of hours and not of days.

Mr. Balfour's denial last night of the peace rumors was very emphatic. He said, "We have no information at all, nor, in the nature of things, could there be any."

The sudden calling of a cabinet meeting and the fact that King Edward rather unexpectedly terminated his cruise yesterday in order to return to London convinces people that something important is pending and has led to the most extraordinary rumors.

That the fighting continues in South Africa is shown by a casualty list given out yesterday which contains the names of a few of the killed and wounded in engagements which occurred at three separate points as late as the 8th and 9th of April.

Preparations here continue for the dispatch of 20,000 additional troops for the winter campaign. Lord Roberts yesterday inspected the first draft of the guards which will sail for South Africa next week.

LEADERS CONFER.

Steyn, De Wet and Delarey Meet at Klerksdorp.

KLERKSDORP, Transvaal Colony, April 12.—The representatives of the Orange Free State and the Transvaal governments held conferences yesterday. The deliberations were confined to the delegates, and no communication was allowed with outsiders.

A flag of truce arrived at the British outposts about 11 o'clock in the morning with a message stating that Steyn, De Wet and Delarey wished to come in. An officer was sent out with an escort, and about noon the Boer leaders arrived in Cape carts.

The representatives of the Free State are quartered in the old town, while Delarey, as representing the Transvaal, has joined the Transvaal Boers in the new town. They are suitably guarded. Communication is permitted between the two parties.

Delarey is accompanied by his secretary, Ferreia, and about a dozen others. The tent in which the conferences will take place is pitched midway between the old and new townships, near the spruit.

To Coerce Ireland.

LONDON, April 12.—A dispatch to The Pall Mall Gazette from Dublin says that ten battalions of English and Scotch militia are to be embodied and sent to Ireland within a month in pursuance of the British government's determination to apply the coercion act. The correspondent of The Pall Mall Gazette understands that Lord Londonderry, the postmaster general, threatened to resign from the cabinet unless active measures were taken to circumvent the United Irish league.

A Stockyards Boycott.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 12.—Because of an objectionable yarding rule put into effect here the Kansas City Live Stock Exchange has at a special meeting decided by an almost unanimous vote to boycott the Kansas City stockyards and adopted resolutions requesting shippers to send their cattle, hogs and sheep to other markets until the differences shall be adjusted. Resolutions were adopted by the Live Stock Exchange and were signed by G. M. Welden, president of the exchange.

Another Police Chief Killed.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 12.—Chief of Police Marstellar, who was sworn in at Elkins, W. Va., on Monday, has been killed by a man named Davis. Davis was arrested in a saloon, and as he was being taken to jail he shot and killed the chief. Chief of Police Lilly was killed at Elkins by a prisoner, who was lynched, only a few months ago.

Tobacco Order Caused Strike.

BOSTON, April 12.—Because a notice was posted at the Stillings printing establishment prohibiting the use of tobacco and abolishing cuspidors during working hours twenty-three men struck after holding an indignation meeting. Mr. Stillings stated that he gave the order in the interest of cleanliness.

NEW CITY QUARTERS.

Now that the Common Council and the various city departments are settled in the new quarters in the Smalley building on North avenue, there have been many expressions of satisfaction heard over the change made by the city. There cannot be the slightest doubt that the new quarters are immeasurably better fitted for the city's uses than were the old. The city's offices are now located in a modern up-to-date building which no one will be ashamed to show to any stranger who happens to visit the city.

The only question that caused the members of the Common Council to delay in their action to secure the quarters in the Smalley building was the difference in price. The annual rental for the new rooms is $1,000 while $800 was wanted for the old quarters. After careful deliberation, the Councilmen decided that they were perfectly justified in making the increase when all the advantages were taken into consideration. Of course, it cannot be expected that everybody will think the same but a vast majority of those who have expressed themselves on the subject have said that the change was a worthy one.

One result of the establishment of the city's offices in the Smalley building will be to effectually kill the city hall project for some time to come. The idea of a city hall has been so near dead of late that the imitation was strikingly realistic but this will make sure of keeping it where it is for a much longer time. With the present satisfactory quarters, there are no city officials who are likely to very strenuously urge the selection of others immediately.

After last evening's Borough Council meeting, some of the borough officials figured up what would be the result of the building of a new sewage disposal plant for the borough. Including engineers' fees and other incidentals, the cost of the plant and sewers was estimated at $100,000. Each year the borough would have to pay $4,000 interest and $1,500 operating expenses and would want to pay at least $3,000 yearly toward a sinking fund. That would make the annual cost $8,500 and would raise the tax rate 34 points. The borough must have sewers soon. It means a raise of 34 points in the tax rate or consolidation.

It is to be hoped that the Plainfield police will not relax in the vigilance they have been showing of late in their campaign against the "speak-easies." There is no illicit trade which has such an evil influence on the men of the community as this kind. It is universally condemned by the believers in law and order. While it is particularly difficult to obtain evidence against offenders of this character, the police should leave no stone unturned in their efforts to close the "speak-easies" and bring their proprietors to justice.

Clever work on the part of certain politicians resulted in the failure of the anti-pigeon slaughter bill to pass the Legislature this winter. The bill had the support of the people of the State. It should have passed. It will be well if the voters of the State bear that fact in mind and see that the men elected to the Legislature next fall are given to understand that the bill is a proper one and must not meet the same fate that it did this year.

While the baseball season has begun in Plainfield, the League contests are not scheduled to start until May 30. Despite the fact that the opening day is still more than a month away, there is much popular interest shown in the work of the different teams and many conjectures heard as to the probable results of the League series of contests. It certainly looks as if the national game was coming back into old time popularity with a rush.

One of the first counties to take advantage of Senator Strong's new county commission act will undoubtedly be Middlesex. For some reason the Board of Freeholders of that county and other county officials fail to take a similar view of the situation.

After an April-like March and a March-like April, there is promise that the remainder of the month will be something like the kind of a month it is supposed to be.

WATER WORKS AND SEWERS

sary proceedings to be taken in obtaining legal authority to build a new fire headquarters as proposed. He said that the annual tax rate must not exceed twenty mills on the dollar, and if this improvement is made the tax rate can be increased forty points, which will defray the cost in one year. The Senator noted incidentally that he understood the plan proposed was to issue bonds. In this case the Council by resolution fixed the amount of the bonds and there must be filed with the borough clerk written consents signed by owners of more than one quarter value of the taxable property as shown by the latest assessment. The proposition was then submitted to the voters at an annual or special election, thirty days notice being given. If within ten days from the adoption of the resolution and filing consents, a remonstrance was signed by the owners of one half of the taxable property and filed with the borough clerk no election can be held and no bonds can be issued.

Senator Reed also submitted an opinion on the legality of the claim of Former Street Commissioner Emmons for $50 as salary for 1901. There was no ordinance fixing the salary for the year, and the commissioner was appointed without one being named. In lieu thereof he received $2 per day, and this was paid. The claim was disallowed.

HIT WITH SLEDGE.

John Turner Put Out of Business for a Time While Working at an Elizabethport Shop.

John Turner, of Somerset street, an employe at Ball & Wood's machine shop at Elizabethport, was accidentally struck in the right temple late yesterday afternoon while at work. The blow was from a sledge in the hands of another workman. Turner was knocked into unconsciousness and had to be assisted to his home by John Hope, of this city, who also works at the same place.

The ambulance met the train and took the man home, after which Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan was called. For nearly two hours Turner remained unconscious. Later in the evening he revived and was able to talk.

Dr. Buchanan has thus far been unable to determine exactly the seriousness of the injury, but he believes the man has a fair chance for recovery.

SENATOR REED TO CRITICS

people of North Plainfield should have an opportunity to settle the important question for themselves, that only twenty votes could be obtained against it, and fully one half of those were obtained by deals or personal appeals, and did not express the real sentiment of the members.

"Does any intelligent man believe that if it were true that the House had been tricked into passing the bill in the first instance it would pass it again after discovering the trickery? The mere statement of the proposition is sufficient answer. It is said that the Democratic members voted solidly for the bill. It is another lie. They split on the measure both times.

"Why should North Plainfield be refused an opportunity to vote on this subject? What reason, other than an utterly selfish one, can be given against allowing them that privilege?

"It is said that taxable property may be taken from the county, but it cannot be denied that if North Plainfield is receiving from the county more than it pays in county taxes, then the borough is a source of expense to the rest of the county, and to remove it would benefit, instead of injure, the taxpayers of the remainder of the county. If, on the other hand, the borough is paying more in county taxes than it gets back, and if its citizens would be materially benefitted by consolidation with Plainfield, then every fair-minded citizen of the rest of the county should say, as did Ex-Sheriff George A. Dilts to me, 'I do not blame North Plainfield for wanting to get into Union county and consolidate. I would want the same in their place.'

"Assembly bill No. 153 provides that if the borough votes to join Union county, the Boards of Freeholders shall determine what portion of the Somerset county debt is chargeable to the borough, and that such portion must be paid to Somerset county, so that Somerset is absolutely protected in that particular.

"Is a senator bound to oppose a fair and just measure demanded by one part of the county simply because the rest of the county selfishly opposes it? It is said that if North Plainfield should leave the county the Republican party in the county would suffer. Some of those who are loudest in this cry have for years been doing their utmost to defeat Republican candidates for county and township offices, and they well know that the factional fight which exists costs the party every fall more votes than the majority given by North Plainfield amounts to. They well know, too, that the reason that factional difference has existed so long, and will continue to exist, is because Somerville is unwilling that North Plainfield shall have that recognition and voice in the management of county affairs to which her position as the largest town in the county entitles her. They well know also that if both Thompson and Reed were dead, the rivalry between Somerville and North Plainfield would continue, and other men would take their places.

"The public generally may not realize that this situation exists, but party leaders know it, and election returns for a series of years demonstrate it beyond a question of doubt.

"In the thirty years which have elapsed since North Plainfield was set off from Warren township, not one of its citizens ever held a county office until I was elected, with the single exception of one Democratic Member of Assembly, while Bridgewater township has seldom been without one or more of the most lucrative offices in the county."

Five young men, whose names are unknown, were discovered on the railroad yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, with a lot of copper wire, valued at twelve cents a pound, in their possession. The railroad authorities at the depot telegraphed for the company's special detective and then gave chase. They were soon hot on trail of the youthful culprits, who, when they saw they were being pursued, dropped the wire and made good their escape. They went in the direction of Plainfield and disappeared so mysteriously that no clue could be obtained as to their whereabouts. The wire, which they had stolen from the railroad, was recovered.

CAT FOUGHT EAGLE

Saved from Bird's Talons by Train Man's Intervention.

Strange Struggle in the Mountains of Pennsylvania—How a Water Snake Lead a Black Snake to Its Destruction.

The vicinity of Susquehanna, Pa., must be great place for wild animals of all sorts, or it is the headquarters of one of the most accomplished newspaper liars of our time. To the Chicago Inter Ocean this individual writes that Engineer Gardner has a big black cat, named Bob, which is his constant companion on his engine. Winter finds the cat snuggled up upon the cushions of the cab, and the running board is his airing quarters. Bob is a prime favorite with the men all along the division.

For a week a big American eagle has been seen in the bend of the road near the state line, and the trainmen have tried firing shots at him, without bringing him down. When Bob has been taking his airing upon the running board the big eagle has eyed him narrowly and greeted him with fierce screams and flapping of his wings.

As the day express was dashing around the curve on Sunday morning, Bob was on the running board, enjoying the sunlight. Quick as a flash the eagle dashed downward from a big hemlock and seized the cat, when a terrific battle ensued.

Bob retreated to the pilot and put up a gallant defense with teeth and nails, and for three minutes honors were easy, but the bird got a neck hold on the cat, and in a moment more would have been in the air but for the opportune arrival of the fireman, who, armed with an iron bar, attacked the eagle, which dropped the cat and tried to defend itself against the man.

The bird's second battle was brief, for two blows from the iron placed it hors de combat. While the fireman dragged the dead eagle to the cab Bob followed, licking his lacerations and purring in triumph. He will probably hereafter ride inside the cab. The eagle measured six feet from tip to tip of wings.

Near the Canauacta creek, one day in October, a water snake met a black snake. The reptiles did not immediately clinch, but hissed fiercely and circled around each other as if seeking for an opening. The black snake pressed matters, and in a few seconds succeeded in getting the tail of his opponent into his mouth, and to preclude all possibility of an escape began to eat toward the head.

This was exactly what the water snake wanted. It started on a straight line for the stream, and his consumer following him, and dining upon him simultaneously, was, of course, obliged to travel a little faster in the same direction. The water snake was a rapid mover, and the black snake a quick eater, and for a short time it seemed to be doubtful whether one reptile or two would be visible when the stream was gained.

About half of the leading snake had been devoured, and the edge of the water was only a few feet away, when the black snake suddenly realized that a shabby trick was being played upon him at meal time.

He hastily attempted to disgorge his repast, but the effort was made too late. Not more than five inches of water snake had been yielded up when both reptiles plunged into the stream, and sank at once. A hundred bubbles rose, and the only spectator of the contest is inclined to believe that the black snake's life floated to the surface in one of them.

Pianist Wins Novel Wager.

M. Garnier, a pianist, of Marseilles, played continuously for 27 hours with intervals amounting in the aggregate to an hour and sixteen minutes, and won a wager of 1,000 francs. He began at nine o'clock at night. He took his first rest at two o'clock the next morning, and thereafter had only three short rests until five o'clock of the next afternoon, when his fingers became cramped. Massage and champagne were resorted to, and the pianist reattacked the keyboard. During the evening his face was drawn, and his hands were swollen and his arms supported on cushion. When he stopped at midnight, having won the wager, he collapsed from nervous prostration. A crowd packed the cafe where he performed.

This is Touching, Indeed.

A touching epitaph appears on a tombstone in a cemetery in Trumbull county, O. It was composed by a grief-stricken son, and reads thus: "Here lies our father beneath the sod; his spirit is gone to meet his God; we never more shall hear his tread, nor see the wen upon his head."

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—

HISTORIC EFFECTS.

Clever Modistes Utilize the Fashions of Past Days.

The smartest and newest wrap of the moment is undoubtedly Japanese, not always in color, but certainly in cut.

One of the most stylish dust cloaks or traveling wraps the year has brought forth is of brown canvas, with sleeves, revers and upper collar strapped with brown and black silk on a white cloth ground. In shape it closely suggests a mandarin's robe, only improved by a suggestion of up to date smartness in the collar. The influence of the modern tailor is seen in the strapped seams, which are decorated with the brown and black silk on the white cloth. The same idea carried out in glorious Japanese coloring would form an ideal opera wrap lined with fox.

The resurrection of past modes is clearly to be discerned in the spring fashions. Are we not using the Tudor sleeve, the Elizabethan ruffle and the Puritan collar with equal impartiality? The skill in adapting these old world fashions to modern purposes says much for the talents of the up to date modiste.

A plain but smart model in a tailor made is here shown. It could be equally well carried out in linen pique or any of the new cotton weaves. The jacket is collarless, with a military strap on the shoulder of a darker shade and a fancy effect down the front also of the same shade. The jacket is Eton in front, but extends below the hips on the sides and back. The sleeves are very wide at the wrists. The skirt is plain with the exception of three straps on either side of the front gore. The little buttons are of silver.

Lace Draped Brims—Revival of Burnt Straw.

The hats of the hour are extremely pretty, there being a greater tendency than ever to drape the brims with lace and embroidery. Chenille and straw mixtures are being worn very much just now, and there is a revival of the burnt straws of one or two seasons ago. These are threaded through with black ribbon or with velvet or glace ribbons. This revival is quite in accord with the craze for ecru shades, added to which burnt straw is very useful for everyday wear and lends itself admirably to the completion of the tailor made frock. It requires to be relieved, however, with a fair amount of black, for a yellowish tint over the face is becoming to few indeed.

It is a pretty notion to line the hat brim with a contrasting color, and black near the face is always safe. The draping of black or cream lace over the hard edge of a brim has a softening and delightful effect.

There is a craze for spring flowers, while the smartest French millinery is trimmed with fruits of all kinds.

A serviceable three cornered hat for everyday wear is the one in the illustration. It is made of burnt straw with a black underbrim. It is trimmed with wide moire ribbon run through a long buckle in front and having a wide bow and ends in the back.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"What do you intend to do about it?" asked Guy, quietly.

"Do?" blustered the Colonel. "Why, I'm going to have Pettibone, the sheriff, arrest 'em both. We'll hold 'em as hostages. Vlandingham will have to bargain with us for their release, by gad! We'll make it cost him the county seat!"

"You'll do nothing of the kind," said Guy, a glint of steel coming into his eyes.

"What's this?" cried the Colonel. "By the eternal, it looks as though you are playing into the hands of the enemy and that we have three traitors in camp instead of two."

"It's immaterial how it looks to you. I will deal with these ladies at the hotel."

"No, by gad! Stand aside! Stand aside, I say, or I'll brain you!"

The Colonel caught his cane by the lower end and flourished the heavy handle above Guy's head. Quick as a flash the young man caught the stick, jerked it from the Colonel's grasp and flung it into a corner; then he grabbed the Colonel by both shoulders and planed him against the partition.

"Attempt to arrest those young ladies, or say a word about their being in this town," he muttered, fiercely, "and I'll see that you have cause to regret it. I'll take care of them."

After giving the Colonel a final bump against the partition he released him and dashed from the office.

CHAPTER VII.

It was about 11 o'clock when Guy left the Colonel's office. He did not go to the hotel immediately, but hastened first across the street to the livery stable. A big strapping fellow came out and advanced toward him from the shadowy regions between the stalls. Guy was surprised, for in spite of the big fellow's turned-up coat collar and continued attempts to keep his face averted, he recognized him as Barney.

Guy had not much time to waste in useless expressions of astonishment or in any other extended chain of thought. He immediately connected Barney with that note of which he had been the bearer, and which was written on the back of a sheet of newspaper copy." The next instant he recalled Vlandingham's words about Barney's inability to read writing. If this were true, Barney certainly could not have been the author of that note. Possibly there were four spies in camp instead of two. Was the fourth man Sampson?

"Well, Barney," said Guy, cynically, "we meet again."

"You've got the best o' me," answered Barney, staring blankly at Guy.

"Don't try to play the innocent," went on Guy, drawing closer to the stableman and speaking in a low and hurried tone. "I know you're a Harmony man, but I give you my word that I won't say anything about it, providing you stop your spying operations from this on. Just now I want you to help me. Miss Vlandingham and Miss Pinkney are here in town disguised as Sisters of Charity. Col. Keever has found it out and I want to get them started back to Harmony before any harm befalls them. Put your best team to a double-seated carriage in the shortest possible order and drive to the hotel."

Without another word Guy left the stable and hastened to the hotel office. As he passed the Emporium he caught a glimpse of Col. Keever standing inside in close and animated conversation with Mr. Glimmer and several others. The young man had little doubt that Keever was retailing the information obtained from Hepburn. There was not an instant to be lost if Miss Vlandingham and Miss Pinkney were to be saved from the consequences of their rashness.

On reaching the hotel Guy found the office empty, but quickly discovered the proprietor smoking his pipe on the veranda.

"I must have a word with those Sisters of Charity at once, Mr. Smith," said Guy.

Pedro took his pipe out of his mouth and stared at Guy wonderingly.

"It isn't possible, Mr. Herbert," said he.

"Why not? Quick, I'm in a tearing hurry."

"They're not here, that's why. They went out half an hour since."

"Where did they go?"

"Can't tell you."

Guy ran out through the rear of the building. He was about to wheel sharply into the main street when he saw an excited throng making in that direction, the Colonel at their head. Facing about, he hurried along under the shelter of a barn and some sheds, thereby avoiding the crowd, which was just entering the hotel as he came out on the street again.

What could he do? He was perplexed and had an uncomfortable feeling of helplessness. Suddenly he saw Barney drive a team and carriage out of the barn. The vehicle was a covered surrey and Barney had a shotgun lying beside him on the front seat. His face was set and determined.

"He's loyal to Vlandingham," was Guy's mental comment. "I'm glad of that, for I can count on him to do his utmost. But where are the ladies? What has become of them?"

As he asked himself this question he saw Barney draw his mettlesome horses down to a slower pace, swerve sharply to the right and come to an abrupt halt in front of the new courthouse. There were no workmen engaged on the building, the force employed there having been sent into the country to assist in repairing some roads. Raising his whip, Barney motioned with it and Guy was quickly at his side.

"They're in there," said Barney, nodding his head toward the courthouse.

Guy stepped into the building. Miss Pinkney, white as death, was leaning against one of the unfinished walls. At sight of Guy an expression of horror crossed her face. Miss Betty was standing a little distance away jotting down something in a notebook. A tape line was looped over the gloved fingers of her left hand.

"Told of us, did you?" she observed icily, without looking up.

Guy went hot and cold in a breath.

"Told of you?" he echoed.

"Yes," said Miss Betty, still writing. "Some of your worthy townspeople are in pursuit of us. They came out of a store down the street and bolted past, shouting all sorts of direful threats against 'old Vlandingham's daughter.' I am almost sorry I helped you out of your dilemma last night, Mr. Herbert. But for my meddling you would not have been here to betray our identity." She closed the notebook with a curt little snap, laid the pencil on its cover and wrapped the tape line around and around. "I do not care for myself particularly, as I know your fellow citizens would not dare to do anything very desperate. But Miss Pinkney is not made of such stern stuff as I am. It was very unkind and ungrateful of you, Mr. Herbert."

Guy's face had become almost as white as Miss Pinkney's.

"Do you think for a moment," he gasped, "that I would do such a dastardly thing?"

"Who else could have done it?" She looked at him hopefully, asking with her eyes as plainly as eyes could ask anything that he lift himself from the depth to which he had fallen in her estimation.

She seemed to have no regard for the peril of her position, appearing to desire only an explanation and half fearing he could not give it.

"It was done by some one else," said Guy, in desperate earnest. "Take my word for it. An explanation would consume too much time and endanger your chances of escape. I have had that carriage made ready for you. Please get into it at once without a moment's delay. As soon as these men find you are not at the hotel they will go elsewhere to look for you."

"Who is the driver of the carriage?" asked Miss Betty, able to see only one side of the vehicle through the narrow door.

"Barney," said Guy; "a man whom you can trust implicitly."

"Lois," said Miss Beatty, "get into the carriage. I think we are mistaken about Mr. Herbert. Anyway, I shall stay here long enough to make sure."

Miss Pinkney left hurriedly and Miss Betty again turned to Guy.

"It is too bad that the high opinions we sometimes form of people on first acquaintance should be overthrown," said she, "and I was very much disappointed when forced to the conclusion that you had told of our presence here. Now tell me truly, Mr. Herbert, is not this a little plan of yours to get us to leave Concord without accomplishing the work that brought us here?"

"Great heavens, no!" cried Guy.

"It would have been a very clever plan," she went on demurely. "Have a carriage ready, you know, tell the populace, send them rushing away on a wrong scent and thus make us glad of the opportunity to avail ourselves of the carriage which we refused this morning. As a ruse it would have been almost—Napoleonic."

"Don't wait any longer," implored Guy. "I fancy I can hear your pursuers coming."

She bent her head listeningly.

"No, not yet," she answered, lightly. "Who was it told of us?"

"A man who will never again go back to Harmony. His name was Hepburn and he worked on the railroad in your town, but was discharged yesterday. I refused to purchase his information, but Col. Keever paid for it and I heard what he had to say. I have done what I could for you, Miss Vlandingham—"

"I know it, Mr. Herbert, and in order that your work may not have been done in vain, I am going. I have performed the mission that brought me here, so look out for a master stroke on the part of Harmony."

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Iron and Steel Orders Far Ahead of Supply—Light Cereal Shipments.

NEW YORK, April 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Good news preponderates in the business world notwithstanding two somewhat serious drawbacks. Weather conditions have been unsatisfactory at many points, retarding retail distribution and delaying outdoor work, while excessive rain has put many southern planters behind with work in the cotton fields. Still more of a handicap is the strife between wage earner and employer. Not only the rate of wages, hours of labor or recognition of the union, but the number of looms and the use of time cards, are among the causes of controversy. At some mills concessions have been made, but at other plants there has been a complete suspension of work. Manufacturing is exceptionally active in lines not disturbed by strikes, and there is a vigorous movement of goods through regular channels.

The iron and steel situation may briefly be summed up in the statement that it is the exception when order books are not filled for full capacity well toward the end of 1902. Buyers are still placing contracts abroad, and on urgent business this will probably occur during the year. As anticipated, The Iron Age statistics of pig iron production show a new record of 377,424 tons weekly on April 1, exceeding the previous record by over 45,000 tons.

Lower prices stimulated exports for a time, but shipments of wheat and flour from all ports of the United States during the week were only 3,849,970 bushels against 4,976,810 last year, and Atlantic exports of corn were only 159,213 bushels again 2,020,349 a year ago. Cotton moved up to the highest point of the season. Coffee was depressed by excessive stocks and receipts, the spot price falling close to the low record.

Footwear manufacturers have secured a little more business, and shops have been able to avoid the reduced time that was feared.

Failures for the week numbered 198 in the United States against 203 last year and 19 in Canada against 24 last year.

Will Contest McKee's Will.

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—Steps have been taken by the children of the late Colonel John McKee, the colored millionaire real estate dealer, to prevent the registration and execution of the decedent's will. Counsel for Abbie A. Syphax, Colonel McKee's daughter, and Henry McKee Minton, a grandson, filed a caveat with the register of wills against the admission of any paper purporting to be the testament of the dead man. Mr. McKee was a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church. His will, made public yesterday, devises the bulk of his two million dollar estate to charitable uses under the control of Archbishop Ryan and the clergy of the Roman Catholic church. His next of kin are cut off with a mere pittance.

The Wool Market.

The Commercial Bulletin says in today's report on the wool trade of the United States: "An improvement in the demand is reported by some dealers. More buyers have been on the market. Labor troubles, however, are still a blight. Prices are steady and show no change. Foreign markets are firm, and the prospect of the ending of the Boer war has a strengthening influence. The receipts of wool in Boston since Jan. 1, 1902, have been 64,261,944 pounds against 29,437,304 pounds for the same period in 1901. The Boston shipments to date are 64,261,944 pounds against shipments of 66,655,625 pounds for the same period in 1901."

WHAT SCHOFIELD SAID.

Present Double Headed Management of the Army a Failure.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The report of the testimony given before the senate committee on military affairs by General Schofield, formerly the commanding general of the army, on the bill to create a general staff has been made public.

He indorsed the bill, saying that he had long since come to the conclusion that there is no room under our constitution for two commanders and that the president, whom the constitution makes the supreme commander, must act through the secretary of war. He added:

"The very exalted individual office, so called, of commanding general of the army must disappear. There is no room for it in this government, no matter who occupies it. It is not a question of personality at all or the character of the individual so far as this great question is concerned. He must be what other nations of the earth have, a chief of staff, not a commanding general."

Referring to the German system General Schofield said: "We would have to modify their system so as to make it applicable. If we had at the head of the army for years the same distinguished general, other things being satisfactory, that would be very well, but what is the use of a great general as the nominal head of the army if the president will not even talk to him except to criticise him, or if the secretary of war and he do not even see each other? What good is he?"

EVANS' SUCCESSOR NAMED.

A Lawyer and Author of Kansas For Pension Commissioner.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Eugene F. Ware of Kansas has been selected by the president to succeed H. Clay Evans as commissioner of pensions.

Mr. Ware is from Topeka and is a member of the law firm of Gleed, Ware & Gleed.

Eugene F. Ware was born at Hartford, Conn., on May 29, 1841. Early in his life his parents moved to Iowa, and he was educated in the public schools at Burlington. He served in the civil war in the Iowa volunteer infantry and was wounded in battle. He was mustered out as captain of Company F, Seventh Iowa cavalry. He was admitted to the bar at Fort Scott, Kan., in 1871. He served five years in the state senate of Kansas and was a delegate to two national Republican conventions. He was married in 1874 to Jeanette P. Huntington of Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. Ware has some reputation as an author, having written several books under the nom de plume of Ironquill. Among his published works are "Coronado's March," a prose translation from the French, and "Rhymes of Ironquill," a volume of verses which includes the well known "Washerwoman's Song." He has also contributed to periodicals.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Dyer, of the Plainfield High School, fills the bill well at second base. He generally plays an errorless game, and knows how to handle the bat.

Robert Scott, a good all round player, has been signed as a substitute for the St. Mary team. He played in a number of games last season and showed up well.

Nothing can be told of the relative strength of the city and borough High School teams, as yet, and all the enthusiasts are eagerly awaiting the outcome of the North Plainfielders first game.

Ill health has compelled John Madden, who covered second for the St. Mary's last season, to refrain from playing at all this year. He has been approached by the managers of several teams but has declined to sign with any of them.

The North Plainfield High School team has received new uniforms. They are of light gray material with maroon trimming. The letters, "N. P. H. S.," in maroon, appear on the suits. Their jerseys are black and the stockings are the same.

A question which is confronting the League officials, at present, is the lack of umpires. Although there are any number of "cranks" in the city familiar with all phases of the national game and competent to dictate in cases of dispute, none have as yet offered their services. The comic papers have had so much fun with the lot of the umpire that it is credited with being far more strenuous than it really is.

The bleachers which are to be erected by the Hope Y. M. A. on its field will be the most elaborate in the city. The rear portion and ends will be enclosed and nothing but the heaviest of timbers will be used in the construction. The plans have been examined by Building Inspector Doane and he has pronounced them the best he has had to pass upon. The seating capacity will be 250 with provision for an addition at any time.

Manager Cose of the Hope Y. M. A. team has announced the following games to be played outside of the League contests: April 19, P. H. S. on home grounds; April 26, Dunellen A. C. at Dunellen; May 3, Scotch Plains (probably) home grounds; May 10, Garwood A. C. at Garwood; May 17, Dunellen A. C. on home grounds; May 24, P. H. S. on High School grounds; May 31, Garwood A. C. on home grounds; July 4, Decatuer A. C. home grounds (two games).

The baseball season was opened yesterday in the West End by a hotly contested game between the Alerts and West Ends. There were many errors on both sides, but for the amount of practice they had a good game was played. The game was won by the West Ends by a score of 20 to 13.

CITY STREET WORK.

Will Begin on Elm Place—Westervelt Ave. and East Front St. Will Next Receive Attention.

The Councilmanic street committee is preparing to begin operations on the streets for the coming season, and the work will probably be started on Elm place the first of next week. This street needs cutting down and a new surface, and had not the cold weather interfered early in the winter no doubt the work would have been completed at that time.

While the work is being done on Elm place, it is likely that Westervelt avenue will be treated. This street needs a new surface in many places and will receive attention in other directions. East Front street will also receive early attention. These three streets will serve as a starter for the season's work and, while the committee has not yet laid out definite plans very far ahead, the work will be pushed forward in a systematic manner.

Instruction by Rector.

Rev. William Vincent Dawson, rector of St. Stephen's church, is giving a course of instruction at evensong, which is held at 5 o'clock. The subject at present is "The Lord's Prayer". These will be followed by addresses on "The Creed" and the "Ten Commandments". Evensong in the future will be choral.

PROPOSED NEW HOME FOR MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL

Sketch and Description of the Buildings Designed by Tracy and Swartout for Occupancy by Plainfield's Hospital in the Near Future.

The majority of the people in Plainfield and vicinity are greatly interested in the new hospital to be erected in the near future by the Board of Governors, of Muhlenberg Hospital, and ever since the birds-eye view of the structure has been on exhibition in the office of The Daily Press there has been a constant and increasing interest.

While one can get a most excellent idea as to how the building will look when completed, there will be a peculiar beauty and attractiveness, as well as general adaptation to needs, that cannot be appreciated at present. This will be fully realized when the building is seen in reality. Tracy & Swartout, the architects, have succeeded in planning a structure that will be second to none in construction and in point of adaptility. They are now completing the working plans.

While many people have not been able to see the picture at this office, The Daily Press prints today for the first time a picture of the new hospital as it will look when finished. As will be noticed the style is colonial throughout. The buildings will be located at the corner of Randolph road and Park avenue and they will face Randolph road. This is considered best as regards the points of the compass, besides more light and sunshine is secured from this position. There will be one main, or administration building, two stories, with a basement and attic. Adjoining it on the Park avenue side will be another building to be known as the operating department. In the rear of the main building will be the wards for men and women.

The structure will be of brick and Indiana lime stone, making substantial buildings and attractive in appearance. In front there are four columns which add much to the general attractiveness. On the first floor there will be a reception room, superintendent's office, living rooms, dining room and room for the medical staff. In the centre of the building there will be an elevator which will be run between the basement and top floor.

On the second floor there will be eleven private rooms for patients and three bath rooms, all being fitted up according to modern methods. In the basement there will be the dispensary, storage and autopsy rooms, also electric light plant, heating apparatus, etc.

Back of the administration building there will be the wards for men and women, accommodating thirty-six patients in all, eighteen in each. A reception room leads to each ward and here a patient will be detained until examined by a physician and properly prepared to go to the ward. Provisions is also made back of the administration building for the service department, including kitchen, laundry and other necessary rooms.

Adjoining the main building on the side toward Park avenue, will be known as the Wright Memorial. This building will be the gift of J. Howard Wright, of New York, in memory of his grandsons, Parker Mason and Howard Corlies. This gift was $10,000. The building will contain an accident ward, etherizing, nurses, sterilizing, dressing and X ray rooms, besides a gallery for physicians who desire to be present, but who do not take part in operations. The rooms for the nurses and physicians will be for the purpose of providing a place for change of dress before and after operations. The building will be so constructed that every possible bit of light can reach it.

In all there will be accommodations in the hospital for fifty-two patients, which is a considerable increase over the capacity of the present hospital.

It will be noticed in the prospective view of the hospital that there is a building on the opposite side of the operating department, which is designed as "future extension." This will be intended for increased room for the treatment of patients and their care.

The grounds, upon which the hospital will be built, consist of eleven acres, all of which will not be used for the buildings as proposed. This is ample room and will obviate any difficulty as to crowding.

The various physicians composing the hospital staff have carefully examined the plans and made such changes as in their judgment will be best in the general arrangement inside. These changes are all of a minor character and do not affect the plans to any material extent. It is expected that within a short time bids for the work will be advertised for and when the selections are made the work will be started.

DR. AYERS RESIGNED.

Associates at New York Evening High School Presented Him With a Silver Loving Cup.

At the commencement exercises of the New York Evening High School, 114 West Forty-sixth street, New York, last week, Dr. Samuel Ayers, formerly of Plainfield, who is principal of the school, informed his assistants that he had resigned his position. His reason for this is that, inasmuch as he will become the principal of a day school before long, he will not have the time to devote to his evening work.

At the close of the exercises Samuel McCrosby, general assistant, after remarks eulogistic of the principal, presented to him a handsome silver loving cup, the gift of the staff. Dr. Ayers responded in a pleasant manner, after which a dinner was given in his honor. The commencement exercises were the most successful of any in recent years.

SUCCESSFUL SALE.

By Y. W. M. B. of Trinity Reformed Church Saturday Afternoon.

A most successful sale of bread, rolls, cake and pie was held Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, under the auspices of the emergency committee of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church. The sale was at the home of Miss Lillian A. Force, 82 Duer street. The various members of the band solicited donations for the sale and the response was liberal. Everything was disposed of at good prices, the net proceeds of the sale amounting to $9.31.

Miss Force, assisted by Mrs. Alfred Baker, was in charge of the sale. During the hours there was a good attendance of purchasers. The social side of the affair was a feature enjoyed by all.

The emergency committee under whose auspices the sale was held is composed of the following women: Miss Lillian A. Force, chairman; Miss Cora Laire, Miss Grace Rowland, Mrs. Albert T. Baker and Mrs. E. Zeisz. The proceeds will be used to pay the balance pledged on the new piano.

Licenses Granted.

The following is a complete list of the number of licenses granted by the police department for the ensuing year: Hackmen 25, peddlers with horse and wagon 9, pack peddlers 5, cartmen 20, truckmen 16, auctioneers 4, lunch wagon 1, junkmen 12. This is the largest number that have been granted in many years.

Baseball Matters.

A special meeting of the Hope chapel Y. M. A. has been called for next Tuesday evening to consider baseball matters. The contract for the erection of the new bleachers will be made at that time.

HUSBAND AND WIFE MADE COUNTER CHARGES

Hearing Ended in James H. Carson Being Held for the Grand Jury.

IN SMALLEY'S COURT.

CARSON CLAIMED THAT THE GROUND GLASS WAS FOUND IN HIS COFFEE.

Had Witnesses Present to Prove His Good Character — Wife's Story Has Already Been Told in These Columns—Husband's Side.

The hearing in the case of Mrs. Sally Carson against her husband, James H. Carson, of Belmont avenue, on a charge of attempting to take her life, proved to be an exciting affair in Justice Smalley's court, Saturday afternoon. Both the complainant and defendant had a considerable following of relatives and friends and the room used at the Justice's home for court purposes, was crowded to the limit. The complainant was represented by Francis J. Blatz, while W. S. Angleman appeared for the defendant.

The story of Mrs. Carson's alleged troubles, appearing in The Daily Press of Saturday, was the same as told by her in court. There was a little or no change. Her principal contention was that her husband had so frequently threatened her life that she was afraid to remain with him. She recited the story concerning the pulverized glass as found in her cup of coffee on March 15 and the anaylsis of the contents by Dr. D. C. Adams, who pronounced it ground glass. She also related a story of alleged cruelties and bad treatment, which was substantiated by Mrs. Mary Skillman, her aunt, Mrs. Bryan, her mother and Frank Jones, her brother.

The defendant had a different story to tell. He denied emphatically the charges prefereed and stated that instead of his putting ground glass in his wife's coffee, he found glass in his own cup of coffee. He declared that the trouble all arose over jealousy and began three years ago when his wife's aunt came to live with them. Since that time he said that there had been nothing but trouble. He had been accused of doing many things of which he was not guilty. To prove that he bears a good reputation and character he had Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Carson, Mrs. Robert Carson, John Mair and Thomas Rutledge present to testify to that effect.

Mrs. Carson testified that she stood the alleged abuse on the part of her husband until last Monday, when he ordered her from the home. Since then she has been living with her brother, Frank Jones, on Netherwood avenue.

Mr. Carson stated that at the time he found ground glass in his coffee he felt queer after drinking the beverage. He went to Dr. Adams for treatment.

After the argument on both sides there was a dispute between counsel. Mr. Blatz wanted the defendant bound over to keep the peace. To this Mr. Angleman objected. Then Mr. Blatz wanted Mr. Carson held for the Grand Jury. This course was objected to by the opposing counsel who said that enough evidence had not been produced to warrant such a decision. Finally, Justice Smalley decided to hold the defendant for the Grand Jury in $200 bail. The bail was furnished by Thomas Rutledge, of the borough.

During the course of the trial a sketch artist from The New York World was present and amused himself sketching the principals. There was considerable amusement owing to the frequent over-zealous interference of the trial by the women folks. This served to delay the hearing considerably. It was nearly three hours after the hearing began before it was concluded.

Convention of Spinsters.

Under the auspices of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, I. O. O. L., the "Spinsters" will hold a convention in Sons of Temperance Hall, this evening. A magician will be in attendance and will transform old maids into pretty young maidens before the eyes of the spectators. A social time and refreshments will follow the close of the convention.

Visited High Bridge Branch.

General Manager W. G. Besler, of the New Jersey Central, accompanied by Chief Engineer Osgood and Assistant Trainmaster McNulty, made a tour of inspection of the High Bridge branch last week and several improvements were promised along that line.

NEW PASTOR HERE.

Rev. E. L. Earp Preached First Sermon at His New Charge, Grace M. E. Church, Yesterday.

Rev. E. L. Earp, the new pastor of Grace M. E. church, occupied the pulpit yesterday for the first. He preached to large congregations at each service and made a favorable impression. He is an easy and interesting speaker and has the ability of holding the close attention of his hearers.

In the evening his discourse was on "The Good Shepherd," and his words were helpful and full of meaning. Mr. Earp received a cordial greeting from his new parishioners throughout the day and he in turn made himself perfectly at home. In the evening the choir rendered an anthem in an excellent manner, Mrs. G. W. Gardner taking the soprano solo part. Mr. and Mrs. Earp expect to take up their residence in the parsonage next week.

WILL WAGE SCALE INCREASE?

MASTER PLUMBERS WILL CONSIDER QUESTION AT A MEETING.

The Meeting to be Held Wednesday Night to Consider Demands of Journeymen for More Pay.

Action on the proposition to increase the day's pay of a journeyman plumber will be taken at a meeting of the Master Plumbers' Association Wednesday evening. The meeting will be an important one so far as labor is concerned and there is likely to be a large attendance of those whose interests are involved.

A demand was made sometime ago for $3.50 as a daily wage scale pay, and word was transmitted by the Journeyman Plumbers' Association to the Master Plumbers' Association that this was desired to go into effect May 1. At the present time the bosses pay $3 and this increase of fifty cents will form the topic of consideration.

On Thursday evening the Master Mechanics Association will meet and a conference will be held between the masters and the journeymen in regard to the action to be taken on the preceding evening by the boss plumbers.

At this meeting each trade will be represented by three bosses and three journeymen.

LOCAL LEAGUE TEAMS OUT FOR PRACTICE

No Regular Games, But Candidates Were Given a Chance to Show Their Skill.

SHOWING WAS GOOD.

CROWDS WITNESSED THE NINES AT PRACTICE AND WERE PLEASED.

Hope Chapel Y. M. A. Defeated Scrub 14 to 11—Manager Muir Had Safe Works Boys Out—St. Mary's and Y.M.C.A. on Deck.

A large crowd of spectators witnessed the informal opening of the Hope chapel Y. M. A. baseball season, Saturday, on Hope Common. The crack team played the scrub aggregation, the contest serving the double purpose of trying candidates and giving the regulars a chance to work out. Manager Cose was greatly pleased with the showing made by all the men and can assign places with more confidence.

The game was fairly good owing to some of the first team being aded to the scrubs. A score of 14 to 11 in favor of the Hope team resulted. There were no particular features with the exception of some phenomenal catches made by Kennedy, the new player who covered short for the scrubs.

The line-up of the teams was as follows: Hope: Hartfelder, c; Hewitt, p; Smith, 1b; Montross, 2b; Gordon, 3b; Martin, ss, J. Cose, r. f.; Roseberry, c. f.; W. Magne, l. f. Scrubs: Foster, 2b; G. Cose, 3b; Feiring, 1b; Dixon, c; Throne, p; Kennedy, ss; Sweeney, r. f.; Whitly, l. f.; F. Magne, c. f.

Manager Alex. Muir, of the Safe Works team, had twelve of his men on the field, Saturday afternoon, and put them through three hours practice work. The showing made by the entire lot demonstrated that the remaining three League teams will have to play ball to keep from dropping behind the factory contingent.

Doyle, the former St. Mary pitcher, and "Billy" Symons, took turns in the box and were caught by Mitchell and "Buck" Moran. The latter is a candidate for the place as substitute. Symons did particularly well at twirling and, with him and Doyle, the Safe people have a pitching staff hard to beat. Jack Kuhn, familiarly known as "Cooney," outdid himself on third and will be retained in that position permanently. Gaston at short and "Al" Jackson in the field also played very good ball.

The regular players will be apportioned their places this week and the opening game will be played with the Dunellen A. C., at Dunellen, Saturday.

Under the watchful eye of Manager Monahan, Secretary Comerford and Captain Keene, the St. Mary baseball players had a "try" out Saturday afternoon. Several hours were devoted to practice batting work with O'Keeffe and "Al" Squire pitching and Barry catching. There was also considerable base running done for the purpose of getting the men limbered up for next Saturday's game, when the season formally opens.

The personnel of the team will practically remain the same as that announced some time ago. If any changes are to be made it will be done before the League games commence.

Manager John McLaughlin had his Y. M. C. A. colts out for practice Saturday afternoon. Pittis' field was used as a diamond and all the men showed up well in the various departments of the game. George Dupee twisted the ball in good shape and the Schoonmaker brothers did some clever fielding.

Will Meet Her Friends.

Mrs. Paul Symons, of East Third street, will be "at home" tomorrow evening to the members of the Missionary and Ladies' Aid Societies of Hope chapel.

Hearing Tonight.

Peter Hudge was arrested Saturday evening and will be given a hearing in the borough police court this evening. The charge is drunkenness.

Salvation Army Services.

Treasurer Unkles, of Newark, and Envoy Burbank, of Mariners' Harbor, conducted the services in the Salvation Army last night.

—Fresh today at Neuman Brothers: Asparagus, cucumbers, beans, lettuce, cauliflower, rhubarb, tomatoes, watercress and strawberries.

PANTOMINE GIVEN BY HIGH SCHOOL CLASS

Class of '04 Gave Very Clever Entertainment in Franklin School Saturday Night.

THOSE WHO TOOK PART.

PRESENTED POPE'S "THE RAPE OF THE LOCK" IN PANTOMINE.

Auctioned Off Souvenirs Made by the Teachers—Reading by Miss Mae Batchelor—A Dance Followed the Programme.

By far one of the best entertainments given by pupils of the Plainfield High School in a long while was the affair held under the auspices of the class of 1904 in Franklin School hall, Saturday evening. Alexander Pope's "The Rape of the Lock" was presented in pantomime, Miss Mae Batchelor reading the lines.

As is usual at High School attractions the hall was crowded to the doors. There were other numbers on the evening's programme which were likewise decidedly entertaining. An auction and a dance were chief among these, and it is needless to say that both shared equal attention from the assemblage. The event was given to raise funds for the institution's athletic association, and on this account all the classes took more than a general interest in the affair.

Three scenes were given, in all of which the characters appeared in appropriate and more or less elaborate costume in keeping with the eighteenth century. The final scene at Hampton Court was possibly the best so far as the rendition was concerned. The marked ability of Miss Batchelor in giving so much expression to the poem greatly enhanced the affair.

Those participating in the pantomime were: "Belinda," Miss Lillian Snodgrass; "Clarissa," Miss Frances VanDeventer; "Thalestris," Miss Jean Douglass; "Chloe," Miss Jessie Burt; "Lydia," Miss Helen Robins; "Maids," the Misses Eloise Haven and Jessie Maclay; "the Baron," Van Wyck Brooks; "Sir Fopling," Harry Slauson; Dapperwit," Jose Tweedy; "Sir Plume," Walter Cahoone; "Lord Peter," Harold Fenno; "Butlers," George Babcock and Lucius Koons. The Misses Burroughs and Prescott coached the pupils for the affair.

After the pantomime was given Linden Bridgeman mounted the stage and auctioned off some souvenirs made by the teachers. These were in the shape of collerettes. There was some spirited bidding to capture the handiwork of Instructor Lindsey Best, who had made one of the articles.

The prices brought for the articles made by the teachers were: Miss Ellen E. Niles; fifty cents; Miss Ball, fifty-two cents; J. D. Macnab, thirty-six cents, Lindsey Best, $1.

This in turn was followed by dancing, which continued until a late hour. Those in charge of the lemonade counters were the Misses E. Wilson and L. Line and those at the candy table were the Misses Emily Winant and J. Stevens. The general committee in charge of the affair consisted of Miss Lillian Snodgrass, chairman, the Misses Frances VanDeventer, Mae Batchelor and E. Phillips, and Harry Slauson, Jose Tweedy and VanWyck Brooks.

"PATIENCE."

Facts Concerning Gathered at the Several Rehearsals.

"Lady Jane" Ward has evidently a great liking for Gilbert & Sullivan's operas, the solo "silvered is the raven hair" shows off her glorious voice to perfection; her duet with Bunthorne "Bah! to You Ha! Ha! to You" is very amusing. "Patience" Giddes looks very dainty and sings her pretty songs with much feeling. "Duke" Smith will surprise even his most intimate friends, his change from a duke with "A Thousand a Day" to an aesthetic young man who says "I do it, but I don't like it," being very funny. "Major" Pope is trying to find what "The inner brotherhood" usually recommends for cramps—in the left knee. "Grosvenor" Tallamy acts and sings as if he were very happy and seems to be (as his lines make him say), "Archibald the Allright, for I am Infallable." "Angela" Phillips, "Ella" Raybert and "Saphir" Ross are doing very conscientious work, and will all win. "Bunthorne" Holmes who says, "Let me tell you a secret—I am not as bilious as I look" is a little seasick already. See ad in another column for date of performance.

POLICE SAVED WOMAN'S LIFE

Intoxicated Woman Fell Into French's Raceway and Was Dragged Out Just in Time.

FOUND UNDER BRIDGE.

Had Already Been Rescued Twice Before by John Kuhn—Sergeant Frederickson and Two Patrolman Hauled Her Ashore Last Time—In Court This Morning.

But for a timely chain of circumstances, Mrs. Mansfield Robineon, a middle-aged colored woman, would have met death by drowning in French's raceway at an early hour, this morning. She was taken out of the water unconscious by Sergeant Frederickson and Patrolmen Overbaugh and Saffron, after she had been partially submerged beneath the Watchung avenue bridge for nearly an hour.

On being taken to the police station, three hours work by the officers and a trained nurse were necessary to revive her. At today's session of the city court she pleaded guilty to being drunk and was released with a suspended sentence of sixty days.

Mrs. Robinson was first found part way in the water at 1:30 by John Kuhn, who lives on Watchung avenue, near the small bridge over the race. The woman was helplessly drunk. By dint of hard work, Kuhn pulled her out unaided. On being left at a safe distance, she immediately stumbled back and a second time he went through the rescue act. He then dragged her half way to Front street, where he left her to inform the police.

When he returned a short time afterward with Sergeant Frederickson, Mrs. Robinson was nowhere to be found and a search along the race-way banks and those of Tier's lake failed to reveal her whereabouts. The Sergeant returned for Patrolmen Overbaugh and Saffron and the trio with lanterns followed the race from French's mill to Watchung avenue. When they reached the bridge the Sergeant discovered some ripples on the surafce of the water and on looking beneath the small structure, saw Mrs. Robinson's head appear for a moment and then go down. He reached beneath the water and caught her clothing. Then with the help of the other officers he drew her out.

Fortunately for her, a trained nurse was a prisoner at police headquarters and this woman instructed the police how to act. The half-drowned negress was put through a heroic course of treatment but did not regain consciousness until after 5 o'clock.

When arraigned before City Judge Runyon she repeated a story of worriment over a bad loan of $600 which she gave in court Friday as an excuse for getting drunk. The court knew the facts to be true and released her as already stated.

BOUGHT VALUABLE SITE.

Woodhull & Martin Have Secured Gardner Property—Not Yet Decided Whether to Build.

The Gardner property on East Front street has been purchased by Woodhull & Martin, the dry goods merchants. The property has a frontage of 111 feet and extends from the Dr. J. B. Probasco property to the Hetfield property, which adjoins that of Powlinson & Jones. It takes in the large dwelling house and the small building close by it.

The depth of the property is 350 feet and extends from Front street to the middle of Green brook, crossing the raceway. There is also quite a frontage on Watchung avenue, adjoining the bridge. The property is one of the best in the business section of the city. Whether the firm will build a business house on it for its own use is not known at present.

It is reported that a new schedule will shortly be placed in effect on the Plainfield-Elizabeth trolley line, in order that the employes may only work ten hours per day. At present the men are supposed to work but that amount, but it is very seldom thay do.

PING-PONG POPULAR HERE THIS SPRING

Hundreds Have Taken Up the Game in Plainfield and Find it Very Fascinating.

CLUBS TAKING IT UP.

IT IS ESPECIALLY POPULAR IN MANY OF THE PLAINFELD HOMES.

Park Club Was First to Formally Introduce it to the Public—It Grew in Popularity There—Camera Club Will Do Likewise.

Plainfield has not escaped the ping-pong craze. That fasinating game came into general popularity during the last few months and now numbers hundreds, old and young, among its adherants. Local clubs have followed the example set by the clubs of New York but it is in the homes that ping-pong is most popular in Plainfield today.

This game, over which all the eastern States have gone wild, was first brought to Plainfield considerably over a year ago by a family returning from England. At the time, it failed to make any impression. This winter, however, it began to grow in popular favor. One of the first places where the game was seen was at the club-house of the Park Club. There the main hall or ball room was utilized for the game when not otherwize occupied. Its devotees fast grew in number and now the table is nightly the scene of many exciting contests. Some of the women of the club have enjoyed the game during the afternoons.

In preparing its new quarters for occupancy, the Plainfield Camera Club is preparing to yield to the popular demand and add ping-pong to the other attractions to be found at its headquarters. One of the local councils of the Royal Arcanum has purchased a set for the benefit of its members. Several other local organizations have either already provided the needful apparatus for the game or are preparing to purchase it.

Several of the larger boarding houses have introduced the game and the result has been a decided show of interest on the part of the boarders who now gather in the dining room after the table is cleared to play instead of spending their evenings in their rooms or away from the house.

It is impossible to get any accurate idea as to how many homes have been invaded by this wonderful game. Several local merchants have handled the goods and have done an excellent business. Countless other ping-pong sets have been brought here from New York and Newark stores. Certain it is that many people are playing it and that it is hard to find those who have not tried their hands or seen it played.

During the Easter week, the game served as new diversion for the many guests who visited at Plainfield homes. There were many little gatherings during that time at which ping-pong was the chief attraction.

The chief trouble seems to be over the complexity of rules governing the game. Some people follow one set of rules and another set observes certain modifications to them. Many arguments are the inevitable result of a meeting of supporters of the different codes of rules. Then there are varied opinions as to the best kind of racquet and the proper size for the table.

Plainfield has not yet reached that point in its enthusiasm over the game to organize public tournaments but already there are several Plainfield young men who have competed in such affairs in New York and other places. While the game has apparently obtained a firm foothold here, there does not appear any danger that it will supercede golf or tennis or any of the sports which usually begin at this time.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A horse fancier living in the borough suggests that the time has arrived for the long proposed speedway to become a fact. He cites the act making provisions for the construction of speedways, passed by the recent Legislature, and says that the law now empowers the Somerset county Freeholders to build the much desired drive. The measure in question authorizes the Freeholders of a county to construct and maintain roads of this sort and to acquire lands by purchase, condemnation or gift therefore.

STRUCK WATER.

Trouble for the Contractors Laying Sanitary Sewer on South Avenue.

Workman in the employ of Patrick Plunkett, who has the contract to lay the South avenue sanitary sewer, have experienced considerable trouble in laying the pipe. Water was met one foot above the bed of the excavation and the men have to work in it all the time. Pumps have been brought into use and extra precautions have to be taken in order that the cement joints in the pipes may have time to set properly. This makes the work much more expensive than was anticipated.

MILES MUST GO.

Rupture Between General and War Department Will Not Heal.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The issues are fairly joined between the lieutenant general and the secretary of war. The troubles, which began long ago under the Cleveland administration, have finally reached so critical a stage that the compulsory retirement of General Miles at an early date is an open secret and is not denied at the White House. In explanation of President Roosevelt's position one of his close friends who unquestionably speaks by authority says:

"The question is not a personal one between General Miles and Secretary Root. At present Secretary Root has on his shoulders a heavier burden than any other member of the administration. No man less strong could carry it at all, and now at the very time when he requires the most loyal support of every subordinate who wishes well to the army and the nation he has to spend much of his strength in meeting the opposition of the commanding general. If General Miles is retired, it will be simply because after patient trial President Roosevelt feels that on the highest ethical grounds his retention would work grave and lasting injustice to the army as a whole.

"As some of General Miles' friends have said that it would be unfair to retire him it should be said in the first place that he secured his promotion to a brigadier generalship only through the similar forced retirement of General Ord, he himself being jumped over a number of his senior officers into the vacancy thus created, and in the second place that the only action of the kind taken by President Roosevelt since he has been in office was in the case of Colonel Noyes, who was compulsorily retired after reaching the age of sixty-two on the recommendation of General Miles. In other words, the general has himself recommended and profited by the very action which his friends now fear may be taken at his expense.

"If he should go out before General Brooke is retired, General Brooke, who is General Miles' senior both in service and in age and who did gallant and distinguished work as a volunteer in the civil war, would undoubtedly be put in his place as lieutenant general, as it is known that the administration has been very desirous of recognizing General Brooke's long and faithful service. General Brooke during the civil war rendered equally meritorious service with General Miles. General Brooke was the first to obtain a commission, and throughout the civil war he retained his advantage, ending the war as General Miles' senior. After peace came General Miles was promoted over General Brooke's head. As General Brooke will necessarily hold the position but a brief period before his retirement for age, General S. M. B. Young is likely to succeed General Brooke, with General Chaffee's promotion to follow two years hence."

THIS WEEK IN CONGRESS.

Chinese Exclusion Bill Before the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—In accordance with the agreement reached on Friday last the senate on Wednesday will vote on the Chinese exclusion bill, and the present understanding is that the Philippine government bill will be taken up immediately afterward. It is probable, however, that the Philippine bill will soon be broken in on by the calling of the river and harbor bill, being an appropriation bill that is a privileged measure and can be taken up at any time.

The leaders of the house expect to see the Cuban reciprocity bill passed during the present week, but they admit that the debate may be prolonged, so that the final vote will not be reached until next week. Proceeding as the debate is, without a rule, it can be drawn out practically as long as anybody desires to speak, but the leaders believe the general debate will exhaust itself by Thursday at the latest.

Bold Jail Delivery.

NYACK, N. Y., April 14.—Frank Wyman and Frank Martin, prisoners who today were to be sentenced to Sing Sing prison for burglary and grand larceny, escaped from the Rockland county jail early yesterday after nearly killing John Van Nostrand, the jailer. The prisoners last December broke into the residences of Truman H. Baldwin and Howard Van Buren, wealthy residents of South Nyack. They were captured by the Englewood (N. J.) police while on a train and brought back to Rockland county by extradition proceedings. Last week they were arraigned and pleaded guilty.

Revolt In Macedonia.

SOFIA, April 14.—Boris Sarafoff, the former president of the Macedonian committee and the actual leader of the agitation for radical reforms in the Turkish province of Macedonia, has issued a proclamation calling to arms all Macedonians living in Bulgaria. The issuance of the proclamation has placed in motion a semiorganized army of about 100,000 expatriated Macedonians, who are being concentrated in towns near the frontier between Bulgaria and Turkey with a view to crossing the line on the Orthodox Easter day, which falls on April 27.

The Kentucky Futurity.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 14.—Secretary Shanklin of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association has closed the Kentucky Futurity with 1,145 entries, from thirty-eight states and Canada. Kentucky sends 424, New York 134, Massachusetts 119, Illinois 91, Ohio 46, California 44, West Virginia and Georgia 30 each, Indiana 24, Pennsylvania and New Hampshire 19 each, Kansas 16, New Jersey 14, Tennessee 13, Nebraska and Texas 11 each and Canada 15.

WALLER ACQUITTED.

Major of Marines Charged With Murder in Samar.

MANILA COURT STOOD 11 TO 2.

Merchants of a Luzon Town Pray For Stay of American Troops. The Cholera Situation Is More Alarming—Many Deaths.

MANILA, April 14.—Major Littleton W. T. Waller of the marine corps has been acquitted. He was tried by court martial on the charge of killing natives of the island of Samar without trial. The court stood 11 to 2 for Major Waller's acquittal.

The merchants of Lagoney, in South Camarines province, Luzon, have sent a cable message to General Chaffee praying that the American troops be not withdrawn from Lagoney. The merchants declare that they are unanimously of the opinion that if they are deprived of the protection of the military they will become victims of the lawless element at the cost of their lives and property. They say that if the American troops leave the town the enemy could reduce the food supply of the inhabitants and retard the advance of the soldiers coming to their rescue and that such action would lead to irreparable damage. The merchants of Lagoney declare the local police to be insufficient to guarantee order. This is proved, they say, by the fact that the detachments of American troops have been withdrawn from the neighboring towns of Goa, Tigaon and Sangay and that the local police have been unable to suppress the assaults, robberies, assassinations and forced contributions by gangs of the recalcitrant element in the neighborhood.

The cholera situation in Manila continues much the same, but the conditions in the provinces are becoming alarming. The total of cholera cases in Manila up to date is 245, while there have been 192 deaths from the disease. In the provinces there have been 413 cases and 318 deaths.

The United States army transport Grant while on her way to Samar island put into Legaspi, in southern Luzon, having on board a teamster who had the cholera. At Legaspi the Grant asked for assistance, but she was placed in quarantine for five days. As the Grant's supplies of water, food and coal were limited, she decided to return to Manila. The teamster died of the disease.

Four Americans have been attacked with cholera in Manila, and one of them died.

A YOUTHFUL FIREBUG.

Ten-year-old Lad Arrested In Chicago Confesses.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Charles Piedze, a lad of Lithuanian birth, scarcely ten years old, has been arrested, charged with having started the many fires that have terrorized South Chicago during the past few days.

The boy at first denied all knowledge of the origin of the fires, but after six hours of "sweating" process by the police he admitted that he had started four of the principal blazes which have threatened the most valuable property in South Chicago, but he insisted that he knew nothing of the other fires. He said he liked to see the engines run and the firemen at work.

Fifteen fires have occurred since Thursday night, entailing a total loss of $50,000 and rendering homeless fifteen families and as many boarders. The streets were patrolled during the night by anxious citizens, and the boy was caught by a fireman under circumstances that left little doubt of his guilt in setting a fire that had just been started.

From his contradictory statements the police believe that he is responsible for other fires than those he has admitted so far.

Strikers Defy Injunction.

KANSAS CITY, April 14.—Striking journeymen bakers have disregarded an order issued by Judge John Henry of the circuit court restraining them from interfering with the business of Warnekes Baker, and one of them went so far as to throw the court's order into the street when a deputy served it. What course Judge Henry will take remains to be seen. The strikers had interfered with the baker's business by standing in front of his shop and telling all persons who passed not to patronize the store, as its manager was antagonistic to organized labor.

Snow In Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., April 14.—A snowstorm has been raging in western Nebraska and in a number of counties fell to a depth of several inches. At Kimball six inches fell. The temperature is seasonable, however, and in most cases the snow melted as fast as it fell and will supply much needed moisture.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Fire in Brooklyn has destroyed the furniture factory of Masel & Huebner and the pipe foundry of David Binns. Several frame tenements near by were also burned. The loss is estimated at $100,000, with ample insurance on the factory and foundry.

Steel Trust Story Untrue.

PITTSBURG, April 14.—The two hundred million-dollar steel combine story originating in New York and published yesterday is emphatically pronounced untrue in so far as local and valley steel men are concerned.

Deadly Fight With Outlaws.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., April 14.—In a fight between officers and desperadoes near Braggs, I. T., four men are reported killed and seven wounded, among them being a noted outlaw.

LONDON IN SUSPENSE

Possibilities of Peace Considered With Growing Hope.

CONFERENCES OF BRITISH LEADERS.

Authentic Statements Not Obtainable, but It Is Believed That the Government Has Received Important News.

LONDON, April 14.—The announcement of the presence at Pretoria of the Orange Free State and Transvaal leaders and generals who have been at Klerksdorp considering terms of peace has caused a decided increase in the hopefulness of the public concerning the possibilities of peace.

The expectations aroused by the conference at Pretoria have been further heightened by the movements of Mr. Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, and other members of the cabinet in London and evidences that important dispatches are passing between Lord Kitchener and the government.

A conference of members of the cabinet was held at midnight in Mr. Chamberlain's house. Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Brodrick, the war secretary; Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer, and the Duke of Devonshire, president of the council, were present. The conference terminated at 1 o'clock a. m. Yesterday Mr. Chamberlain and several of the colonial office officials were in their offices. Messengers passed between them and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach at his residence.

At 1.30 in the afternoon Mr. Chamberlain drove to Buckingham palace and remained with King Edward for two hours. During the afternoon messengers carried dispatches from the foreign office to Lord Salisbury, who, with Mr. Balfour, the government leader in the house of commons, was at Hatfield House.

These outward signs of Sunday activity have not been supplemented by any authentic or official statement. The question most discussed thus far has been whether the peace negotiations would affect the government's financial proposals, which promise to be submitted to parliament today. The fact that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach was engaged in his office most all day is taken in some quarters to indicate a modification of the budget statement.

There appears to be no doubt that the Boer leaders have communicated the results of their deliberations to Lord Kitchener. Attempts will be made in parliament today to draw out what information the government has on the South African situation and to learn its intentions, but it is not expected that the government can forecast the probable outcome of the negotiations. Whatever instructions have been sent to Lord Kitchener are believed to be only provisional in character.

Robbery and Murder.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 14.—Alfred J. Jones, a wealthy farmer and uncle of District Attorney Jones, was murdered and his house robbed near Gans by three burglars. A voice inquiring the way to the railroad about 9 o'clock in the evening attracted Jones to the door, and as he opened it he saw three men who had quietly slipped up. While Jones was trying to push the door shut one of the burglars reached around the door with his revolver and fired at Jones. He fell to the floor at the first shot, and the burglars had everything their own way. Two sisters who lived with Jones were locked in the kitchen and guarded by one of the men, while two went to the room where Jones kept his chest. The heavy chest was broken open, and everything of value was taken. No trace of the murderers has as yet been found.

Mother and Daughter Killed.

CLEVELAND, O., April 14.—Mrs. Martha J. Calhoun, aged seventy-five, and her daughter, Mrs. Vaughn, aged forty-six, have been shot and killed by as yet an unknown party two miles east of Mantua Station, a village forty miles southeast of this city. Will Vaughn, a stepson of the younger woman, is locked up in Havana jail charged with the crimes because of circumstances which are alleged to incriminate him. Mrs. Vaughn was shot five times in the head, the sixth bullet of a revolver ending the life of her mother. No one but the murderer saw the crimes committed, and when the dead bodies of the two women were found there was intense excitement in the little village.

Murder Mystery Cleared Up.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 14.—The mystery surrounding the killing of A. T. Sharpe, a traveling representative of Parke Davis & Co. of Detroit, on a crowded street Saturday night has been cleared up. Lacey Chase, a young man well known in Memphis, has surrendered to the police. Chase claims that in an altercation with Sharpe the latter knocked him down, whereupon he drew his knife and cut Sharpe several times. Chase was jailed.

Pension For Mrs. McKinley.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The house passed the bill granting a pension to the widow of President McKinley of $5,000 a year. It had previously passed the senate and now goes to the president for signature. Although favorable action on the measure was unanimous, an inquiry by Mr. Bell of Colorado as to the precedents for such action led to an animated discussion.

Consul Coming Home.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 14.—Consul Campbell has gone to the United States declaring he intends to place his resignation in the hands of Secretary of State Hay. This brings to an end misunderstandings which have lasted six months.

TRADE WITH CANADA.

Our Northern Neighbor the Best Customer We Have.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The United States enjoys more of Canadian trade than the rest of the world put together. Attention is directed to this fact in that portion of "Commercial Relations of 1901," now in press, which deals with United States trade with Canada, an extract of which is given out for publication by Mr. Emery, chief of the bureau of American commerce. It is pointed out that so closely allied are trade conditions in this country and Canada that prosperity or depression in the United States immediately finds echo in the train of our northern neighbor.

In 1877 Great Britain lost to us her lead in the matter of goods sent into the Dominion, and from that year forward, with but a slight interval, this country has steadily lengthened the gap. It is not as widely realized as it should be, says the report, that Canada is the best customer we have, excepting only Great Britain and Germany. Consul General Bittinger, at Montreal, in a report on the subject says:

"The United States does more business with Canada than the whole of South America, as much as with Central America, Mexico and the West Indies together and nearly as much as with Africa, Asia and Oceanica."

Canada's total importation for consumption in the last fiscal year amounted to $181,238,000. Imports from the United States reached the splendid figure of $110,485,000, an increase of some $600,000 over the preceding year.

Consul Shepard, at Hamilton, in his report calls attention to the interesting fact that the big dry goods houses of Canada send their milliners and modistes to New York several times a year to observe and copy styles and have practically turned their backs on the European modes formerly so popular.

MEALY VINDICATED.

Mexican Supreme Court Clears an American Illegally Imprisoned.

MONTEREY, Mexico, April 14.—The supreme court of appeals of Mexico has handed down a decision in the noted Mealy case in which it is held that the imprisonment of Mr. Mealy by the federal district court at Ciudad Porfirio Diaz was irregular and arbitrary. It is declared that Mr. Mealy was not in contempt of court and was not guilty of perjury.

He was imprisoned last year on a charge of contempt of court. He was summoned to give evidence in a mining investigation being made by the court at Ciudad Porfirio Diaz. Sickness prevented his attendance at the time, but he sent his attorney to explain to the court. The court refused to accept his explanation and ordered him to be arrested and sent forcibly to Ciudad Porfirio Diaz. He was imprisoned in Monterey four days and in Ciudad Porfirio Diaz six days in spite of protests of the American consuls.

At the end of this time the charges of perjury and robbery were added to that of contempt of court. After urgent protests bail was allowed in the sum of $3,500, which Mealy had to furnish in cash of a certain issue. This decision vindicates Mealy.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 14.—A prominent and wealthy southern white man, a native of South Carolina, engaged in business in Birmingham, Ala., has made a contribution of $500 to the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute. This is the largest donation ever received by this institution from a southern white man. In his letter to President Booker T. Washington the donor says, "As a southern man and the son of one of the largest slave owners of the south I am anxious for the people to do all that can be reasonably expected of them for the education of the negroes, thereby making them more contented and useful citizens and friends."

A Battle With Burglars.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., April 14.—Seven masked burglars in an encounter in a boarding house near the Gilberton colliery killed Wasil Talco, aged thirty-five years, shot and slightly wounded Mrs. George Bernitz, his boarding mistress, and clubbed her husband so badly that he is in a serious condition. The battle with the burglars occurred at about 2 a. m., shortly after Talco returned from the coal mines. Three trunks were burst open, and savings amounting to a few hundred dollars and two watches were taken by the men. All of them escaped, and the police have been unable to find a clew.

DEATH OF DR. TALMAGE.

Funeral Services Occur In Washington—Interment In Brooklyn.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Arrangements have been completed for the funeral services in this city over the remains of Dr. Talmage, whose death occurred late Saturday. The funeral will take place at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Church of the Covenant. The services will be very simple. There will be no funeral sermon, but short addresses concerning the life and works of Dr. Talmage will be made by men who have been intimately associated with him. Music will be furnished by the male quartet of the Church of the Covenant. At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning the interment will take place in the family lot at Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Dr. Talmage was in poor health when he started away from Washington for Mexico six weeks ago for a vacation. He was then suffering from influenza and serious catarrhal afflictions. Since his return to Washington some weeks ago he had been quite ill. Until last Thursday, however, fears for his death were not entertained. The immediate cause of death was inflammation of the brain.

T. De Witt Talmage was one of the remarkable men of his time. His success financially was phenomenal for a clergyman. At the time of his death his income was estimated at $20,000 a year.

Born in Bound Brook, N. J., on Jan. 7, 1832, educated in New York city for the law, which he quit at his parents' desire to take a theological course at New Brunswick, young Talmage did his first preaching at Belleville, N. J., and went from there to Syracuse, N. Y., to get a better place in the Dutch Reformed church there. In Syracuse he began to develop those peculiarities which, further exaggerated, were in later years to make him talked about.

Mr. Talmage began preaching in Brooklyn in 1869, and his success in building up the membership of the church was such that the church building in Schermerhorn street was outgrown, and the first Brooklyn tabernacle, a wood and iron structure, seating 3,000 persons, was put up in 1870. It was enlarged in 1872, but was destroyed by fire in December of that year.

A new tabernacle, seating 5,000 persons and containing standing room for a thousand more, was at once begun. The new building was dedicated in 1874. That, too, was burned down in 1889.

A third tabernacle was built at Clinton and Greene avenues, and it also was destroyed by fire in May, 1894.

While Mr. Talmage was at Philadelphia, where he preached for seven years before going to Brooklyn, his first wife was drowned in the Schuylkill river. Two years later he married Miss Susan Whittemore of Brooklyn.

Dr. Talmage went abroad in 1894 for a tour of the world and on his return located in Washington.

MANY BILLS VETOED.

Governor Odell Applies Pruning Knife and Saves $120,000.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—Governor Odell has again applied the pruning knife to appropriations and in a batch of 128 bills vetoed has cut out $120,000 in what he calls useless or extravagant appropriations of public moneys.

Those vetoed are nine in number and do not include items in the general appropriation and supply bills, which will be finished today.

The governor took drastic action on fish and game law amendments. He said in this relation that the fish and game laws had been codified a few years ago, and he saw no real good reason for tearing them to pieces by hundreds of special amendments each year. In all he vetoed nineteen bills intended to open or close fish and game seasons and otherwise change the general law.

Nine bills affecting cities of the state other than New York were also vetoed.

The governor has vetoed about twenty personal claim bills, all of which, he said, can get to the court of claims in their regular time and course without legislative action.

In bills of general interest the governor has vetoed five measures and the same number relating to corporations, banks or railroads. Five New York city bills also fell under the pruning knife.

Swedish Socialists Organizing.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 14.—At a meeting of the Congress of Swedish Socialists held here it was resolved to organize meetings every Sunday in all Swedish towns and villages to agitate a general strike for the purpose of obtaining universal suffrage by bringing pressure to bear upon parliament. After the report of the parliamentary committee on suffrage is published the Socialist meetings will be held daily, and the strike will begin when parliament begins the debate of the question.

An Ohio Railway Deal.

CLEVELAND, O., April 14.—The Plain Dealer says: "The Northern Ohio Traction company will pass from the hands of the Everett-Moore syndicate into the control of a new syndicate of Cleveland capitalists this week. The entire deal will involve something like $1,500,000. It has been agreed to ask Mr. Horace E. Andrews, president of the Cleveland Electric Railway company, to become syndicate manager, and there seems to be but little doubt that he will accept the position."

A Chinese Pilgrimage.

PEKING, April 14.—The emperor and the dowager empress, with a hundred of the highest officials, including Yuan Shai Kai, the viceroy of Chili, and a retinue of 3,000 civilians and 5,000 soldiers, have started on the first pilgrimage in four years to the eastern tombs of the dynasty, 100 miles distant, to offer sacrifices.

BELGIUM'S TROUBLES

Particulars of the Bloody Affair In Brussels.

RIOTERS SHOT DOWN BY GENDARMES

Only One Volley Fired at the Rioters, but Several Fatalities Are Reported and Many In Hospitals Dangerously Wounded.

BRUSSELS, April 14.—King Leopold has returned to Brussels from Ostend. His trip was uneventful. Brussels is quiet early this morning. The civic guard was dismissed, and the members went to their homes at 1.15 o'clock.

The condition of Queen Marie Henriette is reported to be very serious. She is suffering from heart disease, which is entering upon the dropsical stage. Three doctors have been summoned to Spa, in the province of Liege, to hold a consultation.

The threatening aspect of a mob near the Maison du Peuple at 11 o'clock last night caused the police and gendarmes to charge it, with the result that five of the demonstrators were wounded. One of the injured men will die. He received a bayonet thrust in the back. Sixteen arrests were made during the course of the evening.

This big casualty list for a comparatively insignificant encounter is taken as evidence that the gendarmes, who inflicted the injuries, are disposed to handle the groups without mercy.

The burgomaster adopted most vigorous measures during the evening. The whole civic guard was mobilized, and the squares and streets in the vicinity of the Maison du Peuple were occupied by 2,500 of the Corps Elite. The disorderly element appeared cowed as a result of the repression of Saturday evening, and there were only a few trifling demonstrations. These were immediately suppressed by charges of the gendarmes. None of the latter was injured.

Late in the evening a group of rioters insulted and jeered a cordon of the civic guard in the Rue Rollebeek, whereupon a body of gendarmes was sent out and caught the disturbers in the rear and badly mauled them.

The bloody encounter of Saturday evening has created a painful impression among all classes here, although it is appreciated that the majority of the victims of the encounters do not belong to the better class of workmen. This was the first time the police had fired their rifles loaded with ball cartridges. Previously they had used their swords and their revolvers, and the latter usually were loaded with blank cartridges.

The mob was mainly composed of the rough population of the quarter, who jeered and reviled the police when they were forced along the streets by the cordons of officers. The serious troubles began when a number of roughs from a safe distance fired revolvers in the direction of the cordons. The gendarmes then charged with drawn swords. After firing at the crowd with revolvers loaded with blank cartridges they were greeted with a hail of missiles, such as stones, bottles and heavy iron rivets. This happened in several streets. It was worse in the Rue Haute, where the occupants of the houses rained missiles upon the heads of the gendarmes. An officer of the gendarmes then shouted to the crowd to disperse. No notice was taken of this order. Then, for the first time in many years, the gendarmes fired their Mauser carbines loaded with what are called strike cartridges, which contain a ball, but a minor charge of powder.

The gendarmes fired only one volley, but when the mob scattered several bodies were lying on the ground. Two of the wounded were mortally hurt and died while being conveyed to the hospital.

It is impossible to ascertain the exact number of the victims in the rioting. Many who were slightly injured had their wounds dressed in pharmacies or went home. The director of the Hospital of St. Pierre, however, reports that three rioters have since died in the hospital and that another one there was believed to be mortally wounded. Thirty others who were badly hurt were received at the hospital. Among the injured are many imprudent spectators of the rioting who were caught between two fires.

A general strike has been proclaimed, and on Wednesday a crisis will be reached by the opening in the chamber of deputies of the discussion of the question of the revision of the constitution, on which the Belgian people are now divided.

Oklahoma Elections Void.

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 14.—Chief Justice Burford of the territorial supreme court has rendered a decision holding that the recent city elections at Chandler and those at Lawton and the other cities in the new southwestern counties are void, having been brought about by special proclamation. The decision maintains that only the regular elections next year will be legal.

Long Strike Ended.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., April 14.—The strike of the employees of the Jamestown Street Railway company has been amicably settled. Beyond the fact that in the future the union will be recognized no details of the settlement have been given out. The strike began nearly a year ago, and there were a number of sensations connected with it last summer.

Altgeld Memorial Meeting.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 14.—A large and very friendly audience greeted George Fred Williams at the memorial meeting in the Hyperion theatre to do honor to the late John P. Altgeld. Resolutions expressing sorrow at the death of Mr. Altgeld were adopted.

SENATOR REED'S INTERVIEW.

While the Somerville newspapers have naturally objected to the chance of losing the valuable borough of North Plainfield from the county of Somerset, the Unionist-Gazette has been all alone in its bitter and entirely uncalled for attacks on Senator Chas. A. Reed. There has been gross misrepresentation of facts and a direct attempt to discredit the efforts of Somerset county's Senator.

In the Saturday's issue of The Daily Press, an interview with Senator Reed on these attacks was printed. There was no mincing of words. The Senator was free to express himself regarding the attacks of his political enemies who have endeavored to make political capital out of his actions. The Senator reviewed his course in reference to the bills from the time they were first introduced in the Legislature until the present.

The Daily Press was glad to present to its readers the facts concerning Senator Reed. So much misrepresentation has been written and related that the people were liable to accept some of these misstatements as the truth. The interview was read with much interest by all the residents of Somerset county.

The late Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, whose name as a preacher and writer is known on two continents, was a Jerseyman. He was born at Bound Brook and received his rudimentary education in the schools at that place. His early theological training was received at Rutgers College, New Brunswick.

To Organize Later.

The meeting scheduled to take place at the home of Mrs. W. F. Richards, of East Third street, Friday evening, to form a Ladies' Aid Society in connection with the Temperance Rescue Mission, was not held. It will take place at a later date to be announced.

Traveled Awheel.

Rev. C. E. Herring, who will give an illustrated lecture at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, this evening, traveled in Holland and Belgium awheel with his camera and was able to see things that do not come in the way of the ordinary tourist.

Piano Owners' Attention.

Leo H. Battalia, who has come here to doctor up old pianos and give them a new life and all the excellence of a new instrument, is meeting with marked success. He is treating a number of pianos belonging to some of the prominent citizens of Plainfield that were in poor condition. The hammers and action were all worn out. Some of the instruments had been repaired before in a most disgraceful manner. Instead of using new hammers for durability and rich soft tone, the old hammers were covered with chamois skin and stems were tied with strings.

"A great many people think," said Mr. Battalia," that their piano is ready to throw away after the action has become worn from years of service. I am here for the purpose of enlightening people in Plainfield and suburbs on this subject. I propose to prove to their entire satisfaction that I can take any action, and if the sounding board is intact, I can make the tone and touch of the instrument as good as on the day it was purchased, for a small amount. See here," continued Mr. Battalia, "look at this book with hundreds of testimonials, many of which are from nearly every town in the country, as to their opinion of my skill in the art of reconstructing of pianos." The reporter examined them and recognized them as being people of note in musical circles. "You see," said Mr. Battalia, "I have the documents to prove all I claim," and it will be admitted that he had.

COPPER WORKS BURNED DOWN

DISASTROUS FIRE OCCURRED AT GARWOOD SATURDAY EVENING.

Loss Estimated at $20,000—Firemen Arrived Too Late—Reported Company Planned to Move.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 14—The main building of the American Copper Extraction Company, at Garwood, was nearly destroyed by fire, Saturday night. The fire broke out in the east-end of the building about 8 o'clock and burned in a westerly direction. The origin is unknown.

The Westfield fire department responded to an alarm and, as the apparatus had to be pulled by hand, considerable time was lost. When the firemen arrived at the scene of the fire the flames were beyond control. The loss is estimated at $20,000.

It is reported that the company laid its men off last Friday and that it is the intention to move the plant to Perth Amboy. This rumor cannot be confirmed.

A second and false alarm was sent in from the same box yesterday. The key was left in the box Saturday night and in taking it out yesterday with a release key the alarm was sounded.

In House, Near Cranford, Where Mrs. Wider Died Two Weeks Ago.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 14—Fire broke out yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home occupied by the late Mrs. Christina Wider, entailing a loss of $300. The house is located just over the line in Cranford and the department from the latter place took care of the fire.

Mrs. Wider died suddenly two weeks ago and her demise aroused some suspicion leading to an investigation. The county physician dismissed the case finding no evidence against a man who was being held.

What Other Nations of the World Are Talking About

Political, Commercial and Industrial Conditions in Foreign Lands.

Patagonia Is Now Attracting Public Attention.

Mail from Patagonia.

FROM time to time various sections of the Argentine republic has attracted more than a usual share of public attention because of the efforts at colonization put forth in behalf of the great agricultural country of South America in different countries of Europe.

A few years ago special attention was given to the advertised advantages offered by that portion of Argentine Republic known as Patagonia, and several syndicates were formed to which were given generous concessions of lands and privileges for colonization purposes. One of these syndicates took to the land so generally supposed to be flowing with the good things of life a colony of some 2,000 Welsh settlers. They were a frugal, industrious people, well calculated to secure a competence from any place in which such a thing was possible. But Patagonia did not prove to be the ideal spot they had had pictured to them, and they now want to leave it for other fields. A large party of more than 500 of these settlers recently appealed to England to provide them transportation to another land. Canada preferred, where they could begin life anew. The English government failed to provide the transportation, but an effort is being made to secure it from other sources, and if successful the settlers will be located on farms in western Canada, the Canadian government offering to provide a new start in life for each family, and care for them until they are able to care for themselves.

Practically all Europe has been attracted by this appeal of the Welsh settlers in Patagonia, for the reason that it possibly marks the beginning of a new era in Argentina's history. In Europe there has been told only the bright side of life in the countries which the immigration syndicates have been attempting to colonize. Europeans have known Argentina only as a country of broad plains and mighty mountains, from which come a goodly portion of their supply of wheat and cattle, and from these facts the common people have pictured it a "poor man's paradise." It is thought that the agitation in connection with these Welsh settlers will open the eyes of those wishing to seek new homes and cause the colonization syndicates some difficulty in securing in the future desirable settlers. W. A. P.

Commercial Travelers in Switzerland.

I GIVE below a table taken from the Schweizerisches Handelsamtsblatt, showing the number of commercial travelers visiting Switzerland in the last three years:

Country	1901.	1900.	1899.
Germany	3,937	3,848	3,828
France	1,182	1,145	1,176
Italy	355	332	350
Austria-Hungary	204	203	173
Belgium	41	37	44
England	36	34	28
Holland	12	16	18
Spain	10	13	8
Luxemburg	5	6	5
Russia	2	1	..
Total	5,785	5,635	6,632

The number of Swiss travelers was 21,564.

It will be observed that Germany stands far in the lead in the number of travelers, with France second. The United States, which figured with one commercial traveler during the year 1900, does not appear for 1901. It must not be presumed from this that our goods are not in evidence in Switzerland. American manufacturers have adopted a plan of establishing agencies throughout the country, and many of the Swiss drummers are carrying a line of American goods. The same may be said of German drummers, who represent American manufacturers having distributing warehouses in Germany. H. H. M.

Gold in Madagascar.

NEWS recently received from Madagascar indicates that the island is about to justify the hopes which have been entertained by numerous engineers as regards mineral resources.

Circumscribed auriferous regions, said to be very rich in the precious metal, are being worked on the eastern slopes and near the port of Manangary. The gold is in the form of small nuggets or of dust, taken from the alluvial deposit carried down by two streams from a neighboring mountain. It is supposed that the metal is derived from the disintegration of rocks situated at the origin of these streams, at a point not yet determined, and that there will be found the principal lode.

The washing of the alluvial deposit is effected in a kind of large wooden dish, in which the auriferous earth is placed—a very primitive method but for the present sufficiently remunerative.

The work is mostly done by the natives under the direction of Europeans, as they alone can stand the rays of a tropical sun, as well as remain in the water for hours each day.

Already two prospectors have discovered blocks of quartz which they estimate as capable of furnishing four ounces to the ton. Traces of the metal have been found more or less over the whole island.

HILARY S. BRUNOT.

Cane Sugar Crop in Spain.

THE unusual frosts of December and January have wrought so much damage to the sugar cane of Spain that not more than a half crop of sugar can be expected this year.

Sugar cane is grown all along the coast of Malaga, and the annual yield of sugar is about 30,000 tons. There are 17 sugar factories in the provinces of Malaga and Granada, employing many thousand hands. Grinding generally begins about the middle of March. This year it may commence earlier.

The loss of the sugar cane crop has resulted in the refusal of the manufacturers to take any part in the proposed organization of Spanish sugar makers, with the view of limiting production. There has been an overproduction of sugar—particularly of beet sugar— in Spain for several years, and strenuous efforts were recently made to form a syndicate of all the sugar manufacturers in Spain for mutual benefits along certain lines. This is understood to have failed because one of the most important beet sugar factories refused to participate, and for the further reason that the cane sugar manufacturers, in view of the largely decreased crop, saw no advantage in any further plan to limit production. BENJ. H. RIDGLY.

The Indigo Market in 1901.

ACCORDING to the report of a Hamburg-Calcutta firm, the year 1901 witnessed a slow but steady increase in the prices of natural indigo, with a relatively satisfactory business. Toward the end of summer, however, the demand slackened, due in a measure to the fact that the large color works of Hochst u. Ludwigshafen offered artificial indigo at greatly reduced prices, in order to reduce its stock.

The report calls attention to the wisdom of giving preference to the natural product when prices are satisfactory, and states that should producers be compelled to discontinue the cultivation of indigo on account of its unprofitableness, consumers would become entirely dependent upon the color manufacturers, who would probably combine and raise prices, as was done in the case of alizarin blue.

Owing to the improved method of production, natural indigo will at least remain an equal rival of the synthetic product, and advices from Calcutta regarding the new crop quote prices which will allow the natural product to successfully compete with the artificial.

The finer qualities of Bengal indigo were again least affected by fluctuations of prices. The limited supply found a ready market. The greatest demand was for medium qualities, and the stocks have been much reduced. Java indigo maintained its preferred position and brought relatively high prices. Of the new crop a considerable quantity is said to have been already sold at high prices for future delivery.

The stock on hand in Europe amounted to 9,000 cases at the end of the year 1901, against 8,500 cases in 1900, 10,000 cases in 1899, 13,500 cases in 1898, 19,000 cases in 1897 and 14,000 cases in 1896.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. VALUABLE WOODEN LEG.

Old Junk Dealer Had $15,000 in Bills, a Will and Temperance Pledge Concealed in It.

For 25 years Gideon Mason, a junk dealer of Trenton, N. J., carried his savings around in his wooden leg and when he died he was worth $15,000 in cash.

Mason lost his leg in a railroad accident years ago. He never would tell whence he came. He had known better days, he said, and rum had caused his downfall.

When he was able to get out on crutches he took the pledge. Friends bought him a wooden leg and a push cart, gave him a few dollars and he began buying and selling junk.

Mason prospered. When the first wooden leg was worn out, Mason appeared with one of his own manufacture. It was very clumsy, bulging at the top.

During the past six years Mason was accompanied on his rounds by a dog that was equipped with a wooden leg made by Mason to take the place of one it had lost.

Mason the other day was found stretched on his bed, dead.

The county physician found a cavity in Mason's wooden leg in which were concealed a will, $15,000 in bills, and the pledge he had taken and kept for 25 years. The will was holographic; it set aside a certain amount to pay the expense of burial and provided for the care of the dog as long as it should live, gave $5,000 to Hartwell, and the residue to be spent in buying artificial limbs for worthy cripples in Mercer county.

Two days after the death of Mason the dog was found dead on the grave of its master. In accordance with Mason's wish, expressed in his will, the dog was buried at his feet.

MARY WAS SURPRISED.

Her Father Told Her She Was Dead. But the Girl Proved Herself Very Much Alive.

Scores of residents of Coney Island hurried to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koster, in Surf avenue, to attend a funeral. Instead, they attended a merrymaking.

Mr. Koster is one of the best known residents of the island, and his daughter Mary, 21 years old, is one of its most popular young women. Koster received a black-bordered envelope containing a note announcing, to his astonishment and great grief that Mary had died at the home of relatives in Newark, N. J.

"HELLO, POP! HOW ARE YOU?"

Recovering from the shock, Mr. Koster informed all the friends of the family, stating that the funeral services would be held on Sunday. He then obtained an undertaker and went to Newark to get the body. Arriving at the Newark house, Mr. Koster found no crape on the door. He was angrily upbraiding a relative for lack of respect, when the girl herself appeared and shouted:

"Hello, pop! How are you?"

After explanation he started back for Coney Island with his daughter. In his joy at finding his daughter alive Mr. Koster forgot to notify friends and relatives that there would be no funeral, and on Sunday the floral pieces in memory of Miss Koster began to arrive.

Then came the mourners. They were met at the door by Miss Koster. Instead of a mournful gathering there was a merry one, which lasted until long into the night.

Mr. Koster declares that if he can find the sender of the black-bordered letter he will punish him.

WHAT IS BEING WORN.

Black Evening Gowns—All Lace Frocks Jeweled.

Black is always useful and looks remarkably well in a ballroom, provided, of course, it suits the individual wearer.

It is a good idea when investing in a point d'esprit gown to have a plain, well fitting oriental silk or satin slip bodice and skirt to wear under it, and nowadays these fabrics of really good quality are to be bought at most moderate prices.

Floral garnitures are much in vogue and with dainty touches of lace and ribbon intermingled make charming trimmings on light net frocks. The all lace frock has by no means departed. In fact, there is a revival of it this spring. Some of them are very magnificent. The underskirt consists of endless flounces of accordion plaited chiffon, the overdrapery of lace being often mingled with embroidery. Sometimes, too, the lace is jeweled. The mixture of lace, chiffon and brilliants is a very chic one.

There is a new shade of gray which, mingled with parma violets, makes a dainty evening gown for the girl with red hair.

The three-quarter coat in the illustration is useful both for evening and summer wear. It is made of the palest gray cloth with wide cuffs, collar and revers of white silk and embroidery. The coat is lined throughout with flowered silk. JUDIC CHOLLET.

COATS AND BLOUSES.

The Spring Jackets Are of the Abbreviated Type.

The spring coats are mostly of the abbreviated type, if we except the cutaway model with long basque reaching half way to the front. Parisians term this "the swallow," but the title is misleading, as the basque is far too wide to deserve the name. For weddings and afternoon affairs the Louis XV. and Louis XVI. coats are quite the thing and are extremely elaborate whether of silk or cloth.

Many of the short sack coats and boleros show the Du Barry hood, and this also appears on the long evening wrap. It is not always purely ornamental, but can be worn over the head. The French models intended for wear have some additional trimming over the shoulders, as the effect is otherwise utterly spoiled when the hood is in wear.

The newest models in coats and blouses all tend to give width to the shoulders. With the straight front corset and the enlarged hips, narrow shoulders are impossible, and now the great aim is to widen them with wide collars and large revers. Most of the spring coats have wide or bell sleeves to accommodate the fancy sleeve of the bodice or blouse.

A rather elaborate evening dress is shown in the illustration. It is made of black chantilly lace and pink silk. The floral garniture is of roses and the rosettes and ends are of black velvet ribbon. JUDIC CHOLLET

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

She flashed a bright smile at him and was out of the building and into the carriage before he could reach her side and give her any assistance. Barney used his whip and just as his team started along the street toward the railroad track Col. Keever and his followers broke from the hotel and raced back in the direction of the Blizzard office.

Guy halted stock still and held his breath. The carriage was upon the men and almost past them before any attention was paid to it. It was the Colonel's fortune to catch first sight of the ladies who were leaning back on the rear seat in the shelter of the side curtains.

"There they are!" cried Keever. "Stop that team! Catch the horses' heads!"

But Barney plied the lash vigorously and before the Colonel's companions were able to act on his warning the carriage was beyond them all and whirling its passengers rapidly away.

The road to Harmony led past the depot, across the railroad tracks and then bore off to the left.

With a fresh team and a good start there is no doubt but that Barney would have distanced his pursuers had not the road been unexpectedly blocked.

The noon train suddenly drew up to the depot platform. It was a long train and so completely obstructed the way that there was no getting around it without turning squarely about and retracing the street for a full block. Such a move would have been disastrous, for the pursuers were not more than a hundred yards behind. A yell of triumph went up from the throats of Col. Keever and his men.

Guy started at a run for the scene. Before he came anywhere near the carriage, however, he saw Miss Vlandingham and Miss Pinkney descend from it and hurry to the train. A brakeman helped them up to the steps of the nearest car, signaled "go ahead" to the conductor and the latter gave the word to the engineer.

But already Col. Keever, panting like a porpoise, had clutched the iron hand rail. Close behind him was Dick Pettibone, the sheriff.

"Hold this train!" bellowed the Colonel.

"Get off, there!" shouted Barney, holding the lines between his knees and flinging the shotgun to his shoulder. "Drop off that train, Col. Keever, or I'll shoot!"

The train had begun to move. Pettibone had not been able to get aboard, but the Colonel had and was standing on the lower step.

He looked around at Barney's command, and the sight of the gun staggered him.

"Don't shoot, don't shoot!" he cried frantically, and sprang to the ground, lost his footing, fell flat and rolled over and over in the dust of the road.

CHAPTER VIII.

Guy had come up with the baffled crowd just in time to witness the Colonel's discomfiture. He experienced a sense of great relief at the escape of Miss Betty and her friend and kept himself as much in the background as possible when the irate citizens rushed forward and assisted Pettibone to set their leader upright and dust him off.

"I'll have the law on you, sir!" raged the Colonel, breaking through the ranks that surrounded him and shaking his fist at Barney. "Threaten me, hey? Egad, it makes my blood boil!"

"Don't get excited, Colonel," shouted Barney from the carriage.

"Excited, you impudent puppy! Excited! Pettibone, arrest that man. I'm surprised that you stand there without raising a finger against the young scalawag."

The town had only one fault to find with Dick Pettibone, and that was that he was too easy going, too good natured. There were Spartan fibers running through his makeup, but they were in evidence only on extreme occasions.

"Oh, I wouldn't make him any trouble, Colonel," returned Pettibone, soothingly. "He's young, you know, and all young men are more or less headstrong."

"He's a traitor!" fumed the Colonel. "If it hadn't been for him Vlandingham's daughter wouldn't have slipped through our fingers."

"I think she would, Colonel."

"No, sir!" raved the Colonel. "Arrest that young rapscallion or I'll chastise him here and now."

The Colonel began to roll up his coat sleeves, and Barney, coolly eyeing him, made a wry grimace. Laying the shotgun down on the seat, Barney attempted to turn the carriage and drive off. By this time, however, the Colonel's words had had an effect on his followers and two of them caught the horses' heads. Pettibone, seeing that there was nothing for him to do but to act in his official capacity, ordered Barney to get down. Barney obeyed without any show of resistance and Pettibone marched off with him, while Mr. Glimmer took the team and carriage back to the livery stable.

During all this time Guy had been overlooked. He remained in the vicinity long enough to note the outcome of the exciting little drama and then slipped quietly away to the hotel.

He was there an hour later, deeply engaged in a St. Paul paper, when a nervous little gentleman, wearing a pair of nose glasses, was led up to him by Pedro Smith.

"Mr. Herbert," said Pedro, "Mr. Pinchbeck. Mr. Pinchbeck has recently interested himself in our little city and he wishes to talk with you concerning the outlook."

Guy shook hands with Mr. Pinchbeck, and the latter seated himself at the young man's side while Pedro drifted away toward the kitchen.

"I understand that you own nearly all the vacant lots in this town, Mr. Herbert," observed Mr. Pinchbeck, catching his glasses as they dropped from his nose.

Guy nodded.

"Have you bought here recently?" he asked.

"Quite recently."

"Very much?"

"A block—conditionally." Mr. Pinchbeck caught his glasses again, fitted them carefully to the bridge of his nose and wrinkled his brows a time or two to satisfy himself that they would hold. "I am to pay $3,000 for the block, providing this town wins the county seat fight."

"Ah, I see. Your money is to be paid back if we lose."

"Well—er—it hasn't really been paid over, as yet. I have merely a contract for a deed. It's this way, Mr. Herbert. When the ballots are counted if they show a good safe majority for Concord I am to pay $2,000 to the workmen who have been brought here to build roads, bridges, etc., and I am also to pay $1,000 for that wooden shell which is ultimately to be the court house."

This was a revelation to Guy. Here was the "tenderfoot" about whom the Colonel had told him. The Colonel, however, had said nothing of a conditional bargain.

"In case we lose the county seat, Mr. Pinchbeck," said Guy, "what would happen?"

Mr. Pinchbeck smiled. The mirthful wrinkles disconnected his glasses and they evaded his hands and dropped into his lap. The smile faded into a look of vexation as he picked up the glasses and jammed them back on the bridge of his nose.

"That's all right, Mr. Herbert. I have a contract with Vlandingham for a block at the same figure in case his town wins."

Guy was startled.

"Has Mr. Vlandingham also imported some voters?" he asked.

"Um—I don't know as I ought to say so, but he has run in a lot of fellows from Bismarck—the same number as Keever brought in from Jimtown. They're working somewhere around Harmony, and will be in evidence on election day."

"In case Harmony wins, you are going to pay Vlandingham's workmen. Is that it?"

"That's it."

"Col. Keever said you were a tenderfoot, Mr. Pinchbeck, but you certainly do not act like one. No matter from which direction the breeze comes, you have an anchor to the windward."

"It's just plain business, that's all," returned Mr. Pinchbeck, dashing his hand to his face just in time to keep his glasses there.

"Is Mr. Vlandingham also building a courthouse?"

"N—no. I drove over from Harmony this morning and saw Vlandingham before I started. He's got something up his sleeve. I hardly know what, though. He told me that fools build courthouses and wise men occupy them. I don't know as I ought to tell you this, being a non-combatant, as you might say, but I guess it won't do any harm. Vlandingham is a deep one, but his daughter is deeper still."

"What do you know about Miss Vlandingham?" asked Guy, with sudden interest. Mr. Pinchbeck started to answer, but had to pause to grab his glasses again. "Why don't you get a cord?" asked Guy, somewhat testily.

Some Gossip of the Doings of the Sports and Athletes

STROLLING down the aisles of the recent automobile show I could not refrain from the soliloquy: How like the days of 1896 and 1897, when the great bicycle shows were in their zenith! Standing in a booth I found a young manufacturer of autos who but seven years ago was one of the best known makers of bicycles in the Mississippi valley. "Had to come to the auto," he said, by way of explanation. "It may be but a short time when we makers of autos will have to make another switch, particularly if Edison perfects his storage battery."

Then, continuing to the office of the show, I found the manager of the exhibition—a bicycle man with an international fame several years ago. He used to run bicycle shows and make them pay.

"Yes, it's like the old days, only 'red demons' and 'white ghosts' and other queerly named 60-horse power machines take the place of our old diamond frame 'best bicycles on earth,'" said he. "This show was on velvet the moment it opened, and that is more than we used to say of the cycle shows."

Away over in a corner of an aisle I found the boiler and machinery of the first automobile that was put out by a house that subsequently did a big business. It was made by a cyclist who utilized portions of old cycles for the machine. From this "relic" only a few years old to the machine that Fourier won the Paris-Berlin race with was a step as great as that between the old velocipede of 1884 and the chainless bicycle of 1901.

No matter what the trade may say about the desirability of holding future auto shows, the figures given to me by the men who know indicate that orders aggregating $5,000,000 worth of machines were placed with the exhibitors. Counting the machines at $2,000 each, that would mean 2,500 autos. But the average price would be nearer the mark if made $1,000. Either the progress of auto using has increased or these figures have been stretched. Personally, I do not think orders for more than $500,000 worth of machines were taken at the show. The exhibition was not a fashionable event. In the crowds were men who stood about eyeing critically the motors, men who discoursed learnedly upon cylinders, boilers, capacities, volts, amperes and technical topics almost unintelligible to the ordinary visitors. They were the chauffeurs. Some of the latter wore leather trousers that are pronounced au fait in automobiledom. All who had machines that were likely to be called out for trial races wore the proverbial chauffeur's leather hat.

Surely the auto show is but an advance over the old bicycle show, with the makers of many of the great machines admitting their hesitancy in putting in big plants for the manufacture of exclusive designs on a big scale because of the fear that any day will bring about a revolution in the business.

JUST why there should be an "annex" to the coronation ceremonies in London next June is not apparent. But shrewd managers of pugilists have arranged a schedule of pugilistic events for the National Sporting club that will open the eyes of the British. If the British have not enough of fighting the Boers by that time, the golden sovereigns will be poured into the pockets of the Americans who are under contract to furnish amusement for the "merrie English."

Sailor Tom Sharkey and Peter Maher—the latter has fought for the long-disputed Irish championship almost everywhere except on Irish soil—are billed to meet in London. Of course the Irish championship will be the title each will strive for. Incidentally the purse will give speed to their blows. Gus Ruhlin, the "Akron giant," who has been in eclipse since a very poor ring engagement in California, is likely to face Kid McCoy. Joe Choynski, the actor-pugilist, who had all he could do at Louisville to win a mediocre contest, has been engaged as a star attraction for the festivities in the world's greatest cities.

In the middleweight division America will furnish Tommy Ryan, the acknowledged champion, for a bout with "any man in the world" to be selected from the British or American lists. It may be "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, Jack Root, Johnny Gorman or George Gardner that Ryan will meet. In any case conservative, shrewd Ryan already has the English gold invested in the United States. Those ancient rivals in American cities, Joe Walcott, the "Barbadoes wonder," and Tommy West, too, are to battle for the delectation of the London swells in evening dress. Frank Erne, Pat Daly and a lot of lightweights are under consideration. If Terrible Terry McGovern thinks the purse is big enough he may condescend to leave the stage long enough to go over to fight Ben Jordan. Harry Harris, the tall, thin young bantam who has fought abroad, will contest in a championship bout with Andy Tokew, the English champion.

All of this indicates with increased emphasis that the Yankee invasion of England has taken on a phase which was not thought possible in the Victorian age.

STRENUOUS indeed is the life that one of America's most representative sportsmen is leading. Foxhall P. Keene, son of the "wizard of Wall street," James R. Keene, is abroad watching the running of his horses in English race meets. This in itself, including as it does the general superintending of a stable of large proportions, is quite a task. But Mr. Keene is a crack cross-country rider and the social features of country club life take up considerable of his time. Furthermore, he is one of the best polo players in the world, and as a member of the champion team that will meet the champion British team at Hurlingham Polo club's field for the championship cup in May he has to personally attend the breaking in of polo ponies shippd from the United States. Then there is golf, ping pong and a variety of sports that Mr. Keene has to devote some time to. Those who are acquainted with the representative young sportsman say he finds time to drop in at the stock exchanges at Liverpool and London, read cipher cables from his father and occasionally make himself felt in the market on Kaffirs, consols and American securities. And above all the young man whose judgment selected Domino as a probable great horse and who urged his father to purchase the colt that became famous, is constantly looking for another Foxhall or Ormonde to add to the world-renowned Keene stable. He's a busy American over in England.

SUBMARINE HUNGER.

Work of the Diver Productive of a Desire for Food, Says One Who Knows.

Can any one of a scientific turn of mind explain why the work of a submarine diver should superinduce an exaggerated sensation of hunger? The fact is well recognized by members of the profession, and was vouched for especially by the late Capt. Conrad, the New Orleans diver, who died a few months ago as the result of work in the Maine wreck in Havana harbor, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"The captain said that the moment he was fully submerged his stomach got busy with itself, and before he had finished his trick or work visions of succulent food so filled the water all about his glass peephole that he could scarcely tell a torpedo cable from a link of wienerwurst. He was inclined to the opinion that the air and water pressure, but more especially the latter, turned a man's head just a trifle, and that in some unexplainable way the attack took the form of hunger.

Enough Rain for Once.

Kansas is glad to announce that it has had rain enough for the present. A Sumner county paper says: "The wheat is standing in a loblolly and the happy farmer is wading about his acres taking an inventory of his wheat crop."

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

There has been much rejoicing among the boys of the Plainfield High School over the showing made last week against the nine from Pingry's School, of Elizabeth. The team went to Elizabeth with but little real hope of winning and the result has served to strengthen the team materially and increase the interest in it among the young people of the school.

Practice is being held every afternoon on the Myrtle avenue grounds by the North Plainfield High School nine. Captain Armstrong is anxious to get his team in good form. The results of Saturday's contest were not satisfactory to him and he has told the players that they must wake up if they expect to defeat their rivals, the Plainfield High School nine.

Edward B. Ryder, of Central avenue, last Saturday took the measurements for the uniforms for the members of the Orange Field Club. The suits will be gray, with red trimmings, blue caps, and same color stockings. Mr. Ryder has also furnished the suits of the North Plainfield High School team. These are also gray, but the trimmings are maroon. The caps are black, bearing the monogram and the team will wear sweaters bearing the monogram.

The nine of the Plainfield High School is carefully preparing for its next game which will be played on Pittis Field Wednesday afternoon with the team from Newark Academy. The Newark Academy boys have one of the strongest scholastic teams in this part of the State and they will undoubtedly give the local school boys one of the hardest rubs they will have to encounter this season. Captain VanAuken has his men out for practice this afternoon and will have them out again tomorrow to strengthen the weak points. The game is to be called at 3:30 o'clock.

BASKET BALL.

Much interset is being taken in the basket ball game which will be played in Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Friday evening. At that time, the third game of the series between the fives of the Plainfield High School and Leal's School will be played. It has been conceded that the first meeting of the two teams, early in the fall, was only a practice game and should not be counted as part of the series. Each team has won one game. The Leal's School boys have the advantage of team play while the High School boys include several of the best players of the Y. M. C. A. in their number. Friday evening's game is sure to be a hard fought contest and a large crowd of spectators is expected.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

Owing to another affair taking place at Hope chapel, this evening, Manager Sweeney, of the Y. M. A. bowling team, has called off the match with the Y. M. C. A. team, scheduled for tonight. It will take place, if possible, some time next week.

TENNIS.

A number of young men of the borough are planning a tennis club. A meeting will be held this week for organization purposes. It is probable that the tennis court on Washington avenue, near Myrtle avenue, will be engaged for the season.

FIREMEN INTERESTED.

In Scheme to Erect New Fire Headquarters in the Borough.

More than usual interest is taken by the borough firemen in the scheme to erect a new fire headquarters in the borough. While the matter will not be rushed on account of the sewage and water plans, which are deemed more important, it is said that careful attention will be given it. Mayor Smalley believes that the fire headquarters should be erected in the fall at the least. As yet there is no opposition to the idea of a new house. The estimated cost of the structure is $12,000.

Miss Alice Miller, of New York, was the guest Saturday and Sunday of Miss Agnes B. Freeman, of LaGrande avenue.

CITIZENS BEFORE GOVERNOR

DELEGATION HAS GONE TO TRENTON THIS AFTERNOON.

Will Present True Facts Concerning the Greater Plainfield Bills—Petition to be Presented.

A large delegation of taxpayers of North Plainfield, chiefly extensive property owners, are in consultation with Govrenor Franklin Murphy this afternoon. The subject being considered is the Greater Plainfield measure.

Accompanying the delegation are a number of citizens of this city, who are likewise interested in the welfare of both communities. It is understood that some false impressions will be righted, and that the Governor will be made acquainted with the true facts. The principal officials of the borough, irrespective of party affiliations, have signed a petition asked that speedy sanction be given the bills. This will be presented by Mayor Smalley in person today.

In the party, which left on the 2:16 o'clock train this afternoon, were some prominent boroughites who have not heretofore been identified with the movement and they will explain why it is for the best interests of the two communities that the bills be signed. The delegation is armed with statistics which it is said will bear out the contention that annexation will be beneficial to the boroughites.

CITY JUDGE RUNYON IMPOSED HEAVY FINES ON OFFENDERS.

Trio Up for Attempting to Take a Prisoner From Patrolman Higgins' Clutches.

Heavy punishment in the way of large fines was imposed upon Leonardo Vetromile, his wife, Wilhelmina Vetromile, and an employe, Rafael Narzi, in the city court, this morning, for the part they took in interfering with Patrolman Higgins in the discharge of his duties two weeks ago. Each one was sentenced to pay $10 fine or go to jail for forty days. The fines in all three cases were paid by Vetromile.

The trial was the termination of the trouble which occurred at Vetromile's or "Wilson's" place on Liberty street, one Sunday recently, when Higgins attempted to arrest James Kane, who stood in the doorway of the place taunting him to "come on." Kane was intoxicated and at one period stepped to the sidewalk when the patrolman caught him. Vetromile, his wife and Narzi immediately rushed out to pull him away but Higgins was too much for them and got his prisoner to headquarters. He afterwards prefered the charges of interference against the trio and they were arrested also. Before Wilhelmina was taken into custody, she found occasion to relieve her mind of some choice epithets which were applied to Patrolman Myers At the conclusion of the first trial she was re-arraigned on Myer's charge and entered a plea of non vult. Sentence was suspended in this case.

A plea of non vult was entered by Codington & Swackhamer for the trio in the interference charge which was also accepted by the court. City Judge Runyon ruled, however, that the officers are to be upheld in their attempt to break up the "speak easies" and imposed the fines.

Vetromile was arraigned for the second time on a charge of assault preferred by George Washington, colored, who was looked upon as a police spy by the defendant and, it is alleged, was roughly handled just previous to the arrest. This case was adjourned for one week to allow the counsel to investigate the charge more fully.

DIVISION OF OPINION.

Sewage Commission Will Consider Report Presented to the Council.

The report made by the sewage expert at the meeting of the Borough Council Friday evening has been transmitted to the Citizens' Sewage Commission. The subject will be considered in every aspect this week by the commission. As yet the chairman, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., has not set a time for the session.

It is known that the commission is not unanimously in favor of the plan suggested, but just what the opposition amounts will be impossible to forecast. Some of the members are advocating the tide-water system, claiming that the scheme now being considered will be a failure.

EXPLAINS WHY THEY FAVORED REFERENDUM

Former Mayor Charles Place Gives Some New Facts Concerning Senate Hearing.

IN A COMMUNICATION.

DECLARES THAT THEY HAVE ALWAYS OPPOSED THE WHOLE SCHEME.

Object in Asking for Referendum Was to Get the Annexation Bill Back to the Lower House Where They Expected to Kill It.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your editorial of Wednesday last on "The Opposition Argument" to the annexation, and consolidation of the borough of North Plainfield to Union county and to the city of Plainfield, you say, "When the hearing was held before the Senate committee, the only fight was for a chance to allow the citizens to decide for themselves." * * * * "Now the very men, who demanded that the people be allowed to settle the question for themselves, are bitterly opposed to this same referendum."

I ask a word in your columns to refute this statement most emphatically. When the opponents of these bills appeared before the Senate committee having them in charge, every man was opposed to them in toto. Under the then existing conditions they had been passed by the lower house, and were in the Senate without the referendum clause in, and the opponents knew there would be no change to defeat them in the Senate, so they did the best they could under the circumstances and only asked that the committee add to them the referendum clause which, by reason of the pressure brought to bear, was done, and they went to the House in that way. When that was done, the opponents to them felt there was a chance to defeat them when they came up in the House. When they came up for a vote in that body, the Democratic members save one, all voted for them, and as we were informed, were acting under orders from Jersey City, thus making them party measures, which we very much regretted.

It was very evident that it was the intention of those who were pushing these bills, that they were to be passed without any referendum clause in them, for they were so originally drawn. When these bills had passed both houses and were sent to the Governor, he very wisely invited both the friends and the opponents to appear before him and present their arguments. The opponents from the county of Somerset and from the borough went in large numbers to the Executive Chamber, in obedience to that invitation, but not one man appeared in favor of them from either the county or the borough.

Now The Press is noted for its fair dealings generally in all public questions, but in this mater of the annexation and the consolidation, the editorial department seems to have become very much warped. It has not treated the opponents of these bills as they think they ought to have been treated. We have stood out in the open; we have in no underhanded way manifested our opposition; we were ready and more than willing to meet the friends before the Governor, and there have the opportunity to ask them questions which we were very anxious to have the Governor hear them answer. Were they afraid they would be asked these important questions, and did not wish to answer them in the Governor's hearing? I do not know, but it looked to those present that such was the case.

North Plainfield, April 11, 1902.

Charles Place.

(Mr. Place undoubtedly means well but he does not appear to realize that he simply reiterates the statement made by The Daily Press which he attempted to contradict. The only visible opposition to the Greater Plainfield bills at the Senate hearing was, as he says, on the ground that the people had no chance to express themselves on the question of annexation. Knowing the character of the men who appeared there, we had supposed that they were perfectly sincere in their protests. We are surprised at the only possible interpretation to Mr. Place's words that it was only a trick to bring about the defeat of the measures and that its supporters really had no desire to see the questions left to the people as they certainly gave the Senatorial committee to understand. The petitions they carried with them at the time asked for the referendum. Surely we cannot believe that this delegation representing these petitioners betrayed the trust reposed in them. Ed.)

A PROMINENT SPEAKER HERE

PROF. J. B. HOLMES, OF SWARTHMORE COLLEGE, AT FRIENDS' MEETINGS.

Talked on Patriotism Saturday Evening and Made Another Address Yesterday Morning.

There was a very large attendance of Friends at the meeting-house on Watchung avenue, yesterday morning, to hear Prof. Jesse B. Holmes, who occupies the chair of Biblicial literature at Swarthmore College. Prof Holmes is an entertaining and forceful speaker and he held the closest attention of all throughout his talk. His remarks were based on the text, "Enter ye into the straight gate."

The speaker said that citizenship in the Kingdom of God is what all are called to and he held that many believed the way into it to be difficult, while the way to destruction is easy. On this basis, Prof. Holmes maintained that if the one way is easy it must be inferred that the people are in a dangerous way no matter how respectable or how moral they may be.

Another thought advanced was that of the standards of success. These he compared with the Beatitudes and spoke of two kinds of success, that of Jesus as a Saviour of the world and that of Pilate as governor of the Roman Empire. The former he characterized as the simple yet real struggle and the other one of riches and power. In conclusion Prof. Holmes quoted the familiar words "Man's destiny is not to be satisfied, but dissatisfied."

Porf. Holmes also spoke at a meeting held at the same place Saturday evening. His subject was patriotism. He pointed out the essential points in patriotism and referred also to the dangerous tendencies, such as partisanship and the limiting of the freedom of speech in the press. His address was greatly enjoyed by all who heard him.

TENNIS COURTS OPENED.

Play Began Saturday Afternoon on the Courts of the Park Club—A Good Attendance.

The tennis courts of the Park Club were kept busy all Saturday afternoon, when the play for the season opened. A number of the tennis players of the club were out, several after an absence from the courts of several years. Considering the general lack of practice the playing was very good.

The tennis committee of the club, Wallace Guilford, Samuel Townsend and Charles Dupee, was on hand and participated in the play. Mr. Townsend, in particular, did some very clever work with the racket. A very fast set was played during the afternoon between Wallace Guilford and Charles Dupee on one side and Wm. A. Townsend and Clifford W. McGee.

FINE PITCHING WON GAME

PINGRY SCHOOL NINE TOO MUCH FOR BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL.

Game Played at Elizabeth, Saturday Afternoon—Pingry Won by Score of 17 to 3.

Phenomenal pitching won a victory for the Pingry School nine in its game with the North Plainfield High School team, at Elizabeth, Saturday afternoon. The score was 17 to 3 in favor of the boys at the county seat. It should be remarked that the number of batters struck out by the Elizabeth ball twister was exactly fifteen. North Plainfield lads were up against it from the start, but they put up a plucky fight.

Armstrong, in the box for the boroughites, also did good work, having fanned out seven batters. Humble, the right fielder, and Conover, the shortstop, saved the North Plainfielders from a shut-out, the former scoring two runs and the latter one. After the third inning the local team failed to score, while the batting proclivities of the Elizabeth lads improved considerably. Armstrong, who put up a good all-around game, made a clever two-base hit. Stevens, North Plainfield's third baseman, was responsible for eight errors.

The batting order and summary is as follows:

ANNEXATION HOSTS BEFORE THE GOVERNOR AT TRENTON

Greater Plainfield Advocates Opened on Him With Facts and Figures, Demanding That Bills Be Signed.

HEARING YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

OPPOSITION IN SOMERVILLE AND NORTH PLAINFIELD WAS NOTIFIED OF HEARING, BUT FAILED TO APPEAR.

Remarkable Gathering of Boroughites Assembled in Governor's Audience Chamber, at Trenton, Yesterday—All Asked That the Greater Plainfield Bills Be Signed So the People Could Settle the Question at the Polls — Many Speeches — Opposition Heavily Scored—Governor Was Impressed By the Showing and the Arguments Presented.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Trenton, April 15—Pro-annexation and consolidation arguments were shot, thick and fast, at Governor Franklin Murphy in his audience chamber at the State House yesterday afternoon. A army of boroughites, leaders in the various walks of life, stormed the Chief Executive with facts and figures, all bearing out the contention that it is for the best interests of the twin communities, Plainfield and North Plainfield, that the territory "across the brook" be annexed to Union county and that the two municipalities be consolidated. The engagement was a short one, but while it lasted the shafts of sober hard facts, from which there was no getting away, pierced the neatly woven tale of the opposition, which had previously gathered in the audience chamber of his excellency.

The body of men that gathered in that room was something extraordinary so far as numbers and business standing is concerned. Indeed, it brought the remark from Governor Murphy, as he surveyed his besiegers, that he was unaccustomed to receive such a large delegation. Before the fussilade of arguments was ended it was quite evident that he was unaccustomed to receive so many reasons why a measure should receive his approval. When it was ended, it was likewise evident that the Governor was firmly impressed, if not captivated, by the reasons assigned by those to whom he had lent his ear.

In the delegation were lawyers, doctors, manufacturers, tradesmen, and it was hard to tell what not. Politics were cast aside for the time being and Republicans and Democrats seemed to join for the weal of the borough in bringing conviction to the Governor that it is his duty, his imperative duty, as they termed it, to to sign the measures and thus lay the matter before the people for their action.

Among those present from North Plainfield were Samuel Townsend, George T. Rogers, James P. Norhrop, Peter A. Emmons, William L. Saunders, Senator Charles A. Reed, Frank W. Iredell, Harry M. Curtis, J. C. Peck, George P. Dupee, J. M. Bettman, Martin I. Cooley, Joseph O. Osgood, William A. Townsend, D. N. Groendyke, A. L. Force, Walter M. McGee, Dr. Albert Pittis, James K. Arnold, H. W. Tomlinson, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, A. E. Faber, Jr., Bertram Pittis, John P. Emmons, Elston M. French, J. T. Watson, David J. Kenney, George F. Fairchild, A. I. Smalley, Julius J. Stahl, Horace J. Martin, Frank Rowley, John Kirch, Sr., Alonzo Brokaw, William Smith, William Baldwin, William Sharkey, Thomas Doud, Jacob Roundsville, William Krausse, R. S. Waldron, Charles H. Lyman, R. W. Emerson, Harry Williams, Dr. Charles R. Thiers, L. B. Woolston, John Y. Barrett, and many others.

From Plainfield were J. F. Buckle, Judge W. A. Coddington, H. C. Van Emburgh, Robert M. Clark, Assemblyman William Newcorn, Peter V. Weaver, H. C. Runyon, George J. Tobin, Andrew McCardell, Amos Andrews and a number of others. Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees was an interested spectator. Suffice it to say there was no representation from Somerville, although Former Senator Lewis A. Thompson had been notified by wire. Senator Reed informed him of the proposed hearing as he did also A. V. D. Honeyman, of the borough, whom he told personally Sunday afternoon. No opposition whatever was apparent from the borough.

It should be stated that a few were present, and their names are included in the list noted, who do not approve of annexation and consolidation, but who believe that the Governor should sign the bills now before him. This was the object of the conference. Governor Murphy desired enlightenment on several points and it was for this purpose that he invited friends of the measure to meet him, before he disposed of the bills one way or the other.

"Reed, you're the guilty man," said the Governor in a jocular way, as he seated himself comfortably, prepared for the onslaught. "I would like to hear from you," added the dapper looking Chief Executive of all Jersey.

The Senator was ready for the fray, and first drew attention to a map of the seat of war, the borough and the city. He showed pertinent spots which have to do with the campaign being waged, and explained the meaning of that little line which is intended to represent Green brook, and incidentally represents the "Great Divide" between Plainfielders and North Plainfielders. He drew attention to the fact that the first remark of a stranger is as to the ridiculousness of maintaining two distinct municipalities for "one people."

"The agitation for consolidation," said he, "is continually before the public. Under the present condition of affairs North Plainfield hasn't got a postoffice, nor a bank, and its name can't be found in a railroad guide in this country. I don't believe there is another town in the United States of 5,000 inhabitants that occupies such a peculiar position. The question is always being agitated," continued he, when the Governor sighed and said that he was quite sure that it is being agitated, which provoked considerable laughter.

Senator Reed then outlined the history of the agitation, all of which has been told in these columns before. When last brought up before the people, as the Senator explained, there were four distinct schemes: One to form a new county, another to annex Plainfield to Somerset county, another to annex North Plainfield to Union county and another to consolidate the city and borough without changing the county lines. When the question was put to the people at the polls, he said, all was chaos for there was no distinct plan recommended. Only 500 out of 1,100 voters cast their ballots and the idea was defeated three to one. Whenever any proposition for a municipal improvement was broached, whether it was sewers, town hall or anything, the people wanted to know whether the city and borough were going to be consolidated.

The present bills were placed before the Legislature without any suggestion from him, declared the Senator, and the public had full knowledge of the proposed introduction of the measures. The Daily Press, in its issue of February 15, said he, explained the movement in a news article headed in bold type "For Greater Plainfield." Subsequently the bills were printed in full by the two daily newspapers of the city. Hence he said everyone knew, or should have known of the bills.

The story of the bill in the Legislature was briefly sketched by the speaker. He declared that a hearing had been given by the Senate judicial committee and the only objection made was to the absence of a referendum clause in the annexation bill. This objection was met "by a small delegation, mostly composed of office holders." The petition, presented by A. V. D. Honeyman at that time, signed by 287 persons, was read and it was pointed out that the petitioners prayed for a referendum clause only. He told of a conversation Mr. Rogers had had with Mr. Honeyman, in which the latter remarked that had he known that the referendum clause would have been attached he would not have gone to Trenton for it would not have been necessary. The queer tales told by the opponents to the measure were touched upon in a humorous way by the speaker.

The history of the political feud in the Republican party in Somerset county was dwelt upon quite at length by the Senator. Particularly was the intense opposition of the Somerville politicians to anything advocated by the North Plainfielders referred to. In response to an inquiry from the Governor, Senator Reed said that the population of Somerville was less than 5,000 or nearly the size of North Plainfield. He told how the boroughites had been treated by the Somerville people in the Republican party councils and how from time to time North Plainfielders on the party ticket were slashed by the friends of Former Senator Thompson in Somerville and other parts of Bridgewater township.

North Plainfield had fared ill, said he, so far as county offices were concerned and when they came up as nominees they were cut fearfully. The slim majority given to Mr. Murphy himself was brought up and the cool reception the Governor received at Somerville during the campaign was mentioned. This, said the Senator, was because the Tompsonites declared he was a friend of the speaker.

It is for the best interests of the darty in Somerset county, said the Senator, that the present bills become law for it will end party strife. North Plainfield will not play second fiddle to Somerville in the future, said he. If Somerville prevents this agitation from being brought to a successful termination, he declared, it will be remembered. "Governor, I'm talking politics, and you know something about politics," he remarked. The Governor laughed in assent.

Becoming somewhat eloquent in his discourse, Senator Reed said "There was a young man standing in the doorway at this meeting who was given an office after trying to defeat the Republican ticket. He admitted he was discharged for his work but declared that he would not be out of a job long. He was put in the office of the Clerk of Chancery as a reward for this work. Another young man, who is a clerk in the office of the Clerk of Chancery, went to Bernardsville and worked openly against the Republican ticket,. and he got sixteen votes. Talk about one side being treacherous? The half of the story hasn't been told."

A petition, largely signed by citizens of the borough asking that the question be submitted to a vote, was exhibited to the Governor by Senator Reed. After reading a letter from Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk in advocacy of annexation, Senator Reed gave way to Mayor Smalley.

His Honor remarked that on behalf of the delegation of boroughites he earnestly asked that the bills be approved. The opposition at Somerville and in the borough came in for a little sharp attention.

Continuing he said: "Mr. Honeyman made the remark that he did not know twenty-five people in favor of the measure and I am sure there are 100 boroughites in this room who desire it. Business keeps many others away or we would have a considerably larger delegation." The Mayor told of the change in public opinion in the last ten days, mentioned the remarkable number of converts to the proposition. No pains had been taken by the friends of the measure to obtain signitures, said he, but a petition was produced by him asking that the agitation be settled by the vote of the citizens. This was signed by himself, Councilmen Robert Clark, Jr., James P. Northrop, Charles A. Lee and James K. Arnold, four of the six members, Tax Collector George F.

TRIAL PROVED FEE WASN'T FOR INFLUENCE

Exciting Suit of Councilman C. L. Murphy Against Hotel Keeper McVey on Trial.

NO CAUSE FOR ACTION.

COUNCILMAN MURPHY HAD ALREADY RECEIVED $30 FOR LEGAL SERVICES.

He Charged $20 More—The Trial Brought Out Just What C. L. Murphy Did for His Client—No Truth in "Influence" Charges.

Justice Huff's court was the centre of attraction, yesterday afternoon, when the contract case of Councilman Clarence L. Murphy against John H. McVey, proprietor of McVey's Hotel, engaged the attention of the court as well as many people prominent in official circles.

Mr. Murphy brought suit to recover $20 fees for legal services. He represented himself, while the defendant was represented by Frank B. Strauss, of Park avenue, a New York lawyer. After the case was tried it was given to a jury of six men and in a few minutes a verdict of no cause for action was returned.

During the course of the trial many personalities were indulged in and frequently there was a clash between counsel. It appeared that Mr. Murphy had rendered legal services for Mr. McVey on several occasions and the latter had paid on account $30. The services included assistance on application for liquor license, services in the transfer of the hotel property to A. B. Rosell and advice on a suit brought against the defendant by a New York party. Mr. Murphy still claimed $20 for advice. It was proved that Mr. McVey had paid $30 and Mr. Stranss, counsel for the defendant, argued that his client had paid enough.

Mr. Murphy stated in open court that the real object in bringing the suit was to disprove the insinuations to the effect that Mr. McVey had paid him $30 as an influence in securing a liquor license. He claims that despite the verdict his object was accomplished, inasmuch as it proved that all Mr. McVey had given him, $30, was paid for legal advice.

After a spirited summing up by counsel, the case was given to the following jurors: John Huff, U. B. Crane, Humphrey Bodine, James Tilby, W. W. Warnock, and John H. Tier, Jr. As stated they were out but a few minutes when the verdict of no cause for action was rendered.

WANT BIRD REAPPOINTED.

City Committee Spoke Its Mind at Meeting Held for Organization.

The Republican city executive committee met last evening in the office of Assemblyman William Newcorn for organization. Mr. Newcorn, as last year's secretary, called the meeting to order. In chosing new officers Mayor O. L. Jenkins was elected chairman, E. R. Ackerman vice chairman and William Newcorn secretary and treasurer.

A resolution was unanimously adopted that the secretary be instructed to inform Congressman Fowler that it is the wish of the committee that Postmaster E. H. Bird be reappointed to his position. A committee will draft rules for the government of the committee for 1902 and in the near future committees will be appointed. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

Dr. Herring's Lecture.

A large audience gathered at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening and thoroughly enjoyed Rev. C. E. Herring's illustrated lecture on Belgium and Holland. The views were taken by Mr. Herring when he was abroad several months ago and they are some of the best yet seen. Mr. Herring's lecture was entertaining and a profitable was spent.

HOPE BURNED ITS MORTGAGE

Chapel in the West End Celebrated Its Freedom From Debt Last Evening.

APPROPRIATE EXERCISE.

The Mortgage Was Consumed in the Presence of a Large Congregation Which Sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"—Speeches of Congratulation Were Made.

Hope Memorial chapel's congregation and many of its friends gathered in the pretty edifice, last evening, to witness the destruction of the paper representing the mortgage which has encumbered it for several years. The burning was accompanied by appropriate exercises in which the chapel's officials and others took part.

On the platform were Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, H. C. Squires, superintendent of the Hope chapel Sunday-school and J. Doull Miller, one of the chapel's most energetic workers.

Following an invocation by Dr. Richards and scripture reading by Rev. Mr. Howard, the opening address was made by Mr. Miller. In it he congratulated the chapel members on the success which had crowned their efforts to pay off the indebtedness and declared he joined with them in the thanksgiving. He was followed by Dr. Richards who spoke in the same strain after which Mr. Howard read a letter of congratulation from Rev. Fred B. Newman, of Trenton, who has always been interested in chapel work.

The last address was made by Superintendent Squires and was one of thankfulness for the congregation's freedom from debt. As he concluded the mortgage was placed in a receptacle and a match applied by Donald McInnis. As the paper was slowly consumed, the assemblage rose and sang "Blest be the Tie That Binds."

Adjournment was then taken to the Sunday-school room where a social time was had. The serving of refreshments brought the evening's exercises to a close.

The latter part of the affair was in charge of the social committee of the Ladies' Aid Society consisting of Mrs. Robert Gow, Mrs. Robert Hangliter., Mrs. Donald McInnis and Mrs. George Radford.

DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY MEET

Eighth Annual Session of State Council of N. J., D. of L., in Session Here.

SESSIONS BEGAN TODAY.

Most Important Business of the Morning Session Was the Receiving of Reports and Adoption of Amendments to By-Laws—Business to be Considered.

The eighth annual session of the State Council of New Jersey, Daughters of Liberty, convened this morning at 9 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, with a large number of delegates present.

This prosperous order has had a phenomenal growth since its inception. According to the annual report of the State secretary the net results for 1901 are: Three new Councils; 611 new members; $6,258.43 increase in worth of Councils; $961.09 in sick benefits and $136.50 in death benefits over the amount paid in 1900. The present membership is 12,260.

G. Albert Reining, State Council treasurer, reported total receipts for the year of $4,722.24 and disbursements, $3,480.35, leaving a balance of $1,241.89.

The officers presiding at the present session are as follows: State Councilor Mrs. Sara T. Rellstab, of Trenton; Associate Councillor Mrs. L. C. R. Wilson, of Newark, appointed in place of Mrs. Ella P. Yard, who is ill; State Vice Councillor Mrs. Mary L. Siefert, of Jersey City; State Associate Vice-Councillor Mrs. Bessie Long, of New Brunswick; Secretary W. L. Hayward, of Newark; Associate Secretary Mrs. Jennie B. Hayward, of Newark; Treasurer G. Albert Reining, of Port Richmond, S. I.; Associate Treasurer Mrs. Alice S. Apgar, of Elizabeth; Guide Mrs. Bertha H. Jones, of Jersey City; Inside Guard Mrs. Hester A. Shaw, of Newark; Outside Guard Clarence B. Runyon, of Newark; Junior Ex-Councillor Mrs. Elizabeth Packer, of Seabright; Junior Ex-Associate Councillor Mrs. Carrie Lippencott, of Washington.

The session was called to order this morning at 9 o'clock, and the first business was the receiving of the annual reports and action upon them. Then followed the receiving of amendments to the bylaws. Among the important amendments adopted was one charging the method of election of National representatives and officers.

The change was made so as to elect those receiving the highest number of votes on each ballot instead of by a majority vote. This business occupied most of the morning session, after which an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock.

When the convention convened this afternoon the first business was the consideration of several minor matters, after which the nominations of officers were made. The election will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. It is conceded that Mrs. Mary L. Siefert, of Jersey City, will be elected State councillor, but with the other officers there will probably be quite a contest.

The convention headquarters are at the Hotel Plainfield, where the State officers are stopping. Many of the delegates are being entertained at private homes, while a number are stopping at the other hotels in the city.

This evening the local Council will tender a reception to the State officers and delegates at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, when an entertainment will be given.

Ill feeling has existed between them and yesterday when they met at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, Moran, he alleges, struck him several times. Moran admitted the charges and offered no defense.

CONDITIONS FOR COMPETITIVE DRILLS HAVE BEEN ANNOUNCED.

For the Plainfield High School Cadet Battalion—To Make Promotions.

Examinations for commissioned officers for the Plainfield High School battalion will be held Saturday morning, May 10, at 8:30 o'clock, and this will be followed by examination for non-commissioned officers on the succeeding Saturday morning at the same hour. The successful candidates will assume their rank at the opening of the fall term.

It has been announced that the result of these examinations will be made known at the final drill on Thursday, May 29, and that the promotions will go into effect September 9. The company pennant, won by Company A, last spring, will be awarded to the company doing the best drill work at the exhibition. No date has been set for this exhibition.

As for the award in the contest for the commandant's medal the following conditions have been announced: Each company will be drilled by its own officers under the direction of National Guard officers. The latter will require cadets making mistakes to fall out and, when each company has been reduced to three cadets, a squad shall be formed of these twelve cadets under the command of the adjutant. When this squd has been reduced to three the judges shall decide among themselves which of the nubmer is the best and his name will be announced. The medal will be awarded on Commencement Day.

THEATRICAL.

Manager F. F. Proctor is planning many important productions by the Proctor Stock Company at his New York theatres, the earliest and most noteworthy being a revival of Joseph Arthur's "The Cherry Pickers." The scenery for this stupendous production is being built at Manager Proctor's studio, and the rehearsals will be conducted under the personal supervision of the author.

Full orchestras have been introduced at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth and Fifty-eighth Street theatres, and the distribution of handsome souvenirs to the women patrons of the matinees at these two theatres, and Proctor's, Newark, will be continued indefinitely. Handsome Easter calendars have been distributed recently, and they were immensely popular with the women.

Beautiful silver pin-trays, bearing the portraits of Miss Adelaide Keim, Miss Edna Archer Crawford, and Miss Mabel Montgomery, three of Proctor's most popular leading women, will soon be distributed at the matinees in the New York theatres mentioned. The pin-trays to be given out at Newark will bear a beautiful sketch of a photograph showing the front of Proctor's at night, resplendent with myriads of electric lights.

The Twenty-third Street theatre presents high class bills of continuous vaudeville at all times, and the refined vaudeville at Proctor's, Newark, packs that beautiful theatre twice daily.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

William T. Kirk, formerly sheriff of this county, is again spoken of very favorably as a candidate for re-election. It is urged in his favor that his former term was conducted successfully and in a business-like way, and now that a term has intervened since he retired from the office he is again eligible, under the law of this State. Mr. Kirk lives in Plainfield, and the talk of his renomination is quite manifest there. In the township, too, there is quite a stir in his favor.—Elizabeth Journal.

The county jail at New Brunswick had been popularly believed to have been something like a tent, where the prisoner remained as long as the food suited him. Now there is to be a new jail, and if the picture published in the New Brunswick "Times" gives any idea of what the stone and steel product will be like, then Middlesex will have a safe, strong ornamental jail. This will be a blessing for adjoining places, where there is always a suspicion that there may be an exodus of malefactors from that jail.—Jersey City Journal.

Mr. Besler, who has just been made general manager of the New Jersey Central Railroad, comes here with the highest possible recommendations from the people along the main line of the Reading road, where he has served with great acceptability, by reason of the fact that he is easily approached and willing to listen to the needs of the people. He has before him a difficult task to get the Central restored to its state of former efficiency and in this work he could be greatly assisted were he to bring here as Division Superintendent John Frech, a former well-known employe of this company and now holding an important place under the Reading management.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

Governor Murphy has appointed Friday, April 25, as Arbor day in New Jersey, and in his proclamation he recommends "that the teachers and pupils of our public and private schools, the faculties and students of our colleges and of our State schools, and the people generally, to devote the day to the planting of trees; shrubs and flowers, and the holding of appropriate exercises." But the governor does not stop at this recommendation. He makes another that is even more important. He says:

"And to the end that the interest awakened in our native birds be maintained, their beauty and economic value become better appreciated, and a more general effort be made to preserve them, I further recommend that the birds, as well as the trees, be included in each programme."

This is certainly an opportuntity that should not be overlooked. Trees are necessary to the welfare of this whole country. No less necessary are the birds. It would be impossible to live without them. Only in later years have these facts become widely known and generally appreciated, and even yet there is vast opportunity for instructing those who do not yet know all they should about trees and birds.—Elizabeth Journal.

New School at Mountainside.

It has been decided to open the new public school at Mountainside, Westfield, May 2, at which time there will be appropriate exercises. This school will be greatly appreciated in the section in which it is located.

BEEF TRUST INQUIRY.

United States Attorney In Chicago Ordered to Investigate.

CHICAGO, April 15.—United States Attorney S. H. Bethea, following instructions given by President Roosevelt and Attorney General Knox, will make a searching inquiry into the workings of the so called beef trust in Chicago in relation to the Sherman antitrust law.

The investigation will be secret, and when finished a full report will be furnished to Washington for the use of the attorney general in deciding what course his department will take against the packers charged with being in the combination.

District Attorney Bethea refused yesterday to discuss his plans or to reveal the nature of his instructions, but it was learned that he not only has received written instructions by mail, but while in Washington last week was advised personally to begin the inquiry.

Particular attention will be paid to the charge that the territory in the various states has been parceled out among the members of the so called trust, with the result of a sharp advance in all prices to the retailer.

COLOMBIA QUIET.

Revolutionists Inactive Since Defeat—Alban's Memory Honored.

COLON, Colombia, April 15.—According to the latest news received here, the interior of Colombia has been comparatively quiet since the defeat at Socacha, Feb. 23, of the Liberal general McAlister and his forces by 2,000 government troops under the command of General Valencia. In this engagement 400 men were killed, the government took 345 rebel prisoners and captured 800 rifles.

Reports have reached here that the Colombian revolutionary general Uribe-Uribe is now in the department of Colima, where he has twice suffered defeat at the hands of Generals Gutterriez and Pordemo, the vice president of the country.

According to a decree issued at Bogota, the Plaza de Armas of that city will henceforth be called the Plaza de Alban. It has been decided to erect a monument in this plaza at the expense of the government to the memory of the late General Carlos Alban, the governor of Panama, who was killed last January in the harbor of Panama during a naval engagement with the revolutionary forces.

NO TRUST BEEF.

New York Lunacy Commission to Buy and Slaughter Cattle.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 15.—The state lunacy commission has decided to purchase beef on its own account in order to avoid paying the price now charged by wholesale dealers. It has dispatched an agent to Buffalo to purchase Canadian cattle on the hoof and will have them slaughtered.

The commission purchases nearly a quarter of a million dollars' worth of beef a year. It is confident that by buying its beef on the hoof it will get just as good meat as it has been receiving and will not pay more than it did last year and will pay a good deal less than the trust prices.

Attorney General Davies has had several talks with Governor Odell regarding the commencement of an action against the beef trust similar to the one instituted against the ice trust. He has not decided on what action he will take.

Prince Henry Praises Us.

HAMBURG, April 15.—The Hamburger Correspondent says that Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia in a speech delivered at a banquet of the East Asiatic association last evening said: "This is a most welcome opportunity to look back for a few moments to the days I spent in the United States. I found in that country not only what is called on the other side of the Atlantic a dollar hunting nation, but a nation striving with all its energy to secure pure and ideal possessions. There prevails in the United States an intellectual and pleasant family life, and no better life can be found in this country. And where this life does not exist every effort is being made to attain it."

A Brutal Murder.

SALLISAW, I. T., April 15.—One of the most brutal murders ever committed in the Indian Territory took place a few miles east of Stilwell. A white man named Dudley killed his ten-year-old daughter, fatally wounded two other children and seriously injured his wife. Dudley has been brought to Sallisaw to prevent his being lynched. In jail Dudley confessed the crime. He said he had been talking to his family about his neighbors, and, fearing that they would repeat his statements and cause trouble, he determined to kill all four.

Palisades Park Bill Vetoed.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 15.—Governor Odell has vetoed the bill of Senator Goodsell giving the Palisades interstate park commission the power to add to the state park lands along the Hudson river in Rockland county lying between Piermont creek on the south and the state reservation of Stony Point on the north, beginning at and including Hook mountain, in Upper Nyack, Rockland county, and extending along the west bank of the Hudson river to the state reservation of Stony Point.

Five at One Birth.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 15.—Isaiah Rhodes of Baileys Gap, Ulster county, announces in this city that his daughter, Mrs. James McGowan, aged twenty-eight, of Tucker's Corners, a hamlet in Ulster county, gave birth to five children, all girls, and that all are doing well. Mrs. McGowan's other children are a son and a pair of twins.

THE BRITISH BUDGET

Deficit of $225,000,000 to Be Provided For.

HEAVY LOAN AND INCREASED TAXATION

Chancellor Hicks-Beach Announces to Commons a Duty on Corn and All Grains—News of Severe Fighting In the Transvaal.

LONDON, April 15.—Not for many years had Great Britain's fiscal programme been awaited with such interest as that which attached to this year's announcement, and there is no doubt that all the proposals contained in it will be adopted. It is equally certain that none of these proposals will meet with the unanimous approval of either side of the house.

More important perhaps than the curious forms of the new taxation is the statement made by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer, that the government had acceded to the Boer demand concerning the restocking of farms.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, chancellor of the exchequer, rose at 4:23 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the house of commons, which was crowded in every corner, to make the government's budget statement. He was received with general cheers. He opened his speech by declaring that the year 1901 did not afford any special guidance to the national prosperity.

Sir Michael announced that the government proposed to borrow £32,000,000.

The government's proposals also include a registration duty on corn and all grain of threepence per hundredweight.

There will be a penny tax on dividend warrants, and stamps on checks will be twopence.

The income tax is to be increased a penny in the pound.

Sir Michael rejected the suggestion for an increase in the duty on champagne, because the revenue from this source had fallen off in 1901, and the result would be that spurious wines would be placed on the market.

The statement showing the revenue and expenditures presented in the house of commons by the chancellor of the exchequer when opening the budget announcements showed a total ordinary expenditure for 1902-03 estimated at £129,159,000, with war charges amounting to £45,450,000, making a grand total of £174,609,000, which is £12,993,000 below the total for 1901-02. The chancellor of the exchequer estimated the deficit for the present year at £26,824,000.

To the deficit must be added £16,000,000 to £17,000,000 additional war expenditures. The grand total of the deficit is £45,000,000.

The chancellor of the exchequer said he had hopes of a happy result from the conference in South Africa, but he had put them aside. Preparations for the continuance of the war were the best guarantee of peace.

He estimated the revenue for this year on the basis of the present taxation at £147,785,000, not including the cost of gratuities at the end of the war, the transporting of troops home, etc.

News of severe fighting in different sections of the Transvaal at the end of last week has been sent by Lord Kitchener, who reports that about 200 Boers were killed, wounded or captured. The British casualties were about 100. The British also captured three guns and a considerable quantity of supplies. Commandant Potgieter was among the Boers killed.

The casualty list published last evening shows that the Eighth New Zealand regiment lost thirteen men killed and fifteen injured on April 12 in a railroad accident near Machivie.

Noted Minister Critically Ill.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—The Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Scoville, son-in-law of the late Henry Ward Beecher and assistant pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, who has been ill at the Presbyterian hospital in this city for several weeks, is in a critical condition, and the attending physicians said last night there is only a slight chance of his recovery. Dr. Scoville was admitted to the hospital on March 23, suffering with stomach troubles induced by a complication of diseases. He had shown considerable improvement until a few days ago, when he suffered a relapse.

Governor Dole Sustained.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The following official statement has been made at the White House: "The president, after most careful investigation and seeing as many men as possible and hearing from others, has come to the conclusion that Governor Dole's course has been such as to warrant his continuance as governor of Hawaii and entitle him to the respect and hearty support of the administration."

Labor Federationists Meet.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has begun a week's session at which matters of vital importance to the labor interests of the country will come before the members, both in regard to legislation pending in congress and determination of questions affecting the interests of many workmen engaged in controversies with their employers.

Wisconsin Miners Strike.

FLORENCE, Wis., April 15.—The miners employed in the mine of the Florence and Iron River Mining company have struck in a body. The fires were drawn, and the mine is rapidly filling with water. The trouble was caused over the discharge of the mine physician. Over a hundred men are affected.

CONDITIONS OF PEACE

Proposals Under Consideration at Pretoria Outlined.

TERMS ARE FAVORABLE TO BOERS.

Absolute Independence a Secondary Matter, Depending on Agreements Regarding the Future Internal Government.

THE HAGUE, April 15.—From those close in touch with the Boer leaders it appears that the latest secret dispatches from South Africa outline the peace proposals now under discussion at Pretoria. They closely follow the summary given on Saturday last by The Evening News of Edinburgh, with the following additional details:

The Boers accept a British lord commissioner, with a Boer executive, both to be resident at Pretoria. The country to be divided into districts, with British district officers and a Boer committee, chosen (by polling) by the burghers. The veto right to be reserved to the British government. The majority of the British officers must be conversant with the Dutch language. Johannesburg to be reroceded to the British, with complete British civil organization. A war indemnity of at least £10,000,000, to be distributed by mixed committees. Disarmament to occur when the first batch of Boer prisoners is sent back to South Africa. No war tax to be levied. Both languages to be recognized in the schools and courts and in official documents. The expense of the garrisons in South Africa to be borne by Great Britain. The present Boer leaders to be retained in office so far as possible.

The Edinburgh Evening Post, whose editor is in close touch with Mr. Kruger, announced on Saturday last that it had the highest authority for declaring that the Boers were prepared to accept the following conditions:

They will not make absolute independence a cardinal feature if they can come to a satisfactory agreement as to future internal government.

The banishment and confiscation of property proclamation must be canceled, and confiscated property must be restored to its owners, with remuneration for private stock and property destroyed or taken by the British.

Full recognition of state debts contracted before and after hostilities and up to the date of the annexation proclamation issued by Lord Roberts. The language question to be mutually agreed upon. Amnesty for the Cape rebels. The release of all political prisoners. A date to be fixed when all prisoners of war will be returned to South Africa. The offices of one or two friendly powers to be accepted to superintend the carrying out of the terms of peace.

Stolen Gems Found.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 15.—Frank S. Wood, aged thirty-five, a traveling salesman for a large wholesale and retail crockery house of this city, has been arrested and is held for the grand jury on the charge of receiving stolen property, knowing it to have been stolen. In Wood's possession was found over $2,000 worth of diamonds, watches and jewelry, supposed to have been stolen from the French House at 136 Scio street in a sensational robbery of that establishment last fall and for which Joseph Sharpe is now serving a thirteen year sentence in Auburn and two others are awaiting trial. The property found in Wood's possession has been positively identified by Mrs. French and Mrs. Gardiner, the two aged women who were robbed. Not all the property stolen from the French House was found on Wood, but from pawn tickets found in his possession it is evident that Wood had already disposed of a part of the plunder during his travels.

Settlement of Strike In Sight.

DUBOIS, Pa., April 15.—General Manager Robinson of the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron company met President Mitchell and the district officers of the United Mine Workers, together with delegates from the different mines in this region, at Punxsutawney in a conference lasting five hours. As a result of the conference it is generally felt that within a few days the strike of the bituminous miners will be declared off. Neither President Mitchell, the district officers, delegates nor Mr. Robinson would give out the results of the conference.

To Increase Pensions.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The senate committee on pensions has ordered a favorable report on a bill granting increases of pensions to soldiers who have lost arms, legs or feet. The increase will be $15 per month each and will increase the annual pension appropriation bill $1,300,000. The committee also ordered a favorable report on a bill increasing from $30 to $40 per month the pension of those who are totally deaf. This will increase the pension appropriations $28,000 annually.

Lord Pauncefote Suffering.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Within the last few days Lord Pauncefote, the British embassador, has been suffering from a renewal of his attack of rheumatic gout. The ailment has a very wearing effect upon the embassador, and it is hoped that warm weather will bring greater freedom from its troublesome visitations.

King Edward Saw "Ben-Hur."

LONDON, April 15.—King Edward witnessed the production of "Ben-Hur" at the Drury Lane theater last night and, remarkably enough, from the vantage ground of the pit. His majesty was greatly pleased with the play and sat out the entire performance.

FORAKER ON EXCLUSION.

Ohio Senator Opposes Drastic House Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Chinese exclusion bill occupied the attention of the senate throughout the day. Senators Foraker and McLaurin making extended speeches in opposition. Mr. Foraker contended that the pending measure was violative of our treaty with China and was calculated to prevent our commercial expansion in the far east. While strongly supporting the policy of the government to exclude Chinese laborers, the Ohio senator maintained that this could be best accomplished by an extension of the present law, holding that the drastic provisions of the pending bill would cut off our cotton trade with China and thus wreck the cotton industry of the south.

Mr. Teller briefly responded to Mr. Foraker, urging that the right to abrogate treaties was fully recognized.

Mr. Lodge (Mass.) gave notice of an amendment striking out the much discussed clause prohibiting the employment of Chinese sailors on American ships.

Interest in the Cuban reciprocity debate in the house seems to be waning, judged by the attendance on the floor, but the earnestness of the speeches on both sides of the question increase rather than diminish in intensity. That the Republican opponents of the bill are determined to prolong the struggle as much as possible was made manifest by their refusal to allow speeches to be printed in The Record.

A BLOW TO CASTRO.

A Large Body of Troops Desert and Join the Revolutionists.

WILLEMSTAD, Island of Curacao, April 15.—According to advices received here, General Montenegro, president of the state of Cojedes, has turned against President Castro. Together with 800 men, he left San Carlos, the capital of Cojedes, last Saturday morning and joined a force of 450 revolutionists under Luciano Mandoza. These revolutionists purpose marching toward Valencia, the capital of the state of Carabobo, which is only three days distant from San Carlos. The defection of General Montenegro is believed to be a serious blow for President Castro, and it is said here that several other government generals will follow Montenegro's example.

The various revolutionary bands are joining forces and in two or more larger bodies, numbering about 2,000 men each, have been marching in the direction of Valencia for the last few days.

General Obdulio Bello, one of President Castro's faithful followers, and the troops under his command were routed last Saturday near El Palito, a small village about seven miles west of Porto Cabello.

It is believed here that the Venezuelan revolution will now progress actively.

KINGDOM CONVULSED

Agitation For Universal Suffrage Shakes Belgium.

A GENERAL STRIKE INAUGURATED.

Work Stopped In Mines and Factories—Plot to Kill King Leopold Frustrated—The Queen's Serious Illness.

BRUSSELS, April 15.—Belgium is under military rule, and upon the faithfulness of the army depends the stability of the monarchy.

Further riots are expected when the orders of the Socialist committee for a general strike are obeyed.

Thirty-five thousand soldiers are now on guard in the provinces. A large percentage of these are massed in Charleroi, Bearange and Liege, where the miners went on a strike yesterday.

At Charleroi 15,000 out of the 40,000 coal miners have already stopped work.

From Mons troops have started for different points in the Borinage district, in the province of Hainault, to the south of Mons.

At Cuesmes, a town in the province of Hainault, three miles south of Mons, 5,000 strikers assembled around the state arsenal with the object of stopping work.

The day passed here in perfect tranquility. Several meetings were held in the suburbs during the evening. M. Van der Velde and other Socialist leaders made violent speeches in the vicinity of the Maison du Peuple, but order was maintained. This fact was mainly due to the conspicuous absence of the police, especially the gendarmery, whose excess of zeal has been the chief cause of collisions during the past few days.

The civic guard formed in cordons around the Maison du Peuple, and their sensible attitude kept the crowds in good humor.

Dispatches received here from the mining and industrial regions indicate the existence of a serious situation with regard to the strike. This has even extended to the textile workers at Ghent. Except from Huy no reports of grave disturbances have been received. At Huy the striking quarrymen had an encounter with the gendarmes, in which several men on both sides were injured. One gendarme was fatally wounded, and another escaped by swimming the river.

It now develops that the first outbreak of violence was coincident with an attempt that was to be made on the life of the king at Biarritz. The plot was frustrated by his return to Brussels earlier than was anticipated.

The news of Queen Marie Henriette's condition has not had a quieting effect on the mob. She is suffering from heart disease, complicated with dropsy, and three physicians have hurried from here to Spain to consult with her physicians. News of the disorders has been kept from her.

Story of Hallenbeck's Murder.

HUDSON, N. Y., April 15.—Harvey Bruce, who turned state's evidence in the Van Wormer-Hallenbeck murder case, went through a terrible ordeal when he took the stand yesterday. He was made to tell the whole story of his and his cousins' doings on Dec. 24, when Peter A. Hallenbeck met his death at his own home. He went over foot by foot the entire ride of thirty-six miles to the Hallenbeck home and return, rehearsing the tale as though from a book. His story sounded more like one out of a dime novel than a real occurrence. When turned over to ex-Judge Cady for cross examination, he did not flinch once, only adding if anything to the strong web of evidence already woven, especially concerning the second oldest of the Van Wormer boys, Burton. Bruce said that Burton was the ringleader and director of the expedition.

Mormon Missionaries Expelled.

BERLIN, April 15.—Two Mormon missionaries, Americans, Lorenzo Walker and Josef Zwahles, have been expelled by the police from Insterburg, east Prussia, as objectionable characters. The Mormons now have upward of 100 missionaries in Germany. For several months they have been actively engaged in a propaganda. The police of Berlin and other large cities grant them permits to meet freely. The Berlin Mormon congregation numbers 1,000 persons.

Sheepmen Buying Grazing Lands.

OMAHA, Neb., April 15.—Fifty thousand acres of grazing land have been purchased by a party of sheepmen of western Wyoming. The land lies along the Union Pacific railroad and is grant land. These sales are said to be the first of a large number to be consummated in the near future. The buying of the land, said one of the purchasers, is part of a plan of the sheep raisers to force the cattlemen out of the district, over which there has been so much strife.

New York Pastor Dead.

TRYON, N. C., April 15.—The Rev. Charles H. Eaton is dead here of angina pectoris. The body on its arrival in New York will be placed in the Memorial chapel of the Church of the Divine Paternity, and the family will go to the Hotel Majestic. Dr. Eaton was pastor of the church.

Aged Bride Dies Suddenly.

NYACK, N. Y., April 15.—Mrs. Cloyd H. Barker, a wealthy resident of South Nyack, fell dead of heart disease in her home here. She was seventy-four years old and was married to Barker, who is thirty-three years old, at Key West on March 28.

THE SEWAGE QUESTION.

It is understood that all the members of the Borough Sewage Commission are not in favor of the plan of sewage disposal, endorsed by the majority. There is a minority which favors the establishment of a sewer to tide water. That sewer to tide water has long been desired by people in Plainfield but careful investigation has shown that it would not be practical for this city to undertake alone. If the cost would be too great for Plainfield, it would be folly for the borough of North Plainfield to undertake it. Even the consolidation of the city and borough would still find it out of reach unless some of the neighboring municipalities should unite with Greater Plainfield.

It looks as if a union of interests of the municipalities of this part of the State is the only possible way whereby there is any chance of the plan being realized. Some of the cities and towns of Union and Essex counties have started on a trunk sewer to the Kill Von Kuhl which will care for all their sewage. It is possible that Plainfield might participate in some such union of interests but past investigations have shown that there is no chance of this city building a sewer to tide-water. Its cost would be prohibitive while the expense of maintenance would be a large figure.

It may be possible that the Borough Commission can throw some new light on the situation but it is not likely that the many careful investigations of the city authorities have overlooked any important points that would make it possible for the borough to undertake what the city could not.

The Daily Press was able to present to its readers the first picture of the new home for Muhlenberg Hospital, which was published in these columns yesterday. It was made from the preliminary drawing of the architects, Tracy & Swartout. With such a series of buildings located there, no property owner in that vicinity can complain about the appearance of them.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

For anything in the picture line, whether it be engravings, paintings or etchings go to Swain on West Front street. He also sells artists' materials.

A list of R. H. Keenan's specials is printed in The Daily Press every day. Watch the columns for some of the best bargains to be had in the grocery line. Keenan delivers all orders.

No matter how perfect your system is it is well to tone the body with a spring medicine. Druggist Armstrong has a tonic, which is highly recommended. Stop in and inquire about it.

To thoroughly enjoy these bright and balmy spring days one should get out in the open air. At a small cost a nobby rubber tired runabout can be hired at the livery stable of Andrew Love, Jr., on East Second street.

Although it isn't built like a watch yet you cannot be too careful with your bicycle. When it needs repairs don't be foolish by taking it to some incompetent person. VanWinkle, of North avenue, is an expert. See him.

"It's never too late to mend" is a truthful axiom, but it wasn't meant to apply to the watchmaker's trade. If your timepiece is out of gear or refuses to work, take it to Brown, the expert, in Hand's block on Watchung avenue.

Neuman Brothers, the Watchung avenue grocers, still continues to be headquarters for fresh vegetables. They receive new consignments every day and the fact that they dispose of them all is a guarantee that they have nothing but the best.

This week there will be a continuation of the carpet sale at Hill & Shupp and there will be many bargains in fine carpets. The North Star refrigerator, one of the best, is also advertised and there will be new features in the millinery department.

John H. Doane, the West Front street shoe dealer, is making a fine window display of spring and summer boots and oxfords with price card on every pair. He is anxious that you should compare Plainfield prices with what you have to pay in the larger cities where expenses are so much greater.

OFFER TO RECEIVER.

Made for Lots at Lincoln Reserved at Time of Sale Last Summer.

An offer of $500 for sundry lots reserved at the time of the sale of the New Jersey Mutual Realty Company's property last summer has been made to the receiver, James P. Northrop, of the borough. Contracts to the purchase of these lots had been made, but nothing had been made thereon. The prospect of realizing anything from the contracts was deemed slight at the time of the sale, and all these lots are subject to mortgages.

Receiver Northrop will present this offer to the Chancellor, in chamber, in Jersey City, on Monday, April 21, at 10 o'clock, and will ask for the approval of his recommendation to accept the same. Objections on the part of those in interest, namely creditors and stockholders of the realty company will be heard at that time.

NOT SATISFIED WITH A VOTE

ANTI-ANNEXATIONISTS WANTED MORE THAN THE REFERENDUM.

A. V. D. Honeyman Writes Concerning Stand Made by Opposition at Senate Hearing.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—It having been reported in your columns that those who attended the Senate hearing, March 18, at Trenton, to oppose the annexation and consolidation measures, were there asked by Senator Reed whether they would be "satisfied" if both bills contained referendum sections, and that they assented thereto, I beg herewith to say:

First, that during that hearing, when those who were authorized to speak in opposition were present, no suggestion was made, no word offered, by Senator Reed or anyone else, proposing to insert in the annexation bill a referendum.

Second, that inasmuch as the proposition was not made to us it could not have been accepted by us.

Third, that at a conference of many opposed to both bills held the day previously, Mr. Place and myself were selected and authorized to speak for them at the Senate hearing. We, with others, were obliged to leave after making our addresses in order to attend the annual borough school-meeting. This was about one hour after the hearing began. Next day we learned that shortly after we left, the Senator asked if we would be "satisfield" with a referendum. Had we been present, our reply would undoubtedly have been that, while that was a point gained and lessened the viciousness of the annexation measure in form, yet neither measure was acceptable nor desired.

I may add that the Senator's allusion to myself in his Saturday's "interview," in which he states that he is "informed in effect that if I had known that the (annexation) bill would be so amended, I would not have gone to Trenton at all," proves that he has been misinformed and that somebody is grievously mistaken.

That I have taken no stock whatever in these bills ought to be clear from the fact that I have, since that hearing, laid before the Governor the signed protests of almost six hundred taxpayers and citizens of North Plainfield borough against his approval of them.

A. V. D. Honeyman.

April 14, 1902.

The undersigned concur in the correctness of what occurred at the hearing referred to.

That Is What Foreign Critics May Learn to Call Us.

Foundry Church, an Edifice of National Interest, to Be Demolished to Make Room for an Office Building.

[Special Washington Letter.]

LEAF by leaf the roses fall; drop by drop the springs run dry. One by one our lares and penates are taken from us. Gradually the landmarks are being removed, so that modern and future Washington will not know the original capital city.

In the old world the relics of antiquity are preserved and venerated; as likewise also are the mementoes of current events of national or international importance carefully retained for the benefit of posterity. In our new world there is nothing ancient, and our people seem to care nothing for the likelihood or possibility of the coming of a time when the people might be glad to have some tangible reminders of great men and great events; some memorabilia of the times in which we of to-day live and have our being.

Where stood the residence of ex-President John Quincy Adams, while he was a member of congress fighting for the right of petition, there is now a tall iron structure veneered with marble, which is used as an office building. The Adams residence was destroyed with an adjoining house in which Daniel Webster lived when he prepared and delivered his greatest public utterances, in which he carefully prepared his speech in reply to Hayne, of South Carolina, the speech which all of the school boys have read and memorized, containing the oft-quoted sentence; "Liberty and union, now and forever; one and inseparable."

On the site of the old Washington club, a place famous in ante-bellum days, beside the portals of which Daniel E. Sickels killed Phil Barton Key; a house in which William H. Seward, secretary of state, resided when he was assaulted and left for dead by an assassin on the night when Abraham Lincoln was killed; a house which was for many years the home of James G. Blaine, and in which that most distinguished political leader breathed his last, there stands to-day a theater. And there is nothing, neither stone nor tablet, to mark it as one of the historic spots of this city. With the passing of the present generation, the historic associations will also fade.

History will always record the fact that President Lincoln was shot by Booth in Ford's theater, on Tenth street in this city. But the old building was not preserved. On the contrary, it was transformed so that it bears no resemblance to the place in which Lincoln was shot, and can never be restored to that former condition. For well-nigh 30 years it has been occupied by the surgeon general's office of the war department, and it is filled with shelves bearing records of the sick and wounded soldiers receiving treatment during the war of the rebellion.

There is a bill before congress providing for the purchase and preservation of Fort Stevens battlefield park, a large tract of land in the District of Columbia, north of this city; but it is almost entirely too late. The ground upon which was fought the battle of July 12, 1864, has been taken by real estate agents, and a great deal of it has been subdivided for sale as suburban lots. And yet this spot is historic because on the date mentioned the forces under the confederate general Early came within five miles of the capitol building, within four miles of the white house and treasury. They were after the bullion of the treasury, and also expected to capture President Lincoln at the same time. Gen. Grant sent the "fighting Sixth" corps to the rescue. They arrived just in the nick of time, and drove away the invading veterans of the southland. Almost 40 years have elapsed, and not until within a week has any bill ever been introduced for the purpose of preserving this historic ground.

On Pennsylvania avenue, within one block of the treasury, there stood a famous hotel which has been destroyed to make room for a modern structure. The old hostelry was built in 1836 and was originally used by the post office department. From its portals there went forth for inauguration as presidents of the United States Martin Van Buren, James K. Polk, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, James Buchanan, Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes and James A. Garfield. But that landmark exists no more. It is gone.

And now they are tearing down the walls of one of the oldest churches in this city, a place where many eminent men in public life have worshiped, the spiritual home of several presidents, and one beneath the roof of which William McKinley often listened to the preaching of the Word, and where he was sometimes heard in prayer meetings.

The Foundry Methodist church was only one block north of the hotel where Congressman McKinley resided for many years, and on every Sunday morning he walked there with his invalid wife during the many years of his service in the national house of representatives. He became well acquainted with all of the members of the church, and frequently took part in their services of prayer and praise. After he was inaugurated as president the people of the old Foundry were bitterly disappointed when Mr. McKinley went to the Metropolitan church in another part of the city. He did so at the earnest insistence of his old friend Bishop Newman, who had been pastor of the Metropolitan when Grant, Logan and other eminent men of that day had been worshipers there.

John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, James K. Polk and Abraham Lincoln often worshiped there. President Hayes and his wife were active members of this church during the four years of their residence in the white house. Grant, Cleveland, Harrison, Garfield and Arthur have at times attended service in the same place. And now the walls are coming down. This landmark will soon be a reminiscence to those who are fast following to the tomb the men and women whose spiritual welfares have been conserved on the hallowed spot.

The Foundry church was erected originally by one of the converts of John Wesley, in England. Henry W. Foxhall was converted in the old Foundry chapel, in London, where John Wesley held forth in the days of his might as an exhorter and reformer. Foxhall came to this country, settled in Georgetown, and established there a gun foundry, which furnished field pieces for the American army in the war of 1812. The battle of Lake Erie was postponed for some weeks in order to give Foxhall time to complete some cannons for Perry's fleet and transport them to the lakes. When the British held possession of this city in 1814, and were destroying the white house, capitol and other public buildings, they planned the destruction of Foxhall's foundry and intended to capture Foxhall and deal with him summarily, claiming that he had never ceased to be a citizen of Great Britain, while furnishing guns for the American government. It was planned that on August 26 a regiment should go to the Foxhall foundry and wreak vengeance. But as the soldiers were drawn up in line for the expedition a cyclone came which prevented them from moving, and when the roads were again passable they were sent elsewhere.

FOUNDRY METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, WASHINGTON.

The devout Foxhall saw in this storm a providential interposition, and he declared that he would build a church and dedicate it to the God whom he worshiped. He owned the valuable corner lots on Fourteenth and G streets, deeded them to a little church organization, and thereon erected the church which he caused to be named after the old Foundry chapel of John Wesley, in London.

The matchlessly eloquent Bishop Mathey Simpson was holding a missionary meeting in Old Foundry one evening, and was raising funds with which to send the Gospel to the heathen, when some one proposed to make President Lincoln, who was present, an honorary member of the missionary society. Membership cost $100 for each individual. A subscription was started at once, the first subscription being $20, when Mr. Lincoln arose, and stretching forth his long arm with index finger pointed at the bishop, cried out: "This is the first time in my life that I was ever put on the block. Let me pay my own money, and take me down." There were shouts of laughter, and Mr. Lincoln paid the money out of his own pocket, and became a member of the society.

The trustees have been directed to secure ground elsewhere and build thereon another church and they can do so with the large amount of money which has been received for the old property. They will perpetuate the name of the Foundry church, but the landmark will be gone just the same.

And the church where Grover Cleveland and his wife worshiped is also soon to give way to the march of business interests.

Velvet Trimmings Are Much Used. Short Sack Coats.

Tiny sack coats quaintly plaited and made in tiers will appear in warmer weather, and many have stole ends and a frill or plaiting at the neck to suggest the fashionable ruffle. The habit coat is to be worn and has already been adopted by the ladies' tailor, but it has been curtailed to fit in with the fancy for short coats.

Velvet is being used lavishly on smart gowns, and some novel and effective applications of both piece and velvet ribbon were shown in a recent creation by a prominent modiste. The costume, which was of fine pale blue cloth, was cut at intervals on each side to admit of a strip of dark brown velvet ribbon being darned through after the effective fashion introduced last year. At the bottom was a wide band of brown velvet, over which the edges of the cloth were scalloped. The blouse coat also had the velvet darned through the wide collar, which was enriched with applications of lace.

Irregular figures of black velvet are very smart when appliqued on lace and chiffon gowns.

The picture shows a simple evening gown. It is made of pale blue crepe de chine striped gauzy fabric. The waist has a wide folded belt of pale blue silk, and the decolletage is outlined with a wide frill of lace, which falls over the wide belt like a bolero. The skirt has two plaited ruffles headed by four shirrings; the train is very long and flaring. The sleeves are mere puffs of the thin blue material, and directly in front a bunch of shaded artificial flowers adds to the artistic effect.

FRILLS OF FASHION.

Dainty Touches Seen on Smart Gowns.

Blouse fronts are being replaced by genuine sleeveless waistcoats made just like those for masculine wear. They are copied exactly from those worn in the eighteenth century, and the idea is to reproduce by needlework the old fancy stuffs. For instance, a cream cloth will be dotted with black chenille points or when a striped red or blue satin and velvet is used the black dots are carried all down the satin stripes. More elaborate specimens have borders of iris in natural colors on a cream ground, or on cloth of gold edelweiss blossoms are worked in white or neutral tinted chenille.

Black silk and croquet insertions are made on purpose to lay over white satin ribbon. This makes an admirable trimming for a black silk or cloth gown.

The dress in the illustration is of white mousseline de soie over liberty satin. The waist is trimmed with a loosely hanging and irregularly shaped collar made of the mousseline embroidered in silver. The upper halves of the sleeves are also made of this embroidery, and the lower halves consist of huge tulle puffs. At the left of the corsage in front is a bunch of violets. The skirt is slightly fulled into the belt, and it has a full flounce headed by three rows of triple shirrings.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Pitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"Tie 'em on," continued Guy, pointing to the glasses. "If they were mine they'd give me nervous prostration. I don't know but they will anyhow."

"I get so mad sometimes," admitted Mr. Pinchbeck, "that I feel as though I could swear." He put the glasses in his pocket. "Nearsighted, you know, and can't tell a dog from a wildcat across the street."

"I was asking what you know about Miss Vlandingham?" said Guy.

"So you were. Miss Vlandingham, Mr. Herbert, is one of the cleverest young women I have ever seen. Her mind is by far the brightest of any in the rival town. She'll give you the fight of your life and I'm inclined to think that her town will win. She's a girl of infinite resource that the episode of this morning clearly illustrates the spectacular way she has of doing things. Gracious! Think of a woman deliberately donning a disguise and coming deliberately into a hotbed of partisanship like this!" Mr. Pinchbeck seemed so overcome by the thought that he found it impossible to continue for several moments. "You are a young man without much experience, Mr. Herbert," he said, finally, "and I'd like to give you a word of advice. Will you accept it in a kindly spirit?"

"Certainly, Mr. Pinchbeck. What have you to offer?"

"Amityville is the key to this county seat situation. One lot of imported voters will offset the other and as Amityville goes so goes the election. Do you catch on?"

"I think I do."

"Personally, I have little choice between Concord and Harmony. Still, my profits, if this town is victorious, will be slightly greater, as the blocks are four lots larger. Hence this tip, Mr. Herbert. Get a county map and study it."

Mr. Pinchbeck got up, walked over to the cigar case and took out a cigar, laying a nickel in the box for such purpose made and provided.

The principle of gain was too firmly wrought into Mr. Pinchbeck's nature for Guy to estimate him very highly as a man, but he had furnished the youth with a good deal of mental pabulum.

Every makeshift and design in the rival towns appeared to cluster about the personality of Miss Betty—Miss Betty with her Titian hair and melting eyes—as dauntless as she was charming, as brave as she was resourceful. She had met Col. Keever's most diplomatic move, bringing in voters from Bismarck to offset those from Jamestown. The contest was assuming proportions which made Guy extremely dubious of the result. Miss Betty was likely to win the county seat away from him and his heart along with it. After an hour's fruitless reflection Guy borrowed a county map of Pedro, fortified himself with a good cigar and went up to his room to consider the question of Amityville.

This village was the only other town in Goodwill county. A marginal note on the map informed Guy that its population was only about thirty-five. These thirty-five were undoubtedly favorable to Harmony, for Amityville lay to the west of that town and consequently nearer to it than to Concord. In order for Harmony to present a petition containing the names of two-thirds of the qualified voters in the county, Amityville must have signed it to a man. Here was a good field for effort, Guy thought. Why could he not go over there and talk to the people? He came to a conclusion just as the bell rang. He was thoroughly determined to go to Amityville in the course of a few days and try his hand at electioneering.

When he came out of his room he saw Pettibone sitting in the hall beside his door. The young man was surprised at the sheriff's presence, but made no comment.

"What did you do with Barney?" Mr. Pettibone?" asked Guy.

"He's confined in a room over Pingree's that we use as a jail."

"What's to be done with him?"

"Judge Waffle will have to decide that."

Pettibone was most companionable. He not only accompanied Guy downstairs, but sat at table with him during supper, followed him out on the porch for an evening smoke, chatted with him until bedtime and then accompanied him upstairs again to his room. A cot was standing in the hall beside Guy's door in place of the chair.

"See here, Pettibone," said Guy, "you're a nice fellow, and all that, but don't you think you're crowding me pretty close?"

"Well, no," answered Pettibone, after a brief period of thought.

"What does this mean, anyway?"

"The Colonel and a lot more didn't like the way you carried on this morning, and they wanted me to lock you up along with Barney. But I told 'em no. Then they insisted that I should have to watch you and be responsible for you if I didn't put you under lock and key. I says all right, and that's why I'm here. I'm a good feller, as you've just been kind enough to say, and I'm dead sure you're another, so we're going to get along without any friction, ain't we?"

"We'll try to," laughed Guy.

"And in the morning," continued Pettibone, "we'll go to the circus."

"Circus?" echoed Guy. "What circus, Pettibone?"

"Well, the case of Keever vs. Liscomb is going to be tried before Judge Waffle, and if we don't have a show with all but the rings and the canvas I'll miss my guess. Good night."

Guy bade the sheriff good night and went into the room and closed the door.

The people of his own town had turned against him! The matter was becoming interesting, and the interest was likely to increase instead of diminish.

CHAPTER IX.

On the following morning, shortly before the judicial hour of ten, Guy and Pettibone proceeded to the building containing the drug store and ascended to the second story. Here was the courtroom and likewise the small apartment utilized as a jail. Unlocking the door of the latter chamber, Pettibone requested Barney to come forth. The prisoner obeyed, and when he saw Guy he pressed close to him and asked in a low tone, while the sheriff busied himself relocking the door:

"Did you give me away?"

"No," replied Guy, "and I will not. If you can get clear, Barney, go back to Harmony and stay there. That will be the safest and best thing you can do."

Barney nodded as the sheriff joined them and they started for the courtroom.

As has been stated, Christopher Waffle owned a threshing outfit. His profession was that of an itinerant thresher of grain; incidentally, as will be remembered, he was also justice of the peace.

There was, in Christopher Waffle, a certain warmth of originality and sharpness of purpose that had earned him the sobriquet of "Hot Waffle." But Christopher Waffle cared not for public opinion, good or ill. He made it his exclusive aim to please Waffle, J. P., and thus was always sure of being on good terms with himself, whatever might be the state of his feelings toward the rest of mankind.

When Guy, Barney and Pettibone entered the room, the judge had not yet arrived. Col. Keever was there, however, his white hat severely set upon his ample brows—mute testimony of his mental condition. There, also, was Lem Bilkins, twisted about a chair in close proximity to the Colonel and watching his every movement with an admiration that was almost soulful. Glimmer was there—Mrs. Glimmer having agreed to look after the Emporium during his absence—and Pinney, the druggist, and Leffingwell, proprietor of the livery stable, and Sampson, and Mr. Barberry, who was supposed to be a lawyer and who possessed a painfully meager form, a hatchet face, had an impediment in his speech and had been retained by the defense. Others were present, but none especially noteworthy. The buzz of conversation ceased abruptly upon the coming of the sheriff with his prisoners—for it was plain that Guy was considered in the light of a malefactor, spared the odium of imprisonment merely because of Pettibone and upon the latter's responsibility.

Frigid looks were directed at Guy by every one except—strange as it may appear—the redoubtable Colonel. The manager of the Townsite company had slept upon the incidents of the preceding afternoon and had come to the conclusion that he had been somewhat hasty with Guy. Solely by grace of the young man he was directing the affairs of the town. The office was no sinecure, but if Concord won in the contest his paper would "boom" and his nest would be feathered in other ways. For these reasons, the glances he shot in Guy's direction were of the sorrowful and injured-but-forgiving kind.

A chair, a table, a glass and a broken water pitcher were awaiting the judge, who finally arrived. He was clad in overalls carelessly tucked into his boot tops, was in his shirt sleeves and carried an oil can in one hand and a bunch of "waste" in the other. Bill Comfort, bearing a large book, was close to his employer's heels.

"It looks as though you people never would get through lawin'," growled the judge. "Here it is, only two months from the biggest harvest we have had in the territory yet, and I've got to leave my threshing machine and come here."

At this point his honor exchanged his oil can and bunch of waste for the book.

CAN'T KEEP IT UP.

Can't Deceive Plainfield People Very Long—They Learn Quickly.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. We are naturally skeptical when reading a published statement given by some stranger residing in a far-away place, but the circumstances are entirely different when home endorsement is presented. The testimony of local citizens renders deceit impossible. It is so easy for you to investigate. Read this case:

Mrs. Henry Bender, of 118 West Front street, says: "I suffered almost constantly from a dull aching pain across my back and hips. Any hard work always increased it. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping, and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could not get relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles as mine, got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and obtained a great deal of relief from them. In my estimation and from my experience Doan's Kidney Pills are a good reliable kidney medicine."

MARRIED A FORTUNE

Thing Was Done in Haste, But Has Not Been Repented.

Penniless Doctor Out in Oklahoma Weds Charity Patient, Who Develops an Acute, Incurable Case of Plutocracy.

A poverty that was too bitter to be endured has been the making of D. C. Gideon, a St. Louis newspaper man, who now owns 1,200 acres of fertile land in the Choctaw country.

Fortune was fairly forced on Gideon. It came without his knowing it, and he would have had a hard time escaping had he tried. Because Gideon was too poor to do anything else he married a girl who was as poor as himself. Later he learned that she was one-eighth Choctaw. Being a man of action, Gideon got busy. That is why he owns the 1,200 acres of Indian lands—a tract that is worth $50,000 at present and is increasing in value rapidly.

Gideon made up his mind to quit the newspaper business 13 years ago. In his youth he had studied medicine.

"Guess I'll quit scribbling news and go to jotting down prescriptions," he said. "It ought to pay better."

Down to Wagoner, Okla., went Gideon. He hung his shingle on about the only respectable building in the town—then waited. At first no one seemed to care a cent for Gideon. Then he began to get calls from far and wide, and the future looked bright indeed until Gideon began to try to collect his bills. Everybody was sick, it seemed, but no one had the money to pay the doctor's bills. Those were trying times in Oklahoma and Gideon was only one of many who failed to make ends meet. The harder Gideon worked the poorer he became. He managed to get enough to eat, but that was all. When his clothes wore out he was forced to "doctor-up" the village storekeeper and take his pay in trade. With everything else it was the same.

Finally Gideon, in desperation, decided to leave. It was easy to make the decision—thousands of others had done that much, and no more—but it was no simple matter to carry it out. Gideon appealed to something like a hundred patients who owed him money and managed to collect just $3.25.

"I can eat on that," he reasoned, "if I only can get transportation."

Back in St. Louis Gideon had stood pretty well on the paper for which he worked, and he wrote a long and pathetic appeal for a railroad ticket. He didn't expect to get it, but he did. Then he was happy—as happy, almost, as if he had all the money that was due him.

About an hour before Gideon was to start back for civilization, says the Chicago Tribune, a rough-looking man came running up to the office Gideon was about to vacate and excitedly informed him that a girl was dying in a camp just outside of town.

"She must have et poison," said the fellow. "She's awful sick."

Gideon thought he might just as well make one more charity call for good measure, so he took his medicine case and raced at the man's heels out to a camp that was remarkable, in most part, for the number of dogs it sheltered.

"Show me the patient quick," commanded Gideon. "I haven't got any time to waste."

From somewhere among the dogs and wagons they produced a girl that would have been comely indeed had not her features been distorted with pain. Gideon felt the patient's pulse, then looked at her tongue.

"What you been eating?" he asked.

The rough-looking man pointed to a small barrel of dried apples and said: "She's been at those."

"Plain stomach-ache," said Gideon, sagely, as he handed a flask of whisky to the sufferer. The girl took some of the stuff, brightened up, and in five minutes was well.

Then Gideon—he cannot explain it even now—was seized with an inspiration.

"Married?" he asked the girl.

"Nope," she answered.

"Want to be?" inquired Gideon.

"Wouldn't mind," said the fair one.

"All right," declared Gideon; "let's go and see a parson. I guess I'll stay here in Oklahoma for awhile. Things may get better some day."

And they did.

HOSTS BEFORE THE GOVERNOR

Brown, Assessor Elston M. French, Borough Clerk Frank Rowley, Chief of Police William Campbell, Chief of the Fire Department Julius J. Stahl, Borough Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, Recorder Thomas Doud, Borough Physician Albert Pittis and others.

At this juncture, Governor Murphy explained that the signing of the consolidation bill had never given him a moment's hesitation, but it was dismembering Somerset county, as he termed it, that engaged his serious consideration.

Mayor Smalley made a further plea for the right to vote on the question for said he "we certainly want to go."

Peter A. Emmons addressed the Governor as a business man in touch with the people. He declared that numerous Somerset county people, including Mr. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan, Mr. Pope, of Somerville, and Former Sheriff Dilts, had admitted to him that were they residents of Plainfield they would favor the dismemberment of the county as proposed. He declared that if the annexation and consolidation were brought about, "over the brook" would be the finest part of Plainfield in ten years, and if it were not mortgages would encumber the properties. He also referred to the depreciated condition of realty in the borough and explained as a reason that property "on this side of the brook" had the benefit of municipal improvements. Out of eighty people on Somerset street that he asked to sign a petition only five refused, he declared.

L. B. Woolston, president of the Board of Trade, which covers Plainfield and North Plainfield, told of the part that body had played in annexation and consolidation history. He scored the school board for opposing the proposition, claiming that the very people who advocated the measures were the ones who had made possible the present school system by lending support to all proposed improvements during the last thirty years. The deplorable condition of real estate so far as building operations are concerned was mentioned. Not one building is being erected in the borough, although a contrary condition eixsts in Plainfield.

An eloquent plea, which took the place by storm, was made by James P. Northrop. In the course of his remarks, which evoked unusual applause, he said: "In coming here we ask for a constitutional right—a right to vote on a measure which the Legislature has told us we could. Unless an act of the Legislature is unconstitutional or vicious in your mind it is your bounden duty to sign it. We are not content to live in the county to which we are attached. We are hampered by their dislike for our growing population and wealth. Involuntary servitude was abolished years ago. Throw aside politics and look upon the benefits to be attained by a divorce from Somerset county. Those people are dissatisfied with us, but care only for our votes, and trouble themselves not about material welfare. The Legislature has declared in passing the bills that if we want to go we can go. Will you deny us this right? Will you hold us to this bondage, this servitude, so obnoxious?" Cheers filled the room as the speaker took his seat.

William L. Saunders, vice president of the Ingersoll Sergeant Drill Company, read a strong editorial in the Elizabeth Journal, which has been reproduced in these columns and which gave strong reasons why the Governor should sign the bills. Governor Murphy inquired whether the bills called for a special election and Mr. Saunders informed him that they did, showing at the same time the wisdom of this provision. On the one side of the question is practical politics, said he, and on the other a constitutional right to govern the internal affairs of the borough. The welfare of the borough, he declared, is paramount to any county consideration.

J. F. Buckle, who has served in both councilmanic bodies, made a few remarks. He said he was an annexationist years ago and when he found that the borough would not annex to the city he annexed and consolidated himself. He removed to Plainfield to get the benefits of the improvements. Thousands of dollars have been paid into the city treasury by boroughites for education in the Plainfield schools.

The last speaker was George T. Rogers, who made the plea that if the measure is killed by the Governor now it will be impossible for North Plainfield to get into Plainfield five years hence. Then the tax rate will be 3.00, instead of 2.42, if all the necessary improvements are made and the city will not accept the borough with that loadstone.

NEW TRANSFER STATION UNDER CONSIDERATION

Talk of the Trolley Company Changing its Chief Station to Another Location.

MAY ASK THE COUNCIL.

PRELIMINARY SURVEY SAID TO HAVE ALREADY BEEN MADE.

Would Abandon Present Terminus and Make One on Watchung Avenue, South of the Railroad, or on East Fourth Street.

A well defined rumor, which is vouched for in several quarters, has it that the local trolley company is taking steps to have its transfer station and terminus transferred from Watchung and North avenues to a point south of the railroad bridge on Watchung avenue, or else on East Front street, just around the corner.

It is further stated that the company's engineers have already gone over the ground for preliminary surveys and that in case the plan is found feasible, application for permission to shift the tracks will be made of the Common Council. The change will not alleviate the crowded condition of the street at the changing point but it is said the alterations will be beneficial to the trolley company in several ways. It has been the desire of the officials to abandon the present terminus for some time but nothing in the way of a betterment has ever offered itself.

One of the principal reasons for the contemplated change is said to be the keeping of the cars of the Elizabeth and Arlington avenue lines from having to pass beneath the Watchung avenue bridge. This is an item of great import to the company which is not always realized by the ordinary citizen not versed in trolley management. The bridge is so low that very often the feed wire is displaced by trolley poles, tieing up traffic, and again it is a great strain on the motors to climb the hill beginning at East Third street. This amounts to great expense and inconvenience in the course of a year. In wet weather, water accumulates beneath bridge and this is also a hamper to schedule time.

With the terminus change, the cars of the two lines mentioned will not have to pass beneath bridge, although the Dunellen, Somerset and Fourth street cars will. Where passengers are now changed, street traffic is very heavy and at times it is impossible for vehicles to pass by, to say nothing of the danger to people passing to and fro. If the change is to be made, these facts will receive much consideration. Just when the compny intends to make formal action is not known but definite steps are looked for before summer traffic begins in earnest.

LOST IN THE FIRE.

Plainfielder's Property Destroyed in Newark Conflagration.

N. W. Conklin, of West Second street, was among those who lost property in the destruction of the Pennsylvania station at Newark last Saturday night. He had a valise there in the Adams Express Company's office, containing clothing and sample goods, all of which were destroyed.

Sale Postponed.

Sociable at Trinity.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a sociable Thursday evening, May 15. A committee is at work making necessary arrangements.

In New Quarters.

Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, will hold the first meeting in its new quarters, in the Coward building, Wednesday evening, April 23.

Editor of the Christian Banner.

Rev. E. E. Jackson is now the New Jersey editor of The Christian Banner, a weekly paper published in New York in the interests of the colored race.

Stores Nearing Completion.

The new stores, being built by F. S. Neal at the corner of West Front street and Central avenue, are about completed and ready for occupancy.

New Railing.

A handsome curtain railing is soon to be placed in front of the choir loft at the First Presbyterian church. It is the gift of one of the members.

AFFAIRS AT FIRST BAPTIST

ANNUAL PARISH MEETING WAS HELD THERE LAST EVENING.

Treasurer's Report Showed Balance in the Treasury—Two Trustees Were Elected.

the annual parish meeting of the First Baptist church was held last evening, when a small amount of business was transacted. E. L. Bonney was chosen chairman, and Oliver B. Leonard, church clerk, officiated in his capacity. Owing to a pressure of business matters all of the trustees could not be present, but J. Herbert Case, trustee, presented the report of the treasurer, Alexander Gilbert, in the latter's absence.

This report showed a balance on hand at last report of $1[illegible]7.44. The total receipts for the year were $6,331.90. Of this amount $1,099.08 was received from the weekly offerings in the envelopes, while $530.83 was received from basket collections. The disbursements amounted to $6,-296.64, leaving a balance on hand April 1, 1902, of $152.70. This report shows a better financial condition than a year ago.

After the presentation of the above report and its acceptance, there was the election of two trustees. The terms of L. V. F. Randolph and Oliver B. Leonard expired and they were elected for the full term of three years. This concluded the business of the evening and the meeting adjourned.

Suits of Local Interest—Time Set for Jury Appeals and Also Court Appeals.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

The jury appeals will begin on May 12 and the court appeals on May 16. In the Supreme court the only cause of interest to Plainfield is that of John F. Galbraith against Josephus Plenty, Mary Conover and others, on contract. W. S. Angleman is counsel for the plaintiff, and F. W. Hastings for the defendants.

There are a batch of cases among the justices' appeals, which are of interest to Plainfield. Among these are: John P. Powers at the suit of Arthur M. Griffen; Jett Brothers at the suit of Richard O'Connor; Luther Childs at the suit of Charles Abbot tFrench; Benjamin Billian at the suit of John Goff, Jr.; and Henry Moskovitz at the suit of Annie E. Shaeffer. All these are appeals from Justice Mattison's court. Charles Jensen at the suit of William Taylor has been taken from Justice Smalley's court.

During the evening there was an expression of the appreciation of the services of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor, the city missionaries. It was decided to prepare a set of resolutions conveying to Mr. and Mrs. Taylor the appreciation of the association.

Invitations Out.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Pratt Allis, of West Sixth street, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Nathan Earle Lewis, of West Eighth street, Tuesday evening, April 29, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

FEW BILLS REMAIN IN GOVERNOR'S HANDS

Out of 285 Bills Passed by the Legislature, 262 Are Now on the State Statute Books.

ONLY ONE WAS VETOED

HAS PLANNED TO BE AT TRENTON ON TUESDAYS AND THURSDAYS.

Will Probably Return to Newark Last of This Week When All Bills Have Been Disposed Of—Soon to Inspect Department Offices.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 16—Up to today a total of 262 laws have been placed on the statute books as the contribution of the legislative session of 1902 to the legal lore of the State. When the Legislature adjourned it left 285 bills in the hands of Governor Murphy for action, and all but about thirty have been disposed of by him. Under the laws allowing him thirty days in which to approve or veto measures left in his possession he has two weeks yet in which to pass upon the others.

Only once since the Legislature adjourned has the Governor made use of his veto power, and that was in disapproving the bill which was intended to authorize the distribution of $25,-000 among the county newspapers of the State for printing a synopsis of the session laws.

When the remaining bills in his possession have been disposed of, which will probably be by the latter end of this week, the Governor proposes abandoning the State street residence in Trenton he has occupied as an executive mansion during the winter and returning to his home in Newark, going to the capital Tuesdays and Thursdays for general business, and such other times as may be necessary. Former governors for a number of years have made Tuesday the only governor's day of the week, and the result has been a gathering of politicians from all over the State at the State house on that day; the executive chambers often becoming so congested that anything like private or deliberate consideration or conference on any subject was impossible. By making two governor's days a week, Governor Murphy will divide this pressure of business and expects to have time and opportunity to give a full hearing to all who desire to see him on public business at such times.

The Governor has signified his intention of inspecting all the State department offices in the Capitol in the near future, with a view to learning what is being done in each departmen to earn the money paid by the State for its support, and what changes, if any, might be made in methods that would be beneficial to the transaction of the State's business. It is expected also that the Governor will make his proposed official visits of inspection to the various State institutions before warm weather sets in.

READING CHANGES.

Spring Schedule of P. and R. R. System Goes Into Effect May 11—Hourly Express Service.

The Reading Railroad will put its spring schedule into effect May 11, instead of May 1, as previously announced, at which time its new hourly express service between New York and Philadelphia will be put in operation.

Besides the thirteen express trains already announced to leave Philadelphia and New York simultaneously on the hour between 7 o'clock in the evening, the officials are considering the placing in service of an additional express train to New York leaving Philadelphia at 8 in the evening. There will be fourteen hourly expresses out of the Quaker City and thirteen out of New York.

One advantage of these hourly trains will be that time tables can be practically dispensed with when once it becomes generally known that trains can be taken every hour from either city.

TO DRAFT PARTY RULES.

Committee Appointed to Frame Regulations for G. O. P.

James F. Buckle, J. Hervey Doane and J. Everitt Kimball have been appointed a committee from the city Republican executive committee to draft suitable rules for governing the committee for 1902. They will report at a meeting to be called by the chairman, Mayor Jenkins.

REPUBLICAN THROWN OUT

DECISION IN THE BERNARDS TOWNSHIP FREEHOLDER CASE.

At Somerville Yesterday — Grand Jury Instructed to Investigate Sunday Selling.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 16—The April term of the Somerset county courts convened here yesterday with Justice Garretson on the bench.

The members of the Grand Jury from North Plainfield are Charles H. Lyman and Jacob Voehl. Elston M. French, who was drawn, was excused at his own request. Joseph W. Ballentine as foreman. Assemblyman Henry W. Hoagland is a member.

The Justice asked that a careful investigation be made of the charges of Sunday selling. Among the licenses granted of North Plainfield parties were those of Chas. Jensen (inn), Charles L. Strong (inn), Adolph Boeran (wholesale), and N. J. Bottling and Rectifying Co., (wholesale). The application of Chas. P. Sebring to keep an inn in North Plainfield was laid over to April 25 for a hearing.

Justice Garretson decided the Bernards township Freeholder controversy, agreeing with the county board of elections throwing out the disputed ballots. This elected John A. Whitenack, Democrat, over John V. Bunn, Republican, by 24 majority. This makes the Board of Freeholders stand eight Democrats and two Republicans.

WIFE CHARGES NON-SUPPORT

IRA H. LAMBERT, PROMINENT WESTFIELD MAN, ARRESTED.

Mrs. Lambert Claims That He Failed to Provide a Home for Her, Hence the Charge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 16—Ira H. Lambert, a prominent resident of this place, was arrested yesterday for non-support on a charge preferred by his wife. He was arraigned before Justice Toucey and held in $300 bail for his appearance for a hearing Tuesday, April 29.

Up until last October Mr. Lambert conducted a feed business. He failed at that time, after which he opened a business at Elizabeth. Later his health failed and this was followed by dispossess proceedings instituted by his father-in-law, Mr. Darby. Mr. Lambert then asked his wife and three children to go to Elizabeth to have a home. Mrs. Lambert went with him, but she claims that he had no home there and she returned to her father's home, where she is now.

Yesterday Mr. Lambert advertised his wife in the county papers stating that she had left his bed and board and he would not be responsible for her debts.

CURTIS IN JAIL.

Arrested in Elizabeth Yesterday on the Complaint of a Fourteen-Year-Old Girl.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 16—David Curtis, of Plainfield, who figured in a sensational case some time ago, was arrested last night for making an unlawful proposal in this city. In consequence he is now in jail serving time again.

When arrested he was taken before Justice Mahon and given the preference of paying a fine of $20 or undergoing ninety days' imprisonment. He chose to go to jail. The charge was preferred by a fourteen year-old-girl.

STATE OFFICERS NAMED AT D. OF L. SESSION

Nominated at Yesterday Afternoon's Session and Will be Elected Today.

THE ROUTINE BUSINESS.

LOTS OF BUSINESS WAS TRANSACTED AT SESSIONS OF STATE COUNCIL.

Busy Session of Daughters of Liberty Yesterday Afternoon—Entertained at Y. M. C. A. Hall Last Evening.

Business matters of a routine nature occupied the greater part of yesteday afternoon's session of the Daughters of Liberty convention in Y. M. C. A. Hall. Adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock although it was thought the session would be continued much later.

One of the most important matters receiving attention and action was the manner in which candidates for the National Council are elected. In the past this has been a source of displeasure on all sides and has been regarded as an ancient and time consuming method. An amendment to the constitution, whereby in the future all candidates receiving the highest number of votes on the first ballot shall be elected, was presented and adopted.

In the nomination for offices in the State council the following names were presented: State councilor, Mrs. Mary L. Siefert, of Jersey City; State associate councilor, Mrs. Bessie Long, of New Brunswick; State vice councilor, Mrs. Bertha H. Jones, of Jersey City; State secretary, William L. Hayward, of Newark; State associate secretary, Jennie B. Hayward, of Newark.

Resolutions were passed commending the work of State Councilor Mrs. Sara T. Relstab, of Trenton, and $100 was voted her as an expression of the esteem in which she is held by the organization. Fifty dollars was also voted the William M. Symons Memorial fund. Mr. Symons was an ex-national councilor and was respected by all who knew him. A fund is now being raised to erect a monument in his honor at his former home in South Norwalk, Conn.

Following the transaction of business, State Council Secretary Hayward was presented with a handsome dress suit case by the reception committee of Lucetta Council.

Among the notable visitors present at the session were National Councilor Charles H. Stein, of Baltimore, and National Vice Councilor Herman Relstab, of Trenton.

No session of the council was held last evening, the delegates instead being entertained with a programme of music and monologues at Y. M. C. A. Hall. At its conclusion the artists and many of the audience adjourned to McVey's restaurant, where a dinner was served. Following its disposal a number of speeches were made and State Councilor Mrs. Sarah T. Relstab was presented with a large basket of flowers, the gift of Lucetta Council.

The delegates reassembled at 9:30 o'clock this morning and proceeded to dispose of the election of officers. Owing to the number of speeches made in favor of the candidates, it was noon before anything definite was accomplished. Adjournment was then taken for lunch, and the business was resumed at 2 o'clock.

MR. CASE RESIGNED.

After a Deserved Vacation He Will Begin His Duties With the New Plainfield Trust Company.

J. Herbert Case, of Duer street, yesterday severed his connection as discount clerk with the Market and Fulton National Bank, of New York, to assume the position of secretary and treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company. Mr. Case will take a well-deserved and needed vacation, prior to entering upon his new duties.

The probabilities are that the company will begin operations in the Smalley building on North avenue. Mr. Case has been identified with the Market and Fulton National Bank for a number of years. Prior to that he was with the City National Bank, this city, and he worked himself up to a position of trust and honor.

A Home Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Agnes Graham, of Richmond street, and Harry A. Connett, of East Fifth street, will take place Saturday evening at the home of the bride at 7:30 o'clock.

HOW TO RAISE FUNDS FOR BAND CONCERTS

Leader LaVere Suggests the Holding of a Week's Fair for That Object.

IF HE COULD RAISE $700.

THAT WOULD ENABLE HIM TO GIVE TEN FIRST-CLASS CONCERTS.

Has a Number of Prominent Soloists in View if the Funds for the Concerts Can be Raised—Nothing Done Yet.

Recently inquiries have been made whether Plainfield will again be favored with band concerts this summer. Memories of the hot evenings made pleasant last summer by the enjoyable open air band concerts in City Park linger in the minds of Greater Plainfield folks. On such occasions, at least several thousand people gathered to listen to the music rendered by Ben LaVere's band, and the programmes were always a treat.

Suggestion has been made to Mr. LaVere that steps be taken to raise the necessary funds for the repetition of concerts this year. It is needless to say that it cost money to give the concerts last summer. Collections were then taken by passing the hat during the affairs, but this method proved impracticable and unsuccessful. Little was realized in this way.

Another idea has been presented to Mr. LaVere. That is that a week's fair be given sometime next month. This meets with the bandmaster's approval but he says that he wishes some citizens would take the initiative. He thinks that there are enough lovers of music who would volunteer to conduct the scheme. If $700 could be raised in this manner, it would enable him to give at least ten first class concerts in as many weeks. These could be arranged to begin in June and extend to September.

In conversation with Mr. LaVere, the latter told a reporter of The Daily Press that this plan would allow him to engage the services of celebrated soloists for the concerts as well as pay the regular musicians. Among those he has in mind is Tom Clark, author of "The Belle of New York." He is a cornet soloist who has been heard with Innes' and Gilmore's bands. Another cornet soloist he has in mind is William J. Styles, who has traveled with Innes' star aggregation. Harry Whittier and W. S. Mygrents are two other he would present to the Plainfield public. Whittier is a baritone soloist and has served under the three great bandmasters, Innes, Sousa and Gilmore. Mygrents is an old member of the Thirteenth regiment band and holds the record for having kept a single perfect tone on a cornet for two minutes and five seconds.

LITERARY.

In The Century for May Oliver Herford will contribute to the "Year of American Humor" some verses and pictures, entitled "The Silver Question," which, however, has not the financial bearing which its title would suggest. Other contributors to the humorous features of this number of The Century will be Mr. Dooley ("A Little Essay on Books and Reading"), Miss Carolyn Wells ("First Lessons in Humor"), Maurice Francis Egan ("The Soul of Sexton Maginnis"), Catharine Young Glen ("Jones's Little Girl"), and Wallace Bruce Amsbary ("De Captaine of de 'Marguerite' ").

FEAST OF PASSOVER SOON

AN IMPORTANT SESSION IN THE JEWISH CALENDAR ALMOST HERE.

Will Last a Week—Hebrews Will Eat Unleavened Bread—Services at Synagogue.

An important session in the Jewish calendar is the feast of the Passover. It is due in less than a week and will be the occasion of celebration for the Hebrews of this city. During the festival special services will be held in the synagogue.

The feast was instituted by Moses. It commemorates the passing of the death angel over the homes of the Israelites in Egypt the night of the destruction of the first born of all the Egyptians. Originally the occasion was observed by sacrificing lambs towards evening of the fourteenth day of the first Hebrew month, now Nisan. The lambs were eaten on the following evening. All leaven was excluded from the bread eaten that evening and the succeeding seven days. The first and last days were held holy.

Since the destruction of the temple of Jerusalem there has been a change. From that time the Passover has been celebrated by eating unleavened bread for seven days and by abstinence from labor on the first and seventh day. Various domestic rites are observed on the first evening, and these commemorate the deliverance of the Jews from Egyptian bondage.

The services include the recital of Scriptural and legendary narratives and conversation on the great event. Together with these there is the chanting of Psalms. It is the custom of the orthodox Jews to set apart eight days for the proper observance of the feast, while the celebration of the reformed Jews occupies one day less.

AFTER BEEF PACKERS

Attorney General of New York Begins Investigation.

TRUST TO BE BROUGHT TO ACCOUNT

Governor Odell Back of the Movement—Unprecedented Rise in the Price of Meat May Result In Criminal Proceedings.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Attorney General Davies of this state is here from Albany to conduct an investigation into the charges which have appeared in print of late that a combination of the big beef packers of the country have forced up the price of meats. Of his investigation Mr. Davies said:

"I do not know whether or not you here in New York fully appreciate the extent of the criticism which has been leveled at the beef packers. In my own county, Oneida, there has been actual suffering on account of the exceptionally high rates charged by the westerners. I have received many letters from different sections of the state. All of the writers complain of the present difficulty of supplying meat to their families. They ask me if I cannot do something to relieve them.

"Before I left Albany I talked over the meat situation with the governor. I found him much interested in the subject and very much against any high handed proceedings on the part of any combination. He is willing to indorse any step I may take looking to the relief of the citizens of the state.

"I am not at liberty to tell the results of my investigations. I have heard plenty of rumors and many reports regarding the doings of the packers here, but until I can reduce what I have heard to evidence that will be strong enough to take before a court I must keep silent. I can only say that, as far as my investigations have gone, it looks very much as if the packers had exceeded their legal powers. If when I examine these meat men before a referee I find that they are guilty of overstepping their rights, I shall proceed against them on the ground of restraint of trade and of carrying on a business injurious to public policy. It is criminal for any body of men to create a monopoly on a commodity that is essential to the maintenance of life. If any criminality is found, the proper authorities shall be instructed to bring proceedings against them."

Farewell to Palma.

CENTRAL VALLEY, N. Y., April 16.—Tomas Estrada Palma, president elect of Cuba, has taken leave of his friends of Central Valley, among whom he has lived during eighteen years of exile from his country. A large crowd gathered at his old home and escorted him to Central Valley station, where another large crowd had assembled. The local volunteer firemen and school children, headed by the village band, paraded, and nearly every one in the crowd carried either an American or a Cuban flag. Farewell addresses in behalf of the citizens were made by the Rev. F. C. Harding and Irving Washburn, and Mr. Palma made a brief response.

Chemical Works Burned.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Fire has damaged the works of the General Chemical company at Shadyside, N. J., to the extent of $100,000. How the fire started is not known. It burned rapidly owing to the fact that the buildings were filled with casks and carboys of chemicals. The plant employs about 700 men.

GATES GETS RAILWAY

Belmont Party Ousted From Louisville and Nashville.

A RECORD DAY IN WALL STREET.

Union Pacific Sales Outdone—Southern Railway Denies All Interest In the Purchase Directly or Indirectly.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Wall street passed through one of its most exciting and sensational periods yesterday. The Louisville and Nashville situation, which had hung menacingly over the district for a week or more, was cleared by the undisputed statement that John W. Gates and his associates had wrested control of the property from the Belmont party and were in absolute possession. Accompanying this statement, which had been discounted the day before, was one that the Gates faction had selected J. P. Morgan & Co. to settle the differences between the contending interests.

While these events were happening a movement without parallel in the history of the Stock Exchange was on in Southern railway. Trading in Southern railway common set in on a tremendous scale, and at one time interest centered almost entirely in that stock.

In the first half hour fully 200,000 shares of Southern railway common changed hands. By the end of the first hour transactions in this stock alone reached a total of over 350,000 shares. By noon considerably more than half a million shares changed hands.

Dealings fell off after that to some extent, but the records for the number of shares of a single stock sold in one hour, in two hours and in one day's trading were all shattered as a result of Southern railway's performance. The total sales for the day reached a total of 864,500 shares. The total outstanding stock of the company is 1,200,000 shares.

On April 24, 1901, there were 662,800 shares of Union Pacific sold on the New York Stock Exchange during the struggle between the Morgan and Harriman interests, which culminated in the May panic. That record was broken.

It became evident before the opening of the market that a settlement would be reached. At the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. a series of conferences began before 10 o'clock. Before noon the appended announcement was given out by the brokerage firm of Harris, Gates & Co., in which John W. Gates is a special partner:

"We have bought a large amount of stock of the Louisville and Nashville road. We did not buy it for speculation, but for investment, believing absolutely in the present and future value of the property. There will not be any 'corner' in the stock. We have placed the entire matter in the hands of J. P. Morgan & Co. and requested them to act as arbiters in the situation because of the prominence of the property and desire not to disturb in any way the general market condition and because we know that they (Morgan & Co.) have no interest whatever in the property or in recent purchases."

This statement was later changed so that it read, "We have bought control," etc. The correction was made by John F. Harris, who had just paid a second visit to the Morgan banking house.

The wildest rumors and reports were circulated to account for the record breaking activity of Southern railway common.

That the Southern Railway company will have considerable to say as to the future of Louisville and Nashville became the conviction of most Wall street men before the close of the day. President Spencer, when asked as to the future relations of Southern and Louisville and Nashville, made this statement:

"The Southern railway had no interest in the purchase, and it will have no interest in it at any time in the future. Louisville and Nashville will not pass to the Southern railway."

"Neither directly nor indirectly?"

"No. Neither directly nor indirectly, in any shape, manner or form will Southern railway have anything to do with Louisville and Nashville."

Havana Chaplain Arrested.

HAVANA, April 16.—The question which has arisen between the military government and the archbishop of Havana with regard to the right of the church to collect certain burial fees for interments in Cristobal Colon cemetery has resulted in the arrest of the chaplain of the cemetery for refusing to receive a body for interment without a certificate from the parish priest. The chaplain was fined $10.

Dr. Scoville was admitted to the hospital March 23, suffering from a complication of diseases. Dr. Scoville was a son-in-law of the late Henry Ward Beecher.

ON THE VERGE OF WAR

Belgian Government Rejects All Liberal Demands.

A STRONG MANIFESTO PRESENTED.

Unless King Leopold Interferes There Seems to Be Nothing to Prevent Serious Consequences. The Strike Is Spreading.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 16.—The government has firmly declined to yield on the question of revision, and unless King Leopold should override the government there seems to be nothing to prevent the development of a serious situation.

In the chamber of deputies M. Neujean presented a manifesto on behalf of the Liberal members of the Leftists demanding dissolution in order to enable the country to pronounce on the revision question. This manifesto pointed out that the time was critical and the country threatened with civil war, and for the government to consent to a loyal and constitutional settlement could not be represented as a surrender to popular disorder.

To this challenge the premier, M. Le Smet de Nayer, replied briefly by declaring that the right of dissolution rested with the king. He added that he felt it his duty to warn parliament against the rumors of government concessions.

M. Janson, the Liberal leader, retorted that the chamber could by a motion call upon the king to change the ministry. He said there was no sign of conciliation in the premier's reply to M. Neujean and that responsibility for the consequences would rest on the government.

At this point M. Woeste, a Catholic deputy, who, although not a minister, is a powerful adherent to the government, jumped up and exclaimed: "There is no civil war, but only evilly disposed men. You demand our resignation, but you shall not have it."

The president then declared the incident closed, and the house rose.

Today the Socialist members of the chamber will present their demand for universal suffrage. This will inevitably be defeated, and it is feared that this defeat will lead to trouble, particularly in the provinces.

No noteworthy incident occurred in the streets of the city. The authorities have taken extraordinary measures to avert disorders, and the whole quarter comprising the chamber of deputies, the palace and the ministries is kept in complete isolation from the rest of the city by cordons of the city guard.

The strike movement in Brussels and its environs is of a minor character, but in the industrial districts it is more formidable than ever.

From Renaix, in Flanders, some dynamite outrages have been reported, and an attempt was made to set fire to a chateau belonging to M. Malandor, a former deputy. But nowhere was any serious damage done. Several arrests have been made in Brussels and in the provinces as a result of collisions with the police.

The executive department of the international Socialist bureau has issued a manifesto appealing to workers in all countries to support them in their struggle against reaction. They declare a general strike to be the only legal weapon left to them. They claim that 100,000 men are already out and that this number will be doubled as a protest against the attempt of the government to terrorize the workers.

Striking Miners Yield.

DUBOIS, Pa., April 16.—At a mass meeting held by the striking miners at Punxsutawney the agreement made between General Manager Robinson of the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron company and the national and district officers of the United Mine Workers was ratified. The meeting lasted three hours, and the vote resulted in 837 to 526 in favor of returning to work. It is the general sentiment that work will be resumed in the entire region tomorrow. This would also mean the resumption of work at the carshops in this city and employment for many hundred railroad men.

Five Killed In a Shaft.

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., April 16.—A dispatch has been received here telling of a frightful accident which occurred at the Consheno mine, near here. As a cage was being lowered into the mine shaft the cable broke, and the mine occupants were hurled a distance of over 200 feet. Five of the men were killed outright, and the other four are believed to be fatally injured. All are Mexicans.

Paris Aids McKinley Memorial Fund

PARIS, April 16.—The gala matinee performance at the Opera Comique in aid of the fund for the McKinley memorial fund was a great success. President Loubet attended, occupying a box draped with American and French flags. The theater was crowded. The performance added over 20,000 francs to the fund, which now exceeds 50,000 francs.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Andrew Carnegie has given $40,000 to Union college.

Queen Wilhelmina's illness took a more serious turn.

RECIPROCITY SAFE.

Leaders Certain That Cuban Relief Bill Will Pass.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—With the close of the Cuban reciprocity debate in the house yesterday the leaders announced that all danger of the bill being weighted down with undesirable amendments was over and that they felt assured the bill would pass in the shape in which it came from the committee. As the bill in its present form is sure to command three-fourths of the vote of each side of the house its passage was certain if it successfully passed the stage when amendments could be offered.

The only cause of anxiety heretofore has been the possibility that enough Republicans would join with the Democrats to overrule the chair and tack on to the bill an amendment to abolish the differential on refined sugar.

Mr. Watson (Ind.), who is acting as the whip for the majority, does not believe over a dozen Republicans at the outside will join the Democrats on this proposition. It would require more than twenty Republican votes to place on the bill the amendment which might endanger its ultimate passage, as several Democrats, it is understood, also have declared their intention to stand by the ruling of the chair.

IGLESIAS ACQUITTED.

Supreme Court of Porto Rico Reverses Lower Court's Decision.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 16.—The supreme court of Porto Rico has rendered a decision in the appeal of Santiago Iglesias, president of the Federation of Workmen of Porto Rico, who was sentenced last December to three years, four months and eight days' imprisonment on the charge of conspiring to raise the price of labor in Porto Rico. The court acquitted Iglesias of all the charges against him, thus reversing the decision of the lower court. A fine of $25, however, for contempt of court in not answering a summons was allowed to stand.

Fifteen hundred members of the Federation of Workmen paraded through San Juan in the afternoon. They stopped at the palace and saw Governor Hunt, who spoke a few words to them. The paraders were orderly. There was a similar parade at Ponce when the news of Iglesias' acquittal reached there. Iglesias is now at the latter place, where he has organized several unions of the American Federation of Labor.

Two States at Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 16.—Today is notable at the exposition, for it is being celebrated as both Virginia and Pennsylvania day. Two crack companies of the Seventieth Virginia regiment, the Richmond Blues and Richmond Grays, under Major L. T. Christian, are here; also the entire cadet corps of the Virginia Military institute, 280 strong, under Major H. C. Ford. This morning they escorted Governor Montague in the parade from the St. John hotel to the exposition grounds. Governor Stone of Pennsylvania, with his staff and a number of ladies, arrived this morning and held formal exercises in the Pennsylvania building.

Woman Shot Dead.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 16.—Mrs. Lizzie Whitehouse, about twenty-eight years of age, cook in the Highland hotel, was shot and killed about 9 o'clock p. m. by a man dressed in woman's clothing. The murderer made his escape after a struggle with the bartender, Henry Kreibs, in which Kreibs was shot in the hand. Two bullets were fired at the woman, one crushing the left jaw and entering the brain and the other entering the right side under the arm and penetrating the lung. The police are looking for Bernhard Whitehouse, husband of the woman.

Van Wormer Denies Murder.

HUDSON, N. Y., April 16.—Burton Van Wormer took the witness stand yesterday afternoon in the trial of himself and his brothers Fred and Willis, who are charged with the murder of their uncle, Peter A. Hallenbeck, on the evening of Dec. 24. In his opening address to the jury their attorney announced that all the boys would go on the witness stand. He intimated that they would say they had gone to their uncle's home for a Christmas eve frolic, but that Mr. Hallenbeck had met them with a gun, and they killed him in self defense.

Heavy April Snow.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 16.—Specials from western and northwestern Nebraska points report an unprecedented fall of snow for April. At Alliance there is a foot of snow on the level. In Kimball and Cheyenne counties, farther south, there is nearly as much. Eastward, in Franklin and Hitchcock counties, there has been a twenty-four hours' fall of rain and snow. The storm is bad for stock.

No Statue For General Butler.

BOSTON, April 16.—By a vote of 114 to 33 the house has rejected the resolution providing for the erection of a statue to the late General Benjamin F. Butler of Lowell. The matter has been under discussion for many weeks at the committee hearings.

Bond of Rathbone Not Accepted.

HAVANA, April 16.—The court has not yet decided to accept the bond of the Fidelity company for $100,000 for the appearance of Rathbone. If this bond is not accepted, counsel for Rathbone will probably apply for a writ of habeas corpus.

Bridge Builders Killed.

SOREL, Que., April 16.—At Pierreville, on St. Francis river, where a bridge is being built for the Quebec Southern railway, a trestle fell, killing four and mortally wounding one of the workmen.

RUSSIAN MINISTER SLAIN.

His Life Had Long Been Threatened. Assassin Under Arrest.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 16.—The minister of the interior, M. Sipiaguine, was shot and fatally wounded at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the lobby of the ministerial offices by a man who held a pistol close to the minister's person.

The minister was taken to the Hospital Maximilianovsk, where he died in one hour.

It was learned later that Sipiaguine was on his way to attend a meeting of the committee of ministers. He had just entered the office of the imperial council when the assassin, who had driven up in a carriage, approached and handed him a folded paper, saying he had been charged to deliver it by the Grand Duke Sergius. The minister stretched out his hand to take the document when the assassin fired five shots at him. Three of the bullets struck M. Sipiaguine, and one wounded his servant.

The assassin did not resist arrest. He said his name was Balsahanstt; that he was a student at Kiev, where he had been sentenced to compulsory military service for participating in the riots of 1901. He said he had subsequently been pardoned, but that he had not been reinstated at the university and that he therefore revenged himself upon M. Sipiaguine.

The life of the Russian minister of the interior had been threatened for some time.

SOME WAR NEWS.

But British War Office Gives Out No Peace News.

LONDON, April 16.—The following dispatch, dated Pretoria, April 15, has been received at the war office from Lord Kitchener:

"Bruce Hamilton's columns arrived at the Standerton line last night, having taken 145 Boers, including killed and wounded, during the movement from the Middelburg line."

The house of commons has adopted the increased cheek duty by 186 to 119 votes.

In the house of commons Mr. A. J. Balfour, the government leader, said that the government had no information to impart at present as to peace in South Africa, nor could it have for a while. As soon as any news was received it would be communicated to the house.

The Daily Mail in its issue of this morning says it understands a serious hitch has occurred in the peace negotiations in South Africa. The cabinet council has decided to refuse a strongly worded request from the Boer leaders at Pretoria for an armistice pending the negotiations. This alone is not likely to cause the Boers to withdraw from the conference.

Columbia Expects Big Carnegie Gift.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Public announcement will be made after the official installation ceremonies in Columbia college of a munificent money gift to that institution by Andrew Carnegie, according to information which reaches the press. The exact amount is known only to the president and to the board of trustees, but there is good reason to believe that it is not far short of $1,000,000. This will be more than sufficient to build a college hall, a chapel or dormitories, to which purpose the gift is to be applied. Mr. Carnegie up to this time has given nothing to Columbia, and it is expected that when his contribution is announced its size will surprise the members of the faculty as well as the students.

Secession Planned In China.

HONGKONG, April 16.—A report has reached here that the rebels in Kwangsi province intend to seize three provinces in south China—namely, Yunnan, Kwangsi and Kwangtung—and establish an independent government. The rebels announce, however, that they will endeavor not to interfere with foreign trade and that they will not attack Canton until the provinces mentioned have been thoroughly reduced. By this course of action they hope to avoid collision with troops of foreign powers.

Italians Turned Back.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., April 16.—Fourteen Italians bound for Albany were stopped by an immigration inspector on their arrival here. They had landed at St. John, N. B., and come through without examination by United States officials at either Halifax or Montreal. They have been returned to Canada and the railroad company ordered to transport them back to their starting place.

New City's First Election.

OSWEGO, N. Y., April 16.—The first charter election in the new city of Fulton resulted in a victory for the Republicans, who elected James A. Foster as mayor by 235 majority over John N. Sharp, Democrat, and they also elected Herbert N. Wilson city judge as well as five out of six aldermen.

Iron and Steel Workers Meet.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 16.—The twenty-seventh annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers has opened here. The city's welcome to the 250 delegates was voiced by Mayor Sweeney, and the responses were by President Schaffer and other officials.

ROOT ORDERS ACTION

Prompt Inquiry Regarding Alleged Cruelties to Filipinos.

COURTS MARTIAL FOR OFFENDERS.

General Chaffee Cabled to Proceed at Once Against General Smith and Officers Who Administered the "Water Cure."

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Secretary Root has cabled General Chaffee at Manila to investigate the newspaper reports of the Waller trial and if they are correct to court martial General Smith; also, if the facts are established as testified to before the senate Philippine committee, to court martial the officers who administered the "water cure" to the presidente of Igbarras. These officers are Major Glenn, Lieutenant Conger and Assistant Surgeon Lyon.

Following is the memorandum for the adjutant general as cabled to General Chaffee by order of the war department:

"On Feb. 19 a letter was sent you inclosing for investigation copy of charges made by Governor Gardener of Tayabas province, which contained general allegations of cruelties practiced by troops on natives and generally of an insolent and brutal attitude of the army toward natives.

"On April 2 a cable dispatch was sent you urging action with all speed consistent with thorough and searching investigation.

"On the 4th of March a cable dispatch was sent you directing disciplinary measures to produce obedience to the president's instructions, subordinating military officers to civil government in pacified provinces and instructing you to relieve Major Edwin F. Glenn and Captain James A. Ryan from duty and order them to Manila to await investigation into their conduct in accordance with instructions to follow by mail.

"On the 24th of March instructions were mailed you containing statement of charges against these officers and General Jacob H. Smith as the basis of the investigation ordered by the cable of March 4.

"Further instructions in both matters are required by the following facts:

"Press dispatches state that upon the trial of Major Waller of the marine corps testimony was given by Waller, corroborated by other witnesses, that General Jacob H. Smith instructed him to kill and burn, that the more he killed and burned the better pleased General Smith would be, that it was no time to take prisoners and that when Major Waller asked General Smith to define the age limit for killing he replied, 'Everything over ten.'

"If such testimony was given and the facts can be established, you will place General Smith on trial by court martial.

"Yesterday before the senate committee on Philippine affairs Sergeant Charles S. Riley and Private William Lewis Smith of the Twenty-sixth volunteer infantry testified that form of torture known as the water cure was administered to the presidente of the town of Igbarras, Iloilo province, island of Panay, by a detachment of the Eighteenth United States infantry commanded by Lieutenant Arthur L. Conger under orders of Major Edwin F. Glenn, then captain of the Twenty-fifth infantry, and that Captain and Assistant Surgeon Palmer Lyon, at that time a contract surgeon, was present to assist them.

"The officers named or such of them as are found to be responsible for the act will be tried therefor by court martial. Conger and Lyon are in this country. Both the Twenty-sixth volunteer infantry and Eighteenth infantry having returned to the United States and most of the witnesses being presumptively here, the secretary of war directs that Major E. F. Glenn, Twenty-fifth infantry, be directed to proceed to San Francisco and report to the general commanding the department of California with a view to his trial by court martial under charges alleging the cruelties practiced by him upon a native of the Philippine Islands at Igbarras on the 27th of June, 1900.

"You will take such course in advancing or postponing the investigations previously ordered into the conduct of General Smith and Major Glenn as shall be required to enable you to execute these instructions.

"It is believed that the violations of law and humanity of which these cases if true are examples will prove to be few and occasional and not to characterize the conduct of the army generally in the Philippines, but the fact that any such acts of cruelty and barbarity appear to have been done indicates the necessity of a most thorough, searching and exhaustive investigation under the general charges preferred by Governor Gardener, and you will spare no effort in the investigation already ordered under these charges to uncover every such case which may have occurred and bring the offenders to justice.

"The president desires to know in the fullest and most circumstantial manner all the facts, nothing being concealed, and no man being for any reason favored or sheltered. For the very reason that the president intends to back up the army in the heartiest fashion in every lawful and legitimate method of doing its work he also intends to see that the most rigorous care is exercised to detect and prevent any cruelty or brutality and that men who are guilty thereof are punished. Great as the provocation has been in dealing with foes who habitually resort to treachery, murder and torture against our men, nothing can justify or will be held to justify the use of torture or inhuman conduct of any kind on the part of the American army."

THE NEXT POSTMASTER.

The time is not so far distant when the President of the United States will name a postmaster for Plainfield to succeed Elias H. Bird. At its meeting, Monday evening, the Republican city executive committee unanimously announced its official wish that Mr. Bird be reappointed to the office. These sentiments are echoed by the people of Plainfield who have had an opportunity to see for themselves how satisfactory has been his administration.

During the four years that Mr. Bird has been at the head of the Plainfield postoffice, he has served the interests of the government, and the city as well, in very commendable fashion. It is no easy task to fill that position, even to the satisfaction of a majority of the people. The fact, that there have been so few complaints about the local postal service of late, is testimony of no uncertain character that his work as postmaster here has been eminently successful.

While there are many capable men in Plainfield, who might serve well and faithfully as postmasters, Mr. Bird has the advantage of four years of valuable experience during which he has learned the wants of the Plainfield public. It is to be hoped, therefore, that when the President comes to name the next postmaster for Plainfield that the name of E. H. Bird will go to the Senate as his choice.

BUT ONE WAY.

There is only one way to settle the question of annexation and consolidation for North Plainfield. Let the people have the opportunity to vote upon it. It was to obtain that constitutional right that that large delegation of citizens of the borough went before Governor Murphy Monday afternoon. It was not so much the question as to whether or not Greater Plainfield should become a reality but rather the imperative need of allowing the people of the borough to decide these questions one way or the other, that was so impressed upon the Chief Executive of the State.

Every fair-minded person admits that some people may honestly believe that annexation and consolidation will not be for the best interests of the borough. We believe that it will and have often stated our opinion to that effect. We fail to see, however, how any fair-minded person can, after carefully considering the question, oppose the plan to put the decision in the hands of the voters themselves. The only fair way is to allow the people to decide, and how can that be better done than at a special election?

Monday's hearing emphasized very distinctly that which we have long claimed, that there is a strong feeling in the borough in favor of the immediate signing of the bills. Governor Murphy must have been blind, indeed, if he failed to see it. Let us hope that he will lose no time in affixing his signature to the three bills, commonly known as the Greater Plainfield measures.

Hope chapel and its workers are to be congratulated that the day has come when the indebtedness has been removed and the little sanctuary stands on a firm financial foundation, free from debt. It was a very proper thing that the mortgage should be destroyed with much ceremony. It marked an epoch in the career of Hope chapel which will be more important than many of its members realize. The day is coming when the chapel will become self-supporting. The chapel has become a wonderful power for good in the West End. But it has still greater possibilities. Those who are instrumental in advancing its work will win for themselves the highest possible reward, the consciousness of a good work well done.

An Atlantic City landlord says he finds the booklet a useful form of publicity after he has once got into communication with a potential guest, remarks the Philadelphia Record, but that for reaching the great body of the summer visiting people nothing can compare with a newspaper which goes into the home and reaches the women. "But for the newspaper," he affirms, "most of my booklets would be wasted. Without the newspaper advertisement I should not get anything like the business I have."

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass has returned to the First M. E. church for the sixth year. During the five years that he has presided over that flock, he has won a host of friends, both in his denomination and out of it. His church has shown a healthy growth. He now has the best wishes of all his friends that his sixth year may be equally as successful as have the others.

All four of the local baseball league teams have been out for practice and, in each case, is there good promise of a strong team to open the season Decoration Day. It will be some time before the managements of the different clubs will have to announce their teams and until then, the various candidates will be hustling after the coveted places.

Tennis aind golf promise to flourish this summer under the auspices of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. The many attractions are sumed up in the schedule for the season which has just been announced and which will be found in full in another column.

If North Plainfield is ever to unite with Plainfield, now is the time while the tax rates are so nearly equal. Then, too, the proposed improvements can be made at a far less cost when the two are one than under existing conditionns.

New York is now talking about the installation of water meters and the newspapers of that city have been pointing out some excellent reasons why the charge by meter is the only fair way.

City and borough streets are being put in order for the summer days when the carriages, bicycles and automobiles will be out in force.

BRIDAL RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Symons Entertained Their Friends Last Night.

A large number of friends of the bride and groom gathered at the reception held by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Symons, of East Third street, last evening. Members of the various societies with which the bride is identified at Hope chapel were present. An informal instrumental and vocal programme was rendered during the course of the evening by local talent. Refreshments were served at midnight.

Working for Missions.

REPLY TO MR. PLACE'S LETTER

WM. L. SAUNDERS CALLS ATTENTION TO SOME OF HIS STATEMENTS.

Shows Wherein They Are Not Correct—Offers to Answer Any Fair Question He May Ask.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Ex-mayor Place is either ignorant or he deliberately misrepresents the subject of the annexation and consolidation bills when he publishes over his signature the following statement: "It was very evident that it was the intention of those who were pushing these bills that they were to be passed without any referendum clause in them, for they were so originally drawn."

The bill for the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield had a referendum clause in it when first drawn and presented to the Legislature. The bill for changing the county line had no referendum in it until Senator Reed put it in there at the hearing before the Senate committee. No one before ever heard of a referendum in a county line bill. It is the power of the Legislature to fix county lines and changes in these lines are commonly made by Legislatures.

Mr. Place goes on to intimate that the promoters of these bills are afraid that he might ask them questions. I am ready to meet him publicly or privately at such place as he may select and will frankly and willingly answer any reasonable questions which he or any others may wish to ask. They may, if they wish, take down all questions and answers and submit them to the Governor.

Play fair, Mr. Place, and don't misstate the facts! This is a subject on which people may honestly differ but let it be discussed on its merits and not through insinuations.

W. L. Saunders.

Soon to Wed.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Garrett T. Mattis, of this city, and Miss Margaret McElvain, of New Brunswick, formerly of Plainfield. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride, next week.

WHO SAID IT.

George T. Rogers Makes Statement Concerning Authorship of Remarks Now in Dispute.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In a letter published in your columns last evening my friend, A. D. V. Honeyman, says:

"I may add that the Senator's allusion to myself in his Saturday's 'interview,' in which he states 'that he is 'informed in effect that if I had known that the (annexation) bill would be so amended, I would not have gone to Trenton at all,' proves that he has been misinformed and that somebody is grievously mistaken."

Now Mr. Editor, I would like to ask Mr. Honeyman if I did not say to him in a brief chat at the recent school meeting that "I thought the Senate committee would amend the annexation bill by adding a referendum," and if he did not say in reply that "if they had put that in the bill in the first place, there would have been no occasion for his going to Trenton."

It was I who informed Senator Reed of this conversation and it took place exactly as recited above.

THANKS FOR GIFTS.

Members of Young Women's Club Greatly Appreciate What Has Been Done for Them.

The members of the Young Women's Club are thoroughly appreciative of all the kindness which has been shown them from the time they organized, but especially since they lost their property in the recent fire in the Babcock building.

They wish particularly to thank The Daily Press for the space which it has given to the needs and work of the club and its expressions of support and good will.

They are indebted to the people mentioned below for a beginning in the furnishing of their new room: Lucius H. Biglow, printing; Mrs. Luicus H. Biglow, a sofa, table and cover, rug and several chairs; Mrs. Percy Phillips, a piano; Mrs. Lincoln, a book case; Mrs. Brooks, dishes; Mrs. Charles Burke, chairs; Mrs. Henry Janes, books and music; Charles Lyman, desk and chairs; D. W. Littell, Kern lights; A. M. Griffen, tea-kettle; Powlison & Jones, tables; Mrs. Emil Woltman, silver dish; Isaac Lederer, six pairs of curtains; J. W. Gavett, dishes; Elmer E. Runyon, chairs.

There have been left in the club rooms two pairs of lace curtains and several other articles without the names of the donors, and this is the only way in which they can be acknowledged.

So generous and prompt has been the response to the appeal of the club that now the only pressing need is for chairs and books and that need is great.

Corresponding secretary.

A number of Plainfielders attended a dance given at South Plainfield last evening under the auspices of the Patriotic Order Sons of America. They had a good time.

WAITED FOR LEGAL OPINION

SO HEALTH BOARD DID NOT ACT ON NEW SANITARY CODE.

Question as to Whether the Board Can Compel the Milkmen to Take Out Licenses.

There was to have been a special meeting of the Board of Health yesterday afternoon to consider the new sanitary code with a view to adopting the same. The meeting was postponed, however, for the reason that no report has as yet been received from Corporation Counsel Craig A Marsh concerning some of the important parts of the code.

It is a question as to whether the board has a legal right to compel milkmen to take out a license. Heretofore, the board has issued licenses to such milk dealers as have been willing to take them out and at the same time be given a clear bill showing that their product is pure and that the conditions under which it is obtained are all right. If the board has a legal right to compel dealers to take out a license it will prove a still better safe-guard to milk consumers and give the board a wider power in its control of the milk supply.

It is expected that before the next regular meeting the opinion in the matter will be given so that the code can soon be made operative.

VISITING KNIGHTS.

Attended First Session of Freedom Castle in the New Lodge Rooms Last Evening.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, met last evening for the first in the new rooms in the Coward building in Park avenue. There was a large attendance of members, also visiting sir knights from Mauch Chunk, Pa., Annandale, N. J., and Grand Master of Records A. L. Clark, of Trenton.

One candidate was initiated into the second degree and six were received into full membership of the order. John Becker, Jr., was installed as venerable hermit of the Castle.

Following the regular business there was a smoker and a musical programme consisting of the following: Piano duet, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan and Louis Hummer; vocal solo, "The Eagle Knight," Horace J. Martin; recitation, Harry B. Kitchell; "Fire Song," A. L. Clark; piano duet, Dr. Buchanan and Louis Hummer.

The next meeting of the Castle, Tuesday, April 22, will be an open one for the members and their male friends.

License For the Inn.

Through his counsel, Robert M. Clark, Charles B. Strong, secured a license in the Somerset County Court of Common Pleas, yesterday, to sell spirituous and fermented liquors at the Mountain Park Inn. Mr. Strong has a five-year lease on the summer hostelry with the privilege of another five if he so desires.

Strange Plant and Animal Life at Home and Abroad.

Mysteries of the Great American Desert—No Twilight in Death Valley—Stone Front Made of Shells.

[Special Los Angeles Letter.]

THOSE things to which we are most accustomed, however useful, excite hardly a passing thought; it is only those which the other man sees daily but which are near to us that arouse interest. In the great American desert the clear atmosphere causes distances to seem so much less than they appear to people who have always lived where the air is saturated with moisture that many newcomers are tempted to start upon journeys from which they never return, because overcome by thirst, while far away from any place where water may be obtained. It is said that in some localities in southern California no man can live over ten hours without drink, the dryness of the atmosphere causing the liquids of the body to evaporate quickly. The deceptive mirage effects often cause persons to be positive that the precious beverage which they so much desire is within easy walking distance, but going on and on they fail to reach it. Sometimes when water is found, it is so saturated with alkali or some other mineral substance that to drink it must result in a terrible death. Sometimes a mesquite limb is found sticking in the ground with a tin can on top. This is a sign that drinking water is near, and a person found removing it would be treated as a criminal of the worst type. The desert presents color and scenic effects nowhere else found, and which are often grand in the extreme; but the general impression given is one of an intense and almost awful loneliness.

In Death Valley there is no twilight. The sun suddenly appears above the horizon and it is day. It sinks behind some peak and intense darkness follows. Precipitous mountains form the brilliantly colored sides of bowl-shaped Death Valley, and their vast canyons contain neither water nor mineral wealth. But in past ages water and mud have played a strange game there. One of its effects is seen in the Devil's chair. The sand in this valley is very light, and even where no real wind is blowing, it drifts around in light whirls with the air that is always seen stirring in the desert. With a real blow, the sand hills move from 20 to 50 feet in one night, and a person lying down to sleep at the windward of one of them would find a deep grave before morning. Death valley contains rich deposits of borax, niter and salt. Thousands of dollars' worth of deserted machinery is scattered over this region where a man may go to sleep overcome by heat and awaken freezing. It is a good place "to hear about and not see." Near Nimes, France, is a walking mountain which during 48 hours slid over 30 meters, causing much excitement to people living in its vicinity. In Texas is a singing well which in pleasant weather gives out a sound like an aeolian harp. The tones are first clear, then recede until heard but faintly. These variations occur with regularity every few minutes. The water gets low and the sound faint when an east wind blows. When the wind changes to west, the water raises and the music increases correspondingly, in volume. When the wind veers around to the north, the water approaches the top of the well, which is 60 feet deep, and cold, weird tones float out on the air.

The pale blue Hidden river, in Kentucky, comes from no one knows whither and vanishes in a cave as yet unexplored. The Yellow river, in China, is supposed to have been always of its present hue, except on one day, about 3,000 years ago, when it became perfectly clear. On this occasion, a child, destined for fame, was born. Some Siberian rivers flow over a thick bed of solid ice. The rivers of Africa flow towards the ocean farthest from their source, their courses broken by falls. In Algeria, two streams, one of which draining a large swamp, is impregnated with gallic acid and the other with iron, unite and form a river of pure ink.

Certain scientific Englishmen are delighting over the discovery of a new animal, or, at least, one that was supposed to have disappeared several centuries ago. The creature inhabits the great forests which extend between the Congo and Uganda in Africa. In prehistoric times, as is proved by fossil remains, this animal lived in Greece and Asia Minor and it has been known as the extinct antediluvian heliadoterium. It has a body resembling that of an ox, the neck of a horse, the head of a tapir, the ears of an ass. From its fiery red forehead, a black band follows the nose around the nostrils. The ears, neck and shoulders are also red and crimson. The legs and paws have zebra-like stripes and spots of orange. The upper jaw contains no front teeth, the tongue resembles that of a giraffe. These animals go in pairs, and the natives call them okapi.

The reason why hundreds of thousands of birds go to the arctic regions to breed is because of the lavish amount of food which nature supplies to them at this point. The arctic summer with its perpetual sunshine forces the vegetation, and the crowberry, cranberry and cloudberry bushes yield enormously by the middle and end of the season. Each year the snow falls upon a crop of ungathered berries, preserving them perfectly. When it melts, the birds are back again and the old crop lasts until the new is ready for consumption. The heat which thaws the snow brings into winged existence vast swarms of mosquitoes, which are greedily devoured by insect-eating birds. No white man can exist during the summer season without a veil of some kind.

The native home of the castor bean is supposed to be tropical Asia or Africa, but the huge trees of this variety growing around Los Angeles, extending their leaves over many vacant lots, are a source of wonder to strangers. Some of these trees are more than 20 feet tall, and the trunks measure three or four feet in circumference. They grow wild and no special attention is here given to cultivating them, although in some parts of the country—notably southern Illinois, large revenues are derived from the oil obtained from the beans.

The Pacific coast furnishes a vast number of varieties of seaweed, hundreds of different kinds of delicate algae and as many of guarled, bulbous or serpent-like kelp, resembling vast sea monsters. The roots of the large varieties measure 200 feet in length, with foliage covering an area of 20 feet. From these an ingenious California woman has invented a process of constructing various highly ornamental curios. Iodine and petroleum salts are prepared from seaweed in the British Isles.

Lovers of the beautiful find endless delight at the beaches in southern California gathering and examining the great variety of shells found there. Of these none excite more admiration than the abalone shells scattered in such abundance at Long Beach and San Pedro. They take on a wonderfully fine polish and their marvelous opalescent tints are unrivaled. No two are alike, the delicate tints blending in a manner to individualize each one. A store front at Long Beach is formed of these polished shells, and is the best possible advertisement for the dealer in curios within. No one, even those accustomed to the sight daily, can fail to give a glance toward the dainty coloring exhibited as he passes. Some of the 700 shells, which, embedded in plaster, form this store front, weigh over two pounds. Scarlet, shell-pinks, sea-greens, crimson, peacock and pale blues shimmer in the sun. On the supporting posts of the interior of the store and the frieze around the ceiling, 2,000 more are employed in producing a creation suggestive of caves described in the Arabian Nights. Cases of pure specimens line the walls. The shells are secured by Japanese divers and polished by native workmen. EDWARD JULIAN.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON, 629 LaGrande Ave.

ROOSTER KILLS HAWKS.

Red Game Bird, Famed for Endurance and Pluck, Makes Short Work of His Enemies.

The novelty of a game rooster pitted successively against two monster chicken hawks was witnessed the other night in the front show window of a Main street saloon, at Zanesville, O. At a cocking main at Newark a red game rooster belonging to Jake Hartmeyer killed all the crack birds put up by Newark and carried off many hundreds of dollars for the Zanesville sports.

The other night Hartmeyer wagered $200 that his rooster could kill the two big chicken hawks which for several days past had been confined in a cage in C. W. Morrison's saloon window. The wager was accepted and side bets aggregating $1,000 were made.

The novel contest of the game chicken against the birds of prey was witnessed by the mayor and a crowd aggregating 200 people. The hawks were the largest ever captured in this section, measuring more than four feet from tip to tip of their wings, and it was the general expectation that short work would be made of the chicken.

The first fight was short and vicious. Both birds rushed at each other. The hawk caught the rooster by the throat, but before he could rend the game chicken the latter prodded him to death with the steel gaff with which he was armed. When the first hawk was dead the second one was immediately thrown into the cage. The second fight was a longer and harder one, but it also ended in the hawk being killed by the gaff being thrust through its neck.

DOG SAVED FAMILY.

Roused His Mistress, and She Dragged Out Her Seven Children Just in the Nick of Time.

A big shepherd dog, a pet of Mrs. Presspisch, a widow, of Baltimore, saved her and her seven children from being burned to death at her home on Stricker street early the other morning.

The dog had been barking furiously, and jumping against her bedroom door for a little while before Mrs. Presspisch was aroused from her sound sleep. As she opened the door a great volume of smoke rushed into the room and the blazing stairway cut off all escape to the street.

Mrs. Presspisch awakened her children, who were sleeping in adjoining rooms. This was no easy task, as two of them were then partly suffocated. The second floor was by this time untenable, and Mrs. Presspisch ran to the third floor.

The firemen had not yet arrived, and the heat and smoke were becoming unbearable. Mrs. Presspisch concluded that her only chance of escape was to rush to the rear and descend from the window to the adjoining roof. She bundled the youngest child in a blanket, and, with the others strung behind her, rushed through the smoke to the rear. Then the widow first and the children in turn jumped to the roof below, where the neighbors took care of them.

Handled with Great Care.

No document has ever been handled with more caution by the senate employes than the petition signed by 372 lepers, presented the other day by Senator Foraker. Some of the clerks asked for tongs, while others demanded gloves. The petition came from the leper settlement in Hawaii. The petitioners prayed that the settlement be not made a national leper colony.

Boers Still in the Field.

Col. Sir Vincent Sheffield, who has just returned from South Africa, stated in a speech at Eaton that when he left from 80 to 90 commandoes of about 200 men each were still in the field, or in all 16,000 to 18,000 men.

UP TO DATE TRIMMINGS.

How to Make Some of Them at Home.

Most of the trimmings of the present day are expensive to buy, but considerably cheaper to make with the aid of a sewing machine, and they are nearly all of the band character. The painted silks and chiffons and the many elaborate designs could not, of course, be reproduced easily, but it is otherwise with flat trimmings. They add much to the appearance of a dress. Cross cut strips of velvet, cloth or satin have a tiny garland embroidered in the center, with silks or cordonnet, or a very good effect is produced with round spots the size of peas, each one encircled with a thread of chenille.

Tartan taffeta is cut in crossway strips, carefully joined and the seams pressed flat, after which the edges must be turned down and pressed, which makes them quite ready to stitch on with the machine. They are much used on cloth and velvet. Oriental silks lend themselves admirably to this cutting on the cross and should have a narrow dark velvet band stitched down on both sides, framing the vivid bit of coloring.

The smart tailor made shown is of French blue whipcord trimmed with strappings of the same and applications of lustrous silk in a deeper shade. These applications take the form of bowknots. The jacket is collarless and has a small round rever of the silk edged with embroidery. The front is of ecru silk batiste.

The hat is of black and white straw, trimmed with big chiffon roses.

THE NEW DRESSES.

Gowns For the Coming Season Have a Distinctly Different Effect.

Although the alteration in shape is not very marked, yet gowns for the coming season have a distinctly different effect by reason of the changes in make and trimming. Some models show an immensity of tucks, cordings and stitchings, and others are incrusted with stenciled applique laid over color. Incrustations of lace are as popular as ever, but separate sprays, motifs or piecements are more fashionable than the continuous trimmings heretofore worn.

Graduated spots of velvet or of contrasting materials are laid on portions of a gown or a combination of plain and fancy material is worn, but the background matches in color. A charming effect is gained by the mixture of velvet spotted poplinette and plain of the same tint.

Russian blouses with short coattails are made of soft gray silk tucked in clusters. Worn with a pale gray cloth skirt and a full front of soft lace they are very effective.

One of the newest millinery models is shown in the illustration. The hat is made of tiny pink buds and their foliage. It is trimmed with loops of pale blue louisine ribbon.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"Sit down, Bill," he commanded, and the engineer tipped Lem Bilkins out of his chair and seated himself.

"Now," continued the judge, laying the book down on the table and throwing himself into his seat, "I was busy yesterday afternoon and don't know what this is all about. Tell me, somebody."

Mr. Barberry got up.

"If you p-p-please, your honor, I have the p-p-pleasure to ap-ap-a—"

That was the extent of Mr. Barberry's utterance, for the time. He grew red in the face, whistled, stamped his foot and struck himself in the side, all to no purpose.

Then the Colonel, suave, dignified, voluble, arose.

"Your honor," said he, "this is an action brought against one Barney Liscomb for maliciously threatening my life with a shotgun."

"I seen him do it!" declared Lem Bilkins.

"You hush, Bilkins. You, too, Keever. I wouldn't try to say anything if it's painful, Barberry. Sit down and keep still, all of you. I'm the boss of this threshing outfit."

"This is a court of law, your honor, and not a threshing outfit," remonstrated the Colonel.

"It isn't, eh? I say a court of law is a moral threshing machine. Doesn't it separate the wheat from the chaff?"

"Right you are, Waff!" seconded Bill Comfort.

The judge frowned at his engineer. "This is no the-ay-ter," he resumed. "What have you been doing, Barney?"

"Your honor, I-I-I—" began the lawyer for the defense.

"Don't distress yourself, Barberry; sit down. I was talking to Liscomb."

"I r-r-represent him in this c-c-case."

"Not in this court. Sit down, I tell you. Now, Barney?"

"But, your honor, c-c-c——" stuttered Barberry, red and desperate.

"Stop your whistling and stomping! Don't you know any better than to whistle and stomp in a court of justice?"

"But Mr. Lis-Lis-Liscomb——"

The judge stared at the lawyer so sternly he wilted in his chair.

"Shall I throw him out, Waff?" asked Bill Comfort, making a pugilistic gesture with his bunch of waste.

"No," said the judge, withdrawing his glare from Barberry and bestowing it upon his engineer; "but I'll tell you what you can do, Bill Comfort. You can keep still or I'll throw you out, and no two ways about it. Now, Barney."

Barney stood up and was about to speak when Col. Keever broke in ahead of him.

"Your honor, it is customary first to hear the plaintiff. I beg to be allowed to make my statement."

"And I beg to be allowed to tell you to mind your p's and q's. Is my authority to be respected or isn't it?"

Col. Keever coughed and thrust his hand into his bosom.

"I WILL address this court, sir."

"You will, will you!" exclaimed Waffle, starting up slowly. "If you say much more, the dignity of this court is going to be badly impaired."

"You're a disgrace to the law you profess to represent.

"Silence, or I'll fine you for contempt of court."

"If my fine was in proportion to my contempt," scored the Colonel, "a million dollars wouldn't pay it."

"Now, you're getting personal. Pettibone, if that man forgets himself again, take him down to the end of the hall and lock him up. While I'm here this thing is going to be run according to Waffle. Come here, Barney, and I'll swear you."

Barney laid his hand on the book while the oath was administered, then he was asked in a tone of judicial severity:

"Did you point a deadly weapon at that gentleman in the white hat?"

"Yes, sir."

"What was it—a shotgun?"

"Yes, sir."

"What was it loaded with?"

"No. 5 shot."

"How far were you from Col. Keever at the time?"

"About fifty feet."

"Now, then, answer me square-up. If your gun had gone off would it have killed our respected friend?"

"I think it would, sir."

The judge leaned forward in his chair.

"Then why in the fiend's name didn't you shoot?"

A painful silence settled over the courtroom and then there came a titter from someone somewhere in the crowd. Guy laughed outright. Springing erect, the Colonel inflated his broad chest, and fastened his eyes on Waffle.

"Sir," he cried in a voice whose every intonation sent a palpitating chill through Lem Bilkins, "you are invested with the sacred majesty of law, and I would rather cut off my right hand than raise it against one of the noblest of my country's institutions, but——"

"That will do, Keever," cut in the judge. "Make any more comments on my way of doing things and I'll fine you and levy on your old blanket sheet for the amount. You're the kind of a frontier product that makes an honest man blush for his race. You're having your day now, but the time will come when the people will find you out. Beware of that time, Keever, that's my advice to you."

Col. Keever arose stiffly and strode to the door. There he halted to shake his cane at the judge and exclaim wrathfully:

"You shall answer for this, sir! Egad, I shall see that you answer for this!"

He flounced out of the room and the judge laughed and called after him:

"Whenever you're ready for me, Colonel, you'll find me ready for you. Liscomb, I shall have to fine you ten dollars, not for what you did do, but for what you didn't do. If you will promise—"

He was interrupted by the wild tolling of a bell. His words died away on his lips and he sat rigidly upright, listening to the sound as though fascinated. Pettibone gave a startled jump. A deathlike stillness was everywhere broken only by the heavy breathing of those in the room.

"It's the alarm," cried Glimmer, his voice shaking with excitement; "the Harmony men are coming after the records! The Harmony men!"

"Court's adjourned!" shouted Waffle, leaping on the table. "Run for the courthouse, every man of you!"

There followed a scrambling rush for the door, accompanied by fierce yells and shouts of defiance. In the confusion, Guy and Barney were separated from the sheriff and from each other. Left to his own devices, Guy drew back and then trailed along in the rear of the crowd, which swept down the stairs and off up the street in the direction of the courthouse.

CHAPTER X.

When the excited Concordians reached the courthouse they found absolutely no sign of a foe. All was quiet and peaceful and the men who had formed themselves into a hasty cordon about the building began to look at each other dubiously. Their attention was finally attracted by Mrs. Glimmer, who came out in front of the Emporium.

"Who rang the bell," she cried, nervously.

"Don't you know?" returned her husband in a bewildered tone.

"I haven't the slightest idea, Benjamin. I heard a noise upstairs and ran to see what was the matter. While I was gone some one rang the bell. Dear sakes! Are the Harmony folks comin'?"

"Don't you worry, Amanda. Whether they come or not, I'm here. Did you see any one in the store when you came down?"

"Not a soul."

"Here's a how-de-do, boys," said Glimmer, in a puzzled tone. "Who could have rung that bell and what was it rung for?"

"There's Sampson up on top of the Blizzard building!" shouted Bilkins.

Sampson was there, sure enough, shading his eyes with his hand and looking off toward Harmony.

"See any one, Samp?" cried Pettibone.

"Can't see a thing," called back Sampson. "Some one must have played a joke on you fellows."

"Joke!" spluttered Waffle. "If we could find the man who played a joke of that kind we'd string him up."

Vast Timber Resources of the State of Washington

Markets Are Found in All Parts of the World.

Wonderful Forests of Fir, Cedar, Hemlock, Pine and Spruce in the Western Section

IT IS stated on eminent authority that there is more standing timber in the great state of Washington than can be found in the combined states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Prof. Henry Gannett, chief of the division of forestry, says: "With the exception of the redwood forests of California, the forests of the state of Washington are among the densest, heaviest and most continuous in the United States. The trees are large, reaching 12 to 15 feet in diameter and 250 feet in height, with clear trunks for 100 feet or more." The same authority estimates the amount of standing timber for the state to be approximately 114,778,000,000 feet, board measure. Nine-tenths of this vast amount is located west of the Cascade mountains—designated as western Washington. The entire area of the state is 66,880 square miles; of western Washington, 24,900 square miles, and of eastern Washington, 41,926—only 14,126 square miles of the latter containing merchantable timber—a little more than one-third of the total area of the eastern section.

The timber of Washington is largely composed of fir, with cedar and hemlock next in prominence, and pine and spruce of lesser quantity. There are about 450 saw and shingle mills in the state, jointly paying $25,000 daily in wages. Her forest products have the world for a market; her tall and shapely trees furnish flag staffs and ship's masts for all countries—the emperor's palace in Japan, and Windsor castle, in England, and the most famous racing yachts of our day are supplied from the evergreen forests of the Evergreen state.

The saw and shingle mills of Washington manufacture 8,000,000 feet of lumber and 28,000,000 shingles daily throughout the year. During the past year the lumber shipments from the state amounted to 869,500,000 feet, and of shingles 4,485,600,000 pieces. Imagining a roof over Mount Rainier standing 14,444 feet high—and covering an expanse of 200 square miles, and it is claimed that one year's output of the Washington product would properly shingle the entire surface! A train carrying her year's lumber product would reach a distance of over 1,500 miles—half way across the continent! There is yet standing in her forests many a giant fir tree which is sufficiently large to furnish every stick of lumber for the construction of a commodious house—and the refuse would supply fuel for a long period.

A WASHINGTON CEDAR STUMP.

IN A WASHINGTON FOREST.

In one of the coast counties stood a fir tree until 1881 which measured 66½ feet in circumference above where the roots start to spread. It measured 11 feet in diameter 75 feet from its base. The tree was broken off 100 feet from the ground, long years ago, and therefore its entire height is not known. It will be remembered by many who visited the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo that the executive commissioner for Washington had his headquarters in a giant fir stump, and a picture was shown of a backwoods home built within a cedar stump, roofed over, with a door and windows cut through the most durable of all durable woods. Many specimens are found in Washington forests where giant cedars have fallen, and above them have grown trees of great age and size—the dormant log remaining sound as when standing. In the woods of Clallam county is found the bed of an ancient pond or lake, and on its shores, entwined by the roots of an aged tree, is seen a partially completed Indian canoe, dug out of a cedar log—a doubly interesting study for the students of American antiquity.

The least named of the Washington woods is the misnamed "hemlock," as unlike the hemlock of New Zealand as is the local spruce or pine. Like other evergreen trees of the state, the hemlock grows as tall and straight as is possible for Nature's deft handiwork. An eastern publication has investigated the good qualities of Washington hemlock, and has come to its defense in strong terms. "The hemlock comprises 13 per cent. of the forest growth of the state," says the publication. "It is light, rather hard, straight-grained, tough and usually white. In points of strength, ease of working and freedom from warp or windshake, it is especially unlike the eastern hemlock. It is very light and tasteless, and therefore adapted for box material. It makes a handsome finishing wood and is strong enough for ordinary building material. It has proved satisfactory for woodenware stock and as box stock, and has already been sold to some extent as 'spruce.'"

It is also noted that violin makers of the Puget sound country have had wonderful success in making violins of the native hemlock, some of which have commanded fancy prices for their excellence of tone and handsome appearance.

With the present rate of manufacture of lumber in the state of Washington—without taking into consideration the natural increase by growth—the present supply would last for more than 100 years to come.

CATCHES SNAKES FOR LIVING.

Young California Woman and Her Dog Follow an Exceedingly Dangerous Pursuit.

Miss Grace Somers is a young woman of California who spends her days chasing the deceptive snake. Miss Somers has never forgiven that first snake of which history bears evidence for causing her grandmother of remote ages to be expelled from the Garden of Eden; but finding she cannot undo the harm she has determined to get even, says Woman's Home Companion. She starts out every morning to a range of mountains where snakes abound, and many and exciting are the adventures she can relate. She is accompanied by a dog, who shares with her the dangerous sport. Miss Somers cures and prepares the skins, and sells them to be made up into purses and belts. It may be added that Miss Somers was a typewriter girl, but disliked the drudgery of office work and abandoned it for the rattlesnake chase.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Orange Field Club second nine and the Plainfield High School scrub team will cross bats on Pittis' field, Saturday afternoon.

The baseball committee of the Hope Y. M. A. awarded the contract for the erection of the baseball bleachers, last evening, to John Dahl. Work will be commenced immediately in order to have them ready for Saturday's game with the Plainfield High School team.

The addition of "Al" Squire to the St. Mary staff of twirlers will meet with the hearty approbation of all local cranks. He is too good a player to let stay outside of the League and the St. Mary management realized it. He practiced with Catcher Barry for the first time, last Saturday.

John Kuhn, or "Cooney," of the Safe Works contingent, showed he had lost none of his old form in Saturday's practice. Those who remember him as the crack P. A. C. member several years ago, will realize its import. At third base he is decidely at home and cannot be improved upon by an amateur.

Fred Dixon was a great surprise to the spectators at the Hope team practice, Saturday afternoon. He showed up in splendid shape behind the bat and demonstrated he is a player not to be neglected. A feature of his work was the manner in which he threw to second, ordinarily a "sticking" point to catcners.

Manager Muir, of the Safe Works team, has arranged for a game on the home grounds, a week from Saturday with the Perth Amboy Safe Works team. The latter nine played all last season and gave an excellent exhibition in this city with the Clinton Avenue team. Some of the players were at one time members of the crack Marions, Perth Amboy's representative team.

There will be no dearth of baseball games on local grounds Saturday afternoon. The following have already been announced: Hope Y. M. A. against Plainfield High School; St. Mary against Rahway Field Club; North Plainfield High School against Perth Amboy High School. In addition to these the Safe Works team will compete with the Dunellen A. C. on the latter's grounds.

Contractor Michael Higgins began work, yesterday morning, placing the St. Mary baseball field in first-class shape. The outfield is to be attended to in particular, although the diamond is not to be neglected. Both will be in condition for the opening game, Saturday afternoon, which is positively announced to be with the Rahway Field Club. Manager Monahan and Captain Keene completed arrangements for the contest, yesterday.

GOLF.

The work of building the addition to the Hillside Tennis and Golf Clubhouse is progressing steadily. By the addition the large room will be enlarged to permit dancing and large dinner parties. The work will be completed within a short time.

There was a great surprise in golfing circles last Saturday when J. Whitney Baker, of this city, who is a member of the Princeton University Golf Club, defeated Allan Kennaday, State champion by 3 up. It was in the team match between Princeton and Baltusrol. In thd same match F. O. Reinhart defeated his opponent, Roy DeRaismes, champion of Baltusrol, by 5 up.

PLUNGED THROUGH DRAW

TRAFFIC DELAYED ON JERSEY CENTRAL FOR FOUR HOURS.

Three Freight Cars Ran Through Open Draw—Carry Death to One Trainman.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, April 16—A freight train, plunging into an open draw of the Newark bay bridge, last evening, resulted in the drowning of a train hand and the loss of three cars which sunk. Thomas Long, a flagman, was the victim of the accident.

When nearing Bayonne, the engineer of the train, which was going west, slowed up to allow three cars to be switched on a siding. As soon as the train had crossed the bridge the draw was opened to allow a vessel to pass through. The three cars became uncoupled in some manner and whizzed down the grade toward the bay. Long worked heroically to stop the impending accident and by clinging to his post lost his life.

Notice was immediately wired in both directions along the line and a wrecking train sent for. The crew of the wrecking train worked rapidly but it was four hours before the freight cars could be removed and a resumption of traffic brought about. During the interval the passenger trains were run by the way of Newark.

BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

Pleasant Affair Given by the King's Daughters of Grace M. E. Church.

In all respects the birthday sociable, held by Golden Rule Circle, of the King's Daughters, of Grace M. E. church, last evening, was a success. A large part of the congregation shared in the enjoyment of the occasion.

Superintendent of the Sunday-school John Valiant entertained the assemblage with phonograph selections. Mrs. G. W. Gardner sang a solo, in which Miss Mary Steiner acted as accompanist. Some violin solos were given by Dyckman Winkler. Birthday readings were given by Mrs. Mary Hongland, Mrs. Dyckman Winckler and Mrs. W. Woodland. Refreshments were served.

NEW LICENSE CLERK.

Somerville Commissioners Not Satisfied With the Old One.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 16.—At the meeting of the Board of Town Commissioners Monday night Justice E. W. Farley was ousted from the office of license clerk and Jacob H. Gernert was chosen in his stead. There has been some trouble over Mr. Farley not reporting properly to the board.

The annual citizens' meeting will be held May 3, and the election for seven commissioners will take place Monday, May 5.

Charged With Non-Support.

The trial of Samuel Q. Fields, charged by his wife with non-support, took place before City Judge Runyon, this morning. After three hours of testimony taking, the judge announced that he would reserve his decision until Saturday morning. Fields was represented by S. S. Swackhamer while Peter Bentley, of Jersey City, appeared for Mrs. Fields.

Marcellus to Reform School.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 16—Edward Marcellus, the Plainfield colored boy who was recently committed to the reformatory at Rahway, was this morning sent to the reform school at Jamesburg. The latter place is intended only for wayward boys of tender age while the former is for first term criminals.

To Discuss Increase.

The Master Plumbers' Association will meet this evening to discuss the the request made by the journeymen plumbers for an increase in a day's pay. The session is apt to be a protracted one.

Annual Church Meeting.

The trustees of the German Lutheran church will hold their annual meeting this evening. The session will take place at the home of Rev. Theodore Duensing, at 119 Liberty street.

Reform Club Meeting.

The Reform Club will hold a meeting at its hall tomorrow evening. Benjamin Hand will speak and Miss Jennie Smith will furnish some instrumental music.

The home was attractively decorated with wild flowers and greens. During the early part of the evening the bride and groom received the hearty congratulations of their friends. This was followed by a sumptuous repast, after which dancing was the feature until an early hour this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Wikoff received a very large number of presents, nearly all wood, and everything was of a useful character. KNOCKED DOWN BY HER LOVER

Miss Mamie Cline Charges John Scott With Assaulting Her on the Street Tuesday.

SAYS HE WAS JEALOUS.

Police Are Looking for John Scott, of Muhlenberg Place—Miss Cline Made Complaint as Soon as She Was Able—Was Knocked Unconscious—Her Side of Story.

The local police department and those of nearby cities are looking for John Scott, of Muhlenberg place, who, it is charged, committed a brutal assault on Miss Mamie Cline, of East Third street, Tuesday evening. Complaint was entered against him by the girl herself, yesterday, but the man has left town, taking care to cover his tracks.

According to the girl's story and those of witnesses she met Scott, with whom she has been keeping company, on West Second street, near Exchange alley. She had been walking with a male companion at whom, she says, Scott is embittered on account of her friendship. Scott spoke to her about it and on receiving indifferent replies, suddenly drew back and struck her a terrific blow on the head. She was rendered unconscious by its force and was sent spinning to the middle of the street. Without waiting to see the result of his blow, Scott, it is declared, ran away.

Several men who witnessed the occurrence picked the insensible girl up and carried her to George Cole's office. It was nearly an hour afterward before she recovered and at one time, a physician who was summoned, thought the blow would result fatally. She was eventually taken to her home in a cab and yesterday was able to appear in court and make the complaint.

Scott is a heavily built fellow and the police give him a bad record, mainly for his pugnaciousness. He is a molder by trade but of late has been working for the United States Express Company.

The committee in charge consists of Miss Fannie Olden, chairman; Mrs. Josephine Till, Mrs. Henrietta Grobes, Mrs. E. B. Maynard, Mrs. Martha Hooper, Mrs. Kate Washington, Mrs. May Lain, E. B. Maynard, W. H. Grobes, and Rev. G. B. Smith.

New England Tea.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of Hope chapel, was entertained at the home of Mrs. Z. T. Kinzey, of Somerset street, yesterday afternoon, with a New England tea. There was a large attendance and several hours were spent in a delightful manner. The regular business meeting of the society was held previous to the sociable features.

No Important Business.

There will be no meeting of the Councilmanic street committee this week as there is nothing of any special importance to consider. The street work is progressing satisfactorily and, as the weather grows more seasonable, the plans for the summer will be carried out.

No Meetings at Present.

Pending the return of the president, Nelson A. Miller, the Young Men's Brotherhood of the First M. E. church, is not holding meetings at present. Mr. Miller is away on a business trip.

No Tickets Required.

No tickets will be required at the illustrated lecture to be given by Julia M. Carman, D. D. S., at the Y. M. C. A., this evening. A silver offering will, however, be received.

GOOD BALL DEFEATED NEWARK ACADEMY NINE

City High School Team Won Decisive Victory From Old Time Rivals of Newark.

PLAYED A GOOD GAME.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WERE VICTORIOUS BY A SCORE OF 8 TO 3.

VanAuken Outpitched the Newark Twirler, While the Local Team Outbatted and Outfielded the Opposing Nine—Took the Lead.

Newark Academy went down in defeat before the Plainfield High School in a well played game of baseball yesterday afternoon. The contest took place on Pittis' field and the final score was 8 to 3 in favor of the local nine. A large crowd, in which there was no small number of rooters, witnessed the game and seemed to note the marked improvement made by the Plainfield lads since the game of a week ago.

Especially were the local boys jubilant by reason of the fact that they had turned the tables on their rivals from the Newark Academy. Last year the latter won by a score of 18 to 0 and the result rankled in the breasts of the Plainfielders. There was a spirit of overconfidence displayed by the visitors at the start but they were soon impressed with the fact that they were up against a strong proposition.

VanAuken, the handy pitcher of the home team, did some fine work in the box. Before his swift delivery eight men died without being able to run to first. This was a department of the game in which the Newarkers were particularly weak. Van Auken weakened somewhat in the sixth inning but he soon got himself together again.

Rocap and Walters were clever at the bat and each landed a two base hit, which gave the visitors blind staggers for the time being. Craig, at short stop, was conspicious. He made two base hits and fielded well. Dyer, the second baseman, showed up well also.

All the three runs made by the visitors were scored as a result of ragged work on the part of the home team. Pitcher Drake, of the visitors, was up to the mark, but was somewhat handicapped by the lack of systematic work in the field. This was the first game this season for the Newark Academy boys and there is need for much practice on their part.

COMPANY K'S RANK.

Stands Thirteenth Out of the Forty-Six in the State Militia.

The Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., will go into camp at Sea Girt for one week, commencing July 5. This regiment includes Company K, of this city. In the rating, just published, it is noticed that Company K finished last year thirteenth out of forty-six company. This is considered remarkable in view of the fact that it is a new company. This year a number of the boys will try for the sharpshooters' medal. Captain Browning is anxious to take a full quota of men into camp and is now recruiting for that purpose.

Preferred to Pay Fine.

Wm. Jeroloman, the young man fined $5 in the city court, yesterday, paid the amount later in preference to spending twenty days in jail. His companion, Lewis Milligan, could not raise the money and was escorted to Elizabeth.

THE GREATER PLAINFIELD BILLS WERE SIGNED

Governor Murphy Affixed His Signature Yesterday Afternoon to the Three Bills, Which Will Give the People of North Plainfield a Chance to Decide for Themselves.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 17.—After carefully weighing the arguments presented to him for and against annexation and consolidation, Governor Franklin Murphy attached his signature yesterday afternoon to the three bills passed by the Legislature. It now only remains for those whose interests are concerned to stamp their approval on the measures, by ballot at a special election, before the object will be attained.

Governor Murphy filed a memorandum with the bills. It is as follows:

The bills were passed by the Legislature with a full knowledge of the situation.

In the various hearings and interviews on both sides of the question, no fact has appeared, and no reason has been given, that was not known to the Legislature when they passed the bills.

The population of North Plainfield is suburban. The men go to New York daily, and are imbued with city notions and desires. The population of Somerville is rural. The men stay at home and are governed by the farmers' points of view. This difference in population has caused sharp jealousies and differences between the two towns. These will only disappear by a transfer of North Plainfield into Union county.

From the best information I have been able to obtain, North Plainfield has received from the county about as much in improvements as it has paid in taxes. Its position in this respect has been neutral. I do not believe the taxes of the county will be increased if North Plainfield is taken into Union.

I believe, all things considered, and there is much to consider, when the present feeling dies away, the people of Somerset county will rejoice that I have signed these bills. Whether this is so or not, no reason has appeared which seems to me to justify my withholding my approval.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST MADE GOOD SHOWING

Balance Was Reported on the Right Side at the Annual Meeting Held Last Night.

FINANCES IMPROVING.

DECIDED TO OMIT EVENING SERVICES DURING PASTOR'S VACATION.

Four Trustees Were Re-elected—Members Want to Hear of Financial Condition More Often Than Once a Year.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held last evening and the reports showed a flourishing condition of affairs. Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the church, presided and Thomas A. Cuming acted as clerk.

It was decided that the evening services be dispensed with during the pastor's vacation in the summer. Some time was consumed in discussing the most feasible way to keep the members informed of the financial condition of the church.

In the election for trustees to fill vacancies caused by expiration of terms the following were re-elected: J. W. Johnson, A. D. Thompson, R. C. Treadwell and F. T. Ostrom. These will serve for the full term of two years. The resignation of Cornelius K. Compton was received but he will be requested to withdraw it.

The report of F. T. Ostrom, as treasurer, showed that there was a deficit of $155 which first confronted the trustees at the beginning of last year, but that item was wiped out. Now the condition of finances is especially gratifying. The cash balance on hand April 1, 1901 was $576. The receipts for the year, on account of the general fund, were $3,716.67 and the expenses were $3,712.27, leaving a small balance on hand.

After the meeting a sociable and entertainment took place. Little Miss Ruth Frey gave a recitation. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. F. T. Ostrom, chairman, Mrs. Frank Vail, Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Mrs. John Dunham and Mrs. T. I. Runyon. As waiters and waitresses the following served: George Watts, Herbert Brokaw, Joseph Hawkins, Ferdinand Norman, Ernest Whitney, Aaron Thompson, and the Misses Mary Giles, Jennie Giles, Henrietta Cuming, Helen Cuming, Adelaide Runyon, Elizabeth Runyon, Elizabeth VanWinkle and Florence Hawkins.

Curtis Paid His Fine.

David L. Curtis, the Plainfield man who was sentenced in an Elizabeth court, Tuesday, to ninety days in the county jail, has been released. After remaining in confinement for a short time he preferred to pay the $20 fine imposed as an alternative.

Another Man.

The defendant in the non support case brought in the city court yesterday was Edward Fields and not Samuel Q. Fields, as mentioned in The Daily Press. The latter is father of the defendant.

SUDDEN ACQUAINTANCE

One of F. H. Firstbrook's Delivery Wagons Met a Trolley Car During a Lively Runaway.

While William Newman, the driver, was delivering an order, a horse belonging to Fred H. Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, became frightened at the corner of Grant avenue and Fifth street, yesterday afternoon and ran away.

It dashed down Fifth street, escaping collision until it reached Monroe avenue when the rear of the wagon scraped acquaintance with a trolley car. Just previous, James Deady, a small boy who was on the seat, was thrown out but escaped with a few bruises.

The wagon was badly damaged and the horse was also injured slightly. The runaway was caught by the crew of the trolley car.

MRS. NEVIUS BECAME WIFE OF D. H. POUND

Pretty Home Wedding Took Place at Home of the Bride Yesterday Afternoon.

A VERY QUIET AFFAIR.

A CHARMING COLOR SCHEME IN THE FLORAL DECORATIONS AT HOUSE.

Was Attended by Relatives and a Few Intimate Friends of the Couple—Rev. C. E. Herring Performed the Ceremony.

A pretty home wedding took place yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Augusta Nevius, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson, was married to Daniel Herbert Pound, of West Front street. The affair, which was a quiet one, took place at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride, 951 West Fifth street, in the presence of a limited number of guests from out of town and this city.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The prevailing colors in the parlor were green and white, there being used calla and Easter lilies and palms. In the dining room the color scheme was pink. A large number of begonias were prettily banked about the room, while the table was also attractively garnished.

The bride and groom were unattended. They descended the main stairway and entered the parlor while the wedding march was played by G. P. Smith, of Somerville. The bride was richly gowned in French grey crepe de chine, trimmed with chiffon and point applique. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and she also wore pink roses in her coiffure.

While the impressive ceremony of the Episcopal church was being performed by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Mr. Smith, who presided at the piano, rendered softly appropriate selections. Immediately after the ceremony congratulations were received by Mr. and Mrs. Pound. Then followed the wedding repast, during which there was an exchange of happy greetings. The bride was the recipient of many gifts.

They will not take a wedding journey at present, but will at once go to housekeeeping at 952 West Fifth street. The bride has been a resident of this city for a number of years, where she has a host of friends. The groom is the senior member of the firm of D. H. Pound & Brothers, plumbers, doing business at 138 Central avenue, and he is also popular in a large circle of acquaintances.

Among those who attended the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Hodge, Miss Emma Kitchen and Adam Neumann, Daniel S. Pound, Harry Pound, Miss May Pound and Miss Susan Pound, of this city; John Pound, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nevius, of Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. Austin G. Nevius, Miss Hannah Young, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James Stevenson, of Flemington, and Mrs. VanDoren, of Trenton.

Flourishing Condition of Congregational Church Shown at Its Annual Meeting.

THE TRUSTEES ELECTED

THE YEAR'S BENEVOLENCES OF THE CHURCH AMOUNTED TO $1,825.

Meetings of the Church and Society Were Held—Treasurer's Report Showed All Bills Paid and a Small Balance Left.

The annual meeting of the Congregational church and society was held last evening, when considerable business of an interesting nature was transacted. It was shown by the reports that there is a small balance in the treasury, all bills have been paid and that there is no indebtedness on the church.

The church meeting was held first when Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, the pastor, presided, and L. I. VanAlstyne acted as church clerk. The report of the official board showed the total membership to be 283, a gain of twenty-nine. Six members were lost, three of whom died. The total amount of benevolence was $1,825.

A report was received from the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church to the effect that a lot located at the corner of Plainfield avenue and Fifth street, valued at $500 has been purchased and that there is in the treasury $1,000 toward a building fund. Another $1,000 is desired and this will permit the erection of a church this year.

L. I. VanAlstyne was re-elected church clerk, and John M. Whiton and George F. Reynolds were re-elected deacons for a full term of two years. Alex. Miller, H. C. Nomer and J. A. Powlison were re-elected members of the Official Board.

A letter was received from the First Congregational church, of Bound Brook, inviting the church to a council to be held Wednesday evening, April 23, in Jersey City, and a similar letter was received from the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, inviting the church to a similar council to be held at Jersey City in the afternoon of April 23. Alex. Millar was elected delegate to both councils, to accompany the pastor. Alex. Millar and J. A. Powlison, together with the pastor and his wife, were elected delegates to the State conference to be held in the First Congregational church, Jersey City, April 22 and 23.

On the question of closing the church during the month of August, it was decided after a lengthy discussion to close the church the last three Sundays in August. This meeting then adjourned.

The society meeting followed. John M. Whiton was elected chairman. The report of the treasurer, Morris C. VanArsdale, showed the total receipts for the year to be $3,080 and that there is a small balance in the treasury with all bills paid.

L. I. VanAlstyne was re-elected clerk and Stacy Raynolds auditor. The trustees elected are as follows Alex. Millar, John E. Stewart, Howard Tomlinson, Morris C. VanArsdale, E. L. Suffren, Frank Weeks and J. E. Morse. Mr. Suffren and Mr. Weeks are new trustees, while the rest were re-elected. The constitution as amended was offered and laid over for action at a meeting to be called for the purpose.

DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY LEAVE

Concluding Session of Daughters of Liberty State Council Was Held Yesterday.

THE OFFICERS ELECTED.

Several Propositions Came Up for Consideration, But Were Not Carried—218 Registered Delegates Were Present—All Was Harmonious — Decisions.

The closing session of the State Council, Daughters of Liberty, was held yesterday afternoon and it was 6 o'clock when the convention adjourned. The principal business of the afternoon was the election of offices. In many cases it required a number of ballots to decide the question of election. The following were finally chosen:

State councilor, Mrs. Mary L. Siefert, of Jersey City; State associate councilor, Mrs. Bessie Long, of New Brunswick; State vice councilor, Mrs. Bertha H. Jones, of Jersey City; State associate councilor, Mrs. Hester A. Shaw, of Newark; State secretary, Williard L. Hayward, of Newark; State associate secretary, Mrs. Jennie R. Hayward, of Newark; State treasurer, Miss Ida Lawrence, of Swedesboro; State guide, Mrs. Margaret Russell, of town of Union; State inside guard, Mrs. Ida Day, of Milburn; State outside guard, Elmer E. Thompson, of Washington; National representatives, Mrs. Sarah T. Rellstab, of Trenton, Mrs. Cora Birkbeck, of Keyport, George W. McFarland, of Trenton, Mrs. Ida R. Kirkendall, of Newark; alternates, Mrs. Abbie Higgins, of Trenton, Mrs. Carrie A. Vanderhoof, of Newark, Wm. VanDoren, of Newark, Mrs. Anna Powell, of Camden.

During the session there were two propositions made and both were defeated. One was that the Council pay mileage for the forty district deputies to the State Council, and the other one was that the per capita tax be reduced from 30 to 20 cents. A resolution was adopted thanking the local committee for the earnest work accomplished and another resolution was adopted thanking the press of the city for the accounts given in the papers of the convention.

There was an amendment to the bylaws so that in the future the usual charge of 25 cents for dispensations will not be levied. The State Councilor gave decisions in several matters of more or less importance. It was reported that the mileage and hotel bills to be paid for the State officers for the present convention amounted to $191.89.

There were 218 registered delegates. These with the visitors brought the total number up to 300. Among the visitors yesterday were National Secretary Wililam V. Edkins, Ex-State Councilor Miss Elizabeth Steel, Ex-State Associate Councilor Mrs. Ella P. Townsend, and National Inside Guard Mrs. Amelia Axtell, all of Philadelphia.

The convention was considered to be the best ever held. For the second time in the history of the order the weather was clear and pleasant. There was no dissention and the business of the sessions was conducted in a harmonious manner.

FEW CHANGES MADE IN THE GAME LAWS

Legislature Did Comparatively Little Tinkering With Fish and Game Statutes.

THE CHIEF CHANGES.

MOST IMPORTANT BILL WAS LOST AFTER BEING PASSED BY LEGISLATURE.

It Provided for Licensing All Hunters From Outside the State—Some of the Minor Changes Made to the Laws.

Fewer changes than usual were made by the Legislature in the fish and game laws this year. Eleven laws in all have been placed on the statute books, which will necessitate some study on the part of hunters and fishermen.

The most far-reaching of any of the bills passed by the Legislature was Mr. Horner's measure to compel all hunters from outside the State to pay a license fee before doing any shooting in New Jersey, but the bill, which is said to have been lost somewhere in transition from the Assembly chamber to the executive department, has not been found, and it is considered doubtful if it will be located in time to become a law this year, a thorough search having so far failed to discover its whereabouts. The bill was intended primarily to keep out some of the boys and pot hunters from Philadelphia, who during the hunting season swarm over the farms and fields of Burlington and the other counties in the southern end of the State, and do not always distinguish between wild and domestic fowl when game is scarce.

The open season for ruffled grouse or partridge, quail, hare, rabbits, grey, black or fox squirrel and English ringnecked pheasants this year will be from November 10 to December 15, and woodcock may be shot, if they can be found, in July, October, November and December.

There is a new law relating to fishing in the Hackensack river that makes it unlawful to catch fish in that stream except by hook and line or by trolling, between June 10 and February 25. Exceptions are made, however, so that tomcods may be taken with fyke nets from December 15 to January 15, and fyke nets and eel pots may be used for catching carp, catfish and eels at any time between June 10 and December 15.

To help the Fish and Game Commissioners and wardens to prevent infractions of the fish and game laws, a law has been signed which gives fish and game officers the right to enter and search any house, building or other premises where it is suspected that fish or game illegally caught or killed has been concealed.

Persons who find sport or profit in catching carp and suckers may go after these river scavengers with spears and nets under certain restrictions, by securing a permit for that purpose from the State Fish and Game Commissioners.

An error overlooked in the passage of game laws last year that repealed a former law intended to give the deer of south Jersey a chance to propagate and grow, and allowed a short open season last year, during which hundreds of the animals were slaughtered, has been remedied by the enactment of a new law making it illegal to shoot any deer in the State, outside of private preserves, for the next three years.

Shooting wild duck from the ice, as has been done to a great extent along Barnegat Bay and other inlets under previous laws, is made unlawful. Cape May marsh hens are to be protected by a new law that makes the open season from September 1 to December 31, but prohibits the killing by any one hunter of more than twenty-five birds a day, under a penalty of $20 for each bird killed over the maximum allowance.

Two or three colonies of beavers in Warren and Sussex counties are to be protected as summer attractions by a law providing a fine of $100 for catching or killing any of the animals, while south Jersey gunners are encouraged to devote their efforts to killing off the foxes that abound in that part of the State by a new law which gives the county freeholders authority to offer a bounty of $3 for each fox killed.

Two new laws, which are intended to preserve the food fish that frequent the Atlantic shores, make it illegal to sell striped bass of less than eight inches in length, and to sell any food fish for manufacturing or fertilizing purposes. The latter act does not interfere with the catching and sale of mossbunkers or menhaden, which is a business extensively followed by proprietors of trawlers and sloops during the summer. Neither does it prevent the catching of fish to be placed in cold storage in the summer and preserved until winter, to be then sold as fresh fish.

Several efforts to repeal the law forbidding the tracking of rabbits in the snow, and to allow fishing through the ice for suckers, failed to get through Senate, as did also a bill intended to prohibit woodcock shooting in July.

It is still lawful to slaughter tame pigeons in any number if they are shot from traps in shooting matches, although an act passed last year prohibits the shooting of wild song birds or any other than game birds, crows and hawks.

The devotional committee has prepared a long programme which will begin late in June and continue until the middle of September. The details of the programme have just been made public.

The season will open Saturday evening, June 28, with a concert led by Aali Esen Morgan, who will arrange and lead all musical services during the season.

The opening sermon will be preached Sunday, June 29, when one of the Bishops is expected to be present.

The holiness meeting, under the charge of the devotional committee, and that of the young people, led by Dr. C. H. Yatman, at 9 o'clock in the morning, will be instituted at this date and continued until September 1.

The auditorium Sunday afternoon Bible class, led by Dr. O'Hanlon, and the Sunday evening sunset meeting at the beach, led by the Vice President, will also begin at this date and will be held each Sunday till the season closes, as will also the regular summer Sunday-schools.

On every Saturday evening a public musicale will be given. The schedule for the national anniversary, July 4, will include an oration in the morning which Hon. E. C. Stokes has been invited to deliver, with Governor Murphy to preside; a patriotic entertainment in the evening, and a service of a national character on the following Sunday.

July 9 has been marked for the Sunshine Society, July 11 for moving pictures, July 13 for the Sabbath Association, July 15 for the Epworth Leagues, July 16 for the King's Daughters, July 20 for Hospital Sunday, with Dr. Kavanaugh, president of the Seeney Memorial Hospital, New York, for preacher. July 21 and 22 have been assigned to the National Woman' Suffrage Society, at which Mrs. Catt and Miss Anna Shaw, of national fame in platform oratory, will speak. July 23 and 24 will be occupied by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; July 26, 27 and 28 by the National Temperance Society, with the best speakers obtainable, in which Gen. Joseph Wheeler is expected. The evenings of July 28 and 29 will be occupied by moving pictures under the charge of the Washington bureau, and for July 29 Signor Vitali has been invited. The memorial and anniversary services will be held July 31, and on the following Sunday, August 3, the Children's Day, one of the greatest features of Ocean Grove, will be in charge of Prof. Morgan. August 5 and 6 will be given to the Woman's Home Missionary Society, August 7 to the Deaconesses, August 8 and 9, together with the morning services of the suceeding Sunday, to the woman's foreign missions.

The time from August 11 to August 21 has been assigned to the Summer School of Theology, Bishop Fitz-Gerald presiding. For this school men of the highest ability have been secured, among whom are Dr. Gross Alexander, whose work last year was received with enthusiastic approval; Prof. Aked, one of England's foremost eminent gentlemen, will lecture on the latest discoveries in liquid air and wireless telegraphy.

August 15 will be Pennington Day, when Dr. Piper, of Philadelphia, will lecture on Carlyle, and when an appropriate entertainment will be conducted in the evening, with Rev. Dr. McDowell, and others of like distinction, to speak.

The great camp meeting will enter upon its spiritual functions on the evening of August 22 with the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, in which so many thousands of different denominations annually unite.

The day following will be devoted to spiritual preparation in conferences for labor and the supplications of prayer. Rev. Dr. Alexander will preach the opening sermon and Rev. Dr. Joseph Smith that of the camp meeting love feast. The sunrise meeting in the tabernacle, the family prayer in the auditorium, and the fellowship helping hand in Thornly chapel will be added to the morning programme. Mrs. Elizabeth Smith will hold her immediate sanctification services at 1:30 o'clock, Dr. Joseph

Smith will occupy every afternoon in the Tabernacle at 3, Mrs. Starks will hold the children's meeting at 4, Dr. Yatman the twilight service at 6, and Rev. Clarence Strause will have charge every evening.

September 1 will be the closing service involving the march, with its entire exercises conducted by Bishop Fitzgerald. The evening of that day has been given to the missionary training school of Mrs. Osborne.

On the evening of September 4 the firemen will give their annual entertainment.

On the Sundays of September 7 and 14 there will be preaching in the auditorium, which will close the season. Among the eminent ministers invited are Dr. Myers, of the Baptist Temple; Dr. Eckman, of New York; the pastor of the North Reformed church at Newark; and Rev. Mr. MacMullen, of New York.

TALK OF EQUALIZING STATE HIGH SCHOOLS

Movement Looking Toward Adoption of Arrangement Similar to N. Y. State.

BOTH SIDES ARE GIVEN.

SUBJECT INTELLIGENTLY DISCUSSED IN A NEWARK NEWS EDITORIAL.

Would Secure State Aid in Bringing Weaker High Schools Up to the Standard—It Would Affect Both City and Borough Schools.

While there has been some question as to the comparative standing of the city and borough High Schools, it is generally conceded that both of the High Schools are considerably above the standards of the High Schools in many other cities throughout the State. Everyone, who is at all interested in educational work in general and the High School system in particular, will learn with interest of a movement now being made throughout the State to place all the High Schools of New Jersey on a level. That such a movement would certainly affect both city and borough schools, there is no doubt.

The Newark News devotes a lengthy editorial to the consideration of the subject. It is reproduced here in full as it gives an intelligent summary of the situation. It is as follows:

"A plan is proposed to place the High Schools of New Jersey under State supervision, with a view to establishing a uniform standard of secondary education and increasing the efficiency of those schools which, through local indifference or pecuniary considerations, are weak. The plan is under discussion by the Council of Education and the High School Teachers' Association. It contemplates a system similar to the regents' system in New York, whereby a special High School fund would be obtained from the State and expended on a fixed basis of apportionment, visits of inspection and advisory supervision would be made by a special corps, and examinations would be conducted from questionns prepared by the head of the system and submitted uniformly to all schools in the State.

"Under this last provision of the plan, the first year class in the Belvidere High School, for instance, and the first year class in the Barnegat High School, having been put through the same course of study laid down in outline by the regents, would be expected to answer the same examination questions, and on passing would receive cards or certificates having equal value in all High Schools under the State system. It is this examination feature that is debatable, as the committee appointed to look into the New York system frankly admits.

"Separate recognition of High School work as a distinct feature of the State system of education is clearly needed in New Jersey. Such has been the cry of State superintendents for years. Financial aid is as badly needed in many communities as official recognition and encouragement. The advantage of some definite standard to measure High School work is apparent. Without it the Belvidere High School might be a year ahead of, and the Barnegat High School a year behind, all professing to cover the same field of instruction. Without such a system the 'discredited' schools might outnumber the 'accredited' schools which would be a sad commentary on State educational conditions.

"The question of uniform examinations is the only snag in the way of the High School plan, and to solve it to the advantage of all concerned will require careful study. The council has the benefit of views expressed by New York High School principals. A majority of these favor the regents' examination scheme. They say it is stimulating, helpful and beneficial to pupils, parents and teachers; that it gives wise direction to High School work, and yet leaves sufficient liberty for individuals to do what they think best; that it stimulates schools that would be careless about standards, and that it gives a lever to obtain from boards of education needed equipment in libraries and laboratories.

"The minority criticisms of the system are too weighty to be overlooked. One man writes: 'The examinations are the biggest nuisance that ever crept into any uniform mechanical system. They mean uniformity to the extent of deformity. No teacher can deviate one jot or tittle from an inflexible, detailed course of study in any subject. We all must cram and drill our pupils full of answers to such question as the regents are likely to ask. Teachers are judged by their success in these examinations. It is a system of adject bondage for teacher and pupil. It puts a premium on cramming up for examinations and a discount on honest work each day.'

"In preparing their plan the State educators must bear in mind the oft emphasized idea that the aim of instruction is not to fill the pupil's head with facts learned by rote and most likely to come up in examinations, but to train the pupil's mind to deal broadly with anything relating to the work covered in the classroom. With a liberal outline of study and with State examinations that give reasonable latitude to teacher and pupil, there is no reason why such a proposed system would not be successful. But it will be no easy task to attain that ideal mean between parrot-like pedantry and instructional chaos."

Senator Reed, of Somerset, seems to be paying dearly for his experiences this year. One evening last week he went to a "pound party," where pound packages were put up at auction and paid for by the highest bidder. Senator Reed thought there was a prize in one package, and he bid it up to $10.26 and got it. When he opened it he had only a pound of sugar. Hitherto this year Senator Reed's experiences have not been so sweet.—Elizabeth Journal.

Since the Legislature has indulgently made a law which permits public authorities to adopt simple precautions for the prevention of forest fires in this State, there is now nothing to prevent municipalities that are within the forest area to take measures for protection.

The appointment of trustworthy men as fire marshals and the appropriation of enough money to pay for their services and expenses is necessarily the first step to be taken. The woodlands of a section can be mapped out for systematic patrol and a system of signals and other devices for immediate information of a fire or of acts likely to result in fires can be established without much expense.

Safeguards against fire in the forest area will cost a few thousand dollars annually, while the State actually loses from one half a million to a million dollars annually by forest fires. It is, therefore, manifestly cheaper to establish a protective system at the local expense. A future Legislature will also see the benefit of fire protection and be more inclined to grant State aid.—Newark Advertiser.

THEATRICAL.

A brilliant programme is offered for next week at Keith's Theatre in New York. The Three Meers, in their European acrobatic comedy novelty, which has been the reigning sensation for three seasons at the Palace Theatre in St. Petersburg, Russia, are named as the "piece de resistance." Their ability is truly marvelous, and is the result of years of constant study, energy and application. They stand pre-eminent in their profession. Hal Davis and Inez MaCauley will furnish the comedy element in their screamingly funny farce, "The Unexpected." Jess Dandy will sing his famous Hebrew parodies, which are productive of side-aches from laughter. Maud Huth, comedienne and vocalist, sings her inimitable coon and Irish songs, and Sidney Grant gives his best imitations. Hale and Francis will perform their marvelous hoop-rolling, and Elseeta her graceful toe-dancing. A few of the other stars on the Keith programme include the Bachelor Club, vocalists and comedians; Armstrong and Wright, sketch artists; Newell and Nible, musical specialties; Maxwell and Dudley; the biograph and stereopticon with new and interesting moving pictures.

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

Original Drastic Bill Killed. Platt Substitute Passed.

SENATOR HOAR ALONE OPPOSES.

The Measure Will Now Go to the House as a New One—A Preliminary Victory For Cuban Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The drastic Chinese exclusion bill originally framed by the senators and representatives from the Pacific coast states met defeat in the senate yesterday, and in its place was substituted a measure offered by Mr. Platt (Conn.) extending the provisions of the present exclusion law and also applying that exclusion to all insular territory under the jurisdiction of the United States.

The vote by which the substitute took the place of the original bill was 48 yeas to 33 nays. Once the substitution had been made all senators joined in its support, with the single exception of Mr. Hoar, the substitute being passed—76 to 1. The friends of the substitute showed their strength throughout the voting on amendments that preceded final action and succeeded in preventing any material change in its features. Some minor changes were made, admitting Chinese persons connected with national expositions and providing for certificates of identification of Chinese in our insular possessions. Otherwise, however, the substitute was adopted substantially in the form that Mr. Platt presented it.

The senate after disposing of the Chinese exclusion bill made the Philippine civil government bill the unfinished business.

The senate failed to substitute the enacting clause of the house bill for the senate measure, so that the bill now will go to the house as an original measure and from a parliamentary standpoint will have to be acted on and treated the same as though the house had not passed a Chinese exclusion bill already.

The friends of the Cuban reciprocity bill won a substantial victory in the house by carrying a motion to close general debate tomorrow at 3 o'clock. The vote was 153 to 123. Thirty-three Republicans voted against the motion, but this defection was offset by thirty-two Democrats who voted with the great body of the Republicans for it. The strength of the Republican opposition to the bill, judged by this vote, has decreased six since the vote was taken on the motion to go into committee of the whole to consider the bill, when the vote stood 167 to 80. The day's debate was featureless.

Jail Delivery Frustrated.

NEWARK, N. J., April 17.—Warden Hosp of the county jail here was told that preparations had been made by the prisoners for a general jail delivery next Saturday night. He at once went to the cells of John Wyckoff, awaiting trial for murder, and John McDonald, who has pleaded guilty to highway robbery, and found several bars of the cell doors sawed through, the sawed places being deftly filled with soap. Eight other prisoners are said to have been in the plot. The ten were moved to other cells where they could hold no communication with each other. The warden says that his information is that a band of men from Philadelphia was to be on hand Saturday night to assist the prisoners in getting away.

A Suit Against Miss Stone.

BOSTON, April 17.—Miss Ellen M. Stone, the missionary, just back from Bulgaria, has been summoned to appear in the superior court equity sessions to show cause why an injunction should not issue against her to restrain her from delivering a lecture describing her captivity this evening and Monday evening, as planned. The bill in equity is brought by a lecture bureau, the complainant alleging that it made a contract with the defendant through her brother, acting as agent, and that she will violate the terms if she delivers the proposed lectures.

National Memorial to Rhodes.

CAPE TOWN, April 17.—A meeting of citizens to establish a national memorial in honor of the late Cecil Rhodes has been held here. A committee composed of Sir Gordon Sprigg, the premier; the mayors of Cape Colony and a number of other prominent persons were appointed. The committee will issue an appeal for funds throughout the British empire for the purpose of erecting an immense cairn on Devil's peak, overlooking the Cape peninsula. The cairn is to be surmounted by a heroic bronze figure of Cecil Rhodes looking to the north.

Crimes Act In Force.

DUBLIN, Ireland, April 17.—Three sections of the crimes act have been put in force in a large number of the districts in Ireland by proclamation just issued by Earl Cadogan, the lord lieutenant of Ireland. These sections provide for summary jurisdiction in cases of criminal conspiracy, intimidation and unlawful assembly, for trial by special jury and for change of venue at the option of the crown.

Oil Goes Up.

PITTSBURG, April 17.—The price of oil has been pushed up 5 cents a barrel on the finer grades and 3 cents on the lesser, restoring the last of the three successive cuts made in January last. This advance is credited to the recent purchase by the Standard Oil company of the immense holdings of the Guffey and Galley oil interests in the West Virginia district.

UP TO THE PEOPLE.

Governor Franklin Murphy has done his duty. Yesterday afternoon he signed the three bills which will allow the people to decide for themselves whether or not they really desire the much talked of Greater Plainfield. The Chief Executive of the State has responded to the perfectly proper demand that the citizens of the two interested municipalities be permitted to settle the future of this project for themselves.

The contention of The Daily Press and the many other friends of the measures has been settled in our favor. It is now up to the people and we have no fear of the result. There should be no untimely haste in bringing these questions to a formal vote. Every opportunity should be given for a careful and thorough discussion of the arguments for and against. This does not mean, however, that action should be postponed an indefinite time. The future welfare of the borough demands a speedy solution of this problem which has attracted such widespread interest.

Now that it is definitely settled that the people are to decide the questions of annexation and consolidation at the ballot box, it behooves both sides to carefully outline their arguments. As has already been stated in these columns, The Daily Press believes that the best interests of both city and borough will be advanced by a union of the two municipalities as part of Union county. We will, however, publish all fair communications of reasonable length on the subject irrespective of which side they favor. We want to see the people fully enlightened on these questions and will use our best endeavors to accomplish that end. The fullest consideration cannot help but strengthen the cause of the advocates of Greater Plainfield.

Many a business man who has doubled or more than doubled his trade by advertising has deplored the doubt and timidity which prevented him from doing systematic newspaper advertising so long, comments the Philadelphia Record. He sees that he might have achieved his success years before had he only had the confidence and courage to invest in newspaper space.

The good folk of Plainfield have seen the worthy work of the Young Women's Club and have come to the aid of that organization since it was turned out of its quarters by fire. While many gifts have been secured, there are still a few needs that should be looked after. There is no local organization which is more worthy of support than the Young Women's Club.

The establishment of the new trust company in quarters on North avenue will have a decided effect in increasing the business interests of that thoroughfare. Combined with the city offices located there, it will make a business centre which will be an important one.

The showing made at the Congregational church, last evening, was very satisfactory to all concerned. Although a comparatively small church it has a record to be proud of which the results of the fiscal year just ended have by no means lessened.

The first really active Saturday of the baseball season in Plainfield will come this week. All the local teams have games scheduled. While most of them will be of the practice order, they will serve to give the baseball enthusiasts a line on the playing.

Everyone is glad to see the post-office back in its old quarters in the Babcock building. The place looks as good as new now and a visitor would not get the slightest intimation of the great conflagration which recently occurred there.

Now that the bicycles are out in force again it will be remembered that the ordinance requiring bells and lamps is still in force. It also provides a speed limit and compels the wheelmen to keep off the sidewalks.

It is a known fact that the next postmaster of Plainfield will be a Republican. So the citizens, irrespective of political affiliations, have united in asking that E. H. Bird be returned to the office.

Unfortunately the police have not yet learned the faculty of being in every place at the same time. So the wise wheelman will depend on a lock to proteet his wheel from theft.

COMPANY K'S SMOKER.

Plenty to Smoke and Good Music Were the Chief Attractions at the Smoker Last Night.

Company K and a large number of its friends, enjoyed a smoker in Saengerbund Hall, last evening. Pipes, tobacco and refreshments were distributed in plenty and while all were getting solace from the narcotic of disposing of the eatables, an informal programme of music was rendered.

It consisted of rollicking "coon" songs rendered by Kenneth Anderson, sentimental ballades by Sergeant Fred J. Pope, an original composition, "Company K" two step by Corporal Robert M. Clark and also solos by the latter. The social part was preceded by an exhibition drill with Captain Browning in command.

The affair was in charge of a social committee, consisting of Corporal Harold Whitney and Privates Yerkes, Giles and Wykoff.

The amount of refreshments provided for the smoker was larger than the attendance warranted. The social committee solved the problem by donating a large supply of eatables to the Children's Home.

TWO LUNCHEONS.

Given by Mrs. Lawrence Myers and Mrs. F. G. Mead at "Sunnyside."

Mrs. Lawrence Myers and Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead gave a luncheon at their home yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. It was a brilliant society affair, in which at least forty of the better known fashionable folk of this city were the chosen guests. The table was gorgeously adorned with flowers. At the same hour today a like number of persons gathered at "Sunnyside" when the second luncheon was held.

Funeral of Infant Son.

The funeral services of Donald Z. Ward, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Ward, were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence on West Front street. Rev. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, officiated. There was a very large number of beautiful floral tributes. The interment took place in Hillside cemetery.

Promised to Get License.

Lewis Meyer, an itinerant peddler of fountain pens, started to sell his wares around town yesterday morning without a license. He was arrested by Chief Kiely and arraigned this morning before City Judge Runyon. He promised to secure a license and was released with a suspended sentence.

To Wed at St. Joseph's.

Miss Katharine Kiely, of Steiner place, and Thomas F. Gough, of West Second street, will be married in St. Joseph's church Wednesday afternoon, April 23. Rev. Father Miller will officiate. After a trip to Washington the couple will reside at No. 39 Prospect place. Mr. Gough is a machinist employed at the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant.

THIRTEEN INDICTED.

The Somerset County Grand Jury Finished Its Labors Yesterday Afternoon and Was Dismissed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 17—The Grand Jury of the April term of courts finished its labors late yesterady afternoon, returning thirteen bills of indictment. Justice Garretson dismissed those who served with thanks.

The Supreme Court case of Dr. Warford L. Nixson against the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company was on all of yesterday and the Justice charged the jury this morning.

The plaintiff resides in Raritan, and, while alighting from a car in front of his house, he was thrown violently to the ground by reason of its not coming to a standstill. He was so badly injured, he alleges, that he was obliged to keep to his bed for several days. Wm. V. Steele is counsel for Dr. Nixson and Hon. A. A. Clark appears for the company.

A REPLY TO MR. ROGERS.

A. V. D. Honeyman Writes That He Does Not Recollect Conversation.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I should be glad to try to accommodate my good friend, Geo. T. Rogers, and assist him in his recollection of a conversation said to have occurred at a recent borough school meeting concerning annexation; but inasmuch as I do not recall having talked with him on that subject at any place or at any time, he will have to excuse me. It is of slight consequence to the public now what might possibly have been said or not said in some informal talk between two citizens, but it is of much more consequence that so good a man as he is should range himself on the side of a surrender to a few disgruntled and thirsty politicians, who are chiefly responsible for putting the borough into an unnecessary turmoil. A. V. D. Honeyman.

Papers Were Illegal.

The case of Washington against Vetromile, for $200 for assault, was discontinued yesterday before Justice Mosher, at the request of the plaintiff's counsel. It was found that the papers in the matter were illegal. Suit instead will be instituted in the Circuit Court for $1,000.

MAY NOT AGREE.

Reported That Master Plumbers Have Decided Not to Grant Demands for More Wages.

The Master Plumbers' Association met last evening for the purpose of considering the proposition of increasing the scale of wages May 1, according to the demand made by the journeymen plumbers. While the members when seen this morning, refused to state the result of the conference, it is understood that the association will not agree to any increase in wages.

A committee, composed of George Tobin, C. W. Krausse and Ernemt Enander, was appointed to meet with the committees from the other trades at a meeting to be held this evening. That committee, which has been instructed what action to take at the meeting, will report back to the Master Plumbers' Association at a meeting to be held in the near future.

DUAL CELEBRATION.

Sunday, May 11, Will be An Eventful Time for Rev. Dr. W.C. Nelson.

Sunday, May 11, will be a memorable one for Rev. Dr. W. C. Nelson, of Somerset place, if he lives. On that day he will join in a dual celebration. It will mark the closing of his fiftieth year in the ministry and the forty-fourth wedding anniversary. Dr. Nelson has been associated with the Methodist Episcopal church for fifty years and his service has been one of faithfulness. Recently he was placed on the superannuated list, but he still retains his old-time vigor and enjoys excellent health. Mrs. Nelson is also well and hearty.

LOST HIS HOME.

And "Jumbo" Lewis Came Near Losing His Moustache in the Blaze.

"Jumbo" Lewis lost his home and singed his moustache in a fire, which occurred at 6 o'clock this morning. The diminitive barn at 80 Manning avenue, which he occupied for some time, was the scene of the conflagration.

An alarm was turned in from box 132 and the borough fire department responded. Warren Engine Company turned a stream on the small structure and saved it from total destruction, but it was not necessary for the West End Hose Company to get to work. It is supposed that a fire in an incubator was the cause of the trouble.

PHILIPPINE FRIARS' LANDS.

Vexed Question to Be Settled at the Vatican.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul had a conference with Secretary Root, following a talk he has had with the president respecting the Philippine friars' land question. It was the idea of Archbishop Ireland and Bishop O'Gorman to have this complex question settled directly at Rome instead of through the archbishop of Manila, who, they pointed out, would have been obliged to delay proceedings greatly by frequent reference of every important phase of the negotiations to his superiors in the Vatican.

The government here has come to accept the Ireland and O'Gorman view as the most businesslike proposition, and that is why Governor Taft will stop at Rome on his way back to Manila and endeavor to arrange directly the bases for an agreement for the transfer of the lands to the Philippine government in trust for the Philippine people.

Mgr. Sbarretti favored a settlement of the question at Manila, in which case he would have been appointed archbishop and would have undertaken the work himself in behalf of the religious orders. The decision in favor of Rome will involve a change in his plans.

Life Convict Pardoned.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 17.—Governor Odell has pardoned Amer Ben Ali, better known as "Frenchy," who has been serving a life sentence in Sing Sing prison for the murder of a woman called "Old Shakespeare" in New York city in 1891. The pardon was granted by the governor because he believes that there are grave doubts of the prisoner's guilt, much of the testimony being of a peculiar character and "Frenchy" being placed at a disadvantage, being unable to speak English. The pardon was asked for by several influential and prominent men, including Hon. Jules Cambon, the French embassador; Hon. Frederick R. Coudert, Mr. J. B. Martin and others.

Wood Issues Important Order.

HAVANA, April 17.—Governor General Wood has issued an order providing that judges and prosecuting officers cannot be dismissed from office except for crime or for serious cause and never without a hearing. As under the Platt amendment the Cuban republic must recognize all orders issued by the American military government as law this order of General Wood virtually means a life tenure of office for the present judges and prosecuting attorneys. A vigorous protest has already been made against the number of orders being issued by the military government.

MALVAR GIVES UP.

Insurgent Force of Laguna and Batangas Surrenders.

GOOD RESULTS OF BELL'S CAMPAIGN

General Wheaton Bestows Great Praise—Rejoicing at Manila Over Actual Ending of Insurrection. News From Samar Delayed.

MANILA, April 17.—General Malvar has unconditionally surrendered to Brigadier General J. Franklin Bell at Lipa, Batangas province, with the entire insurgent force of the provinces of Laguna and Batangas. General Bell says his (Bell's) influence is sufficient to quell the insurrectionary movements in Tayabas and Cavite provinces and capture all those in the field who have not yet surrendered, but Malvar has ordered the complete surrender of every insurgent to the nearest American force. General Wheaton, reporting to the division headquarters, says that all resistance in his department has ended and that the surrenders just announced mean that the ports will be opened and that the Filipinos in the detention camps can be allowed to return to their homes in time to plant crops.

General Wheaton is especially pleased with General Bell's care of the natives confined in the camps. The officers in charge are held personally responsible for the quality and quantity of the food served out and for the general welfare of the occupants of the camps.

After scouring the mountain passes General Bell employed volunteer bolomen for protection against ladronism. Numbers of Filipinos volunteered and expressed the liveliest satisfaction at the treatment accorded to themselves and to their families who were in the concentration camps.

General Wheaton gives General Bell great credit for his indefatigability in conducting the campaign. He was in the field on horseback day and night personally superintending the most arduous operations.

The people of Manila are delighted at the prospect of a resumption of trade with the pacified provinces and are anxious to show Generals Chaffee, Wheaton and Bell their appreciation of the fact that the insurrection is really over.

About 3,300 rifles have been received by the American officers in Batangas and Lugana provinces during the past four months.

General Malvar personally requested an interview with General Bell in order to make his complete submission.

The lack of news from the island of Samar is due to a defective cable. It is believed, however, that the American commander there received Tuesday the surrender of all the insurgents in Samar unless the planned proceedings were altered.

A case of cholera has occurred on the transport Hancock, which arrived here on Sunday last, and she has been quarantined.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Cruelties of Filipinos Told by Colonel Dickman.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The report of Lieutenant Colonel Dickman, Twenty-sixth volunteer infantry, which was referred to at the last cabinet meeting as part of the initial investigation of the charges of cruelty to the Filipinos, was submitted to congress two months ago, but attracted very little attention at the time.

Colonel Dickman gives a list of atrocities inflicted by the Filipinos upon Americans unfortunate enough to fall into their hands. He tells of ambushes and assassinations and burning of soldiers by slow fires and of burials alive of American soldiers, all of which he offers to prove in detail. He winds up as follows:

"The conduct of the American troops in the Philippines has been so humane as to be a continued source of surprise to all foreigners and to the natives. Although general order No. 100, the repressive order, has not been revoked, its provisions against treachery, according to the law and custom of all civilized nations, have never been applied to my knowledge."

Suspected Murderer Captured.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 17.—Bernhard Weithaas, suspected of the murder of his wife, Lizzie, in the Highland hotel Tuesday night, has been captured in Palmer by Patrolmen Daly and Twohig of this city and Officer Dickey of Palmer. Weithaas tried to escape capture by jumping into the Quaboag river, but was fished out by the policemen. He was brought to this city last evening and will be arraigned in police court today on a charge of murder in the first degree.

Urged to Sign Bedell Bill.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 17.—President W. H. Newman of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company and Hon. Chauncey M. ECONOMICAL DRESS.

The Secret of Appearing Well on a Small Income.

Never was fashion prettier. While some of the evening gowns are gorgeous, many of the best day gowns are intensely simple. Nowadays a woman of any individuality or style can easily pass for well dressed though her means are small, for most inexpensive materials are now being utilized. The way they are made up is everything.

The art of dressing well on a small income consists in avoiding costly fabrics and putting as much money as possible into the cut. Fashion changes so often that frocks quickly go out of style.

If a woman can only afford one good frock, it is better for her to put the bulk of her expenditure into cut and fit rather than into a material which it is expensive to buy on account of its long wearing properties.

A dainty bride's dress is shown in the illustration. It is made of white chiffon trimmed with delicate white lace. The waist has no high collar, but instead a deep sailor effect of lace. The short elbow sleeves are made entirely of the lace and are finished with accordion plaited ruffles of the chiffon. The rest of the waist is accordion plaited, with a corselet effect of the lace extending on the waist and upper part of the skirt, thereby giving a princess effect. The fullness of the skirt is gathered in pin tucks on the hips. There is a graduated tucked flounce set on invisibly under bands of lace. The long train which falls from the shoulders is of lace and the veil of delicate tulle. JUDIC CHOLLET.

ACCESSORIES OF DRESS.

Mannish Vests Are Worn as Well as Soft Fronts.

Strappings have by no means disappeared, but are wider, and a very popular plan is to insert a narrow bias strap of velvet silk or fancy material between two strappings of the coat material. Braid and cord are also used to border strappings, and tucks in groups are highly fashionable.

The vests for spring wear are largely tailor made and consist of variations of the Newmarket shape. There are double breasted shapes almost high and fitted with lapels and others cut in quite a low V shape with the edges simply strapped or stitched. The single breasted tailor fashioned vest has very small neat lapels which leave the tiniest opening at the neck for the collar and tie, and the Louis vests for smart coats are of brocaded or embroidered satin bordered with fine silk or tinsel cord.

Soft fronts of accordion plaited chiffon and fine lace are being worn with the open front silk coats.

Blue linen is the material of the gown illustrated. The skirt has a toothed yoke and a toothed flounce connected by lines of perpendicular strapping. The waist has a deep yoke of ecru batiste and a double collar of the batiste edged with lace. The undersleeves are also of the batiste. This dress is made entirely without lining and is very cool and comfortable for summer wear. JUDIC CHOLLET.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

Coincident with the judge's remark, the Colonel rounded the front of the Blizzard building. His whole manner was one of hauteur and utter indifference. The crowd around the courthouse watched him in silence. The great man had been treated shabbily. The citizens realized that now, and as their sympathy deepened for the Colonel their anger arose against the judge.

The Colonel mounted slowly and with dignity step by step. On reaching the upper landing he laid his hand on the knob of the office door, hesitated, and then turned and vouchsafed his attention to the group below.

"Men of Concord," he said, sonorously, "Christopher Waffle has spared a traitor this day—at my expense. You have been cozened, deceived by some confederate of Liscomb's. This confederate raised a disturbance in Glimmer's living apartments, and while Mrs. Glimmer went to ascertain the cause of the unwonted noise the confederate slipped into the Emporium and rang the bell. What was the effect? In the confusion that resulted the traitor escaped. Search among you and see if I am correct."

The Colonel entered his office and slammed the door. He had had his fling. Upon them he had returned a moiety of the disparagement that had a short time before been his.

And he was right, as usual, for Liscomb was nowhere to be found; nor could the confederate be discovered. After a brief period of search the citizens went their several ways.

Guy and Pettibone turned in the direction of the hotel. While sauntering leisurely along, discussing the incidents of the morning, Sampson passed them. The printer was going to the post office to get the Colonel's mail and he had his hands in his pockets and was whistling lustily. Any one with half an eye could have seen that he was very well satisfied with himself.

"I want a word with Sampson in private, Pettibone," said Guy. "Will you wait here a moment while I overtake him?"

"Going to put up a job to give me the slip?" inquired the sheriff with a wink.

"I hadn't thought of such a thing."

"All right, go on."

Guy called to Sampson and overtook him a dozen yards ahead.

"There is one man in this town, Sampson," remarked Guy, "who knows all about your dealings with the Harmony people."

The printer's jaw dropped and a troubled look shot athwart his freckled face.

"What's that?" he mumbled.

Guy repeated his words and Sampson cast an apprehensive glance behind him.

"What are you trying to get at, any how?" he demanded, putting on a bold front.

"I'll tell you in a moment. But for a combination of unusual circumstances that came to my aid, you'd have got me into a peck of trouble Monday night. I have the note you wrote to Vlandingham. You made a mistake when you used the back of an old sheet of copy. I have identified that copy with a printed leader in the Blizzard and the circumstantial evidence against you is complete."

The red faded out of Sampson's face and left it a sickly white. His frightened glances focused upon the sheriff for an instant, and then returned to Guy.

"I know," went on Guy, "that you assisted Col. Dingle to get out of that closet in the hotel and I think that you are also the confederate who helped Barney to make his escape."

Sampson moistened his dry lips with his tongue.

"I'm not saying a word about anything," he observed, finally. "What are you going to do about it?"

"I am merely going to advise you to stop the trafficking with the enemy. If I promise not to turn you over to Pettibone and tell the Concord people what you have done, will you be a good citizen after this?"

"Sure," was the printer's prompt reply. He was greatly relieved and showed it. "I'll do more than that and give you this letter right now instead of sneaking into the hotel and slipping it under the door of your room as I was going to do, after I went to the post office." Sampson took a square, pink envelope from the breast of his coat and handed it to Guy. "Vlandingham's hired man brought that over to me at 12 o'clock last night. He said he couldn't deliver it himself, as the sheriff was sleeping with one eye open in front of your room door and he wanted me to slip it into your hands."

Guy looked at the superscription of the missive. The chirography was graceful and distinctly feminine. Of course he did not know who the letter was from, but he could imagine, and his eyes brightened and his face flushed.

"It's a good thing you're going to keep still about me," grinned Sampson. "I'm not the only fellow who has established communication with the enemy."

He went away chuckling, while Guy dropped the note quickly into his breast pocket and waited for the sheriff to rejoin him.

"Didn't he give you something?" queried Pettibone, as they walked on.

"Nothing of much importance," answered Guy.

The sheriff was thoughtful for a space and then asked abruptly:

"Did you ever see a duel, Mr. Herbert?"

"What kind of a duel?"

"One of the old-fashioned blood-and-thunder kind. Guess you know about as much how they did it as I do. It's in defiance of the law and I suppose I'll have to go out and linger around even if I don't do anything. You can have your choice between being locked up while I am gone, or going with me."

"I'll go with you, Pettibone."

"That's sensible. We may have a little fun incidentally. Read that."

The sheriff fished a folded paper out of his pocket and Guy opened the sheet and read as follows:

Concord, June 16, '85—Mr. Richard Pettibone, Sheriff of Goodwill county, Concord, D. T.—Dear Sir: One who cherishes the law as the dearest of our country's institutions, and who has become aware of a terrible crime about to be committed, comes to you with these presents, asserting that challenge and acceptance to figth a duel have passed between two of the most worthy people of Goodwill county. Challenge was issued from the editorial office of the Norther and accepted in the sanctum of the Blizzard—this, be it stated, in direct violation of paragraph 298, chapter 23, penal code of this territory. This affair of honor, unless thwarted by exercise of your authority, will take place at four o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday, June 17, on the north shore of Lake Elizabeth.

"If you have a decent regard for the peace and well-being of this community, let me supplicate you forthwith to take such steps as may seem advisable for averting an impending catastrophe. Proceed to the scene of this intended crime and resort to force, if necessary, in overturning the sanguinary plans of the duelists.

"PRO BONO PUBLICO."

"This states plainly enough that the two Colonels are the principals in the affair," said Guy. "The fact of this proposed duel is no news to me, however, as I already had knowledge of it from Col. Keever himself. Who is this 'Pro Bono Publico,' I wonder?"

"You wonder, eh?" returned Pettibone, with another of his winks. "Don't you know that there is only one man in this town who could, or would, write a letter of that kind?"

"Who is that?"

"Hold that letter close to your nose and get a good whiff of it."

"Printer's ink," said Guy.

"Right you are; the kind of printer's ink they use on the Blizzard."

"You don't mean to say that Col. Keever wrote this letter himself?"

"Yes, I do."

"Why, he's simply furious and vows that he'll have Dingle's life."

By this time they were at the Lisbon House and Pettibone, with one hand on the veranda railing, threw back his head and laughed boisterously.

"Keever is playing to the galleries," said he. "He's the slickest hand at make-believe that I ever knew, and I've known a good many. He hasn't any more thought of fighting a duel than I have, but he'll act as bloodthirsty as a savage. Don't you see that if I go out to Lake Elizabeth and interfere by force to prevent the duel he'll come out of the scrape in high feather? The rank and file of this town have never dropped a plummet to the bottom of the Colonel's nature, but Chris Waffle has, and so have I, that's sure."

"You are going out there to stop it, are you?"

"I'm going out there, but not to stop it," answered Pettibone, folding the letter which Guy had handed back to him and replacing it in his pocket. "I'm going out there to hide in the brush and look on. My word for it, Mr. Herbert, it will stop itself. Let's see—the north shore of Lake Elizabeth at four o'clock, Wednesday afternoon. If you promise not to take French leave, I'll run over to the house and tell my boy, Alec, to hitch up and drive around here about three o'clock."

CAN'T KEEP IT UP.

Can't Deceive Plainfield People Very Long—They Learn Quickly.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. We are naturally skeptical when reading a published statement given by some stranger residing in a far-away place, but the circumstances are entirely different when home endorsement is presented. The testimony of local citizens renders deceit impossible. It is so easy for you to investigate. Read this case:

Mrs. Henry Bender, of 118 West Front street, says: "I suffered almost constantly from a dull aching pain across my back and hips. Any hard work always increased it. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping, and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could not get relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles as mine, got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and obtained a great deal of relief from them. In my estimation and from my experience Doan's Kidney Pills are a good reliable kidney medicine."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

"CUTTING ICE."

We're still doing it in the dental field. We aim to do the best. Experience and care has made us "sharpshooters." The benefit is yours, the pleasure is ours.

Our artificial teeth are quite famous, judging by the number we make.

By being thorough we have no fillings to replace that "fall out."

SPARRING FOR TIME

No Definite Progress In Peace Negotiations.

BOERS WANT REPRESENTATIVE RULE

It Is Understood Leaders Object to Long Delay Proposed by Britain Before This Boon Be Granted.

LONDON, April 17.—It may be stated on excellent authority that there have been no definite developments in the matter of the peace negotiations. It is learned that Lord Milner, the British high commissioner in South Africa, has defined certain propositions on which peace may almost immediately be secured, but the cabinet is said to have disagreed upon the merits of Lord Milner's terms.

"Sparring for time" best describes the present status of the negotiations, neither side being willing to risk a decision which would break off the present conference. An agreement may be reached at any moment, but this would more likely be the result of semi-independent action by Lord Milner and Lord Kitchener at Pretoria than of the rather involved conditional decision of the cabinet at London.

The broad lines of Great Britain's terms are now known to the government representatives at Pretoria, and on these representatives the cabinet is apparently shifting the responsibility of taking advantage of all opportunities, provided no cardinal principles be sacrificed.

The government has ordered the cable and telegraph lines between London and Pretoria to be kept clear to insure the most prompt transmission of Lord Kitchener's messages.

There is good reason to believe that the Boers are vigorously demanding a representative government and that this demand is opposed with equal vigor by the British representatives.

It is understood that the Boers strongly object to the long delay proposed by Great Britain before a representative government be granted the former republics and that they also insist on the number of Boer seats in the council being specified.

It is expected that the cabinet will reassemble today to discuss the matter further.

In a dispatch to the war office, dated yesterday at Pretoria, Lord Kitchener reports the capture of 130 Boers in the Klerksdorp district since April 11.

It was said during the morning that J. Pierpont Morgan, the Barings and the Rothschilds had secured an aggregate of £16,000,000 of the new British loan of £32,000,000. Official confirmation of the above was forthcoming in the afternoon in the Bank of England giving notice that half the loan had been privately subscribed for and offering the other half for public subscription at 93½, with interest at 2½ per cent. The subscription list will be closed on or before April 21.

A Fortune to Charity.

NEW YORK, April 17.—By the death of Mrs. Henrietta A. Webb, widow of William H. Webb, foremost of the ante bellum shipbuilders and founder of the Webb Academy and Home For Shipbuilders, The Herald says that the bulk of the great fortune amassed by Mr. Webb will go to the academy and home which bears his name and is located at Kingsbridge, in Bronx borough. The exact amount the academy will receive is not known, owing to the fluctuations of the securities in which the estate had been invested before Mr. Webb's death in 1899, but it is expected that it will ultimately receive in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Mrs. Webb died Tuesday of this week.

Santos-Dumont's Plans.

NEW YORK, April 17.—It is reported that M. Santos-Dumont, who circled the Eiffel tower in Paris, will attempt to sail his airship over and around the statue of Liberty early in the summer. A syndicate of $60,000 has been formed by Brooklyn Rapid Transit officials and prominent New Yorkers to defray the expenses of the daring Brazilian aeronaut's demonstrations. The exhibitions will open at Brighton Beach and continue for a month.

Central New York Trolley Extension

ONEONTA, N. Y., April 17.—H. T. Jennings of the Oneonta, Cooperstown and Richfield Springs railway, now operating a trolley road from Oneonta to Cooperstown and constructing an extension to Richfield Springs, reports that the board of directors has decided to extend the road to Mohawk and will complete the same not later than Oct. 1. This will give Oneonta a direct connection with the New York Central railroad.

Many Rioters Arrested.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 17.—Nearly fifty arrests have been made in connection with the riots at Montego Bay, on the north coast of the island, which began April 5 and in which a number of policemen and rioters were wounded. In accordance with a request made by Mr. Chamberlain, the British colonial secretary, the governor of Jamaica has appointed a commission to inquire into the riots.

Bituminous Strike Ended.

DUBOIS, Pa., April 17.—The strike of the bituminous coal miners against the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron company is at an end, and all the company's mines resumed operations this morning.

Astor Aids London University.

LONDON, April 17.—W. W. Astor has given £20,000 to endow those professorships in the University college of London which are today without endowment.

ON THE DIAMOND.

A. Woodland will replace Stevens at third base on the North Plainfield High School team.

Manager Muir, of the Safe Works team, has signed George Allen, the former Scotch Plains catcher. He will be seen behind the bat.

The paraphernalia for the Hope chapel team has arrived and has given entire satisfaction, it includes jerseys, caps and stockings, beside a generous supply of bats, gloves and masks. Last season's uniforms are in excellent condition and will complete the outfit.

The bleachers on the St. Mary baseball field have been completed and have been accepted by the committee. The seating capacity is in the neighborhood of 200. If the attendance at games warrant it, others may be erected before the close of the season. The contract for the erection of the Safe Works bleachers will be let this week.

AT THE TRAPS.

Experts with the gun from all parts of the county participated in a clay bird shoot at Springfield, yesterday afternoon. Plainfield was well represented and captured some of the prizes.

There were seven events all of which were for clay birds or targets with the exception of two which were live birds. It the first of the latter Neaf Apgar, of this city, was winner. Den Gavin, of the borough, and William Hathaway tied for second and Gavin won on the shoot-off. Apgar also won in the second live event. In the clay events Gavin and Apgar showed up in good shape.

GOLF.

Edward Eriksen, the golf expert at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, resigned his position last evening to accept a more lucrative one on Long Island. Where he goes the club is open the year around and his opportunities for doing better are greater. As yet no one has been selected for his place.

One of the finest tennis courts in the State is being laid out for Mrs. Lincoln, of West Eighth street. It will be a private court and the work is being done by Michael Higgins, of West Front street.

ADAM A MYTH.

Two Plainfield Theological Students Don't Believe the Creation Story, They Tell the Presbytery.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 17—For declaring their belief that Adam and Eve are mere myths Harrison K. Wright, a student of Union Theological Seminary, and Gilbert Lovell, of the Hartford Theological Seminary, were unable to obtain licenses to preach sought at a meeting of the Elizabeth Presbytery, yesterday.

As for the doctrine of evolution both answered that they believe in it and that the pair from whom the human race descended was in a low state of civilization. Action on their applications to be admitted to the ministry was deferred until April 28. Messrs. Lovell and Wright are Plainfielders and are members of the Crescent Avenue church.

Thrilling Runaway.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 17—As James A. Lowe, of North Branch, was driving into town yesterday the neck-yoke came loose from the tongue. This so frightened the horses that they ran away, smashing the buggy to splinters. They got loose from the vehicle in front of Judge Bartine's residence and ran through Main street to Fury's Hotel, where they were stopped. Mr. Lowe jumped and was uninjured.

CEREMONY TOOK PLACE YESTERDAY AT BRIDE'S HOME, HIGHLAND PARK.

Miss Anna C. Senker Married to a Plainfielder—A Reception Followed the Wedding.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, April 17—In the presence of seventy-five guests from this city, Plainfield and other places, Miss Anna C. Senker, of Highland Park, was yesterday afternoon united in marriage to George H. Leland, of Plainfield. The ceremony was performed at the home of the brides' parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. L. Senker, by Rev. Mr. VanDyke, of the Highland Park Presbyterian church.

Miss Senker was attended by Miss Ada Breese, of Monmouth Junction and William DeMeza, of Plainfield, acted as best man. The bride looked charming in a gown of white crepe de chine over white taffeta and trimmed with white applique. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and maiden hair ferns. The bridemaid was gowned in white silk with point applique and carried white carnations. In the parlor where the nuptials took place, the floral decorations were very pretty. The bride and groom stood in a bower of palms, fern and marguerites.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Leland tendered a reception which lasted until late last evening. They afterward left for a wedding trip through New York State and on their return will reside on West Front street, Plainfield.

Belgium's Big Strike.

BRUSSELS, April 17.—It is estimated that nearly 300,000 have gone on strike. The movement is well organized, but as the men are short of funds it has been arranged that in all trades in which the cessation of operations would incommode the public, such as bakers, etc., the men shall continue working and contribute to the support of the others. At Verviers, near Liege, the Socialists have persuaded the taverns to close their doors in order to keep the idle men from the temptation of liquor.

Freight Wreck Blocks the Central.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., April 17.—A freight wreck on the New York Central and Hudson railroad near Yosts spilled freight over the four tracks of the road, completely blocking them for several hours. The Fonda wrecking crew cleared the tracks. During the tieup the West Shore tracks were used.

TAKEN TO JAIL IN KINDLINGWOOD WAGON

Patrolman Higgins Used New Kind of Patrol Wagon to Cart Wooden-Legged Man.

ARRESTED IN WEST END.

PACKER WAS FOUND INTOXICATED AT SECOND AND NEW STREET.

He Was Arraigned Before Judge Runyon in the City Court This Morning and Found Guilty—Sentence Suspended.

Patrolman "Carrie" Higgins was yesterday afternoon confronted with and solved satisfactory another of the problems which are continually besetting him in his efforts to preserve the moral peace and welfare of the West End.

In the course of his meanderings he came, or rather fell across William Packer at the corner of New and Second strets The latter had been toying with the juice of the corn and was just at the point where he was oblivious to everything except the sight of a blue uniform. In addition, Packer is weighted down with two wooden legs, the ones nature gave him having been taken off by doctors after he had trespassed on the railroad.

"Carrie," of course, couldn't have anything like that in his bailiwick and he decided the only safe haven for Packer was the city jail. But how to get him there was more of a problem than the fifteen puzzle. The versatile patrolman was meditating when one of the large wagons used by the local kindling wood concerns hove in sight and his face lighted up. The driver was hailed and in a few minutes the incumbent Packer was reclining on the floor of its immense interior with the smiling "Carrie" guarding the rear.

In this rather inglorious way the prisoner was gotten to headquarters. When he was lifted out and the wooden stumps first showed through the entranceway, Doorman McCue thought the woodmen were bringing in a supply of kindlings and hastily shouted none were needed.

This morning Packer hobbled before City Judge Runyon and humbly asked for leniency. His crippled condition excited sympathy and on condition that he sign the pledge for one year, to which he readily assented, sentence was suspended. He went off wondering how he had been gotten to town and he even said others had tried to move him before and had given it up.

SAYS POLICE WERE DRUNK

A. C. Vail Makes a Serious Charge Against Members of City Police Department.

WILL BE INVESTIGATED.

Mr. Vail Was Asked to Identify the Men Last Night—He Was Not Present When Officers Were Assembled—He Has Already Been Before the Board.

Charges of a serious nature have been preferred against the police department by A. C. Vail, of West Eighth street. He avers that on the night of March 12 when his home was robbed of several thousand dollars worth of jewelry, several members of the force acted as if they were intoxicated and incapacitated for duty. He has stated the fact to the police board and when summoned before that body at its last meeting, he declared, it is alleged, he could point out the men who were inebriated.

In order to investigate the matter thoroughly, the members of the board asked that he visit police headquarters and identify the ones he charges. Last evening was set as the time and every police officer was instructed to be at headquarters in uniform at 6:30. All responded but Mr. Vail did not make his appearance. His lawyer, William A. Coddington, was present but made no comment.

The members of the force are highly indignant over Mr. Vail's charge and declare it is absolutely without foundation. Two of the men, whom it is said are implicated, say they have scores of ready friends willing to testify that they have been tetotalers for years.

Rome, Genoa and Naples, all of particular interest to the student of the times that were, were well described. In this respect the past and present occupied the time of the lecturer and held the attention of the fortunate audience.

Pleasant Smoker, Given Under Auspices of the House Committee, Last Night.

WAS PLENTY TO SMOKE.

INFORMAL ENTERTAINMENT BY PROFESSIONAL TALENT GIVEN.

Members and Friends Dropped In During the Evening and Found a Good Time Awaiting Them—Those Who Took Part.

One of the most pleasant affairs of the season was the smoker given at the Park Club last evening. For the first time for many years the women were left out and the male members gathered alone for a good time. The house committee, Augustus VanDeventer, Charles L. Nichols and Nelson A. Miller, had the affair in charge and nothing was left undone in making it pleasant for everyone. There was a good attendance of the members.

The unique invitations, issued for the affair on brown paper, did not specify the exact hour one was to be present. Those invited arrived between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock and it was during that time that the programme was started. The committee had provided plenty of smoking tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, pipes, etc., and while all were enjoying the fragrant aroma of the tobacco, the entertainment was given.

The first part of the programme was taken up by De Villiers, a very clever sleight-of-hand performer. His tricks were all marvelously worked to the delight and astonishment of those watching him. Then followed the appearance of Haley & Bond, sketch artists, who livened things up with their clever musical selections on the guitar, glass bottles, ocarina, while their witty sayings produced much laughter. Later in the evening De Villiers appeared again and gave other wonderful tricks and the entertainment was concluded with Haley & Bond, who gave a rehearsal of a sketch entitled "Brother against Brother."

Upon the conclusion of the entertainment coffee and sandwiches were served by the committee and a social time followed. Everyone expressed themselves well pleased with the smoker and the committee was heartily thanked for its efforts.

"COMMUTER" DOESN'T LIKE IT

OBJECTS TO PROPOSED CHANGE OF THE TROLLEY TRANSFER STATION.

Enumerates His Reasons for Believing That Present Location is the Most Satisfactory.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Regarding the proposed changes the trolley service as outlined in Wednesday's Daily Press, where is the advantage to the general public? Are the trolleys for the benefit of general public or simply the company? There are many reasons why the proposed change does not seem a good one.

First, the summer cars, which are about to come on are much lighter than the winter ones, and could easily make the Watchung avenue hill, and pass under the bridge.

Second, regarding the water under the Watchung avenue bridge, delaying the schedule and making it bad for the cars to pass under in stormy weather. Is it not better for the cars to have the trouble than for the public to be forced to pass under the bridge from the trains, when the water on the sidewalk is often two or three inches deep? How about the Richmond street bridge? If a car can pass under that in stormy weather it can surely pass under the Watchung avenue bridge.

Third, when people come in town on the trains and desire trolleys, the proper place for the waiting station and starter, should we where they can conveniently reach them, to wait for the trolleys and make any necessary inquiries. What better location for the waiting room, than as near the corner of North and Watchung avenues is possible?

People going to the trains in the morning, on the north side of the track, which are the ones mostly used, do not need the waiting room. It is the people coming from the westbound trains, who have need of it. How many people are there who come into our town on the east-bound trains in comparison with the westbound incoming traffic?

People coming into our city to locate may often be favorably or unfavorably impressed from our trolley service. Give the trolley company a broader thoroughfare in the block from East Third street to East Second street on Watchung avenue, and a neat waiting room in that immediate location, then place the cars on their individual time so that there need not be so much waiting on the switch, and the general public will be deeply thankful.

Fourth, in the rush to the New York trains in the morning, on the north side of the track would not the necessary changes and stops, also the cars coming into Fourth street from both north and south on Watchung avenue, cause a conjestion and trouble with the carriage traffic, which would be difficult to be avoided?

Lastly, the main object should be to get as near the centre of the city and the railroad station as possible, thereby causing the riding public the least possible inconvenience.

THEATRICAL.

Notwithstanding that "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" continues to play to capacity receipts at the Broadway Theatre, New York, and the great demand for seats which still prevails, the phenomenally successful run of this great spectacle is rapidly drawing to a close. It will be seen in New York but a short time longer. After its present season at the Broadway Theatre ends, it will never again be presented in the metropolis. Therefore, but few opportunities remain to those who have not witnessed this masterpiece of the spectacular in stage art—a production which no lover of high class entertainment can afford to miss, for it represents the greatest achievement of American management in this field of amusement enterprise. Seats can now be had for every performance in the next four weeks. All orders for seats by mail, accompanied by remittance, directed to Jacob Litt, manager Broadway Theatre, will receive prompt attention. All those who contemplate seeing "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" will make no mistake in securing their seats at the earliest possible opportunity, as every indication points to not the slightest falling off in attendance during the remainder of its stay at the Broadway Theatre.

GOVERNMENT YIELDS

Belgian Premier Consents to a Vote on Suffrage.

WILD SCENE IN CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

Socialist Leaders Threaten Revolution and Bloodshed When Closure of Debate Is Proposed—The Strike Situation.

BRUSSELS, April 18.—The strikers in the Liege district now number 40,000, and the strike at Verviers, fourteen miles east of Liege, has extended to all the surrounding communes.

The striking miners at La Louviere, fourteen miles west of Charleroi, however, declare that they will resume work shortly. At Herstal, three and a half miles northeast of Liege, 2,000 men have returned to work.

The debate on the proposed revision of the Belgian constitution was resumed in the chamber of representatives. M. Braun, Liberal, advocated a speedy closing of the debate in the interest of the whole country, and the premier, M. de Smet de Nayer, heartily indorsed the suggestion. He said that the nation was anxiously awaiting their decision and proposed that the house continue sitting until the question was settled.

The Socialists protested against the adoption of the proposal, but the premier insisted on its adoption.

M. Van der Velde, the Socialist leader, criticised the government's attitude. Instead of extending the olive branch, he asserted, the premier offered fresh provocation. The Socialists were absolutely opposed to the conclusion of the discussion yesterday on the ground that important events might shortly occur.

The speaker pointed to the fact that there were 300,000 men on strike and that they enjoyed the respect of the middle classes. This statement was greeted with Socialist shouts of:

"The government thirsts for blood!"

The premier maintained the wisdom of the proposal for a speedy close of the debate.

Socialist shouts of "Trickery!" "Treachery!" "It will be the signal for a revolution!" followed the premier's remarks.

At this juncture M. Van der Velde crossed the floor and held a brief conversation with the premier, during which M. Troclet, Socialist, cried:

"Then you want blood to flow tomorrow!"

The premier having reiterated his unalterable adhesion to the proposal to close the debate, the Socialists broke out into considerable uproar and clinched their fists threateningly, but they confined themselves to that and to uttering shouts of defiance.

The debate was then continued by the premier, who amid frequent interruptions declared that a further revision of the constitution would not accord with the desires of the country. He did not believe that universal suffrage would be conducive to the maintenance of free institutions in Belgium. The government was prepared to examine hereafter arrangements calculated to improve the conditions of the country, but it would not agree to adopt universal suffrage pure and simple, which, he claimed, the Socialists alone desired.

A revision of the constitution, the premier further asserted, would plunge the country into turmoil, and the government utterly declined to be driven at the dictation of the populace and under threats of strike agitation and violence.

Renewed Socialist uproar, including threats of civil war and shouts of "You have murdered one of the people," followed this announcement.

After a violent speech by M. Janson, Progressionist, who declared the government was forcing the country over the brink of civil war, the premier said the government was willing for the sake of peace to withdraw the closure proposal.

M. Van der Velde agreed to this, and the chamber unanimously fixed the hour for the vote on the question of a revision of the constitution at 6 o'clock this afternoon.

He was accompanied by his family and will, he says, combine pleasure with official business on the trip. Every effort was made by the agents of the line to keep the secretary's departure secret, and the rooms set apart for his use were booked in the name of A. G. Smith, manager of the line.

Dike Wins Shrievalty Fight.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The appellate division of the supreme court has handed down a unanimous decision deciding the Kings county shrievalty contest in favor of Colonel Norman S. Dike, appointed by Governor Odell to succeed Charles Guden, and reversing the decision of Judge Gaynor of the supreme court ordering Colonel Dike to hand over the papers and records of the sheriff's office to Guden. Judge Willard Bartlett wrote the opinion, which covers sixteen typewritten pages and reviews the contest over the sheriff's office at length. The point upon which the decision is based is that Governor Odell was acting strictly within his power as defined by the constitution when he ousted Guden and appointed Colonel Dike to fill his place.

Young Odell Has a Broken Leg.

NEWBURG, N. Y., April 18.—While Governor Odell's young son, Benjamin Bryant Odell, was riding here yesterday the horse slipped and fell, and the boy's right leg was broken between the knee and ankle. He was conveyed to the home of his grandfather, where the bone was set by Drs. Gleason and Howell. The governor was here at the time, having come from Albany in the morning. It is not yet known what effect this accident will have upon the governor's projected southern and western trip. Bryant, who is aged fifteen, was taking his horse to the boat to ship him to West Point, there to leave him until the return of the family from the expected journey. He bravely bore the pain of setting the injured limb.

A Ten Million Steel Plant.

CLEVELAND, O., April 18.—The Plain Dealer says: "The city of Lorain, O., is to be the site of a ten million dollar steel tube plant. This step has practically been decided upon by the officials of the United States Steel corporation, who are back of the enterprise, and preliminary arrangements have already been made. The city council of Lorain has agreed to appropriate $150,000 for the purpose of widening Black river and increasing harbor facilities as far up as the present Lorain Steel plant. The new plant will, it is said, employ 8,000 men. The works will manufacture steel tubing only."

A New Hanna Company.

CLEVELAND, O., April 18.—The Detroit Iron and Steel company, in which M. A. Hanna & Co. and Pittsburg parties are interested, has been formed under Michigan laws, with a capital of $1,500,000, divided equally between preferred and common stock. The furnace will be located at Delray, a short distance below Detroit, and will have a daily capacity of 300 tons. Work on the plant will be started in a few weeks, and it will be completed early next year. The management of the plant is in the hands of M. A. Hanna & Co. Senator Hanna will be president of the new company.

Big Hotel For Norfolk.

NORFOLK, Va., April 18.—Norfolk and Baltimore capitalists will erect a six story hotel here to cost $400,000. The building will be devoted exclusively to the entertainment of guests, containing no stores or offices on the ground floor. The work of construction will begin next month.

French Strikers Riotous.

GRENOBLE, France, April 18.—Six thousand textile workers at Vienne, department of Isere, are on strike, and the resultant distress, which is becoming acute, has led to disorders. Troops were summoned to disperse the rioters, and several persons on both sides were wounded.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The steamer Abyssinia, just arrived from Hamburg, brought the largest cargo of wild animals ever landed at this port. The whole between decks is filled with stalls, boxes and cages of animals, horses, camels, elephants, monkeys and birds.

MORGAN'S LONG PLEA

A Four Hours' Speech For Nicaraguan Canal.

CLOSE OF DEBATE ON CUBAN BILL.

House Leaders Will Try to Force a Final Vote Late Today—Democrats Favor Taking Off Differential on Sugar.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—For more than four hours yesterday Mr. Morgan (Ala.), chairman of the Isthmian canal committee, addressed the senate on the subject of the Nicaraguan canal. He devoted the greater part of his speech to a consideration of the desirability and practicability of the two principal routes, Nicaragua and Panama. He strenuously favored the former, maintaining that in every possible respect it had many advantages over the Panama route.

A parliamentary change in the situation of the Chinese exclusion bill was made just before adjournment, the measure passed by the senate Wednesday being substituted for the house bill. This was done to expedite the bill in the house.

General debate on the Cuban reciprocity bill closes today at 3 o'clock, and it is the intention of the house leaders if possible to force a final vote on the passage of the bill before adjournment at night.

The opponents of the bill occupied most of the time of the debate yesterday, the feature being a vigorous speech by Mr. Cushman (Rep., Wash.) against the measure. Mr. Cushman arraigned the committee on rules and the house leaders in a breezy and at times sensational fashion. A portion of his criticism was in a semihumorous vein, but some of it was decidedly caustic.

The Democrats of the house at a caucus held last night by a very large majority, estimated at 3 to 1, adopted the following resolution, introduced by Mr. Swanson (Va.):

"Resolved, That we favor the removal of the differential on sugar both from Cuba and elsewhere and believe that such amendments are properly in order, and we insist that it is the duty of all Democrats to vote whenever opportunity is given to have these amendments added to the pending bill providing for Cuban reciprocity. We are opposed to the adoption of the previous question when the bill is reported to the house unless it shall have been properly amended in the committee of the whole, as this will prevent all opportunity for just and proper amendment, with recorded votes on the same.

"Resolved, further, That the action of this caucus is binding."

The caucus was rather turbulent during the early part of the evening, but toward the close the differences disappeared, and it broke up amid evidences of harmony and good feeling.

The action taken binds the Democrats to vote to abolish the differential on refined sugar and against the previous question.

American Prelates Going to Rome.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Archbishop Ireland and Bishop O'Gorman probably will leave this country for Rome in time to be at the Vatican when Governor Taft reaches there on his way to Manila. The prelates are well advised of the intentions of this government respecting not only the friars land question, but other matters of importance concerning the relations between the church and state in the Philippines, so they will be able to advise the Vatican officials in advance of Governor Taft's arrival and thereby facilitate his business.

Washington Denies Report.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 18.—Booker T. Washington denies the report that he had purchased a summer residence in South Weymouth, Mass. "I have purchased no house of any character whatever in Massachusetts," he said, "and not intending to do so and am not able to buy one. For several years I have rented a small cottage in Massachusetts during the summer, so that I could be near the work which I usually devote myself to during that season. There is no truth whatever in the statement."

The Central's New Stock.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 18.—The state railroad commission has approved the increase in capital stock of the New York Central by $35,000,000, making its total capital $150,000,000, and the Mohawk and Malone road's increase by $500,000, which makes its capital $5,000,000. The increase in New York Central capital is to be used in changing its motive power in the Park avenue tunnel and enlarging its terminal facilities at the Forty-second station in New York city.

Builders on a Strike.

SHARON, Pa., April 18.—Nearly a thousand men, representing all branches of the building trades, are out on a sympathetic strike, and as a result building operations are completely tied up. The strike was ordered because the contractors refused to accede to the demands of the stone masons, who struck about two weeks ago for an increase in wages of 50 cents a day, or $4.50 for nine hours' work.

Hailstorm In Texas.

RUSK, Tex., April 18.—A very destructive hailstorm passed north of here over an area of about four miles long and one mile wide, destroying 75 per cent of the fruit crop and causing an almost complete destruction of the truck fields.

ANNEXATION FIRST.

Now that the Greater Plainfield bills have been signed and are part of the State statutes, the question is immediately asked, when will the vote be taken? According to the provisions of the laws, a special election can be called by the Borough Council to give the citizens of that municipality a chance to vote on the measures, one at a time. The question of annexation will be the first to be considered and that will rest with the boroughites alone.

The first official step will be the action of the Borough Council in calling for a special election to consider the question as to whether or not the borough of North Plainfield shall leave Somerset county and cast its fortunes with Union. The law does not provide for any special time for the special election, that rests entirely with the Borough Council. It is a known fact, however, that a majority at least of the Councilmen are in favor of getting the formal opinion of the people as speedily as possible so no delay need be feared in this quarter.

There has been, in the past, a tendency on the part of some, to introduce a bitter feeling into this controversy. It is a great mistake. Every man is entitled to his own opinion. When it comes, however, to fair, logical argument, it is the duty of every man to think carefully over the statements presented and render a decision according to the evidence.

In reference to this need of calm, clear judgment in making the decision, A. A. Clark, in an interview published in the Somerset Messenger on the Greater Plainfield question, has stated it well. He says:

"Any attempt which results in exciting passion one way or the other, dethrones reason and prevents the exercise of an honest judgment, and when it comes to voting the [more cool and collected we can have the people who are to pass upon the question, if they are to pass upon it, the better for all concerned."

The many friends of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall in New Jersey will hear with pleasure that she has been unanimously nominated by the four Plainfield women's clubs for the president of the State Federation. Mrs. Hall has never worked for the nomination, but by her unceasing and successful work in educational lines throughout the State has richly earned official recognition. Her venerable mother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, is one of the earliest members of the New England Club, one of the oldest clubs in America. By electing the worthy daughter of such a mother as their president, the clubs of the New Jersey State Federation would honor themselves.

—Neuman Brothers will have a fresh consignment of strawberries tomorrow.

WILL TAKE CHARGE OF ANOTHER CHOIR

Wm. E. MacClymont to Act as Visiting Choirmaster of St. John's Church, Somerville.

HIS OTHER CHARGES.

ONE OF PLAINFIELD'S CLEVEREST MUSICIANS MAKING A NAME FOR HIMSELF.

Is Now Organist and Choirmaster of Holy Trinity Church, New York, and the Church of the Holy Cross, Plainfield.

As a music centre Plainfield can lay claim to some reputation. There is here quite a large colony of lovers of music. There's no particular school. Some are enthusiasts of popular songs, some of classical selections and some of religious compositions. It is said that the percentage of vocalists and instrumentalists in Plainfield's population is larger than any other place in the State, barring none.

Many of the vocalists are engaged in the large choirs of New York's great churches, many sing in local church choirs, and many more are heard at private and public entertainments. This concerns the vocalists but it should not be forgotten that the number of instrumentalists is far above the average. The organists here for instance are of no mean reputation. One of these is William E. MacClymont, who has made a name for himself in New York in this respect.

Mr. MacClymont devotes his entire time to the practice and teaching of music. Vocalists and instrumentalists have been trained under his direction. He is a master of the organ and knows much about the piano. As well as this he understands how to train voices as is the director of several choirs. At the present time he is the organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity church, New York. Under his supervision there are two vested choirs, one of twenty-five and the other of fifty voices. Both are regularly attached to the church. Together with these are two solo quartettes, each of which is connected with one of the choirs.

He is also the visiting choirmaster of the Church of the Holy Cross, in North Plainfield, and has just been placed in charge of the choir at St. John's church, Somerville. Holy Cross has a vested choir of thirty-five voices and St. John's has a vested choir of twenty-five voices. The latter consists of men and boys.

The Men's Choral Club, of this city, is conducted under his direction. In it are thirty trained voices, the members almost without exception being attached to choirs. Furthermore he is the organist of Trinity Commandrey, Knights Templar, of this city, and is the director of its quartette, which is the only one connected with a commandery in this State. The members of this quartette are E. E. Runyon and Nelson A. Miller, of this city, and Harry A. Smith and Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville.

There are a number of other organizations with which Mr. MacClymont is affiliated. Among them are the Manuscript Society and the American Guild of Organists. The former association has for its object the promotion of American music. He is a founder of the Guild of Organists, which is run on a similar plan to the London Guild of Organists. Mr. MacClymont is still a young man and there is bright promise of his pushing to the fore as one of the great musicians of the country.

PROPOSES A SALE.

Morgan C. Bird Says Thief Can Have the $50 Bird for $5.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I see by your paper that the rooster which was taken from my hennery about three weeks ago was valued at $50. To me it was worth about seventy-five cents. I never knew it was "game," never offered a reward for its return, and am of opinion the party who took it (knowing its value, and the evening it was taken) put that item in the paper. Now if the rooster is worth $50, I think it no more than right that he should send me $5 and I will call it a sale instead of a steal. Morgan C. Bird.

—Hezekiah Hand, the auctioneer, is today at Blawenburg, near Princeton, conducting a large sale of live stock and farming implements.

STATE S. P. C. A. OFFICERS

ELECTED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NEW JERSEY SOCIETY THIS WEEK.

Work of Society is Done on $2,000 a Year, of Which Only $300 Comes From Members.

At the annual meeting of the New Jersey Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals held in Newark, this week, the following officers were elected: President, G. Wisner Thorne; vice presidents, Miss Mabel Olmstead, Mrs. Ray C. Lynch; secretary and State superintendent, Col. E. S. Edwards; executive committee, G. W. Thorne, F. A. Foster, Edward W. Whitehead, E. H. Carhart, J. B. Woolsey and Col. E. S. Edwards.

The work of the society is done on a little more than $2,000 a year, of which only about $300 comes from members, the rest of the income being derived from investments and fines paid by offenders. Resolutions were adopted at the meeting rejoicing over the condemnation by the press of the State of the cruel practice of shooting pigeons from traps and the evidence that the people of the State demand the abolishment of the so-called sport.

Hon. Edgar Williams, of East Orange, was thanked for his brave and earnest leadership in the recent effort to obtain from the Legislature a law prohibiting trap shooting, as were all others who helped in this effort. Another resolution condemning State Senator Edward S. Lee from Atlantic County, for his work of blocking the measure abolishing trap shooting, was adopted.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 20. "Missionary Activity;" "The First Christian Century and the Twentieth"—Text, Acts ii, 41-47; v, 14; xxvi, 15-21; Heb. xi, 36-38; Rom. xiii, 14—Read Matt. iv.

"Jesus went about teaching, preaching, healing."

Both in words and deeds He revealed to us the nature of God and His will concerning us. He taught us what to do and how to do it by doing Himself the things which men ought to do.

The disciples followed in His path. In doctrine, fellowship and practices of worship the early church in Jerusalem has been a model for all after times. They continued steadfast with the apostles in spite of poverty and persecution, and multitudes were added to them continually.

No clearer example of missionary activity is presented by any time than this first century shows in Paul. He appeals first to his own people, the Jews, and when they reject Him turns to the gentiles, who gladly hear. He was not of the twelve apostles who at first kept very close to Jerusalem. His mission was to the far ends of the world.

In Antioch at first—populous, wealthy, luxurious, wicked Antioch—he taught and preached and worked at his trade. Then through Cyprus, Asia Minor, Macedonia, Greece, Rome and perhaps even in Spain he carried the gospel where it had never been before preached—dauntless amid perils, joyous under persecution and privation, victorious in martyrdom, glorified in memory to all ages.

What does this century show to compare with the story of the first? The nineteenth century exhibited greater gains for Christ than all the preceding ones put together, in some respects. We enter upon the new era with highest hopes and fairest prospects.

Never before was there more earnest study of the word of God. More intelligent, diligent and continuous searching has never been seen. Pickax and spade are uncovering treasures of the far east buried for ages which give new light upon the Bible. The past year has brought fresh confirmation and illumination of the record. The prospect is that in the near future more will be available in this line of things than the world has possessed since the gospels were written.

More men and women are today teaching, preaching and healing in the name of Christ than ever before. Hundreds are waiting for the commission of the church to go. The young people from our colleges and other schools are ready in greater numbers than have before been seen. Consecrated talent and training are grandly available.

Doors of the nations are open as they never before have been. A letter just received from Nankin, China, says: "We are carrying on our work here the same as before the Boxer trouble and with constantly increasing favor with all classes of people. Last year's uprising was markedly educational in its effects upon the Chinese people. It was an awful tuition fee to pay, but the aggregate of influence toward improvement and civilization has justified the expenditure so far as it could be justified." The nations are open to the gospel.

Never before were such vast sums of money poured into the Lord's treasury for the salvation of men as are at the present time given.

The Kingdom of Power.

Language, we are told, is the channel through which flow to our fellow men and the world our thoughts. But thoughts, however grand and noble, generous and great, farreaching and inspiring, will not of themselves perform the required things of life. Mankind must not merely think and impart thought, knowledge, but they must accompany their thoughts with a quickening zeal and a characteristic energy. Words may inspire, but deeds will lead and drive men to action. Words may foster a spirit of noble thinking, but actions, guided by discretion, based on achieving thought, permeated by the feeling of highest good and controlled by unselfish aims, will move the world of humanity.—Western Methodist.

Punishment For Disobedience.

God will brook no rival, no idol in the heart and life. He is the Lord, our God, and we must have no other, for to do so is the greatest insult to Him and denies His very deity. And any disobedience to any of His commandments opens the door to the great sins of idolatry and atheism. The spirit of disobedience is the spirit of Satan and of all sin. Disobedience must end in and be punished with death. Obedience to God involves the divine favor and all good and blessing and fullness of life. Obey and live is the sum of the commandments of God.—Evangelist.

Taking Him With Us.

It is our duty as well as our pleasure, being brothers in Christ, to take Him with us everywhere—on the farm, in the store, in the office, at the home or wherever we may be—make Him our companion, His words our watchword and His life a straight line, which, with God's help, we must parallel as near as possible and fulfill the mission that He has designed for us.—Universalist.

God Will Use It.

No good deed, no genuine sacrifice, is ever wasted. If there be good in it, God will use it for His own holy purposes, and whatever of ignorance or weakness or mistake was mingled with it will drop away as the withered sepals drop away when the full flower has blown.—Frederic W. Farrar.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning April 20. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How can I know that I am saved?—John viii, 31, 32; I John iii, 14; Rom. viii, 1-16; I John iv, 7.

Can I know that I am saved? This is a question that has been asked by many an anxious Christian. Some have concluded that assurance is possible. Others have declared that it is impossible and the testimony in favor of it an unwarranted presumption. The topic assumes that positive knowledge is possible upon this subject. The fact must always precede the method. We must know that we are saved before we can tell how we know it. And this is undoubtedly the Scriptural and only rational view to take upon this subject. That we may be saved and have no way of knowing it is a preposterous supposition. It is contrary to the teachings of God's word. Job says, "I know;" Paul says, "I know," and John fairly bristles with assurance. His principal epistle is practically an elaboration of this precious doctrine. "We know" is its keynote. And if Job, Paul and John could have assurance, so may all Christians. The contrary doctrine is as unreasonable as it is unscriptural. It is insupposable that one could be born again, be truly the child of God, and not have any way of knowing it.

But since assurance is possible, how do we know that we are Christians, that we are saved for time and for eternity? Several answers to this question are suggested in the topical references:

1. We know that we are saved by the testimony of consciousness. God offers salvation through faith in His Son Jesus Christ. Now, if we have really accepted Christ, if our sins have been pardoned and we stand righteous before God, in the righteousness of Christ, there's a consciousness within us that tells us that this is so. "Our spirit" beareth witness within us that "we are the children of God" and consequently saved! How could it be otherwise? Who could live in a filial relation with God, enjoy the fellowships and blessings of sonship and not know it?

2. We know that we are saved by the testimony of the Holy Spirit. Our spirit beareth witness that we are the children of God, but not only so—"The Spirit Himself beareth witness with our spirit [or corroborates the witness or testimony of our spirit] that we are the children of God. The Holy Ghost in an inexplicable way gives us the sweet inward assurance that we are God's children and are saved.

3. We may know that we are saved by our lives. There are outward as well as inward proofs of this doctrine—the testimony of life, both in its relation to Christ and in its relation to our fellow men. "If ye continue in My word," says Jesus, "then are ye [no doubt about it] My disciples indeed, and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make ye free." Christians as well as trees are known by their fruits. If by faith in Christ we are living Christian lives, are doing His word, we are His disciples and cannot help but know the truth about it, and, knowing that we are His, we are made free from the law and its worries and exactions. This includes also our lives in relation to our fellows. "We know that we are passed from death to life because we love the brethren," "for love is of God, and every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God."

Blessed assurance! Jesus is mine!
Oh, what a foretaste of glory divine!
Heir of salvation, purchase of God,
Born of His Spirit, saved by His blood!

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xix, 25, 26; Isa. xxxii, 17; John x, 14; Rom. viii, 35-39; Col. ii, 1-3; I Thess. i, 1-5; II Tim. i, 8-14; Heb. vi, 1-12; x, 19-25; I John iii, 1-3; v, 20.

God Given Power to Love.

Loving as we are loved is delightful and human; loving whether we are loved or not is not easy, but it is godlike. In the full heartedness of youth our love goes out in return for kindness and love received. Loving those who love us seems as natural as breathing, and so, indeed, it is. But as we advance in life the Master sets us harder lessons and puts our loving power to fireproof tests. It seems a hard doctrine that loving fallible and unlovely men should be as the test of our love for a pure and holy and all loving God, yet any love worthy of the name, and the only one which will bear testing, is God derived. Only when we look to Him for power to love men do we gain that affection for and sympathy with our fellows which enable us to love others with no thought of their attitude toward us and which He would have us show toward all men.—Sunday School Times.

Christian Religion.

But English literature is already full of the lyrics of the Christ, while the poets are still searching for new tributes to bring to His name. The sublimest oratories have had inspiration from the Nazarene or have been set with Scriptural words which convey His ideas. The heathen jest of the early centuries that "Christianity is the religion of the sorrowful" was early disproved. Christianity is a religion that can sing and that does sing.—New York Observer.

A FASHION LOOK AHEAD.

The Habit Cloth Du Barry—Angora and Llama For Fall.

Just now many beautiful new materials are to be seen in the great, dingy and hard to reach importing houses. I do not intend an insult about the dinginess, for that word applies mostly to the approaches, where splinters from immense packing cases and nails make traveling a difficult affair. And there is much dust also, but not on the goods, be it understood. Materials of all kinds for fall are now on view, and there are sharp men and women buyers already choosing out fine things to have made up at once for those who like to lead in all things pertaining to styles. Later, say in September, we shall see handsome gowns made of these things in the swell stores, so that our ladies who have been studying domestic economy may have ample time to reflect and decide upon the best thing for them to have when the time comes.

All things being considered, a woman can make no mistake when she decides in favor of and chooses a new kind of habit cloth called Du Barry for the ill fated little duchess of that name. This feels like the soft and flexible doeskin, while having all the luster of the finest French broadcloth. It is offered in all the season's colorings and black. This will make a costume which can be worn almost the whole year around. It has been treated in some way which renders it proof against spots. Its width allows the present and probably the future skirt to be cut to good advantage. It is peculiarly adapted for fine tailor suits.

The angora and llama as well as camel's hair are all among the new fall stuffs, but though old in themselves, there is something new in color, weave or design in every case, and yet they are near enough to the older styles to allow the clever woman to take advantage of the similarity. There is one cloth called kraal, which has an entirely new weave embodying cheviot and camel's hair in one perfect fabric. The colors are all kinds and black. The camel's hair effect is carried out in another stuff in a most remarkable way and is called llama. The surface of the goods is exactly like velvet, though of this wool, and there are tiny polka dots all over the surface. In navy with white dots it is beautiful. So it is in other colors, but this comes. I think, rather more under the head of novelty goods, and the gown, however beautiful it is, cannot be combined with many other things. Strapped, stitched bands in plain color trim it.

Among the other really new stuffs for fall dress goods there are the following, all of them represented in all the season's colors.

There is chamois, an all wool fabric in almost invisible stripes of white or gray on the colored grounds in warm autumn shades. This is rainproof. It is extremely rich and stylish. Meteor is an etamine with perpendicular tucked stripes. Bristol is another beauty in silk and wool, soft and flexible with admirable draping qualities. This is only in five shades and colors. It is really exquisite. Faustina is a new weave combining melrose and serge. Melrose we all know for its genuine value, and serge our grandmothers knew as one of the most valuable of all stuffs. Now they are brought together, and the result is worthy. This has a corded effect.

Another mingling of two old favorites is found in angora, with a foule effect. Foule means twisted, and this has over the surface a raised twist of the wool. It is very pretty and warm looking. Malva means a stuff with a cord, though the rest of it looks somewhat like a melton. A basket weave etamine is called floretta, and this will certainly be a favorite. There is a skirting for all kinds of heavy and hard usage called vulcan, and this is striped in small and almost invisible checks so arranged that they seem to be stripes made of checks. All these are in just the proper color for the purpose for which they are designed. There is also a London twine cloth called marita, with something of a basket effect. It is extremely neat and appears to have wearing qualities.

I noticed that silkdowne, which was put forward last season, is with us still and more beautiful than ever. This is a twill of silk and wool so fine and firm that it is more beautiful than almost any plain silk. It has a frost and bloom impossible to describe.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"Don't worry about me, Pettibone, answered Guy. "I sha'n't leave this town until the county seat contest is decided, one way or the other. I have too much at stake."

"All right, then. I won't be gone more than half an hour."

Thereupon the sheriff strode off down the street and Guy went up on the veranda and seated himself. At that hour Pedro Smith was in the kitchen overseeing the preparation for dinner. Guy was alone in that quarter and he removed the pink envelope very gently from his pocket and opened it and drew forth the perfumed sheet. It was really from Miss Betty and his heart beat faster than usual as he read the dainty writing.

"Dear Friend: There is a matter of grave importance which I wish to discuss with you. As I cannot come to Concord, and you cannot come to Harmony, may I ask you to meet me at some neutral point to-morrow, Wednesday afternoon, at four o'clock? There is a pretty little lake which is named after me and which lies equally distant between the two towns—Lake Elizabeth. Please meet me there. Yours very truly.

"ELIZABETH VLANDINGHAM."

"P. S.—Miss Pinkney will accompany me, but I shall expect you to come alone. E. V."

The joy which Guy felt over this proposed meeting with Miss Betty was lost in the consternation which suddenly seized upon him. By what strange coincidence had she appointed for their meeting the very place, day and hour fixed upon by the duellists for their affair of honor? And how was he to go alone when he had already agreed to go with the sheriff. Anyhow, how could he go alone any place?

Guy was in despair. He did not see how he could possibly engineer affairs so as to prevent Miss Betty from getting the idea that he was two-faced and had betrayed to the sheriff the contents of her letter.

Here was a dilemma of gigantic proportions, and how was he to get around it?

CHAPTER XI.

Guy had an idea that he might telegraph Miss Vlandingham he would be at Lake Elizabeth at four o'clock, but that, through circumstances over which he had no control, the sheriff would accompany him. A little reflection convinced him that it would not be well to send a message of this kind; so, instead of that, he sent the following:

"Please appoint another day, same place."

This was tantamount to saying that he would not be able to meet Miss Betty at the rendezvous and Guy, highly pleased with the way he had gotten around the difficulty, returned from the telegraph office to the hotel. Unfortunately he did not observe that Col. Keever was in the freight department of the depot, where he had come to find out whether the "patent outsides" for the next issue of the Blizzard had yet arrived. Unseen, the Colonel overheard the young man's colloquy with the operator. What the great man did after that will soon appear.

Pettibone joined Guy at dinner. After the meal they smoked their cigars and chatted in friendly fashion until three o'clock, when young Alec drove a high stepper and a covered buggy up to the hotel veranda. Guy and the sheriff immediately got into the vehicle and drove off, leaving young Alec staring wistfully after them.

Very soon the travelers were out of town, and rolling rapidly along the level road which, worn deeply into the turf, was almost as hard and smooth as asphalt. The sun had half descended the western sky; a few vaporous clouds floated overhead and a balmy wind blew from the northwest and languidly rippled the grass and the flowers. The whistle of a robin and the plaintive notes of a meadow lark thrilled through the scene, giving a touch of melody to a day already perfect.

"This is something like living," remarked Guy, again and again filling his lungs to their fullest capacity with the warm, sweet air.

"That's what," assented Pettibone. "If a man was only out in these parts for his health what a time he could have! God made the country, they say, and men make the town. Everything's lovely until civilized people come along, tickle the soil with a plow and make it laugh wheat and oats, and then the trouble begins. Seems like the more nature smiles and shows her good nature, the more unsociable people become. Now, look there"—and the sheriff waved his hand toward the stretch of prairie dotted with squares of growing grain, each square pushing the "shack" of its owner as far toward its limits as possible—"did you ever see anything purtier? But there's a heart in every one of those shacks. Mr. Herbert, that's bitter as gall over this county seat question. And if it wasn't that, it would be something else. I tell you, a human bein' has got to have a grievance to nurse, or fondle, or tuck away, or put up on a pole and howl about, or he won't be contented. That's right."

"Why are the farmers so deeply interested in the county seat fight?"

"Most of 'em have a lot or two in town, so it's a pocketbook affair with them. Those that haven't any lots just take sides in order to have something to quarrel about. The farmer that lives nearest to Concord is a Concord man, and the one closest to Harmony is for that town tooth and nail. Sile Whittaker—that's his house 'way over yender, you can see it just over the lash of my whip now—well, when he first built his claim shanty it was right square between the two towns, not a foot farther from Concord than it was from Harmony. For a long time Sile didn't know what to do for a grievance and it worried him so that he hitched his team to his shack one night and pulled it over onto the northeast corner of his hundred and sixty. That brought him nearer Concord, see? When the county seat was located in Concord and things got fairly quiet there, he was blue as a whetstone till he hauled his shack across to the southwest corner of the quarter, and that made a Harmony man out of him. Just now it don't make any difference which side of his farm he's on. Sile can be in hot water all the time, so he's just about as comfortable in the spirit as any man can be, and live. And that's the way it goes."

Dick Pettibone was full of anecdote and reminiscence and sage reflections on life, and the half hour which it required for the high stepper to trot them to their destination was whiled away most agreeably.

Lake Elizabeth was a small but beautiful expanse of water, shimmering like a diamond against the green of the plain. On all sides the banks had a gentle slope and there were wide reaches of white sand skirting the water's edge. To the north were two small groves of cottonwoods standing knee-deep in a dense undergrowth.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

Conflicting Reports Regarding Conference at Pretoria.

THE KING ANXIOUS FOR WAR'S END

One Report Says the Desired Results Are Nearing Attainment, While From Other Sources Come Stories of Serious Differences.

LONDON, April 18.—Dr. Hans Sauer, a Loyalist Afrikander, speaking at Bradford last night, was not optimistic concerning the peace negotiations. He said he thought it quite probable that the Boers would ask Great Britain for £50,000,000 or £80,000,000 and agree in return to clear out of South Africa altogether.

The Daily Mail claims to have authority to announce that bases of peace have been practically agreed upon at Pretoria, but says that some little time will elapse before the details of the plan can be perfected. The paper adds that upon finding that the British government refused on Wednesday to modify its terms with regard to amnesty, banishment and a responsible government the Boer delegates met again on Thursday. The British decision, practically leaving them the alternative of accepting the British terms or breaking up the conference, was then communicated to them, and the delegates proved much more reasonable.

When Lord Milner, the British high commissioner in South Africa, promised the delegates one or two seats on the executive council, subject to the approval of the government and pending the restoration of a responsible government, they practically agreed to accept the British terms.

Some details, continues The Daily Mail, which are not likely to create difficulty still remain to be settled.

Lord Milner has summoned from Johannesburg an Australian expert, who is to assist in estimating the cost of rebuilding and restocking the Boer farms.

King Edward himself is taking a very active part in the efforts to end the war in South Africa, and it is admitted today that he is insisting upon peace being brought about, if possible at all, before the present negotiations end.

The king wants to end the war before his coronation and is consulting his ministry daily upon every phase of the negotiations.

Serious differences, it is said, have arisen between the Transvaal and Free State delegations who are discussing peace terms at Pretoria. General Botha and Acting President Schalkburger, it is reported, have given the Free State representatives until April 21 to come to a decision, threatening that thereafter the Transvaal delegation will continue the peace negotiations independently of the Free State delegates.

Thanks For General Bell.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Adjutant General Corbin has sent the following cable message to General Chaffee, at Manila: "The acting secretary of war directs me to inform you that the president wishes through you to express his gratification and the gratification of the American people at the results of the campaign of Brigadier General J. Franklin Bell and the officers and men of his command in the Batangas and Laguna provinces, which culminated in the surrender of the insurgent forces under Malvar and which will further extend the territory in which civil government is exercised."

London Educator In New York.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Dr. S. Schechter, professor of Hebrew in the London, Cambridge and Victoria universities of England, arrived on the steamship Teutonic for the purpose of accepting the presidency of the Jewish Theological seminary of this city. Dr. Schechter is considered to be among the greatest living authorities on Jewish literature and brings his library with him, which includes fragments of an important ancient Hebrew manuscript which he discovered during explorations in Egypt.

General Crozier Relieved.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Secretary Root before leaving for Cuba issued an order relieving General William Crozier and Captain I. N. Lewis, coast artillery, from further duty with the board of ordnance and fortification. It is understood that this action was taken to secure confirmation by the senate of General Crozier's nomination as chief of ordnance. Major Charles Shaler, now stationed at Indianapolis, succeeds General Crozier, and Captain Harry Taylor succeeds Lewis.

Cuba's Imports and Exports.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—A report just issued shows that Cuba's imports in 1901 were $66,583,973 against $66,678,589 for 1900 and exports $63,278,380 against $48,904,684 for 1900. The export of Cuban sugar to the United States amounted in 1901 to $30,814,196, in 1900 to $16,763,852.

Butter Follows Meat.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Butter will be selling at 40 cents a pound before the end of the week under the manipulations of the meat trust unless a supply not now looked for by the retail dealers comes from the commission houses. It is from 2 to 4 cents higher now.

An Anarchist Bomb Factory.

LONDON, April 18.—According to a dispatch to The Daily Mail from St. Petersburg, a bomb factory supported by anarchists has been discovered at Jurjeff, in the government of Livonia.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Hewitt and Montross will both occupy the pitcher's box successively at tomorrow's Hope game. Hartfelder will complete the battery.

The High School-Hope game will be called promptly tomorrow afternoon at 3:45. It is thought the bleachers will be ready for occupancy.

The Underwood Baseball Club has reorganized for the season and would like to arrange games with teams whose members average thirteen years of age.

The St. Mary field has been ploughed up by Contractor Higgins and is now being rolled for tomorrow's game with the Rahway Field Club. It will be in fine shape and will be kept so for the remainder of the season.

The Liberty street Terrors came out victorious in a game with the Infants on the John street grounds, Wednesday afternoon. The score was 3 to 1. Nesler and McGrath formed the battery for the Terrors, and Lindsey and McGauley for the Infants.

Manager Muir, of the Safe Works team, invites all enthusiasts, who so desire, to accompany his aggregation to Dunellen, tomorrow. It will be he first time the entire team will play in public and will be the means of showing what most of them can do.

Manager Peter Simmonds, of the Cuban Giants, is getting his team in shape for the coming season. The players and their positions will be announced in a few days and in the meantime practice work is being held daily. The schedule games will begin early next month.

Manager Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A. ball team, has called for a practice on the home grounds tomorrow afternoon. Playing will commence at 4 o'clock. Captain McLaughlin, who was unable to be on the field last Saturday owing to illness, will be present and watch for developments.

A player of whom much is expected during the coming season is Kennedy, Hope's new acquisition. During the practice game, last Saturday, he covered short in a manner which showed him to be an "old timer." He made a number of phenomenal catches, which won the applause of the spectators.

The line-up of the Dunellen baseball team in tomorrow's game with the Safe Works team will be as follows: Kuldoshes, c; Finnerty, p; Fred Giddis, 1 b; Ayers, 2 b; Giles, ss; Craig, 3 b; Herlick, l f; A. Giddis, c f; Rinehart, r f. The game will be called at 3:45 o'clock and will be played on the Lincoln avenue grounds.

GOLF.

The Herald of Sunday commenting on the match played Saturday between Princeton and Baltusrol said that, "J. Whitney Baker, a Princeton freshmen, playing against Allan Kennady champion of Jersey, caught him off his game, and had him, three down," Mr. Baker is a sophomore and as both went out in 39 it is evident that Mr. Kennedey was beaten on his merits, Baker's total of 82 being a low score for this time of year.

Mr. Chapman, president of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, who presented the first championship cup, finally won by Willard Wadsworth last season, will present to the club this season, a handsome cup to be held by the club in perpetuity to be known as the "championship cup," winner each year to have his name placed on it, and receive a medal bearing on one side a fac-simile of the cup, on the other "Championship cup Hillside Tennis and Golf Club season of ——. Winner——."

It is the fond hope of many that F. O. Reinhart may be induced to play on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club team this season. Reinhart is a strong player and would greatly strengthen the local team. Some very strong matches have been arranged and if the Hillside team hopes to make a good showing it will have to be a strong one. Captain Dumont hopes to secure such a team. No selections will be made until after the season opens.

At the meeting of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Associatioon held Tuesday afternoon in New York it was decided to hold the women's metropolitan championship at the Essex County Country Club, June 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14. The class A clubs this year will be made up of Shinnecock Hills, Baltusrol, Essex County, Morris County and Nassau, while in class B will be Apawamis, Hillside, Englewood Golf, Powelton, Harbor Hill and Richmond County.

BASKET BALL.

The "rubber" game between the Plainfield High School and Leal's School basket ball teams will be played in the Y. M. A. gymnasium, this evening. The game will be called at 8 o'clock.

MISS STONE'S PURPOSE.

Ransomed Missionary Gives Reasons For Entering Lecture Field.

BOSTON, April 18.—Miss Ellen M. Stone, the missionary to Bulgaria, who was ransomed from the brigands and who returned to this country last week, has given to the American board of commissioners of foreign missions a statement, in which she says that, it having been presented to her as an imperative duty to recite her experiences in captivity in a public way, it was in her heart to devote the proceeds toward reimbursing any who may have embarrassed themselves in providing the ransom.

The further hope grew that she might do something for those missionary purposes to which she had given her life, such, for instance, as the establishment of an industrial school in Macedonia in which young men may be trained in legitimate occupations so that they may not grow up to become brigands.

Judge Fessenden in the superior court has refused to grant the petition of a lecturing agent for an injunction enjoining Miss Stone from lecturing under the management of a rival concern, and the case was assigned for a hearing on its merits on Thursday next.

—At Neuman Brothers, fresh tomorrow: Green asparagus, green beans, green peas, Boston head lettuce, celery, cucumbers, tomatoes and oyster plant.

WARREN CHAPEL IS GROWING EVERY DAY

Its Growth Evidenced at the Annual Meeting of Chapel Held Last Evening.

REPORTS WERE MADE.

ALL THE SOCIETIES OF THE CHAPEL SHOWED MUCH PROGRESS.

Membership in the Chapel Has Increased From 161 to 216 During the Last Year—$571.04 Was Contributed to Missions.

As an evidence of the present condition of the church, the large attendance at the annual meeting of Warren chapel last evening was most conspicuous. The congregation was assembled in the commodious parlor of the church and there was not a vacant seat at the commencement of the meeting.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, the pastor, presided, and his address, like unto the various reports, was of an enthusiastic nature. The band of Christians which worships there is steadily increasing and the situation, spiritually and financially, is healthy, according to the several statements submitted by the officers. The pastor announced that the numerical strength at present is 216. There were 161 souls in the congregation one year ago. Since that time forty-three have been added on confession of faith, twenty-two by baptism and eighteen by letter. During the same period the loss has been eight, this being caused by dismissal and death.

The cause of missions has been well supported. A total of $571.04 has been contributed during the current church year for the purpose. Of this sum, $161.69 was given for missionary work in foreign lands and $409.35 went to the advancement of the work in this country. The total amount shows a net gain of $49.04 over the preceding year. For the relief fund, $96.54 was raised and the disbursements were $89.70.

Joseph W. Gavett, the church treasurer, submitted his annual report, which brought out the encouraging fact that the members are giving more freely than ever. The total receipts were $660 and the expenditures $649. This shows a gain of $83. Of the total receipts $520 represents offerings through the envelope system.

As for the Sunday-school it appears to be equally as prosperous. Superintendent Frederic H. Andrews reported that the average attendance had been 325, making a gain of ten pupils over the preceding year. The largest attendance on any single Sunday was 450. He had words of praise for the efficiency of the present teaching corps and also added something regarding this faithfulness. Mr. Andrews also read the Sunday-school treasurer's report. The receipts aggregated $546 and the disbursements $517. In footing up the receipts account was taken of the collections, which amounted to $321.57.

In has been the custom of the church to hold missionary services on Friday evenings and the pecuniary result of this has been that $97.42 was contributed. This sum was divided among general foreign work, city missions and the late Miss Mair's undertaking.

For the Ladies' Aid Society Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett responded. The society has forty-one members and has held ten meetings. The average attendance at these sessions has been eighteen. A box was sent to a missionary in Sourth Carolina and the value placed on it was $23. Other boxes were shipped to a missionary at Park, Kansas, and the valuation was $123. Beside these four barrels of clothing were sent to a missionary at Champion, Wisconsin, and articles were donated to the Ferguson Academy. Mrs. L. C. Ely, the treasurer of the organization, reported through the pastor that the total receipts had been $243.28 and the disbursements $230.67.

The blessing bag fund was instrumental in raising $35.09, of which amount $34 has been expended. The receipts of the King's Foreign Missionary Circle were $226.68 and the disbursements $218.14.

Miss Christofferson, the secretary of the Christian Endeavor Society, reported that there are fifty-eight active members in that organization and also four associate members. This is an incease of eight. Forty-five meetings have been held and the average at-

The trouble was located but has not yet been entirely remedied.

TO RUN MORE TROLLEY CARS

COL. HINE TALKS OF IMPROVEMENTS SOON TO BE MADE.

More Power Will Enable Company to Reduce Running Time—Improvements to Stock.

Col. Hine, of the Elizabeth and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, is authority for the statement that about the middle of May there are to be some changes in the running time and the equipment. One of the greatest improvements to be made is the installation of new feeder wires which will enable the cars to make better time. This work will be started at once so that the better service can be given.

It is the intention of the company to reduce the running time to ten minutes headway during the busy hours of the day, as well as all day Saturday and Sunday. The rolling stock and equipment will be improved throughout. The reduced running time will apply to the main line as well as the local lines. It is also proposed to have new cars for the local service.

Col. Hine also states that he has heard nothing of a rumored change in running the cars between Netherwood and Monroe avenue, over the Front street line, and intimated that as long as the public is satisfied with the present arrangement there will be no change.

BEAUTIFYING PLACE.

Watchung Springs Are Being Prepared for Summer Visitors.

The Watchung Spring Water Company is beautifying its grounds on the mountain side. Under natural conditions it is an attractive spot, but landscape gardeners are enhancing the scenery to a great extent. Visitors from this city are at the place daily. Work is progressing on the little ravines, which are being cleared out to let the water flow down the hillside uninterruptively. These streams are not used, as all the mineral water is supplied from the vein which has been chemically analysed. Eight gallons of water per minute is the supply obtained from the one spring in use.

CONGREGATIONALISTS TO GATHER NEXT WEEK

Annual Session of the Congregational Association of N. J. Will Meet at Jersey City.

PROGRAMME OUTLINED.

EACH CHURCH IS ENTITLED TO PASTOR AND TWO OTHER DELEGATES.

Will be Held Tuesday and Wednesday at the First Congregational Church—The Speakers and the Subjects—The Programme.

An interesting programme including the discussion of subjects not strictly within the religious field, has been prepared for the thirty-fourth annual session of the Congregational Association of New Jersey, which comprises, besides thirty-seven churches in this State, ten in Eastern Pennsylvania, one in Delaware, five in Maryland, seven in the District of Colmbia and two in Virginia. The convention will be held in First Congregational church, Jersey City, Tuesday and Wednesday. Last year, when the association met in Baltimore, the sessions were continued for three days, but this year it was decided to go back to the old plan.

The association will convene on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and Rev. H. A. M. Briggs, of Jersey City, will open the convention with devotional exercises, followed by roll call and organization. Rev. John L. Scudder, pastor of the First church, Jersey City, will then deliver an address of welcome. The next in order will be the presentation of reports by Rev. J. Owen Jones, of Bound Brook, who is the corresponding secretary, and James H. Noyes, of East Orange, who is the treasurer.

Afterward Merrill E. Gates, of Washington, D. C., the retiring moderator, will make an address, and the session will close with the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, at which the celebrants will be Rev. D. E. Marvin, of Asbury Park, and Rev. N. J. Gulick, of Germantown, Pa. In the evening the devotional exercises will be led by Rev. Dr. F. W. Baldwin, of East Orange, and addresses will be made by Rev. Dr. Newell D. Hillis, of Brooklyn, and Rev. Robert Nourse, of Falls Church, Va. The latter will speak on "Amusements."

At the opening of the Wednesday morning session reports of committees will be presented and other business transacted. Rev. Oliver Huckel, of Baltimore, will deliver an address on "Is Christ's Kingdom Advancing?" George I. Busby, of Nutley, president of the New Jersey Tax Reform Association, will speak on "The Sacrament Factor in the Sociological Problem of the Twentieth Century." He will also answer questions and there will be a general discussion. Another address will be on "Wanted in the United States, an Example of Organic Union Between Denominations," by Rev. Dr. S. M. Newman, of Washington, D. C.

Part of the afternoon will be given up to business, and after a devotional meeting by Rev. Dr. A. H. Ball, of Passaic, these addresses will be made: "The Evolution of Hymnology," Rev. Dr. Charles H. Richards, of Philadelphia; "The Epic of Christ," Rev. Clinton B. Adams, of Philadelphia; and "The Bedouin of the Euphrates," by Mrs. Cassandra Artella Haynes. Rev. C. E. Hesselgrave, of Chatham, will speak of "Christianity and the Ethic Religions of India," and "National Perils and Their Cure" will be the subject discussed by Rev. William G. Puddefoot, of South Framingham, Mass.

Each church in the association is entitled to be represented at the convention by its pastor and two other delegates. While the association has no executive power over the churches the latter usually follow its recommendations.

IN WHICH DISTRICT WILL BOROUGH VOTE?

N. Y. Tribune Quotes Attorney General to Effect That Line Can't be Changed.

MAY GO TO COURTS.

FRANK BERGEN BELIEVES THAT THE PROPOSED CHANGE CAN BE MADE.

It is a Question as to Whether North Plainfield Can Be Changed From One Congressional District to Another.

The New York Tribune, this morning, publishes a special dispatch from its Trenton correspondent concerning the effect of the annexation of North Plainfield on the Congressional districts. The subject is one which has been talked about since the annexation question was first discussed.

The Tribune says:

"A provision has just been discovered in the act of 1901 establishing the present Congress districts of New Jersey which, in the opinion of Attorney General McCarter, will keep the borough of North Plainfield in the Fourth District, even though it be annexed to Union county, which is in the Fifth district. The clause in the act which has heretofore been overlooked provides that each district shall include the various counties and municipalities as they existed on January 1, 1901. Mr. McCarter holds that the change of the borough of North Plainfield from one county to another cannot, therefore, change the lines of the Congress districts.

"Frank Bergen, a prominent Republican lawyer of Elizabeth, believes that the annexation acts just signed by the Governor supersede the act of 1901, and that North Plainfield will therefore go into the Fifth district.

"The courts will probably be called upon to settle the question, which will determine whether State Senator Charles A. Reed, of Somerset, will henceforth vote in the Fourth district, which is now without a Congressman, or in the Fifth district, represented by Congressman Fowler, and in which, it is hinted, Mr. Reed aspires to be the next Republican candidate for Congress."

"PATIENCE" REHEARSAL.

Satisfactory One Was Given at the Reform Hall Last Night.

A gratifying rehearsal of the comic opera "Patience" was held at Reform Hall last evening. The solo, duet and quintette, as well as the chorus work, all showed a marked improvement and it was the opinion of those who heard the opera that it will be given perfectly. J. Howard Case is conducting the rendition of the opera, while Vincent Sokol presides at the piano. Tuesday evening a dress rehearsal will be held at the Casino, where the opera will be given Thursday evening. William Holmes, under whose direction the affair will be given, has general charge and direction of the opera.

Rev. Theordore Shafer, of Millstone, officiated. Percy S. Dayton, of this city, was one of the two ushers. There was a large number of guests present from near and distant points.

Geo. Schenck, Formerly Proprietor of the TenEyck House, Pleaded Non Vult and Was Fined $20—Other Cases Up.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 19—In the criminal courts yesterday Judge Schenck was kept very busy indeed. Nearly all of the thirteen bills of indictment were disposed of.

Robert Catlin, known as "English Bob," charged with embezzling a horse, wagon and harness belonging to James B. Frazer, of North Plainfield, was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. John A. Frech was assigned as his counsel and he will appear for trial May 5.

Rocco Sibilia, a Raritan school boy who stabbed his companion, Rocco Di Paoli, during a snowball battle, pleaded guilty and sentence was suspended, owing to a brilliant argument for clemency by Hon. A. A. Clark.

CAREFULLY CHOSEN.

Orchestra and Chorus for "Patience" Are Fully Up to the Standard.

The orchestra of fourteen, which has been secured for the performance of "Patience," which takes place Thursday, April 24, in the Casino, is composed of professional musicians from New York who are thoroughly familiar with comic opera. Mr. Conde, who furnishes the orchestra, promises a rare treat, insomuch that most of the men are soloists of recognized ability, and therefore finished performers.

Great care has been taken in selecting the chorus of "Patience," which is composed of fresh musical voices, in fact, some of them are soloists in Plainfield churches.

Of the cast nothing need be said, they are all local church singers of well known ability. Mr. Reed (Colonel) is a prominent Brooklyn church singer and teacher, and has sung in ten different comic operas. Don't forget the date, April 24 at 8:15 o'clock in the Casino.

A list of names of the most popular and best known books was selected and those attending represented in some way these books. A few of the best representations were "Under Two Flags," the person wearing two flags on the head; "Kidnapped," a picture of a child napping; "The Quick and the Dead," the person wearing slips of paper on which were printed New York and Philadelphia; "Innocence Abroad," the person wearing a slip of paper on which was printed the words "At Home."

CITY HIGH SCHOOL WON DECIDING GAME

Scholastic Basket Ball Series Was Ended in Fiercely Contested Game Last Night.

THE SCORE WAS 10 TO 7.

LOTS OF ROUGH PLAY AND NO APPARENT TEAM WORK.

Score Stood 2 to 2 at End of First Half—Both Sides Were Inaccurate in Goal Throwing—Won in Last Four Minutes of Play.

The local basket ball season closed last night with the deciding game in the scholastic series. In the fiercest game of the year, the Plainfield High School five defeated their rivals of Leal's School by a score of 10 to 7. A large crowd witnessed the game and made things lively with continued applause and school cheers.

Each team had won a game and last night's contest was to decide the series. The feeling was high and both sides went in with the determination to win at any cost. The result was very rough play. Team work was almost eliminated and it became a question of individual effort.

Both sides showed considerable nervousness at the opening of the game and the throwing for goals was woefully inaccurate. Fouls were frequent. While there were many attempts at goal, every one failed and the first half closed with the score 2 to 2, each side having scored twice on fouls.

Howard, who was substituted for Abbott in Leal's in the second half, scored the first goal from the field. It was a pretty one. He made several other attempts which almost succeeded. With only four minutes more to play and the score 6 to 4 in favor of Leal's, Meeker saved the day for the High School by dropping the ball in the goal. That waked the High School boys to renewed effort and Denton followed with another. The rooters became properly wild. Leal's scored on a foul but time was called with the High School in the lead.

The lineup:

Plainfield H. S.		Leal's School.
Hallock, Meeker	rf	R. Schoonmaker
Cahoone	lf	G. Abbott, Howard
Scull	c	Corwin, Hall
Denton	rg	D. McGee
Conant	lg	W. Schoonmaker, Biglow.

Score—High School, 10; Leal's School, 7. Goals from the field—Meeker, Denton, Howard. Goals on fouls—Cahoone, Denton (3), R. Schoonmaker, Hall, W. Schoonmaker (2). Fouls—High School, 15; Leal's School, 14. Referee—Chas. B. Morse. Umpires—Fred C. Cranston and C. E. A. Heywood. Timekeeper—John Steiner. Scorer—E. H. Giles.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Governor Murphy intends to inspect all the State Department offices with a view of learning what is being done in each department to earn the money paid by the State for its support, and what changes, if any, might be made in methods that would be beneficial to the transaction of the State's business.

In his private business affairs the Governor has familiarized himself with the details of every department, and as a business man he cannot see how he can properly govern the State in any other way. It is long since the State's Executive considered it a duty to look into the workings of the departments of the State government, and it is possible that some of the machinery needs attention.—Newark Advertiser.

"If it were not for mosquitoes," says an Elizabeth property owner to "Freeholder," of the New York Press, "Elizabeth would double her population and triple her realty values in ten years." What consummate nonsense! Elizabeth has grown in the past ten years just as rapidly as any city in the State not in the mosquito limits. It has grown just as rapidly as the average cities of the whole United States, and its property values are as large, proportionately, as those of any other city that has passed through similar boom and financial experiences in the last thirty-five years. The facts are that while mosquitoes are a pest they are not the only ones they cut no figure whatever in the making or unmaking of a great city. Neither mosquitoes on the Atlantic coast nor fleas on the Pacific shore, nor both along the Gulf of Mexico have any effect upon the industrial or realty progress and development.—Elizabeth Journal.

Shot In His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in case of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

IMPORTANT VETOES.

Governor Odell Kills Two Railroad Measures.

SETBACK FOR NEW YORK CENTRAL.

Bills Relating to Changes In Terminal Facilities and Motive Power In New York City Faulty and Not Fit to Become Laws.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 19.—Governor Odell has disapproved the Bedell bill permitting railroads in first class cities to secure by condemnation proceedings lands needed for changes in terminal facilities and has also disapproved the Apgar bill compelling a change of motive power in the Park avenue tunnel, New York city.

In connection with the veto the governor filed an extended memorandum. Regarding the first named bill he says:

"There are numerous considerations which in my opinion render the bill undesirable in its present form. It is to be regretted that the duly constituted authorities of New York did not prepare and submit a bill in a perfect form, but they did not submit such a bill as a remedy. That a remedy for existing conditions is universally demanded is no excuse for signing a measure whose unwise provisions can only be eliminated by subsequent legislative action. The provisions of a law of this kind should be clear and easily understood, and it should be impossible to secure rights or undue advantages through technicalities.

"There are numerous railroads whose charters have been the subject of special grants and which under the provisions of this act could take advantage of its features and act independently of the local authorities, the only restraining power being the state board of railroad commissioners. So long therefore as this law should stand upon the statute books it would be a menace to the cities affected.

"The so called 'Apgar bill,' says the governor, "directs the railroad to perform certain work within a stated period of time, and the disapproval of this bill renders it impossible for the railroad corporation to carry out that mandate. Therefore in disapproving, as I do disapprove assembly bill No. 1655, known as the Bedell bill, I feel it my duty also, in justice to all concerned, to withhold my approval from assembly bill No. 1568, known as the Apgar bill."

Governor Odell also vetoed a score of bills relating to New York city, besides several of a general nature.

Governors Island Improvement.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The war department has made public the recommendations of the Brooke board, charged with the preparation of plans for the improvement of Governors Island, New York, so as to afford increased acreage, greater capacity for troops and material and enlarged docking and storage facilities. Under the head of new barracks for at least one battalion the estimate is $200,000. For the enlargement by the construction of dikes and filling the estimate is $885,000. For reconstruction of the buildings now in bad condition an estimate is submitted of $550,000. There also are estimates for dredging and wharfage, making the total for the improvement of the island $1,595,000.

Kelvin Accepts Wireless Invitation.

NEW YORK, April 19.—A wireless telegraph message was sent yesterday afternoon from the Nantucket station addressed to Lord and Lady Kelvin, on board the steamship Campania, inviting them to be present today at the ceremonies attendant on the inauguration of Nicholas Murray Butler as president of Columbia university. The committee in charge of the ceremonies received a reply by the same medium accepting the invitation. A reception in honor of Lord and Lady Kelvin will be given at Columbia university on Monday evening next. Lord Kelvin is president of the Royal Society of Edinburgh and one of the most famous scientists in the world.

Unrest In Jamaica.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 19.—Another batch of nine Haitian exiles has arrived here. They were ordered to leave Haiti for conspiring against the government. A feeling of unrest still prevails on this island. The police of St. Mary parish have just arrested a schoolmaster for advising the people to refuse to pay taxes. The police also found a quantity of dynamite which the prisoner told the people would have been quite enough for their purpose if they had followed the example of the inhabitants of Montego Bay.

Van Wormers Found Guilty.

HUDSON, N. Y., April 19.—The trial of Burton, Willis and Frederick Van Wormer for the murder of Peter A. Hallenbeck, their uncle, on Dec. 24 last, was ended yesterday, when the jury found the three defendants guilty of murder in the first degree. Judge Chester pronounced sentence of death soon after the verdict was brought in, directing that the defendants be executed in the electric chair in Clinton prison in the course of the week beginning May 30.

To Study Fever and Mosquitoes.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—An order has been issued at the war department directing Major William C. Gorgas, surgeon, on the discontinuance of the department of Cuba to take station at Havana for the purpose of continuing his investigations in regard to the relations between yellow fever and the mosquito.

CUBAN BILL PASSED.

Reciprocity Measure Prevails by a Vote of 247 to 52.

AMENDED TO HIT SUGAR TRUST.

Democrats and Beet Sugar Republicans Unite to Overrule the Chair and Remove Differential on Refined Sugar.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Democrats and the Republican insurgents rode rough shod over the house leaders yesterday when the voting began on the Cuban reciprocity bill. They overthrew the ruling of the chair in committee of the whole on the question of the propriety of an amendment to remove the differential from refined sugar during the existence of the reciprocity agreement provided for in the bill.

The vote to overrule the decision of the chair, made by Mr. Sherman (N. Y.), was 171 to 130, Republicans to the number of thirty-seven joining with a solid Democratic vote to accomplish this result. Having won this preliminary victory, the amendment was adopted in committee, 164 to 111, and later in the house by a still larger majority, 199 to 105. On this occasion sixty-four Republicans voted with the Democrats for the amendment. The bill then was passed by an overwhelming majority, 247 to 52.

An analysis of the vote shows that 124 Republicans and 123 Democrats voted for the amended bill and forty-two Republicans and ten Democrats against it. Mr. Grosvenor (O.) was one of those who voted against the bill. The voting on the bill was the culmination of a long struggle which began almost with the opening of this session of congress and after two weeks of continuous debating, in which much bitterness was aroused. The debate was of an exceedingly lively character, the feature being the echoes of the previous night's Democratic caucus. To that caucus the defeat of the Republican leaders who sought to pass the bill without amendment is attributable.

Previous to the holding of the caucus the Democrats were very much divided, and the opposition of the Republican beet sugar men showed signs of disintegrating. When it became apparent that the Democrats would act together, the beet sugar men decided at a meeting attended by thirty-two of them to take the bit in their teeth and overrule the chair. As soon as this combination was effected the Republican leaders realized that they would be defeated so far as the removal of the differential was concerned, and Mr. Payne, the Republican leader, contented himself with warning his beet sugar colleagues that in removing the differential they were taking off a bit of protection placed in the Dingley bill especially for the benefit of the beet sugar producers. The Democrats attempted to follow up their advantage when the differential amendment was adopted by offering the Babcock bill and other amendments to reduce the Dingley schedules, but on these amendments the Republicans declined to go with them, and the Democrats did not press them vigorously.

One of the surprises of the session was the attempt of Mr. Roberts, a Massachusetts Republican, to take the duty off hides. He offered two amendments and appealed once from the decision of the chair, but was voted down each time.

The bill as passed authorizes the president as soon as may be after the establishment of an independent government in Cuba and the enactment by said government of immigration, exclusion and contract labor laws as restrictive as those of the United States to negotiate a reciprocal trade agreement with Cuba by which in return for equivalent concessions the United States will grant a reduction of 20 per cent from the Dingley rates on goods coming into the United States from Cuba, such agreement to continue until Dec. 1, 1903. During the existence of such agreement the duty on refined sugars and all sugars above No. 16, Dutch standard, is to be 1.825 per pound.

At the session of the senate consideration was begun of the bill temporarily to provide a form of government for the Philippine Islands. The measure was read, and the committee amendments were agreed to tentatively, but no action on the bill was taken.

Fifty-five private pension bills and a few other measures were passed.

Earthquake Changes Seas.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 19.—The recent earthquake at Shemakha, in which thousands of persons were killed, has had a curious effect on the level of the Black sea and the Caspian. Ridges of rock have appeared at points where the chart formerly marked fathoms of water. As a result of this the harbor of Krasnovodsk, from which the Central Asian railway starts, has been rendered unapproachable by large vessels.

Heavy Judgment Against Railroad.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 19.—A verdict for the largest sum ever awarded in this state for the destruction of human life was rendered by a jury in the supreme court before Judge Martin J. Keogh in the suit brought by Mrs. Lottie G. Dimon against the New York Central railroad for the death of her husband, killed in the Park avenue tunnel disaster, the jury returning a verdict of $60,000 against the railroad.

Fire In Morgan's Country House.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., April 19.—Fire at the country house of J. Pierpont Morgan did small damage and was quickly subdued. It is thought the fire originated from a gasoline lamp used by one of the workmen employed in renovating the house.

REVISION REJECTED.

Belgian Chamber of Deputies Opposes Universal Suffrage.

BRUSSELS, April 19.—The chamber of representatives by a vote of 84 to 64 rejected the proposal to revise the Belgian constitution so as to provide for universal suffrage.

The general council of the labor party met in the morning and decided to continue the strike, but peacefully.

Great excitement followed the vote in the chamber. The Socialists held a meeting in the Maison du Peuple, at which M. Van der Velde, the leader of the Socialist movement in Belgium, urged his hearers to be calm and said he hoped King Leopold would still intervene. The meeting passed a resolution to continue the strike and dispersed without disorder.

A serious riot has occurred at Louvain, near Brussels. The Socialists held a demonstration in front of the residence of M. Schollaert, the president of the chamber of representatives. When the police attempted to disperse them, they were received with a shower of stones. The civic guard then fired on the mob. A similar riot occurred in another part of Louvain, and altogether five persons were killed and twelve wounded. Some of the mob carried the dead and wounded to the Maison des Proletaires.

Another riot is reported to have occurred at Bruges, in Flanders. Here the police charged the Socialists with drawn swords, and ten of the latter were wounded.

PEACE SEEMS NEAR.

Negotiations at Pretoria Have Been Practically Finished.

LONDON, April 19.—Terms of peace have apparently been agreed upon between the British and Boer negotiators in South Africa.

These terms have not been announced and must be approved by the burghers under arms as well as by the British government before they become operative.

The process of obtaining the sanction of the Boer people is already under way.

The government leader, A. J. Balfour, in the house of commons made the following statement:

"After two conferences between Lord Milner, the British high commissioner of South Africa, and Lord Kitchener and the Boer delegates at Pretoria, Lord Kitchener, while refusing to grant an armistice, on military grounds, has agreed to give facilities for the election and meeting of representatives of the various Boer commands to consider the position. The Boer leaders have therefore left Pretoria to carry out this plan."

Mr. Balfour added that it was not expected that communication between the British authorities and the Boer leaders could be resumed in less than three weeks' time.

Heavy Damages For Switchman.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., April 19.—Charles E. Quain, formerly a switchman in the employ of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad company, has just secured a verdict in the supreme court for $10,000 against that company for injuries received while at work on Nov. 20, 1899. He was thrown from a box car, one foot was cut off, and the other one was crushed. He based his claim for damages on the allegation that the accident was the result of the failure of William Scott, an engineer, to heed signals and that the company was, or should have been, aware of the fact that Scott was incompetent because of defective eyesight and carelessness in handling his engine.

A Colombian Government Expedition

COLON, April 19.—A strong expedition under command of General Gomez, the military governor of Colon, has left here for Bocas del Toro on board the government gunboat General Pinzon. The Pinzon mounts ten cannon and has good gunners to serve them. Her commander has been instructed to protect foreign interests at Bocas and to recover by force if necessary the gasoline launches and other property belonging to the United States Fruit company and recently seized by the revolutionists, if the commander of the United States gunboat Machias, which is now at Bocas, has not already recovered and restored them.

Germans to Send a Eld.

BERLIN, April 19.—Professor Slaby and Count Arco of the wireless telegraphy system which bears their names will send in a telegraphic bid to Brigadier General A. W. Greely, the chief signal officer of the United States army, on the establishment of a system of wireless telegraphy which the United States proposes to inaugurate in Alaska. This bid must necessarily be sent by cable, as the tenders open in Washington April 22.

An Old Trouble Settled.

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 19.—The congress of Venezuela having adopted the French protocol providing for a renewal of diplomatic relations between France and Venezuela, the ratification of the protocol has been signed by M. Quievreux, the French charge d'affaires, for France and Senor Pachano, the Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs, for Venezuela.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Acute suffering and destitution were reported from the famine stricken districts of Russia.

A gang of burglars broke open safes of half a dozen business houses in Waterloo, N. Y., and escaped with their loot.

A writ of habeas corpus was filed to compel Havana court to accept $100,000 bail bond offered by E. G. Rathbone.

Gray hairs often stand in the way of advancement for men and women, socially and in business. ODELL'S TRIP DELAYED.

Governor Will Not Start South Until Next Week.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 19.—Governor Odell while here from Newburg announced that the accident to his son Bryant, whose leg was broken by a horse which he was riding falling with him Thursday afternoon, would delay his departure for Charleston until Monday. He had intended to go south today. The governor said that his son had a very narrow escape from more serious injury. The horse slipped and fell upon the boy, whose foot was caught in the stirrups. The animal made an effort to rise, but the boy held down his head until he extracted his foot from the stirrup. If he had not had this rare presence of mind he might have been dragged some distance.

The governor will remain at Newburg on Sunday to see that the boy is progressing favorably, in which event only will he go. There is probably no danger, however, of any contingency arising which would compel him to postpone his trip.

The governor's staff will leave for Charleston on the Merchants' association train which leaves New York city at 10:14 o'clock Monday morning and arrives at Charleston on Tuesday. The party will spend two days at the exposition.

Elaborate arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the governor at Charleston. He will visit Fort Sumter and other points of interest on a revenue cutter. He will be received with full military honors. On Tuesday evening a reception in his honor will be held, and on Wednesday morning he will visit the points of interest about Charleston, taking part in the New York state day exercises at the exposition grounds. He will have luncheon in the woman's building, and a banquet in his honor will be served in the evening.

DOLE ON HAWAII.

The Governor Tells of the Conditions on the Island.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Governor Dole of Hawaii was before the house committee on territories yesterday and gave an extended review of conditions on the islands. The governor said there were some things in the organic law which the Hawaiians would have been glad to have different. He said he had no purpose to criticise, but, answering direct questions, said the franchise might have been properly limited further than to Asiatics.

There also was the land question, concerning which, he said, there was vagueness regarding the provision allowing corporations to hold 1,000 acres. Whether this land was to be held in fee simple or simply by lease, or otherwise was not seemingly understood by the Hawaiian people. He explained also the confusion that might arise over the election of senators.

Chairman Knox said that this senatorial condition was remedied by a bill about to be reported. Governor Dole said for the present the island industries could not be carried on entirely by white labor, the Chinese and Japanese being so numerously employed in the rice and other industries that an immediate change to white labor would not be practicable. The experience in using Porto Rican labor had been discouraging.

Accompanying them are Secretary and Mrs. Cortelyou, Dr. John F. Urie, the president's physician, and Surgeon General Rixey of the navy. The party came from Washington in the private car Riva, which was attached to the regular Pennsylvania railroad train leaving that city at 12:10 a. m. The president will leave New York on the return trip to Washington tonight.

A General Jail Delivery.

ROANOKE, Va., April 19.—There has been a general jail delivery at Princeton, W. Va., and several prisoners who had been sentenced to the penitentiary and were awaiting guards to come for them got away. It is said that Ernest Rowze, the notorious Virginia and West Virginia jail breaker, laid the plans for the delivery. Rowze led the way and was quickly followed by ten others, that being the total number confined in the jail.

A CHICAGO SURPRISE

Preparations on a Grand Scale For the Olympian Games.

OLD ROME IS TO BE OUTDONE.

Great Amphitheater to Be Built Ten Times Larger Than Madison Square Garden, New York. Scheme of the Contests.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Genuine surprise and enthusiasm at the magnitude of the plans greeted the presentation last night of the first authoritative outline of the preparations for the coming Olympian games in this city. Before 200 distinguished guests at a banquet of the Press club the announcements were made in a series of addresses by Olympian games officials and other notables in whose honor the banquet was held. A cablegram received from Sir Thomas Lipton during the banquet was received touching upon the participation by himself and his new challenger, Shamrock III., in the international yachting feature of the games.

The plans outlined include a structure of steel and concrete exceeding in size the great Flavian amphitheater of Rome and having a seating capacity ten times that of Madison Square Garden, New York.

After a greeting to the banqueters by President Homer J. Carr of the Press club and felicitous remarks by Judge Payne, President Furber, who was received with cheers, said: "The games of 1904 will undoubtedly consume a large portion of September and October, and the efforts will be principally directed along six general lines:

"First.—World's champion contests will be organized in standard sports, including field and track athletics, equestrianism, yachting, rowing, billiards, turning and all other games international in character.

"Second.—Exhibitions will be given of the sports peculiar to various countries of the world. Under this head properly will fall baseball, Japanese wrestling, French savate (or boxing with the feet), German schlaeger contests, boomerang throwing, the navigation of different types of water craft, etc.

"Third.—The purely athletic exhibitions will be varied by historical displays spectacular in nature. Evening representations will be given of the games of ancient Greece and Rome and of the tourneys of mediæval Europe, with appropriate costumes, pageantry and settings, the brilliancy of those scenes to be greatly heightened by means of the illuminations and the pyrotechnical effects which modern science has placed at our command.

"Fourth.—As the highest development of physical activity the military exercises will be rendered particularly prominent. Prizes will be given in all branches, the competitions for the awards being of a nature to test the proficiency of the participants not only in parade ground drill, but more especially in those qualities which tend to render them effective combatants. All departments of the service will be represented.

"Fifth.—The organization of a comprehensive exhibition of sporting apparatus and equipment, including not only weapons, the implements employed in different games and other inanimate objects, but also horses, hunting dogs, carrier pigeons and fish, field and forest game.

"Sixth.—There will be a department called the Olympic congress, in which it is intended that all other features as games shall culminate. In an auditorium provided for the purpose organizations devoted to sportsmanship, athletics and military matters will be invited to hold their general conventions, the scope of the congress being to extend beyond the purely technical phase of athletics."

Early Canal Opening.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 19.—Superintendent of Public Works Charles S. Boyd states that all arrangements for the opening of the Erie canal on April 24 have been completed. One of the reasons for this early opening is that there are more than a hundred loaded boats in the Erie canal which were frozen in last fall awaiting opportunity to get to tidewater. The Champlain, Cayuga and Seneca canals are to be opened also on the 24th, but no date has been set for the opening of the Black River and Oswego canals.

Queen Wilhelmina's Condition.

HET LOO, Holland, April 19.—Queen Wilhelmina's fever has not abated, but the condition of the royal patient is said to be satisfactory. Her majesty's physicians are said to be less anxious, as it is believed the malady will not assume the ordinary malignant character. Queen Wilhelmina is visited by her doctors three times a day. She is supposed to have contracted her illness as the result of a chill. Among the cable messages received at the palace inquiring about the queen's progress was one from President Roosevelt.

Actress Gets a Fortune.

CHICAGO, April 19.—Miss Sybil Clifton, one of the five flower girls in "The Chaperons," is heiress to a fortune of $100,000 in oil lands left by her uncle, Huntington Hale, who died near Beaumont, Tex., two days ago and willed his estate to his niece. Miss Clifton has received a telegram notifying her of her good fortune. Her uncle went to Texas twenty years ago and bought land which of late has turned out to be rich in oil.

Fatal Oil Stove Accident.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 19.—Mrs. Mary Aronson is dead in the Mercy hospital of burns. Her clothing caught fire from an oil stove. She had been married only six weeks.

DEBATE IT IN PUBLIC.

It has been well suggested that one of the steps taken to give the people of the borough a complete understanding of the annexation question be a public debate on the question of changing the county line. There are clever speakers who take both sides and it would be interesting and profitable to hear them argue the question. The decision would be made when the people cast their ballots.

This plan would serve to give both sides an opportunity to publicly present their arguments and to answer those of their opponents besides making it possible to ask any questions that might be desired. It will be remembered that certain of the "antis" have expressed a desire to ask certain questions of the chief Greater Plainfield advocates and that Former Mayor Wm. L. Saunders declared that he would be only too glad to give them that chance.

There is much to be said on the subject and it is only possible to take it up piecemeal in the newspapers. Press of other news prevents us from devoting all the space we would like to. A public debate would permit a far more exhaustive discussion which could be well supplimented by the communications to the daily newspapers.

Even before the Governor signed the Greater Plainfield bills, the general sentiment of the press throughout the State showed a decided change in favor of them. When the editors began to realize the full meaning of the bills and that they simply opened the way for allowing the people to decide for themselves, there was a general change of opinion.

A serious charge has been made against the police of this city. It is one that should be investigated without delay. To the credit of the men, let it be said that no one appears any more anxious than they to have it sifted to the bottom. The Police Board has already acted in an attempt to find out the truth.

Of late crime has not appeared to flourish in Somerset county. It only required two days for the last Grand Jury to complete its labors. It must be that the Somerset county people are so busy saying unpleasant things over the Greater Plainfield question that they have no time for ordinary little offenses.

While baseball has already been played by some of the local teams, today really opens the season for most of the important ones. Several games are scheduled for this afternoon and will probably serve to increase the already lively interest in the national game.

Every day brings in reports of new converts to the doctrines of annexation and consolidation. Mature thought is bound to convince the majority that North Plainfield's interests are with Union county and as a part of Plainfield.

In all this talk about Greater Plainfield, don't forget to mention to the Jersey Central's new manager the need of a coat of white paint for the fence separating the tracks at the North Avenue station.

The baseball nine of the Plainfield High School is already starting to make a fine record this season. Its old rivals of the Newark Academy went down before the local team in a cleverly played game.

LETTER DECIDED LAW SUIT

PLUMBER GALBRAITH WANTED PAY FOR EXTRA WORK DONE.

Work Was Done at Plenty's Greenhouse, North Plainfield—Verdict for Full Amount.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, April 19—In the Somerset county courts yesterday the jury in the case of Dr. Warford L. Nixon against the Somerset and Middlesex Traction Company, after being out twenty-four hours, failed to agree.

In the case of Nancy M. Miller against Ruth E. and Thomas L. Dennis, Justice Garretson overruled the defense and directed the jury to render a verdict, in favor of the plaintiff for $958.37.

The next case taken up was that of Den J. Galbraith against Josephus Plenty, Mary J. Conroy et al. W. S. Angleman, of Plainfield, appeared for the plaintiff and F. W. Hastings, Jr., was counsel for the defense.

Last summer Mr. Galbraith received from Mr. Plenty a request to furnish an estimate for putting three water pipes in the Conroy greenhouses at the corner of Codington avenue and Somerset street in North Plainfield. The plaintiff sent an estimate of $94 for the work. Mr. Plenty did not reply at once, but some time after he ordered the job, having changed the specifications somewhat, and said that, as the time was limited, Mr. Galbraith should go on with the work and make the charge light.

After the job was completed Mr. Galbraith sent a bill for the work, for $127.56. As he was in need of money at the time he offered to throw off 20 per cent., providing Mr. Plenty sent a check in payment within ten days. The check never came, but once Mr. Plenty is said to have offered to pay $102.75, saying it was all he owed.

The plaintiff brought suit for $143.06, which included interest and some extra work done.

The defense was that three-quarter inch pipes had been put in instead of one inch ones and that galvanized piping was used instead of black. One bib more than ordered was also used. This Mr. Plenty objected to paying for, although in the testimony of the plaintiff it was made quite plain that the owner of the greenhouses had promised to make up for the extra charge.

The case was brought to an abrupt end by the production of a letter from Mr. Plenty, in which he ordered the extra work done. This his counsel claimed to have known nothing about.

The jury retired and after a few minutes' consultation, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the full amount.

BICYCLE STOLEN.

"Jumbo" Lewis is Wanted on the Charge of Having Taken It and Used the Wheels.

"Jumbo" Lewis, a well-known character of the borough, is wanted by Chief Campbell on a charge of stealing a bicycle belonging to George Smith, of Warren street. Smith left his wheel in front of his home a few nights ago and when he returned for it the wheel was gone. It is alleged that Lewis took the bicycle, changed the two wheels, putting them in a frame of his own, and threw the frame of the other wheel in Tier's pond.

Chief Campbell visited the home of Lewis, Thursday night, but the colored man evidently got wind of what was going on and made his escape. Chief Campbell declares that he will get the man very soon. The stolen wheel is now at the borough lockup.

WOULDN'T EXTEND LINE

War Department Refused the Singer Co.'s Application to Extend Piers Out to Newark Bay Channel.

Secretary John C. Payne, of the State Board of Riparian Commissioners, received notice yesterday from Maj. Mackenize, acting chief of engineers of the war department, that the application of the Riparian Commissioners made March 4 for an extension of the pierhead line on the west shore of Newark Bay, 3,000 feet from the Government dyke opposite the mouth of the Passaic river to a point between Shooter's Island and the property of the Singer Sewing Machine Company at Elizabethport, had been refused.

The Singer Company is enlarging its plant at Elizabethport and asked the Riparian Commissioners, through former Gov. Foster M. Voorhees, to secure an extension of the pier head line in front of its property, so that vessels carrying its freight might reach its piers without the difficulty that is at present experienced. The present pier head line is several thousand feet from the channel and the intervening space is occupied by flats covered by water that will hardly float a rowboat at times.

SWORE ALL DAY.

But Offender Had His Reasons and He Was Paroled in Care of Police.

P. G. Patten, the Camden man who was given ten days in the city court, yesterday morning, was re-arraigned at today's session for blaspheming all day yesterday in his cell. He offered a plausible story and as the prisoner was sixty years of age, City Judge Runyon adopted an unusual procedure. He decided to parole the old man in the custody of the police dismissing today's charge and rescinding yesterday's sentence.

COULDN'T QUIT.

So Mrs. Winton, Victim of Drink, Was Sent to the County Jail for a Month.

City Judge Runyon and the habitues of the city court were again greeted with a sight of Mrs. Mary Winton, this morning. It was the fourth time within six weeks, thirty days of which were spent in the county jail.

Mrs. Winton, who is comely and of about thirty summers, has an excellent education but can't resist the temptation to drink. She regained her freedom last week, was arrested within six hours, discharged the next morning and has since been making the rounds of saloons. She was found by Patrolman Higgins in the West End, yesterday, very much intoxicated.

The city judge's patience was exhausted when she appeared and refused to accept her promises of reformation. She was given thirty days straight.

One of the features of the game was Briant Johnston's pitching which kept the Westfield batters guessing throughout the game.

How Birds Migrate.

Many of the smaller and weaker birds, like the fly-catchers, vireos, wrens, kinglets and bluebirds, in order to avoid their enemies, the hawks, make their long flights by night, stopping for rest and food in the daytime. The larger and bolder ones, like the hawks and crows, and those of extremely rapid flight, like the swallows and humming-birds, migrate fearlessly by day, and there are some, like the Canada geese, which travel just when they choose, by day or night. Migrating birds usually fly at a height of from one to three miles, and this enables them to see the rivers, the mountain ranges and the coast-line. By these they direct their course, the old birds remembering the way they came before, and the young ones following.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Judge of Art.

The seller of pot-boilers came into the office of the shrewd broker with the air of one who is about to sacrifice a priceless treasure. It was a seascape; a troubled sea beat upon purple rocks, and wind-driven gulls wheeled in wild circles above the familiar pot-boiler ship. The seller of pot-boilers looked upon the treasure long and yearningly. It could be seen that a grievous struggle between art and appetite was raging within him. "How much do you want for it?" demanded the shrewd broker. "One hundred dollars," said the pot-boiler man; "it's giving it away." "Give you three for it," said the shrewd broker." "It's yours," said the pot-boiler man. "That fellow across the way only offered me 75 cents, but he ain't no judge of art."—N. Y. Post.

To Light Up the Pyramids.

The Egyptian pyramids are soon to come out of their darkness of 5,000 years, and will be accessible to all tourists. General Director Maspero, of the society which has in charge the preservation of the antiquities of the country, has been experimenting with the electric light, and began his work on the temple at Karnak, at Thebes. The experiment met with so much approval that he has decided to light the inner passages and catacombs of the great pyramids. This will provide Egyptian tourists with new attractions, and they will be able to penetrate to the innermost recesses of the pyramids.—N. Y. Sun.

A Well-Arranged Town.

"Have you noticed," asked old Outlate of his visiting friend, "how much forethought we gave to the planning of this little town?"

"In what particular?" inquired the friend, who wished to say the right thing, but was fearful of making a mistake.

"Why, the only club is at the top of the only hill and the town is at the bottom of it."

"Of what advantage is that?"

"When it's time for a club member to go the steward simply gives him a start, and he rolls home. It simplifies matters greatly."—Chicago Post.

Nature's Inexhaustible Skill.

When the model of the great extinct dinosaur called the triceratops, which was shown at the Buffalo exposition, was in process of making, considerable difficulty was anticipated in sustaining the huge armored skull in its proper position. But when the attempt was made there was no difficulty. Then it was found that nature, whose lines had been carefully followed in making the model, had so cunningly balanced the parts about the junction of the head with the neck that a single pin in the base of the skull sufficed to carry it.—Youth's Companion.

THE ISLE OF PINES.

It May Become a Possession of the United States.

Rich in Natural Resources and Unexcelled in Scenic Beauty—An Ideal Winter Resort for Invalids.

[Special Correspondence.]

ACCORDING to President Roosevelt's proclamation the new constitutional government of Cuba will be inaugurated May 20. Immediately thereafter the subject of treaties with the island government will be taken up and, among other things, the determintaion of the status of the Isle of Pines. It will be remembered that this island was omitted from the constitutional boundaries of Cuba, fixed by the army bill of March 2, 1901, the title to it being left to future adjustment by treaty. In well-informed circles it is taken for granted that the United States will formally annex the island, which is of immense strategic value, besides being one of the most beautiful strips of country in the world.

The division of insular affairs at Washington has just prepared an interesting pamphlet on the island, from which it appears that it lies in a deep bight off the southern coast of western Cuba, about 35 miles from the nearest point of the mainland. It is 65 miles S. S. W. of Batabano, the Cuban end of the steamer line, and is in communication with the United States via Batabano (65 miles water), and Havana (25 miles rail) to Miami, Fla., 238 miles (total distance, water and rail); 350 miles to Tampa, Fla.; 810 miles to New Orleans, La., and 713 miles to Pensacola, Fla.

Owing to the numerous keys which surround the island on the Caribbean sea side, its defense can be accomplished at very little expense by means of mines.

The Isle of Pines is 986 square miles in area, or very nealy the size of the state of Rhode Island. It has a population of 3,199.

In its physical features it is very picturesque.

In general, the surface is a plateau of 50 to 100 feet above the sea level, broken by ridges, the most remarkable summits being the Sierra de la Canada, 1,600 feet; Daguilla, 1,500 (from the summit of which may be had a view of the entire island); Sierra de los Caballos, 1,074 feet; Mount Casas, composed of beautiful marbles of various colors, and Mount Cristales of various height, its sides being covered with green-rock crystals.

SCENE ON A COFFEE PLANTATION IN ISLE OF PINES.

The southern part, comprising about one-third of the entire area, is an impassable cienaga or salt bayou and lagoon, interspersed by islets and rocky ledges and occupied by fishermen.

The island has a number of rivers of excellent water, the most important of which are the Nuevas, five to ten feet deep, and navigable four or five miles; the Sierra de Casas, near the mouth of which is situated Nueva Gerona, and accessible by vessels drawing five feet.

The Isle of Pines is connected with a labyrinth of reefs and islets, of which the best known are the Jardines, so named from verdure-clad islets strewn like "gardens" amid blue waters, and from which fresh water bubbles up from the deep, flowing probably in subterranean galleries from the mainland.

The mineral springs, for which the island has a world-wide reputation, are remrakable especially in pulmonary, rheumatic and throat affections.

A chemical analysis shows the waters to be impregnated with oxygen and carbonic acid gases, chloride of sodium, sulphate of lime, carbonate of lime, iron, magnesia, chloride of calcium, nitrate of lime, silex and extractic organic matetr. Temperature of water, 82 degrees Fahrenheit.

The climate is described as "delicious, the air pure and balmy and, notwithstanding the island being surrounded by water, is considered dry. The winds coming from the sea and passing over the pine forests are gentle and invigorating." The year is divided into two seasons. The wet (lluviosa) or summer, June until October. The hottest hours from ten to 12 a. m. About 2:30 p. m. the breeze (la virazon) blowing in from the sea moderates the temperature.

The dry season (seca), or winter, extends from October to June, with occasional visitations from November to February of los nortes. The annual rainfall ranges from 50 to 52 inches, or less than on the gulf coast of the states. The average rainy days is ten in the month, and the average humidity for the year, 75 per cent.

The mean annual temperature is 75 degrees. The prevailing winds are the northeast trades, which blow but little variation throughout the year, rendering the nights cool both in winter and summer.

The range of temperature between summer and winter rarely exceeds a mean of 11 degrees.

Hurricanes are less frequent than in Cuba.

The inhabitants of the Island are Spanish and colored, and exhibit in their intercourse with strangers a dignified and kindly spirit. The language is Spanish.

The island has two towns and one port. Neuva Gerona (New Gerona), the capital and second town in size, is on the left bank of the Sierra de las Casas river, two miles above its mouth on the north coast. It is advantageously situated on a picturesque plateau, between the Caballos and Casas mountains at the base of the latter, about 30 feet above the sea. It is well drained, and, exposed to the constant breezes from the sea, free from malarial influence. Its water comes from a magnesian spring, said to be very beneficial in cases of stomach trouble, and baths have been built into which water from the same spring is conducted. Population, 1,000. Invalids arriving at this town proceed to Santa Fe, about the center of the island, 15 miles in a southeasterly direction, over an American-built road. It is also an American post office.

Santa Fe is situated on the left bank of the river of the same name, 15 miles south-southeast of Nueva Gerona, and has an American post office. The port of the town, Jucaro, is about seven miles distant. Santa Fe is a place of 1,050 inhabitants, and has thermal baths and medicinal springs of magnesia and iron, favorably known and patronized from Havana in the summer.

Jucaro, the port of Santa Fe, at a distance of seven miles, is connected by a fine road. A steamer touches here once a week. The means of communication with Santa Fe is by the volante or ox cart. There is also a telephone to Santa Fe projected.

In addition to these three important centers are 26 villages and haciendas scattered throughout the island. Of the land lying north of the Cienaga, the swamp and low ground with mangroves is estimated at 25 per cent.; the savannas or meadows covered with these mangroves and scrub palmetto at 25 per cent.; land of doubtful agricultural value, 10 per cent.; rich land, 10 per cent.; mountains and steep hills, 5 per cent.; pine lands unsuitable for agriculture, 25 per cent.

As an example of the variety of product, a finca or farm of less than 33 acres actual cultivation produces coffee, sugar, chocolate (cocoa), cocoanuts, plantains, bananas, boniatos (sweet potatoes), rice, beans, lettuce, tobacco, honey, fowls, pigs and cattle.

Of the staple, tobacco, the island exported in 1899 about 5,000 bales (of 100 pounds each), selling in Havana at the highest market rates. The cultivation of sugar in 1900 was confined to a single estate. It is also reported that the island is adapted to the growth of rubber.

The minerals are marble, kaolin, gold, iron and salt. The quality of the marble is reported to be available for the finest statuary, the color being the purest white.

At the close of 1899 there were 4,164 horned cattle, 1,231 horses, 144 mules and 3,396 hogs and goats.

The island was discovered by Columbus in 1494, who named it "La Evangelista." In the administration of Cuba it became a dependency of Havana, of which province it is a municipality (district). It constitutes an ayuntamiento or municipal district of the judicial district of Bejucal, province of Habana, instituted in 1880, with its seat at Nueva Gerona. It was reorganized in July, 1899, under American military control.

Among the various American enterprises may be mentioned a new hotel, an ice plant, a dentist's office, a grocery establishment, blacksmith shop, turpentine plant and orange growing and truck gardening for United States markets. Prospectors interested in other occupations are also looking over the ground.

Her BOOK of Sorrows

THERE was once a young lady who had much trouble. Everything that happened to her seemed in some way to bring her grief. She finally came to believe herself born to ill luck.

At length this girl who was born unlucky resolved to keep a diary, in which she would set down each trouble that happened to her day by day, with the date. So said, so done. She got a leather bound, gilt edged diary, the cover dead black as was fitting, and there she put down daily the mournful record of her griefs as follows:

"Jan. 1, 1879.—Had a terrible toe ache all day.

"Jan. 2.—Billy Jones did not call yesterday evening as he promised, and this morning I heard he went to a party with Susan White instead, and he has told her that he will go to her church and sing in the choir. It breaks my heart, for Billy Jones has been calling on me six weeks regularly. But there it is again—I wonder why it is that every girl but me has a beau!

"Jan. 3.—Party at the Y. M. C. A. Social hall last night, and I wasn't invited. I sat up stairs at my window in the dark and saw Billy Jones go by with Susan White, and I just sat there and cried myself to sleep. Oh, dear, I wish I were dead, so I do!

"Jan. 4.—My birthday. Not a soul came to call or congratulate me. Not even my own mother thought to make me the least little bit of a present. Other girls get presents on their birthdays, and their friends remember it and call. Why was I born into a family where even my own father and mother are hard and indifferent to my feelings? Why does a shadow hang over me from my birth? Tears, only tears and loneliness. Nobody appreciates me, nobody understands me.

"Jan. 5.—Today out walking I lost the beautiful bunch of baby blue feather ostrich tips off my hat. I just cried myself sick over it. Mother said it served me right for not fastening it on tight. Even in the least little things my evil star pursues me. When I am dead and slumber beneath the cold ground, I wonder if my folks will weep for me."

In the contemplation of her griefs her girlhood passed. Woebegone lines settled around her mouth and drooping cheeks. Her complexion became a pale coffee color. There was even about her temples a gray hair or two. These she was secretly a little proud of as evidencing her hidden sorrow.

Then suddenly one day fate took her by the collar and shook her from her toes up and made her go to working for her living. She had to leave home at 7 in the morning, and she did not return till 7 at night. Then she was so dead tired she could only eat her dinner and slump into bed, where they say she actually snored, she was so sleepy. She never complained again of being unable to sleep. She never made another record in her journal of sorrows.

Time went on apace till it was twenty years after. Jeannette Morrison—did I tell you her name was Jeannette Morrison?—was a plump woman of forty-five. She had been forced to give all her time and thought to her affairs. She developed a shrewd business talent, which she had possessed all along and did not know it. To be successful she was forced to put on a cheerful appearance whether she felt like it or not, and thus a pleasant look at last became habitual to her. She and a woman friend had a neat little shop together; also a neat little home. One Sunday morning her partner heard her shrieking with laughter.

"What's the matter, Jeannie Morrison? Are you crazy?"

"Crazy! No! But look here. It's my journal of sorrows that I kept when I was eighteen, and it's the funniest thing I ever did see—better than any joke book I ever read. I had forgotten all about it. Do read this!"

KATE SHARP.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Pitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"We're half an hour ahead of time, said Pettibone, "and consequently are first on the ground. Suppose we make ourselves comfortable among those cottonwoods, where we can't be seen, and await developments."

Thus speaking, he headed his horse toward the more southerly of the two groves. In a little time the horse and buggy had been hidden in the brushy tangle and the sheriff and Guy had hit upon a point of vantage from which, entirely unobserved, they could see the north shore of the lake in its full extent.

They had no more than settled themselves comfortably when a fall of hoofs reached their ears and they saw near the crest of the sloping shore two horsemen descending at a gallop toward the other grove.

"By cracky!" muttered Pettibone. "If there ain't old man Glimmer and Lem Bilkins. I'm a Feejee! Now, what the dickens are they here for? Tell me that, somebody, and I'll be obliged. Look at that! They're going into hiding in the other grove. Well, I'll be dinged!"

Bilkins and Glimmer disappeared in the brush and among the trees to the north, and all was outwardly as calm and serene as before.

The next arrivals were Col. Dingle and Capt. Blue, who drove a red-wheeled gig over the rise and down to a sentinel cottonwood that stood apart. The captain and the colonel were joking and laughing and one would have imagined that a duel was as ordinary a matter with them as Col. Keever had informed Guy it had once been with him.

Capt. Blue hitched the horse to a tree and as he finished and turned away Col. Keever and Sampson drove merrily upon the scene. The editor of the Blizard was smoking a cigar and his extreme nonchalance was the most noticeable thing about him.

"Good afternoon, gentlemen," he called courteously to those already on the field.

Col Dingle and Capt. Blue nodded distantly and Col. Keever shrugged his fat shoulders, chuckled cynically and got down from the buggy. Groping around under the seat he succeeded in finding and in drawing into sight a large revolver. Facing about, he pressed a spring, pulled down the barrel and gave a businesslike glance at the cartridges in the cylinder. This done, he snapped the revolver together, knocked the ashes from his cigar with the muzzle and swaggered over in the direction of his opponent.

"Well," said Dingle, sharply, "if you are ready, pace off the distance and let us get this affair over with."

"We'll first flip a quarter for choice of positions," returned Keever, giving a side glance at the sun. "The last time I figured in an affair of this kind—was it the last, now, or next to the last?—well, anyway, I fought with the sun in my eyes and only pinked my man. Still—"

"Your reminiscences are very interesting," but I think we can dispense with them," cut in Col. Blue, taking a quarter out of his pocket. "Once for all, Col. Keever, what is it?"

The coin twirled in the air.

"Heads!" cried Keever, and won the toss.

Taking up his position with his back to the west, he motioned to Sampson.

The printer came at once, leaving the horse unhitched. Although the horse was known to be gentle, it was a foolish thing for Sampson to leave it in this way.

"Sampson, pace off 20 steps with Capt. Blue," commanded Keever. "If you'd rather make it ten, Dingle, I'm agreeable."

"Five!" cried the little Colonel.

"Would you like to have me tie a handkerchief over one of my eyes?" asked Col. Keever, with exasperating condescension. "I dislike to take any advantage of you."

"Don't you be disturbed," flared Dingle, hotly. "When it comes to pistol practice, my one eye is as good as your two eyes any day."

"Calm yourself, Dingle, or your aim will be bad. Sampson, see that I get five paces, or less."

Five very short paces were stumped off by the Captain, who punctuated the distance by driving his wooden leg into the sand at both positions.

"All right, Colonel," sung out Sampson, and the principals were soon back to back, weapons in hand, awaiting the fall of Capt. Blue's cap, which was to be the signal to turn and fire.

From their places of concealment in the brush Guy and Pettibone were listening to the conversation and watching the sanguinary preparations with intense interest. Was it to be a tragedy, after all, instead of a farce? Guy was beginning to grow nervous.

"We'd better go out and stop this before it's too late," he said, excitedly to Pettibone. "They'll kill each other."

"Don't you believe it,' returned the sheriff, confidently. "Hear that! This is where Bilkins and Glimmer take a hand, and I'll warrant Keever put them up to it."

Bilkins and Glimmer had suddenly leaped from the other patch of timber and Guy and the sheriff saw them bound over the intervening space and hurl themselves upon Col. Keever. Sampson had also seized his employer and the three were struggling with him in great desperation.

Capt. Blue took a pipe from one pocket, a handful of tobacco from another, and filled his pipe bowl calmly and methodically while watching Keever's apparently desperate attempt to free himself.

"Stand off!" shouted Dingle. "Break away from that scoundrel or I'll open fire on you all."

No attention was paid to him.

"Go for the whole lot, Dingle," advised the captain, applying a match to his pipe and puffing out little clouds of white vapor.

"Crack!" came a shot from the little Colonel's revolver.

The bullet plumped into the ground at the feet of the struggling quartet, throwing a spurt of sand into the air. At this ominous sound the four Concordians separated and began to run. The report also frightened the horse attached to the Colonel's buggy and the animal took to a wild gallop and vanished over the swell in a twinkling.

"Crack! crack! crack!" volleyed the little Colonel's revolver, and faster, faster fled the pursued, the gallant Keever, despite his avoirdupois, keeping well in the lead.

Dingle gave chase and continued to follow until his weapon was empty and his foes out of sight, then he returned, shook hands with Capt. Blue, and they unhitched their horse, climbed into the red-wheeled gig and drove unconcernedly away.

Pettibone was rolling on the ground, kicking his heels and choking with tumultuous mirth. Guy shared the sheriff's enjoyment, with the same appreciation if not the same abandon, but the laughter died suddenly upon his lips. He had chanced to look out over the sandy shore of the lake and the vision that met his gaze had hushed his merriment. After he had turned away to rub his eyes he looked again. Could he believe the evidence of his senses?

Pettibone was not slow to observe the change that had come over his companion. Getting up quickly, he drew close to Guy's side and likewise peered through the bushes.

"Great Jupiter!" he exclaimed. "If there ain't Vlandingham's daughter and another girl. I'm a Hottentot! I'll just go out and interview them."

He started out as he spoke, but Guy grabbed him and jerked him roughly back.

"No, you don't!" said the young man, firmly.

CHAPTER XII.

Why was Miss Vlandingham there? Was it possible that she had not received his message? These questions flashed through Guy's brain, but he had no time to debate them. Pettibone, smarting under his summary treatment, was as near angry as he ever became.

"I'm a good fellow all right, Herbert," muttered the sheriff, "but I'll be dinged if I'm going to let you slam me around like that. I can be sociable and pleasant, if I want to, and I can be the other thing, too."

"You mustn't go out there," said Guy, nodding his head toward the beach.

"Shucks! Anyone would think, to hear you talk, that I'm the prisoner and you're the sheriff. You can't boss me, no siree."

"Look here, Pettibone," returned Guy, earnestly, "there's no need of our having a particle of difficulty. Those ladies have come here to meet me."

"An appointment, eh?"

"Yes."

"Who made it?"

"They did."

"Funny thing that they should appoint this place and this particular time," observed the sheriff, cynically.

"It's a coincidence, but I can't see anything very humorous about it."

"It's a coincidence that doesn't coincide."

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Heavy Increase In Business Owing Largely to Good Weather.

NEW YORK, April 19.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Weather conditions have been potent for good during the past week. Retail distribution was greatly accelerated, which in turn enlarged jobbing trade and brought more pressure on manufacturers for prompt shipment. Agricultural work was facilitated and building operations made rapid progress, and traffic increased at the interior as the condition of country roads improved, which made collections better. Some labor controversies were settled and others were averted. Complaints are still heard regarding tardy deliveries, but freight is less congested, and business has increased to the extent of 7.2 per cent.

Quotations of iron and steel cannot yet be considered inflated, but the market is following a natural course despite the efforts of leading interests to maintain a conservative position. Supply and demand must in the long run govern prices, and in this industry needs are greater than available stocks, although productive capacity has largely expanded.

Cotton goods have not followed the fluctuations in the raw material, although its strength has contributed to the steadiness of the finished product. The feature of the week was the increased inquiry for export.

Grain and meats have continued very strong. There was some logical explanation of the advance in corn, interior receipts falling 857,500 bushels for the week, while Atlantic exports rose to 384,803 bushels, an unusually large total for recent times, although small by comparison with the corresponding week in preceding years. Wheat was sustained by exports from all ports of 4,485,352 bushels, flour included, against 4,613,891 a year ago.

Failures for the week numbered 261 in the United States against 206 last year, and 24 in Canada against 21 a year ago.

To Buy Beethoven Statue.

BERLIN, April 19.—The municipal council of Leipsic has appropriated 150,000 marks as part of the sum needed to buy Herr Klinger's statue of Beethoven for the Leipsic museum. Herr Klinger asks 400,000 marks for his work, and private subscribers to the fund are expected to raise the balance of 250,000 marks before the municipality of Vienna closes its pending negotiations for the purchase of the statue. Herr Klinger's work has just been exhibited at Vienna, and it has excited extraordinary interest in Austria and Germany.

Machinists' Strike Averted.

ROANOKE, Va., April 19.—The differences between the machinists of the Norfolk and Western railway shops at Bluefield, W. Va., and the officials of that road have been amicably settled. It is not known just what concessions were made on either side, but it has been given out that there will be no strike.

The Wool Market.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin says in its report on the wool trade of the United States: "Wool is dull. The demand this week has been limited, and even the inquiry for sample bags has stopped. Prices are steady, but for most grades of domestic are purely nominal in the absence of a test. The large importations of foreign were mostly on manufacturers' account. The tone of the foreign markets is firm. A great many buyers have left Boston for the west this week. In Utah, Wyoming and other sections sales are reported at 11@12c. The receipts of wool in

A hotly contested baseball game was played on the diamond at the corner of Clinton and Mariners avenues, Thursday afternoon, when the West End Juniors defeated the West Ends by a score of 16 to 14. Weigman and Stryker were the battery for the winners, while Martin and Williams filled the similar positions for the other side.

Manager Muir, of the Safe Works team, has notified all his men that talking back in all disputed points or decisions made by the umpire will not be tolerated by him or any of the officials. DEATH OF WM. C. BUTLER.

Old Resident Passed Away at East Front Street Home Today.

William C. Butler, one of Plainfield's oldest citizens, died this morning at 9 o'clock at this home on East Front street, after a long illness. Of late he had been failing and his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Butler was born at Utica, N. Y., 1816, and had lived in this city with a few intervals ever since 1854. He also lived in Brooklyn and Milburn.

He was engaged in the wholesale crockery business and the insurance and real estate business in New York and this city.

He brought his letter to the First Baptist church in 1854 and it has always been there. Mr. Butler's wife died in 1894.

Mr. Butler was the oldest of ten children, four of whom are living. There are three brothers, J. H. Butler, George F. Butler and Edward D. Butler, and one sister, Mrs. E. F. Nexsen, of Brooklyn. There were five children, two of whom are living. They are Miss Linda D. Butler and Miss Isabelle L. Butler. The others died in childhood.

As yet no arrangements have been made for the funeral services.

Wants Its Pay.

The Trenton Abattoir Company has brought suit against George Anton, a butcher at Somerville, for $2,000 on contract. The company is represented by Lawyer Robert M. Clark. The company claims the above sum for meats and supplies furnished the defendant, which were never paid for, it is alleged.

Live Coals Caused Small Blaze.

A slight fire occured at the home of John D. James, of Sycamore avenue, this afternoon. Some live coals in an ash heap caused the mischief. The fire department responded to a call. There was no damage.

Going to the Fire.

It was in a country village that the swain had proposed for the hand of the village beauty and had been successful and carried off the palm. He had bought the engagement ring and was hurrying as fast as his two feet would carry him to the home of his adored one. A friend tried to stop him to make inquiry concerning his haste. "Hello, there, Bob! Is there a fire?" "Yes," replied Bob, with what breath he had left, "my heart's on fire, and I'm going now to ring the village belle."—Yonkers Statesman.

Experience.

Maude (simpering)—I dropped my handkerchief last night. Harold Billmore picked it up, and he begged so hard for it I told him he could have it.

Mabel—You can't count on that. A young fellow once picked up a fine lace handkerchief of mine in the same way. I let him keep it. A year or two later he married a fat, freckle-faced girl, and she's carrying it.—Chicago Tribune.

French Language in Canada.

French has been made the official language of the Quebec legislature, the city council, and the board of trade. English-speaking members will be allowed to use their own language, of course, but all the records are to be kept in French. The change is due to the growth of the French element in the three bodies named.—N. Y. Sun.

Not Quite Perfect.

He—I think I know the Miss Bleacham you speak of. Her hair is of a decided blond type, isn't it?

She—Well—er—yes, except that it's a little undecided about the roots.—Philadelphia Record.

CUT BY FLYING GLASS.

F. W. Dunn Narrowly Escaped Serious Injury From Broken Window.

F. W. Dunn, the grocer, had a narrow escape yesterday morning from receiving serious and probable fatal injuries. He was going into New York on the express train which leaves this city at 9:42. As the train was rushing through Cranford, Mr. Dunn was startled by a terrific report, followed by the breaking of glass. He voluntarily jumped away from the window close by and thereby escaped injury.

Some one evidently had thrown a large stone through the window. The broken glass was prevented from cutting Mr. Dunn by reason of the curtain being down. He sat in the last seat in the car. His hands were considerably cut.

OUTDOOR FETE.

To be Given Late in May by Lenten Sewing Class of Grace Church.

The Lenten Sewing Class of Grace Episcopal church is arranging to hold a fete during the latter part of May. It will be held on the lawn of the home of Mrs. Evarts Tracy, on Hillside avenue. No date has been definitely decided upon, but in all probability the affair will take place Saturday evening, May 24. The proceeds will be used to advance the settlement work in New York's East Side.

Want $1,000 Damages.

A suit for $1,000 damages has been instituted in the Supreme Court by Lawyer Robert M. Clark for the Trenton Abattoir Company against John Wendell, of South Sterling. The company claims he obtained goods by fraud and deceit by stating that he owned a farm that was fully worth the price of the goods. It is alleged that the farm belongs to the defendant's wife.

LEAGUE TEAMS MET DEFEAT AT OPENING OF SEASON

Great Surprises Were Given to the Hope Y. M. A. and Safe Works Nines Saturday Afternoon.

CITY HIGH SCHOOL'S GREAT GAME.

THE ST. MARY'S WERE EASY FOR THE TEAM FROM THE RAHWAY FIELD CLUB.

Dunellen Defeated Safe Works in Game of Surprises—City High School Played a Fine Game and Put Out Hope Boys 7 to 4—North Plainfield High School Finally Succumbed to the Perth Amboy High-School on Local Diamond—Lots of Errors Were Made in All the Games Played.

Rahway F. C., 10; St. Mary's 3.
P. H. S., 7; Hope Y. M. A., 4.
Dunellen A. C., 7; Safe Works, 3.
Perth Amboy H. S., 15; N.P.H.S., 5.

The baseball season was really opened Saturday afternoon when three of the local league teams played their first games. In every case the league team was defeated. The city High School boys sprang a huge surprise on the Hope Y. M. A. team, outplaying it in a hot game. Dunellen also had a surprise in store for the Safe Works players, defeating them. Rahway found St. Mary's rather easy while the borough High School finally succumbed to the Perth Amboy High School. At all the games, the scorers were kept busy looking after the error column.

ST. MARY'S DEFEATED.

Defeat was chronicled against the St. Mary baseball team in its first game of the season, Saturday afternoon. It was a case of too hard a proposition at the initial contest of the season. The opponents from the Rahway Field Club defeated the home team by a score of 10 to 3. The visitors had been playing before and in consequence were enabled to do some good team work which was not forthcoming from the other side. The game was witnessed by a very large crowd of rooters who saw nothing to shout for.

Squires occupied the St. Mary box for the first seven innings and was batted freely. The visitors got acquainted with his curves early in the game and pounded the horsehide all over the field. The outfield was kept on the go constantly. For the last two innings, O'Keefe substituted Squires and placed a check on the hitting game, but too late to change the result. Mertens, for the Rahways, pitched a good game but the St. Marys also found him and kept his supporters on the run.

Beyond Keene, none of the home players distinguished themselves in any way. As usual, the "grey mare" as Captain Keene is called by his admiring friends, conducted himself in keeping with the reputation he has earned by good, snappy work. He made a number of throws from third to first which excited the admiration of all.

The teams lined up as follows:

ST. MARY.	RAHWAY.

SURPRISE FOR HOPE.

Failure to hit Van Auken's delivery, coupled with an unfortunate combination of errors, lost the opening game for the Hope chapel Y. M. A., played with the Plainfield High School nine on Hope Common, Saturday afternoon. The school boys won by a score of 7 to 4, after a highly exciting game. The winners played a clever game, batting better than did their opponents and fielding with more spirit. Had their hits been better bunched, their score would have been considerably increased.

The several hundred people who witnessed the game expected to see the Hope boys win out. From the first inning, it was evident that the High School team was playing good ball. VanAuken's delivery was a puzzle and remained so until the end. Even the keen-eyed "Brit" Martin twice fell victim to his curves.

The first three innings went along smoothly although the school boys filled the bases. In the fourth, Van Auken reached first on a hit and then scored on a wild throw to first by Montross. A wild throw enabled the Hopes to score in their half of the inning. In the sixth, the Hopes showed signs of becoming demoralized and the High School scored five times with the aid of errors and timely batting.

Montross braced up and his support improved so that the High School was able to get but one more run while Hopes made two. It was not enough, however, to change the result. Two of the prettiest catches of the day were made by Monro while Captain Martin caught a difficult fly. Thompson, at first, made the only double play, all alone.

SAFE WORKS' SAD TIME.

More than 150 Plainfield rooters who accompanied the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works team to Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, returned home a saddened and dejected lot. To the great surprise of themselves and everyone else, the strong factory team was defeated by the Dunellen aggregation by a score of 7 to 3.

The Plainfielders attribute their loss to no one thing beyond the admitted fact that they were pitted against a stronger team than they expected. Their opponents played a remarkable game, despite the fact that the members had been together but very little. Ethinger pitched a fairly good game for the home team and Symons, the Safe people's second twirler, gave a good exhibition. Doyle, of whom much is expected, was unable to play owing to illness.

PROMINENT MAN PASSED AWAY

CHARLES FORSTER, OF WESTFIELD, DIED AFTER SHORT ILLNESS.

Wife Is Ill in Hospital and Does Not Know of His Death Which Occurred So Suddenly.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 20—The populace of this place is mourning over the death of Charles Foster, one of its most public-spirited citizens, which occurred Saturday evening. He succumbed to typhoid fever after a illness of two week's duration.

For years he was interested in educational work and served as a member of the Board of Education, of which body he was president at the time of his death. He was prominent in Masonry and in other fraternal organizations, including the I. O. O. F., and I. O. H. As a musician he was especially conspicuous, being the tenor soloist of Trinity church, New York, and a member of the Apollo Club, of that city.

He leaves a wife and four children, three of whom are by his first wife, whose remains are interred at New Holland, Pa. The present Mrs. Forster is at Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York, where she recently underwent a serious operation. The fact of her husband's death has been kept from her, in fear that the news would cause a relapse. He was forty-six years of age. Mr. Foster was president of the Fruit Exchange, New York, and was a vestryman of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of this place. Mr. Foster was a commisison merchant, having offices at 44 Harrison street, New York.

The funeral services will be held at the home on Dudley avenue this evening, Rev. O. Jarvis, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiating. The interment will be made at New Holland, Pa.

SOLD CAKE AND CANDY.

Junior Endeavorers of Trinity Conducted a Successful Sale at Primary Department Rooms.

The Junior Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church conducted a successful sale of home-made cake and candy in the primary deparment room of the church Saturday afternoon. Nearly twenty-six cakes were sent in and disposed of, besides a large amount of candy. The cakes all brought good prices and will net the society a goodly sum for its work in the Children's Home in Amoy, China.

Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the society, assisted by Miss Berkaw, had general oversight of the affair, while those in charge of the cake table included Miss Bessie Reighton, Miss Sadie Hyler, Miss Anna Bodine, Miss Louella Day, Miss Pansy Luckey and Miss Ethel Lorton. Miss Ida Tier and Fred Smith were in charge of the candy table. The net proceeds of the sale were $10.50.

CHURCH OFFICERS.

Congregational Church Board of Trustees Organized for the Year.

The board of trustees of the Congregational church, elected at the annual meeting of the church, Wednesday evening, met yesterday morning at the close of the church service and organized. The old officers were unanimously re-elected as follows: President, Joseph E. Morse; secretary, Alex. Millar; treasurer, Morris C. VanArsdale. The president will announce the committees later.

Another Resident.

E. S. Alpaugh, a New York commission merchant, who has been living in Jersey City, is today moving into the house at Ninth street and Second place. He is the father of Daniel S. Alpaugh, of East Sixth street. It was through the influence of his friend, Charles W. Eoff, of Crescent avenue, that he was induced to come to Plainfield.

Will Receive Proper Attention.

The Republican city executive committee has received assurances from Washington that the reappointment of Postmaster E. H. Bird, will receive the earnest attention of those who have the matter in charge.

Keeping Up Good Work.

There will be initiation at the meeting of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, tomorrow evening. For some time past this order has initiated new members at every meeting.

Back in the Choir.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS GAVE THANKS FOR SUCCESS

Local Lodges United to Attend Divine Service at Hope Chapel Last Night.

LISTENED TO SERMON.

PASTOR HOWARD, JUST MADE A KNIGHT, WAS THE PREACHER.

Service Was in Accordance With Suggestion of the Grand Chancellor of the State—Rev. L. R. Howard Talked on "Friendship."

With hearts filled with prayer and thanksgiving for the prosperous year which has attended their order, a host of Pythian Knights from Perseverance and Unity Lodges attended divine service in a body at Hope Memorial chapel, last evening. It was what was being done by other lodges of the order all over the State at the suggestion of P. Hall Parker, grand chancellor of New Jersey.

Rev. L. R. Howard was selected to deliver the sermon. Not only is he a member of Perseverance Lodge, but so is City Judge Runyon, an earnest Hope chapel worker, and many of its members. At the appointed hour for the exercises the church was filled to overflowing.

The order of exercises opened and closed with the singing of the Pythian odes. Mr. Howard's theme was "Friendship" the foremost virtue of the Pythian order and the one around which its principles are built.

At the beginning of his discourse Mr. Howard referred to the Biblical friendships of Damon and Pythias and Ruth and Naomi and pictured the lessons they taught. Friendship, he declared, was a Christian virtue, as it is the exponent of all that is taught by Christianity. Carried to its proper extremes it will be of invaluable assistance to the church making plain the truths which are heralded by religious workers.

The prime object of secret orders, generally, is to insist upon this friendly spirit and love of one another and in so doing they are aiding the church to bring its members to the friendship offered by Christ.

AUTO AND BICYCLE CRASHED

WHEELMAN WAS SLIGHTLY HURT AND HIS BICYCLE WAS WRECKED.

First Automobile Accident to Happen in Town—The Auto Was Driven by C. E. Varian.

An electric automobile, driven by C. E. Varian, of East Ninth street, and a bicycle, ridden by George H. Fritts, twenty years old, of West Fifth street, crashed together at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Front street, yesterday noon.

Fritts fell beneath the vehicle and the low-hanging mechanism caught his clothing. He was dragged for a short distance. His clothing was torn from his back and he was badly bruised about the hips and right ankle. The wheel was badly wrecked.

The two were attempting to cross in front of each other when the accident occurred, and neither saw the other until too late. Mr. Varian did all possible for the injured boy and saw that he was assisted home.

This being true, it is said that arrangements to rebuild will be started at once.

EVANGELIST BEGINS WORK

J. R. PRATT IS HOLDING TWO WEEKS' SERVICE AT MONROE AVENUE M. E.

First Service Was Held Yesterday Morning—Another Service Was Held Last Night.

J. R. Pratt inaugurated a fortnight's series of evangelistic services at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, yesterday morning. Every evening until Sunday, May 4, with the exception of Saturdays, he will conduct meetings of this nature. Together with these there will be afternoon services, beginning Wednesday of this week.

The topic for the address, last evening, was the working of the Spirit. In many ways he endeavored to demonstrate how the Spirit affected the conversion of sinners, leading them triumphantly to Christ. He declared that it is first necessary to bring conviction to the unconverted. Without conviction of his sinfulness, said he, one can not see the need of following Christ.

Prayers were offered by Chas. B. Brown, of Newark, and Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan. The meeting this evening begins at 7:45 o'clock.

TICKETS IN DEMAND.

Many Are Anxious to See the Production of the Gilbert and Sullivan Comic Opera, "Patience."

The prospect of hearing comic opera by local talent has proved quite attractive so the sale of tickets for the production of "Patience" at the Casino Thursday night has been very good. Only sixteen seats were reserved and they have nearly all been sold.

Recent rehearsals have shown that the clever production of Gilbert and Sullivan is going to be given in eminently satisfactory style. The singing will be particularly good while the principal roles are reported to be filled in clever fashion. One of the last rehearsals will be held in the Casino tomorrow evneing when the finishing touches will be made.

WORK IN TURKEY.

Described at Y. M. C. A. Meeting by a Recent Missionary There.

Missionary work in Turkey was the subject of an address delivered by Rev. E. M. Bliss at the men's meeting, in Y. M. C. A. Hall, yesterday afternoon. He endeavored to dispell many erroneous ideas concerning the missonary's life there, especially concerning the numerous alleged "hair-breadth escapes". He had some words of praise for those who lived up to the teachings of the Koran.

E. C. Martin led the singing, and the Martin Korff's orchestra, composed of Dr. W. F. Gaston, Dr. J. F. Berg, Dyckman Winckler, G. W. V. Moy, Robert Barnes, Walter Sampson, George Spier and William McKellop, assisted.

THEY WERE HAPPILY WEDDED

MARRIAGE OF MISS AGNES GRAHAM AND HARRY A. CONNETT.

The Ceremony Was Performed at Home of U. G. Pierson Saturday Evening.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. Grant Pierson, on Richmond street, when Miss Agnes Graham was united in marriage to Harry A. Connett, of East Fifth street. The ceremony was performed by Rev Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the presence of a limited company of friends.

The bride was gowned in a tan-colored travelling dress with hat to match. She was attended by Miss May Mulford, who wore a gown of silk. The best man was William Townsend, of this city. Following the ceremony congratulations were offered and supper was served. Wm. Egel, of Elizabeth, cousin of the groom, played the wedding march.

The bride has during the past three years been the faithful assistant at Mulford's real estate and insurance office on North avenue, while the groom has for years been employed at the freight station of the New Jersey Central as a clerk. Both are popular and have a host of friends. A great many presents of use and value were received by the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Connett left on the 9:40 train Saturday night for a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in East Fifth street, where the groom has a home furnished awaiting occupancy.

ONLY ONE SPRINKLER.

Difficult to Keep Borough Streets Properly Sprinkled.

Successful work in street sprinkling has been handicapped in the borough to some extent this spring. This is solely due to the fact that but one sprinkling wagon is available at present and it has to cover the entire borough. Commencing May 1 an additional sprinkler will be put in service and it is presumed that the present condition of affairs in this respect will be materially improved.

WHAT PUBLIC LIBRARY OFFERS ON NATURE

Concluding Exhibit at Public Library Was Held There Saturday and Sunday.

FINE COLORED PLATES.

EXHIBITS FROM SEVERAL PROMINENT PUBLISHING HOUSES.

Those in Charge of the Different Departments — Subject of This Exhibit Was "Nature"—The Library's Volumes Displayed.

The last of the Library's series of monthly exhibits attracted a very large number of interested people to the Public Library Saturday afternoon and evening. It was a "nature" exhibit.

It was given in the art gallery and was in charge of the following persons: Animal books, Miss More, of the Bryant school; bird books, Miss Mellick and Miss A. Haviland; butterflies, Mrs. Herring; flowers, Mrs. Nickerson, Miss Noll and Miss Scribner; nature books, general works and essays, Miss Carrie Haviland and Miss Day, of the Whittier school; trees, Mrs. Andrew Gavett, assisted by Mrs. Edward Rushmore.

The collection of books on these subjects is large and very valuable. Among the books shown were many with fine colored plates. Charles P. Everitt, of the publishing house of Doubleday, Page & Co., New York, was present afternoon and evening and he gave an illustrated talk on three color process work. He had a number of specimens which he explained in an interesting manner. This house makes a specialty of nature work. In addition there was exhibited a collecton of fine animal drawings by Ernest Seton Thompson, from Chas. Scribner's Sons, while Harpers lent a number of their illustrated nature books.

The butterfly exhibit, which was in charge of Mrs. F. O. Herring, was a centre of attraction. This is considered to be one of the finest in the country. As Mrs. Herring has a large collection herself and takes great interest in this work, she was especially fitted to take charge of this exhibit. Miss Elizabeth Angell assisted at the tree exhibit.

An interesting feature was the long list of birds, which have been seen in this section, by Waldron Miller. The list comprises a great many birds not known to have inhabited these parts. Miss Adams, the librarian, had general oversight of the exhibit and assisted in making it one of help and profit to all who attended.

Those attending the exhibition were given lists showing them the names of the best books in the library on the different subjects.

Mills are the North Plainfielders having interest in the boat. It is a thirty-foot affair, equipped up in improved fashion, having brass fittings and the like.

The propelling power is gasoline, but the present engine will be removed and one of the latest pattern will be installed. The handsome craft was formerly attached to the United States Government revenue service. The boat will be launched, June 1, at Sylvan Beach. Frank Keller has been elected commodore.

RAISING THE TRACKS; MOVING THE BRIDGE

Some Remarkable Engineering Work is Being Done at New Brunswick by P. R. R.

BEEN WELL PLANNED.

ALL WILL BE READY TO MOVE THE BRIDGE SUNDAY, JUNE 1.

How This Great Undertaking is to be Done—Plans for the Elevation of the Tracks Through the City—The New Station.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, April 19—A work of great magnitude is being done in connection with the elevation of the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks through this city. The work is going along so smoothly because of the thorough manner in which the improvements have been mapped out and systematized that it attracts no special attention, yet one who observes the work can see from day to day the rapid strides that are being made.

The work of constructing the bridge is in charge of the Kerbaugh Construction Company, while the arrangements for the moving of the bridge are being looked after by the Pennsylvania Railroad mechanics.

Both of these corporations have a number of forces of men at work, each gang of men forming a part of the small army of mechanics and laborers scattered in groups all the way between this city and Stelton, and looking after some detail of this undertaking.

The moving of the bridge over the river is the chief object now in view, and every effort is being put forth to that end. It is expected that everything will be done and in readiness to move the bridge on Sunday, June 1, and if everything goes along all right the entire bridge over the Raritan will be moved about fifteen feet on the stone piers in as many minutes.

A force of carpenters has been at work for some time building a trestle from the end of the eastbound platform at the George street station to the canal. On this trestlework, which is about completed, a track will be laid connecting with the track already laid through the city as far as the George street crossing. This track will run down the eastbound platform. The bridge will be moved so as to join with the trestling at the canal.

The plan is to use two tracks on the Somerset street side of the station while the other two are being elevated. Both of these tracks will pass in front of the George street station, on the eastbound side of the fence, which is now erected between the two tracks. The tracks, as laid through the city, will not be changed at present. The present eastbound track will be connected with the new track that is to run over the bridge at Washington street, and the present westbound track on the station side of the George street crossing. A gang of men recently commenced the work of building the new platform on the sidewalk on Somerset street. This is to be used during the alterations, the present eastbound station and platform being torn away. Only a covered platform will be used until the new station is built. Trestlework is also being put up in City alley for the new track.

While the railroad is making all these preparation for their part of the work, the bridge builders have not been idle. Contractor Kerbaugh has several forces of men at work on the westbound side of the bridge, making preparations for the elevating of that side of the bridge which is to be done first. New piers are being constructed under the bridge, from Neilson street to the canal, and one of them has already been completed to the height from which the arch will be constructed.

The work on the other side of the bridge is also of no little magnitude. Scows have been placed in the river on each side of the bridge and derricks erected. There is also a small, narrow gauge railway on the north side of the bridge, built on a trestle, which is used to run stone down to the workmen. At the East New Brunswick end of the bridge there has been considerable filling in done, and the first pier has been widened considerably, so that it extends several feet on each side of the bridge.

New piers will be constructed in the river and all of them arched over, so that from that end of the bridge to Neilson street there will be twenty-two arches. As soon as the bridge is moved, rapid progress will be made in the construction of the arches, and the work of elevating the tracks through the city will be commenced with the building of the walls.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, as soon as the bridge is moved, expects to bring a large number of mechanics here to construct the new station and look after other branches of the work. There will be constructed through the city trestlework for the two new tracks, which are the first to be elevated.

When the elevation has been completed the new tracks laid over the river to Stelton will be used. This will do away with the big double curve, which is bad for freight trains, and will greatly straighten the tracks With the completion of the elevation through the city and Newark, it is said the railroad company will put on several hundred minute trains between New York and Philadelphia, thus shortening the time twenty minutes.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

It is not generally known that the First Baptist church is next to the oldest of the Protestant churches in this city. The Friends' meeting-house on Watchung avenue, is the oldest. The First Baptist church was organized in 1818, and according to the minutes of the several preliminary meetings held at that time, the constituent members helped to build the church either by giving money, material or labor. The original edifice was the building now standing on New street near Front street, and at present used for a dwelling.

Later the land where the present edifice stands was given to the organization and the handsome stone church erected in 1869. A man of the name of Graham, of Elizabeth, was the architect. At the time it was a question as to whether it would not be better to build on the south side of the railroad, but when the value of the present site was considered no one was willing to give up the property donated.

GREAT STORY WRITER DEAD.

Frank R. Stockton Suddenly Passes Away in Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Frank R. Stockton, the well known novelist, is dead in this city.

The cause of Mr. Stockton's death was paralysis immediately resulting from a hemorrhage in the brain He was a guest at the banquet held Wednesday night of the National Academy of Sciences, when he was taken suddenly and mysteriously ill. The ailment did not at that time appear to be serious, and for awhile the sufferer seemed to be improving, but a change for the worse came yesterday morning, and death occurred at 11 o'clock. By his bedside when the end came were his wife, who was a Miss Tuttle of Virginia, and her sister. He was sixty-eight years of age. The body will be taken to Philadelphia for interment.

Mr. Stockton spent the past winter in New York and had done very little literary work, preferring to rest. After a visit of nearly a month to Atlantic City he came to Washington so that he might attend the banquet of the scientests, intending then to go to his beautiful home in Charlestown, W. Va.

Mr. Stockton was a Philadelphian by birth, in early life was an engraver and draftsman, but soon abandoned this occupation for journalism. Many years ago, however, he retired wholly from newspaper work and devoted himself to literature. His reputation as a story writer was worldwide.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

Senate Takes Up River and Harbor Bill—The House Programme.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The senate will begin the week by taking up the river and harbor appropriation bill and when that measure is disposed of will resume consideration of the Philippine government bill. It is not expected that much time will be required to get the river and harbor bill through the senate, as it is generally approved by senators. It is now understood that Senator Rawlins, senior Democratic member of the senate committee on the Philippines, will lead off in the speech-making in opposition to the Philippine bill, to be followed by other members of the committee and other Democratic senators. The opinion is expressed that the bill will be before the senate for at least three weeks.

The early part of this week in the house of representatives will be devoted to routine business, with a prospect that some important general legislation may be taken up during the latter part of the week.

Today is District of Columbia day. Tomorrow will be devoted to war claims and Wednesday to the oleomargarine bill, which was amended by the senate. During the remaining days of the week it is practically settled that the antianarchist bill of Chairman Ray of the judiciary committee will be considered. The measure is much more stringent than the anarchist bill passed by the senate. Plans also are on foot for considering the omnibus public building bill during the latter days of the week.

Prominent Southerner Dead.

BALTIMORE, April 21.—Colonel Charles Marshall, military secretary of General Robert E. Lee during the civil war and for many years one of the leaders of the Baltimore bar, has just died of apoplexy at his home here. He had been in bad health for about two years. Colonel Marshall was born October 30, 1830, at Warrenton, Va. His father was a nephew of Chief Justice John Marshall. Mr. Marshall became a member of General Lee's staff in 1862 and was attached to him throughout the war. He was the only member of the general's staff who accompanied him at the surrender at Appomattox, and the terms were drafted by him.

Jury Could Not Agree.

ST. LOUIS, April 21.—The jury in the case against William Strother, the negro charged with the murder of A. Deane Cooper, the millionaire who was killed in a bathhouse several months ago, was unable to agree on a verdict after being out all night and at an early hour in the morning was discharged by Judge Ryan. According to the statement of one of the jurors, the first ballot stood six for conviction and six for acquittal. On the second ballot one of the jurors changed his vote from conviction to acquittal. The other ballots showed no change.

Seven Burned to Death.

LONDON, April 21.—A fire broke out at midnight in Hackney, a popular suburb of London, in a printer's warehouse three stories high, the top floor of which was used for living rooms. A dozen fire engines and escapes arrived promptly at the scene, but the flames were of overmastering power, and it was impossible to enter the building. When the flames were finally got under control, the charred bodies of a man, two women and four children were found.

Death Follows Long Sleep.

OSWEGO, N. Y., April 21.—Ida Hennessey, seventeen years old, who had been asleep since Saturday, April 12, has died without regaining consciousness. She suffered an acute attack of epilepsy before falling asleep and relapsed into a comatose state, from which the physicians found it impossible to arouse her. She was in that condition 180 hours.

Belgium Strike Ended.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 21.—At a general council of the Labor party held here it was resolved that work by the strikers in all sections should be resumed. The council issued a manifesto to the workingmen to this effect last evening. The anticipated announcement by the crown of the dissolution of parliament has not yet been made.

STEAMBOAT HORROR

Many Lives Lost In a Mississippi River Disaster.

THE CITY OF PITTSBURG BURNED.

List of Casualties Not Complete, but Over Sixty Are Reported Missing. Passengers Awakened From Slumber to Face Death.

CAIRO, Ill., April 21.—The sidewheel steamer City of Pittsburg, from Cincinnati to Memphis, was burned to the water's edge in the early morning at Turners Landing, near Olmstead, Ill., eleven miles from Mound City, Ill., and twenty-four miles from this city. The early reports stated that sixty-five lives were lost and that many were badly burned and otherwise injured, but the list of casualties is not yet definitely determined. Two boats and all available craft from this city went to the scene for relief. Efforts were made to catch the New South of the same line at Paducah and have her steam back for relief, but the steamer had passed Paducah upward bound before the telegram was received.

Most of the passengers were still in bed when Second Clerk Oliver Phillips gave the alarm. The engineers at once started all the pumping engines, while the crew brought all the hose into play. Amid the streams of water on all sides, the flames from the lower deck and dense clouds of smoke the passengers rushed from their staterooms, and a frightful panic ensued. The appeals of the officers and crew could not appease the terror stricken crowd that interfered with those throwing water on the flames as well as with those working with the lifeboats. Few could adjust life preservers or do anything for themselves.

The smoke was stifling. Great clouds floated through the blazing steamer, choking the passengers and adding to the terror. Children cried pitifully, begging that they be saved.

Lifeboats were manned, and every effort was made to save the passengers from the floating furnace of flames.

From the river banks the sparks from the burning craft and the dense clouds of smoke tinged with flames made a most impressive and weird spectacle.

Boats were sent from shore to help in the work of rescue. Boats laden to their limit with passengers in the scant attire they were able to gather were landed at the river banks. As fast as the boats could be emptied they returned to the ill fated steamer, the rescuers losing no time from their work.

The burning steamer was quickly headed to the bank, but passengers were forced to jump from the stern, and, trying to swim ashore through the swift current, many were drowned. Many also perished in the flames. Only one yawl was saved without oars, and the women were taken off. About twenty or thirty were taken off in the yawl. The rest were picked up out of the water.

Help, except from people living near by, did not arrive until late in the afternoon, and passengers with only nightclothes and without food suffered terribly.

The Pittsburg was built at Marietta in 1899 and was valued at $80,000. She was 300 feet long and 80 feet wide and was owned by John M. Phillips and Al Brahm of Pittsburg and Dana Scott of Zanesville.

Entire Family Lost.

OWENSBORO, Ky., April 21.—Patrick Burke, a farmer, his wife and six children were all lost on the steamer City of Pittsburg. They formerly lived at Whitesville, in this county. They left last Friday for Missouri, where they expected to reside.

Intense Heat In Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., April 21.—Yesterday was the hottest April day in fifteen years. The thermometer at 5 p. m. reached 95 degrees, the highest previous record being 91. The intense heat was more oppressive owing to the excessive cold weather experienced up to Saturday night, overcoats being required for comfort during the past week. The torrid temperature was responsible for several attacks of illness, two occurring in one church during the day. A continuation of the hot weather will prove dangerous to growing grain.

The Kaiser at Monument Unveiling.

HANOVER, Prussia, April 21.—Emperor William, Crown Prince Frederick William and representatives of all the cavalry regiments of the empire were present at the unveiling here of a monument erected in honor of General von Rosenberg, the commander of the Thirteenth uhlan regiment during the war of 1870. Emperor William and Count von Waldersee, who was commander of the allied forces in China, made speeches at the banquet which followed the unveiling ceremony.

Hot Wind In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 21.—A dry hot wind from the south has swept over Kansas for twenty-four hours, doing much damage to vegetation of all kinds. Some reports say the wind has done incalculable harm to the wheat. Unless rain shall come within two days the wheat crop will amount to very little. The ground is becoming dry and hard.

Trolley Fight in Ballston.

BALLSTON, N. Y., April 21.—The contest of two trolley companies for possession of West Front, Charlton and West High streets in this village is exciting the villagers. The rival companies are endeavoring to construct lines from Ballston Spa to Schenectady, and both claim the franchise for the street locations indicated.

General Chaffee Joins President In Praise.

MORE SURRENDERS OF INSURGENTS.

General Smith Defends the Troops Who Campaigned In Samar—He Remains at Manila to Face a Court of Inquiry.

MANILA, April 21.—General Chaffee has forwarded to General J. Franklin Bell the congratulations sent the latter by President Roosevelt upon the recent campaign in Batangas and Laguna provinces conducted by General Bell. General Chaffee forwarded the president's communication through General Lloyd Wheaton, and in an accompanying letter he expresses his great pleasure at the receipt by General Bell of the president's congratulations. No American troops, says General Chaffee, have before been charged with a task more difficult of accomplishment. Only our comrades in the island of Samar have campaigned under such difficulties. So unique has been the situation in Batangas and Laguna, continues General Chaffee in his letter, that only a person thoroughly familiar with it by actual contact can appreciate the conditions which have been met and overcome or fairly determine what were the best methods to accomplish the objects—namely, the recognition of the sovereignty of the United States and the establishment of peace and order in the disturbed sections. General Chaffee concludes by saying that because of General Bell's never failing care of his troops and his encouragement to them in their labors they share in the congratulations from President Roosevelt.

Surrenders to American authorities of small parties of insurgents are reported daily, and these have increased since the recent surrender of the insurgent general Malvar. General Rufino, with 26 officers and 375 soldiers, has surrendered to the native constabulary in the province of Misamis, in Mindanao, where the constabulary are co-operating with the military.

The United States transport Buford has left here for San Francisco, after having been detained in quarantine for five days. General Jacob H. Smith, who was in command of the American forces in the island of Samar at the time Major L. W. T. Waller of the marine corps is said to have executed natives of that island without trial, was to have gone home on the Buford, but has disembarked here.

Orders have been received from Washington that a court of inquiry into the general conduct of affairs in Samar be held. General Smith claims that to the best of his belief the officers and men of his command in Samar had to face insurmountable difficulties, that the hardships they encountered were almost unbearable and that the treachery of the natives of the island is unequaled in the history of warfare. He says that the American soldiers acted, under the circumstances, with the greatest forbearance shown in the war in the Philippines. Campaigning in Samar is not a pleasure trip, but a stern reality, said General Smith. He also expressed his doubt if the troops of any nation in the world would or could have acted in the circumstances in Samar as well as did the Americans.

The cholera situation shows no improvement. There has been a total of 588 cases and 300 deaths in Manila and 856 cases and 602 deaths in the provinces.

Suffrage Meetings In Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 21.—Mass meetings in favor of universal suffrage have been held in all the towns of Sweden. In Stockholm the meeting was attended with considerable disorder. The demonstrators tried to march to the palace of King Oscar. They were charged by the police, and several of them were wounded. Others were arrested. The approaches to the palace are now guarded by troops. The meeting at Malmoe was attended by about 15,000 persons.

Brewery Destroyed by Fire.

CINCINNATI, April 21.—The large brewery of the Christian Moerlein company, at Elm and McMicken streets, was damaged more than $100,000 by fire, supposed to be due to spontaneous combustion. The entire fire department was engaged for four hours in getting the fire under control. Andrew Moerlein was seriously injured by falling from his buggy on his way to the fire. Richard Porter and Jack O'Keefe, both firemen, were badly injured while on duty.

New House Goes Up In Smoke.

NORFOLK, Va., April 21.—The magnificent residence of P. J. Morris, on Thirty-first avenue, together with its valuable contents, has been totally destroyed by fire. The residence had just been completed and had been occupied only since Wednesday. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been a lamp exploding, though no one was in the house at the time.

Queen Wilhelmina's Condition.

THE HAGUE, April 21.—The condition of Queen Wilhelmina remains practically unchanged. She does not lose consciousness and has taken a little more nourishment. The prince consort and the queen's physicians left Castle Loo for a short time yesterday. This is regarded as a favorable sign.

Bandits Attack Russian Post.

PEKING, April 21.—A post on the outskirts of Newchwang garrisoned by forty Russians has been attacked by bandits. One Russian officer and four privates were killed.

BARRACKS BLOWN UP.

Between One and Two Hundred Nicaraguan Soldiers Killed.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 21.—A severe explosion occurred here the night of April 16. A large two story barrack situated near the lake front and in the center of the city was blown to fragments. Between 100 and 200 officers and soldiers are reported to have been killed, and many soldiers and other persons are reported to have been injured. A large number of houses near the barrack, including the National hotel, the Central Telegraph station and the National palace, were damaged or wrecked.

President Zelaya was absent at Masaya at the time of the explosion, but he hurriedly returned to Managua on horseback. He has published a statement in which he attributes the disaster to the work of conspirators. He says that tons of dynamite, in addition to a quantity of powder, were stored in the barrack. The actual causes which led to the explosion have not yet been determined.

After the first explosion the police notified the terrified people temporarily to leave the city, as it was thought the burning building still contained dynamite. Large numbers of people consequently fled to the suburbs. The first explosion was followed by several minor detonations, supposed to have been caused by the explosion of packages of gunpowder.

The people who fled the city at the time of the explosions are now returning. The fragments of the numerous dead, who were blown to atoms, are being buried.

The present lowest estimate of the damage caused by the explosion in houses, furniture, cannon and war material is 5,000,000 pesos.

COLUMBIA'S GREAT EVENT.

Prominent Men of Nation Attend the Installation of President Butler.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The absorbing topic in this city is the installation of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as president of Columbia university and the notable gathering which graced the ceremony. The assemblage was the most brilliant one that New York has entertained for many years.

The president of the United States was here and seventy-five college presidents, representing all the great American universities. Lord Kelvin, England's most eminent scientist, rubbed shoulders with Governor Odell and Mayor Seth Low, President Butler's predecessor, while generals, senators, diplomats, judges, poets, novelists, millionaires, witnessed the impressive ceremonies, and the festivities ended with a banquet at Sherry's. The president of the United States was the guest of honor and made a short speech, dwelling upon the necessity for educated men taking a part in political affairs.

Down in the body of the hall were such men as Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller and his son, Daniel Lamont and Henry A. Rodgers, and near them Mark Twain's white, leonine head caught the eye of the seeker for notables. W. D. Howells, Richard Watson Gilder and John Kendrick Bangs also held up the banner of literature among the great men.

Fatal Railway Collision.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., April 21.—The westbound Pennsylvania passenger train on the Pittsburg, Youngstown and Akron division crashed into a work train near Covert's Station, two miles west of this city, killing almost instantly Passenger Engineer W. W. Irwin of Mahoningtown. Fireman John Stevenson of this city suffered a broken ankle and severe bruises. Edward Williams, a work train employee, was severely bruised. Fortunately none of the passengers was injured, but their journey was delayed several hours until the wreckage could be cleared away. The cause of the accident is not yet known.

Conference on Strike.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., April 21.—The United Mine Workers of West Virginia, whose repeated efforts to bring about a conference between themselves and the coal operators of the state have been unsuccessful, will make a final effort to secure the latter's attendance at a meeting called for the present week in this city. If no recognition or satisfaction shall be obtained at this meeting, it is said a general strike will be the result among the thousands of mine workers along the Chesapeake and Ohio and Norfolk and Western and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads.

A Liberal Democratic Convention.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 21.—A call was issued here last night for a state convention of the Liberal Democratic party to be held in Cooper Union, New York city, on June 7. The call states that at that time a complete state ticket will be placed in nomination. The call outlines a proposed platform, the chief plank of which is a reaffirmation of the Chicago platform, and repudiates former Senator David B. Hill as state leader.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Lord Kelvin, the distinguished English scientist, has arrived at New York on the Campania.

Elvira Tropa, a New York city saloon keeper, was murdered and robbed of about $1,500 and valuable jewelry.

Two children were drowned and much property destroyed by the bursting of a water main in a Pittsburg street.

Morgan Hart, son of the minister to Colombia, has brought to this country many hitherto unknown relics of Napoleon I.

Mme. Lillian Nordica has brought suit against the Southern Railway company for $50,000 damages for losses and injuries which she says resulted from a collision last January.

COSTLY TEXAS BLAZE.

Fatal Injuries to Two and a Loss of $350,000 at Dallas.

DALLAS, Tex., April 21.—Two persons fatally injured, Fire Chief Magee prostrated and a property loss of fully $350,000 is the result of several early morning fires which occurred in this city. The first alarm was turned in from the Dorsey printing establishment, located on lower Elm street. Several additional alarms from different parts of the city followed closely.

The Dorsey Printing company, one of the largest establishments of the kind in the southwest, was totally destroyed, the loss being estimated at $200,000, one-half covered by insurance.

While the Dorsey fire was in progress and more than half the fire department was engaged there a second alarm was received from Lamar street, close to the immense agricultural district. A high wind blowing from the south saved the implement establishments and the adjoining property from destruction. Half of the buildings burned were ordinary business houses and the remainder dwellings. The Griffith Lumber company's yard ignited, and this company is one of the principal losers in that section of the city. It is estimated that the losses in the Lamar street district will aggregate $150,000.

A portion of the contents of the dwellings burned was saved, but the losses are estimated to be fully $15,000.

While the two big fires were raging an alarm came in from the residence district of Fisher lane, in South Dallas, two miles distant. This fire destroyed four cottages worth $20,000.

It is claimed by insurance men that the fire in the suburb was incendiary, and the police and fire departments are strongly inclined to the belief that the other fires were incendiary.

Mother of Dr. Hillis Dead.

WOODBINE, Ia., April 21.—Mrs. Margaret E. Hillis, mother of Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis of Brooklyn, is dead here. Mrs. Hillis had been suffering for several months from the effects of a paralytic stroke. Her son came to Woodbine when she was first stricken, but returned to Brooklyn after his mother rallied from the effects. He and other members of the family have been notified of Mrs. Hillis' death and are expected to arrive tomorrow morning. Mrs. Hillis had two sons and four daughters, who, with the exception of one daughter, survive her. The family has resided in Harrison county for fifty years and has been an influence in the world of religion and education through the exceptional talents of its members.

Governor Odell Starts.

NEWBURG, N. Y., April 21.—Governor Odell started on his southern and western trip last night in the private car Convoy, which was attached to the 8:48 West Shore train. In the party were Senator Ellsworth, the governor's father, ex-Mayor B. B. Odell; his brother, Postmaster Hiram B. Odell; Captain Joseph M. Dickey and F. N. Bain. The three last named will go only as far as Charleston. Mrs. Odell, the governor's wife; Estelle Odell, his daughter, and his sister, Miss Ophelia, will join the party today at Washington. The governor will be gone five weeks and will visit Monterey, San Francisco, Tacoma and Seattle, returning on the Canadian Pacific and visiting Montreal.

Reunion of "Boys In Gray."

DALLAS, Tex., April 21.—All arrangements have been completed for the reunion of ex-Confederate veterans, which begins tomorrow. The executive committee has been actively at work preparing for the event, and preparations have been finished to house and feed the expected enormous crowd of visitors. The government has loaned the committee a large supply of tents, and 10,000 cots used at the Memphis reunion last year are in the hands of the quartermaster general. In all sections of the south railroads have put on special trains to handle the increased traffic. It is confidently predicted that 125,000 visitors will attend the reunion.

Blue Laws In Boston.

BOSTON, April 21.—Never before has Boston seen such a vigorous enforcement of any law on the statute books as that given the Sunday laws yesterday. Drugstores, fruit dealers, bakeries and laundries were the objects of the police attack. From one end of the city to the other soda fountains were silent, candy counters covered and idle and fruit stores closed. On the other hand, the hotels did a rushing business, as liquor could be sold by them to patrons ordering food.

Railroad Building In Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 21.—The Santa Fe Railway company is commencing a number of extensions covering 500 miles. Active construction has commenced at Shawnee, Pauls Valley, Ralston, Newkirk, Cushing, Tecumseh and Owosso. It is rumored here that the Santa Fe will attempt to gain control of Indian Territory lines running east and west to offset the advantage gained by the Rock Island in the purchase of the Choctaw.

Big Fire In Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 21.—Fire in the southwestern portion of the city yesterday afternoon destroyed forty houses, laying waste a strip of land a quarter of a mile long. THE SHIPPING TRUST

President Griscom Discusses Great Navigation Merger.

FIVE TRANSATLANTIC LINES IN ONE.

New Combine to Have a Capital of $200,000,000—Better Service at a Decreased Cost—No Politics In the Deal.

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Clement A Griscom president of the International Navigation company, one of the five transatlantic steamship companies which have been merged under the direction of J. P. Morgan, talks freely concerning the consolidation, its purposes and probable effects. Mr. Griscom said he was unable to speak definitely regarding the financial plan, as that was a matter for the consideration of Mr. Morgan and his partners, which will perhaps be decided upon within the next two weeks. In any event, President Griscom said, the consolidated companies would probably be in operation under the new conditions within a few months.

So far as the negotiations regarding the merger are concerned, they have been completed. Agreements for a controlling interest in each of the various lines have been secured, and all that now remains to be accomplished is the organization of the holding or parent company. This matter is now in the hands of J. P. Morgan & Co. and their lawyers.

"The capitalization of the consolidated companies," said Mr. Griscom, "will be in the neighborhood of $200,000,000, which sum about represents the property absorbed. Working capital of course will be provided, and the profits and reserve fund should enable us to build the necessary additions to our fleets. While control of the company will be held in this country, it will be a strictly international organization, fostering the various companies included in the consolidation, preserving their autonomy and respecting their national and local surroundings.

"The object of the combination is to try to give better transatlantic service at a decreased cost. Heretofore the trade has been extravagantly conducted, and we propose to operate more intelligently in the future. We expect in time to inaugurate a system of daily departures from New York, an innovation that is a real necessity.

"There is no political significance in this deal. The negotiations have covered a period of many years, and I was interested in the subject as far back as 1884. The passage of the ship subsidy bill would have but one effect, so far as the new enterprise is concerned—it would enable us to sail ships now building and hereafter built under the American flag on an equal footing with the ships of other countries.

"We have existing only four small vessels that might benefit by the passing of this bill, and they are on the Pacific.

"The consolidation," said Mr. Griscom, "will result in better transatlantic service, steadier and more uniform rates, a just distribution of traffic over all American and Canadian seaports, increased lines on the Pacific and services to South America as traffic may be found to justify them. Having lines between Great Britain and Australia and New Zealand and intimate connections with the far east, American manufacturers will be able to distribute their products on through bills of lading and avoid the expense of transshipments which they now incur. In a word, it is intended to reduce transportation charges as far as possible to every one, to improve facilities, and the company expects to make its increased profits over the conditions of the past from economical management."

Rioting In Jamaica.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 21.—A riotous outbreak has occurred at Annotta Bay, on the north coast of the island. It was confined chiefly to a conflict between the police and coolies employed on an estate. Police re-enforcements, which were immediately sent from Port Antonio, put an end to the fighting. Many persons were injured, and numerous arrests were made. Hundreds of persons are being prosecuted in the island for the non-payment of taxes.

Earthquake Did Much Damage.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 21.—The earthquake Friday evening covered a large extent of territory and is reported down into Central America. The lower section of the Pacific coast of this country felt the shock very severely, and at Tapachula, an important town in the state of Chiapas near the Guatemalan frontier, there was much damage done to property. The loss is estimated at $1,000,000, one of the losers placing the damage to his property at $200,000.

Heavy Fighting on the Isthmus.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 21.—Passengers on the Royal Mail steamer Trent, which has just arrived here from Colon, Colombia, say heavy fighting was proceeding in the neighborhood of Panama and Bocas del Toro last Friday. The officers of the Trent declare that the situation on the isthmus shows no improvement.

Frisco Street Cars Tied Up.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—San Franciscans are without the usual facilities of rapid transit, and many are forced to walk. The street railway strike has become effective. Only three lines are in operation. Business on every line of the United railroad is suspended.

A FOOLISH THING.

There are some people, who have but little acquaintance with the Greater Plainfield situation, who have been demanding that the referendum to the annexation bill be extended so that all the voters of Somerset county have a chance to express themselves on the question instead of allowing just North Plainfield to decide its own future. The injustice and absurity of such a proposition is recognized by those who understand the merits of the question.

It is a known and recognized fact that North Plainfield and the rest of Somerset county differ materially. The borough's interests are similar to those of Plainfield. The remainder of the county is rural and has vastly different aims and desires. North Plainfield is progressive, always anxious to be up-to-date and to secure the latest modern methods. The rest of the county is conservative to an extreme degree, fearing to adopt the ways of the growing community and thereby spending far more in support of the antiquated methods.

If the question of annexation were put to the people of Somerset county, it would certainly be voted down, even if every man in North Plainfield desired it. North Plainfield is united to an uncongenial county. Friendly neighbors are ready and willing to receive that municipality. It is a question which North Plainfield and North Plainfield alone should decide. Is the present condition of affairs, a community divided against itself, to be allowed to continue simply to satisfy the selfish desires of the scattered inhabitants of a district marked out by purely imaginary lines? Certainly not. Governor Franklin Murphy recognized the right of North Plainfield to decide for itself when he placed his signature to the annexation bill. So will any fair-minded person when the situation is carefully reviewed.

In justice to Homer J. Wightman, the supervising principal of the borough schools, a correction should be noted of a statement made at the final annexation hearing before the governor, which reflected on the official conduct of his office. The impression was given that he had endeavored to instill opposition to the proposition in the minds of the High School pupils by delivering a talk against it. The real fact is that it has been his custom to lecture from time to time on topics of current interest and that the subject of annexation had been dwelt upon in this connection. The bills were explained and incidently the reasons advanced by others for and against them were detailed. He did not take a stand one way or the other, his method being to let the pupils work out the problem, whatever it may be in a given instance, to their own satisfaction.

If the bill signed by Governor Murphy for the transfer of North Plainfield to Union county should result by the action of the North Plainfield voters in a change in the county line, the old joke would have to cease that the ministers of the First Baptist church preach so loud they can be heard in the next county.

LEAGUE TEAMS MET DEFEAT

Cooney on third, and Allen behind the bat for the Safe Works, played in "star" shape. The former played in his old time form to the great delight of his many admirers.

The Dunellen players distinguished themselves both singly and collectively although there were no startling features. Kuldoshes, Craig and F. Giddes were noticeable for good work at a number of times.

At several critical points the Plainfielders might have pulled up with a few good hits, but they were not forthcoming. On the other hand, Symons allowed a number of hits which counted heavily.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

SAFE WORKS.		DUNELLEN.
Gaston	ss	Giles
Cooney	3b	Craig
Connors	2b	Ayers
Ward	cf	A. Giddis
Symons	p	Ethinger
Evans	1b	F. Giddis
Fish	rf	Rhinehart
Allen	c	Kuldoshes
Jackson	lf	Herlick

N. P. H. SCHOOL BEATEN.

In an eight inning game North Plainfield High School's nine succumbed to the strong aggregation representing the Perth Amboy High School in a good game of baseball played on the Mrytle avenue grounds Saturday afternoon. The final score was 15 to 5, and this about represents the relative strength of the contesting teams.

North Plainfield started out well but in the fourth inning, Armstrong got wild and allowed five men to take their base on balls. This happened again in the sixth inning, but with the exception of these two innings he held the batters down firmly. Owenes, Overton, Woodland and Emmons put up a good all around article of ball, and Humble did some clever work with the bat. Stevens, at third base, has not improved since the last game, and four errors were credited to him.

There was a large crowd present, and despite the apparent one-sidedness of the contest, much interest was taken.

Search for Cures.

Among the many enterprises stimulated by the king the search for a cancer cure is by no means the least notable. The disease has unquestionably increased in frequency in late years, and no doubt its sadly fatal ravages among his own relatives prompted the king, when prince of Wales, to appeal to the medical men for a cure. The two royal colleges of physicians and surgeons have just decided to combine their forces and organize a system of investigation in search of a remedy. At present the doctor's knowledge of cancer is mainly empiric, and he can treat only symptoms with any confidence. It is not often that carefully devised official investigations have led to revolutions in medical science; the great advances have usually been made by individuals of industry, imagination and courage, such as Jenner and Lister and Pasteur and Koch. But the joint committee, composed of leading men from both the royal colleges, should be able to bring together many dry bones of experience, which some medical genius may yet make live.—London Chronicle.

Just Naturally Couldn't.

Here's a new one from Newton. Two of the fair young fashionables of that city went on a calling tour the other afternoon. After leaving cards at two places they rang the bell at Mrs. C.'s. It was answered by a broad-faced all-around servant girl.

"Is Mrs. C. at home?"

"No, mum."

"Well, will you kindly give her our cards?" And the visitors produced a couple of immaculate engravures.

"Oi'm sorry, mum, but Oi can't!" was Bridget's remarkable reply. She produced one broad palm from under her apron, and pulled the other from behind her back. They were covered with soft, sticky dough.

"But Oi'll till ye what ye'se can do. Oi'll take thim in me mouth!" The callers demurred, giggled, and finally acted on the suggestion. But Mrs. C. hasn't yet heard of the unique "special delivery" system which Bridget has inaugurated in Newton.—Boston Herald.

Wind as a Destroyer.

Dr. A. A. Julien recently brought before the New York academy of sciences evidence to show that the ravages wrought upon sea bluffs during great storms are often due to the wind as much as to the ocean waves. Sand and salt spray driven for hours before a violent wind act like a gigantic sand-blast, eating away, with surprising rapidity, the layers of gravel and sand of which many projecting headlands are composed. The surfaces of bodies exposed to such a wind are soon pitted. In a great gale in 1899 a single night sufficed to convert the window-panes of the life-saving station at Truro into ground glass.—Youth's Companion.

A Superstitious Woman.

"I don't say that women are more superstitious than men," said a well-known bachelor yesterday, "but a lady I know did a foolish thing the other day on account of a foolish superstition that no man I am acquainted with would have done. It happened the day it rained so hard. The lady lives near Lincoln park, and she had some business at the Center market. She had gone only a few steps from her house when she discovered that she had forgotten her pocketbook, and did not have as much as a penny in her pocket. Did she go back? Not much. Her superstition was that it was the height of bad luck to turn back after once leaving the house until your errand was completed. So she kept religiously on her way, and not having carfare, walked over two miles in the cold rain, when she might have spared herself all the self-imposed hardships by simply walking back a few feet into the house. She got wringing wet and lost her temper completely, but she successfully (to her own mind at least) avoided the possibility of placing herself under the spell of bad luck."—Washington Star.

Water with Fixed Air.

A magazine published in 1823 gives the following method to improve water for drinking: Let the water, when boiled, be put into a common barrel churn, where it may be agitated to any degree that may be wished for. In the course of its being thus agitated it will absorb atmospheric air, and other elastic fluids with which it may come in contact. It will thus become a liquor, safe, palatable and wholesome, to be obtained with little trouble and expense, and accessible in its utmost perfection to the poorest individual. Those who wish to drink this wholesome beverage in its utmost perfection should, after having it boiled and filtered, cause it to be churned as above directed, then bottled, with a couple of dried raisins in each bottle; this will give it a sufficient quantity of fixed air. If then used it becomes truly delicious.—Detroit Free Press.

Was He Dead?

Old black Kate had been absent from the Parkers' kitchen for some days in attendance on her sick husband, a Herbert Spencer looking individual, whom she never called by any more familiar title than "Mr. Tilman."

One evening Mr. Parker went to see how the sick man was getting along.

The unexpected sight of streamers of woe on the bell handle so confused him that when Kate herself opened the door he blunderingly asked:

"How is Mr. Tillman, Kate?"

Kate, always serious, was solemnity personified as she answered:

"Mr. Tillman, sir, is laid out."—Linda C. Tulloch, in Lippincott's Magazine.

Bygones.

The traveler registered his name in the dingy and dilapidated book pertaining to the only hotel at the mining camp:

"J. Giglets, Buffland, N. Y."

"Seems to me I've seen that name before," remarked the landlord.

"Probably," replied the traveler, with conscious pride. "I served three successive terms in congress."

"O, well," rejoined the landlord, tolerantly, "I won't lay it up agin you, and you'll git along all right with the boys, I guess. You don't need to mention it, you know."—Chicago Tribune.

Porto Rico a Sea-King.

An easy geological metaphor is that Porto Rico is a sea king, guarding the United States upon the southeast, and holding in his hand a glittering trident made up of the little isles St. Thomas, St. John and St. Croix. That these Danish West Indies are about to become the property of the United States is, since the signing of the treaty between Denmark and our government, only a matter of ratification by the senate and the payment of $5,000,000.

The Classical Cannibal.

"But why," asked the sub-chief of the Cannibal Isles, "do you insist upon having the man who fell while leading the charge against us served up at the banquet this evening. He seems to be as hard as nails."

"Huh!" answered the chief of the Cannibal Isles, "I read in a book of poetry left by our last meal that 'the bravest are the tenderest.'"—Baltimore American.

Thrift.

"Have a cigar?" said his friend, handing him one.

"Thanks," said Mr. Tyte-Phist, cutting it in two, lighting one section, and putting the other in his pocket. "I'll smoke the rest of it after awhile."—Chicago Tribune.

Light Echoes from Distant Space.

Among the many suggestions offered to account for the swift expansion of the nebulous rings surrounding Nova Persei, none seems more captivating to the imagination than that of Prof. Kapteyn in a recent number of the Astronomische Nachrichten, where he suggests that the phenomenon may be due to the echoing of light. At the probable distance of Nova Persei from the earth the observed velocity of the expansion exactly equals the velocity of light. That being so, it is only necessary to suppose the space surrounding the new star to contain scattered nebulous or meteoric matter, from which the light of the explosion that produced the star is reflected to us at greater and greater distances from the star as the light expands around it. It is like the reflection of the sound of an explosion taking place in a hilly country, and coming to our ears in a succession of echoes as it reaches more and more distant ranges.—Science.

Commerce of London.

For some 20 centuries the commerce of London has drifted up with the tide, and down with the tide. The strenuous Romans of old found a town of the Britains at Lin-dyn, and conquered it; and the strenuous Saxons conquered the town the Romans had left. The strenuous Danes made themselves masters of the Saxons, and then came the strenuous William of Normandy, and built the massive tower over there to dominate the city and port. But in London to-day the commerce still drifts, and is steered. None of the great ports of the world has had a longer or more varied history; it is the heart of the greatest of commercial nations, and the cradle of the mistress of the seas; but it is still regulated by the tide. It is at last well proved, this philosophy of drifting and steering. Who can say that it will not continue to rule the world for another 2,000 years? Its methods are not brilliant, but they are sure.—Scribner's.

Lethal Chamber for Dogs.

A lethal chamber for the destruction of lost dogs has been provided for the Paris pound. Thirty condemned dogs are placed in a cage, which is rolled onto a platform, which by hydraulic force sinks about six feet into the earth and is hermetically closed. Carbonic acid gas is turned on, and in the space of 40 seconds every dog dies without a struggle. By the old system—the use of common gas—the dogs suffered for sometimes two and three minutes. In the London pounds an admixture of carbonic acid gas and chloroform is used, but it was decided here that as carbonic acid gas is one of the most powerful anaesthetics known the chloroform was superfluous. The cost of this lethal chamber was almost 10,000 francs ($1,930).—N. Y. Sun.

Tory Island.

Tory islands is about to be cleared of its inhabitants. Having neither paid rents nor taxes for years, they have been served wholesale with ejectment processes. The population of Tory island is almost 300. The island is nine miles from the Donegal mainland. The people there choose their own king and live chiefly by fishing and kelp manufacture. The government is placing a warship at the landlord's disposal. It was on Tory island that the gunboat Wasp foundered 20 years ago.—Belfast (Ireland) News.

Swallowed His Fortune.

A Paris paper gives an account of a remarkable operation performed on an Arab. The unfortunate son of the desert, frightened at the approach of evil-eyed strangers, swallowed his fortune of 107 francs, consisting of five-franc and two-franc pieces. As it would have endangered his life to leave this money in its novel security vault, he was operated upon, and after much search 105 francs 50 centimes were recovered. The patient was 63 years of age.

Nothing Sold in the Capitol.

One of the strictest rules about the capitol at Washington, is that no goods of any kind shall be sold there, other than what is handled in the senate and house restaurants. Some years ago vendors were allowed to sell curios in the corridor near the entrance to the house of representatives, but that has long been discontinued. Even a newspaper cannot now be purchased within the precincts of the capitol.—Indianapolis News.

Smoke Made Useful in Berlin.

In Brussels, Milnes and other Belgian towns a novel method of not only getting rid of smoke but turning it into use has recently been employed. The smoke is driven by a ventilating fan into a filter filled with porous material, over which a continuous steam of petroleum, benzine, alcohol or some liquid hydrocarbon flows. The result is that the smoke is entirely suppressed, while the filter yields a gas of great calorific power, which can be used for heating purposes and for driving gas engines. The filtering material itself also becomes a good combustible.—Industrial Journal.

Authors' Temptations.

The temptation to a writer to reveal facts under the cloak of fiction is enormous, but the danger is equally great. There are few successful writers at the present day who have not been accused of "putting people in their books." To a certain class of readers there is an immense piquancy added to any character who may be suspected of being "real," and the success that an autobiograhphical "society novel" would achieve is too brilliant to contemplate."—Court Journal.

How He Failed.

"Was your son a success on the board of trade?"

"Hardly," replied the disgruntled father. "He tried to run a corner the first thing, but he picked out the wrong commodity."

"What did he try to corner?"

"Wild oats, as near as I can make out, and it looks to me as if I had paid for nearly the whole crop raised that year."—Chicago Post.

Have Much Faith in Milk.

The Chinese have the idea that milk revives the youthful powers and that it has special virtue as winter food for old people. Pictures and characters illustrating this idea, as well as the value of it for baby food, would without doubt increase the sale of American milk in China, as one of the consuls suggests.—Chicago Chronicle.

Rapid Transit.

"I've been on this road ten years," said the conductor on a southern railroad to a passenger who complained of the slow time, "an' I know what I'm talkin' about."

"Ten years, eh?" said the passenger. "What station did you get on at?"—Stray Stories.

Acquired Skill.

One of the Unemployed—I wish I had money enough so I shouldn't have to work for a living."

Another of Them—So do I. In that case, you know, it would be so easy to get a job."—Boston Transcript.

Not Conciliatory.

"Mrs. Fijit says that her husband is the most contrary man she ever knew."

"What has he done now?"

"He says he will oppose her suit for a divorce and alimony."—Brooklyn Life.

A Scientific Pied Piper.

Dr. Robert Koch, chiefly known, in a popular way, through his efforts toward the cure of consumption, is going to act as a sort of scientific pied piper of Germany in an attempt to rid the empire of rats, which are supposed to be a potent factor in the spreading of contagious diseases.

Bacteria in Ink.

The authorities of Minden, Germany, have made a bacteriological examination of school inks. Most of the specimens examined contained bacteria, which, when animals were inoculated with them, often proved fatal.

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, April 3, 1902, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present—18

The minutes of the previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted) were on motion approved as read.

PETITIONS, COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From Charles D. Reese, Township Clerk, Westfield, N. J., as follows:

Westfield, N. J., March 22, 1902.

Board of Chosen Freeholders, Elizabeth, N. J.

Gentlemen: The Township Committee have directed me to call your attention to the bridge under Broad street, through the centre and business portion of the town, which is not large enough to take off the volume of water which has been increased during the last ten years owing to the changes in grading throughout the town. The Committee respectfully request your honorable body to kindly give this matter your earnest consideration, and if possible provide an new bridge of larger dimensions.

(Signed) Very respectfully yours,

Chas. D. Reese, Township Clerk.

A communication from Chas. D. Reese, Township Clerk, etc,. of similar purport to the foregoing, and addressed to Freeholder Scudder of Westfield, was also read.

On motion of Freeholder King, the two communications were received and placed on file.

From Wilcox, Blauvelt & Tuttle, Attorneys, etc.

March 12, 1902.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentelemen: We have been retained by Mrs. Margaret R. Thompson, wife of J. Walter Thompson, Esquire, of New York City. Mrs. Thompson is the owner of the property located on the corner of Union avenue and North avenue, in the township of Cranford.

We understand that your Honorable Board is aware of the fact that damages have been done to this prpoerty, due to the action of the Board of Chosen Freeholders in connection with the sewer.

From the facts which have been submitted to us, we are of the opinion that the county of Union is responsible for the damages which have been done.

This matter has been pending for a long time, and we have no hesitation in saying that Mrs. Thomspon is desirous of making an amicable settlement of her claim, if possible, and would be willing to accept a much smaller sum in settlement than the actual amount of her damages, if the same can be adjusted without litigation, and the object of this latter is to make this offer to you.

She will release the county from all claim if they will pay her the sum of $457.65, which represents certain actual expenditures made necessary by the damages. We are willing to satisfy you by satisfactory evidence, if necessary, of the payment of the above amount, which does not include additional damages which Mrs. Thompson has suffered as a result of injury to the goods of her tenants stored in the cellar of her premises, nor for the loss of tenants on account of the injury to her property.

It is understood that this offer is made by way of compromise, and in case it is not accepted, will not represent the amount of damages which we will claim.

Very respectfully yours,

(Signed)

Wilcox, Blauvelt & Tuttle,

Briggs, Drill & Harding.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell, received and referred to the County Roads Committees and County Attorney.

From F. A. Demarest, general superintendent, etc., as follows:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, State of New Jersey:

That whereas the city of Elizabeth in an ordinance dated the 29th day of December, 1901, has granted unto us certain rights and privileges, and that in pursuance of said rights and privileges it is necessary to cross certain bridges spanning the Elizabeth river as follows: On South Broad street, Rahway avenue, West Jersey treet, West Grand street, and Westfield Avenue, we do hereby respectfully petition your honorable body that you grant to us in accordance with such regulations and restrictions as you may deem proper, premission to cross said bridges with our underground conduit.

Yours very truly,

Inter-State Telephone Company,

By F. A. Demarest,

General Superintendent.

Freeholder McCandless moved that the foregoing petition be received and referred to a committee of three and county attorney with power which was so ordered on roll-call by an unanimous vote.

The director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders McCandless, King and Krouse.

From H. G. McCully, Supt., etc., as follows:

Newark, N. J., March 31, 1902.

To the Honorable Board of Freeholders, Union county, N. J.:

Gentlemen: Under an ordinance granting permission to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to "lay and maintain underground conduits in the city of Elizabeth" we are authorized to place same on South Broad Street, West Jersey Street and Westfield Avenue. In placing conduits on these streets it will be necessary to cross bridges at their intersection with the Elizabeth River.

We, therefore, make application for your permission to place conduits on these bridges, and we agree to do the work in a substantial and workmanlike manner.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed)

The New York and N. J. Telephone Co.

By H. G. McCully, Supt.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell, it was ordered that the foregoing communication take the same course, and be referred to same committee, as ordered in the petition of F. A. Demarest, general superintendent, heretofore presented.

From Carroll Ph. Bassett, Treasurer, as follows:

Summit, N. J., March 28, 1902.

To the Director and Board of Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

My Dear Sirs: On the main road between Summit and Chatham at the Passaic River, you have erected and are maintaining three bridges; the main truss bridge over the Passaic River, a plate girder bridge over the race leading to the old Edwards mill and a plate girder bridge over an old storm overflow channel. The latter bridge and channel is immediately east of our electric power station, and we hereby submit a proposal for relieving you from the necessity of maintaining this bridge. We will premanently dike off and fill a section of our mill pond so as to prevent any water passing out through this overflow channel; fill the channel including the roadway and build a substantial stone road where the bridge now stands provided you will give us the bridge. The bridge as it now stands needs repairs and is a continual source of maintenance expense to the county, all of which expense would be avoided under our proposal.

We would propose to make the improvements suggested in a manner to meet your approval. The changes suggested which we would have to make would cost several hundred dollars, but when completed would substantially improve the conditions existing in the locality in case of heavy storms.

Very respectfully submitted,

(Signed)

Carroll Ph. Bassett, Treasurer.

Freeholder Farrell moved that the foregoing proposal be referred to Freeholders Swain and Cady of Summit, the county attorney, and F. J. Hubbard, civil engineer, with power, which was so ordered after some discussion on roll-call by an unanimous vote.

From John Macintosh, per B. M. & S. R. Ogden, Agents, as follows:

Elizabeth, N. J., March 3, 1902.

Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County:

Gentlemen: I desire to call your attention to a matter concerning property on Newark avenue. Last summer, while the asphalt pavement was being laid on North Broad street, there was a great deal of disarranging of the running of the trolley cars. To help out, they placed a temporary switch on Newark avenue, which extended from the front of my house, No. 559 Newark avenue, to the front of Mrs. Knapp's property. In September last they abandoned this switch. The matter was then taken up with the vice president of the trolley, Mr. David Young, and he was asked to please have the switch removed. After considerable correspondence, which covered a period of over two months, the objectionable switch was removed; but instead of restoring the track as it was formerly, they have but in a permanent switch in the place of the temporary one, which is not much better, so far as the annoyance goes, to the neighborhood than the one removed, although it is somewhat milder. Great discomfort has been suffered by tenants night and day from the switch that was there last summer, but knowing the reason why it was put in they did not complain, but when it came to having a permanent switch put in, and have the nuisance fixed in front of the property permanently, it is another matter.

I understand that your Honorable Body have given no consent to have a switch put in at this place, and I respectfully ask you to take action in the matter and have it removed. It would seem that the one on North Broad street, near Newark avenue, ought to be sufficient for all their needs.

Yours respectfully,

(Signed) John Macintosh,

Per B. M. & S. R. Ogden, Agents,

On motion of Freeholder Farrell, received and referred to the County Roads Committee and County Attorney.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the Committee on Addition to the County Jail, as follows:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen: Your committee, appointed at the last meeting of the Board for the purpose of advertising and procuring bids for the addition to the county jail, respectfully report that they advertised for such bids in the principal papers in the cities of Elizabeth, Plainfield and Rahway, and they received their bids, which were opened by your committee on the 31st day of March last, and after carefully figuring the different bids and advising with Mr. Ackerman, one of the architects, it has been ascertained that the bid of The William T. Kiirk Company, amounting to the sum of $29,990, is the lowest bid, and he having complied with all of the requirements of the specifications respecting said bid, we recommend that the contract be awarded to that company.

(Signed) J. F. Hubbard,
John Farrell,
Jacob Brucklacher,
Committee.

Freeholder King moved that the report be received and that the recommendations therein contained be adopted, which was so ordered on roll-call, by an unanimous vote.

Freeholder King, chairman of the county road committee reported progress on the matter of bad conditions of Westfield Avenue near New Orange Railroad crossing, heretofore brought to the attention of this board by Mr. Geo. B. Benedict.

Freeholder Swain, chairman of special committee on repairs to line bridge between Morris and Union Counties at Stanley, reported that the committee of this board had met a similar committee from the Morris County Board, and after due examination and conference it was thought that nceessary repairs to said bridge could be made for $200.00. The committee would like to be authorized to proceed with the repairs and contract with The W. T. Kirk Company for same, provided further examination showed that cost of repairs would not exceed $200.00. If said work should be likely to exceed $200.00 then the committee would report back to this board for further instructions.

It was ordered that the committee proceed in the way as requested.

NEW BUSINESS

By Freeholder Scudder: "Resolved, That a committee of five (5) be appointed to examine into the advisibility of constructing a new iron beam bridge over the brook on Broad Street near Prospect Street, Westfield, N. J., the comimttee to report at the next meeting of the board."

Women as Insurance Risks.

The majority of companies charge women higher premiums, the difference in this respect being illogical, while not a small number make no extra charge whatsomever. The claim is made that the increased risk is actually justified by the function of maternity. Some companies, therefore, make no extra charge after the age of 50. It is pertinently asked why some companies find female risks profitable at ordinary rates. We suspect the explanation of the whole problem will be found to lie in prejudice and custom, and that great financial success will come to those companies which invite the ladies at ordinary rates. There is no reason in vital statistics for excluding or fining them.—American Medicine.

Fizz Water for Senators.

United States senators are supplied with bottled mineral waters at government expense. Nearly every committee room has something like a bar attachment. It is usually in one corner, behind a screen and next to the washbowl. The bottles of fizz water are supplied by colored messengers, who bring them in buckets of ice, like champagne. The excuse for the expense is the poor quality of the Potomac water.—Washington Star.

NEW WOMAN NEWS

THERE are things that occasionally make even the New Woman discouraged with her sex, for a little while at least, not long. She always picks up and goes on again presently in full faith that the natural common sense and the brains in women's heads will bring them around right sooner or later, certainly in 5,000 years or so more. One of the discouraging phases of the woman question is the awful, the unclean, the villainous long skirts women drag about on the street. Some of these even in front trail two inches upon the ground. I have noticed, too, that the poorer a woman is and the less able she is to buy new gowns the longer this unclean, troublesome trail of goods is. It is very common to see a poor laborer's wife plowing her way along the street with a baby wagon, a three-year-old child hanging to her dress, another a little older the other side of her and she with a cheap, badly made skirt slopping upon the ground several inches of its length. It is so soiled and unpleasant looking that no clean woman would let it cross her threshold, and yet that poor, bedraggled, shabby creature flatters herself she is gowned in the height of Fifth avenue mode. It is the pleasing custom of that noble lady, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, when a woman, millionaire or working girl, comes to see her to give that woman a rating that she does not soon forget if she has ventured into the presence wearing a street mop for a skirt. The noble lady has gone so far as to say that no street mop should come into her beautiful boudoir, bringing with it microbes of disease and poison and divers things unpleasant for her to think of. I have known of those who when they saw one of these villainous skirts directly in front of them could not resist the temptation to set a foot upon it and rip or tear it tremendously.

Every spring, when the sunshine and the long days come again, without fail I get a fever on me to go to the country and raise flowers and chickens. I never do it, but ever the longing comes back. In New York city eggs have been between 35 and 50 cents a dozen much of the winter. A friend who has no particular facilities for housing and nesting hens beyond a comfortable barn basement and an ordinary board poultry house tells me that without any special care on her part her few fowls have given her a dozen eggs a day the cold weather through. To be sure, she knows the right breed to have and the right mixture of food for them, but the hens themselves do all the rest.

The French government has lately given several war medals to women who earned them during the Franco-Prussian contest. One of the women, Mme. Laurin, actually fought in the ranks as a zouave soldier. She was taken prisoner by the Germans, but her shrewdness enabled her to escape. Another woman war veteran receiving a medal is Mlle. Dodu, a telegraph operator, who tapped the wires and rtole messages the Prussians were sending concerning army movements. A third woman decorated is Mme. Benon, who was an army nurse.

Now it looks as if a woman can even design a railroad car better than a man can. The private car of the family of Mr. T. Ryan, a railway director, was designed by Mrs. Ryan and built according to her orders. The Ryans were traveling in their car in Texas when they encountered a wreck and a smash up, in which the only car left whole was that planned by the woman.

In Europe more women work in balloon making factories than men. One Frenchwoman, Mme. Lechambre, will start such a factory of her own in the United States.

A New York city girl, Miss Emma Lonsdale, found a negro burglar in her room. What did she do—scream or faint? This is what: "I grabbed him and asked him what he wanted. He said he was looking for the janitor. I found my silver watch and silver knife in his pockets. Then I called the hallboy, and he watched him while I ran out and found a policeman."

Some time since a woman was committed to an insane asylum who was the mother of fourteen children, and the care of them had driven her crazy No wonder.

The first woman suffrage petition in England was presented to parliament in 1867, and it was signed by 1,449 names. The latest one, presented last year, was signed by 257,000 women. Woman's rights is dead, is it?

Mrs. Bernard Shields has been appointed press agent for a leading theater in New Orleans. The appointment is every way suitable in this particular instance, and there is every reason why women elsewhere should obtain such a post. They seem particularly fitted for it, and a lady of tact, pleasing address, good temper and acquaintance with her business could equal the best man alive as press or advance agent for lectures and theatrical companies.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"I'm telling you the truth," averred Guy, flushing at this point-blank doubt of his veracity. "They wanted me to come out here alone and talk with them on an important matter. The appointment was made by letter, received this morning. Naturally I had no time to inform Miss Vlandingham that I was under surveillance and if she sees you she'll think I brought you. You've been a capital fellow all along, Pettibone. Be one now, can't you? Stay here while I go out and talk with them."

"And put up a job for beating Concord out of the county seat, eh? Not much! You're a little the most peculiar fellow I ever saw, Herbert. With as big a bunch of lots as you've got in Concord you're willing to throw up everything on account of a chit of a girl like Betty Vlandingham."

"See here," retorted Guy, warmly, "Miss Vlandingham is a lady, and not the kind of a girl to try to put up a job, as you call it, with any one. I am just as loyal to Concord as you are, every whit. Heaven knows I ought to be, for if we lose the county seat I shall be a financial wreck and will have to hunt around for somebody who wants a bookkeeper. Have a little reason, Pettibone." Guy implored, casting a hasty glance in the direction of the ladies and noting that Miss Vlandingham was standing up in the buggy and looking around perplexedly. "If I don't go out pretty soon they'll think I'm not coming. Stay here and keep quiet and I'll give you a block of lots."

"You can't bribe me," answered Pettibone; "and you can't go out there either."

The steely flash shot into Guy's eyes and the lines tightened at the corners of his mouth.

"You refuse to let me pass?" he demanded, as Pettibone stepped in front of him.

"I certainly do. Everybody in Concord wanted you locked up, because, as they said, you were ruining the chances of the town with your gadding about. But I says: 'No. He's a young gentleman,' says I, 'and a pair of blue eyes have a fascination for him,' I says. 'I'll take him in tow and watch him,' I says, 'and see to it that he doesn't communicate with the enemy, with that particular enemy,' I says, 'any more.' Now, that's what I done, Herbert, and here you are, first jump out of the box, trying to get me into trouble. You don't go out there, I tell you flat."

"And I tell you that I am going," answered Guy, vehemently.

He made a spring to the left with the intention of darting past the sheriff; but the latter was fully as quick and threw himself sideways, catching Guy's arm and clinging to him like a leech. Panting, the two stood for a second and gazed at each other.

"I don't wish to hurt you, Pettibone," said Guy, in a terse tone, "but I assure you I am going out to talk with Miss Vlandingham. I'll do nothing treasonable, I promise you that. Won't you take the word of a gentleman?"

"I'm not taking anybody's word just now," was Pettibone's obstinate rejoinder. "Here you are and here you'll stay."

"Then look out for yourself."

With these words Guy closed with the sheriff. The young man had a splendid muscular development, which his appearance in a measure belied. He was likewise the possessor of a fair amount of fistic science and wrestling skill which his quiet demeanor and modest bearing were far from suggesting. A knowledge of all this was quickly made manifest to Pettibone and the realization that he had met more than his match was about the last tangible thought he had for several minutes. In a twinkling he was neatly thrown, and, in falling, his head came in contact with a tree root, so that he was stunned and his hold on Guy relaxed. After contracting strongly, his limbs were flung out with a jerk and he closed his eyes and lay motionless.

Guy was alarmed at first, but when he had pressed the tips of his fingers through Pettibone's thick hair, and felt the skull at the point where it had come in contact with the root, his apprehension vanished. There was nothing to worry over and the sheriff would be himself again very shortly. Removing Pettibone's coat, Guy wrapped it up compactly and placed it under his head; then he hurried to the buggy, and secured the halter rope that was under the seat. Coming back, he tied the sheriff's hands behind him with one end of the halter and secured the other end about the tree beside whose trunk the sheriff had fallen.

He worked rapidly, only a few minutes elapsing between his attack upon Pettibone and his final work with the halter. Without waiting an instant; Guy pushed through the intervening thicket and started down the grassy descent toward the carriage.

Miss Betty, a vexed expression on her pretty face had just tightened the lines with one of her gloved hands and taken the whip from its socket with the other, when she saw Guy approaching. The vexed look faded into a dazzling smile.

"Well, truant," cried Miss Betty, "did you remain away purposely to punish us for being late?"

His clothing was somewhat disarranged and a wondering light came into her eyes as she gazed at him. Miss Pinkney was as reserved as usual although she smiled in friendly spirit and evedently partook of her companion's curiosity.

"I came as quickly as I could, Miss Vlandingham," answered Guy, settling his collar and arranging his scarf. "Please pardon my disordered appearance—it could not be helped."

"You did not walk all the way here from Concord, did you?" she queried.

"No. The horse and buggy that brought me are over there among the trees. Your appointment was for four o'clock, if I remember."

"Yes, and I would have been here punctually but for Lois. She misunderstood that part of our programme and was late in getting to our house to accompany me. But here we are, at last, and if we have not entirely exhausted your patience, Mr. Herbert, perhaps I had better proceed at once with the matter which led me to seek this interview."

"Pardon me just a moment." Guy had advanced to the forward wheel on Miss Betty's side of the buggy. He was very close to her, and, in the few times he had seen her, she had never been more lovely in his eyes than she was then. The breeze had brought a fresh, ruddy color to her cheeks and her broad brimmed straw hat was most becoming. "I was going to ask you," proceeded Guy, conscious of an awkward pause, "if you were at home all the afternoon up to the time you left to drive here?"

"I was at home the entire afternoon," answered Miss Betty.

"And did you not receive my message?"

"Your message?" she echoed.

"Yes. I sent you a telegram."

"Then it was not delivered to me."

"That's strange," murmured Guy.

"What was the message?"

"Nothing very important."

"Messages are usually quite important if they are telegraphed."

"I should have said that it is not very important now, so we need not concern ourselves any further about it. As you said a moment ago, you are here, and I'm here, and we can talk over the matter about which you wished to see me. What is it, Miss Vlandingham?"

"Possibly I am acting a treasonable part," she answered, thoughtfully, "but I have already told you how I abhor any show of force, or suggestion of violence. The Concord people have not taken a course calculated to mollify the bitterness inseparable from a contest of this kind."

"I know that very well," said Guy, as Miss Betty paused. "Much of the evil was done before I reached Concord and, during the short time I have been in town, I have had no influence with the citizens whatever." Guy smiled as he said this, wondering what Miss Betty would think if he told her the plain truth of his situation. "If I wish to do anything that's really commendable," he added, "I'm obliged to resort to force and violence myself."

Miss Betty raised her eyebrows interrogatively, but Guy would not answer her unspoken question. In a few moments he cursed his folly for not doing so while he had the opportunity. A woeful misunderstanding would thus have been avoided.

"I hope no unpleasantness has resulted from the timely aid you gave those two Sisters of Charity?" said Miss Betty, demurely.

"I have only pleasure in the thought that I was able to assist them," answered Guy, gallantly.

POLITICS IN TURKEY.

Every Branch of the Government Steeped in Corruption.

Hassan Pasha, Minister of Marine, Could Give Our Own Ward Bummers Some Points—An Honest Grand Vizier.

According to the official register, the Turkish navy consists of 18 cruisers from 2,000 to 8,000 tons, 12 coast defense ships, six gunboats and 26 torpedo boats, but every one of them is useless except a few small gunboats stationed at different ports along the coast. The annual allotment of money for the supplies of the navy is about $3,200,000, but, according to the popular impression, a very small part of it is ever applied to the purpose for which it is intended. The navy yard on the Golden Horn is the most extraordinary marine morgue in existence. Long rows of vessels of the most antiquated pattern lie side by side, stripped of their machinery and equipments and fit only to be knocked to pieces for junk.

Hassan Pasha has the reputation of being the richest man and the most corrupt man in the Turkish government. He is supposed to be worth $40,000,000 or $50,000,000, all of which he has acquired while in the service of the government. He has great influence with the sultan. The latter considers him one of his most loyal and efficient officers and trusts him implicitly. It is said that Hassan would like to resign and enjoy his money in London or Paris, but dare not do so. The moment he suggested any such idea the sultan's suspicions would be excited, and it would be dangerous for Hassan to retire, because his successor would discover what has been going on in the navy department, and Hassan's head and his money would both be in danger.

Many other pashas are very rich, but they send their money out of the country as a precaution, for they never know when they may forfeit their sovereign's favor, and that usually means the confiscation of their estates and perhaps decapitation or imprisonment for life. When a prominent man disappears in Turkey no questions are asked. It is impolitic to be inquisitive.

SAID PASHA.

(Grand Vizier, or Prime Minister, of the Turkish Empire.)

Said Pasha, the grand vizier, says the Chicago Record Herald, is believed to be an honest man. He is one of the few prominent officials of the government who has not amassed a fortune while in office. For that and other reasons he has many bitter and revengeful enemies. Six years ago, when he was grand vizier, he endeavored to punish certain influential pashas for robbing the government. They engaged in a conspiracy against him and got the ear of the sultan. He believed their statements, and sent the Kapu-aghasi, chief of the white eunochs and first officer of the imperial bed chamber—the sultan's most confidential man—to summon Said Pasha to his presence. The kapu-aghasi is always an unwelcome messenger, because the sultan trusts him when he will trust nobody else. When he carries a message it has unusual significance.

Said Pasha understood the situation, and, instead of going to the palace, sought an asylum at the British embassy, where Lord Dufferin, then ambassador, gave him protection. Nobody knew what had become of the grand vizier until after seven days, when he sent a carefully prepared report of his proceedings and the motives of the conspiracy against him to the sultan by the hand of the British ambassador. The latter explained to the sultan his ideas of the case, and vouched for Said Pasha as an honest, truthful and loyal man. The sultan was not convinced, but agreed to accept Said Pasha's resignation without further proceedings, and gave a formal assurance that if his former prime minister left the embassy and returned to his own home he would not be injured. Lord Dufferin notified the sultan that the British government would hold him responsible for any injury that Said Pasha might suffer, and that in case of his death not even a plea of sickness would be accepted.

From that hour Said Pasha was the safest man in Turkey. The sultan sent his own physician and two of his most trusted aids-de-camp to live in his house to protect him, and, adopting Lord Dufferin's suggestion, made an investigation of the charges against him. Nobody knows how he got at the facts, but he executed some of his new favorites, sent others into exile and finally restored Said Pasha to power. He is still prime minister.

SPORTING NEWS

TENNIS.

The season has begun at the courts of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club. One court was completed in time to allow play to start Friday afternoon. The other is now ready for use. Quite a number of the club members were out Saturday afternoon for the first and some exciting sets were played. The board of governors will meet this week when President J. Hervey Doane will announce his committees for the year.

There was a good attendance of the tennis players of the Park Club on the club courts Saturday afternoon. Several of the members are rapidly developing a strong game and some exciting contests with the other clubs for the city are looked for this summer. The Park Club promises to sustain its reputation in these inter-club contests.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Regulars defeated the Crescents in a well played game of baseball Saturday afternoon on the Putnam avenue grounds. The score was 18 to 2. The Crescents only scored in the first and eighth innings, while their opponents had no trouble in making runs. The battery work of the Regulars was unusually good. Ray Pugh pitched and William Lambert was behind the bat. DeKay and Loizeaux was the battery for the Crescents.

INDOOR SPORTS.

A gymnastic contest, including work on the low bar, horse, parallels and high bar, took place at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening. Three moves were made on each, being one set and two free moves. It was possible to make 120 points and the result was: Walter Cahoone 100, W. Neal 92, and W. McNaughton 90½.

GOLF COURSE OPENED.

First Real Play of the Season Saturday Afternoon on Links of Park Golf Club.

The course of the Park Golf Club was opened for play Saturday afternoon and a goodly number of members turned out for their first play on the links. For a week, temporary greens have been used by those enthusiasts who wanted to try their hand in advance of the regular opening. The regular greens were put in service Saturday. The only exception was the new green to the second hole. The old green was utilized. It is expected, however, that the new one will be ready for play next Saturday when the first play for the President's cup is held.

While a little soft in places on the lower holes, the course was in fine condition, the turf showing up remarkably well. The careful work of John Calder, under the direction of the green committee, was everywhere evident.

Thought It Had Blown Up.

A surcharged steam chest blew out a gauge on William Stanbury's automobile, at Plainfield avenue and Fifth street, yesterday afternoon, while the owner was in Evergreen cemetery. The report was followed by a cloud of escaping steam which caused a run of small boys to the scene. Mr. Stanbury repaired the damage while one hundred of the irrepressibles directed the job.

For Their Friends.

Freedom Castle, K. G. E., will introduce some special features for benefit of friends after the regular session tomorrow evening. A smoker will be one of the events on the programme.

Building New House.

W. H. Kirch, the carpenter and builder, has just commenced the erection of a new house on Westervelt avenue for Leonard B. VanCamp, to cost $4,100.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cures such cases. M. B. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

SKETCH OF MARCONI.

The Social Side of the Youthful Electrical Inventor.

Wants to Be Agreeable with Everyone, But Scientific Bent Interferes—Recognized by Princes and Savants.

One of the best friends of Marconi, the youthful Italian inventor, recently called him a most unsocial individual. The observation is interesting, but it is not quite true. Marconi is not social in the sense of being a devotee of pink teas, receptions and the like, but he is the sort of man who makes a good companion to his intimates who know how to keep within the range of his interests.

And his range of interests is not limited, by any means. There are few subjects in the line of physical science or invention which he has not studied, and he is acquainted with the work of many inventors in other subjects. He plays the piano fairly well, having studied under a master for several years of his childhood. He is an all-round athlete. He speaks several languages. Now, a man does not have to be all of these things in order to be a successful inventor of wireless telegraphy. He is a great man in more ways than one.

The fact is, says the Washington Star, Marconi really wants to be sociable toward everyone, but his scientific side does not allow him to carry out his inclinations.

"I should like to go away from all the work and worry, and stay among pleasant people for a month or so," he said one day, "but I know that I should no sooner be away from my work than I would begin to think that I ought to be back at it and that I was wasting my time. That's why I cannot take a rest. I even work as hard on an ocean voyage as I do when I'm at one of my experimental stations. But I guess I have as much fun out of my work as most people do out of their social diversions."

GUGLIELMO MARCONI.
(The Young Italian Inventor of the Wireless Telegraph.)

Marconi likes American women, and, judging from the scores of invitations which he has received since his return to this country from leading society women of New York and other cities American women like Lim.

He is essentially a man of simple habits. He is an aristocrat of the common people, and, although he has always had more money than he cared to spend, he has never changed his style of living. He lives well, enjoys a good dinner, drinks a little wine and occasionally smokes a cigarette. The most important thing in the world to him is his work; the greatest affection he has for any person is for his mother. If he had his own way he would live a quiet life in some country place where he could work undisturbed by newspaper reporters or lion hunters. The glare of publicity has been on him so long that it is little wonder that he wearies of the attention, no matter how kindly meant it may all be.

To strangers, Marconi is a curious mixture of reserve, modesty, diffidence and indifference, if such a mixture of terms may be taken at one breath. He cares little for the praise of men, for the sake of the honeyed words themselves. He does care for the good opinions of the men who really understand his work and for the recognition of the leading men of the world.

He was asked one day what his outlook on life and his work was, and he replied:

"I feel that I must do the work that I am in, and that nothing shall stop me. When the work wins the commendation of those who understand it I am pleased. The one thing I do like about the success which I have attained is that it has brought me into close touch with the greatest living men of the world. That is worth something."

In that remark Marconi revealed all of the social ambition he has. He wants to know the leading men of the world, and for a man not yet 28 years of age one must admit he has made a good beginning. He is intimately acquainted with the king and queen of Italy, with King Edward VII. of England and with many of the royal family. The king of the Belgians is an acquaintance, and scores of princes, dukes, counts, lords and knights are proud to claim this young man as their friend. Lord Kelvin, one of England's most distinguished scientists, takes the highest interest in Marconi's work.

—C. G. Pierson and family, who have been stopping at The Audubon, New York, for some time past, have returned to Plainfield and taken up their residence again at 948 West Seventh street,

IS NO BROTHER.

Stranger Tried to Borrow Money From Mrs. Denton on Ground He Was Brother of a Plainfielder.

A well-dressed young man of polite manners rushed into Mrs. L. J. Denton's store on West Front street, Saturday afternoon, and tried to secure the loan of $10, saying he wanted it for his brother, a well-known young man formerly of this city. He said that his brother and two young women were across the street and the money was wanted to provide a carriage drive for the quartette. The young man explained that their father was away and the money would be refunded as soon as he returned.

Mrs. Denton was alone at the time but had just deposited all her money. She informed the young man of this fact, but he insisted on the loan, stating that it would be all right. Finally, Mrs. Denton said if his brother wanted the money he ought to come and ask for it himself. The stranger then left the store.

The young men referred to has not lived in Plainfield in some time, besides he has no brother.

PULL DID NOT WORK.

A Tammany Man's Experience with Mr. Lewis Nixon.

New Head of New York's Great Political Organization Has a Record That Is Not Pleasing to the Ward Bummers.

Mr. Lewis Nixon, the new leader of Tammany hall, represents the most pronounced departure from the traditions of that organization. Heretofore the Tammany leader has always been a man whose sole occupation was politics. From Tweed to Croker the boss depended for a living on the organization and the power that he wielded. Tweed made millions upon millions by robbing the city. John Kelly, who wrested the power from Tweed, though undoubtedly an honest man so far as the direct taking of money was concerned, went into the organization poor and died worth a quarter of a million. Richard Croker is reputed to be a millionaire several times over. Since he went actively into politics he has never been engaged in any pursuit that yielded an income except for short periods when he served as fire commissioner and city chamberlain.

Now comes a man whose record is such as to make it certain that instead of making money out of politics he will lose it. Mr. Nixon has coined his time into money at a rate that must seem fabulous to most men. Though very young, he has through his own exertions built up one of the most extensive shipbuilding enterprises in the country. At his yard at Elizabethport there is work under way of the value of $5,000,000 or $6,000 000. In addition he has gone extensively into the business of building automobiles. Outside of these pursuits he is also actively engaged as director in a number of other important enterprises.

He had the reputation, even before assuming the active leadership of Tammany hall, of being the busiest man in the metropolis. Every minute of every day was laid out carefully in advance, and he transacted his business on an exact time schedule. He moved about from place to place and from office to office with as much precision as a railroad train. By consulting his secretary it was possible always to strike him at any point at any time no matter in how wide a circle he moved. He generally began work at eight o'clock in the morning and kept steadily at it until seven in the evening, when he went home to dine.

HON. LEWIS NIXON.
(Executive Head of New York's Tammany Hall Democracy.)

Out of a day as compactly filled as this Mr. Nixon now devotes at least three hours in each 24 to the affairs of Tammany hall. At nine o'clock in the morning or at three in the afternoon he is to be found at his desk in the wigwam where, since his advent as chief, the affairs of Tammany are once more transacted instead of at the Democratic club in upper Fifth avenue, which was the Tammany headquarters under the Croker regime.

Probably no other topic is proving of such extraordinary interest to the citizens of New York as the question of what Mr. Nixon will be able to accomplish in Tammany hall. He is opposed to everything for which the ruling powers in the wigwam have for many years stood. He is a man of high honor, and any one who should offer him a bribe, no matter how disguised, would probably not revive for several hours, for Mr. Nixon stands over six feet in his stockings and hits straight from the shoulder. The Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post says that an interesting incident occurred while Mr. Nixon was at the head of the East River bridge commission, the body that had charge of planning and building the new bridge between New York and the eastern district of Brooklyn. A henchman of one of the most prominent men in Tammany hall had got into an ugly scrape. To help him out it was necessary to secure the influence of a man who stood high in the community. The Tammany politician concluded that Mr. Nixon would do, and he sought him out at the office of the bridge commission. He stated his mission in a manner which took it for granted that his wish would be complied with. Mr. Nixon heard him to the end and then turned on him fiercely.

"You have," thundered the irate young shipbuilder, thumping his desk until the ink-well jumped, "the most infernal impudence to come to me with such a request! This fellow is a blackguard and a scoundrel, and I hope he will get everything that is coming to him under the law!"

When the Tammany man had sufficiently recovered his breath he mumbled an apology and slunk away.

MANY FAVOR DEBATE FOR BOROUGH BENEFIT

Mayor N. B. Smalley Approves the Idea of a Debate on Annexation and Consolidation.

SO DO MANY OTHERS.

MEETING SHOULD BE OPEN TO BOROUGH VOTERS ONLY.

Suggested That It Be Held at the Saengerbund Hall—Many Borough Citizens Are Anxious to Learn the True Facts.

The suggestion that the annexation and consolidation propositions be publicly debated has received popular endorsement in North Plainfield. This idea was originally proposed by Former Mayor William L. Saunders, and the concensus of opinion appears to be among the boroughites that this is the most feasible way to prepare the matter for an intelligent vote.

A public spirited citizen, and a large property owner, vouches the sentiment of the masses, it is believed, when he said to a Daily Press reporter, yesterday, that a campaign of education is needed. He points out that the real facts of the issue have been much misconstrued by over zealous opponents of [the measure signed by the Governor. He declares that many citizens frankly confess that they need information of a authentic nature, especially since the borough has been flooded with literature, which urges against annexation from a purely selfish standpoint.

From the eagerners of the many who want annexation and consolidation it does not appear that there will be any lack of volunteers to present the benefits of the proposition. Mr. Saunders, himself, has said that he and numerous others are prepared to debate the question at any time or place, provided the discussion be conducted in a proper manner. There were many in attendance at the last hearing before the Governor ready to detail the favorable reasons. They were necessarily denied this privilege because of the shortness of the conference, and from the ranks of these men will undoubtedly be chosen the speakers should a debate be held.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley said to a Daily Press reporter yesterday: "The action of The Daily Press in advocating debates has my approval. It's the only way to show what is to be gained by annexation. Some people supposed to be against annexation have told me that they are open to conviction, and I think it's only right that the subject should be explained. When they see it in its proper light they'll give up their opposition notions. We're ready and willing to meet anyone living in the borough and talk this question over. Saengerbund Hall is a large building and we can hold the meetings there.

"Of course only residents of the borough should be allowed to debate, for they are the ones whose interests are at stake. There ought to be some material among those who tried to induce the Governor against signing the bills."

Mayor Smalley thinks that admission to debate should be limited to borough voters. This he says is because they are the only ones to decide the question of annexation and they should be given an opportunity to listen to what's said. In all probability a series of debates will be held before the matter is put to vote.

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT C. M'VOY CELEBRATED THAT OCCASION.

Friends Gathered at Their Home on Sandford Avenue Last Evening for Pleasant Time.

The fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. McVoy was pleasantly celebrated last evening at their home on Sandford avenue, when a number of relatives and friends gathered to join in the festive occasion. Sociability was the feature of the evening, but an additional attraction was the excellent phonograph selections given by Councilman Clarence L. Murphy, who entertained the guests with popular selections.

The bride and groom received the hearty wishes of all for a continuance of their happy and successful married life. They were also the recipients of many handsome and useful gifts, including a colonial chair, an oak bookcase, carpet sweeper, an oak cabinet. There were also many smaller gifts such as a box of toothpicks, a sugar box, pie board, clothes hamper, etc.

During the later part of the evening refreshments were served after which the social features prevailed until a late hour. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McVoy, Mr. and Mrs. I. L. McVoy, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doud, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McVoy, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dobbins, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Leader, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Townley, Mrs. Thomas H. The comrades are also requested so far as possible to assist in the exercises in the public schools on the last school day preceding Memorial Day, and in accordance with the action taken at the thirtieth national encampment, the reading of President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg will be made a special feature in all Memorial Day exercises conducted under the auspices of the G. MRS. SMITH'S APPEARANCE.

This will be her first and only appearance in Plainfield this season, and she will appear in an entirely new programme including T. B. Aldrich's dramatic episode of Russian life, "Pauline Pavlovna," and a monologue, "A Midnight Courtship," written especially for Mrs. Smith by Pauline Phelps. Tickets are on sale at Randolph's drug store, West Front street.

Neither Was Pleased.,

Two bicycles ridden by John Conroy, of West Fourth street, and Wm. Symons, of East Third street, banged together at the corner of Park avenue and Front street, last evening. There was no damage, although Bill said John couldn't ride and John thonght out loud that Bill had ought to take a few lessons.

FACTS FROM REPORT OF JERSEY CENTRAL

Commercial Advertiser Points Out What Has Been Done During the Last Year.

A REMARKABLE RECORD.

OPERATING EXPENSES OF THE ROAD HAVE ACTUALLY DECREASED.

Increase in the Gross Receipts—A Large Part of Saving Has Been Due to Introduction of Large Capacity Cars—The Facts.

The organization of a railroad is a big machine where each cog must move with a certain relation to the other parts. Properly organized and adjusted it is a very perfect machine, and does most effective work. Once adjusted and set into operation it will run without much change for a long time. It is the part of the management to see that the adjustment is varied to meet new demands due to changed conditions. There have been times and there are railroads where the management made itself a part of the machine with a resulting lack of change or growth. This standing still of an organization or management may result from any one or more of many causes. Financial conditions requiring a maximum of daily detail work from each railroad officer has prevented development and change. Inability to grow with traffic or a hesitancy to change exisiting methods have been responsible for many failures to grasp profitable opportunities.

Up to a few years ago the directors of New Jersey Central were, apparently, satisfied with the earnings of their property. The same old methods and the same old equipment went with and over the same old track. There was a magnificent opportunity for the right man. And for this once the man and the opportunity met. The result has been gratifying, alike to the man and the stockholders of the Jersey Central. How successful have been the results some of the figures from the annual report for last year will show. First, because most important, are the year's receipts, which are as follows:

	1901.	1900.	Increase.
Gross receipts	$17,189,834	$15,733,342	$1,456,486
Operating exp	7,825,247	7,878,345	Dec. 53,098
Net earnings	$9,364,587	$7,855 002	$1,509,585
Fixed charges and taxes	5,501,104	5,232,639	265,465
Surplus	$3,863,483	$2,619,362	$1,244,121

This shows a surplus for the year 1901 equal to over 14 per cent. on the $27,411,800 stock outstanding. Perhaps the most noteworthy item in this table is that of operating expense. It will be seen that while the gross receipts increased $1,456,000 operating expenses actually decreased. And the reason for this is clearly shown in the tables of statistics. The way to reduce the cost of handling freight is to concentrate the freight, to increase the tour per car and the tour per train. The figures which illustrate how profitable this method is, for the year 1897 and the last two years are as follows:

	1897.	1900.	1901.
Tons c'ried.	12,200,433	16,256,821	17,596 843
Tons one-mile.	1,936,204,214	1,266,113,244	1,395.316,591
Freig't and tr'n miles	4,312,391	3,075.557	2,963,123
Tons freig't & per car mile.	15.2	21.4	22.5
Tons freig't per train mile.	240.4	411.7	470.9
Earn'gs per tr'n-mile.	$2,057	$3.556	$4.152

This shows that in spite of the fact that the cost of labor and material has increased in the past four years it has been possible to largely reduce the cost of handling the freight. The rate received per ton-mile has decreased from 7.2 mills in 1897 to 6.9 mills in 1901. So the actual economy affected is greater than the apparent percentage.

A large part of this saving has been due to the introduction of large capacity cars. Formerly Jersey Central carried its coal traffic in small four-wheel cars. These have now been displaced by cars of large capacity and relatively larger carrying capacity in proportion to dead weight. Increased train loads have been possible because of increased capacity locomotives. In 1897 the company owned 442 locomotives weighing a total of 20,000 tons and with a traction power of 4,500,000 lbs. In 1901 the number had decreased to 422, but the total weight had increased to 25,000 tons and the traction power to 6,300,000 lbs.

Jersey Central owns securities with a par value of $33,300,000, which are carried on the books at a cost of $36,145,000. They produced an income of $1,309,000, or about 5 per cent. on cost last year.

The latest report is the first issued by the company and marks its advent into the class with Pennsylvania and other similar corporations. Its operations are shown in detail, and the explanations of the various accounts are clear and sufficient. Altogether Jersey Central has moved up in every way. LET THE BOROUGH SETTLE IT

BOARD OF TRADE DECIDED NOT TO INTERFERE IN ANNEXATION QUESTION.

Subject of a Public Debate Was Discussed — Decided to Let the Boroughites Arrange It.

The members of the Board of Trade got together, last evening, for the first time since the organization was rendered homeless through the Babcock fire. A short but interesting meeting was held in the office of Secretary H. C. Runyon.

A communciation was read by the secretary from Martin I. Cooley, asking what the prospects were for securing female help to work in a women's underwear factory. A customer of his, he stated, was desirous of starting a factory in this city. The secretary was instructed to write him, giving the necessary information.

An informal discussion followed on the policy of holding a public meeting to allow Plainfield citizens an opportunity to talk over the borough consolidation and annexation movement. It was finally decided not to agitate any such move, the concensus of opinion being it was best that the borough decide the matter alone.

TALKED OF THE HOLY SPIRIT

EVANGELISTIC MEETING AT MONROE AVENUE M. E. CHURCH.

Continued Last Night Under Direction of Evangelist J. R. Pratt—His Address.

Evangelist J. R. Pratt conducted the third meeting in the two weeks' series at the Monroe Avenue church last night. Possessed of a wonderful insight into thu meaning of the Holy Scriptures and a pleasing persuasion and irresistibly convincing form of expression, he pressed upon his hearers the necessity for the "anointing of the Holy Spirit for the work of God."

The Holy Spirit is one of the three persons of the Godhead, not an it but a personality. This is the dispensation of the Spirit. The Old Testament tells of God the Father and prophesies the coming of the Son and Holy Ghost.

The Son of God came to reveal the Father—to make an atonement for the world's sin, and is now in Heaven as the intercessor for man.

The Holy Spirit is the living representative of the Godhead in the world today controlling the affairs of God. Christ in the world was led of the Spirit. The apostles were filled with the Spirit at Pentecost. Paul was moved by the Spirit. Men and women have been transformed when they have come under control of God's Spirit. Finney and Moody became powerful only when they were filled with the Holy Ghost. Does He control your life? Does the Holy Spirit dictate to you or do you dictate to Him? Will you let Him fill your life for His service? Will you let Him preside over your will and be your master?

The meeting was opened by a praise service in charge of Walter M. McGee. Mr. Pratt will speak again tonight at 8 o'clock, and tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock will give a Bible reading on "How to Offer an Acceptable Prayer."

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL FOR ST. JOSEPH'S PARISH

Extensive Property on Jackson Avenue Has Been Purchased for That Purpose.

TO ALTER STRUCTURE.

REPORTED THAT THE PURCHASE PRICE OF THE PROPERTY WAS $15,000.

Was Formerly Owned by Mrs. L. B. Boice, of Cranford—Sisters, Now Conducting Boarding School at Bordentown, to be in Charge.

A parochial school, an institution long needed in St. Joseph's parish, will be established in the near future. Arrangements are being made to open the school in the fall.

For the purpose the extensive property at the north west corner of Jackson and Watchung avenue has been purchased at a cost of $15,000. The ground and the residence thereon was the property of Mrs. L. B. Boice, of Cranford, and was occupied until recently by S. B. Wheeler. Mrs. Boice sold the place to David J. Kenney, of Rockview avenue, about a month ago and it is understood that the purchaser transferred it to the Roman Catholic Bishop of Trenton, who holds all property in the name of the Church.

Many alterations will necessarily be made in the interior arrangements of the present structrue. Although under the supervision of Rev. Father Miller, the pastor, the Sisters, who now conduct a boarding school at Bordentown, N. J., will be in charge. They will remove here shortly and will make their home in the school temporarily, although it is rumored that they will occupy the priest's house and that he will remove to a house on Manning avenue, now owned by the church. The institution will be conducted on the general lines of a parochial school. Chas. H. Lyman made the transfer from Mrs. Boice to Mr. Kenney.

THE PASSOVER HAS BEGUN

IS BEING CAREFULLY OBSERVED BY ALL OF JEWISH FAITH.

During Eight Days That Passover Lasts, Only Unleavened Bread Will be Eaten.

All Plainfield Hebrews, who live up to the tenets of the Jewish faith, are now observing the Passover, the spirit of which is happiness and rejoicing. The Passover, or "Pesach," commemorates the delivery of the Israelites, when the angel of death that slew the first born of the Egyptians, passed over their houses and spared all who obeyed the commands of Moses.

Strictly speaking the festival commenced at sunset yesterday, but early in the day all Hebrew housewives in this city burned the bread and flour which remained in their homes. Everything containing flour was destroyed. From that on unleavened bread only was used. Only such food as grows, such as nuts, fruit and bitter herbs, will be eaten during the eight days of the Passover.

Last evening the Jewish families gathered in their homes and the head of the house conducted the form of service as prescribed. It is the rule at this service for all to sit with bowed heads and for the youngest born male child to ask of his father four important questions concerning the significance of the Passover.

This morning a service was held in the synagogue by the congregation Beth Tefilia Ishia Yentel. Another service will be held in the homes this evening.

JUST A LITTLE BLAZE.

Discovered on Roof of Conroy's Blacksmith Shop—Loss Was $25 —Cause Unknown.

A small blaze in the roof of W. J. Conroy's blacksmith shop, on Somerset street, last evening, shortly before 7 o'clock, caused some excitement in the borough. An alarm was turned in from box 143 by Frank Kesselring. Assistant Chief Charles Keller was passing at the time and he reached the roof with some companions in short order.

Warren Engine Company was first to arrive on the spot and a stream of water was turned on the fire, which was extinguished quickly. The West End Hose Company arrived later but their services were not needed. The loss amounts to $25. The origin of the blaze is unknown.

NEW JERSEY ISSUES INDUSTRIAL DIRECTORY

One of Most Valuable Publications Prepared by State Bureau of Statistics.

WHAT IT CONTAINS.

COMPREHENSIVE RECORD OF THE STATE'S INDUSTRIAL INTERESTS.

Detailed Description of Every Place of More Than 100 Population—List of Manufactured Articles With Firms Producing Same.

What is generally considered one of the most valuable publications that have been sent out from any of the State departments this year is The Industrial Directory of New Jersey, compiled and prepared by William Stainsby, chief of the bureau of statistics of New Jersey. The book, a pamplet of nearly 300 pages, is the first attempt that has ever been made to compile a comprehensive and convenient record of the State's industrial interests, and the department has succeeded in producing a work which, although not intended to be a complete business directory of the State, will be found invaluable by many who have occasion to desire information frequently concerning the manufacturing industries of New Jersey.

The book is also valuable as a State gazetteer, giving in more detail than heretofore attempted in any State or private publication descriptions of every city, town and hamlet of more than 100 population, with information as to railroads, waterways, telegraph and other facilities, tax rate and opportunities and advantages for industrial enterprises in each community.

There are some of the errors that necessarily creep into any publication of the kind, and there is perhaps a disposition to be optimistic as to the advantages offered by some localities, but the book is a revelation to one not familiar with the magnitude and greatness of New Jersey manufactures, and the appendix, containing a list, alphabetically arranged, of manufactured articles, with names and location of firms and factories producing them, is in itself an industrial document of inestimable value, from both a statistical and commercial point of view.

An indexed State map is the frontispiece to the work, and the meridians and parallels are so lettered and numbered that the annexing of similar numbers and letters to the various towns and villages in the gazetteer and index afford convenient means of locating any place named. In all there are nearly 1,000 cities, towns, villages, postoffices and stations listed and described in the book beginning with Absecon, Aldine and Allamuchy and running through the entire State, alphabetically to Wyoming, Yardville and Yorktown.

In an introduction to the work Mr. Stainsby refers to the removal from the State of a number of manufacturing plants, and asserts that many of these removals to other States were due to ignorance on the part of the manufacturers in question of the superior advantages offered by various localities in New Jersey.

An Evening of Music.

William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster of Holy Trinity church, New York, and musical director at the Church of the Holy Cross, will hold a festival of music in the latter church during the latter part of May. The choir of Holy Trinity will participate.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The boast of the new officials of the Jersey Central that their train schedule will soon be so perfect that patrons can set their watches by consulting the timetable when trains arrive and depart, was made before they became aware of the strenuousness of Plainfield process servers. The holding up of a train by a constable is one of those things that can't be counted on when arranging a time card.—Newark News.

The project of building a wagon bridge over the Raritan river at Perth Amboy is again mooted. The residents of that part of Middlesex county adjacent to the site of the proposed bridge have for years vainly endeavored to secure the erection of a bridge, but have been baffled by the superior influence of New Brunswick in the Board of Freeholders. That body now appears favorable to the scheme, but before reaching a decision will refer the question to the voters of the county for an expression of opinion.

That the bridge is needed, and has been for many years, does not require demonstration. Perth Amboy and South Ambboy, separated by a mile of water, are twenty miles apart by road. Travel and transportation other than rail in the direction of the coast meet an obstacle at Perth Amboy, only to be overcome by a long detour. The first wagon bridge across the Raritan above its mouth is at New Brunswick, ten miles away.

While the population of the region adjacent to the sound and bay was limited and its industries were few, the lack of a bridge was not so severely felt, but now the demand for it is imperative. Perth Amboy is increasing in population at a rate which will soon leave New Brunswick far in the rear, and new manufacturing industries are springing up on every hand. There is no doubt that a wagon bridge would further stimulate this remarkable development. No wonder ancient and progressive New Brunswick opposses the bridge.—Newark News.

BASEBALL DECISION.

Supreme Court Upholds National League Reserve Clause.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The supreme court has reversed the decision of the court of common pleas No. 5 in the case of Napoleon Lajoie versus the Philadelphia National League Baseball club. This decision upholds the validity of the reserve clause in the National league contracts.

Manager Shettsline of the Philadelphia National league club said during the afternoon:

"It is likely that all National league players now playing with the American league will be ordered to report at once at the National league grounds, and in the event of their failing to do so suits will be brought in the cities in which they are now playing asking for an injunction restraining them from taking part in any American league games."

This decision if followed brings back to the National league over two dozen players who jumped to the American league and looks like a fatal blow to the rival league.

DEATH LIST GROWS.

Latest Reports From Ohio River Disaster.

SEVENTY-FIVE PERSONS ARE MISSING.

Burning Steamer and River Bottom Not Yet Explored For Remains of Victims—Many Sensational Rumors.

CAIRO, Ill., April 22.—After searching two days the death roll of the burned steamer City of Pittsburg has not been reduced at all from the first reports. Of the 145 people on the boat when it burned about one-half are still missing, and no further hope for them is expressed. The books and valuables of the boat, crew and passengers are still in the ruins. The wreck is above water and still smoldering. Owing to the heated condition of the hull search for those cremated in it has not been begun, and very few of the bodies of those who are drowned have been recovered owing to the swift current at the scene of the disaster.

At the coroner's inquest over the bodies of Captain Sylvester Doss and Miss Maria Tissim a verdict was rendered that the former came to death from exhaustion and the latter from inhaling smoke, and nothing was developed as to the origin, cause or responsibility for the disaster. Captain Phillips testified that he could not account for the origin of the fire unless an electric wire had started it. He stated that, so far as he knew, fifty-six lives were lost. The coroner was advised of other bodies having been recovered at distances from this city, but none of them has been identified.

Sensational reports have been circulated about an alleged quarrel between the officers of the steamer and the roustabouts and that the fire may have been of incendiary origin, but no credence is given to these reports. Many stories have been told by survivors of their thrilling experiences in escaping from the burning decks, and some of them are of a most startling character. The victims were from points along the Ohio valley, and they have left a trail of bereavement from Pittsburg to the Mississippi.

Tests were also made of new small caliber quick firing pieces which fired forty to fifty shots a half minute with accurate aim. The reports of the latter guns followed each other so quickly that they could not be counted.

AGREED ON ONE BILL

River and Harbor Appropriation Passed.

A NEW RECIPROCITY MEASURE.

Payments on a Descending Scale For Five Years to the Government of Cuba Provided by Substitute For House Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Without a word of discussion of the merits of the measure the senate yesterday passed the river and harbor bill, carrying in appropriations about $70,000,000. So thoroughly had the bill been considered by the commerce committee that every senator was content that it should pass as reported from the committee.

As no senator was prepared to begin debate on the Philippine government bill the measure after a few minutes of informal discussion went over until today.

Senator Dietrich introduced a bill to authorize the president to enter into a reciprocal agreement with the permanent government of Cuba respecting trade between the United States and Cuba. It provides that when such permanent government is established the president is authorized to enter into such agreement with Cuba whereby the United States binds itself for the period of five years to pay to the government of Cuba:

At the end of each quarter of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903, a sum of money equal to 40 per cent of the amount of import duties collected during said quarter on articles the growth and product of Cuba coming directly to the United States in American or Cuban bottoms; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, 30 per cent on such articles so carried; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, 25 per cent; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, 20 per cent of such duties, and for each quarter of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907, 15 per cent of such duties. On the importation of any article produced in Cuba upon which a bounty has been paid the amount of such bounty shall be deducted from the amount which otherwise would be paid by the United States, which sums Cuba is to obligate herself to devote to permanent harbor, sanitation and other public improvements and the maintenance of a system of schools.

As a consideration for which the United States is to pay the sums specified the bill provides that Cuba during the existence of the reciprocal agreement is to admit all articles from the United States subject to the payment at end of each quarter of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903, of 75 per cent of the import duties and other charges imposed upon like articles imported into Cuba from any other country; 1904, 80 per cent; 1905, 85 per cent; 1906, 90 per cent, and 1907, 90 per cent.

The bill provides that the agreement may be abrogated by mutual consent or by withdrawal therefrom of either party upon reasonable notice.

The senator said the bill is intended as a substitute for the house Cuban reciprocity bill.

The house entered on consideration of the Military academy appropriation bill. In addition to the regular items it contains provision for the extensive improvement of the grounds and buildings at West Point. These improvements are to cost $6,500,000, of which a little over $3,000,000 is appropriated in the bill. Twenty-four of the thirty pages of the bill were completed.

During the general debate on the Military academy bill Mr. Gilbert (Ky.) precipitated a discussion on the race question, which was participated in by Messrs. Gillett (Mass.), Blackburn (N. C.), W. W. Kitchin (N. C.) and Gaines (Tenn.). Mr. Cochran (Mo.) and Mr. Gillett discussed the question of the alleged violation of the neutrality laws in connection with the shipment of mules and horses to South Africa.

The company's principal office is in New York city. The road is to be five miles long. The western terminus will be under the waters of the Hudson river on the boundary line between the states of New York and New Jersey at a point of connection with the railroad of a corporation organized or to be organized under the laws of New Jersey and opposite that part of New York city lying between West Thirtieth and West Thirty-fifth streets, Manhattan borough.

The eastern terminus will be at a point of connection with the line of the railroad of the Long Island Railroad company in Queens borough at Thompson avenue. The road will be operated under the Hudson river, Manhattan borough, the East river and Queens borough to the eastern terminus, with rights to make necessary openings for access to the surface.

Samuel Rea, Clement A. Griscom and William H. Baldwin, Jr., join as directors in an affidavit that at least $1,000 of capital stock for every mile of road intended to be built has been subscribed and paid to the directors named in the certificate and that it is intended to build, maintain and operate the road.

TO TRY SMITH.

Court Martial Ordered For the General at Manila.

MANILA, April 22.—A court martial has been ordered for the trial of General Jacob H. Smith, who was in command of the United States troops on the island of Samar.

It consists of Generals Lloyd Wheaton, Samuel S. Sumner, James M. Bell and William H. Bisbee and Colonels Chambers McKibbin, William A. Rafferty, William E. Dougherty, Alfred C. Markley and Jesse M. Lee.

The judge advocate is Major Harvey C. Carbaugh. Colonel Charles A. Woodruff will appear for the defense.

The technical charge brought against General Smith is conduct prejudical to good order and discipline. The trial will be opened Tuesday.

In reality the statements of Major Waller concerning the orders given him by General Smith are the basis of the charges. Major Waller is alleged to have said General Smith told him to kill and burn in Samar. When Waller asked for an age limit, he was told, it is alleged, "to kill everything over ten."

A TALE OF SUFFERING.

De Windt's Terrible Experience In Northern Siberia.

LONDON, April 22.—Letters have been received here from Harry de Windt, leader of the expedition which is attempting to make its way overland from Paris to New York and which left the former city Dec. 10, 1901, dated Verkhoyansk, East Siberia, on the Upper Yana river, at the end of February.

In spite of the forebodings of the officials of Yakutsk, who strongly urged Mr. de Windt not to continue his journey, saying the conditions were worse this year than ever, that the cold was more intense and that epidemics and famine were raging, the expedition reached Verkhoyansk, 600 miles north of Yakutsk, Feb. 28.

The members of the expedition had a terrible experience while crossing the Verkhoyansk mountains. The cold was intense, 63 degrees below zero being registered. All the travelers were frostbitten. Otherwise they were all well and in good spirits and were leaving the same day for Sredne Kolymsk, a town of East Siberia 900 miles farther on, which the party hoped to reach about the middle of March. Then it was their intention to push on 1,500 miles to East Cape, the eastern point of Asia, on Bering strait. Probably the next news of the expedition will be its arrival in the United State via Bering strait.

De Windt mentions a report that Baron Tell's expeditionary ship Zaria was stranded on the Siberian islands, with only seven tons of coal on board.

WILHELMINA'S ILLNESS.

Condition of the Sick Queen Reported Unchanged.

THE HAGUE, April 22.—The condition of Queen Wilhelmina is unchanged. Her physicians say it is impossible to predict the date of the crisis in her illness.

An extraordinary cabinet council was held yesterday. The meeting engendered numerous rumors concerning a decision in the matter of the regency, but it is said upon good authority that this matter was not discussed at the council.

It is reported that a lady's maid of Queen Wilhelmina's household has been attacked with typhoid fever.

The queen mother burst into tears when she was first told her daughter had typhoid fever. She seldom leaves the sick chamber.

It is declared the information vouchsafed the public minimizes the gravity of Queen Wilhelmina's condition and magnifies her chances for recovery. The grief stricken nation, which loves the queen to the point of idolatry, is in a state of terrible suspense, while the politicians are aghast at the possibilities of a fatal termination of her illness.

Chicago Apartment Hotel Burned.

CHICAGO, April 22.—The Vincennes apartment hotel, Thirty-sixth street and Vincennes avenue, has been destroyed by fire. VETERANS REUNITED

Dallas, Tex., Thronged by Men Who Wore the Gray.

THE CITY IS GAYLY DECORATED.

Convention of United Confederate Veterans Brings Together Nearly 50,000 People to Recount the Deeds of the Civil War.

DALLAS, Tex., April 22.—The twelfth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans is under way. It is estimated that there are 45,000 visitors in the city. Sons of the veterans, sponsors, maids of honor, sisters, wives and daughters, each with some badge showing pride in Confederate deeds, make up the total mentioned.

The unofficial opening yesterday came about through stress of numbers. Delegation after delegation of veterans marched from the depot to the fair grounds, which have been converted into a magnificent camp, only to be met with the announcement that the grounds were not to be opened until today. A small army of workmen was still busy pitching tents.

Colonel Slaughter, president of the Texas Reunion association, announced that the veterans had been ordered to report April 22 and not before. "We are making exhaustive preparations to care for them in a way they will remember with pleasure," he said, "but we are not now in the proper shape to entertain them."

By early afternoon, however, the crowd was so great that the fair grounds were opened to veterans and tents pitched for 12,000. Workmen were still at work on the grounds last evening, but this was no hindrance to the singing of the old soldiers nor the exchanges of reminiscences.

The entire city has been decorated in honor of the old soldiers. Not a building in the downtown district is without its bunting or flags. Electric lights and portraits of the southern generals appear everywhere. The decorations have been so perfected that the bunting on individual structures has blended into a harmonious sea of fluttering color.

A huge shed at the cantonment has been erected, where 12,000 people will be served with meals.

The convention of the United Confederate Veterans was called to order in the auditorium at 10 o'clock this morning by Major General K. M. Van Sandt, commanding the Texas division of the association. The division is the largest one in the country.

The Finnish Riots.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 22.—The news received here of the rioting at Helsingfors, Finland, after a demonstration by recruits against the new army edict adds materially to the existing uneasiness in official circles. After the first withdrawal of the Cossacks who had charged the people four fresh companies of troops were called out to guard against disorders at the factory closing hour. This precipitated fresh trouble. The populace resorted to window fighting tactics, throwing firewood, vitriol, bottles, etc., on the heads of the soldiers. The Cossacks on returning to their barracks were stoned and compelled to fight their way home. An officer and a noncommissioned officer were severely wounded, as were six policemen and one Cossack. Severe disorders continued throughout the evening. Quiet was restored at 1 o'clock in the morning.

HAVANA, April 22.—President Elect T. Estrada Palma and his party have left Gibara for Holguin. In an interview Senor Estrada Palma said he would combine the Cuban postal and telegraph services under one head and make General Fernando Figuedo director of the united department. He has decided to appoint Juan Rios Rivera chief of Cuban customs, Carlos Zaldo secretary of state and Senor Yero secretary of instruction. The president elect said he regarded the Spanish element in Cuba as an indispensable factor in the happiness of the future republic.

The formal exercises were held at the Maryland building.

Peace Stories Premature.

LONDON, April 22.—In the house of commons yesterday Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer, in the course of a speech defending the budget proposals, said nothing could be more premature than the rumors in the press regarding the peace negotiations in South Africa. The income tax resolution was adopted by a vote of 290 to 61.

To Investigate British Trusts.

LONDON, April 22.—In the house of commons next Thursday Mr. MacVeagh will call the attention of Mr. Balfour, the government leader, to the growth of trusts in England, and in view of the evil effects he claims they have produced in the United States he will ask the government to appoint a commission to inquire into the subject.

SUMMER SPORTS.

The real opening of the local baseball season, Saturday afternoon, was productive of surprises. Three of the four local league teams opened the season and all three went down to defeat. Little Dunellen managed to array a team that could carry defeat in the camp of the Safe Works while the City High School boys developed unexpected strength and won out from Hope Y. M. A. A nine from Rahway came over and extinguished the hopes of the St. Mary aggregation. While much surprised, the league team players are not disheartened by the opening but are settling down to serious work.

There will be no formal opening to the local tennis season. The courts of two of the local clubs are open for play while work is being rushed on the other. Already many of the local tennis players, some of whom have not been on the courts for several years, are practicing for the contests to come as the season advances. One of the features of the tennis season is likely to be a series of interclub contests for the local championship.

Next Saturday will see the real start of golf in Plainfield. On that day both clubs are planning to begin their summer schedule of events. There has been some play for the past two weeks but the formal opening is really to take place the last of this week. Both clubs have planned extensive schedules and promise to give the local golfers plenty to do during the summer months.

Automobiling promises to be very popular in Plainfield this summer for those who can afford it. It is still a decidedly expensive sport and beyond the reach of many. There are a number of horseless vehicles owned in town, however, and that number promises to be considerably enlarged before many months go by. The automobile will never take the place of the horse for pleasure riding and the crowd of horsemen out to enjoy their favorite pastime this summer will be as large as ever. As the season progresses, trials of speed will undoubtedly be arranged as in past years.

This winter has seen a new feature in the work of the Public Library. Heretofore, those in charge of that institution have been content to allow the people to come at will and give such information as may be asked for without doing anything to bring the practical advantage of the Library before the public. Last Saturday, there was held the concluding one of a series of exhibits which have done much to give the public some idea of the valuable volumes owned by the city and kept for the use of its citizens at the Public Library. These exhibits have certainly been of great value and they have also served to attract to the Library many who have heretofore given it little or no attention. The Library is there for the benefit of the people and anything which will aid them in seeing its value is well worth doing.

A leading theatre manager in Chicago has followed a Boston example and ceased using posters—which were once the main reliance of the theatres for publicity, relates the Philadelphia Record. He maintains that it is far more profitable to put poster money into newspaper space. It is the opinion of observing men that eventually newspaper advertising will be virtually the exclusive means of publicity.

HE WRITES FROM CAROLINA

INTERESTING LETTER FROM LEWIS E. BARKALEW, OF THE BOROUGH.

About His Trip South and Southern Pines Where He is Stopping for a Few Weeks.

L. E. Barkalew, who is now sojourning in the south, in writing to some friends here, says incidentally:

"I have passed through fifty-three different towns and villages by rail since landing at Portsmouth, and made stops at all but one. Along the route I noticed many old delapidated log cabins on the plantations. The crotched pole with the bell suspended still stands on many of the abandoned plantations. An ox or a cow or a mule or horse was hitched to the plow where the plantations were being run. Frequently one would see a woman doing ploughing.

"I am now at Southern Pines, a health resort of North Carolina, located about thirty-two miles from the southern boundary line. A peculiar fact is that the inhabitants are mostly northerners. The municipality has established and now maintains its own water works and light plants. There is not a licensed place for the sale of spiritous liquors. All the hostelries are sanitariums, but no consumptive persons are received as guests. On every street corner is place a receptable for paper and the like.

"In Jimtown a short distance from here is a negro colony of three hundred persons and there are five colored churches in the town. Recently we heard one of the preachers exhort on the theme 'The three G's that it takes to run a church, grace, grit and greenbacks, and the greatest of these is greenbacks.' He said that if the white people would give the greenbacks the Lord would give the grace and grit.

"And such begging you never heard. They wanted or needed sixteen cents to make up the amount wanted and there were fifteen white people in the congregation. The minister said, 'Now white folks you give us just one cent a piece, that will make fifteen cents, and the other cent I think we can collect next Sunday.' The deacons started with the boxes, and when they had counted the money some one had put in a $20 greenback, they could hardly believe that it was good. They were going to have it examined and if it is good they will commence to whitewash the church next week. We will attend Jimtown church again soon and then I can report how much progress they have made in whitewashing the church.

"There was a feet washing at a church in Jimtown and if you read the thirteenth chapter of John it will give you a complete description of the ceremony as it was performed there."

An Ideal Place to Stop.

For years Atlantic City has been unquestionably the leading winter and summer resort in the east. It is the ideal spring resort also. If you contemplate a change for your health there is no better place to go. The Hotel Strand, built of steel, brick and stone, is an ideal place to stop. Sea water baths on each floor and every comfort of home is provided.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The members of the Baptist church and congregation tendered a pleasant surprise party to their pastor, Rev. G. M. Shott, at "The Manse," last night, in honor of his birthday. The invited guests began to arrive at the home of Dr. and Mrs. James H. Parks about 8 o'clock. When all had assembled, a charge in a body was made upon "The Manse," directly opposite. The invaders took their pastor completely by surprise as no inkling had been given him that the day was to be observed anymore than any other of his birthdays, but both he and Mrs. Shott were equal to the occasion and the invaders were given the freedom of the house. Several hours were pleasantly spent between pastor and people playing games, enjoying a short musical programme and social church chat. During the evening refreshments were served and about 11 o'clock the merry party began to disperse. The pleasant affair, which was arranged by the women of the church, will remain a pleasant memory in the social life of the church and will bind both pastor and people closer than ever together if such a thing were possible.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

VanWinkle, on North avenue, mends bicycles. He is a practical repairer and is not high in his prices.

Enjoy the beauties of nature and get some fresh air in the country. Andrew Love, Jr., has an up-to-date livery on East Second street, and you can hire a rubber-tired runabout at a small cost.

The Paris Cloak and Fur Store is a busy place these days. Ready-to-wear suits and made-to-order suits for women can be found in a wide variety of colors. The best quality of goods at prices in proportion.

The millinery handled by Bonn, of West Front street, fairly sells itself. There are so many pretty shapes that the women have no trouble in getting suited, besides you can save money by purchasing at home.

It is true that clocks go on strike every hour of the day, but it isn't because they are in any way dissatisfied. That's one of their proper functions. If they don't take them to Collier. Watches, too, of course.

Fish for everybody at the Rogers' Sea Food Company's market. It is received daily direct from the nets and is delivered free anywhere in the limits of Plainfield. Special attention given to breakfast orders.

No need to wait for months yet for vegetables of all kinds. T. L. Walsh, the North avenue marketman, has one of the choicest displays to be found in the city. They are received strictly fresh every day and are delivered free.

This is no time of the year to be wearing uncomfortable shoes. There is no reason why you should be doing so, if you take the advice of the knowing ones and buy your shoes at the Waldorf shoe store, 132 North avenue.

Any man can sell patent medicines but it takes years of experience to be able to accurately put up prescriptions. Think of the possible dangers in permitting incompetent pharmacists to do the work. See T. S. Armstrong when you have prescription work.

Torn linen is caused by rough handling at the laundry. This can be avoided by sending your wash to a first-class establishment. There is one place which surely answers all requirements for quick and good work. That is Meissner's hand laundry, of Watchung avenue.

What's the sense in drinking a vile concoction labelled coffee when you can purchase an excellent and wholesome brand at a reasonable figure. The same is true of tea. There's only one place to buy either and that is at Frederick H. Firstbrook's modern grocery, on Liberty street.

In selecting wall-papers every convenience is provided at the New York Painting and Decorating Company's store in Park avenue. A cozy reception room is provided, where one can sit down quietly and make a selection from the best stock in the State. The work will be done first-class and at low prices.

Some people wonder why they are lazy. Perhaps that tired feeling is due rather to a run down system. The human body needs a tonic occasionally. The Watchung pharmacy is selling a spring-time special called Peruviana, and it's the greatest blood purifier on the market. E. S. F. Randolph's drug store.

Funds for Band Concerts.

All interested in the promotion of band concerts for the coming summer are requested to meet in the parlors of the Hotel Kensington, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Ben LaVere will be present and talk over the probabilities of holding a fair to raise funds necessary to provide popular music during the heated months.

SHE SHUNS SOCIETY.

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain Positively Dislikes Publicity.

American Wife of British Colonial Secretary Has Done Much to Advance Her Husband's Political Influence.

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, the American wife of the British colonial secretary, is almost as little known as her distinguished husband is famous. The fact makes the accompanying picture of her especially interesting, for, so far as known, it is the first good portrait of her ever published. It is from a painting by an English artist.

Mrs. Chamberlain accompanied her husband to the Guild hall the other day on the occasion of his being presented with the freedom of the city of London, but in every one of the numerous pictures which were taken and drawn of the ceremony Mrs. Chamberlain is shown with her back turned deliberately upon the artist. The circumstance is worth mentioning as being typical of the lady's dislike of publicity. In the American colony in London she is practically unknown, and even in Birmingham, the colonial secretary's home, though his charming wife is a favorite, it is generally understood that social life has few attractions for her.

Mrs. Chamberlain is the daughter of W. C. Endicott, formerly judge of the supreme court of Massachusetts and secretary of war during Cleveland's first administration. He had "old-fashioned" ideas on how girls should be brought up, and pretty Mary Endicott spent more time over her books than she did at dances and football games. Her studies and the strong sympathy that existed between her and her distinguished father gave her an interest in things political that made her an ideal wife for the English statesman who fell in love with her and to whom she was married in 1888.

Herein we find the second reason for Mrs. Chamberlain's lack of enthusiasm over "functions." She is, and has been since her marriage, absorbed in her husband's career. She knows English politics from beginning to end, and whenever there is a crisis due in the house of commons Mrs. Chamberlain is to be seen in the ladies' gallery, one of the most interested listeners to the debate. During the life of Gladstone the regularity with which his wife attended the sessions of the house of commons was rivaled only by that of the American girl who was beginning to be pointed out as some one worth remembering.

(The Pretty American Wife of the British Colonial Secretary.)

That her practical self-effacement is by no means due to lack of capacity is proved by Mrs. Chamberlain's extreme popularity not only among her husband's political friends but in his household. At the beginning of her married life she had no easy part to play, for she was her husband's third wife and had grown up step-children, the eldest of whom, Austin Chamberlain, was older than she. At that time, too, her husband's political position was extremely uncertain, neither of the two great parties being especially well disposed toward him.

However, he is now one of the men of the hour in England, and it is probable that his position will make it necessary for his wife to entertain rather lavishly at their town house in Prince's Gate during the coronation season, a prospect to which she undoubtedly is looking forward with little enthusiasm.

Jerry's Dean Little Game.

The United States post office department has a violent prejudice against double-jointed names for towns. This prejudice has worked harm to a deserving little town in California which had a Spanish name for nearly a century. This is Corte Madera, in Marin county. The Corte Maderans having no post office had to go several miles to get their mail. They put the requisite machinery at work to have the place declared a post office, but the most enterprising man in the town was one Jerry Adams, the keeper of a cross-roads saloon. To the Washington authorities he represented that "Corte Madera" was too long a name. To this the post office authorities lent a willing ear, and the subtle Jerry suggested to them that a more euphonious and convenient name was "Adams." They at once agreed. Now the Corte Maderans have their post office, but they have lost their beautiful Spanish name, and their town is named after the keeper of the local saloon.

Queer Confidence Games Worked by New York Dealers.

Fraudulent "Private Sales" and Fake Auctions Conducted in All Parts of the City—Police Do Not Interfere.

[Special New York Letter.]

FOR SALE—The furniture, carpets, rugs, paintings and bric-a-brac of a large private house; the furniture made especially to order for the Duchess of Martinesque; owners returning to Europe and must sell at a great sacrifice. No. —— W. 87th street.

It was an advertisement in a New York newspaper.

It sounded all right. The man in easy circumstances who was about fitting up a house thought he saw a chance to save money, and at the same time possess himself of some of the artistic pieces of furniture made especially to order of a real duchess. And perhaps—perhaps if they were actually sacrificing some old rare paintings he might pick one or two of them up, too. He was wondering whether they would be of the old Italian school or by one of the Dutch masters. What was the use of paying big profits to the New York furniture and art dealers when one could find bargains like those by just being shrewd enough to read the newspapers?

So he set out as soon as he had dined in the evening. He started early. "There will be a lot of other fellows looking for this same thing," said he to his wife, "and I want to get the first pick of the bargains."

He scanned the numbers along the street. When he reached the house it fulfilled his highest expectations. It was an elegant four-story brown stone front. He rang the bell and was ushered into a spacious hall by a middle-aged, fleshy and elaborately gowned woman. She spoke German, and, seeing that her visitor was unable to understand her, called to another woman who came in from a rear parlor. The second woman spoke with a strong Teutonic accent. She was young, pretty, gracious and polite. She dressed in perfect taste and was so finished in her manner that the prospective purchaser of masterpieces and priceless bric-a-brac at Baxter street rates debated in his mind if this really were not the Duchess Martinesque herself.

"You will pardon the absence of the butler," said the young woman, with a smile that made the stranger feel like an old friend of the family, "but mamma and I are moving out. We shall return to Berlin."

The visitor glanced about the large rooms. They were packed full of furniture. Chairs were set closely side by side. Smoothly polished tables were arranged one after another in the manner of a display in a manufacturers' exhibit. They all seemed so new.

"Where was this furniture made, madam?" asked the visitor.

The gracious one smiled.

"In Paris, sir," she said.

There were no scratches on the high polish. The upholstery was very gaudy. Somehow it reminded the would-be purchaser of the wholesale places in Elizabeth street. He knew a thing or two about furniture. Then he noticed that the rugs were laid closely together on the floor and that they were cheap. He made a quick search for some of the rare paintings. The walls were covered with paintings. They were not rare, nor were they well done. They were daubs painted by some lightning artist with a whitewash brush and main strength. No school—ancient or modern—except, perhaps, the Sign Painters' Protective association, would stand sponsor for them.

"How much for this table?" placing his hand on an enameled affair in one of a long row.

"Two dollars," replied the "duchess."

The stores would have asked about eight dollars for it.

"I'll take it," said the bargain searcher, promptly.

"Oh, but you must buy something else with it—a chair, a bed, or something."

"I might take this chair—what is it worth?" and the man pointed to a rocker that usually retails for ten dollars.

"Sixteen dollars," said the gracious one.

"Humph," thought the man. "Sixteen and two at bargain prices make 18. Eight and ten at Sixth avenue prices make 18 also."

It was just the same all over the house. The brass bedsteads and the mattresses were brand new. The prices were store prices over again.

In an unguarded moment the bargain hunter said:

"I don't see that you are selling things cheap."

She who had been gracious scowled. She spoke in German to the elder woman. Then she said:

"You don't appreciate art furniture."

Two angry women led him to the door. As it closed behind him he heard the obese lady, who he thought could speak only German, ejaculate in very plain but not very elegent English: "He is no good."

And the next day he looked in Burke's Peerage in the Astor library and he learned there was no Duke Martinesque; there never had been a Duke Martinesque, and therefore there never had been a Duchess Martinesque.

After that a friend who knew about these things told him that nearly all the "private" sales in houses were conducted by persons hired by furniture manufacturers, who rented fine dwellings in fashionable localities and stocked them with cheap goods at fancy prices. But the bargain hunter had found that out himself.

This is but one of the many lines of deceit being carried on in New York. In their eagerness to dispose of their wares certain classes of dealers resort to all sorts of tricks and devices. They are aided by the well-known eagerness with which the American public seeks humbuggery.

One of the most common forms of disposing of goods is by the so-called auction. The uncontrollable desire of men and women to get something for nothing or something under price results in these places flourishing like green bay trees. These auction rooms may be found in various parts of New York. They are attended daily by fashionably dressed men and women. Many of the auctioneers have confederates among the customers, who bid to excite the purchasers to further efforts. The "dummies" are well posted on prices, and if an article is likely to be "knocked down" too cheap they bid it in themselves and thus protect the proprietor of the place. Under this arrangement the genuine bidder has no possible chance of getting the goods at a price lower than the owner desires. In many instances, stimulated by brisk bidding, he pays much more than the actual market value of the goods.

In a Broadway auction store not long ago I saw a man pay $1.50 for half a dozen so-called Japanese after-dinner coffee cups and saucers. Two "dummies" had bid them up to $1.40. He gave the extra ten cents and they were "knocked down" to him so quickly that it must have made him dizzy. He could have purchased them at any department store for 60 or 75 cents. I wondered what his wife would say to him when he took them home.

It is this desire for cheapness on the part of customers, the rivalry in trades, and the grasping qualities of the producers that has filled America full of artificial things. Even our food has not escaped. In the cheaper restaurants of New York it is almost impossible to find real food. Oleomargarine has taken the place of butter. The ham is cured by chemical process, and so on through almost the entire bill of fare.

Recently I found a concern that manufactures a substitute for hen's eggs. If there is a Hen's union here is good cause for a strike.

ST. LAZARE.

Most Famous of the Old Prisons For Women In Paris.

If the walls of St. Lazare could speak, they would tell a tale of misery, of cruelty, oppression and discomfort undergone by the wretched female convicts there which would make a dog rejoice that he did not wear the human shape. Victor Hugo has told what it was to be a galley slave in France in a time not so long ago. Where is the feminine Victor Hugo who will dare write of what her own sex endured from the prison guards of those dens of horror in which helpless women prisoners were formerly caged in France?

But there are French ladies who know these horrors to the full. Some twenty years ago they set themselves to have them mitigated. They have worked as only women full of a holy enthusiasm can work, and their efforts have been crowned partly with success. One branch of their enterprise is to receive on release from a Paris prison young women not yet hardened criminals and procure employment for them that they may not of necessity sink back into the black pools of iniquity that lie only beneath the surface crust of the brilliant city.

St. Lazare is the principal women's prison of Paris, to which are sent those arrested and sentenced for short terms as well as those held for trial or other detention. It gets its name because it was formerly the home of the members of the church order of St. Lazare. When they removed from the building, it was turned into a house of detention for arrested women. Convent cell was merely turned into prison cell, and the change does not seem so great after all. Still, however, there is a conventual air about the grim old building, for gentle blue veiled nuns guard and minister to the prisoners. Women arrested and detained in Paris are usually turned over to the Sisters of Maria Joseph, and these have charge of the prisons for their own sex. Thither female criminals are conveyed from the various police stations.

St. Lazare is situated at the corner of Boulevard Magenta and Rue de Faubourg St. Denis. Like nearly every building in Paris on the left bank of the Seine, it is old and huge and gray and frowning. In the unspeakable old days when men jailers kept it its other terrors were added to by vile uncleanliness and lack of sanitation. The gentle yet strong Sisters of Maria Joseph have cleansed it to the utmost, so far as may be, yet there are insects in its walls, there are hauntings of old tragedies, of the groans of the helpless, the prayers of the dying, if not of the ghosts of the dead themselves, in the grim, dark old compartments, things that no brush, soap and water, no disinfectant or wash, may ever clear out. Old prisons, old hospitals and insane asylums, old tenement houses inhabited by the dirty, the sick, the wicked and the forlorn ought to be burned to the ground like pesthouses, at least so soon as they are a century old. The despairing, stifling atmosphere of the interior of St. Lazare sickens the free visitor from outside to this day.

St. Lazare has accommodations, if one might call them so, for 2,000 inmates. French prisons have hospitals connected with them; often, too, departments that serve as almhouses to shelter the homeless. St. Lazare is provided with these branches of administration. It is the custom, too, in France, humane or otherwise as one looks at it, to let the children of convict women remain with the mothers till they are four years old. Mothers arrested go to St. Lazare with their little ones, and there, mingling among thieves, drunkards, the lowest outcasts, some no doubt with murder on their souls, the children run about. Not infrequently an infant is born to a prisoner mother in the gloomy walls of St. Lazare. It, too, the sisters care for.

Women sentenced for a longer term than two months are sent to the new prison at Nanterre, in the country a short distance from Paris. The new prison at Nanterre, to which such convicts are conveyed from St. Lazare, is a modern structure, with new walls, with light and air, and it has something which some of the most splendid of the old time French palaces lack, a bathroom with hot and cold water. Here, too, are many cells for solitary confinement, and the punishment most dreaded by a Frenchwoman is to be put away alone where she can neither see nor speak to any human being.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

As he spoke he fancied he heard a noise in the undergrowth behind him and looked around hastily. He could see nothing to arouse his suspicions and both Miss Betty and her friend followed his quick look with questioning eyes.

"You were about to tell why you wanted to see me, Miss Vlandingham," continued Guy, smothering every symptom of alarm and looking as calm and self-possessed as was possible under the circumstances. "I don't think you could be treasonable if you tried."

"Indeed!" she exclaimed with a smile. "How do you know that I have not summoned you here to make a captive of you? How do you know, sir, that I haven't a horde of Harmony people at my beck and call, lying in ambush yonder?"

Guy laughed at the tragic air she put on to fit the words.

"I am sure there are no Harmony people over there," he replied, trying to imagine what the sheriff was doing by this time.

"Nevertheless, you seem very nervous," said Miss Betty. "It is getting late and you are anxious to start homeward, I can see very plainly, so I will hasten to finish the business that brought me." Snapping with the whip lash at a wild rose blooming on the verge of sandy beach and prairie sod, she went on in a manner that was captivatingly confidential. "Capt. Blue, one of Harmony's most warlike citizens has organized a company of invincibles and is drilling them night and day. There are a score of men in the company and I am very much afraid, Mr. Herbert, that possessing the means for some headstrong piece of work will lead to the work being done. I have tried to break up the Invincibles, and to scatter them, but what can one woman do against 20 armed men? They have defied me and declare that they are organized to protect their homes at the expense of their lives, if need be. Now, Concord is taking just the course to make trouble and arouse the Invincibles to something overt and desperate. I was going to ask you to use your influence with your fellow townsmen and see if you cannot impress upon them the expediency of a more conciliatory course. And now you tell me that you have no influence! I am very sorry to hear that, for I have grave fears of the Invincibles. If only—"

Miss Betty was interrupted by a quavering shout, instantly followed by fiercer yells in voices of stronger timbre. Guy's heart leaped into his throat and he whirled about in the direction from which the sounds came.

"This is a trap for us, Betty!" cried Miss Pinkney in startled tones. "Oh, mercy! What shall we do? They're Concord people!"

HE SECURED THE OTHER END ABOUT THE TREE.

Miss Pinkney was right as to the newcomers being Concord people, but wrong, terribly wrong, in suggesting such a thing as a trap.

Bilkins, Glimmer and Pettibone were dashing across the stretch of treeless plain straight toward them. They looked most formidable, especially the sheriff whose whole manner suggested the avenging Nemesis of fabled origin.

"And this," cried Miss Betty, passionate reproach in her every tone, "this is your doing, Mr. Herbert! Your base plot will fail, but I shall never forget it, never, never!"

She cut her horse with the whip and the animal sprang away so swiftly that Miss Betty's becoming hat was jerked from her fair head and fell to the bottom of the carriage.

As for Guy, he was stricken dumb in his tracks. He could say nothing, do nothing—simply stand where he was and watch the carriage disappear on one hand and the shouting and angry trio advance on the other.

What untimely fate had brought Bilkins and Glimmer to the sheriff's rescue and made possible this awful finale?

Guy was soon to know.

CHAPTER XIII.

As they drew close to Guy, Bilkins, Glimmer and Pettibone separated, surrounded him and pressed cautiously in from three points of the compass. When within a dozen feet of the young man the sheriff threw up his right hand. This was a prearranged signal for the attacking force to halt for a parley.

"If you try to resist us, Herbert," said Pettibone, menacingly, "you'll be mighty sorry for it before we get through. I'm a good feller, as I said, but even a good feller is generally able to tell when he's got enough."

"Where did Bilkins and Glimmer come from?" inquired Guy.

"We circled around back to get our horses," spoke up Glimmer.

"We didn't know but those two Harmony chaps might still be here," admitted Lemuel artlessly, "so we did our circlin' t'other side the swell and out of sight. My, I thought I was a goner, sure, te-he-he! My legs were about ten feet too short, and goodness knows they're plenty long for most occasions. The Colonel's runnin' yet."

"If I didn't know the Colonel so well," said Glimmer, "I should think he was a coward. But a man who saw so much slaughter in our late war couldn't be that. I wasn't afraid myself"—Glimmer glared through his iron glasses—"and I just ran after the Colonel to see if I couldn't persuade him to come back." He shook his fist in the direction of Harmony. "If I ever meet that Cap'n Blue alone—" He had finished with an ominous frown and shake of the head.

"Oh, yes," commented Pettibone, sarcastically, "if you ever get at Cap'n Blue I suppose there won't be anything left but splinters. Will you surrender, Herbert, or have we got to close in on you?"

"I have a half notion to close in on you," returned Guy, irritably. "You've made a pretty mess of this! Those ladies are positive now that I had the three of you lying in ambush."

"I don't care what they think," answered the sheriff. "I'd probably be lying over there yet if Bilkins and Glimmer hadn't passed close enough to hear me call to them. You'll have to be locked up after this."

"Try to lock me up and you may find you've caught a Tartar," retorted Guy. "Because I have submitted peaceably to your surveillance, that is no sign I do not know my rights. I've broken no law and if you try any high-handed measures I'll make this county too hot to hold you fellows. If necessary, I'll have a company of soldiers here to protect me."

"The Harmony Invincibles, I suppose," sneered Pettibone.

"No, sir; a company of regulars from Standing Rock or Fort Totten."

"Think you didn't break any law when you knocked my head against that tree root and tied me up with a halter, eh?"

Many a Plainfield Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Plainfield. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Mr. S. J. Conklin, traveling salesman for a New York confectionery house, 134 West Front street, says: "I was subject to pain in the back and hips which at times I felt in my side. I tried different kinds of kidney cures but received little or no relief. I read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills and I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I took three boxes altogether and was wonderfully improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and accomplish all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

SAVED HER JEWELS.

How Timid Little Cora Outwitted a Bold Burglar.

Even After He Had Secured All of Resolute Julia's Rings and Money —Unique Study of American Maiden Nature.

Of the two girls one would say Julia is by far the better protection against burglars. Cora is small and quiet and sweet to see and hear. Julia is five feet ten, generously built as to bony framework, and she was born with a dare against all the world. Cora has a nice conscience, Julia none. When Cora tells a lie it is not one, for a lie is a statement calculated to deceive, and no mortal was ever deceived by one of Cora's fibs. Julia, however, fibs by nature and tells the truth only for expediency. Julia has always taken care of herself and scorns men healthily. Cora has always been taken care of and is of a plastic temperament. Yet the two are bosom friends, despite their differences, and Cora admires Julia and Julia domineers over Cora.

The other night, says the Chicago Daily News, it happened that Julia stayed all night with Cora. It also happened that no one else was in the house save Cora's mother. The absence of masculine protection was bitterly bemoaned by Cora, who had received that day the pleasing little sum of $110, which was in cash and in the house. Julia sniffed scornfully as she deposited her two ten-dollar bills in the tiny drawer of Cora's writing desk.

"What earthly account would a man be?" she demanded. "I'm not afraid of any burglar that ever drew a pistol. Put your money here and stop fussing."

But Cora fussed and grew exasperatingly nervous over the matter, and finally decided to keep it all where it was, in the little chamois bag about her neck.

Two hours later Julia, roused by a slight noise, sat up in bed and looked squarely down the pleasing perspective of a revolver. Her gasp roused Cora, who also sat upright and viewed the spectacle. Instinctively the two girls grasped hands, and Julia drew in her breath as one breathes when about to expel it in one forcible yell. The grim figure before them seemed to recognize the sound.

"I AIN'T GOIN' TO HURT YOU."

"Don't you scream, lady," he said, warningly. "I ain't goin' to hurt you, but I want to know where your money and rings are."

"Take that horrible thing away," Julia said, in a voice that Cora did not recognize, it was so thin and quavery. "Here are my rings and my money's yonder in that desk—the little drawer." She held out her hands.

"Good," said the gentlemanly housebreaker, as he pocketed three rings and gained possession of the money, still keeping the girls carefully covered with the revolver. Then he came back to the bed. "Now you!" He was standing over Cora.

Julia turned sick with dread. That frail little thing beside her—what would be the effect, not so much of the loss of the money she had but of the fright and shock?

"I'm staying all night with her," said Cora, calmly. "I haven't a single thing with me."

A slight gasp from Julia made the masked gentleman turn a threatening glance on her, but Julia had no spirit left for screaming. She sat up and listened to the conversation.

"No," said Cora, sweetly, in reply to a stern question, "not even a pocketbook."

"Give me your rings, then," growled the baffled burglar, convinced of the truth of her words by her utter confidence and lack of constraint.

"I don't wear rings at all," said Cora, frankly holding up her hands.

Julia gasped again as she thought of the two solitaires and the diamond and emerald one and the beautiful ruby that had gleamed on Cora's hands in the moonlight just as they went to sleep. Yet they were quite bare now.

"Anybody else here?" the burglar growled again in deep disgust.

"Just her ma," said Cora, with a gesture toward the dumb and stricken Julia. "I wish you'd go now, please."

"Anything to oblige you," remarked the burglar.

"Where had you put them all?" asked Julia, as the burglar vanished.

"Here with my money," said Cora, faintly touching the chamois bag. "Oh, Julia, I'm perfectly sick with fright."

"Pshaw!" said Julia, grimly; "I'm cool as a cucumber."

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

John Galvin, of North avenue, has signed as a pitcher on the St. Mary's team.

The St. Mary's team grand stand on West Fourth street, is nearly completed

Stevens, who covers third base, on the North Plainfield High School team will likely be replaced by a new man.

The New Street nine will play the Alerts on the golf grounds this afternoon. The game will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

The St. Mary's Cadets challenge any team whose average age is thirteen years. Address Otto Linke, West Second street.

Edward Taylor, of 530 West Second street, manager of the New Street nine, would like to arrange games with any team whose average age is sixteen years.

The West End Juniors will journey Saturday to Bound Brook to play the Laurels at that place. They will be accompanied by a leather lunged coterie of rooters.

St. Mary's Cadets have arranged a game with the North Plainfield High School second team. It will take place on the old cricket grounds Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Safe Works team will have as opponents, Saturday, the strong Perth Amboy Safe Works team. The game will take place on the grounds at South Second street and Clinton avenue and promises to be a close contest.

Roseberry stole bases in old time style at Saturday's game. It is fortunate for the Hope team he will be able to play again this season as the team need a few more like him. But his stick work could be improved upon.

The Hope team and the larger portion of the Y. M. A. will journey to Dunellen, Saturday, to play the baseball team at that place. Manager Cose is authority for the statement that there will be some changes in the personnel team.

The Madison nine defeated the Crescent team by a score of 18 to 2, yesterday morning. The game was played on the Putnam avenue diamond. Pugh and Lambert were the battery for the winners and McKee and Jones for the defeated aggregation.

In an exciting contest yesterday afternoon the Invincibles defeated the Eurekas on the Essex street diamond. The final score was 4 to 3. Tom Foley and Fred Lutkins were the battery for the victors while George Lutkins and Herbert Mosby were the battery for the defeated nine.

The Orange Field Club will open the season at Westfield, Saturday afternoon, when the team plays the Lincoln High Schol. There are still a few open dates on the O. F. C. schedule that the management would like to have filled with uniform teams averaging seventeen or eighteen years of age. Teams wishing to arrange games can do so by addressing G. M., 305 East Front street.

The Plainfield and the Plainfield Juniors, two juvenile baseball teams, contested for honors on the old golf grounds, Saturday afternoon. The former won by a score of 7 to 5 after a hard fought game. The batteries were O'Keefe and Trembly for the Plainfields and Grisley and Darling for the Juniors. The Plainfields will play Bensons' team on the same grounds, Saturday morning.

As a result of Saturday's defeats for the League teams, there will be considerble "waking" up within the next few weeks. At Saturday's games confidence was written on the countenances of nearly every League player and the sad awakening was almost too much for some of them. A lack of team practice was shown by both the Hope and St. Mary players and the managers of both have declared this will be attended to before Saturday.

The Clinton Avenue Club and the Y. M. C. A. baseball team will contest on the former's grounds, Saturday afternoon. It promses to be a close game as the Clinton Avenueites have prepared a strong team for the occasion. The line-up will be as folows: Bolmer, lf.; Nelsonn, cf.; Dorflinger, rf.; Doland, 3b.; Beekman, 1b.; Dodd, ss.; Kelley, p.; Dally, c.; Montross, substitute. Kelley is from New York and Doland has been a member of the Rahway Nationals and West New York Field Club. The game will be calld at 3:30 and stands, seventy feet long have been erected along first and third base lines for patrons.

MANY ATTRACTIONS THERE

LOTS OF LIFE AT THE Y. M. C. A. BUILDING LAST NIGHT.

Athletic, Gymnastic and Musical Attractions Made Plenty of Amusement for All.

There was lots of life about the Y. M. C. A. last evening, the occasion being shopmen's night. In the hall was a choral practice and in one of the parlors an orchestral rehearsal.

In one of the rooms on the third floor ping-pongists were enjoying exciting contests witnessed by devotees of the game. Chess also came in for a share of attention. In the gymnasium there was a game of basket ball and a small crowd was watching the fray.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra, under the leadership of Martin Korff, was preparing for the concert to be given for the benefit of the institution sometime in May. William E. MacClymont was directing the Plainfield Men's Choral Club in sweet music, which will be rendered at a public concert in the near future.

A defeat was administered to the Plainfield High School by the Y. M. C. A. team in the basket ball game, the score being 10 to 6. Mr. Heywood acted as umpire and referee and the halves were of ten minutes' duration. It was merely a practice exhibition for the benefit of the guests.

FUNERAL OF W. C. BUTLER.

Services Conducted at Late Home Today by Rev Mr. Honeyman.

The funeral services of the late William Comfort Butler, were held this morning at 10 o'clock from the home on East Front street, where a large number of friends gathered to pay their last respects to the memory of a highly esteemed citizen. The services were conducted by Rev. W. E. Honeyman, of North Plainfield. He offered a fervent prayer, after which he made a few remarks concerning the very devoted Christian life of the departed. He referred to his devotion to his home, his church and his God and of the glorious reward which has come at the end of a life well spent in the Master's service.

There were a great many floral tributes from relatives and friends, including a large bouquet of roses from Miss Butler's Sunday-school class at the First Baptist church. The interment will take place in Marble cemetery, New York, at the convenience of the family.

CICADA BOOKED TO ARRIVE THIS SUMMER

Periodical Visit of Seventeen Year Locust is Due in Part of New Jersey.

SOMETHING ABOUT HIM.

SOMERSET AND MIDDLESEX COUNTIES ARE INCLUDED IN HIS VISIT.

Has Never Missed a Visit Since 1715—Something About This Remarkable Insect Which Comes at Such Long But Regular Periods.

Nursery stock and small fruit trees will soon fall victims to the seventeen year locust, which will soon make its periodical visit in this region. A vast insect army, numbering countless millions, will have as its stamping ground the territory of twenty States. With a regularity that is marvellous these locusts appear towards the last of May once in every seventeen years and they are dreaded by the farmers especially.

Ever since 1715 these devastating insects have never failed to reappear at the expected time and now the onslaught is looked for as practically sure by the Department of Agriculture at Washington. New York and Pennsylvania as well as New Jersey are among the twenty States that will suffer. The entire central and almost the whole northern part of this State will be swarmed by the insect. Somerset and Middlesex will see the results of destructive little beings.

Properly speaking the name of this insect is the "periodical cicada." It is distinctly an American species and should not be confounded with the locust or grasshopper of the Orient, which appears in vast number at long intervals of time. By all odds it is the most anomalous insect in this country, and has the longest life period of any insect known. In 1885 these insects entered the ground and have not seen the light of day since then. The male cicada is a singer. It is not a poisoness creature and has no stinger.

This periodical cicada is but one of 500 species of cicadas represented in the world. Of his near kinsmen the most familiar here is the annual harvest fly of July and August. The periodical species can be distinguished always by the orange-color of his eyes, legs and of the marginal veins of his glassy wings.

There are two races of periodical cicadas, viz., the seventeen-year race, limited to the northern half of the country, and the thirteen-year race, confined to the southern States, the latter appearing once every thirteen years, as indicated by its name. The seventeen-year race is the larger of the two. The areas devastated by these two races overlap to a certain extent. Thus the seventeen-year cicadas will appear as far south as Georgia next month. These two divisions were not known to be distinct until fifty years ago. They bear to each other an absolute resemblance in structure, coloration and modes of life, but do not interbreed when thrown together. One race appears to be the offshoot of the other, the difference in period being due probably to differences in climate affecting the parent stock.

The greatest "locust year" in the memory of men living today was 1868, when appeared the grandparents of the brood due this spring, together with the largest of the southern or thirteen-year broods, whose great-grandchildren are due south of Mason and Dixon's line in 1907. Again in 1885 the parents of this year's cicadas appeared in conjunction with the second largest of the thirteen-year broods. But a simultaneous appearance of the largest northern and southern broods will not occur again until 2087.

As Kindergarten Delegate.

STREET COMMITTEE WORK.

There Will be a Meeting Tomorrow Evening to Plan Repairs.

There will be a meeting of the Councilmanic street committee tomorrow evening when matters of a general interest regarding street work will be considered.

The committee has been engaged in planning for the season's work and this will probably be partially completed. Owing to the recent dry spell the streets in some parts of the city are breaking up a little. The street work will be taken up soon and pushed forward just as fast as possible.

Begins June 27 and Lasts Until July 6—The Programmes Are Now Arranged.

The student summer conference of members and friends of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Canada and the East will be held at East Northfield, Mass., from June 27 to July 6. Meetings will be held each morning and evening in the auditorium and at sunset on "Round Top," the hill on which is the grave of D. L. Moody. Among the speakers who will address the conference are Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, Robert E. Speer, Professors Edward I. Bosworth and Henry C. King, of Oberlin College; Rev. John Kelman, of Edinburgh; Professor Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University, and Rev. Charles W. Gordon, of Winnipeg. John R. Mott will preside and will also address the conference.

The sunset meetings on "Round Top" will be devoted to the presentation of the claims of the various Christian callings on students of ability by men whose experience in the different departments of Christian work give their statements peculiar force. Each morning a missionary institute will be held for the promotion of missionary life and activity in college, while conferences on the promotion of the organized Christian work in college will equip the officers of the student associations for their work. Normal Bible classes to help leaders of student classes or groups will be conducted each day under the leadership of Henry B. Wright, Professors Bosworth and King, W. D. Murray and C. C. Michener.

The afternoons are devoted to athletics and other forms of recreation, while the evenings close with meetings of college delegations for prayer, discussion of the subject considered in the day and the application of the truths to the personal life of the delegates. It is expected that from 700 to 1,000 students will be in attendance. The arrangements for the conference are under the direction of the student department of the international committee, 3 West Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

HUDSON TUNNEL WILL SOON BE PUMPED OUT

Work on Extending the Old Tunnel Under North River is Going Forward.

THE OFFICIALS TALK.

EXPECT TO START DIGGING IN COURSE OF A MONTH'S TIME.

Contracts for Completion of the Old Tunnel Will Soon be Awarded—The Officials Say They Are Well Pleased With Progress.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, April 23—The work of pumping out the Jersey City end of the old Hudson River tunnel, prior to the resumption of boring, is going ahead and public interest in the enterprise is increasing. The tunnel has been flooded ever since work was suspended the last time about eight years ago.

President E. F. C. Young, of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, which is to connect with the trolley line through the tunnel, said in speaking about the early resumption of the work on the tunnel:

"The contracts for the completion of the tunnel will probably be given out very soon. The work of arranging the preliminaries is going on satisfactorily. Engineers have been busy looking after the details for some time. The work at the tunnel will be directed largely from the offices of McAdoo & McAdoo, the counsel for the New York and Jersey Railroad Company, which has acquired the ownership of the tunnel."

Counselor Wm. G. McAdoo at 15 Wall street, New York, said:

"The company's officials are well pleased with the progress thus far made. The financial end of the enterprise has been satisfactorily arranged and the physical difficulties will be overcome without trouble.

"The tunnel will be operated by electricity and the most approved methods and appliances will be adopted. Charles M. Jacobs, the engineer, reports thatt he completion of the tunnel and the execution of the plans of the company are in all respects feasible, and the line can be completed within eighteen months after work begins."

The present tunnel has been built for a distance of 4,000 feet. Only 1,580 feet remain to be built under the bed of the river besides the approaches on both sides.

To the uninitiated the appearance of the works at the foot of Fifteenth street, this city, suggests chaos. Piles of lumber abound everywhere, but evidences are not wanting that definite and systematic order will soon be evolved out of this condition.

With E. F. C. Young and other noted capitalists vitally interested in the enterprise and a force of expert engineers at work pushing it forward, it becomes more apparent daily that the project has entered upon a period of progressiveness that will only come to an end when the finish touches are made.

Every precaution has been taken to obviate any hitch in the work now going on. Arrangements have been made to maintain the pumping without any prolonged delays.

Subsidiary engines will be secured to furnish the power in the event of those now employed breaking down, and a force of skilled mechanics has been employed to cope with any emergency that may arise in this direction.

Within the next few months it is possible that the tunnel works in this side of the North River will be a perfect hive of industry, and according to the engineers in charge, the boring work still remaining undone should be under full headway in a month or two.

In two years or thereabouts it is calculated that the complete connection between Jersey City and New York will be completed and a perfect system of trolley transit established between Jersey City and New York.

Soon They'll Marry.

Miss Hanna, who has been a saleswoman at the store of Hill & Shupp for some time past, will resign her position Saturday evening, in anticipation of her marriage to Oscar Moore. Mr. Moore is a member of the choir at the First Baptist church.

To Entertain Society.

Miss Shreve, president of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, will entertain the society at her home Friday afternoon.

MYSTERY OF HAUNTED HOUSE IS EXPLAINED

Starving Cat Was Responsible for Strange Noise That Drove Away Last Tenant.

CAT'S SKELETON FOUND.

DISCOVERED BY PAINTER WHO HAPPENED TO OPEN DOOR OF CLOSET.

House Located on Park Avenue—One Tenant Went Out Hurriedly on Account of Unexplainable Noises Heard, it is Said.

The mystery of a so-called "haunted" house, which has long been regarded as the abiding place of spooks and hobgoblins, was cleared away Monday, through the visits of artisans to the place to prepare it for occupancy. In one of their excursions through the place, one of the men had occasion to open the door to a little closet seldom used and by so doing disclosed what is thought to be the reason why the last tenant is said to have left hurriedly.

It was the skeleton of a cat, which had evidently been imprisoned in the narrow space and had slowly starved to death. It must have struggled, as all healthy acts do when the pangs of hunger assail them, and thus caused the "spookish" noises which is reported to have driven out the occupants.

The house is located on the triangle made by the intersection of Park avenue, East Ninth street and Prospect avenue and was formerly part of the Martine estate. Up to within five years ago, the place was occupied regularly and nothing was ever said about its sheltering supernaturals, possessing a tendency to wander about. But one day, a hitherto satisfied tenant suddenly removed his chattels and according to report declared the place was overrun with spooks. It was impossible, he said, to sleep for strange noises which emanated from one of the upper rooms at all hours of the day and night. Nothing could be done to induce him to stay and, despite efforts to prevent it, the news was proclaimed that the place was haunted.

Since then the house has been empty but recently a man was found who wished to occupy it. Painters and decorators were set to work and the process of renovation began. Monday, William Payne, of North avenue, had occasion to go to a closet on thle up per floor and there discovered the pure white skeleton of the feline. He at once communicated the fact to the owner, F. A. Pope, and the latter declared the mystery of the haunted house cleared up. It is his opinion that the animal was thoughtlessly locked up and then slowly starved to death, in the meantime clawing and scratching to get out, producing the noises which frightened the superstitious tenant.

James E. Martine, who formerly owned the house and sold it to Mr. Pope, says that the whole story of the house being haunted is a myth. He declares that he never heard of it and that the last tenant left for perfectly natural reasons, there being no word of ghostly appearances or noises at that time. The story has, nevertheless, gained credence with many. The story of the spooklike sounds is merely a common report but it is a positive fact that the cat was found there.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT.

Plainfield Will be Represented.

The New Jersey Summer-School of Primary and Junior Methods will be held in the Asbury Park auditorium, July 7 to 12. Plainfield will be represented by a number of prominent Sunday-school workers.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IS WORKING IN JERSEY

Strange Sect Has Begun Campaign of Missionary Work Through This State.

ITS FOLLOWING HERE.

NOT AS STRONG IN NEW JERSEY AS ITS ADVOCATES WOULD DESIRE.

Something About the Churches Through the State and the Thirty-eight Practitioners Here—Where They Are Located.

Special missionary work is now being done by the Christian Science organizations in New Jersey. The purpose of this activity is to have the State make a fair showing at the coming national meeting, which is to be held in Boston in June of this year, it having been postponed at the request of Mrs. Eddy.

Up to date, the organization of the Christian Science has not progressed as satisfactorily as its advocates desire and there are only a few thousand adherents in the State. The exact number cannot be ascertained because many were affiliated with the churches in New York and Philadelphia. Neither of the churches in Newark and Jersey City are strong because many of the faith are connected with the New York organizations, and prefer to be. Camden has no organization, yet there are three Christian Science practitioners in that city, and six others scattered throughout the county. It often happens that there are practitioners in localities where there are no churches; this is particular the fact in south Jersey, where there are no churches, but the faith is kept alive by connection with the Philadelphia churches.

The Christian Science followers are the strongest in Essex county. It has the most churches. There is one at Cranford, the reader of which is Mrs. Annie L. See, with mid-week services and reading room. There is one at Englewood, the reader of which is Mrs. Julia G. Child; Montclair has its first church at 108 South First street, and James Wolf is the reader. Newark's only church is at 17 West Park avenue, and the reader is Miss Mary E. Southworth, with a reading room. In Orange there is a successful organization, over which Miss Mamie Robertson presides as the licensed reader. The meetings are held in Berkeley Hall, on Harrison street. There is a reading room on the main street of East Orange. Trenton has a number of Christian Scientists, but they have no organization.

There are thirty-eight practitioners in New Jersey, located as follows: Cranford, 2; Englewood, 3; Jersey City, 4; Montclair, 1; Newark, 6; East Orange, 1; South Orange, 3; Camden, 3; Brookside, 1; Highwood, 1; Merchantville, 1; Atlantic City, 2; Hoboken, 1; Elizabeth, 4; New Brunswick, 1; Trenton, 2, and Riverton, 2.

Jersey City has one church, of which Theodore W. Bruger is the reader, and it meets in Arcanum Hall. The Paterson group is not organized as a church, but have a reading room, which was destroyed by the recent fire, but is to be replaced by popular subscription. A donation given by Mrs. John W. Griggs led to the statement that she and her daughter had joined the church, and the Paterson branch in particular. Repeated statements have established the fact that they only assisted by donation the refurnishing of the reading room.

NEARING COMPLETION.

The Additions at Ponds's Soon to be Finished for Occupancy.

The additions to the plant of the Pond Machine Tool Company have been completed by the Flynt Construction Company and all that now remains to be done is the fitting up of the interior.

This work consists mainly of building pits and beds for the heavy machinery. It is expected the new parts will be ready for occupancy by June 1.

Permit to Build.

Miss K. Kelley has received a permit from Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the erection of a frame dwelling at 673 West Fourth street. The estimated cost of the structure is $2,000. Wm. H. Brokaw will do the carpentry work and J. Snydel the masonry. The plans were drawn by Architect F. S. Lancaster.

—Rockdale print and creamery butter at Neuman Brothers; lower in price, better than others in quality.

SWALLOWED WHISTLE.

Arthur Parsons Had a Narrow Escape From Choking to Death.

Arthur Parsons, aged six years, of 332 East Fourth street, swallowed a long slender whistle Monday, while playing about the yard at his home. Dr. W. Kempton Browning was called and after working for several hours succeeded in relieving the lad of his burden.

The boy was greatly frightened and he suffered considerable pain. He soon recovered from his fright, however, for within ten minutes after the whistle was removed he was running about the yard blowing it vociferously.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 23—The Board of Freeholders met here yesterday and inspected Broad street, where it goes under the railroad bridge, for the purpose of determing what shall be done to increase the outlet for surface water. The board decided that something will have to be done, but all agreed to lay the matter over for the new board's consideration. The improvement will probably be made during May.

ANOTHER DECISION IN PANGBORN-ALLEN CASE

Superior Court of Pennsylvania Sustained Decision of Lower Court in the Case.

WAS GIVEN MONDAY.

CASE INVOLVED DUAL IDENTITY OF S. PANGBORN AND W. S. ALLEN.

Decision for Mrs. Louisa Perrine, Daughter of Pangborn, Who Tried to Recover Allen's Property at Williamsport, Pa.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Williamsport, Pa., April 23—A decision has been handed down by the Superior Court, of this State, in the celebrated Pangborn-Allen case, which has been in the courts during the past two years. In the decision given Monday the decision of the lower court in favor of the plaintiff, Mrs. Louisa Perrine, is sustained. It means a signal victory for the plaintiff and will result in giving to her a large amount of valuable property in this city.

The case has from time to time been reviewed and has attracted widespread attention all over the country, but more especially among those who knew Stephen Pangborn, who, it is claimed, came to this place and changed his name to W. S. Allen. By his first marriage he left one daughter, who is now Mrs. Perrine. While his first wife was living he again married a woman of this city and there were children by that marriage. The property involved was left to the wife by the second marriage and subsequently sold to various parties, some of it being left to the children by this second marriage.

Considerable time was taken in establishing the relationship between Stepehen Pangborn and the daughter by the first marriage, also as to whether Stephen Pangborn and W. S. Allen were one and the same person. This fact seems to have been well established. Then followed the suit to recover property which belonged to Mrs. Perrine, provided that the relationship claied was true.

Lawyer Isaac P. Runyon, of Plainfield, originally took charge of the case, after which he secured the assistance of McCormick & McCormick, one of the best law firms in Pennsylvania. Mr. Clark, another lawyer, of Westfield, also took part.

The lectures will be appropriatley and most agreeably illustrated by Mrs. Garrit Smith, soprano, and Hans Kronold, 'cellist, besides Dr. Smith's own performance on the piano.

THEATRICAL.

Last week Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effie Shannon gave their fiftieth performance in "Her Lord and Master" at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, and they will continue at the Manhattan until May, closing on the third of that month one of the most successful engagements of the season. May 6 a very notable event at the Manhattan will be the reappearance of Mrs. Fiske, after one of the most successful tours of the larger cities of the country she ever has made. The return of Mrs. Fiske to the Manhattan for a short spring engagement will be made unusually popular by the revival by this great actress of several of her former successes. Chief of these will be "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," in which Mrs. Fiske has not been seen in New York in several seasons. This revival will be notable, aside from the opportnity it will give the pubilc to again see Mrs. Fiske in one of the greatest impersonations of the modern theatre, because her company for this event will include several of the distinguished actors that originally participated in the success of "Tess." Mrs. Fiske also will be seen for a few performances in Sardou's sparkling comedy, "Divercons," also in Henrik Ibsen's remarkable play, "A Doll's House." hese revivals will embody the most interesting feature of the closing theatrical season in New York. In the meantime, those that have not already done so shall avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to see Mr. Kelcey and Miss Shannon in Miss Morton's very clever comedy, "Her Lord and Master."

LITERARY.

The menu arranged by the editors of "Success" in the May number, contains a long list of wholesome dishes, spiced with inspiration and good cheer. The opening article is by Rebecca Harding Davis and is entitled "The Return to the Soil." It is a strong plea to those who are obliged to live in the city, to seek some communion with nature, in order to find new life and new interest in the world. Israel Zangwill in "What Have the Hebrews Accomplished?" has clearly defined the distinctive qualities that have made a powerful race; Ellen Terry, the great English actress, gives some well-earned advice to stage-struck girls in a valuable paper entitled "An American Girl's Possibilities as an Actress;" Frank Hix Fayant describes the practical process of making electrical engineers at one of our largest electrical works; Charles Dana Gibson, the eminent artist, tells the budding illustrator how best to follow the road that will bring him recognition, and Robert C. Ogden, who is John Wanamaker's chief partner, tells the interesting story of his life from the time he was an errand boy. All the contents of this interesting number are too numerous, wide, and varied to be mentioned here, but it will be safe to say that "Success" is now the most interesting, timely, and up-to-date of all the ten-cent magazines.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The indeterminate sentence, not yet adopted in this State, can be used by a wise judge to two good purposes—the reformation of the offender and economy in the cost of criminal justice. The aim and end of law is to make a community morally better and safer to live in.

The idea of vengeance is outside of the pale of the law. Justice strikes heavily as a deterrent for serious crime. It also in too many minor cases strikes blindly, and that is because of imperfect laws. When the innocent and even the injured are made to bear the whole penalty of the law it is evident at once that the law is grossly at fault.

The indeterminate sentence is a partial remedy for that defect. It is proposed also that the jail, instead of being a place of leisure for minor offenders, shall provide some kind of labor for prisoners, so that it may be less attractive to the class of lazy and worthless men who fear imprisonment less than they fear honest labor.

The recommendation that in our city the Associated Charities should assume the care of indigent families when the husband is in jail, and provide some means of employment for the latter when he is set free, is practicable enough. The judges and the Associated Charities can co-operate most effectively in thus reforming bad husbands and redeeming unhappy homes from the curses of laziness, intemperance and neglect.—Newark Advertiser.

One of the few bills yet remaining in the Governor's hands unacted upon is Assemblyman Horner's bill imposing a license upon non-resident gunners. The Governor has been unable to reach a positive conclusion concerning this measure, and will give a public hearing upon it tomorrow, when its friends and enemies are expected to assemble in force primed with facts and arguments. The opposition is made up largely of hotel-keepers, boatmen and guides who profit from the visits of gunners from outside the State. It is claimed that these non-residents spend a large amount of money here each year; that they are mostly true sportsmen, who observe the laws, and that there is no reason why they should be discriminated against in favor of local pot-huntres who wage a ceaseless war of extermination against games of all kinds.

On the other hand it is asserted with a show of reason that the State's own sportsmen should be the first to benefit from the thousands of dollars expended annually for game propagation and preservation, and that if outsiders desire to share in the sport they should be willing to pay a modicum of the cost. This claim is made all the stronger from the fact that neighboring States, from which come most of the foreign gunners, compel Jerseymen to pay a tax for hunting within their borders.

In all probability the small license fee fixed by the bill would not serve to keep away any noticeable percentage of the gunners, who are a source of revenue to the interests opposing the measure. On the other hand it would bar out a large class of decidedly objectionable gunners, whose presence is a greater menace to the farmer's poultry and to common song birds than it is to game.—Newark News.

THE STEAMSHIP TRUST.

The Great Merger Combine to Have a Capital of $170,000,000.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The transatlantic steamship combination formed by J. P. Morgan will have a capital of $170,000,000, of which $60,000,000 will be 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, $60,000,000 common stock and $50,000,000 4½ per cent debentures.

The underwriting syndicate has subscribed $50,000,000, 40 per cent of which was placed abroad and the remainder here. As yet the company has barely gone beyond the organization stage. The corporate title is still undetermined.

As announced last week, the combination will have an American charter, but those in authority decline to make known at this time the state in which the company will be incorporated.

It is authoritatively stated that a "working arrangement" has been made with the German lines—North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American—as a result of which the relations between the new combination and the German companies promise to be altogether harmonious.

Clement A. Griscom, president of the International Navigation company, has had another conference with Mr. Morgan's partners. He had nothing to say for publication other than that the preliminary details of the steamship consolidation were being perfected with little delay.

German Companies Not Bought.

BERLIN, April 23.—The German steamship companies have not been bought outright by the Morgan interests. They enter a close business confederacy with the American and British lines. Their ownership is not merged. Their independence is safeguarded, subject only to certain comprehensive and advantageous contracts. The foregoing is the substance of the crisp replies made in Hamburg and Bremen by Herr Ballin, director general of the Hamburg-American line, and Herr Plath, president, and Herr Wiegand, director general, of the North German Lloyd line.

NOT GOOD AMERICANS

John Hays Hammond Makes Notable Speech In London.

ANGLOMANIACS ROUGHLY HANDLED.

"A Well Meaning but Discredited Class," Says the Famous Engineer—Plea For Generous Treatment of Boers by British.

LONDON, April 23.—"I must advise you not to pay too much attention to the extravagant expressions of friendship of a certain well meaning but discredited class called in America 'Anglomaniacs.'" That was the keynote of a speech made by John Hays Hammond, the American engineer, last night before a notable gathering, including Lord Grey and others interested in Anglo-American and South African matters, at a dinner given in honor of Mr. Hammond's return to England. With pungent sentences Mr. Hammond explained to his English audience the depth of and reason for American sympathy with the Boers, and, as "a candid though a genuine friend of Anglo-Saxon friendship," he impressed his hearers with Great Britain's total lack of effort to counteract the pro-Boer sentiment in the United States. With equal frankness Mr. Hammond urged that Great Britain be generous in her demands. "Your American friends," he declared, "most earnestly hope that in arranging terms of peace wise liberality will be shown to the Boers."

Such a statement coming from one who in the same speech referred to his imprisonment at Pretoria on account of his anti-Boer tendencies produced a rather striking effect. The American Anglophobes came in for equal criticism with the Anglomaniacs in Mr. Hammond's remarks. "Both of these classes," said Mr. Hammond, "are the flotsam and jetsam of the American population. The citizens who compose the important body of our population are the exponents of Americanism in its highest form. They are the true Americans, whether of British, German or whatever ancestry. It is a trite but nevertheless an almost irresistible argument that our nations should stand together because blood is thicker than water. In default of other reasons this sentiment on many memorable occasions has prevailed and saved the day.

"But we must be prepared henceforward to urge our claims for conjoint action respecting important international issues upon not a racial but a moral basis—namely, that our claim is a just one—for I believe that to both nations justice is the cornerstone of their international structure."

To this conservative and unbiased section of the American community Mr. Hammond averred that "England has not condescended to explain." To this lack of condescension Mr. Hammond attributed the "general pro-Boer sentiment" which he found upon his return to the United States in 1900. The speaker pointed out that American impressions of the Boer war were derived from the political emissaries of the Boers and the writings and speeches of the British pro-Boers, under which circumstances, he said, it was not surprising that the "corrupt Transvaal oligarchy, masquerading under the name of the 'little sister republic,' had secured the aid and sympathy of America. However much we British and Americans differ from the Boers politically, we are compelled to admire the plucky fight made by the unfortunate and deluded Boers now under arms."

A Farm Hand's Revenge.

YORK, Pa., April 23.—The large barn of C. C. Wolf, eight miles southwest of York, was destroyed by an incendiary fire during the night. Forty head of fat beef cattle and ten horses and mules perished in the flames. Henry Eberly, who had been employed at the place for three years, came to York during the day and gave himself up to the authorities. He confessed to firing the barn, saying he did it for revenge on account of bad treatment he received from his employer.

LONG DEBATE BEGUN

Senate Opens on Philippine Government Bill.

HOUSE PASSES WEST POINT MEASURE

Appropriation For Improvements at the Military Academy Cut—Conference on Chinese Exclusion Bill Results In Agreement.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Formal discussion of the bill temporarily to provide a government for the Philippine Islands was begun in the senate yesterday, Mr. Rawlins (Utah), the leading minority member of the Philippine committee, opening the debate. He denounced the bill as an unwarranted imposition on the Filipinos, declaring that it would establish one of the foulest oligarchies in the history of the world. He maintained that the Philippine commission was given too great power by the bill and asserted that under its provisions the islands would be exploited for private gain. While he was speaking two efforts were made to maintain a quorum, the second resulting in a lively tilt among several senators, Mr. Scott (W. Va.) intimating that argument could not influence any senator.

The house by a vote of 75 to 72 rejected claims attached to the omnibus claims bill by the senate aggregating $1,800,000, and on the heels of that action nonconcurred in the whole senate amendment (the various items having been ruled to constitute a single amendment) and sent the bill to conference.

The Military academy appropriation bill was passed after the limit of cost of the improvements at West Point had been reduced from $6,500,000 to $5,500,000 and the amount of the appropriation in the bill from $3,000,000 to $2,000,000.

The London dock charge bill was called up, but was not disposed of.

The conferees on the Chinese exclusion bill have practically reached an agreement. The main features of the senate bill have been adopted, but there are some alterations.

The Pope as Cockran Saw Him.

LONDON, April 23.—W. Bourke Cockran of New York, who sailed for the United States today, referring to his recent audience with the pope, said: "It is five years since I had seen his holiness, and I rather dreaded this visit lest I might see some of the cruel inroads of age. To my astonishment I found the pope to be stronger, mentally and physically, than when I first saw him. The accuracy of his memory, the sweetness of his voice and the brightness of those wonderful eyes seem to have been accentuated rather than diminished by the intervening five years. His holiness expressed, as he always does, his great friendliness for America and exhibited a keen knowledge of American affairs."

The Ohio River Disaster.

CAIRO, Ill., April 23.—No more bodies have been recovered from the steamer City of Pittsburg, which was burned Sunday. Practically nothing has been done to search the wreck for bodies. It is fair to assume that the total number on board at the time of the fire, passengers and crew, from all reliable statistics given from memory by officers, was 145, and it is known that seventy-five were saved, which leave seventy to be accounted for. The corrected list of the lost given is fifty, and there must be twenty bodies in the wreck or the river. The underwriters will endeavor to investigate the burned hulk.

Paterson Strikers Riot.

PATERSON, N. J., April 23.—There was rioting in the Riverside section of Paterson last night, and the police reserves had to be called out. The trouble was among the dyers' helpers in a number of the silk mills who went on strike yesterday. Three hundred of them went out at the Auger & Simon works early in the day and were later joined by 800 more from the Weidmann Dyeing works. At night a number of men in various other silk plants went on strike, bringing the total number of strikers up to between 1,300 and 1,400.

Colon's Garrison Re-enforced.

COLON, Colombia, April 23.—Three hundred government troops to re-enforce the present garrison at Colon have arrived here from Panama. No further news of conditions at Bocas del Toro has reached here. The German steamer Hercynia, which left here for Bocas two days ago with government re-enforcements on board, has not yet returned.

Carnegie Dedicates a Library.

PITTSBURG, April 23.—Andrew Carnegie formally dedicated the handsome free library of Carnegie borough last night before an audience of over 1,200 people. Every seat in the music hall was filled, and people stood several rows deep in the balcony. Many prominent citizens of Carnegie and Pittsburg occupied seats upon the stage.

Important Excise Cases.

BALLSTON, N. Y., April 23.—Two interesting excise cases were heard in trial term here, in which State Excise Commissioner Cullinan succeeded in obtaining two verdicts for the recovery of a five hundred dollar penalty in each case against the Fidelity and Security company of Baltimore as sureties on bonds.

Another Morgan Project.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 23.—Hongkong papers received by the Empress of China contain a report to the effect that a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan has applied to the Chinese government for permission to build a railway from Peking to Chingkiakan.

BATTLES WITH THE MOROS.

General Davis Had Been Ordered to Withdraw Troops.

MANILA, April 23.—Two engagements have been fought between the American troops and the Moros on the island of Mindanao during the past twenty-four hours.

Moore of the Twenty-seventh infantry, while out with a small party hunting for water, was fired upon at long range. Lieutenant Colonel Frank D. Baldwin, with a battalion of troops and a mountain gun, went to the assistance of Moore's party and drove off the Moros, who lost seven men. The firing was at 1,100 yards range.

The Moro villages were flying red flags, meaning that they intended to fight to the uttermost.

Later Sultan Pualo and a force of natives attempted to reoccupy the ground gained by the Americans, but the Moros were forcibly dispersed.

Datto (Chief) Ganasi has sent a delegation to the American commander tendering the absolute submission of the men under his control.

Brigadier General Davis, in command at Zamboanga, island of Mindanao, has acknowledged the receipt from Washington of instructions to withdraw his troops from Mindanao, but he urges that owing to the present state of affairs the withdrawal of the troops will result in the absolute loss of American prestige among the Moros in Mindanao. His orders, however, are explicit.

Lieutenant Colonel Baldwin and his forces are beyond the reach of the telegraphic instructions from Washington.

By orders from Washington the court martial ordered to try General Jacob H. Smith, who was in command of the United States troops on the island of Samar, on the charge of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline, has been dissolved. The members of the court which will try General Smith will be named at Washington.

HUNDREDS KILLED.

Recent Earthquake Very Severe In Guatemalan Cities.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, April 23.—Details which are being received here of the result of the earthquake shocks which were general throughout Guatemala Friday, Saturday and Sunday show that Solola, Nahuala, Amatitlan, Santa Lucia and San Juan were badly damaged and that Quezaltenango was partly obliterated.

—Fire added to the horrors at the last named place. Two hundred persons were killed, mostly women, and many people were injured. At the capital three churches were slightly damaged.

The government is relieving the sufferers.

Quezaltenango, or Quesaltenango, is situated about 115 miles from Guatemala City. It has a population of about 25,000 souls, is handsomely built and well paved and has a richly decorated cathedral, several other churches and a fine city hall. In the vicinity of Quezaltenango are numerous interesting antiquities and volcanic appearances.

About the "Water Cure."

DENVER, April 23.—General Funston has telegraphed Senator Lodge, chairman of the senate committee on the Philippines, asking him to subpoena John Nicholson, who is said to have been a sergeant in the Fourth cavalry, and examine him under oath regarding the use of the "water cure." Nicholson is reported to have said at Norfolk, Va., that General Funston originated the "water cure" and practiced it almost daily for several months. General Funston said: "I am inclined to believe that Nicholson is a myth. I knew every noncommissioned officer in the troops of the Fourth cavalry that were under my command, and there was no sergeant named Nicholson."

The Managua Explosion.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 23.—A commission of engineers appointed by the government to investigate the explosions which wrecked a barrack here on the night of April 16, when between 100 and 200 men were killed and much property was damaged, reports it believes that the first explosion occurred in the powder magazine of the barrack, that the second explosion was that of about two tons of dynamite stored in another magazine and that the third was of guncotton, also stored at the barrack. Five soldiers who escaped death at the barrack declare that they fled from the building after the first explosion.

Grand Army Encampment.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—General Torrance, commander in chief of the G. A. R., has issued his first general order in connection with the forthcoming encampment in this city. It officially announces that the encampment will begin Oct. 6, that the same railroad rates and stop-over privileges will be operative as in the 1899 encampment and that only a limited number of properly certified veterans can be accommodated with free quarters. Applications for these quarters must be made by Sept. 1. The order announces that the local committee is entirely relieved from furnishing free quarters.

Hurt by Falling Scaffold.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., April 23.—Three men were seriously injured by the collapse of a staging upon which they were working while painting a house. The men fell to the ground, a distance of thirty feet. ENGINEERS GO TO NORWAY.

Americans to Build a Railway In Europe With American Material.

NEW YORK, April 23.—A party of engineers who will construct this summer the first American built railway in Europe has sailed for Bremen. After its completion it will be used to ship large quantities of iron from the Norwegian iron mines. The engineers are ex-State Engineer C. W. Adams, his son, Arthur Adams; C. A. Poole and Arthur O'Brien.

On reaching Bremen they will meet Henschel Roberts, ex-deputy state engineer, who has charge of the building of the new railroad, and will accompany him to Mo, on the west coast of Norway, 300 miles north of Christiania, where the mouth of a rock walled fiord will be made into a great harbor. From the docks there the new railway will run to the orefields, eighteen miles away.

The Gillison Ore Milling syndicate of London is the backer of the scheme. A director of the corporation is Thomas A. Edison, through whose influence the engineers mentioned received the award of the work. These engineers built Dr. W. Seward Webb's Adirondacks railway through the North woods wilderness in one summer.

In the Norwegian enterprise 3,000 laborers will be employed this summer. Most of the materials used in the construction of the road will come from this country, and the rolling stock will be of American manufacture. It is estimated that the total cost of the road and harbor will exceed $1,000,000.

EMPRESS IS OBSTINATE.

Refuses to Return to Peking, as Urged by the People.

PEKING, April 23.—In spite of the fact that in order to allay the uneasiness of the masses Chinese officials have been urging the immediate return of the dowager empress to the palace, she has decided, according to The Gazette, to remain at the hunting park, five miles from Peking, for one week.

Rumors of some political coup, possibly the deposition of the dowager empress, are rife. They are apparently as baseless as the other recent canards.

The foreign legations here continue their unusual precautionary measures. At the American legation a squad of soldiers patrols the wall every night.

Chinese Rebellion Serious.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 23.—R. W. Little of the North China Herald, who arrived by the steamer Empress of China, says the rebellion in Kwangsi is far beyond the power of the government troops to suppress. Marshal Sue had only 4,000 troops to dispatch against them, and it is unlikely that the viceroys of other provinces will aid in the suppression of the rebellion. A strict censorship is now being maintained in Canton, and the tendency of the officials is to belittle the rising, the only news of which can be obtained from refugees.

Snow and Cold Follow Heat.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 23.—There has been a drop in the temperature of from 40 to 50 degrees throughout the state. Following a slight fall of rain, the wind changed from the south to northwest, and a snowstorm is prevailing in central Nebraska, with indications of a blizzard. Railroad reports from the extreme northwestern part of Nebraska and the Black Hills tell of a heavy fall of snow, fifteen inches at Custer and nearly two feet at Spearfish. Trains are slightly delayed, more, however, from the furious wind than the snow.

PARDON FOR REEVES

Postal Official Convicted In Havana Freed by Wood.

WAS A WITNESS FOR THE STATE.

Rathbone's Chief Accuser Had Been Promised Immunity by the Military Government. It Is Asserted—Rathbone Out on Bail.

HAVANA, April 23.—Governor General Wood has issued an order pardoning W. H. Reeves, who was recently sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $5,000 for complicity in the Cuban postal frauds. Reeves was liberated at once.

General Wood says he pardoned Reeves because he was a witness for the state. The order pardoning him did not come as a surprise, for it has been generally understood ever since Estes G. Rathbone was first accused of connection with the postal frauds that Reeves had been promised immunity by the military government. This had been denied, as well as the fact that the government had been using Reeves as a witness for the state.

The matter was referred to by counsel for Rathbone in summing up their client's case. Rathbone's lawyers declared that this promise of immunity had influenced Reeves to make statements against Rathbone.

His bail accepted, former Director of the Posts E. G. Rathbone has been released from jail pending his appeal from conviction for postal frauds.

Aged Indian Pardoned.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The president has granted a pardon to Robinson Kemp, who was convicted in the United States circuit court for the western district of Arkansas of murder committed in the Indian Territory and on Feb. 27, 1886, was sentenced to be hanged. In the following April this sentence was commuted by President Cleveland to imprisonment for life on the ground that the evidence on which he was convicted was circumstantial and conflicting. Kemp has now been imprisoned for more than sixteen years in the Detroit house of correction. He is a full blood Chickasaw Indian and upward of eighty years of age. Attorney General Knox expressed grave doubts of the prisoner's guilt.

Steamer Burned; Crew Saved.

TRENTON, N. J., April 23.—The steamboat Elko has been burned to the water's edge in the Delaware and Raritan canal just below this city. The fire started in the engine room, and some barrels of oil were soon in flames. Engineer Bristow discovered the fire and notified Captain Warren. The boat was then made fast, and the members of the crew got off in safety. The Trenton fire department responded to an alarm, but when the engines arrived they were too late to do any good. The boat belonged to William P. Clyde & Co. of Philadelphia and carried freight between Philadelphia and New York. The total loss is estimated at about $50,000.

Applies Only to Lajoie.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—President Benjamin F. Shibe of the Philadelphia American league club, after consultation with the club's attorneys relative to the supreme court's decision in the Lajoie case, said: "The opinion of the supreme court in the Lajoie case applies only to Lajoie and has no reference to any other player. The court holds, upon the testimony which was submitted by the plaintiff alone, that Lajoie is an extraordinary ball player whose services cannot be replaced, and it is because of the extraordinary character of his abilities that the decision of the court of common pleas No. 5 has been reversed."

Ex-Governors Lead Political Fight.

ARDMORE, I. T., April 23.—Ex-Governor William Byrd of Stonewall has been nominated by the Progressive Indian party for governor of the Chickasaw Nation. The National party had already nominated ex-Governor Palmer Mosely, and it is expected that the race made by the two ex-governors will prove one of the most exciting in the history of territorial politics. The issue will be the supplementary Indian treaty now pending in congress.

Gales In Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., April 23.—The maximum temperature was reached at 5 o'clock last evening, when 81 degrees was reported by the weather bureau. Grand Rapids reports that a severe windstorm struck that place at 6 o'clock which twisted things badly. Shade and fruit trees were damaged. Reports from other points in the western part of the state show that the storm was of great severity and much damage was done.

Confederate Reunion Crowded.

DALLAS, Tex., April 23.—With the Confederate reunion officially twelve hours old and unofficially considerably older, it is estimated that there are 125,000 visitors in Dallas, and there were 80,000 visitors at the camp in the fair grounds alone. "The crowd is too large to command," said Colonel Slaughter. "Thousands who have no right to do so are sleeping at the camp and eating at our expense."

Black Hills Snowed In.

DEADWOOD, S. D., April 23.—In the past twenty-four hours thirty inches of snow has fallen throughout the Black Hills, and business is suspended. A high wind accompanies the storm. There will be some loss of cattle on the ranches, but the weather is not severe.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and cooler; south winds, shifting to west.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

Every year the people of Plainfield realize with considerable force that the Common Council, which granted the franchise to the local trolley company, made one mistake. The time, according to the ordinance, when the trolley company shall begin to sprinkle the streets set for May 15. Until that date, the company is free to run its cars through the city streets without any regard for the clouds of dust that inevitably follow their path. The city is helpless and has no redress unless it is to act against the company for maintaining a nuisance.

The next time the trolley company is desirous of obtaining any pivilege from the city, it will be well, indeed, if the Common Coucnil demands a rearrangement of the terms regarding sprinkling. There should be no time limit in the new contract. Instead, the company should be compelled to sprinkle the streets through which its tracks run when ever they become dusty, irrespective of the season of the year.

If the company was really anxious to win the commendation of the people of Plainfield, it could find no better way than to put the street sprinkler to work as soon as it is needed, without waiting for the time to come when its use is compulsory. Such an evident desire to serve the interests of the city at large would be very generally appreciated. It is an opportunity for the new management to redeem itself.

This idea of a public debate on the questions of annexation and consolidation is one that will appeal to every fair-minded citizen. Mayor Smalley's proposition, that it be held in Saengerbund Hall and that only borough voters and property owners be allowed to be present, is a good one. Both city and borough lack a place of enough proportions even to allow a good representation of boroughites to attend, let alone a sizable one from the city as well. As long as the question of annexation is to be decided by boroughites alone, they are the ones for whom such a debate, as proposed, would be of the greatest interest. There should be a series of three debates so that all could have an opportunity to hear these important questions argued.

A QUIET CHURCH WEDDING

MARRIAGE OF MISS CATHERINE M. KIELY AND THOS. GOUGH THIS AFTERNOON.

Took Place at St. Joseph's Church—The Bridal Party—A Small Reception Followed Ceremony.

In St. Joseph's church, at precisely at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Miss Catherine M. Kiely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kiely, of Steiner place, and Thomas Gough, of this city, were married according to the ritual of the church. Rev. William Miller, the pastor of the church, officiated, and there was a large congregation of friends present.

The bridemaid was Miss May Burke, a cousin of the bride, and the best man was William J. Martin, of Newark, a cousin of the groom. After the simple, yet impressive ceremony, the bridal party repaired to the bride's home, where a reception was held. The wedding supper was attended by only the relatives and intimate friends. Early this evening Mr. and Mrs. Gough will board an express for Washington, D. C., where they will spend a fortnight. On their return they will live at 39 Prospect place.

The bride was gowned in white organdie trimmed with chiffon lace, and she carried an ivory covered prayer book. The bridemaid wore a gown of pale green albatross trimmed with applique and carried bridal roses. Many presents were received by the bride, among them being a handsome dinner set, the gift of the clerks at Hill & Shupp's store. For over eight years Mrs. Gough was a trusted employe of the firm of Crosby & Hill.

ALL READY FOR "PATIENCE"

FULL REHEARSAL SHOWED IT WILL BE WELL GIVEN.

Successful Rendition of the Opera Last Night—Dress Rehearsal Tonight—Rendered Tomorrow.

A rehearsal of "Patience," the comic opera to be rendered by local talent, took place at the Casino last evening and proved satisfactory in every respect. All the members in the caste were present with the exception of Graham Reed, who takes a leading part. Howard Case acted as director, while Vincent Sokol was accompanist.

Everything moved smoothly and the two acts in Gilbert & Sullivan's famous play were rehearsed, without any hitches. The principal characters in the caste as well as the choruses seemed to understand full well what was expected of them and they acted with much precision. Most of the work devolved upon William Holmes, naturally on account of the part he takes, which is that of Reginald Bunthrone, the fleshy poet.

Very little fault could be found with the chorus work and this was also true of the solo parts taken by the various ones in the caste. This evening there will be a dress rehearsal. The bright and becoming uniforms of the Dragoon guards will be worn by the men's chorus, and as for the other costumes they promise to be equally attractive.

The chorus of rapturous maidens and the chorus of officers of the dragoon guards combined number thirty persons, and each member possesses a trained voice. The matter of scenery has not been overlooked. Act 1 represents the exterior of the Castle Bunthrone, and Act 2, a glade. There has been a good sale of tickets and from all accounts a crowded house will be witnessed at the Casino tomorrow evening.

Funeral of Mrs. Perrine.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Robert Perrine were hold from her late residence on Arlington avenue yesterday afternoon. They were in charge of Rev. J. O. SECOND-HAND PLAYING CARDS

Queer Business of Which an Elderly New York Man Has the Monopoly.

There is an elderly man residing on First avenue, New York, who has been earning a living for many years by buying and selling second-hand playing cards, says the Sun. He pays from one cent to four cents a pack for double pinocle decks and an average of two cents a pack for regular decks of 52 cards.

After buying the cards he takes them to his home where his wife cleans and scours them and puts them in the sun to dry. When they are dry he takes them around to the saloons on the East side and disposes of them at prices ranging from four cents to nine cents a pack.

In this way he earns from a dollar and a half to three dollars a day. He has a monopoly of the business in New York.

Very frequently he gets hold of cards in good condition which have been discarded by poker players who change packs for luck. These cards, of course, bring higher prices than the old greasy ones of his regular trade.

Rats That Climb Trees.

The people of Jamaica have been making a crusade against the rat, and it was thought that the movement had been entirely successful, but it is now found that the rats have not, as was supposed, been exterminated but have outwitted their persecutors by a complete and interesting change in their manner of life. They have taken, in fact, to tree-climbing, passing the day in treetops, chiefly among the wild pines, then coming forth and feeding undisturbed at night, when their enemy, the imported mongoose, is asleep in the thickets.

HE RULES CONGRESS.

Speaker of House Is Bigger Man Than the President.

Can Force or Prevent Legislation at His Own Sweet Will—One-Man Power Felt in Other Directions.

[Special Washington Letter.]

CONSIDERABLE valuable information concerning national legislation has been condensed into a brief space by an independent local newspaper under the headline: "Bottled up in the House." The news paragraph follows:

More than one senator has taken occasion during this session to refer in debate to what is called the one-man power of the house, and it is quite likely that the feeling against the speaker will manifest itself in more emphatic fashion before the session ends, unless something is done with the measures which the senate has passed.

Just at present the most serious criticism is directed against Speaker Henderson's evident determination to prevent further action upon what is known as the omnibus claims bill. This measure passed the house and went to the senate, where it was amended by the addition of the claim bills which had at various times passed both houses of congress, but had never been favorably acted upon during the same session. Instead of allowing this bill to go to conference, as is the ordinary procedure with amended bills, it has been placed upon the calendar, and there, it is said, it will be buried.

The other bills which have been passed by the senate, and which seem to be bottled up in the house, relate to the subsidy, irrigation, department of commerce, and increase of judges' salaries. It is said to be quite doubtful whether any one of them will be allowed to come before the house for action. Quite a number of senators whose states are interested in this legislation have been appealed to by members of the house; and it is not improbable, in case nothing is done toward bringing them to a vote, that some if not all of the measures will be attached to appropriation bills in order to insure their enactment into law.

That is not only a correct statement of existing conditions in the congress, but it presents a very accurate picture of the conditions which annually obtain. It shows that while the house of representatives may legislate, and the senate may amend the bills which originate in the house, it is in the power of one man, a representative of a single district out of 357, to block all national legislation, provided that one representative shall have been favored by his fellow-representatives by election to the position of speaker of the house of representatives. Of course, you understand that the speaker is the presiding officer, and that upon him devolves the appointment of all of the chairmen and members of the committees of the popular branch of the congress.

That is a dangerous power to be committed to the judgment of one individual. In the early days the speakers did not arrogate to themselves any more than their constitutional prerogatives. But since presidents have been aggrandizing for their own delectation speakers have grown into the habit of magnifying their office, and the complaints of senators which are embodied in the protest mentioned indicate that there is a revolutionary period impending—a peaceful but everlasting revolution in the methods of doing the business of this republic. If the people are to remain supreme they will demonstrate sooner or later to their public servants that they are servants of the people and not their masters. This lesson must first be administered to some speaker of the house of representatives, whomsoever he may be, and afterwards it will be administered to whosoever of our citizens may be serving as president of the republic. Men who have been too long in public life sometimes forget that they are public servants, and arrogate unto themselves prerogatives which they would never dream of in their early days of crooking the pregnant hinges of the knee before the voting people, in order that thrift may follow their fawning. John Smith may be elected to congress again and again, and he may become speaker or president some day, but he must never forget that he is plain John Smith when at home in Waybackville.

SENATOR M. A. HANNA.
(Author and Promoter of the Shipping Subsidy Bill.)

The present incumbent of the speakership is a plain man of the people, and it is not true that he has gone any farther in the matter of dictating the policies of the house of representatives than have his predecessors. On the contrary, his exercise of power has been conservative in every way. He sticks close to his duties as a representative of his district and attends to his duties as a congressman as faithfully as he did before his elevation to the high office which he holds.

Probably the most arrogant of all speakers was Thomas B. Reed, of Maine. His party had a very small majority, and all of its members followed the leadership of Speaker Reed with the devotion and fidelity of trained soldiers of the regular army. They followed him blindly, in a sense, and oftentimes they followed him when such following was against their individual judgments as to party and national welfare. But they followed until Mr. Reed obtained and maintained a leadership which was exceedingly autocratic. Under his direction all precedents were overruled and overthrown. And yet, as times make men and environments develop great events, Speaker Reed seems to have been the man for the place and the hour.

Reverting to the quoted news paragraph it will be seen that measures of vast importance are pending. If it be true that the presiding officer of the house is endeavoring by direction or indirection to hinder or defeat the omnibus claims bill, he is rendering the country a good service. That bill contains an aggregation of claims amounting into the millions. Some of them are meritorious, but many of them are lacking in merit. Many thousands of dollars of the money of the people are sometimes frittered away by conservative statesmen, in order that claims of merit may be allowed. This is true of the omnibus claims bill.

CONGRESSMAN HEPBURN.
(His Judgment Will Decide Fate of Department of Commerce.)

The people must not suppose that their representatives are personally interested in these claims, nor that any one of the senators or representatives would be individually benefited by the enactment of that bill. But each statesman has an interest in behalf of some good citizen of his state or congressional district, and is endeavoring to aid such worthy individuals by urging the enactment of the bill which, as its name implies, is omnibus in character.

The Hanna shipping subsidy bill is also mentioned as being "bottled up in the house." That measure has been passed by the senate, but it is doubtful if it could be passed in the house of representatives if all other important legislation were laid aside solely for the consideration of the subsidy bill. Its enemies are numerous and active.

The irrigation bill is an important measure, which the speaker individually favors; but, in his capacity as speaker, it may not be deemed judicious for him to officially favor a measure of such magnitude, particularly as the pending bill is framed. It is well known that the president favors irrigation of our arid lands, for he has so stated in his message to congress.

Another pending measure mentioned is that providing for the creation of a department of commerce, with its head as a member of the cabinet. This also has the favor of the president, and quite a number of our best constructive statesmen. Congressman Hepburn, of Iowa, as chairman of the house committe on commerce, will have more to say about the adoption or rejection of this measure than the speaker. If he favors it, it will be reported from his committee. If he does not favor it, it will not be reported.

Right here is another matter of importance for the people to know and understand. Every chairman of committee is an autocrat in his sphere. It is practically impossible for any bill before the congress to have any show of consideration without the active favor of the chairman of the committee to which it has been referred. This fact emphasizes the other fact which has been urgently brought to the attention of the people; namely, that in every portion of our federal government there is too much of one man power to be compatible and consistent with the prime principles of a republic.

Whil calling attention to all of these matters of pending legislation, and to the methods which obtain in our government of the people; and while criticising the imperial powers exercised by individuals, the reader will understand that there is no idea of partisanship in such animadversions. It makes no difference which party happens to be in power for a little period. All men love power. Few men know how to conservatively exercise it for the general welfare, unless safeguarded by constitutional environments which shall be patriotically observed.

The Chameleon Spider.

The chameleon spider is one of those spiders which do not spin webs. It sits among the yellow petals of the black-eyed daisy, with which it is very much alike in color, and when a butterfly flits along springs out and seizes it with a bound like that of a tiger. Thus the stock of butterflies whose caterpillars are ruinous to orchards and gardens is kept down.

AN ACCOMPLISHED BANTAM.

Kansas Girl Has a Little Rooster That Boxes or Crows at Her Command.

"Punch" is an intelligent, belligerent and noisy bantam rooster, and he belongs to Mildred Brouse, an Armourdale (Kan.) girl. She has raised "Punch" from the time he was a fluffy chicken which could sleep in a teacup, until now, full grown, he would have difficulty in roosting in a quart measure. Mildred has devoted some attention to the education of "Punch," and she is as fond of him as he is of "Judy," the little brown hen which was given him for company a few months ago. "Punch's" special accomplishments show great intelligence and careful training, says the Kansas City Star.

"Punch, here Punch," Mildred calls, and the bantam trots up to her from a neighbor's flower garden or from behind the barn, followed by "Judy." He flies up and alights on Mildred's outstretched hand at her commands.

"Now crow," she says, and away the bantam goes, straining and twisting his little body, splitting the air with his diminutive "erk-ek-erk-ek-ekrr-rr."

"Crow once more," and again he lets out his voice, while "Judy" looks up admiringly.

"Now we'll have a boxing match," says Mildred, as she places "Punch" in position at his corner of an improvised ring. "Punch's" favorite antagonist is Mildred's grandfather, and as Mr. Enochs makes passes at the little fellow he defends himself with beak and claws, pecking at the veins and cords of the hand, making passes, feints, undercuts and hooks with his feet. "Punch" never tires of this game, and he plays it with the utmost good nature.

MATINEE LUNCHEON BASKETS

New Idea That Threatens to Do Away with the Candy-Eating Habit in Theaters.

The matinee girl and the matinee woman are not supposed to be completely equipped unless they carry into the theater a box of candy. But all that's likely to be changed now, says a Chicago exchange.

Instead of chocolate creams and caramels the matinee girl who knows what is right is carrying nowadays a matinee lunch basket. The baskets, to be in accord with the prescribed style, ought to be pretty little affairs.

Some of them are made of delicate sweet grass; others of fine roots or birch bark or closely woven twine. Inside they are lined with waxed paper.

The contents may be almost anything that suits the matinee girl's tooth and taste—little finger sandwiches, wafers, sweet cakes, stuffed prunes, salted nuts, and so on. Instead of a finger bowl the basket contains a moist little sponge. Japanese paper napkins complete the outfit.

For the drinkables the matinee girl will have to depend on the theater's water carriers, until some ingenious person invents a theater canteen that isn't in the way.

THE CHILD'S HAIR.

A Few Hints on How to Take Care of It Properly.

The features of a child cannot be changed, the luster of its eyes cannot be added to, but a child, however plain, can be made attractive by the mother paying attention to two details—its hair and its complexion. A beautiful skin will transform even the ugliest features, and a cloud of silky hair has given more than one woman the illusion of being beautiful. Most mothers are careful of a child's complexion, but neglect its hair; so it is on this subject I am going to speak.

In the first place, it is a great mistake to suppose that frequent washings are bad for the scalp and that children are apt to take cold from having their hair washed. If the soap is carefully rinsed out, no possible harm can be caused to the hair, no matter how often it is washed. Secondly, if the hair is carefully dried the child cannot possibly take cold, and, indeed, the operation does much to lessen the tendency of some children to colds in the head and sore throat. The custom of wetting the hair before combing or brushing is one which ought to be thoroughly condemned. The hair should be brushed while it is dry until the electricity in it makes it crackle. This will insure a healthy and luxuriant growth more than any tonic in the world. The comb should be used sparingly on a child's tender head, and the use of a fine tooth comb ought to be relegated to a chamber of horrors.

THAT TORTURING FINE COMB.

The operation of brushing the hair can be made a very enjoyable one to the child by always associating it with a few pleasant words or a fairy tale. As soon as the child is old enough it should be taught to spend a certain number of minutes brushing its hair every night before going to bed.

The hair should be washed in at least three waters—one with soap and two to rinse with. A cake of pure castile or good tar soap is the only proper thing to use.

HELEN CLIFTON.

DAINTY BEDROOMS.

Cretonne Is Much Used Both In City and Country Houses.

An airy, cheerful appearance is one of the essentials of the modern bedroom. It must have large windows, light woodwork and a general absence of the somber draped effects so dear to our mothers.

Cretonne in the heavily ribbed English variety is much used for sleeping apartments both in city and country houses. It is artistic as well as cheap. Very often it is used both to upholster the furniture and to cover the walls. The illustration shows a cretonne room and what is also known as a fitted bed room. It is so called because it has seats and cupboards fitted into the walls. This is an excellent idea in a small room. The woodwork is white and the cretonne pink and pale green. On each side of the pretty fireplace there are three shelves for books. Instead of a frieze the wall has a series of niches holding graceful bits of jade green ware. To the right closets are built into the wall, and the door of one of these holds a full length mirror.

A FITTED BEDROOM.

Everything in this pretty room is planned to economize space.

MADGE MORAN.

The New Parasols.

Parasols are wonderfully made and ornamented with more frills and lace than may easily be mentioned. The Dolly Varden silks are among some of the fancy carriage affairs, and as this silk is mostly offered in thin qualities we see chiffon printed in these old fashioned designs edged with much lace. What did woman ever do without lace? The prettiest of all the parasols are those where the body of the shade is of chiffon, with several floating flounces, while the whole of the top is overlaid with fine black thread lace. There are some exquisite ones made in this way. Others have black chiffon, with white lace applications.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

Pettibone rubbed the back of his head as he said this and assumed such an injured air that Guy had to laugh in spite of his vexation.

Lem Bilkins te-he'd once more, Glimmer unbent himself so far as to smile and Pettibone, who always had a laugh lurking somewhere close to the surface, was caught in the general hilarity.

"Anyway," qualified the sheriff, "there ain't going to be much fun in this for you, Herbert. Of course, you haven't broken any of the statutes, but the Concord folks won't stop to think of that."

"Well, I've an idea that I can take care of myself," said Guy. "I have told you once or twice and I tell you again, I haven't done anything treasonable and I'm just as loyal to Concord as Col. Keever himself."

Glimmer and Bilkins exchanged sly glances and tittered suggestively. Guy kindled at this but said nothing and went with Pettibone to help him back the horse and carriage out of the brush. By the time they were started, Glimmer and Bilkins were two galloping specks on the horizon.

"You're pretty powerful in a set to," observed Pettibone, driving with one hand and stroking the back of his head with the other. "Your looks are deceivin', Herbert."

"Perhaps the rest of the Concord people will find that out if they take too arbitrary a course," said Guy, significantly.

"I was only trying to do my duty and you treated me a little bit rough," continued Pettibone, "but I know how it is. A pair of blue eyes have bewitched more than one young feller, and I'm not going to lay up anything against you. I don't think you'd be such a fool as to help Harmony at the expense of Concord, knowingly, but Miss Betty is pretty cute. She's coddlin' you along just to find out what our side is doing, and—"

"You're mistaken!" cried Guy so sharply and suddenly that Pettibone gave a startled jump and then settled back in his seat with a low whistle. "Miss Vlandingham is far above any such double-dealing as that."

The sheriff shook his head hopelessly.

"That's exactly the way it strikes in," he muttered. "I had the same kind of a spell and got so ethereal I didn't want to eat or do a blessed thing but write poetry. If Matilda had told me grasshoppers were butterflies or that jimson pods were lilies of the valley, I'd have fought with the man who called 'em by their right names. That was before we got married, though; now it's different."

"What are you talking about, Pettibone?" The sheriff laid a hand on his heart and winked.

"That little chap with a pair of wings and a bow and arrow has been getting in his work on you, and he's hit you so fair and square that everybody can see it."

"Pshaw!" exclaimed Guy, coloring. "Don't talk nonsense."

"I'm not. Betty Vlandingham is a fine girl, but she's on the other side o' the fence. She bosses her father and her father bosses the town, consequently things go about as she says over in Harmony. But looket here, Herbert—" the sheriff dropped his hand lightly on Guy's knee—"'twon't do for you to be meeting her. As far as I'm personally concerned, I think you're true as a die, and I don't lay up anything against you on account of that crack on the head and your work with the halter. There are others, though, who won't think as I do when they"—he nodded his head toward the little column of dust far in advance—"strike Concord. They'll publish your meeting with Miss Vlandingham from one end of town to the other. And what will be the result?" He shook his head seriously. "I hate to think of it, I do for a fact. You musn't meet that girl again, Herbert—at least not before the election."

"Small chance of my ever meeting her again," said Guy in angry discontent. "She sent a line to me, as I told you, asking me to come alone and meet her and Miss Pinkney. Now she thinks I'm a treacherous hound, who disregarded her request and brought you and Glimmer and Bilkins—confound them—along with me."

Much bitterness of spirit was manifested in Guy's voice, and the sheriff gave him his earnest attention.

"You'll have plenty of chances to explain," said he, "and when Betty Vlandingham finds out how she has wronged you she'll think all the more of you. Oh, I know 'em! 'Twas that way with me and Matilda. Why, we used to quarrel every few days before we got married, and now look at us! Hitched, by gee, and quarrelin' all the time." Pettibone chuckled to himself. "You leave Vlandingham's girl alone until we win this election, then waltz over to Harmony and tell her you want to give her a dower interest in your town. She'll snap you up too quick, see if she don't."

On reaching Concord, Guy went with Pettibone to put up his horse, and then they made for the hotel. Passing the Emporium, they saw Mr. Glimmer inside holding forth to a small and select gathering of citizens. Farther on, in front of the drug store, was Lem Bilkins, likewise engaged. When Guy and Pettibone passed the second group, Bilkins hushed his discourse, and every man to whom he had been speaking turned a glaring eye in Guy's direction.

"It's very evident," remarked Guy, "that I'm a prophet without honor in my own town. Before long, however, every one in Concord will see how greatly he was mistaken."

"I hope they'll see that before they do anything to be sorry for," muttered Pettibone.

Guy did not hear this, and perhaps it was just as well.

They had supper—a late supper of the kind which Pedro Smith husbanded for stragglers—and during the meal, and afterward as they sat smoking in the office, the sheriff continually manifested the nervousness of his state of mind. The slightest noise would startle him. Once, at a whirr of wheels in the street, he sprang up and ran to the door, returning in a few moments pale and fidgety.

"What's the matter with you, Pettibone?" inquired Guy.

"I'm expecting something and am afraid it's going to come."

"What is it?"

"A delegation of citizens looking for you."

Guy laughed.

"That's giving you more concern than it is me. Suppose we go to bed? If the delegation arrives after that I hardly think they will dare to disturb us."

The indignation committee, if such it might be called, did not put in an appearance that night, nor the next morning. Late in the afternoon of the following day, however, as Guy was seated at the writing table in the hotel office, struggling with a letter of explanation which he designed sending to Miss Betty, five representative citizens presented themselves.

"Gee!" murmured Pettibone, despairingly; "here they are, Herbert."

Mr. Pinney, the druggist, was one of them; and Mr. Leffingwell, proprietor of the livery stable; and Mr. Glimmer, of the Emporium; and Mr. Biggs, the county treasurer—carrying a tin box—and, last if not least, the redoubtable Colonel.

The redoubtable Colonel had had 24 hours in which to recover his equipoise and he had succeeded admirably. To look at him now, his white hat tipped slightly over his right eye, the tip of his cane planted firmly on the office floor, one foot thrown over the other, his frock coat caught together with the two lower buttons and his left hand thrust into his bosom—to look at him thus, he gave no suggestion of his wild struggle and exhausting footrace of the preceding afternoon.

Guy minced into fine fragments the dozenth sheet on which he had tried to write, threw the pieces into a waste basket and turned upon the gentlemen who were grouped beside him. He noted their grim and determined looks and there was a portentous silence.

"The wolf's legs performed excellent service yesterday afternoon," remarked Guy, by way of breaking the ice.

"We have not come here to discuss that particular wolf, sir," answered the Colonel, with an uneasy side glance in the direction of his friends. "Another wolf is the object of this call, a wolf in sheep's clothing, sir! A wolf with the outward guise of a loyal gentleman, but with a heart of—"

"Softly!" interrupted Guy. "Don't forget how I bumped you against the partition the other day. If you made me very angry, Colonel, I might do more than that."

The Colonel's bosom began to heave. It was the wolf, probably, seeking to get out, and show its white teeth, and snap. But the wolf did no more than shake its chin, for the Colonel calmed the brute after a prodigious effort.

"Sir," went on the Colonel, huskily, "you are young and I will bear with you. I am heading this delegation, this righteously indignant delegation, more in sorrow than in anger. "We have an indictment against you and I will read it, count by count." Mr. Glimmer handed the Colonel a paper and the latter continued: "You are charged, Mr. Herbert, with treasonable conduct which gravely imperils the interests of this town. Specifically, the counts are as follows:

"WE HAVE AN INDICTMENT AGAINST YOU."

"First; a visit to Vlandingham's house on Monday evening last Have you anything to say?"

Guy shook his head

GIRLS FIGHT A DUEL.

Both Fell in Love with an Indian Trapper and Then Wanted to Kill Each Other.

Two young American girls, brought up by careful mothers in homes of wealth, luxury, and refinement, accustomed from babyhood to all the ultra-conventionalities of polite society of the cities in which they lived, met recently in the Wisconsin woods, armed with rifles, and anxious each one to kill the other for love of a handsome quarter-breed Indian trapper. The two young girls, who, in all their lives, had hardly been out of a city, met in the woods and within two weeks both were in love with an Indian guide, a Howgli of a man, and were ready to do murder upon each other for him.

JIM MERELY LAUGHED.

The two girls are Della Shorest, of Philadelphia, the daughter of a wealthy lumberman, who owns many acres of hard and soft wood near Fenlon, Wis., and Evelyn Mahoney, daughter of a Milwaukee lumberman, whose extensive holdings find their headquarters at Mellen, Wis.

It happened that Jim Short, a handsome and muscular guide, had been recommended to each of the girls by the young men of their acquaintance as a superfine snowshoe and ski teacher.

Each took a good many lessons of him, and each without knowing it fell in love with him. Then each found out that the other took lessons of him. Each was jealous and each upbraided Short. He laughed, then each girl became furious at the other one.

Finally the girls met, and the Philadelphia maid jumped from the wagon she was driving and plied the horsewhip across the face, neck, and back of Miss Mahoney, who was walking with Short.

As a result, says the Chicago Tribune, a duel was arranged a few days ago in a clearing between Mellen and Fenlon. The seconds—country girls—decided there should be no bloodshed, air rifles were secured from Ashland, and the two city girls told they were just alike and of the latest pattern.

The Philadelphia girl fired when the Milwaukee maid was about to pull the trigger. Miss Mahoney felt the blow on her chest and fell. When she found that the air gun bullet had not touched the skin she was ready for a reconciliation.

So was the other girl, who thought she was a murderess.

WAS GLAD TO ESCAPE.

One Woman Beats a Burglar with a Washboard and Another Shoots at Him.

Mrs. Jennie Williams, of Sioux City, Ia., late at night, finding her door apparently about to be blown open by the wind, attempted to shut it, when she found a burglar on the outside. He said he was coming in, but she seized a washboard and beat him over the head with it and escaped in her night clothes to the home of Fred Beckwith, a neighbor.

The burglar then went to the home of Mrs. Anna Mauger who, peering out of the window to see what had happened, looked into his face. She instantly fired a revolver through the window, but he escaped.

Thoroughly frightened, she sat in the kitchen till morning holding a cocked revolver ready to give him a warm reception should he return. The police have found no clews.

Powerful Polish Intoxicant.

Polinsky is a powerful intoxicant, used chiefly by the Polish coal miners in Pennsylvania. It is made of stale beer, cheap whisky and various spices. It is drank as an "enlivener" at christenings, weddings and wakes, and in one hour the entire company is roaring drunk, in two hours there is an uproarious rumpus, and knives come into play.

WHERE TROLLEYS MEET.

WANTED MOLLESON ARRESTED

CHARGED THAT BOROUGH COUNCILMAN CONSIDERED HIM SUSPICIOUS.

Lad Was Wandering Along Grove Street—Said Mr. Lee Took Him to Chief Campbell.

There is much indignation on the part of the friends of Chester Mollison, of East Second street, on account of the treatment he received at the hands of Councilman Charles A. Lee, of Grove street, Monday evening.

The young man, who is employed as a clerk in Charles Tallman's grocery store, was wandering on Grove street, in the vicinity of Mr. Lee's residence. At the time he was walking up and down in front of the place, when it is alleged that the Councilman came out of his house and questioned the lad, with a view of ascertaining the reason for his being in the locality.

Apparently unsatisfied with the answers given, Mr. Lee, it is said, forcibly escorted the boy to Somerset street.

It is declared that he demanded of Chief Campbell that the boy be locked up as a suspicious character. This request, it is said, the chief refused to grant, explaining that the boy is well known in the vicinity, and has been a law-abiding person.

No formal legal steps have yet been taken in the matter by the friends of young Molilson.

AT FREEDOM CASTLE.

Uninitiated Were Allowed to Attend the Session of the Knights of The Golden Eagle Last Evening.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, held an open meeting last evening, when a number of friends were invited to enjoy the hospitality of the Knights.

During the early part of the evening there were phonograph selections by Mr. Kohler, after which Sir Knight Harry Kitchell gave a recitation and Sir Knight Laramour gave the officers a drill with the swords. The officers acquitted themselves most creditably, going through the movements with precision and grace.

Later in the evening, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan arrived and took charge of a musical programme which included solos by Sir Knight Anderson, H. J. Martin and others. A pleasant feature of the evening was the smoker, cigars being furnished in abundance to the members and their friends.

MAY MEAN MURDER.

Blood-Stained Clothing Found in Hole Under House Owned by T. A. Edison, at Bernardsville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Morristown, April 23—While walking around a house owned by Thomas A. Edison at Bernardsville, Monday afternoon, George Abers, a resident of that town, noticed under one of the rear porches several heavy boards stained with blood. Upon raising the planks he found a hole several feet square, at the bottom of which were several articles of women's clothing and a bed quilt, covered with blood, over which earth had been thrown. He immediately reported the case to Squire Dunster, who, with the aid of several detectives, is now investigating the affair.

Last summer the house was occupied by two sons of Mr. Edison. The general impression is that a murder has taken place, the body having been removed and the clothing left. Up to the present no arrests have been made.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Mosher, wife of Justice J. E. Mosher, who has been very ill for many months past, is much worse today. Her troubles seem to have affected her mind making her relatives and friends very anxious concerning her.

Thomas U. Smith, formerly of this city, but now of New York, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. E. B. Smith, of Westervelt avenue, who has been ill for several weeks. He started with her Monday morning for Glen Cove, L. I., where she hopes to regain her health.

Its Own Water Meter.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company will soon install a new water gauge in its offices in this city. By this means it can be determined at any time how much water there is in the stand-pipe at Netherwood.

Goes to Headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Johnson, of this city, will soon move to Philadelphia, where Mr. Johnson will be employed in the main offices of the New Jersey Central Railroad Company.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cures such cases. M. B. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

WHAT PRAYER ACCOMPLISHES

A STRONG SERMON BY EVANGELIST PRATT LAST EVENING.

Told of What it Has Done and How the Church Must Use It Nowadays.

"Does prayer avail much and how much does it accomplish?" was the question asked and answered by Evangelist J. R. Pratt at the Monroe Avenue church last night.

His text was the statement made by St. James "that the fervent effectual prayer of the righteous man availed much." This refers first of all to the man who is righteous in the sight of God and the earnest agonizing prayers of such men have availed much in the history of the world. The speaker cited the examples of Elijah, of Christ on many occasions, of Moses, of Peter, of Paul.

Jonathan Edwards stirred New England in the "great revival" through a preparation made in earnest personal prayer with God. Father Nash spent his nights in prayer for India, China and other Christless nations until the spirit of modern missions was born. The Queen of Scotland feared the prayers of John Knox more than English armies. Pentecost was the outcome of a ten days' prayer meeting.

If the church would win converts she must be much in earnest organizing prayer, must travail with God for the converson of the sinful.

The law of heredity which prevails in the natural world prevails also in the spiritual palm. Like begets like. The cold formal dead church if she wins converts at all will produce nothing but children who will soon or later freeze to death.

"We need a higher type of Christianity in the churches in order to bring forth right kind of converts." When God's people are on their forces before Him in supplication for the unsaved then conviction of sin will go through the community and men and women will desire salvation.

God gives a church all the converts she is able to take care of. If the scene of three thousands souls saved at Pentecost was to be re-enacted in Plainfield, could the churches here take care of them, or would they go hungry for spiritual sustenance or freeze for lack of spiritual warmth?

At the invitation of the evangelist many arose at the conclusion of service to ask that prayers might be offered for friends, relatives, members of Sunday classes or for themselves.

Mr. Pratt speaks again this evening at 8 o'clock and conducts an hour of Bible study each afternoon at 3 o'clcok. He is exceptionally well fitted for this kind of work having spent many years in conducting institutions for Bible study.

TO RAISE MONEY.

Meeting to Discuss Ways and Means for Supporting Open Air Band Concerts This Summer.

In an effort to devise means to hold band concerts this summer, a meeting will be held in the parlors of the Hotel Kensington, this evening. The call has been issued by Ben LaVere, the popular bandmaster, and he expects a response from public-spirited citizens.

As announced in The Daily Press some days ago a proposition to hold a fair will be considered, but other suggestions will be welcomed. It is imperative to start the arrangements at once in order to have funds at hand during the forepart of June. If the plan meets with success, a series of public concerts will be given weekly in the City Park or some other acceptable place.

TRUST COMPANY'S NEW HOME

LEASE SIGNED YESTERDAY FOR STORE ON EAST FRONT STREET.

In Quarters Temporarily Occupied by the Postoffice—Will Build a New Front.

The Plainfield Trust Company, through Charles J. Fisk, a member of a committee to secure a place for carrying on business, signed a lease yesterday for the business property on East Front street occupied by the postoffice temporarily while the present quarters were being repaired. The property is owned by Matthew Suydam, of Franklin Park, and is considered to be adapted to the business for which it has been leased. It is proposed, however, to put in an entire new front, giving it more the appearance of a banking institution.

The store is about twenty-four feet wide, with a depth of 175 feet. The depth is considered more value than width in such a business and it will make it possible to have a number of apartments for the transaction of the banking and trust business. The place will be thoroughly equipped with handsome furniture and the necessary vaults for the safe keeping of money and papers.

The work of fixing the place preparatory to commencing business operations will be started at once and the company hopes to take possession about June 1. The place is leased for a term of three years, and contains the usual provision, that is if the company desires to remain after the expiration of the three years, it can do so.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Rev. G. W. Smith, of LaGrande avenue, has removed to Gregory avenue, Passaic.

—Abram Case, of Three Bridges, was in this city yesterday making arrangements to move here.

—The price of Rockdale prints and creamery butter, at Neuman Brothers, is lower than usual. Try a pound.

—The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning, May 4.

—Wm. Palmer, of Park avenue, will leave next month for the Catskills, where he has taken a position for the summer.

Cosmopolitan Manila.

The cosmopolitan nature of the population of Manila is shown by an incident recently in the police court there. A white American, with an American negro, a Spaniard, and a Chinaman as his witnesses, appeared before the magistrate to press his complaint against a Filipino whom he had caused to be arrested on the charge of stealing his trunk. The case was held over to give the defendant an opportunity to procure the attendance of his witnesses, a Malay and a Japanese. Few other cities in the World can match such a combination.—Toledo Blade.

Romance Versus Reality.

"Are you still heart whole and fancy free?" queried the funny bachelor of the pretty waitress as he lined up in front of the lunch counter.

"Well," replied the p. w., frankly, "my heart and hand may be had by some good man for the asking."

"Sorry I'm not in the eligible class," rejoined the f. b., "for, being hopelessly bad, I must content myself with asking you for some pork and beans."—Chicago Daily News.

No Incentive.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "do you think that women ought to be prevented from voting?"

"Certainly not!"

"Wouldn't you try to stop me if I wanted to go to the polls?"

"Not for an instant!"

"Well, then what in the world is the use of wanting to vote?"—Washington Star.

Just Once More.

"Ah!" said the prison visitor to the convicted murderess, "when you think of your impending doom does not your memory revert longingly to the days of your innocent childhood?"

"Well," replied the doomed creature, "I surely would like to skip the rope."—Waterbury American.

GRAND ARMY VETERANS TO MEET IN MAY

Annual State Encampment Will be Held at New Brunswick May 21 and 22.

ALREADY PREPARING.

OUTLINE OF PROGRAMME PLANNED FOR THE TWO DAYS SESSIONS.

First Time Encampment Was Ever Held at New Brunswick — The Woman's Relief Corps and the G. A. R. Ladies Also Meet.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, April 24—The annual State Encampment of the G. A. R., of New Jersey, will meet this year in New Brunswick for the first time in its history. Already preparations are being made for the two days' session. The encampment will be held in Columbia Hall May 21-22 and at the same time the annual convention of the Woman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to the G. A. R. and the Ladies of the G. A. R., a separate organization, will also be held here. This will bring a large gathering of men and women to this city.

This will be the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Grand Army. The sessions will be presided over by the State Commander John Lawrence and will be open only to the members of the organization who are delegates. Two sessions will be held on each day with a camp fire on the night of May 21. This will be opened to the public.

The headquarters of the G. A. R. will be at the Mansion House. The Council of Administration will be held there on the night of May 20 preceding the opening session. The Women' Relief Corps will hold their sessions in the lodge room over the People's Bank building and have their headquarters in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church. The Ladies of the G. A. R. will meet in the lodge rooms over the Savings Bank and have their headquarters at the Mansion House.

The business sessions of the G. A. R. will be held on the morning and afternoon of the two days, the morning session each day commencing at 10 o'clock. The election of officers will take place on the second day when they will be installed. An effort is being made to get the present State commander to take the office for another year. The commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. in the United States, Judge Ell Torrence, of Minneapolis, will be present one day.

The public meeting will be of general interest, a feature of the programme being the appearance of Major R. H. Hendershot, the Drummer Boy of the Rappahannock, and his son, J. C. Hendershot, of Chicago. The Major will give several selections upon the original drum which was presented to him by Horace Greeley.

There will also be speaking by prominent G. A. R. men and music by a local quartette in which the Messrs. Crouch will take part.

The G. A. R. now has 5,583 members and 109 posts in the State. The finances are in better condition than ever before. In 1869 there were 684 members, in 1892, 7,830 members and 1901, 5,650. The number of deaths for the year will be about five per cent. of the membership. Last year there were 225 deaths and this year's report will show about the same percentage.

The encampment is held here upon the invitation of Robert Boggs Post, of this city, and it has charge of the arrangements. State Commander Lawrence is the chairman of the committee of arrangements which consists of nine members. It is expected that from 400 to 600 veterans will be in attendance and the members of the committee will be glad to hear from any residents who conduct boarding houses or have rooms for transient boarding. Two members of the committee have been appointed to solicit subscriptions for the defraying of the expenses.

To Improve Church.

The pastor and officers of the Mt. Olive Baptist church are planning to make some improvements at the church, prior to entertaining the New England Baptist convention.

Pledge Meeting.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a pledge meeting tomorrow evening to which the friends of the society are invited.

L. T. L. Meeting.

The Loyal Temperance Legion will meet Wednesday in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

HOW WILL STATUTE AFFECT THE BOROUGH?

Will the Transfer to Union County be Regulated by the Act Recently Passed.

THE LAW IS QUOTED.

CAN IT BE CONSTRUED TO PERMIT THE CHANGE OF THE DISTRICTS?

Attorney General McCarter Has Already Given His Opinion That it Cannot—Some Say Last Act Superceded the Other.

Though North Plainfield become a part of Union county and a portion of this city, the borough may still remain in the fourth Congressional district, according to the opinion of many able lawyers. The question is an intricate one to solve, but Attorney General Thomas N. McCarter, backed up by many other counsellors, gives it as his opinion that the change in the county lines will not effect the boundaries so far as Congressional districts are concerned.

There are some, as for instance Frank Bergen, who believes that North Plainfield will be transferred to the fifth Congressional district by the coming change in the county lines. The question is of such importance that the courts will undoubtedly be asked to decide it. A Federal statute provides that reapportionment may only be had once in a decade, and inasmuch as the district lines were changed last year, it will be impossible for any further action to be taken, in this respect, in nine more years.

It is generally believed that a little clause in chapter five of the acts of 1901 applies to the facts presented in the North Plainfield's case. In full this is as follows:

"In the interpretation of this act all reference to counties, cities, boroughs townships, wards and other municipal divisions shall be taken to refer to such municipal divisions as they existed on the first day of January A. D. nineteen hundred and one."

Though there appears small room for argument in the face of the plain language and true intent of the passage quoted, a claim is made that the act is superceded so far as North Plainfiield is concerned by the acts now commonly kown as the Greater Plainfield bills. It will be for the courts to decide this debatable question definitely.

TO PRESENT PLAY.

"Cranford" Will be Produced by Young People of Holy Cross Church, April 30.

Mrs. Gaskill's charming story of "Cranford" is to be presented in dramatic form at the parish house of the Holy Cross church on the evening of Wednesday, April 30. Several of the performers have already won local fame on the Park Club stage and their reappearance will be an event of interest to many.

Miss Mabel Van Deventer will play the part of "Miss Mattie," and the other characters will be impersonated by Miss Barlow, Miss Burr, the Misses Long, the Misses Moore, Mrs. George O. Stevens, Miss Stevens and Morgan T. Townsend.

Miss Burr's poster cleverly suggests the quaint atmosphere of the time represented in the play. The version used is a dramatization in three acts, by Marguerite Merrington, published in the Ladies' Home Journal.

The programme will also include music and pantomime shadows illustrating "The Modern and Mediaeval Ballad of Mary Jane" with Miss Ida Davis in the title role.

The affair is under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of the Church of the Holy Cross, and the committee in charge is composed of Mrs. J. O. Stevens, Mrs. W. M. Downey and Mrs. Samuel Townsend.

Change in Business.

Henry M. Humphrey, of Hillside avenue, superintendent of the Coffee Exchange, New York, has tendered his resignation to take effect at the end of the month. He will then assume the office of vice president and secretary of the Mutual Alliance Trust Company, incorporated with a capital of $1,000,000, by interests identified with the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Trustees Organized.

The trustees of the First Presbyterian church have organized for the ensuing year as follows: President, Joseph A. Haynes; treasurer, W. H. Shotwell; secretary, Howard A. Pope.

WILL LICENSE HUNTERS.

Governor Murphy Has Announced His Determination to Sign Bill.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 24—Governor Murphy has announced his intention to sign the Horner bill. This measure imposes a license fee of $10 on hunters and sportsmen from other states, who gun for game in this State. South Jersey has been the principal sufferer from these sportsmen and it is believed that this bill effectually disposes of much of the annoyance.

MAYOR SMALLEY HAS COME OUT AT LAST FOR CONSOLIDATION.

Was First for Annexation Only, But Announced His Change at Mayor's Dinner Last Night.

"I can now truthfully say that I am for consolidation, as well as annexation," declared Borough Mayor Newton B. Smalley, in the course of an entertaining speech delivered at the banquet given by City Mayor Olin L. Jenkins, last evening. The remark brought ringing applause from the large party of distinguished citizens of Greater Plainfield, seated about the festive board.

It was notable inasmuch as the progressive mayor of North Plainfield has been an avowed enemy of the cause of consolidation, although one of the firmest advocates of annexation. In all his previous speeches on the subject, in the Council chamber, at informal gatherings and before the Governor, Mayor Samlley has laid stress on the fact that he was an opposed to any theory of consolidating the city and borough.

His reasons were that the best interests of the borough citizens would be served by continuing a separate form of municipal government after it is admitted to Union county. Now he has joined the army of consolidationists.

GROOM FROM PLAINFIELD

MARRIAGE OF MISS CORA T. UNDERHILL TO GERALD LOWE.

The Bride From Litchfield, Conn., Where the Ceremony Took Place Yesterday Afternoon.

The marriage of Gerald Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe, of Park avenue, to Miss Cora Towne Underhill, daughter of Mrs. Franklin Underhill, of New York, took place yesterday at St. Michael's Episcopal church, Litchfield, Conn., in the presence of a large assemblage of guests from New York and vicinity.

The ceremony took place at 12:30 o'clock noon and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Vanderpool, whose home was opened for the occasion. It was planned to have the wedding at Litchfield, owing to the fact that it is the summer home of the bride's mother.

Miss Lotta Lowe, sister of the groom, Miss White and Miss Post, of New York, were the bridemaids, while Miss Underhill, a sister of the bride, was the maid-of-honor. Lewis E. Waring was a member of the bridal party as an usher. The bridemaids were school friends of the bride at Miss Black's school at Ingleside, Conn.

Following a wedding journey. Mr. and Mrs. Lowe will reside in San Francisco, where the groom has established himself in the insurance business. Those from this city who attended the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, the Misses Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Haven and Mrs. Lapsley.

First Snake Story.

The first snake story of the season comes from the West End. Fred Longa, an employe of the Flynt Construction Company, killed one on Clinton avenue yesterday afternoon, which measured five feet. It was of the ordinary black species and was evidently coaxed from the low marshes in the vicinity by the unusually hot sun.

Overcome by Heat.

Mrs. John Carl, of Lee place, was affected by the unusual heat, yesterday afternoon, to such an extent that she fainted away. Her sister, who was near, secured assistance and she was revived but did not fully recover until late last evening.

Illustrated Talk.

Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will give an illustrated talk to the Junior Endeavor Society of the church tomorrow afternoon.

HALF CENTURY FOR THE MAYOR

Mayor O. L. Jenkins Celebrated the Occasion With a Dinner to His Friends.

CITY OFFICIALS THERE.

General Exchange of Compliments and Lots of Nice Things Said About the Mayor—Talked of Annexation and Consolidation—The Excellent Menu.

As a fitting termination to the observance of his fiftieth birthday anniversary, Mayor Olin L. Jenkins gave a dinner last evening at the Hotel Kensington to a number of city officials and a few friends. His Honor is a good entertainer and those who were bidden to the feast thoroughly enjoyed his hospitality. While the affair was more especially one of a social character, it was also an occasion for the discussion of popular subjects. Of course, the Mayor came in for a large share of attention by reason of the fact that it was his celebration and all extended their best wishes for a continuance of his successful government.

The tables in the dining room were arranged in "T" shape and His Honor occupied the seat at the head. After the excellent menu was served and enjoyed, the guests turned their attention to an exchange of compliments in speeches. One of the chief topics of interest was that relative to annexation and consolidation of the city and borough. As Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, was present, the interest of that municipality was well guarded.

Mayor Jenkins, in a speech of welcome to his guests, referred to the pleasant relations among the city officials and the hoped for a continuance of it. He incidentally referred to his celebration, but expressed the wish that all would be easy with him in consequence.

Other speeches then followed by Mayor Smalley, Councilman B. Frank Coriell, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, Councilman George P. Mellick, Charles S. Sminck, Assemblyman William Newcorn, Councilman J. F. Buckle, Frank W. Runyon, A. L. Force and Councilman Robert Lee. In all the speeches made there was a general expression of good will for the city's executive and Plainfield as the garden spot of the world was not forgotten.

The menu was as follows:

Blue Points—Half Shell — Sauterne.
Consomme—Clear.
Striped Bass. — Parisenne Potatoes.
Peaches a la Richelieu.
Radishes. — Celery. — Olives.
Roast Beef. — Sherry.
Asparagus. — New Potatoes.
Roman Punch.
Lettuce Salad.
Strawberry Shortcake. — Claret.
Neapolitan Ice Cream.
Cake. — Coffee. — Camembert Cheese.
Segars.

Those present at the dinner were Mayor O. L. Jenkins, of the city; Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough; Councilmen George P. Mellck, R. I. Tolles, Leslie M. Daniel, Robert L. Lee, Jan vanHerwerden, James F. Buckle, B. Frank Coriell, William L. Gloak, and Frank DeWitt Randolph, City Clerk James T. MacMurray, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett, Chief of Police Patrick Kiely, Postmaster Elias H. Bird, Chief of Fire Department T. O. Doane, City Collector Frank H. Smith, City Judge William N. Runyon, City Treasurer William F. Arnold, Assemblyman Newcorn, Freeholder William A. Westphal, Borough Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, Andrew McArdell, John Stewart, Charles H. Hand, George B. Wean, Edward T. VanWinkle, Charles S. Sminck, George Hallock, Dr. T. S. Davis, Frank W. Runyon and A. L. Force.

Twenty Little Guests.

In honor of his fifth birthday, Roy Hafner, of Woodland avenue, gave a party to his young friends, yesterday afternoon. Twenty were present and spent the afternoon playing games. A supper was served before the little guests departed for home.

Talks of Cup for Firemen.

Mayor Smalley contemplates offering a cup to be contested for by the baseball teams representing the two companies in the North Plainfield fire department.

NEW ENGINEHOUSE.

Petition Asking for It Will be Circulated in the Borough Shortly.

The fire, water and lamps committee of the Borough Council has considered the matter of the erection of a new engine house, as proposed by the Council. It is more than likely that a petition, as required, will be circulated in the borough asking that an appropriation be made for the purpose. This petition will then be presented to the Council according to the requirements of the law.

GALVIN HAS LEASED PARK

WILL OPEN AMUSEMENT GROUNDS AT RECREATION PARK, MAY 30.

There Will be Vaudeville, Ferris Wheel, "Shoot the Shutes" and Other Attractions.

James A. Galvin, who is conducting the theatre in Washington Hall, has just signed a lease for Recreation Park, Osborn Heights, for a term of ten years and will open the place May 30. He has planned to make the Casino fifty feet longer so that it will accommodate 1,200 people. He will also establish a restaurant and today he made a contract with W. F. Bevy, of Bradford, Pa., for a ferris wheel which will carry sixty people. This will be in operation on the opening day.

A vaudeville show will be given throughout the season and an orchestra has been engaged. Mr. Galvin also proposes to have a lake covering an acre and half of ground and here he will operate a "shoot the shute." There will be no liquors on the grounds and six policemen will be on duty all the time to preserve order. At the sound of a large gong the park will close every evening at 11 o'clock.

On Sundays there will be no attractions, but the Park will be open. The place will be obtainable for picnics. Mr. Galvin will close Washington Hall June 5 for the summer.

CITY YOUNG FOLK WEDDED

MISS EDITH DUBOIS BECAME THE WIFE OF ROBERT W. DAVIS.

Ceremony Was Performed Last Evening at the Home of the Bride's Mother on Park Avenue.

Miss Edith May DuBois became the wife of Robert Winthrop Davis, last evening, by the ceremony of the church, performed by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Emma F. DuBois, of Park. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives and the nuptial event was quite brilliant.

The home was tastefully adorned with palms and potted plants as well as a profusion of cut flowers. Miss Mabel Clare DuBois, the younger sister of the bride, was the bridemaid and Alvah B. Davis, an elder brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were C. E. Drange and Charles Sprague. Miss Jessie Utter rendered "Lohengrin" at the commencement of the service and "Mendelssohn's" march at the conclusion. After the beautiful service of the Reformed church was ended a reception took place. At the wedding supper were the more intimate friends and the relatives.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Davis left for the west. They will make short stays at Buffalo and Chicago. At the wedding the bride was gowned in crepe de chine over white taffeta and she carried bridal roses. Her veil was of tulle. The bridemaid was gowned in white Persian lawn over white lace.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside on Park avenue. Mr. Davis is employed in the European department of the American Express Company, whose offices are in New York.

"Black Hattie" Coming.

"Black Hattie," chief of the Prima Donna Singers of New England, with her twelve star vocalists, will give a concert and entertainment in Mt. Olive Baptist church, Thursday evening, May 8. It will be held under the auspices of the Willing Workers of which Mrs. Lula Dempsey is in charge. The proceeds will be for a worthy cause.

Philmore Went to Jail.

A plea of not guilty to disorderly conduct was entered by John Philmore, arrested on Washington avenue, Tuesday afternoon, when arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning. The evidence convinced the court that he was and a fine of $5 or twenty days was imposed. He took the latter.

COUNTY POLITICS AS VIEWED IN ELIZABETH

Elizabeth Journal Comments on Some Political Chatter From Newark News.

IT IS TOO EARLY YET.

THE JOURNAL THINKS SENATOR CROSS MAY BE RETURNED.

Admits That E. R. Ackerman or C. J. Fisk Would Either be a Strong Candidate — Thinks Surrogate Parrot Should be Returned.

Once in a while the papers printed outside of Union county make the experiment of dabbling into the politics of this county. Sometimes they write very interesting articles at other times they come far from the mark that they are, like Chinese pictures, attractive because of their grotesqueness. One of the latest foreign articles appeared recently in the Newark News, and it must be admitted that some of its statements were interesting while others were amusing. Here is its story in the main:

"It is whispered that a strong effort will be made to get Charles Fisk, former mayor of Plainfield, to enter the field against Senator Joseph Cross. Should Plainfield get the senatorial nomination, it would have to forego its ambition for surrogate or sheriff, and let these offices go to some other part of the county. It is not thought, however, that ex-Mayor Fisk can be persuaded to get into the race.

"Some slick wire-pulling has been going on during the past few days. Surrogate Parrot and Senator Cross made a hurried trip to Washington early last week, presumably with the intention of consulting Senator Kean, the Republican boss of the county, on the political situation. Of course neither of these shrewd politicians, who returned home Friday night, will admit that was their errand, but nevertheless the other aspirants stand ready to swear that this was really their mission, and further developments along this line will be anxiously watched for.

"Senator Kean's influence will be a potent factor in determining the complexion of the county ticket, although one prominent aspirant says if he can secure the pledges of the district leaders he thinks he can win out despite the opposition of the bigger guns.

"Among the rumors in circulation is that there will be an entire change in the assembly delegation. It is asserted that Assemblyman Fred Miller, of Elizabeth, is slated for retirement, and also Assemblyman Hall, of Cranford, and that the chances of Assemblyman Newcorn for succeeding himself are none too bright. It is pointed out that the motto of the party leaders with reference to the assembly ticket has been 'one out,' and as sustaining this argument the example is noted of last year's nominations, that when it was decided to drop Assemblyman Foote, of Plainfield, both Assemblyman Meeker, of Elizabeth, and Smith, of Westfield, had to share same fate, and an entirely new slate was named."

With reference to all this it may be said that both Charles J. Fisk and Ernest R. Ackerman have spoken of as possible candidates for State senator; and it is conceded throughout this county that either of these gentlemen would make a State senator of exceptional excellence. But it is remembered that Senator Cross has had but one full term—having been elected the first time to fill the third year to Gov. Voorhees' unexpired term—and that according to precedent he is entitled to a renomination if he desires it.

As yet Senator Cross has not said whether he desires or expects a renomination or not, but the suggestions from Plainfield that have thus far reached Elizabeth have been to the effect that if Senator Cross is in the field for renomination neither of the gentlemen named will oppose him. If he is not, one or the other of them will stand an exceptionally good chance of receiving the Republican nomination, and a nomination is equivalent to an election.

But Plainfield has, if reports are correct, a decided leaning toward the office of sheriff, and a candidate for this office from Plainfield would, at the present outlook, be likely to carry the county convention.

With reference to the assembly ticket for next fall, there is assuredly talk of an entire change. Whether this sentiment, which exists in some

FUNDS ARE LACKING TO FIGHT MOSQUITOES

But Prof. Smith Has Outlined His Plan and Hopes Governor Will Aid It.

NO FUNDS PROVIDED.

ALTHOUGH THE LEGISLATURE PASSED BILL PERMITTING EXPENDITURE.

Plans to Allow Each Community to Conduct the Work Under His Supervision—Different Methods in Different Cases.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, April 24—Professor John B. Smith, of Rutgers College, this city, has outlined his plans of what he purposes doing if he can obtain the money that the recent Legislature voted to use for experiments in exterminating the Jersey mosquitoes. When the Legislature took up Professor Smith's measure it promptly killed the bill, but later, through the efforts of a friend, the bill was reconsidered and passed within a few hours of the closing of the Legislature.

The professor then found that, while $10,000 was allowed him for experiments, the appropriation bills had all passed without provision for his case being made. There has been much speculation as to whether Professor Smith will proceed on credit and run his chances of getting the cash later. The scientist now says that he will run no chances, and that his motto is, "No money, no dead 'skeeters."

He still believes that something can be done before summer, and recently he applied to Governor Murphy for help from the emergency fund in order to get an organization into operation. This will entail an expenditure of about $6,000. His plans of action will be as follows:

With a force of trained assistants he purposes spending three or four months continually hunting out breeding places and locating swamps where mosquitoes are the thickest. Then study will be made as to the best method to adopt for each locality, since different plans must be made for each section.

He will endeavor to ascertain the breeding spots for the malarial mosquito and endeavor to determine the quickest and surest means of extermination. As the work of tracing the malarial mosquito will require a well-trained man, he will engage a high salaried physician, who will be willing to spend the summer in fever engendering swamps.

Total extermination of the mosquito, he maintains, cannot be accomplished for $10,000, but with his plans it will be easy for each community to do away with the nuisance.

He says he will not spread oil upon the pools where the insects breed, for that remedy is only temporary. Neither will he employ gold fish, except in bodies of water where there is no sloping bank. Otherwise the mosquitoes will breed out of reach of the fish.

He believes that one great assistance will be drainage. In towns along the seashore he says there is no reason why in five years there would be any use for mosquito netting. Each city can be rid of mosquitoes at a cost of not more than $500, and in some localities at an expenditure of but a few dollars. If the laws do not assist him on the matter of drainage, sanitation and similar points, the determined professor declares he will try to have laws passed that will. He further announced that he can wait another year if necessary. If the people are content to suffer he is willing they should for awhile.

Lecture and Tea.

Mrs. David Prescott Hall has issued invitations for a lecture to be given at her home, 915 Madison avenue, by Mrs. Marion W. Chapman, on Wednesday afternoon, April 30, at 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. Chapman will speak on "Politics and the Home." Tea will be served at half past four o'clock.

Theodore Vroom is engaged lettering the front windows at the post-office. This makes several times that he has been hired for this purpose, as there have been frequent accidents to the large panes of glass.

THEATRICAL.

Three hours of brilliant comedy and effervescing humor are on tap at Keith's Union Square Theatre in New York next week, and constitute the "Keith Cure," which is guaranteed to dispel any case of the blues. Bedini, the famous European juggler, and Arthur, his excruciatingly funny assistant, will act as masters of ceremony and attend to those afflicted with chronic cases of depression and worry. Their fame as "hilaritators" is known to every vaudevillian of the world. Foy and Clark, other past-masters of rollicking comedy, will present "The Spring of Youth," which would cause peals of laughter in a deaf and dumb asylum. The Martinetti troupe of European acrobats will astonish the most blase habitue of the vaudeville.

The other "Keith Curists" include Hugh Gaston and company in their farce "For Reform"; Willis P. Sweatnam, a familiar old blackface comedian; Lillie Western, America's greatest musical artiste; Kennedy and Rooney; Hal Merritt, and a dozen other experts par excellence. Go early and enjoy the compleie cure.

Shot In His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in case of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

In passing the anti-mosquito bill, and then failing to make an appropriation to carry out the object of the measure, the Legislature may have done better than it knew. It was the belief of the lawmakers that the statute would be worthless unless funds were set aside for the use of the State entomologist in making his investigations. Professor Smith, however, is not discouraged, and has appealed to Governor Murphy for aid from the emergency fund. With an expenditure of about $6,000, the professor says, he will be able to accomplish much good this summer in the way of preliminary work for a future campaign of extermination.

There was a general protest from the press and people of the State when it was discovered that the Legislature had, as it was supposed, completely blocked the scientific warfare against the mosquito. Now that the State entomologist has discovered a method by which the campaign may be carried on, the Governor would do well to consider whether the money could be used to better purpose. Professor Smith's plan, if given the necessary financial aid, is to spend three or four months with a force of trained assistants hunting out breeding places and locating swamps where mosquitoes are the thickest. Then a study will be made as to the best method of extermination for each locality. The modes of treatment will be varied, according to conditions, and by next winter it is believed that a report can be submitted that will carry conviction to the most skeptical.

Professor Smith has carefully studied the methods adopted in Cuba and elsewhere in fighting the mosquito plague, and is thoroughly convinced of his ability to demonstrate that communities can do away with the nuisance at a comparatively small expense. The time for active work is now at hand, and if Governor Murphy intends to extend aid in the undertaking he should do so at once.—Newark News.

LITERARY.

In the May Forum the first place is taken by a timely article on "The Polish Problem in Prussia." Its author, Wolf von Schierbrand, explains how it is that the national spirit of the Poles has succeeded in resisting the Germanizing policy of the Prussian Government. Prof. G. T. Ladd's paper on "The Degradation of the Professorial Office" brings to an end a remarkable series of criticisms of the present academic situation, which is also discussed in President C. F. Thwing's article on "Collegiate Conditions in the United States." Other educational topics dealt with in this number are "The Example of French Industrial Art Schools," by Jacob Schoenhof, and "The Negro and Higher Learning," by Prof. W. S. Scarborough. An important statistical article is contributed by Henry Gannett, who shows "Our Industrial Position in the World" by comparison of our exports with those of other nations. A less gratifying contrast is that pointed out by Prof. A. D. F. Hamlin in a protest against "Our Public Untidiness." A valuable light is thrown upon Italian social and industrial conditions in an article by Dr. Wolcott Calkins on "Taxation and Business in Italy." Hon. W. C. Mains warmly recommends the Torrens system for "The Registration of Title to Real Property. The list of contents also includes "Wage-Earning School Children in England," by Thomas Burke; "The Problem of a Pure Milk Supply," by Dr. Henry Dwight Chapin; "Comparative Pension Systems," by Frederick Fenning; "American Forestry: a New Career," by J. Russell Smith; and "Reclaiming the Arid Southwest," by Robert M Barker.

—There will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., this evening.

—Willard Vilas, formerly with Hillier & Company, of West Front street, has engaged in business for himself on Liberty street.

RUSSIAN DISORDERS.

Numerous Strikes and Serious Riots Throughout the Country.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 24.—While the authorities are endeavoring to their utmost to suppress all news of the strikes and disorders occurring in various sections of the country reports of outbreaks continue to arrive here. The strike of the cotton and silk workers in Moscow and its vicinity has resulted in serious rioting, including the plundering of houses and stores. The troops rigorously repressed the disorders. Many persons were killed or injured on both sides. The rioters who were made captives were knouted. Fresh outbreaks are impending.

The province of Poltava is seething with discontent. A number of chateaux besides that of the Duke of Mecklenburg have been sacked and burned. There, too, the outbreaks were finally quelled with the utmost severity.

The town and province of Kiev are also exhibiting their discontent. Everywhere strikers are crying for shorter hours and increased pay, their plea being that similar concessions to labor have been made in other countries. This only increases the efforts of the government to censorize the publication of news regarding industrial conditions elsewhere.

A large proportion of the spinners seem to be in favor of the merger.

EMPIRE STATE'S DAY

Governor Odell Is Guest of Honor at Charleston.

NEW YORK BUILDING DEDICATED.

Southerners Extend Enthusiastic Greeting to Their Visitors—California Trip Abandoned Because of Family Illness.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 24.—The New York state building at the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian exposition was formally dedicated with impressive ceremonies at noon yesterday. Governor B. B. Odell was the guest of honor at the celebration, and his address was the feature of the day. When he arose to speak, he received an ovation second only to that accorded to President Roosevelt two weeks ago. Governor Odell spoke of the great work accomplished by the few citizens of Charleston and complimented them for the great results achieved.

Governor Odell said in part:

"New York is proud of the fact that there sits at the head of our national government today one of her citizens, who, though suddenly called to assume those great duties, is discharging them with dignity and courage and whose early training in the affairs of state within our borders fits him for his great responsibilities. We know him to be honest, courageous and upright, and we ask from you the same kindly consideration, the same support, that is accorded by those who know him and respect him for his worth. We are glad to recognize that through the energy, the perseverance and the determination of your citizens this exposition has been made possible, because there is no form of teaching or learning which impresses itself so forcibly upon the mind as the study of the works which have resulted through the ingenuity of men, the application of science or machinery or the knowledge of agriculture which makes two blades of grass grow where but one has grown before. It is an education that cannot be obtained from books, but rather of that kind that sees 'sermons in stones, books in running brooks and good in everything.'"

The weather was sultry, and when the New York party marched from the main entrance of the exposition to the New York building, which commands a fine location on the avenue of cities, the officers in uniform were a bit uncomfortable. President Wagener of the exposition delivered an address of welcome and introduced Governor Odell as the orator of the day.

CALIFORNIA TRIP ABANDONED.

Governor Odell left Charleston at the close of the ceremonies for New York on account of the illness of one of his children. The plans for his California trip have been abandoned, and he will not attend the banquet to have been given in his honor.

After having been in speeches of introduction twice nominated for the presidency in 1904 Governor Odell made this very pointed and positive statement before a large assemblage:

"I have no present presidential aspirations. Having laid aside the mantle of practical politics and tried my best to be a governor of the people, I ask the people, if they desire to reward me, to send me as a delegate to the next national convention of Republicans so that I may cast a vote for Theodore Roosevelt to succeed himself. With such a commission I shall be well satisfied."

One of the most attractive structures at the exposition in Charleston, S. C., is the New York building. It is situated on the west banks of Lake Juanita, not far from the Maryland building. The architecture is of the Spanish renaissance style and was planned by Bradford Lee Gilbert. It consists of two separate inclosures, each under its red tiled roof and connected by a tiled patio or court, in which fountains play and tropical plants bloom. A spacious pergola overhangs the lake on the east and also a landing for boats.

The woodwork and the mission furniture of Joseph P. McHugh are finished in weathered gray, and where upholstering is required Canterbury cloth of flax is used. The window hangings are of green and gray Singapore lattice in vertical stripes, while portieres of arras cloth in similar colorings curtain the doorways.

STRIKERS IN A FIGHT

Paterson Factories Closed by Wild Mob.

MANY INJURED IN THE RIOTING.

Dyers' Helpers Demand Better Pay and Shorter Hours—Employers Claim Inability to Grant Increase Asked.

PATERSON, N. J., April 24.—Striking dye helpers yesterday stormed the establishments that were still running and by force compelled a complete suspension of business in their trade. They engaged in a series of running fights with the police and plant managers, and in one of the severest clashes exchanged a volley of pistol shots with them. The radicals among the strikers were in command, and hostilities ceased only when there were no more shops to win over to the cause for which they were fighting. Many persons on either side were severely injured during the rioting, but none dangerously so.

It was believed for a time that it would be necessary to ask the state for troops to restore order and insure protection to life and property, but the police expressed confidence in their ability to handle the situation, and no request for outside aid was made. Judge Dixon called the grand jury before him and charged them to indict the persons guilty of rioting.

The conservative element among the strikers had in the meantime disavowed the violence of their fellows and urged a return to peaceful means to gain the end that was sought.

A written demand upon the employers for pay was formulated, and committees opened negotiations for its consideration.

A large number of the strikers were in a sullen spirit, and it was predicted that any attempt on the part of the employers to resume business without dealing with them would be desperately resisted.

When the strikers completed their campaign against the plants in operation, the firms that were closed down and the number of men out were as follows: Weidmann Silk Dyeing company, 1,200; Auger & Simon, 66; Emil Geering, 400; Knipscher & Maas, 350; Arnold Bros., 130; Donahue Dyeing company, 130; D. J. Sheehan, 125; Kearns Bros., 100; Robert Gaede, 100; Formanns, Stumpf & Sharpe, 80; Bolton Bros., 75; Simpson Bros., 40; Alfred Crew, 35; Gautschy Dyeing company, 30; Liberty Dyeing company, 25; Arnold & McGrath, 25; Bamford Bros., 20; Dordoni Dyeing company, 15; total, 3,480.

The disorder began early in the day and was unexpected. A meeting of strikers was held at 8 o'clock at Ruegers' Riverside hall, and 2,000 men gathered at the place. The hall would not accommodate them all, and the proceedings were slow because of the many nationalities represented. To simplify matters it was finally decided to have the men of each shop on strike appoint a committee of five to represent them. The meeting was ordered and declared for peace, and the men were urged to keep away from the shops. The meeting of committees prepared and adopted a schedule of the demands. While the meeting was in progress hundreds of strikers stood outside the hall angrily discussing their grievances. The radicals urged a raid upon the works still in operation and when their suggestion was approved headed a rush for the plant of Johnson, Cowdin & Co. The men at work there were called out, and the strikers moved on to the establishment of James Simpson & Co. That firm, fearing trouble, dismissed the men and closed its doors.

Robert Gaede's works were visited next, and after that the Bamford mill, where the first serious disorder occurred, was surrounded. The property is walled in, but the strikers gained the yard before the gates were shut. Windows were smashed, chemicals spilled and considerable damage done. The men at work in the plant quickly quitted their places. While one mob was closing the Bamford mill another was surging into the plant of the American Silk Dyeing and Finishing company. Armed with dye sticks and stones, they charged through the place, driving the men from their places. George Arnold, one of the members of the firm, was dropped insensible with a blow on the head from a dye stick.

Almost simultaneously an attack was begun on the works of Emil Geering, and it was in the fight for possession of it that the shooting occurred. Two policemen were guarding the property, and when the mob came rushing down on them they warned those in the van to keep away. Some one in the crowd discharged a revolver, and the police quickly returned the fire. Half a dozen shots were fired, and one striker who escaped unidentified was shot in the leg.

The mob stoned the two policemen and when one of the latter arrested one of the leaders closed in around him. The officers swung their clubs and beat their way out of the crowd. A striker engaged Mr. Geering, but was beaten off. One of the patrolmen finally secured a rifle, and when he came out and faced the crowd with it there was a general scattering.

From Geering's the strikers hurried away toward the property of Knipscher & Maas, but that raid was checked by a squad of police. The latter formed across the street and, marching forward with night sticks drawn, forced the crowd back. Gerald Mistell, a young striker, hurled a rock at the police and was placed under arrest. The crowd tried to rescue him and to the number of several hundred followed the arresting officers to the prison, hooting at them as they trailed along. An attempt was made to organize a second movement against Mr. Geering's works, but only a few volunteered to take part in it. At noon the men at work for Geering went out, and the place was closed down.

At some of the plants raided the strikers familiar with the machinery turned the steam on at full force, and it was an effective weapon in driving the workmen out.

The strikers met at Riverside again at 4 o'clock in the afternoon to receive the reports of the several shop committees. Nearly every one of the latter reported that their particular shop would agree to the wage concessions demanded if all the other shops would. There was a lengthy discussion of the status of some finishers who quit with the helpers.

It was said that the owners of the dye plants had organized for joint action on the strike, but several of them denied that they had done anything more than informally discuss the situation. They said that they would be unable to pay the wage scale submitted by the men. They also said that many of their men were satisfied with their pay and only went out when driven from their places by the mob. Some of the owners said they had closed their plants down voluntarily rather than submit their men and property to injury and that they would resume when danger was past or ample protection assured.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

Philippine Bill Debate Continued. Oleo Measure Before House.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Mr. Rawlins (Utah) yesterday continued his speech in the senate opposing the Philippine temporary government bill. He devoted the greater part of his speech to a discussion of the testimony presented to the Philippines committee relating to the administration of the "water cure" to natives and to other forms of torture inflicted on the Filipinos. He had not concluded his remarks when the senate adjourned.

During the early part of the session the bill providing for a union railroad station in Washington was under consideration, but no action was taken.

The house began consideration of the senate amendments to the oleomargarine bill. A special rule for this purpose was adopted by a vote of 152 to 79. By the ruling of the chair the question of further amendment of the senate propositions was confined within very narrow limits.

New Jersey Town Burned.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 24.—Fire has all but wiped out the village of Elwood, N. J., about twenty miles from here. The flames were discovered in the large sawmill of Walter Bozarth and spread so rapidly that before aid arrived the postoffice, the mill and a score of buildings were completely gone. The occupants saved little or nothing from the burned buildings. Egg Harbor and Hammonton responded to calls for assistance, but the fire companies arrived too late to check the progress of the flames.

Beveridge, the chairman, delivered an eloquent address, in which he outlined the principles upon which the Republicans of Indiana will enter the next campaign. Senator Fairbanks also spoke at length.

MUST HOLD TONGUE.

General Funston Warned by Order of the President.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—By direction of President Roosevelt Acting Secretary of War Sanger has addressed the following letter to General Frederick Funston, in command of the department of the Colorado:

"I am directed by the president to instruct you that he wishes you to cease further public discussion of the situation in the Philippines and also to express his regret that you should make a senator of the United States the object of public criticism or discussion."

At a banquet last Saturday night of the Colorado Sons of the Revolution General Funston is reported to have said of Senator Hoar, "I have only sympathy for the senior senator from Massachusetts, who is suffering from an overheated conscience."

Probably what caused the issue of this particular letter was an application from General Funston for leave of absence in order that he might attend the banquet to be given in Boston by the Middlesex club. It was understood that he was to deliver another address there, and as the president deprecates the discussion of public questions in this fashion by United States officials and officers this letter was sent.

The request for leave of absence was refused. A copy of Mr. Sanger's letter was forwarded to Senator Hoar.

The Deutschland Disabled.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Emil L. Boas, American general manager for the Hamburg-American line, received advices last night stating that the Deutschland had reached Plymouth at 7 o'clock in the evening with her steering gear disabled and after landing her mails and passengers had proceeded on her voyage to Cherbourg and Hamburg unassisted. The passengers on board the Deutschland were highly pleased with the management of the ship after the accident occurred. At 2:55 a. m. on Tuesday it was found that the ship did not answer her helm. An investigation showed that the rudder shaft was probably broken. From that time the ship was steered by using her twin screws.

BERLIN, April 24.—Emperor William is showing extraordinary interest in motors for which potato alcohol is used as fuel. A satisfactory alcohol motor does not yet appear to have been constructed, although every motor maker is seeking to improve the existing models. MINDANAO OUTLOOK.

The Moros Continue to Harass American Forces.

IMMEDIATE EVACUATION UNWISE.

This Is General Wade's Opinion, Who Also Thinks Prompt Action Will End the Uprising—Chaffee Given a Free Hand.

MANILA, April 24.—The orders from Washington reconvening, with the same members, the court martial appointed to try General Jacob H. Smith who was in command of the United States troops on the island of Samar, on the charge of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline were well received locally.

A telegram from Lieutenant Colonel Frank D. Baldwin, who is operating against the Moros on the island of Mindanao, says he is being continually harassed by the enemy. He has captured Sultan Pualo's fort.

General James F. Wade, in command of the American forces on Cebu island, telegraphs deprecating the return of Lieutenant Colonel Baldwin to Malabang. He thinks a prompt advance will soon settle the difficulty, with little or no bloodshed. The Moros, he points out, at present are not united, but they assuredly would be so if the Americans relinquished the ground they have now gained.

Left In Chaffee's Hands.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The war department has made public the telegraphic cable correspondence which has taken place up to date respecting the Moro outbreak in Mindanao. The important feature of the correspondence is the closing chapter, showing that General Davis' expedition is not arbitrarily stopped, but that General Chaffee is allowed to exercise his discretion.

Lands Reserved For Military.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The president by order has reserved for military purposes large tracts of lands on the north and south sides of Manila bay to be known as Mariveles reservation and Kalumpan reservation respectively, and all the islands lying between.

Tug Firemen Ordered to Strike.

CLEVELAND, April 24.—President Archie Valquett of the Firemen and Linemen's Protective association has ordered a general strike of tug firemen at all ports on the great lakes between Duluth and Buffalo where the Great Lakes Towing company operates. The failure of the officials of the towing company and the striking firemen at Duluth to arrive at a settlement is believed to be the cause for this latest action on the part of the tugmen's union.

Aid For Jamaica Sugar Planters.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 24.—With the sanction of the colonial secretary, Joseph Chamberlain, the Jamaican government has introduced a bill in the legislature providing financial assistance and guaranteeing the interest on loans of money used for the erection of central sugar factories in various parts of the island. The introduction of the measure was received with great satisfaction.

Supreme Court Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Chief Justice Fuller has announced that the United States supreme court would adjourn for the term on June 2 and that the call of the docket would be suspended on Friday, May 2. The court will meet Monday, May 5; Monday, May 19, and Monday, June 2, to deliver opinions, hear motions and admit members to the bar.

Queen Wilhelmina Better.

THE HAGUE, April 24.—It is said at Castle Loo that, even without a relapse, Queen Wilhelmina's convalescence will occupy a month or more. Yesterday her majesty showed a considerable revival of spirits and interest in her surroundings. The queen mother went for a walk outdoors for the first time since her daughter's illness.

American Hospital In Canton.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—United States Consul McWade, at Canton, has cabled the state department that the Women's Medical Hospital Training School For Nurses and Pierson dispensary, the first institution for women in south China, erected almost entirely by American benevolence, has been formally opened in Canton.

Sharkey and Ruhlin Matched.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Tom Sharkey and Gus Ruhlin have been matched to box fifteen rounds to a decision before the National Sporting club of London during the week beginning June 23 for a purse of $5,000, the winner to get 75 per cent. The men are to box at catch weights under the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

Liberty Torch Relighted.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The electric light shown from the torch of the statue of Liberty, New York harbor, which was extinguished in the fore part of March by the lighthouse department, was relighted last night under supervision of the war department, to which its control has been transferred.

MR. MAC MURRAY'S APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of City Clerk J. T. MacMurray as a member of the St. Louis Exposition commission of New Jersey is a deserved honor conferred upon a very worthy recipient. Mr. MacMurray is one of the practical heads of one of Plainfield's most important industries. He is possessed of much executive ability and is well qualified to take an active part in arranging New Jersey's exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Furthermore his intimate connection with the manufacture of machinery will result in seeing that that department of the State's industries is well cared for. Governor Murphy has already publicly announced his wish that New Jersey's exhibit be largely composed of its manufactured products. His appointment of Mr. MacMurray was evidently with the intent that the large manufacturing concerns should be represented on the commission.

Because Mr. MacMurray happens to be prominent in the Union county Republican ranks there are some who will say that his appointment is due to that fact. It may be that politics was the means of bringing Governor Murphy and Mr. MacMurray together and making them acquainted. Judging, however, from the Governor's previous acts and appointments, he selected the Plainfielder strictly on account of his known ability and his connection with one of the largest machine tool concerns in the country.

Not only is the honor a complimentary one for Mr. MacMurray but it is a pleasant one for Plainfield as well. It will surely result in much more interest being taken by the people of this city in the exposition to be held at St. Louis.

The bill, which was passed by both houses of the Legislature and was then mysteriously lost enroute to the Governor, has finally been found and Governor Murphy has announced his intention of affixing his signature to it. The bill provides for licenses for all hunters who shall come from outside the State. The measure certainly appears to be an excellent one. So many pot-hunters wander into Jersey from the neighboring States that any legislation which will prevent their annual invasion will be well worth having.

The Elizabeth Journal does not think that North Plainfield ought to consider the question of annexation at a special election until after the November election. While there should be plenty of time for a fair and impartial discussion of the subject, too much delay is bound to injure the interests of the borough. There are certain questions of municipal interest which must be answered and it is first requisite for the people of North Plainfield to know what its future is to be.

Such extremes of weather, as have been seen out west during the last week, have positively broken all records in that direction. One day the mercury registered above ninety degrees while the next there was a fall of snow amounting to over two feet. When the weather begins a career like that, the man who attempts to keep pace with it is lost.

It is an old saying among the farmers that whenever a sleet storm comes late in the winter and bows down the trees with its weight of ice, that year will be an unusually good one for the fruit trees and they will bear very heavily. If that is the case, this season should be one of record breaking proportions in the fruit growing districts.

The man from White Plains, who committed suicide in a Newark hotel the other night, had a pawn ticket in his possession which was made out to himself, giving Scotch Plains as his address. It was too bad to drag that place into notoriety again after it has had so much trouble in trying to live down its old reputation.

The commission, appointed by the Governor to carefully consider the question of the Passaic river pollution and the most available means of stopping it, has organized. It is a question of decided import to the entire State and the findings will be awaited eagerly by all.

sections, will increase or decrease as the time for the next election draws near, is a matter that only the future can decide. There is nothing in the legislative records of the assemblymen that is particularly objected to, but only a sentiment in favor of men more conspicuously representative of the Republican party throughout the county.

With reference to the offices of surrogate and county clerk public sentiment has not expressed itself. Yet it is universally admitted that Surrogate Parrot has been the best and most acceptable man who has ever held this office, and that a better official or a stronger candidate could not be named.

The nomination for county clerk will depend in large measure upon how the other nominations are distributed, and as yet there is no crystallized sentiment in the party with reference thereto. In fact it is yet far too early to predict anything, for there is no telling what may transpire between this and next September.—Elizabeth Journal.

THE AUTO CAME OUT AHEAD

BICYCLE WAS SMASHED, BUT WHEELMAN ESCAPED SERIOUS INJURY.

Another Combination Occurred on West Front Street Yesterday Afternoon.

Another bicycle and automobile collision occurred yesterday afternoon, the result, it is said, of the reckless driving of the latter. It took place on West Front street, near Compton avenue and luckily, like that of last Sunday, none of the participants were hurt.

The automobile was diven by Lucius Edkins, of Jersey City. The bicycle rider gave his name as John Ferguson, of Bound Brook. As near as could be learned the crash was the result of carelessness on the part of Edkins who failed to warn Ferguson. The latter was pedalling along easily and suddenly turned in front of the machine which was coming up from behind. Before he could turn he was struck and knocked off his mount. The machine was smashed but the rider escaped unhurt.

Mr. Edkins assisted Ferguson to the sidewalk and offered to take him to a physician but this offer was refused. He left giving the bicyclist to understand he would pay for the damage.

Stole Horse and Buggy From Clergyman at Martinsville.

The theft of a valuable horse and buggy from Rev. H. D. Opdyke, of Martinsville, was reported to the local police, this morning. They were taken from the owner's barn some time last night.

The animal is described as a bay mare, nine years old and standing fourteen hands high. It was blind in the right eye. The buggy was a black sidebar.

Struck in Eye by Ball.

Harold Schenck, youngest son of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street, was struck in the eye by a ball thrown by a companion while at play in the school yard, yesterday. The blow was a severe one. The eye is exceedingly painful and gives the lad considerable trouble.

PLEA FOR THE BABIES CAMP

WONDERFUL WORK DONE FOR THE LITTLE ONES OF PLAINFIELD.

Under the Direction of the City Union of King's Daughters—Help is Needed.

Although there have been but few warm days to remind one of the coming summer's intense heat, yet in any families plans have already been made for rest and recreation. In Plainfield's preparation for a pleasant summer, the people of this city should not forget those who are living in little rooms, poorly ventilated and when God's sunshine, free to all, cannot find a way to creep in and who are longing for a day's outing when for a time they can forget the four bare walls that inclose what to them is home.

To many who has not had occasion to visit the byways of Plainfield, it may seem there is little suffering and need of a Fresh Air Camp, but if such would follow Miss Anderson, the city nurse, they would find families not only cramped in close quarters but living in cellars. Think of it, and is it any wonder that the little ones sicken and would often die, if it were not for the Babies Camp, on Johnston drive.

As a mother expressed her gratitude to the members of the camp committee last summer, "I know my baby would have died had it not been for change of air afforded at camp, and the care of the nurse."

During the coming summer, undoubtedly there will be many who will visit the King's Daughters Camp, and be convinced of the practibility of this branch of their work, and see the children of this city enjoy this day on the mountain.

The various circles of King's Daughters unite in supporting the city nurse and they call on the people of Plainfield to unite in their help to make this work of a babies camp a reality.

Remember that the Lord does not despise little things, and one would be grateful indeed for gifts both great and small. The local camp trust the children will interest themselves and others in giving to the little ones of homes where there is want and suffering, many days of pleasure at the camp on the mountain, by holding sales and fairs for the benefit of the King's Daughters Camp of Plainfield.

The semi-annual meeting of the City Union of the King's Daughters will be held in the guild room of Grace church, Sycamore avenue, May 6, at 3:30 o'clock, and all are cordially invited to be present, and learn more of the work of both nurse and camp.

The Daily Press will receive any subscriptions for this worthy cause.

HELP IS NEEDED.

New Manufacturing Concern at Watchung is Almost Ready to Begin Business Operations.

The large mill at Watchung, formerly occupied by the Perin-Freres Glove Company, is almost ready for the new concern which has rented the proprety. New machinery has been installed and the place has been greatly remodelled.

The new company will make lace curtains and will need a large force of girls. Enough orders are now on hand to keep the concern going for some time and chances look favorable for the firm's branching out. Provided the needed help is secured and sufficient power can be obtained, tapestry making will be added. The company is also making an effort to have the trolley continued from the present terminus to the factory.

FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Committees Appointed in Winfield Scott Post to Arrange.

Commander J. F. Berg, of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., has appointed the following comrades to arrange a programme for Memorial Day: William C. Smith, S. W. Reese, Charles B. Stephens, I. L. McVoy, Mason W. Tyler, P. B. Goodfellow, Albert G. Perry and Homer C. Smith. W. C. Smith, I. L. McVoy, and S. W. Reese have been appointed a committee to arrange for placing a flagpole in the soldiers' plot at Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Henry E. Bowen and her daughter, Miss Bessie Bowen, have returned from Boston, Mass., where they have been spending a few weeks.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

There is nothing so refreshing in warm weather as ice cream and if properly made it is a pleasure for all, both young and old. Campbell, of West Front street, manufactures the right kind at right prices.

This is good weather to make a change in your clothing and there is no better place to go for stylish and well-made clothing than at Cashin's on Park avenue. He also carries a full line of men's furnishings.

The soda fountain at Fowler's confectionery store is a busy place these warm afternoons. Its because of the cooling drinks which are dispensed with delicious ice cream. Nothing but pure fruit juices used.

Help the baby get some of the fresh air nature intended it should have by taking it out for a ride in one of Powlison & Jones go-carts. The firm now has forty patterns to select from and all at moderate prices.

If you value the life of your child you will want to give it the best milk, the kind that there is no question about as to absolute purity. Drop a postal to Wm. Landsay & Son, Mountain avenue, and let them serve you.

Harry Werner, the popular West Front street clothier, believes in giving the people what they want. At this season they don't care for overcoats and heavy suits so he is offering some decided bargains in spring outfits. Drop in and look around even if you don't intend to buy.

The ranks of the Vegetarian Society has certainly been increased since the beef trust has sent prices sky high. People find that they can live heartily on vegetables, especially those sold by R. W. Barnes, of Park avenue, near North avenue. Every vegetable in season and nothing but the lowest price asked.

Brighten up the home. There's nothing so depressing as a cheerless looking house. A dainty bunch of cut flowers occasionally adds much to the appearance of a home, the same as it does to a woman. J. L. Brower, 127 East Fifth street, will take your order, which will be filled immediately by W. H. Brower's Sons, Broadway, N. Y.

ALL IN READINESS.

For the Production of "Patience" at the Casino This Evening.

Finishing touches were put on the comic opera "Patience," last evening, and all is in readiness for the rendition of the play this evening. It will be given at the Casino.

All the leaders in the cast, as well as the entire chorus attending the final rehearsal, and those in charge of the affair, which is given in benefit of the Woman's Exchange, are sanguine that a hearty reception will be given the piece. The talent is local and trained vocalists only will be heard. Everyone connected with the play is of some prominence musically speaking. The majority in the cast are attached to the leading church choirs, and have had much experience in vocal work.

A Speaker Expected.

The regular meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of B. J. Shreve. It is hoped that Miss Melby, of Castle Garden, will be at the meeting to tell about her work among the emigrants. All the young women are urged to attend.

FACTS OF CHRISTIAN WORK

EMPHASIZED BY ENVAGELIST PRATT AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING

Strong Address to Christian Workers Given at the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

The salient facts of Christian work were emphasized by Evangelist Pratt last night in his address to Christian workers at the Monroe Avenue church.

"First, the reconciliation of God to man brought about by the death of the Paschal Lamb Jesus Christ by which the redemption of [the world was accomplished.

"Secondly, the fact that all Christians who have become reconciled to God through the acceptance of Jesus Christ as their sin offering, are to be the agents, the messengers for the knowledge of this reconciliation to a sinning and needy world. We are to evangelize the world." There is a difference between saving the world and evangelizing the world. Only God can save but we can spread the good news whether men accept it or not. We are to seek to bring Christ to men. It rests with them whether they will receive or reject Him.

"It is not so much New Jersey for Christ as Christ for New Jersey. Not so much bringing Plainfield to Christ as bringing Christ to every sinful man and woman in Plainfield. The Christian people of this city could evangelize it in six hours if they would only set about the work.

"Thirdly, the fact that we are ambassadors for Christ. We represent God in this world. Here are three things noticeable about an embassador, he is in a strange land, represents his country in that land. We are strangers and sojourners here—not our permanent place of residence.

"An ambassador represents his country only in times of peace. God is at peace with this world. An ambassador goes to deliver the messages of his sovereign or ruler. We deliver the messages of God."

Several at the close of the sermon expressed their intention henceforth to laed the Christian life.

The conditions of sinful prayer were given by Mr. Pratt at the afternoon meeting in discussing the question of how to offer an acceptable prayer to God.

He analyzed the prayer of Jehosophet as given in II Chornicles xx, and said that there were seven conditions entering into the prayer which prevails with God.

Christians must be in the right place, that is in Christ, must plead His promises; must believe in the power of an almighty God; must have something definite for which they ask; must be united; must count on the answer and act as if they had received that which they prayed.

WOMEN AT WHIST.

Passed Pleasant Afternoon as Guests of Mrs. Ralph W. Smith.

Mrs. Ralph W. Smith, of Watchung avenue, entertained the National Whist Club, yesterday afternoon. The usual number was present and the affair was equally as pleasant as those previously given. Mrs. James Andrews was the winner of the first prize, while Miss May Mulford and Miss Sadie Blimm were tied for second honors. In cutting for the prize Miss Mulford was successful. Following the play there was a social time and refreshments were served. Miss Mulford will entertain the club Wednesday, May 7.

Street Repairs.

Repairs have been made to Rockview avenue by the Borough Council street committee. The frost coming out of the gound left the road in a bad condition and it was necessary to do some grading. At an early date work will commence on Coddingtion avenue, which is sadly in need of repair.

The American Girl of the Hour

MISS ALICE HAY, WHO IS TO WED YOUNG MR. WADSWORTH.

THE announcement of the engagement of Miss Alice Hay, youngest daughter of Secretary of State and Mrs. Hay, to Mr. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., son of Congressman Wadsworth, of Geneseo, N. Y., has created considerable stir in Washington society. The Hay girls are lucky, considered from a matrimonial point of view. The older sister, Helen, was married a short time ago to Payne Whitney, one of the richest young men of the country. The social and financial standing of the Wadsworths is quite as solid as that of the Whitneys, hence Miss Alice will never have to play second fiddle to Mrs. Whitney's first.

MISS ALICE HAY.

All brides-to-be are beautiful, of course; and Alice Hay is no exception to the rule. She is what envious old maids call "quite a young thing," having been in society less than three years. Unlike her sister, who is both a poet and an artist, she does not care for literary pursuits, but is an enthusiastic devotee of athletic sports and excels as an equestrienne and at tennis and golf. Her attachment to young Wadsworth is of long standing, and has been the subject of pleasant gossip for several seasons. Her friends go so far as to assert that Miss Alice was bespoken while still wearing short skirts.

Mr. Wadsworth was a close personal friend of the late Adelbert Hay, whose tragic death by falling out of a hotel window gave rise to considerable talk last year. His mother is a daughter of the late William R. Travers, of New York. He was graduated from Yale in the class of 1899, and achieved some fame as a baseball player, being captain of the Yale nine. At present he is studying law. It is possible that he will go to Europe this summer, to be near his bride-elect, who intends to spend most of the year on the continent, where she will make many purchases for her trousseau. The wedding will take place in December.

Miss Hay's marriage will promote the daughter of Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Shaw to the leadership of the young women of the cabinet circle. It may not be generally known that the cabinet girls maintain an etiquette of their own—quite as rigid as that observed by any court of Europe. The oldest daughter of the ranking member of the president's official family is ex-officio head of this circle of wit, beauty and jealousy; and some of the girls are quite put out because the high honor is to fall to Miss Shaw, who is a newcomer and a product of the "woolly west" as well, two defects which our proud eastern and southern society dames consider almost unpardonable, no matter how cheerfully we on the outside may view the situation.

The "Grand Old Woman" of the Day

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS, WIDOW OF THE CONFEDERACY'S PRESIDENT.

WHEN we speak of typically American women of the older generation the name of Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the confederate president, suggests itself at once. Although sorely tried by fate and circumstance she is the same kind-hearted woman she was almost half a century ago. The gentleness and dignity with which she was wont to greet people still are her chief characteristics, and while she accepts the results of the war between the states with resignation her thoughts are more active for the welfare of the veterans of the "lost cause."

Some time ago a syndicate of northern capitalists offered her $90,000 for Beauvoir, the historic Davis homestead. They wanted the property for hotel purposes. Mrs. Davis promptly declined the offer. The United Daughters of the Confederacy then inaugurated a movement to purchase Beauvoir not only as a home for veterans, but as a memorial of the struggle of 1861-65. Mrs. Davis was consulted and consented to sell the property for $10,000, provided that the estate should be considered as a memorial to her husband and retained forever in his memory.

This proposition was brought before the Mississippi state legislature, the senate at once passing a bill for the purchase of the property. In the house the matter has dragged along, because some fear has been expressed that the establishment of a veterans' home at Beauvoir might interfere with the state system of pensions in vogue for the same veterans. That the offer will eventually be accepted, however, is the opinion of the best informed legislative leaders.

Mrs. Davis makes her permanent residence in the north, by the direction of her physicians. She has a heart trouble which might prove disastrous if she should remain in the south. Recently, however, she went to Mississippi to confer with the legislature in regard to the sale of Beauvoir. Wherever she went she was received with genuine enthusiasm and at Birmingham and other points of importance she had to submit to the ordeal of public receptions. She was greeted by hundreds of veterans with the highest sentiments, cheered by the younger generation, and press and public united in convincing her that to southerners at least she is "the grand old woman of America," revered as the widow of the man who represented the aspirations of the old south and as a typical American woman who bore defeat without losing faith in mankind or her country.

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The Prettiest of British Princesses

ALICE OF ALBANY, WHO MAY BE WOOED BY GERMAN CROWN PRINCE.

THIS is the season for matrimonial gossip at home and abroad. Princes and princesses are married off by the newspaper writers of the European press at wholesale, one might say. The only bit of talk, however, which seems to have a substantial foundation is the rumored engagement of Princess Alice of Albany to her cousin, the crown prince of Prussia and heir presumptive to the German throne.

PRINCESS ALICE OF ALBANY.

Princess Alice is a pretty girl, just 19 years old and full of spirits. She is the eldest of the two children of the duke of Albany, Queen Victoria's youngest son, who died in 1884, after a long illness. He left his family in what royalty calls "straightened circumstances," his widow and her two children being compelled to get along on an annual pension of $30,000, which trifling amount was doubled by the personal income of the mother, who was a Russian grand duchess before her marriage. Things looked blue for the Albanys until a year or two ago, when, through the decision of the duke of Connaught to renounce for himself and his son all claims to the throne of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, young Leopold of Albany succeeded to the sovereignty of the German state. The revenues of the grand duchy are immense, and as Leopold will be reigning grand duke in three years—when he shall have attained his majority—the future of his family may be said to be assured.

Princess Alice was seen for the first time this year at the royal drawing-rooms and will be one of the belles of the coronation season. She has repeatedly visited Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, who is her cousin and personal friend, and recently was a guest of the German emperor, who, it is said, likes his "little English cousin" very much. How her personality impressed the crown prince, who may be called upon to woo and win her, gossip sayeth not.

paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

Marriage and the Modern Girl

"MARRIAGE is a failure!" sighed Mrs. Smith.

"Is a failure just now," corrected Mrs. Brown.

"Humph!" ejaculated Miss Jones. Being unmarried, she had opinions of her own. "Why do girls marry then?" she asked.

"Oh, dear me, for a thousand reasons," answered Mrs. Brown briskly. "Take me, for instance. I fell in love with John at first sight. Then any number of girls marry because they consider it the proper thing to do, and they're afraid they won't have another chance, and a lot more marry because they're unhappy at home or marry because they are nagged into it and others because the poetry of the thing appeals to them"—

"The poetry of marriage!"

"No, of course not! The poetry of being made love to. And there's still another class—those who get trapped into it."

"Trapped into it!"

"Oh, yes. I don't mean by others—by themselves. They form platonic friendships with unelig ible young men their common sense tells them they ought not to marry. First thing they know they lose their hearts, and before they have a chance to recover they are dragged to the altar and, presto, the thing is done!"

"A GIRL MUST MAKE AN ANALYSIS OF THE MAN SHE INTENDS TO MARRY."

Miss Jones cleared her throat. "Thanks to the modern advancement of women," she remarked, "they no longer consider marriage the chief aim and end of their existence."

"Don't say a thing, my dear, about the bachelor girl," put in Mrs. Brown. "She has a pretty horrid little trick of her own. As long as she is successful she scoffs at marriage; when she becomes ill or breaks down or doesn't succeed or something or other, she falls limply into the hands of the first man."

"After all, what do you consider the best kind of marriage?"

"The best sort of marriage," mused Mrs. Brown. "Well, let me see. Yes, it's this—a blending of love and of companionship. Love there must be, but also certain tastes in common, so that life may not be too desolate when love has gone."

"But according to you, then, a girl must make an analysis of the man she intends to marry."

"She must—she does—and that's mainly the difference between the old fashioned and the modern maiden. The modern maiden is critical because she knows she has to be. She has thoughts, ideas, aspirations, of her own. She is no longer a blank page to be written upon by the man, and she must see to it that his natural bent does not clash with hers. That is why when she does choose as a rule she chooses well."

"But the papers never were so full of divorces as now."

"True. In the old times women suffered in silence. Now they simply won't stand for what they used to. Then, too, my dear, if you study these cases you will see that the women in them as a rule belong to the old regime, the regime of the women who loved at first sight, who leaped before they looked."

"Then you don't believe in love at first sight?"

"No. The love which comes at second or even third sight is much more worth having. The love which comes after a sight of the man's finer qualities is the love to be relied upon."

"Yet you started out by saying marriage was a failure."

"True. At this particular stage of affairs it seems to be, and the reason is mainly this: Women themselves have changed, and half of them don't stop to realize it. They can't marry on sentiment alone any more now. When all the women realize this and have the courage to let their heads guide their hearts, marriage will be elevated to a happier and a nobler plane."

His Friend, The Enemy

second; you are also charged with assisting Vlandingham's daughter when she was among us disguised as a Sister of Charity. Incidentally you must also have aided in the escape of Dingle. Will you deny this?"

Guy did not answer.

"Third; you attempted to communicate with the enemy yesterday afternoon, your telegram being stopped in transmission by myself."

"By you!" cried Guy, half starting from his chair. "What business had the telegraph operator holding that message on anybody's order but my own?"

"I told him you desired it held."

Guy had a fiery temper and it was hard for him to keep it in bounds. Emboldened by his silence the Colonel proceeded.

"Fourth; you met the enemy yesterday afternoon and knocked the sheriff senseless and bound him fast in order that you might carry on your conversation, with no loyal Concordian at hand to overhear. These are the charges, Mr. Herbert. Have you still nothing to say?"

"I have this to say," answered Guy. "From this moment, Col. Keever, you may consider yourself discharged from the service of the Townsite company."

"You are not the whole town, young man," said the Colonel. "You are ready to dispense with my services, but are these other gentlemen"—he turned to his companions—"whose interests are quite as completely wrapped up in this town as are yours?"

"We want you to manage affairs for us, Colonel," spoke up Glimmer. "Mr. Herbert may think it policy to try to get along without you, but we are of another opinion."

The register of deeds, the liveryman and the druggist coincided with Mr. Glimmer.

"So you see, Mr. Herbert," resumed the Colonel, blandly, "I am still at the helm. Harmony has organized a military company for the avowed purpose, as we think, of marching over here and taking the county seat records by force. How far your treasonable conduct has helped this plot along we naturally have no means of knowing, but we are taking steps to prevent any catastrophe. Our courthouse is roofed over and inclosed, and Mr. Biggs will take the records"—the Colonel struck with his cane the tin box carried by the register of deeds—"to the building. I will lock myself in with the documents and guard them all night—at the expense of my life, if need be. As for you, Mr. Herbert, you may either leave town at once or walk with us to the jail."

"I'll not leave town until I get ready to go," replied Guy, defiantly, "and if you put me under lock and key I'll break out at the first opportunity."

This was the young man's final word. He did not resist when piloted across the street by the committee and quietly permitted himself to be conducted to the room over the drug store and locked within it. Fresh bedding for the cot was carried over from the hotel and Guy passed a comfortable night in spite of the fact that he was a prisoner.

A storm of wind, rain, thunder and lightning raged during the night, but Guy slept through it all, to be finally awakened by unwonted noises in the street and by the ringing of Mr. Glimmer's bell.

Springing from the cot he began hastily to dress. It was broad daylight and the sun was an hour high. Snatches of loud and excited conversation floated up from the street, and through the one barred window Guy could catch glimpses of men darting here and there, afoot and on horseback, while the bell continued its alarming clamor. What was up, anyway?

Just as he finished dressing a key grated in the lock, the door was thrown open and Christopher Waffle ran in. The judge wore a whimsical look, although it was plain that he was considerably agitated.

"What's the matter, judge?" asked Guy.

"The Old Boy himself! Harmony made a raid on us last night."

"Did they get away with the records?"

"Did they?" Waffle laughed jerkily. "They didn't stop at the records, but took the Colonel and the courthouse along with 'em."

"What?"

"I say that that brand new courthouse is gone, slick and clean. As the Colonel was inside of it, guarding the records, and is nowhere in evidence this morning, the surmise is that he was stolen along with the courthouse and the papers. Gee-whittaker! Did you ever hear anything to beat it?"

CHAPTER XIV.

"Aren't you joking, Waffle?" asked Guy, whose credulity was sorely taxed by the judge's statement.

"This is altogether too serious a matter to joke about. Concord can spare Keever just as well as not, but it's a big loss to have the records and the courthouse stolen. I guess we'll have to tally one for Harmony this innnigs."

"This explains what Vlandingham said to Pinchbeck," said Guy, reflectively.

"What was that?"

"Why, that fools build courthouses and wise men occupy them."

"That's about what it amounts to. Harmony has the laugh on us now, and if you run this thing to earth, I'll bet you find Vlandingham's daughter at the other end of it. She's the only one in Harmony who'd be able to hatch up such a scheme."

Guy remembered how he had seen Miss Betty in the courthouse, a tape line in her hand, jotting down something in a notebook. It flashed over him, just then, that she had been taking measurements with the view of consummating this coup.

"How was it done, judge?" queried Guy.

"Easy enough. The Harmony folks manufactured a pair of long axles and swung each one between a couple of low, broad-tired wheels. There was a storm last night, if you remember, and that was exactly what the other side wanted. The noise of the thunder and the wind, and the rain drowned out the commotion they made, so that no one in this town heard them—unless it was Keever and they very soon took care of him, I'll guarantee. After they had lifted the courthouse with jackscrews, they slid the wheels under it, front and rear, and then hitched several teams of horses to it and hauled it away. You can see the tracks of the wheels where they sank into the wet ground. Pettibone and several more, armed to the teeth, have started along the south trail at a gallop. But they'll have their trouble for their pains, mark me. Here's a notice that was left sticking on a post near the courthouse site, and, it's what I call adding insult to injury with a vengeance."

The judge took from his pocket very carefully a wet and bedraggled scrap of paper on which was written the following:

To the People of Concord, Greeting: We needed a courthouse to go with the weathervane, so we thought we'd take yours. Now if you will please build us a coal shed to go with the courthouse, you will greatly oblige,

The People of Harmony.

"How's that for a blow between the ribs?" asked Waffle as he returned the paper to his pocket.

"It's a terrible setback," said Guy. Notwithstanding the financial peril with which this success of the opposition threatened him, the humor of the situation appealed to the young man and he sat down on the cot and laughed till he choked. "If we don't look out for those fellows, Waffle," he observed, finally, "they'll come over here and steal the town. I wish some one would go my bail so I can get out and do a little looking around."

"I've come to let you out on your own recognizance, Herbert."

"How's that?"

Many a Plainfield Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Plainfield. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Mr. S. J. Conklin, traveling salesman for a New York confectionery house, 134 West Front street, says: "I was subject to pain in the back and hips which at times I felt in my side. I tried different kinds of kidney cures but received little or no relief. I read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills and I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I took three boxes altogether and was wonderfully improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and accomplish all that is claimed for them."

X-RAYS FOR CANCER.

Pronounced a Reliable Cure by Eminent Medical Men.

Leading New York Investigators Announce the Result of Recent Experiments—Dr. Morton's Conclusions Summed Up.

The highest medical authorities have at last announced that a cure for cancer has been found. At the latest meeting of the academy of medicine, held in New York city, Dr. William J. Morton declared that cancer could be cured by the X-rays, that new penetrating light discovered by Prof. Roentgen, the German scientist.

Dr. Morton's claim was corroborated by Dr. Francis H. Williams, of Boston; Dr. A. B. Johnson, Dr. Charles W. Allen, Dr. W. D. Coley and Dr. John A. Fordyce, of New York.

Dr. Morton and Dr. Coley exhibited patients to the 300 or more doctors who were assembled, showing the last marks of cancers that had been dried up by the new method of treatment.

Some time ago Dr. Morton noticed that if the X-rays were shot through a glass bowl of water containing a number of small jellyfish the jellyfish acted as if suddenly paralyzed. It was impossible for the tiny creatures to live in the fierce, hot light that was turned upon them.

It has been known for years by doctors that a cancer is very like a bowl packed full of tiny jellyfish. The little living atoms are so small that no microscope can separate them, but no one doubts any longer that the cancer germ is a distinct and living thing.

Up to the present time the most successful treatment of a cancer has been to cut it out with the surgeon's knife, but this has always been an uncertain method, as the cancer would grow again if a single germ were left behind.

With the use of the X-rays this uncertainty is said to be at an end. The germ-killing rays may be sent entirely around the cancer like ferrets into

LATEST CURE FOR CANCER.
(Diagram Showing Method of Treating Patient with X-Rays.)

every hole and corner of a rat-infested building.

No germ can hide from an X-ray, and the heat may be so regulated as to paralyze the germ, yet not to cause any injury to the healthy flesh, bone and muscle.

If the rays are turned on too strongly they are apt to burn the patient, or may even cause gangrene. This fact will prevent amateurs or "quacks" from meddling with the new treatment.

With regard to the electric treatment of disease, says the New York World, there are few if any higher authorities in the world than Dr. Morton, who has been for years a professor of nervous and mental diseases in the New York post-graduate medical school and hospital. He is the originator of the "high-frequency" current of electricity, by which the best results in medical treatment are obtained. The editorial committee of the Archives of the Roentgen Ray have recently chosen Dr. Morton to be their American representative.

In an article written for the current number of the Medical Record Dr. Morton calls attention to a number of remarkable cures effected by the X-ray method.

Dr. Morton sums up his conclusions as follows:

"What is accomplished by the X-ray? 1. Relief from excruciating pain and constant suffering, often immediately. 2. Reduction in the size of the new growth. 3. Establishment of the process of repair. 4. Removal of the odors, if present. 5. Cessation of the discharge. 6. Softening and disappearance of lymphatic nodes. 7. Disappearance even of lymphatic enlargements not directly submitted to treatment and often quite distant. 8. Removal of the cachectic color and appearance of the skin. 9. Improvement in the general health. 10. Cure, up to date, of a certain number of malignant growths."

Insects as Human Food.

Those who object to the eating of meat as the term is usually understood will be interested in learning of a new movement whose leaders oppose the consumption of beef and mutton, but are equally hostile to vegeterianism. A French entomologist, M. Dagin, has discovered a compromise which he cordially recommends in the shape of insect food. He speaks on the subject with authority, "having tasted several hundred species of raw, boiled, fried, broiled, roasted and hashed insects." But the most popular insect food of all, he declares, is locust flour, which the Bedouins take boiled in milk or fried and served with rice.

Manager Alexander D. Muir, of the Safe Works nine, says he has a prize in Ben Evans at first base. Evans is sure on the catch and is handy with the bat.

Manager Cose, of Hope chapel, promises some surprises for the local "fans" Saturday. He has given the tip that the Hope colts will win in the Dunellen contest, but many "knowing ones" shake their head as "Doubting Thomases."

Little "Tommy" Mack gave a good demonstration of what the right kind of a short stop can do in Saturday's St. Mary-Rahway game. He has held the position for several years and judging from his present standard will hold it for many more.

The local Safe Works team will play the Perth Amboy Safe Works team on the former's grounds, Saturday afternoon. The game will commence at 3:45 and every preparation is being made to receive a large crowd. Pitcher Doyle, formerly of the St. Mary team, will occupy the box.

Manager John Cose, of the Hope team, will have two new men cover first base in Saturday's game with Dunellen. Fred Dixon will hold forth the first half and will be followed by Charles Mumford. Gordon and Smith, who played third and right field respectively in last Saturday's game, will change positions.

Some changes will shortly be made on the North Plainfield High School team. Farley and Blatz will be tried at third base in place of Stevens. Adams, Hegeman and Ackor will also have an opportunity soon to demonstrate what they can do at first base. Messersmith fills the position acceptably but unfortunately he is on the cripples' bench at present.

The Underwood Athletic Association ball team will play the Laurels, of Bound Brook, next Saturday afternoon. The local team will be made up as follows: W. Douglass, catcher; J. Douglass, pitcher; W. Doane, first base; J. Buckle, second base; W. Glenney, short stop; Jas. Scott, third base; A. Dyer, left field; M. Duncan, centre field; K. Barnaby, right field.

The pictures of the managers of the baseball teams in the local League and of President Runyon and Secretary Firstbrook appeared in Tuesday's edition of the Newark Evening News. The likenesses were excellent and were all taken from photographs secured especially for the purpose. An excellent article on the League and prospects for baseball in this city during the coming season was also printed. It was the work of H. L. Talford, the local correspondent.

WHIST.

There was no match last week for the Metropolitan challenge trophy owing to the fact that the Brooklyn Whist Club was unable to play. The Newark Bay Boat Club it next on the list of challengers.

The match for the American Whist League challenge trophy between the Baltimore Whist Club, holders, and the Walbrook Club, of Baltimore, challengers, was very close and interesting last Saturday week. The Baltimoreteam finally won out on the last four deals by one trick.

TOO MUCH RELATIONS.

That is How Edward Banks Accounts for Charge of Threatening to Assault Preferred.

Edward Banks, a colored coachman, was arraigned before Justice Hand, yesterday afternoon, charged by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Scott, of West Third street, with intimidating and threatening to assault her. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and gave bail in the sum of $250 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Mrs. Scott says Banks is contiunally quarreling with his wife and on one occasion, April 17, when she remonstrated, she says he drew a revolver and threatened to end her existence. His fiery attitude was accompanied by language, she says, which also hurt her feelings. Her testimony is corroborated by another sister, Mrs. James Ross, of Arlington avenue.

NOT STRICTLY SCHOOL TEAM

CITY HIGH SCHOOL WITHDREW WHEN BATTIN HIGH'S STATUS WAS FOUND.

Game at Elizabeth Abruptly Ended in Fourth Inning—Plainfielders Were in the Lead.

The baseball contest waged yesterday afternoon between the Plainfield High School team and the Battin High School nine, at Elizabeth, was abruptly brought to an end in the fourth inning. Captain VanAuken withdrew his players from the field when the score stood 8 to 6 in their favor.

Violation of the rules of amateur school contests on the part of the Battin High School was the cause assigned. Pender, the pitcher, and Lyster, the third baseman, on the admission of the captain of the nine, were ineligible as not being bona fide pupils of the school. Their presence on the field was objected to and at a critical stage of the game VanAuken ordered his men off the diamond.

At the time there was a dispute over a decision of the Battin High School's umpire. VanAuken had thrown to third, putting a runner out there, but the umpire decreed that he had made a balk before doing so. While this was being discussed the real question in dispute regarding eligibility came up and resulted as stated.

The score up to the time of the dispute was:

P. H. S.	0	6	1	1—8
B. H. S.	0	1	1	4—6

MR. SMALLEY GAVE REASONS

In an Interview He Told Why He Believes in Consolidation Now.

HE CHANGED HIS MIND.

Says That the Borough's Interests Demand the Change—Good Reasons Against the Move, But Better Ones for It—Enumerated Some of Them to a Reporter.

Arguments, sound and convincing, have been successful in winning Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, to the cause of consolidation. As announced exclusively in last evening's Daily Press, His Honor has joined the ranks of those who are battling in the interests of the citizens "across the brook" for a merger of the beautiful municipalities.

It was to the body of distinguished citizens of the city and borough, guests of Mayor Olin L. Jenkins, Wednesday evening, that he made the unequivocal declaration that fusion of interests in law as in fact would best serve the interests of all concerned. The present conditions of trade in this vicinity he believes calls for the establishment of the municipality of Greater Plainfield, so long demanded by those having the welfare of the borough's citizens at heart. He would erase the imaginary geographical line which now divides the two municipalities, for in so doing he believes that the territory included in North Plainfield would advance in wealth and in inhabitants.

When approached by a reporter of The Daily Press concerning the reasons for his conversation, Mayor Smalley frankly gave his views in the matter. Said he "That dividing line has been detrimental to us. I am convinced that we will get along better by becoming a part of Plainfield. There has always been a certain community of interests and only the division in law has keep us apart. The condition of business along Somerset street, alone, shows how we are hampered. People won't come across the brook to trade with our merchants, for they always have the idea that they are going over into another county, as indeed they are. Real estate values would increase all along the line.

"Wipe out the division," continued the Mayor, "and people would quickly forget that there had been a distinction in law between the two places. Then they would deal with merchants on Somerset street, which would be a business avenue of the city. We can't get the taxes out of the store property as we should, but if more business was done the condition would change."

Continuing he said "As it is our people go over and trade in the city and in this way we are paying the taxes on the business section of Plainfield from which the city now receives a very great proportion of its revenue. Not only is this the case with us, but it applies to all the farmers in the vicinity. There's a saying around here that 'all roads lead to Plainfield,' and none lead to North Plainfield. The people from the country districts are not content to stop in the borough when the city is so near, so we lose their trade. This calls for a remedy and that is found only in consolidation."

In referring to the subject further, Mayor Smalley said that he is satisfied that there are some good arguments against consolidation, but he believes they are outweighed by those demanding immediate consolidation.

He has reached his welcomed decision only after a careful consideration of the issue as drawn, and now comes out fearlessly for the cause, believing that his views are endorsed by a great majority of the taxpayers. He declares that he is not alone in changing his views, but that there has been a great change during the last few weeks when men have been able to consider the proposition soberly.

As for the proposed improvements in the borough, His Honor declares that these will best be brought about by consolidation. He is a firm advocate of progressiveness in all municipal affairs. A sewage system is sadly needed and he thinks the easiest way to obtain it is by joining with Plainfield. Improvements are needed in various borough institutions, and there is also a desire for the decrease

NO SETTLEMENT YET.

All Are Anxiously Awaiting Conclusion of the Appraisers' Work.

As yet no word has been received of a settlement of the loss on the Babcock building by the fire insurance companies. The matter is now in the hands of appraisers and those interested are awaiting anxiously a final report. The delay in settlement is a source of annoyance and a loss of profit to the Babcock estate as the work of rebuilding cannot be started until the loss is adjusted.

BOARDED WOMAN NOW DEAD

MRS. OCTAVIA MYERS SUED ESTATE OF HER STEPMOTHER.

For $120.50 for Her Board Bill When She Lived at Patrolman Myers' Home.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 24—In the district court yesterday morning, Mrs. Octavia Myers, wife of Policeman Nicholas Myers, of Plainfield, brought suit to recover $120.50 from the estate of her stepmother, Charlotte A. Gisser, whose death occurred August 13.

The claim presented by Mrs. Myers was for alleged board of the deceased for a period of seven months at $15 per month, and an extra charge of 25 cents per week for washing.

The plaintiff, represented by Counsellor W. S. Angleman, testified to Mrs. Gisser having boarded at her home from December 18, 1900, to the latter part of July, 1901. Further evidence on the part of Mrs. Myers was not permitted because of the fact that being the plaintiff in the case she could not, under the law attempt to prove a contract, the defendant being dead.

Nicholas Myers, husband of the plaintiff, testified to an agreement having been entered into between Mrs. Gisser and his wife, whereby the former agreed to pay the latter $15 board per month and twenty-five cents a week extra for washing. This agreement was made in his presence. Myers further testified that Mrs. Gisser, during her long stay at his home, had never paid a penny.

She kept promising to pay as soon as she was able to obtain interest on certain moneys, and again as soon as she could dispose of certain lots located in Netherwood.

On cross-examination Myers said that his home was the property of his wife. He proclaimed himself, however, as the head of the house and said that he furnished everything eaten therein.

On this admission Lawyer James J. Meehan, representing the defense, asked for a non-suit, claiming that if, as Myers had stated, he was the head of the house and furnished the board, then, if any remuneration for board was due, it was due Myers and not his wife, and that Myers, being the head of the house, his wife had no right to enter of her own volition into such a contract as alleged.

Judge Atwater failed to agree with the defense in such statements, refused the motion and forthwith found for the plaintiff in the full sum demanded.

OBJECT TO COWS.

West Enders Do Not Favor Them on Their Lawns.

The usual complaints are being received by the police from West Enders whose lawns suffer from the depredations of cows. This is a nuisance which is suffered by residents of thae section of the city every summer and some of them demand that action be taken. People owning cows are wont to allow them to wander at will, thus saving the cost of pasturage at the expense of those who desire grassy lawns.

FIRST MARRIAGE AT HEAVENLY REST CHURCH

Miss Lillian B. Smith Wedded to Frank L. VanNorden, of Brooklyn, Yesterday.

A PRETTY CEREMONY.

YOUNG COUPLE WILL RESIDE IN BROOKLYN AFTER HONEYMOON.

Initial Marriage Was a Brilliant One—Those in the Bridal Party—The Gowns—Two Clergymen at the Ceremony.

Two hundred guests from New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Baltimore, Lancaster, Pa., Flushing, L. I., and this city, witnessed the wedding of Miss Lillian Bowden Smith, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Smith, of Astor place, and Frank Lester VanNorden, of Brooklyn, in the Mission Church of the Heavenly Rest, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was the first ceremony of its kind to take place in the pretty edifice since its erection fifteen years ago. The initial marriage was a brilliant one and the largest that has been held in the extreme western section of the city in several years.

The bridal party was completed by Miss Isabelle VanNorden, who acted as maid of honor and John Marshall, of Brooklyn, who acted as best man. The ushers were Captain Nelson Woodhull, of Brooklyn, and Edward A. Smith, of this city. Miss Agnes VanNorden, a niece of the groom, made a bewitching little flower girl.

The bride was gowned in white poplin with white lace trimmings and carried white carnations. The maid of honor's gown was of blue taffeta with honiton lace trimmings, the latter an old family heirloom. White swiss was the material composing the flower girl's dress.

The bride entered the church escorted by her brother, Stephen H. Smith, who gave her away in marriage. At the altar the party was met by the groom and the words which made the young people man and wife were pronounced by Dr. John D. Kennedy, rector of the Church of St. Mark, of Brooklyn, assisted by Rev. Harris C. Rush, rector of the mission Church of the Heavenly Rest. Preceding and during the ceremony the Lohenrgin wedding march was played by Mrs. E. E. Brown.

On leaving the church, Mr. and Mrs. VanNorden at once left on their wedding trip which will last two weeks and which will include visits to several places of interest in the west. On their return they will reside on Lexington avenue, Brooklyn, where Mrs. VanNorden will give a series of "at homes" the first to take place on May 8. Mr. VanNorden is in the photography business with a large studio in Brooklyn.

Both bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome and costly presents, consisting chiefly of bric-a-brac, silverware and cut glass. The groom presented his best man and ushers with diamond stick pins and the maid of honor and flower girl received from the bride, pretty toilet sets.

ANOTHER SMALL-POX CASE WAS DISCOVERED

Mrs. John Crowley Was Removed to the Isolation Hospital Late Last Evening.

NOT A SERIOUS CASE

ALL NECESSARY PRECAUTIONS TAKEN AND NO SPREAD IS FEARED.

Case Was Diagnosed as Small-Pox Last Night—Health Board Notified and Woman Removed—No One Knows How She Got It.

Mrs. John Crowley, aged thirty years, of 324 Prescott place, was taken to the isolation hospital last night at 12 o'clock, it having been decided that she has small-pox.

The woman was taken ill Tuesday, when Dr. Marcus L. Clawson was called to see her. At that time her illness was of such a character that it could not be determined what it was.

There was very little eruption and only in a very few spots. Dr. Clawson again called yesterday and he then decided that the case was small-pox. The Board of Health was called in and it was decided unanimously. The woman was removed as stated at midnight last night. The Board of Health then took every precaution and vaccinated everyone in the neighborhood as well as the husband and five children in the house. It is not believed that the disease will spread.

Just how the woman contracted the disease cannot be learned at present. Her condition was such last evening that the physicians could learn nothing. It has been stated that several strange women have been visiting in the West End lately selling notions and it is barely possible that they may have carried the germs.

Mrs. Crowley has five children, Richard, Patrick, Jeremiah, Caroline and Anna, while there is a step-son, who is a motorman on the trolley road. He will be vaccinated this morning and allowed to return to work.

Everything at the isolation hospital was in readiness to receive the case and as the woman does not appear to have a violent attack, it is generally believed that she will pass through the stages of it with little danger.

It was really and truly a rag tag social for nearly every one appeared in rags and tags. Those who ventured to dress themselves otherwise were fined a small sum and the amount realized in this way was used to defray the expenses of the affair.

A "list of the finds" is as follows: "No apern, watch and chain, 1 sents; ear rings, finger rings, fancy pins, 2 sents; glasses, kombs, hair curled, 2 sents; mustash, hair parted in middle, 3 sents; buttonhole boquet, flirtin, 5 sents; patent lethers, spoonin, 5 sents; bald heads, hoarse play, 5 sents."

Nearly everyone obeyed the written rules and in consequence it presented a truly thrilling sight. As one person expressed it "We have laid aside our dignity for one evening and are enjoying horse-play." There were farmers, country maidens, etc., all in their plainest garb and everyone joined in the festivities with a will. During the evening there were popular songs by the "farm hands," accompanied by Rev. C. E. Herring.

Later in the evening refreshments consisting of coffee and crullers were served by the committee consisting of Mrs. Harry Williams, chairman; Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. Wm. Dunn, Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland, Miss Kate Lounsbury, Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross, Mrs. Kelly.

SHORT SLEEVES FOR BATHERS

INNOVATION PLANNED BY FOUNDER BRADLEY FOR ASBURY PARK.

The Surf Bathing Will Probably be Started Early Next Month—No Band Yet Engaged.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, April 25—Mr. Bradley's idea of the fitness of short sleeves for women's bathing costumes has evidently undergone some alteration during the winter.

In preparation for the coming season, the founder of Asbury Park, who for the past thirty years has witnessed all sorts of freaks in the bathing-suit line, has a corps of seamstresses at work on the new costume for 9102, which permits a very short sleeve for the women and a sailor collar with white braid by way of adornment. The new suits are made of blue flannel, and will certainly add to the attractiveness of the feminine bathers. It is expected, if the weather continues warm, that bathing will be inaugurated on a limited scale some time next month. In the meantime the Ross hot and cold sea water baths are well patronized, and supply a much-needed convenience to early spring visitors.

Last summer progressive euchre at the hotels and other entertainments were given in great profusion for the benefit of the isolation hospital. At that time the hospital was somewhat in embryo, but the women under whose auspices the euchres were given raised $3,000 for the project. Application has been made to the City Council for an appropriation of $2,000 for the same purpose, and three new hospital buildings will be erected on a fifty-one-acre plot, about a mile west of Asbury Park.

No band for beach music has yet been engaged for the ensuing season. Applications for the contract are coming in by the dozen, and it is likely that the City Council will soon take action on the matter. Meantime several good bands, any one of which would have been satisfactory to the city, have been engaged elsewhere, and it is feared that unless a speedy contract is made there will be trouble to obtain good music on the beach this summer.

MR. LEE'S SIDE.

Was Simply Investigating and Did Not Attempt to Lock Up Young Molleson.

The story of the action of Charles A. Lee in taking young Chester Molleson, of East Third street, to Chief Campbell, has a different version, according to the friends of the Councilman.

It is stated that Mr. Lee's object was solely to ascertain the character of the lad, whose peculiar movements caused some doubt in his mind. It is declared by Chief Campbell, who by the way did not furnish the information for the story, that no request was made that the boy be locked up. He simply inquired as to the responsibility of the lad and, when informed that he was law-abiding and worked in the borough, nothing further was done.

"PATIENCE" BY LOCAL TALENT

The Amateur Production of Comic Opera at Casino Was a Complete Success.

SOCIETY WAS THERE.

Arranged and Staged by William Holmes, Who Played One of the Principal Roles—Singing Was Excellent—Acting Was Satisfactory—The Programme.

"Patience," the tuneful and rhythmic Gilbert and Sullivan opera which delighted thousands in the heyday of its triumph two decades ago, scored another instantaneous success last evening. It was produced at the Casino by local talent and from the opening chorus to the final fall of the curtain was a grand musical revelation to the delighted audience which enjoyed the treat. Beautifully costumed, accurately staged and aptly enacted, it was an artistic success such as could be guessed at but seldom becomes a realization. Applause was frequent and unstinted and many times the vocalists were compelled to return and repeat stanzas.

The piece was interpreted by a cast of eleven assisted by a carefully selected chorus of twenty-six. Principals and members of the chorus alike entered into the spirit of the occasion and the allotted parts were borne in a manner which allowed of no adverse criticism. To augument the chorus work, a stringed orchestra of fourteen pieces lent its fascinating strains and completed entrancing effect.

The characters assumed and the cast was as follows:

CAST

Reginald Bunthorne, a Fleshly Poet, ... William Holmes
Archibald Grosvenor, an Idyllic Poet, ... William J. Tallamy
Colonel Calverly. ..... Graham Reed
Major Murgatroyd. ..... Frederick J. Pope
Lieut. the Duke of Dunstable ..... George H. Smith
Officers of the Dragoon Guards.
Mr. Bunthorne's Solicitor. ..... Ferd M. Ward
Lady Jane, an Advanced Aesthetic, ... Mrs. Ferd M. Ward
Lady Ella. ..... Miss Etta Raybert
Lady Angela. ..... Miss Grace M. Phillips
Lady Saphir. ..... Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross
Rapturous Maidens.
Patience, a Dairy Maid ..... Mrs. Robert L. Giddes

The chorus was made up of Mrs. C. A. Braider and Mrs. Ernestine Runyon, the Misses Edith F. Boice, Emma C. Craig, Josie Dealaman, Ethel Derby, Ada M. Dunham, Elsie Giles, Bessie R. Martin, Cornelia Miller, May Mulford, Elizabeth A. Sears and Ida May Tallamy, and Elmer D. Cutting, R. Wilson Derby, Robert L. Giddes, Robert Humpston, William T. Jeffrey, Jr., Albert I. Littell, Ralph K. Miner, Willard M. Miner, Harry J. Northrop, Bertram Tallamy, Louis V. Tallamy, Harry C. Yaegar and Dr Otis B. Whitford.

William Holmes arranged the entire presentation and, besides doing all the coaching, assumed the principal male role. Despite his responsibilities in other quarters, his interpretation of "Bunthorne" showed he thoroughly understood and appreciated the part. To him credit for the successful rendition is due.

Briefly told, the plot of the opera, if it can be termed as such, deals with the adoration bestowed upon two asumed aesthetic poets, "Bunthorne" and "Grosvenor." The former is the pet of the pretty maidens until the appearance of "Grosvenor" upon the scene when the affections of the young women, with the exception of "Jane," are transferred to him. The heavy dragoons, also once very popular, are also completely ignored. "Bunthorne" scorns all but "Patience," who after she has offered herself to him, finds she loves "Grosvenor." Upon learning this, "Bunthorne" by threats, induces "Grosvenor" to forsake his aesthetic ways and become commonplace. "Bunthorne" then assumes the aesthetic poesy that he may win the admiration of the maidens. Officers of the dragoons finding only persons of aesthetic manners were noticed, attempt to become as such but with poor effect. The rapturous maidens still continue to follow "Grosvenor" and "Bunthorne" at last is left alone and has no one to share his lot. "Grosvenor," as the common place young man, carries off "Patience" while the dragoons are again received in favor.

To tell the story properly, every line needed to be brought out strongly and this was done. The solos were admirably taken and were a treat in themselves. Many of these devolved

METUCHEN TAIKS OF TOBACCO RAISING PLAN

Several of the Farmers of the Neighborhood Have Raised It With Much Success.

THE SOIL SEEMS RIGHT.

A PROPER DISTANCE FROM THE SEACOAST TO PERMIT PROPER CURING.

Possible to Make Net Profit of $300 With Comparatively Very Little Outlay for Machinery and Fertilizers.

The people of Metuchen, according to the Newark Call, are becoming enthusiastic over the possibility of that place becoming the centre of a great tobacco raising country. Last year some very successful experiments were made in raising this product, and the strong belief is developed that tobacco can be raised in that vicinity with results every bit as successful as those obtained in Connecticut and many other parts of the country. The soil thereabouts seems to be especially adapted for the growth of the plant and that location is just the right distance from the seacoast to permit proper curing.

Thomas Allen, who lives about a mile from Metuchen, was the first man to become interested in growing tobacco and has had more experience and success than any other person near there He has been successful in cultivating it for three years past and has sold what he raised at good figures. This year he will put out more plants than ever before—60,000 in all. He says it is possible to realize a profit of $300 an acre on the product. And as the average a farmer makes on an acre of grain is about $50, it can readily be seen that there is money in the tobacco raising business. There are, of course, some investments that must be made at the start for necessary machinery and fertilizers, etc., but they do not amount to a great deal.

A machine, which is drawn by two horses and operated by two boys and a man, is one of the chief requisites—and is called a transplanter. The plants themselves, which have been raised in hot beds, are planted in the ground by the boys as the machine goes along, and are watered and fertilized before being covered—all this being practically done in one operation.

J. W. R. Crawford, of Metuchen, secured a good figure for two and a half acres of tobacco which he raised last year. The purchase was made by a London, England, firm. The price he got was $600 and the amount would have been more but for the fact that it was not raised by an experienced person. It was bought by the English firm for filling purposes for the reason that the leaves were not quite good enough for wrappers, being damaged. Had the tobacco received proper care it could have been used for cigar wrappers and would have brought a much better figure.

This year Mr. Crawford will put in 50,000 plants. Several others are arranging to grow the weed, and it is likely that 500,000 plants will be put out this season.

HIGHLAND BEACH OPEN.

Damage Done by the Sea Has Been Fully Repaired for the Season.

It will be interesting to thousands of pleasure seekers to know that Highland Beach, which last year was washed away by heavy inundations of the sea, has been repaired, and the beach will be far better than ever before for bathing. This seaside resort has long been popular as a picnic ground, and the marked improvements made will help it wonderfully.

Blood Poisoning Threatened.

J. J. Heidloff, of Craig place, is suffering with an injured left arm. For some time it had given him trouble, particularly at the wrist joint. He consulted Dr. Albert Pittis and it was found that blood poisoning affected the wrist. An operation was performed and now the arm is improving rapidly.

"It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

NEW TRAIN TO HARRISBURG

READING'S PLAN TO RUN TO NEW YORK VIA JERSEY CENTRAL.

Would Connect at Allentown and Save Twenty-Two Miles—Plan is Favored.

Officials of the Reading Railway are considering the introduction of a fast express train between Harrisburg and New York, by way of Allentown and the Jersey Central. This route has the advantage of being about twenty-two miles shorter than the present Reading line between Harrisburg and New York and about sixteen miles shorter than the Pennsylvania lines.

The distance between Harrisburg and New York by the route proposed is 180 miles, and could be readily covered in four and one-half hours. The putting in service of this train has the hearty indorsement of General Superintendent Garrett and General Passenger Agent Weeks.

The details have not as yet been all worked out, but the plan proposed is to continue the present fast express train between Harrisburg and Reading, leaving the former city at 8:15 a. m., and arriving in Reading at 9:30; through to Allentown without a stop, and thence over the Jersey Central to Jersey City. Returning, the train would probably leave New York about 5 or 5:30 p. m., so as to run on the schedule of the present train leaving Reading at 8:30 p. m., and arriving at Harrisburg at 10:10.

The matter of putting on an additional train for Buffalo, the West and Canada, via the Lehigh Valley, leaving the terminal at Philadelphia at 6:30 p. m., is also being given serious attention.

KNOX MAKES A MOVE

Attorney General to Proceed Against Beef Trust.

BILL FOR AN INJUNCTION ORDERED

The Preliminary Examinations Just Completed Show Combine's Recent Action to Be In Restraint of Interstate Trade.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Attorney General Knox makes the following statement regarding the so called beef trust:

"On April 4 this department directed W. A. Day, Esq., of Washington in his capacity as special assistant to the attorney general to examine into as far as practicable the public charges to the effect that a combination of the large meat dealers of the United States had been effected contrary to the provisions of the laws of the United States. This preliminary examination resulted in instructions to Mr. Day and Mr. Bethea, United States attorney at Chicago, on April 7 to prosecute simultaneously in Chicago and the east a more particular examination into the allegations and proofs alleged to exist in support thereof.

"From their reports I am satisfied that sufficient evidence is in hand upon which bills in equity for an injunction can be framed to restrain the combination mentioned from further proceeding under their agreement, which clearly appear to be in restraint of interstate trade.

"I have therefore, in compliance with the law which provides, 'It shall be the duty of the several district attorneys of the United States in their respective districts, under the direction of the attorney general, to institute proceedings in equity to prevent and restrain violations of this act,' directed the district attorney at Chicago to prepare a bill for an injunction against the corporations and persons who are parties to the combination mentioned to be filed in the United States circuit court for the northern district of Illinois.

Packers Welcome Investigation.

CHICAGO, April 25.—United States District Attorney Bethea refused to make any statement last night about the action that he will take under Attorney General Knox's instructions. A representative of the packing houses said that the packers welcomed a full investigation of their relations with each other and the conduct of their business. In their behalf he entered a denial to all charges that they are in combination to control prices or in restraint of trade.

Daughters of the Revolution.

DENVER, April 25.—The Daughters of the Revolution, who are holding their annual meeting in this city, have begun the consideration of the proposed amendments to the constitution. Miss Adeline W. Sterling of New Jersey, the president general, is presiding, and there are fifty-nine delegates registered. The tenor of the reports from the state societies indicates that educational work among the young may to some extent take the place of building monuments and the preservation of historic spots of the Revolutionary war in the future work of the organization.

Long's Last Official Dinner.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The secretary of the navy and Mrs. Long, who will leave Washington next week on the retirement of the secretary from his present position, entertained at their last cabinet dinner last evening on board the United States steamer Dolphin, now anchored at the navy yard. The ship was brilliantly illuminated from stem to stern by tiny stars of electric lights. The guests included President and Mrs. Rosevelt.

Lord Kelvin In Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Lord Kelvin, the distinguished English scientist who is visiting Washington, was heard by the house committee on coinage, weights and measures on the bill of Representative Shafroth of Colorado for the adoption of the metric system. Lord Kelvin's remarks were followed with much interest by members of the committee. He strongly approved the proposed change.

Student's Skull Fractured.

LAKEVILLE, Conn., April 25.—J. E. W. Disette of Indianapolis, a student at the Hotchkiss school, was seriously, perhaps fatally, hurt on the school campus here by being struck on the head with a twelve pound shot. Hubert Williams of Lakeville was putting the shot when it slipped and struck Disette on the head, fracturing his skull. Disette is about eighteen years old and the son of wealthy parents, who live in Indianapolis.

Exciting Tennessee Derby.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 25.—Eight thousand people saw George Hendrie's chestnut colt Red Robe win the Cumberland Derby at Cumberland park. The price of his chance was 20 to 1. The finish was on the sensational order, Circus and Buccleuth being close up and the three fighting it out through the latter part of the stretch.

Lumber Train Runs Away.

ROANOKE, Va., April 25.—A special from Bristol says that an engine and twelve cars on a lumber road ran away down a mountain near Saginaw, western North Carolina, and were wrecked. William Burton, engineer in charge of the train, was instantly killed.

Archbishop Corrigan Ill.

NEW YORK, April 25.—His grace Archbishop Corrigan has had a slight congestion of the lungs, and pneumonia is feared. Drs. Keyes and Delafield are in attendance.

RAGING FOREST FIRES

Great Destruction of Property In Central Pennsylvania.

LOSS OF LIFE IS ALSO REPORTED.

Villages Swept by the Flames—Large Quantities of Lumber Destroyed. Hundreds of Acres of Timber Burned Over.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., April 25.—During the past forty-eight hours the furious sweep of forest fires in the central section of the state has caused devastation to a vast amount of property, and in two cases the loss of life is attributed to the fire fiend. From Sinnemahoning come meager details of the fate that befell two men and the thrilling escape of four others. Mountain fires destroyed a large number of sleepers and caused the rails to spread on Barclay's lumber railroad. An engine and a dozen cars loaded with logs were derailed. The locomotive overturned, pinning two of the six men riding on it under the tender. The other four men saved themselves with great difficulty, but were unable to prevent their comrades, pinned under the tender, from burning to death. The names of the unfortunate men have not been learned.

As a result of the fire, which destroyed ten houses, a church, a schoolhouse and nine stables in the village of Clintondale, Clinton county, six-year-old Agnes Felding lost her life. The child became frightened when the flames attacked the home of her parents, and in attempting to reach a place of safety she fell into a creek and was drowned. Her body was recovered a mile from her home, having been carried down the stream with the current.

A critical condition of things exists in the northwestern portion of Lycoming county in the Pine Creek valley. Near Haneyville 400,000 feet of sawed lumber belonging to George Walker has been destroyed. Four houses were also burned.

Rogers' sawmill on Lick run was wiped out of existence during the night. A large amount of sawed lumber was saved with difficulty.

Over fifty men worked hard all day and a portion of the night fighting a fierce fire in Mosquito valley above the Williamport Water company's reservoir. The flames covered an immense area, fully a hundred acres being burned over. The fighters finally succeeded in mastering the fire.

The mountains bordering Pine creek are reported ablaze from Ramseyville to Ansonia. At Ramseyville 2,500 feet of logs belonging to Valentine Luppert of South Williamsport were destroyed. Several small houses adjacent were also burned.

At Ridgeway a fire alarm was sounded, and the citizens turned out to fight the encroaching flames and save the town from destruction.

Passengers arriving here from points along the Philadelphia and Erie railroad state that the forests are ablaze from Renova to Johnsonburg.

A Bank With $25,000,000 Capital.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The directors of the National City bank of New York have recommended an increase of the bank's capital stock from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000. The new stock, in 150,000 shares, will be offered to shareholders at $150. This will provide an additional surplus of $7,500,000 and will increase the bank's surplus to $15,000,000. Only two other banks in the country have a capital of $10,000,000, and the increase to $25,000,000 will make the National City the largest banking institution in the United States.

Train Wreck on New York Central.

WINSTED, Conn., April 25.—Word has reached here of a train wreck at Boston Corners, N. Y. Through a misunderstanding of signals the northbound passenger train on the Highland division of the New York Central and Hudson River railroad crashed into a freight train of the Central Vermont railroad on a crossover at Boston Corners. The entire passenger train was derailed and both engines demolished. No one was seriously injured.

A Record Steerage Load.

BOSTON, April 25.—The Cunard steamship Ivernia, Captain Pritchard, Liverpool and Queenstown, has docked at East Boston with 44 saloon, 126 second cabin and 1,977 steerage, a total of 2,147 passengers. Her steerage list is the largest that has ever been brought to this port on one steamer, being five more than were brought by the Saxonia of the same line in May of last year.

Life Prisoner Dead.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 25.—George Charter of Binghamton, serving a life sentence for murder, is dead at the prison. He was in very poor physical condition when received and had been in the prison hospital most of the time. The cause of death was valvular disease of the heart.

Possible Plot Against Alfonso.

MADRID, April 25.—Considerable excitement has been caused here by the arrest of a Frenchman who attempted to enter the royal palace. The prisoner gave the name of Saury. Nothing but a prayer book was found in his pockets. Saury was handed over to the French embassy.

PALMA AT OLD HOME

President Elect of Cuba Receives Hearty Welcome.

WILL ASK PARDON FOR AMERICANS

All Under Arrest or Awaiting Trial in the Island to Be Recommended to Clemency of Protecting Government.

HAVANA, April 25.—President Elect Estrada Palma has arrived at his old home, Bayamo, in Santiago province. He was enthusiastically received along the route from Holguin, from which place he traveled in an old fashioned Cuban volante. He was accompanied by hundreds of persons on horseback.

At a farewell reception given the president elect at Holguin 1,500 schoolchildren sang the Cuban hymn. At a banquet the same evening the president elect urged the people, without distinction of class, to unite in erecting an unbreakable barrier for the protection of the new republic. He said he counted upon the Spaniards in Cuba, whom he characterized as one of the principal factors in the island, to assist in the republic's success. He said the Cubans should unite on economic rather than political lines, establish the stability of the first Cuban government and show the world that the Cubans were not like the people of certain South American republics.

On the way to Bayamo Senor Estrada Palma's party was entertained at the camp of the Cuban company which is constructing the railroad from Santiago to Puerto Principe. Upon approaching Bayamo Senor Estrada Palma was met by a number of his old war companions, including Senores Rabi, Lora and Barez, who escorted him to the town.

The president elect has sent a telegram to the Cuban senators and representatives elect in Havana saying he would ask the American government before he assumed office to pardon all Americans under arrest or awaiting trial in Cuba. The municipal council of Havana has voted to ask Secretary Root to grant the pardons of the Americans Senor Estrada Palma referred to in his telegram.

Secretary Root has inspected while in Cuba the schools, hospitals, institutions and general improvements made in all departments under American intervention. He will probably sail for the United States today.

The cholera record up to date is as follows: In Manila there have been 487 cases and 385 deaths, while the provinces report 1,217 cases and 847 deaths.

Wood Summons Cuban Congress.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The war department has received copies of a proclamation issued by General Wood, military governor of Cuba, dissolving the Cuban constitutional convention and directing the Cuban congress to convene at Havana on May 5 "for the purpose of examining into the credentials of its members and counting and rectifying the electoral vote for president and vice president." The central board of scrutiny is also declared dissolved. The closing paragraph of the proclamation declares the 20th day of May, 1902, Cuban independence day, a special holiday.

Foreign Shipping Combine Rumors.

LONDON, April 25.—The Daily Mail affirms this morning that the agreement of the Atlantic shipping combine contains secret clauses to the effect that the American promoters of the concern intend to ask congress to pass a new shipping bill permitting foreign built vessels to be brought under the American flag. The adhesion of the Cunard line is practically certain, continues The Daily Mail, and the corporation will be formed mainly with American capital. It will take over entire the British shipping companies. Those companies refusing to join the combine will be compelled to fight for their existence.

Editors at Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 25.—About eighty of the editors of the National Editorial association, some accompanied by their wives, arrived here yesterday from Hot Springs, Ark. A party of them under ex-President Albert Tozier of Portland, Or., leave here this evening for Washington. The others will remain here for several days. The editors attended the Missouri-Kentucky celebrations and afterward had a trip around the harbor.

Suicide's Wealth Goes to Yale.

NEW YORK, April 25.—By the will of Edward W. Southworth, who committed suicide last Sunday in the Presbyterian hospital, the bulk of an estate valued at over $230,000 is left to Yale university. Colonel George Seymour Hastings, brother-in-law of Colonel Southworth, is named as executor of the will. He is left $75,000 for life, and his three grandchildren are given $15,000 each. The remainder goes to Yale.

Street Cars Run Not In Lima.

LIMA, O., April 25.—The entire street car system of this city has been tied up by a general strike of the employees because of the discharge of Motorman Lesch and Conductor Shively. The cars were run to the barns, and not a wheel is moving. The two discharged men were promoters of a movement to ask for a raise in wages from 12 to 16 cents an hour. Over a hundred men are affected.

MAYOR SMALLEY'S STAND.

One of the most important announcements of the week was that made by Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, at the dinner given by the city's mayor, Dr. Olin L. Jenkins, Wednesday night. At that time, His Honor stated that he was now heartily in favor of consolidation as well as annexation.

When the subject of Greater Plainfield was first agitated, this winter, Mayor Smalley was strongly in favor of bringing the borough into Union county but he did not advocate the union of the two municipalities. Since that time he has carefully considered the question and is now willing to admit that the best interests of the whole community demand the consolidation of the two. It is not hard to see the reasons for such a change. The average citizen, if he fairly and carefully considers the question, is bound to decide it as did the borough's Mayor. It is nevertheless, a decided victory for the consolidation forces as the borough possesses no more aggressive citizen than N. B. Smalley and he is always ready to use his best endeavors to advance the chances of any proposition he may be supporting.

Mayor Smalley is not the only one who has been won over to the cause of consolidation. There are many others. On account of Mr. Smalley's prominent position in the borough, both as an office holder and taxpayer, his change is looked upon with special interest and given more attention than many of the others. When the forces working for Greater Palinfield settle down to hard missionary work, the ranks of the "Anti's" will be sadly depleted. There are so many unanswerable arguments in favor of the union of the two municipalities that it seems strange that any one should be found to oppose. Even those who have come out against it, generally admit that the city and borough are bound, by the course of natural events, to be one some day. We are anxious, and so is Mayor Smalley, to bring it about so that the present generation can enjoy some of its benefits.

MR. STEPHENS' RECITAL.

It Will Probably be His Last Appearance in Plainfield.

It is announced that Ward Stephens, the accomplished organist of the Crescent Avenue church, has accepted the position at All Souls' church, New York city.

His recital tomorrow evening will give lovers of good music another opportunity, probably the last, of hearing this brilliant performer in this city. His programme will be composed mainly of "request" numbers and promises to be of unusual interest. By special request, Mr. Thomas, the tenor, will sing "In Native Worth," from Haydn's oratorio, "The Creation." No charge for admission will be made, but an offering for benevolent work will be received. Ushers will be in attendance to see that all are comfortably seated.

—Press Want Ads Pay.

MR. SMALLEY GAVE REASONS

of running expenses. "Some of our people seem to think that they will not have much voice in the management of the new municipality. I think that they will fare well and that no distinction will nor can be made in treatment accorded the residents in the various sections of what is termed Greater Plainfield. We'll get our share in everything, for our people are just as able as those in the city. Wipe out that line and we'll prosper."

NEW RATE OF ASSESSMENTS

BEING CONSIDERED BY THE MODERN WOODMEN OF AMERICA.

Officers Say That Present Rate is Too Low—Should Provide for the Future.

For some time the Modern Woodmen of America have been considering the adoption of a new rate of assessments. The Head Camp, the governing body of the order, has appointed a special committee to consider the subject from the many different standpoints and to report, so the question could be referred to the camps for an expression of opinion. This is to be used as a guide when the Head Camp meets to consider the subject and vote either to adopt or reject it.

For the past two years the question has been agitating members of the organization who study such problems. The opinion has been frequently expressed that the present rate of assessments is lower than it should be, and that the members, when they understand the matter, would not object to an advance, which would make it possible to create a reserve fund to be used in years when the death rate will be larger than it now is.

The question is now before the camp. State Consul of New Jersey Albert Schurr is the general eastern lecturer, and he has planned the following official visits for the purpose of explaining in detail the new rates proposed by the committee:

Bridgeport, Conn., April 28, Waterbury, Conn., April 29; Morristown, May 8; Hartford, Conn., May 12; Norwich, Conn., May 13; Washington, D. C., May 17; Providence, R. I., May 19; Atlantic City, N. J., June 3. A New England trip will be taken in July as follows: Burlington, Vt., 7; Rutland, Vt., 9; Montpelier, Vt., 11; Portland, Me., 14; Rockland, Me., 16; Augusta, Me., 18, and Bangor on the 21st.

WETUMPKAH'S SMOKER.

Music and Recitations Were the Principal Items of Interest to the Members and Their Guests.

Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, Independent Order of Red Men, held a business meeting and open smoker at its hall last night, at which fourteen applications for membership were received at the former and seven at the later.

The entertainment consisted of recitations by Miss Hattie Edgar, Miss Von Ohl, John Manley; piano solo by Marcus Hoyt, Mr. Samuels, and the Misses Edgar; banjo solo by J. B. Longhead; singing by Alfred Stokey, Mrs. J. Manley, Misses Lydia and Mandeline Edgar and Miss Dawes. Past Great Sachem Wm. Newcorn delivered the address of welcome. Michael Armstrong, Robert Humphrey and Wm. A. Westphal were the committee in charge of the affair.

Addition to Stable.

NEW LAW PROVIDING FOR PUBLIC BATHS

Plainfielders, Interested in the Movement, Believe This City Could Act Under It.

HAS BEEN SOME TALK.

WAS PASSED AT LAST SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

The Provisions of the Law Which Was Passed at the Earnest Solicitation of Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City.

The subject of free public baths has already been agitated in Plainfield and there are many who believe that the city should arrange for such institutions without delay. A measure was passed by the Legislature at its last session which dealt with the subject. It was passed largely at the solicitation of Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City. The Plainfielders, who are interested in the project, believe that this city could take advantage of the law as well as Jersey City.

The new act provides that it shall be lawful for the Common Council by resolution, approved by the mayor, "to establish and maintain in such city, as heretofore provided, one or more free public baths and gymnasiums, and to provide an appropriation not exceeding $15,000 per annum for the expense and maintenance thereof, which said amount shall be annually raised, levied and collected as other taxes in said city are now or hereafter may be levied and collected; it shall be lawful for the said municipal board or body having charge and control of the finances of such city, with the approval of the mayor, to issue bonds, either registered or coupon, to an amount not exceeding $50,000, and to sell the same at public or private sale, in case a more favorable bid can be obtained at private sale than shall have been publicly bid therefore, and to appropriate and apply the money derived from such sale of said bonds to the purchase of suitable premises for such free public baths and gymnasiums, or to the purchase of land and the erection and furnishing of buildings thereon suitable for such free bublic baths and gymnasiums; the erection and furnishing of said buildings shall be done by contract, which contract shall be awarded upon two weeks' advertisement in two newspapers circulated in such municipality, to the lowest responsible bidder; that the issue of bonds under the provisions of this act shall be exempt from taxation and made payable at periods of not exceeding thirty years from the date of the issuing of the same, and shall draw such rate of interest, not exceeding five per centum per annum, and be in such sum as the board having charge and control of the finances of such city shall determine; these bonds shall be executed under the corporate seal of such city and the signature of the mayor and comptroller or other proper financial officer thereto, and may be either registered or coupon bonds as the said board may direct; provided, that in order to redeem the bonds ordered under the prvovisions of this act, at maturity, it shall be the duty of the board having charge and control of the finances of such city to establish a sinking fund, which shall be erected by a special tax of not less than two per centum upon the issue herein provided for, to be annually levied and collected as other taxes in such city are now or hereafter may be levied and collected; and it shall be lawful for the said board or body having charge and control of the finances of such city, if said board shall determine to establish said free public baths and gymnasiums before the money for the construction and maintenance of the same shall be available by levying and collecting of the tax as hereinbefore provided, to raise the money necessary for the purchase of the premises, or the purchase of land and the erection and furnishing of a building, suitable for said free public bath and gymnasium and for the maintenance thereof for the first year after the establishment thereof, as hereinbefore provided, by issuing and selling temporary loan bonds upon the credit of such city, and to cause the amount of said temporary loan and bonds and the interest therein to be placed in the next ensuing tax levy in such city and levied and collected as are other taxes in any such city.

"2. Section two of the act entitled 'An act to authorize the establishment and maintenance of free public baths and gymnasiums in the cities of this State,' approved March twenty-second, one thousand nine hundred and one, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"2. Such municipal board or body having charge and control of the finances of any such city, by resolution as aforesaid, may provide for a committee of three members of such municipal board or body, to be appointed by the presiding officer of such municipal board of body, and to be known as the committee on free public baths and gymnasiums, who shall serve as members of such committee for one year from the time of their appointment and until their successors shall be appointed.

"3. Section four of the act entitled 'An act to authorize the establishment and maintenance of free public baths and gymnasiums in the cities of this State,' approved March twenty-second, one thousand nine hundred and one, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"4. The said committee shall receive no compensation for their services and shall annually make report of their transactions and accounts, and the state and condition of such free public baths and gymnasiums to the said municipal board or body having charge and control of the finances of any such city."

FAREWELL TO PASTOR.

Reception Given to Rev. G. Hauser Retiring Pastor at German Church.

A farewell reception was tendered Rev. G. Hauser, retiring pastor of the German Reformed church, last evening. There was a large attendance and a pleasant informal programme was provided.

On behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Philip Bach presented a handsome Morris chair to the pastor. In responding he made a neat speech, and handed the church book to Deacon Bach. The latter made some appropriate remarks. Mrs. Bach recited "The Last Hymn" accompanied in solo parts by Philip Bach. The committe consisted of Mrs. Joseph Angerbauer, Sr., Mrs. Philip Bach, Miss Sadie Blimm and Mrs. Charles Hook.

"PATIENCE" BY LOCAL TALENT

upon Mrs. Robert L. Giddes as "Patience," the simple dairy maid who had never experienced love, and they were rendered in keeping with the part.

Possessing an extremely sweet soprano voice she used it advantageously. In the first act her duets with "Lady Angela," Miss Grace Phillips and "Grosvenor," William Tallamy, were pleasingly effective. Her most noticeable solo in the second part was "Love is a Plaintive Song."

Mrs. Ferdinand M. Ward, as "Lady Jane," an advanced aesthete, acted her part to perfection. Prolonged applause was called forth by her doleful, "Sad is That Woman's Lot," and "Silver is the Raven Hair." Her duet with "Bunthorne," "Go, Go to Him, and Say to Him" received an ovation and they were forced to repeat it. Even then the applause was unstinted.

Other noticeable numbers was the choruses by the dragoons, "The Soldiers of Our Queen," accompanied by a military step, and "How, Is Not This Ridiculous," solos by Graham Reed, "If You Want a Receipt for That Popular Mystery" and "When First I Put This Uniform On," the quintette, "If Saphir I Choose to Marry" by Graham Reed, Frederick J. Pope, George H. Smith, Miss Grace M. Phillips and Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross and the chorus by William Tallamy and maidens, "The Silver Churn," was very catchy.

As a whole "Patience" was sung in a refreshing manner and than words are needed to extend the praise it deserves. The hopes of Mr. Holmes, who devoted untiring efforts to its exact presentation, were realized and the Plainfield public profited by it. Society showed its appreciation of the treat offered by filling the Casino and applauding vociferously.

Wants to Help Others.

"I had stomach trouble all my life," says Edw. Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. You don't have to diet. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. L. W. Randolph.

MATTERS CONGRESSIONAL.

House Agrees to Oleo Amendments. Disagreement on Chinese Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The house yesterday sent the oleomargarine bill to conference after agreeing to the senate amendments with some modifications suggested by the agricultural committee. The opponents of the measure offered a number of amendments, the principal one of which was designed to place renovated butter on the same footing with oleomargarine, but they were overwhelmingly voted down. The latter part of the day was devoted to the agricultural appropriation bill. Mr. Fox (Miss.) made an exhaustive speech in defense of the suffrage clause of the Mississippi constitution.

Just before the senate adjourned Mr. Rawlins (Utah) concluded his speech in opposition to the Philippine government.

The senate passed several unobjected measures of minor importance and a large number of private pension bills.

The conferees on the Chinese exclusion bill decided to report a disagreement to each house. The point of difference is the date as to when the law shall extend, the house contending for an indefinite period and the senate being equally firm in insisting that the law shall not last beyond the life of the treaty.

The house conferees have held out at the earnest request of the California delegation, but it is believed that when a further conference is ordered an agreement will be reached. The senate conferees announced that a canvass of the senate showed that body would not yield on this point.

REUNION ENDED.

DALLAS, Tex., April 25.—After one of the greatest parades ever held at a Confederate reunion Dallas bade goodby to thousands of her visitors. Every railroad entering the city is sending out numerous trains laden with fatigued but satisfied veterans and their friends.

Last evening the beauty and chivalry of the south represented here gathered at Camp Johnston, where the grand caliph's ball was held. Occasionally in the whirling maze of the dance, doing his best among the younger people, a veteran could be seen dancing with some laughing sponsor or maid of honor, but the old soldiers generally stayed in the seats surrounding the floor. The caliphs in their costumes gave the scene at times a bizarre cast and afforded considerable amusement.

A reception to General Gordon at Episcopal college was the social feature of the day. Here the commander in chief, bearing his seventy-two years like a man of forty, did his best to receive all who came, but he only succeeded in part.

Indiana Republican Nominations.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 25.—The following ticket was nominated by the Republicans of Indiana at their convention in this city: Secretary of state, Daniel E. Storms; auditor, David E. Sherrick; treasurer, N. U. Hill; attorney general, Charles W. Miller; state geologist, Willis S. Blatchley; state statistician, Benjamin F. Johnson; judge supreme court, John H. Gillett; judges of the appellate court, W. D. Robinson, William J. Henley, James B. Black, Daniel W. Comstock, Urie Z. Wiley, Frank S. Roby; clerk of the supreme court, Robert A. Brown; superintendent of public instruction, F. A. Cotton. For nearly every position on the ticket there was a warm fight. The principal contest and the one upon which the most interest was centered was the nomination for attorney general, Miller, who was chosen, was generally credited with being a protege of Senator Beveridge.

Tugmen's Strike Weakened.

CHICAGO, April 25.—The first break in the ranks of the tugmen, whose strike in sympathy with the Duluth union has tied up all the boats of the Great Lakes Towing company at every port from Buffalo to Duluth, came yesterday when the places of the strikers at South Chicago were filled and the trust boats were able to make a few tows. The men who were put to work in place of the strikers were the captains and engineers on other boats belonging to the trust. These men belong to the Licensed Tugmen's Protective association, and their action in manning the boats in order not to cripple the business of the towing company indicated that the captains and engineers were not to be drawn into the strike.

Morgan's Costly Bible.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 25.—Junius S. Morgan, assistant librarian of Princeton university, who brought from Europe the jewel incrusted manuscript Bible of the eighth century which is now in the New York custom house awaiting government appraisal, said yesterday that the existence of the Bible has been known since 1885 and that it is of extraordinary value. He refused to give a further account of it, except that it was obtained from a monastery in Italy.

German Week at Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 25.—The directors of the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian exposition at Charleston have set apart the week beginning May 21 and closing May 28 as "German week" at the exposition. All German societies in the United States are most cordially invited to participate in the festivities of this week, which will consist of turning contests, shooting contests and singing contests, for each of which valuable prizes will be offered.

MONEY IN A FIGHT.

Senator From Mississippi Ejected From a Washington Street Car.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Senator H. D. Money of Mississippi had an altercation with a conductor on a street car yesterday which resulted in the senator receiving two severe blows from the conductor and the conductor being cut quite severely in the right hand with a knife.

Senator Money later secured warrants for the arrest of Conductor Shaner and Foreman Hooper of an engine company on the charge of assault. He also brought charges against Capitol Policeman Murphy, who also is alleged to have taken the part of the conductor in the struggle with the senator. Foreman Hooper and Conductor Shaner were arrested, but both were released on furnishing satisfactory security for their appearance in the police court.

Senator Money said that he had been riding on the line twenty-seven winters, and this was the first trouble he had ever had. He had been very friendly with the employees of the road and always had been solicitous about their welfare and had advocated many changes greatly to their benefit. When he left the loop car, the conductor, he said, waved his hand to the conductor of the other car, indicating that it was all right. He declared there were three separate and distinct assaults committed on him. He drew his knife, he said, to protect himself, but not until he had been ejected from the car and then not until after the conductor had continued to attempt to assault him after the ejectment.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning April 27. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Samuel's call.—I Sam. iii, 1-21. (Union meeting with the Juniors.)

Samuel in the Old Testament and Timothy in the New Testament are the inspirations to the dedication of childhood to faith in God and to the service of God. They stand out prominently as illustrations of the blessed results of early consecration—that is, followed by careful after instruction and nurture. The little men and women of our Junior Endeavor societies can do nothing better than to frequently turn to the story of Samuel's life and read again and again of his pious parentage, of his service in God's temple, of his response to God's call when only a child and of his years of fidelity and faithfulness in his after life. It is a charming story and one that should be a sweetness and inspiration to the life of any boy or girl who wants to be a Christian and a Junior Endeavorer.

1. Samuel was carefully prepared for the call of God. He was the child of pious parents—Elkanah and Hannah. He was an answer to a prayer and to a vow. In fulfillment of that vow his mother very early placed him in the temple of God to be raised for the service of God and visited him once a year and gave to him a little coat, the workmanship of loving hands. With such preparation it was little wonder that God called Samuel to His service and that Samuel promptly responded to the call. In these days, when the church is bewailing the falling off of candidates for the gospel ministry, if there were more Hannahs to consecrate their Samuels to the service of God in His temple and to raise them with this one object in view such a deplorable state of affairs would not exist.

2. God's call came to Samuel at a very early age. Samuel was probably only twelve or thirteen years of age when God called him to a special and important mission. At first he did not recognize the voice of God. How often this is the case! Sometimes for years we grope about in the darkness, without knowing whether it is the voice of God that calls us to His work. But when God wants a man His voice is recognized sooner or later. But if God is calling us to enter the gospel ministry, how may we know it? Eli revealed the voice of God to Samuel. Who will reveal it to us? Three practical tests will probably answer this question: (1) An overwhelming desire to preach the gospel for Christ's sake and that of the unsaved. (2) Natural qualifications. (3) Opportunities. But we may rest assured that if God is calling us He will make the opportunity for us. Samuel had the desire and ability, and the opportunity came.

3. Samuel responded to the call of God. Willingly and enthusiastically he entered the service of God and gave his entire life to His service, and God crowned his life with success and with honors. If by desire, ability and opportunity God is calling us to His service, especially in the gospel ministry, let us respond to His call and dedicate our lives to this glorious work. There never were better opportunities for young men in the gospel ministry than today. Schools of law, of medicine, of science and art are overcrowded. This is, however, far from the case in our theological seminaries. Here there is a falling off. The ministry is not overcrowded. There are not too many churches. God and His church today call for workers as clearly as God called for Samuel's service. The great Christian denominations stand ready to help in educational preparation all those who, having piety and ability, apply at their doors. Who will respond? Young men, Junior boys, is not God calling you? If so, will you not imitate Samuel's example and respond?

BIBLE READINGS.

Deut. v, 16; II Kings xxii, 1-6; Ps. i, 1-6; viii, 1-8; Prov. i, 8-16; vi, 20-23; Eccl. xii, 1; Mark ii, 14; Eph. vi, 1-3; Col. iii, 20; II Tim. i, 3-5; iii, 10-17.

Sympathize With Others.

Because we have sorrows of our own we must not be indifferent to those of others. Grace removes all selfishness out of personal grief and develops a fellow feeling for another's afflictions. True Christians are drawn all the more closely through common trials. As we need sympathy and help in what we endure, so do others in their tribulations, and it becomes us to give out as well as take in kindly consolation and assistance. Our Saviour suffered, but it was that He might be all the more able to sympathize with and aid His people.—Presbyterian.

The Song of the Heart.

A song in the heart is better than a grand piano in a gilded parlor. Real riches cannot be counted out in coin. We are rich in what we are. People are troubled because they live in back streets, but the alley is as near heaven as the avenue.—Dean Hodges of Cambridge, Mass.

God In the Church.

It is true that God is found in our homes and in our offices as much as in church, but it is also true that if we do not yield reverent worship to Him in church we shall not see Him, still less worship Him, anywhere else.—Moravian.

The Busy Man and the Loafer.

The busy man may be tempted by one devil, but the loafer is tempted by a dozen.—Church Standard.

Asleep In Jesus.

"Asleep in Jesus"—words of balm
That permeate our souls with calm;
The promise that our loved ones sleep,
That Jesus in His arms doth keep.
Oh, hours of sorrow, deep, unknown!
For hours of joy forever flown.
How could we bear the wounds so deep
But for the promise of such sleep?
—Philadelphia Ledger.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning April 27. "Samuel's Call"—Text. I Sam. iii, 1-21.

There are many pictures of childhood given in the Bible. Among them the account of the child Samuel holds a leading place and is of unfailing interest. In a rude age when pure religion was rare and even the priests of Jehovah were sometimes wicked men, unrestrained by the aged high priest, it is refreshing to see the simple faith and obedience of the boy who received messages from God and spoke confidingly to Him.

The age of Samuel was one of the transition periods of religious history, and his influence in those changes was the most powerful of any one person. Moses stands as the representative of the law and Elijah as the type of the prophet, as a preacher of righteousness. Samuel represents the change from the older form of seers, who in trance and ecstatic vision and frenzy professed to reveal hidden truth and foresee the future, to a new type of men who by the use of rational powers came to know the will of God in clear eyed vision and to speak for Jehovah to men. They became prophets not so much because they foretold future events as because they told truth for God. They were for-tellers rather than fore-tellers.

Samuel was influential in driving divination and witchcraft of all kinds from the land and in their place establishing the study of the law of God as the all sufficient rule for the guidance of men. He founded the schools of the prophets which flourished for a long time afterward and prepared young men to teach the people religious truth.

Samuel never lost the simple, direct faith of his childhood. He was fearless in his defense of the right and direct in rebuking wrong, whether found in the king or people.

This lesson is chosen with special reference to a union meeting with the Junior League. This section of our organization is doing most important work. The impress made by religious truth upon the child's mind has great influence upon the after life. Too great care and attention cannot be given to this branch of our work. The little boys and girls should be taught the facts in regard to these Bible characters and shown how to apply the lessons of faith and obedience to their own needs. This story of Samuel cannot fail to be interesting and very helpful to them if handled in a sensible manner. Vastly more fascinating and helpful are these Bible stories than all the fairy tales and nonsense stories with which so many of them are often amused at the present time.

They should be taught how they may learn to know God's call to them, not in an audible voice, as Samuel seemed to hear Him speak; but as really and plainly as we know what a father or a mother wishes of us, so can they know what God has for them to do. As all Israel knew that Samuel was established to be a prophet, so may people now know that these children are Christian boys and girls and are determined to live for God.

Self Examination.

Activity is a necessary condition of life, and activity has reality only as we act. It is true of bodily life, of mental life and equally so of spiritual life. To keep the commandments we must do God's will, not merely think about doing it, not simply know how it should be done. Life consists in a series of actions, and life in Christ must accordingly be a series of actions in Christ. But when all this has been said and as much more upon the need of activity and of doing as you may be able to add by way of emphasis the whole truth has not been told. Action must be intelligent, have a proper final cause, understand its agencies and instruments, its environment and its limitations. We must think before we act.—Lutheran.

In Time of Trial.

During the time of trial do not seek to divert your mind wholly from the fact or strive to bury yourself in some business, with the view of "drowning your troubles," but honestly and squarely face the issues and trust the Lord to accomplish all His will in the trials through which He calls you to pass.—Gospel Witness.

A Hymn to Tomorrow.

"If it wasn't for hope, we should die with fear"
Runs the dear old adage we used to hear
When we needed no hope to borrow,
And ever the sweetest thing in life,
Through storm or sorrow or bitterest strife,
Is the hope that enshrines tomorrow.

The world may be old,
And our faith grow cold,
And the blackest of shadows today enfold,
But tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
The way shall be paved with gold.

Out of the unknown we swiftly glide
O'er the river of life so deep and wide,
And ever new faith we borrow,
For the way of God is a wondrous way,
And it leads, by the path of the stern today,
To the edge of a glad tomorrow.

We know not how
It shall come, but Thou,
O Lord, dost nothing but good allow,
And tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
We shall learn the truth which we know not now.

Sometimes it seems that the world is dark,
All silent the song of the thrush and lark
And vanished all else but sorrow,
But over the edge of the darkest night
There waits a sunrise serene and bright,
And life will be glad tomorrow.

And so will it be
When the end we see,
For death means only a life more free,
And tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
Tomorrow,
Shall be heaven, dear Lord, with Thee!

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"I'm doing it on my own responsibility. You see, I told the indignation committee that if they kept you a prisoner they'd have to bring you up for trial. After the way I threw the law into Liscomb they're afraid to have me try your case, and so they said they'd keep you a prisoner until after the election. That isn't the law the way I read it, and as Pettibone is chasing after the courthouse and as I've got a key to this room, I thought this would be a good time to let you out. The people have got their heads so full of other things they won't be able to think of you for awhile, and I'd advise you to go some place—Jimtown, or Bismarck, or anywhere else you want to—and stay for a few days until the suspicions and hard feeling against you have a chance to blow over."

"I'll do it," said Guy, and shook Waffle's hand gratefully. "If you hadn't released me, though, I'd have gotten out of here before many hours had passed. I'm going to Amityville to see if I can't win a few votes for Concord."

"You'll take the risk for nothing, I'm afraid."

"What risk is there?"

"Well Abe Landy rules the roost in Amityville, and Vlandingham has made himself so solid with Landy that they're all red-hot for Harmony. If you go there, however, take my advice and stop with Landy. He's a miserly old sinner, but he's the most fair-minded of any one in the town."

"Thanks. I'll remember the name."

Guy followed the judge from the room, down the stairs and out into the street. The wild clangor of the bell had ceased and the excited shoutings, the grind of carriage and wagon wheels and the fierce tattoo of hoofs had given place to a churchyard quiet. There were many people on the street, but their hats were pulled moodily down over their brows and they conversed with one another in hushed tones. The stunning effects of the calamity had set in.

Going over to the Lisbon House, Guy passed through the deserted office to the dining-room. A waiter served him his breakfast in an agitated and absent-minded manner, and when the young man had finished his meal he went up to his room, packed a few articles in a satchel and then left the hotel and made his way to the livery stable. There were many citizens clustered about the site of the courthouse, but they vouchsafed Guy no attention whatever. Lem Bilkins was there, sitting forlornly on one of the four posts that had supported the stolen building. Mr. Biggs, the register of deeds, was circling sadly about the spot, bewailing the loss of his records. Mr. Glimmer, reposing on the steps of the Emporium, was cleaning a huge, old-fashioned horse pistol, pausing now and then in his work to glare across the street through his heavy-rimmed glasses. Children were as hopelessly cast down as were their elders, and even the dogs took upon themselves the general air of dejection.

Another stable boy had been employed in the place of Barney. His name was Herkimer and he had wandered into Concord, as he expressed it, "on his uppers." Leffingwell had immediately hired him and put him to work. Being a newcomer, Herkimer had not had time to acquire any of the prejudices of the town. Not knowing Guy from Adam, he made ready a saddle horse without question, and the young man, after swinging his satchel from the saddle-horn, mounted and gathered up the reins.

"Please tell Mr. Leffingwell that I may not be back for two or three days," said he, "as I am leaving Concord on business appertaining to the county seat."

"What name?" inquired the new hand.

"Herbert."

"Wait! Stop! I don't think you can have that horse!" cried the hostler, who was familiar with Guy's name if not with his face.

But Guy was well away by this time and gave no heed to Herkimer's summons.

There were two roads leading to Amityville. The shortest road paralleled the railroad track and led directly through Harmony. In order to follow this route it would have been necessary for Guy to traverse the main street of Concord and bear west from the depot. He did not care to do this, or to run the risk of being halted in Harmony, so he debouched southward along the other road and angled toward Amityville by way of Lake Elizabeth.

This latter course had been the one taken by the men who had spirited away the courthouse and Guy saw, stretching out before him, the broad, deep wheel marks of the gigantic truck which had been improvised by the Harmonyites.

When near Lake Elizabeth he suddenly glimpsed half a dozen horsemen galloping rapidly toward him. It was too late to beat a retreat, or to gain unnoticed the friendly shelter of the trees on the bank of the lake. He had been so deep in his thoughts that the horsemen were within a short quarter of a mile of him before he discovered their approach.

He was soon able to distinguish Pettibone, and Pinney, and Leffingwell, but the remaining three were unknown to him. Drawing rein, he quietly waited.

"Thunder!" shouted the sheriff; "it's Herbert."

The next moment Guy was surrounded by six angry and baffled men.

"Well, gentlemen, said Guy, his eyes twinkling, "did you find the courthouse?"

"You be blamed!" returned Pettibone, sourly. "How did you get out?"

"That doesn't matter, Pettibone. I'm out, and that's enough. As you gentlemen appear to be in anything but an agreeable frame of mind, kindly ride out of my way and let me pass on."

"Not much!" cried Pinney. "You've escaped and you've got to go back with us."

"That's the ticket," said Leffingwell, glancing sharply at the horse Guy was riding.

The three others, whom Guy did not know, were equally as positive that he should go back to Concord. Pettibone knitted his brows over the problem but said nothing. His horse stood directly in front of Guy's and as he reflected he snapped his quirt absently against his boot leg.

"Hear me a minute, gentlemen," said Guy. "I don't want to have a clash and I'm sure everything will be pleasant between us if you'll only be reasonable. Yesterday I was given my choice either of leaving town or being locked up. I didn't care to leave town then, but I'm willing to do so now. Why do you want to stop me?"

"Yesterday we had the courthouse," blurted out Leffingwell, "and to-day the other people have got it. That makes all the difference in the world. You've assisted the other people and I suppose you want to go over there and help them celebrate. I, for one, am in favor of taking you back to Concord and treating you as you deserve."

"So am I," seconded Pinney.

The rest were of the same mind, even the sheriff joined with the others.

As Pettibone voiced the agreement with his companions, he flashed Guy a meaning glance and the quirt flew awkwardly from his hand. Dismounting, the sheriff led his horse aside and bent to pick up his whip.

This made a breach in the cordon that surrounded the young man and left the road, for the moment, clear before him. In a trice he interpreted Pettibone's look and dug his heels into his horse's sides. The animal sprung away like a shaft from a bow.

"Stop!" roared Pinney, but he might as well have ordered the wind to cease blowing.

"Stop or I'll shoot!" shouted Leffingwell, drawing a revolver from his pocket and sighting it quickly.

Still Guy did not halt and Pettibone knocked the liveryman's arm downward before he could fire.

DATTOS SUBMITTING.

Colonel Baldwin Reports Progress In Mindanao.

MANILA, April 25.—Lieutenant Colonel Frank D. Baldwin, who is operating against the Moros on the island of Mindanao, telegraphs that the capture of Sultan Pualo's fort has had a most salutary effect. The dattos are submitting. White flags are taking the place of the red battleflags. The sultan of Annudtbak urges that time be given him in which to give up the assassins of the American soldiers and says that the advance of the Americans will mean "bristling cannon and impassable barriers, with God judging the right."

Colonel Baldwin has received orders to suspend operations against the dattos.

General George W. Davis, in command at Zamboanga, island of Mindanao, believes that the majority of the dattos are friendly and that they have not had time to co-operate. He thinks their alarm may cease and that practically a bloodless victory has been achieved.

The court martial which tried Major Waller and Lieutenant Day of the marine corps on charges of executing natives of the island of Samar without trial has reconvened on orders received from Washington to revise certain portions of the records.

The court martial appointed to try General Jacob H. Smith on the charge of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline will assemble today.

German Aristocracy Disgruntled.

BERLIN, April 25.—Emperor William is bitterly criticised in aristocratic drawing rooms for having business men without titles constitute the majority of his guests during his recent excursion in the North sea on the North German Lloyd steamer Kronprinz Wilhelm. So significant is the emperor's graciousness toward these men regarded by the old aristocracy that newspapers all over Germany with aristocratic leanings have during the last two days begun a regular editorial campaign against the new policy introduced into court life. While the German nobility have long noted with apprehension his majesty's liking for the company of the men who are making industrial and commercial Germany, his public entertainment of so many business men is accepted as a deliberate recognition of that class at court.

The Ogden Party In Georgia.

ATHENS, Ga., April 25.—In the chapel of the University of Georgia welcome was given last night to Robert C. Ogden and his party of philanthropists by an assemblage composed of prominent educators from all parts of the south, jurists, business men and students who came here to be present at the first session of the fifth annual conference for the development of education in the south. The conference was invited to the state by the Georgia legislature, and Hon. Clark Howell, president of the senate, speaking for the commonwealth and for the municipality of Athens, voiced the first words of welcome.

Torpedo Boat Destroyer Launched.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The torpedo boat destroyer Hopkins was launched at the yards of the Harlan & Hollingsworth company in this city yesterday. The christening ceremony was performed by Mrs. Alice Gould Hawes of Washington. The launch was witnessed by a large party of invited guests, including Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, chief of the bureau of construction and repair, and Rear Admiral George W. Melville, chief of the bureau of steam engineering.

CHRIST OR THE EVIL ONE

EVANGELIST PRATT SAID MEN WERE SLAVES OF ONE OR THE OTHER.

The Decision Rests With Those Who Make It—Redemption, He Said, is Universal.

"All men are either the bondslaves of Jesus Christ or the bondslaves of the Evil One," emphatically declared Evangelist Pratt at the Monroe Avenue church evangelistic meetings last night. "And furthermore," he added, "we are so by our own choice. No man is his own master, either Christ is his master or the devil. Satan is stronger than any a man or body of men and will overcome the man unless Christ who is the only one stronger than Satan comes to his rescue.

"Man is born naturally with his back towards God and his face towards destruction. If the man is left alone he will surely destroy himself. Conversion means to turn about, turn from our sins, place faith in Son of God and have life.

"Redemption is universal. Salvation is limited to the man who will accept it. Christ has through His death bought God's pardon for all the race it rests with man to take this pardon. If he does not take it he must suffer the penalty of his sin.

"Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law. All law has its curse or penalty imposed for violation. A law without a curse or penalty would be worthless. Christ as our substitute died in our place and met the penalty for our sin."

Several arose at the close of the appeal to signify their intention to accept the pardon offered through Christ.

In the course on Bible study in the afternoon Mr. Pratt traced by scripture references the successive steps by which the Christian came into fullest fellowship with God.

"We are first of all slaves of sin; made free by the power of Christ. We became the servants of Christ. There is a difference between service and servitude. Servitude means bondage. No bondage to fear of flesh; to fear of man; to the inconsistent life. We first do wrong and then seek to justify ourselves in wrong doing by seeing no harm in it. The moral sensibilities become blunted. We are bound to talk wrong if walk wrong.

"We pass from servants to friends. Abraham was the friend of God. Then co-partners with God in the work of uplifting the world. From co-partners we become heirs; equal heirs with Christ.

"There is a difference between salvation and rewards. Salvation is wholly through the merits of Christ. Rewards are superadded because of our faithfulness. From heirs we attain to sonship. We also become members of Christ's mystical body."

There will be no meetings tomorrow but on Sunday four meetings will be held. One at 10 o'clock in the Epworth House for prayer and consecration, at 11 o'clock a sermon by Mr. Pratt, at 3 o'clock Sunday-school decision day, at 8 o'clock evangelistic meeting by Mr. Pratt.

ARBOR DAY AT THE SCHOOLS

OBSERVED THIS MORNING IN CITY AND BOROUGH WITH EXERCISES.

Recitations and Music Were Given—Programmes in Brief at the Different Schools.

Arbor Day was appropriately observed in the public schools in the city and borough today by both pupils and teachers. While no trees were planted, the subject of horticulture was made plain to the scholars by their instructors and the talks were interspersed with interesting muscial and literary selections.

At the Somerset street primary school the following programme was rendered by the pupils, the exercises commencing at 2 o'clock: Recitations by Frances LaPorte, Bertha Miller, Hattie Nischwitz, Wm. Rutledge, Celeste Kolbe, Margrey Hart, Edith Schenck, Myra Lippincott, Jedson Smalley, Edna Dilts, Sadie Weinberger, Fred Clark, David Fairchild, Archie Bailey, Eddie Allen and Harry Allen, and singing by the school. A very pretty dandelion exercise was gone through by Flora Krausse, Roy Love and Elsie Debele.

The exercises of the North Plainfield High School were held at noon in the Somerset Street building, the programme being carried out in the following order: Singing by the school, and reading from John Burroughs; recitations by Jennie DeMott, Myra Lippincott, Edmund LaPorte, Ethel Webster, Eddie Mundy, Henry Haurand, Fred Becker, Christine Mobus, Laura Bodine, Florence Smalley, Grace Woolston, Florence White and Minnie Nischwitz; piano solo by Ursula Krewson, and piano duet by Bessie and Florence Wyckoff.

Appropriate exercises were held in the Plainfield High School this morning, Arbor Day being the occasion observed. Miss Emily Tracy read a short paper. Her topic was "The Birds of Plainfield." It was previously presented at a meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club.

The senior class in the North Plainfield High School planted an ivy in front of the Somerset street school house this morning.

The Humming-Bird's Long Flight.

That it may have the entire field to itself and escape the keen competition of hosts of tropical relatives for the nectar and minute insects in the deep-tubed brilliant flowers that please him best, that jeweled atom, the ruby-throated hummingbird, sole representative of his family east of the Mississippi, travels from Central America or beyond to Labrador and back again every summer of its incessantly active little life. Think what the journey from Yucatan even to New England must mean for a creature so tiny that its outstretched wings measure barely two inches across! It is the smallest bird we have. Wherein lodges the force that propels it through the sky at a speed and a height which take it instantly beyond the range of human vision?—Neltje Blanchan, in Ladies' Home Journal.

The Problem of Coals.

A hindrance to industrial growth, second in importance to that of the demand of the war chests, is the lack of coal. All the coal used on the railroads and in the factories is shipped from other countries, and Italy's balance is reduced each year by the full amount of her fuel bill. This not only has a most unfavorable effect upon her balance of trade, but is very much higher than is the cost in any of the other countries with which she must compete industrially. At Italian seaports the price of coal ranges from seven dollars to ten dollars a ton. In Milan manufacturers pay $12 a ton for coal for which German manufacturers pay six dollars, which the English manufacurers can get for four dollars and which is laid down at many factories in the United States at $2.50 a ton.—Scribner's.

Penitential Pillar.

A superstitious man, Umataro Nagai, living at Akasaka-Ku, in Japan, lately built a stone pillar about 12 feet high and six feet wide, costing 1,000 yen, in the premises of the Shounji temple, at Tokio, in memory of the rats which were recently hunted and destroyed wholesale throughout the city in order to prevent the spreading of the pest. He was said to have been disturbed at night by horrible nightmares, in which he was chased and tortured by thousands of these rodents. He attributed these nightmares to the spirit of the rats. Hence the penitential pillar.—N. Y. Sun.

GOOD NEWS OF JERSEY CENTRAL

The General Passenger Agent Tells of Improvements to be Made in the Near Future.

NEW ROLLING STOCK

Two Old Trains, Heretofore Given Up, Are to be Put Back Into Service—Forty New Locomotives and Sixty New Passenger Cars to be Ready by June 1.

That the general service of the New Jersey Central is greatly improved is a fact recognized by everyone who has occasion to travel over the road. The commuters, as well as all others, who use the road, will be pleased to learn that there is to be further improvement within a short time. C. M. Burt, general passenger agent, in an interview with a Daily Press representative, last evening, gave assurances that when the improvements now under way are completed, the travelling public will have no cause to complain.

It is the purpose of the company to give the patrons of the road ideal service and nothing will be left undone until this is accomplished. Commencing June 1 the 3:37 early morning train will be put on again for the convenience of the market-men. Although this train to New York at that hour has always been run at a loss, the company believes that the persons who have used this train are to be considered. It will arrive in New York at 4:50 o'clock. This train starts from Dunellen and is sure to be run on time.

Some of the forty passenger locomotives ordered some time ago are now being delivered. Many of them are of the new suburban type, that is double ender,s so that they can be run either way conveniently without being changed about. The new type will be used chiefly on the suburban traffic between Jersey City, Newark, Elizabeth and Roselle. The first installment of the sixty passenger coaches has also been received. They will all be here by June 1.

Another change that will be greatly appreciated will be the renewal of the "owl" train out of New York, leaving at 1 o'clock in the morning. This will give everyone a chance to get home from the theatre at night and not hurry unnecessarily. Just as soon as the improvement of elevating the tracks in Newark is completed there will be a marked improvement in the entire service. Mr. Burt was most positive in his declaration that the interests of the patrons of the road are to be paramount in the future.

HANDS LOST SUIT.

Tried Before a Jury in Justice Mattison's Court—No Cause for Action Was the Verdict.

In Justice Mattison's court, yesterday morning, the trial of the case in trover and conversion brought by Irving and Ernest Hand, trading as Hand Brothers, against David Dunn, took place in the presence of a six man jury. After a lengthy trial there jury returned a verdict that there was no cause of action.

The suit was brought to recover $40 as the value placed upon a horse, left in the care of the defendant, according to the story told by the plaintiff, and sold him, according to Dunn's own tale. George Ball appeared for Hand Brothers, while the defendant's interests were looked after by S. S. Swackhamer.

HOME BIBLE STUDENTS GATHERED AT CHURCH

First Quarterly Meeting of Trinity Reformed Home Department Held Last Night.

DEPARTMENT'S GROWTH

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT WEBB, OF WESTFIELD, WAS THERE AND SPOKE.

Told of Work Throughout the State and How Department Grows—Superintendent Smith Told of Growth There—A Programme.

The necessity of home study of the Bible, and the good to be derived herefrom, was the essence of the subjects discussed at the first quarterly meeting of the home department of Trinity Reformed church, held last evening. There was an unusually good attendance, and the auditors were not only treated to valuable information regarding the home department and its aims and objects, but a fine musical programme was rendered, which was thoroughly appreciated. H. D. Webb, superintendent of the department for Union county, came over from Westfield and gave an interesting talk, in which he advocated increased energy on the part of the workers, and read statistics showing the present standing of the home department in the State of New Jersey. He stated that at the close of 1901 there were 14,580 members in the State, and during the year 91,583 lessons were studied. The contributions by the members amounted to $3,389.65 during the twelve months. "While the home department in Union county is comparatively young," said Mr. Webb, "there are already 124 divisions, and new add tions are being made almost daily. It's a strange fact, but nevertheless true, that a man will applaud a theatrical performance that pleases, or yell himself hoarse at a baseball game, yet the same amount of energy he hesitates to expend for the cause of the church." He outlined the objects of the department, saying that the idea was to have the members pledge themselves to give at least a half hour during each week to the study of the International Sunday-school lesson, and to meet occasionally to review the work done by them as a result of the inspirations received from such study.

Superintendent F. E. Smith, of the Sunday-school, gave a short talk. He declared himself as much impressed with the plans advanced from time to time which have in view the addition of students of the Bible and the increasing of church membership. The prediction was ventured by him that it is impossible to realize the exact scope of church and Sunday-school work because of such advancement of ideas, all of which seemed to be beneficial.

In giving the number of members now connected with the home department of Trinity church, Mr. Smith said that during the first quarter of 1902, under the leadership of Mrs. G. W. Saums, president pro-tem, thirty-two new names were added to the membership list, and since April 1, fourteen had been enrolled, making a total membership of 104. The musical entertainment consisted of a trio, "The Poet and Peasant," by Mrs. J. H. Buckley, Mrs. G. W. Saums and Elmer Wheeler; piano solos by Miss Kibbe, of New Brunswick; violin solo, Cory Adams; vocal solo, Miss Smith. The meeting closed with remarks by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

JUNIORS TO BE THERE.

Will be Guests of Older Endeavorers at Congregational Church.

The Christian Endeavor meeting to be held in the Congregational church, tomorrow night at 7:30, the members of the Junior Society will be the guests of the older Endeavorers, and will have a part in the evening's programme.

Other attractive features of the meeting will be a topic talk by Miss Florence G. Hawkins, president of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union, a reading by Miss Addie Parker Jackson, and a vocal solo by Miss Katharine Douglas Glen. The subject of the meeting will be "The Call of Samuel." All interested are cordiall invited to be present.

Announcement of Marriage.

Announcement is made of the approaching maraiage of Miss Laura Willis, of Johnston's Drive, to Harry Foster, of Newark. The affair will be celebrated at the bride's home June 30.

SOMERSET STREET ANNEXATION PUZZLE.

Find the Reason For the Dividing Line Between City and Borough.

As an object lesson in the study of annexation and consolidation this street scene is reproduced from a photograph taken expressly for the purpose. It is conceded by all that no better argument can be made in favor of the proposed change than is furnished by birds-eye views along the imaginary line which divides a people having everything in common and no cause for separation.

The picture in this case shows the lower end of Somerset street, which intersects West Front street, the one being the principal business thoroughfare of the borough and the other the chief highway of trade in the city. In the illustration the white line represents the place of division, the gate which shuts out North Plainfielders from receiving the many benefits enjoyed by a resident of Plainfield and of Union county.

There's a stream, called Green brook, which runs lengthwise beneath this avene, but no one would suppose it. The same is true of all other streets joining the two places. They are all bridged over, and a person passes from one county to another in crossing the structure, although from the scene presented the average stranger would laugh and actually does laugh at the idea of a sober and intelligent people, having such a community of interests, maintaining separate forms of municipal government.

In the past the bewildered stranger has been informed of the reasons for the anamolous condition of affairs. By the act of the Legislature, properly endorsed by the chief executive of the State, these obstacles have been removed. The opportunity is now given the people so clustered together to become a unit and from the general sentiment expressed it is apparent that the much desired and moreover greatly needed change will speedily be brought about.

Notice the man standing with one foot in Somerset county. He'll pay more taxes if he gets into that county. This is not all. If he leaves his happy home in Plainfield to reside over the line he's going to a place unprotected by a sewage system and disposal plant. Before he left Plainfield he was protected by a paid fire department equipped with all modern apparatus and a large and efficient police department. Of course the borough is protected in this way but the fire department is necessarily a volunteer organization and the police department, while a good one, is handicapped by lack of the necessary revenue, to bring it up to the standard of a city department.

There's another disadvantage at present in living in the borough. The city saloons are compelled to close at 11 o'clock sharp every evening, while the drinking places in the borough are open all night, with the exception of Saturdays. The saloon element, of course, steps over that line when the bar rooms close in Plainfield at night. It's not to be supposed that this fact will induce anyone to get out of Plainfield. Under the proposed condition this drawback will be avoided and the people will share in the many benefits of living in Plainfield.

A lot of useless offices will be done away with, for one official will do what two are now doing. Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, and Mayor Olin L. Jenkins, of Plainfield, shake hands across the line with the wish that a new era dawns with the advent of Greater Plainfield.

AGED GERMAN PASSED AWAY

JACOB GAUB, OF DUER STREET, DIED AT AN EARLY HOUR THIS MORNING.

A Stroke of Paralysis Brought on Heart Failure—He Was Well-Known in This Vicinity.

After a short illness, due to a stroke of paralysis, Jacob Gaub, of Duer street, died at an early hour this morning. Death ensued from an attack of heart disease. He was well known in the borough and city, particularly among the Germans.

Mr. Gaub was born in Palestine, Baden, and removed to this country in 1868. He came to Plainfield in 1878. For fifteen years he was employed as a cutter by Schepflin Brothers, tailoring being his trade. During the last five years he has been with Mantz Brothers in the same capacity. He was a member of Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., and the Gesang and Turn Verein.

The wife, Mrs. Frederica Gaub, and seven children survive him. They are: John, Anton, Albert, Jacob, Frieda, Willie and Eddie.

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the house. Rev. G. Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, will officiate. Interment will be made in the M. E. cemetery.

WHISTLE SOUNDS AGAIN.

After Years of Idleness. Schepflin's Whistle is Heard Once More.

After many years of silence the familiar whistle at the Schepflin clothing manufactory on West Front street is to be heard once more. There are many people who will remember this whistle and it was not an uncommon practice for persons to set their watches by it. It is the same whistle in use today although it does not sound exactly like the old whistle. This is due to rust and dirt that has accumulated about it.

Public Sale of Lands.

In the Borough Council rooms, 45 Somerset street, Monday afternoon, irom 2 to 5 o'clock, will take place the public sale of lands, now the property of persons who are in arrears for taxes. Collecor George F. Brown will have charge of the sale.

WHAT SEWERS WOULD COST

SOME FIGURES THAT WILL INTEREST BOROUGH PROPERTY OWNERS.

What Will Become of Tax Rate if Sewers Are Installed by the Borough Alone.

That the borough must soon have sewers goes without saying. Recently plans and estimates were submitted to the Borough Council for a sewer system which in all essential features duplicates the system used in Plainfield. Some ill-informed people claim that the Plainfield system is a failure, but the best engineers of today say it is the best and only practical system possible for either the city or borough at present.

It is conceded by every well informed man that the engineers estimate that it will cost the borough $100,000 to establish a system of sewage and a disposal plant, is conservative. $100,000 at four per cent. means $4,000 per year interest. Operating expenses are conservatively estimated at $1,500 per year. At least $2,000 per year must be placed in sinking fund to meet the maturing bonds. This makes a total annual levy of $7,500 for sewer purposes. Every $1,000 additional tax raised in the borough means four additional points on the tax rate, and to raise the necessary $7,500 means that the tax rate must be increased thirty points, or from $2.42 of last year, to $2.72. The additional $2,500 already ordered for school purposes means ten points increase, or $2.52, without any sewers, and $2.82 with them.

The assessed valuation of the borough is about $2,500,000. That of the city is about $8,700,000. If consolidation occurs, the total valuation will be about $11,200,000. In that event, the engineers say that fully one third of the $100,000 estimated as the cost of sewers and disposal works can be saved, and that instead of having to raise $7,500 per year, $5,000 annually will more than meet the expense. $5,000 assessed upon $11,200,000 of rateables would increase the tax rate less than .04½ cents on the $100 instead of .30 cents, as would be the case without consolidation.

FINED FOR DEFYING COURT

HACKMAN JOHN E. KEELY UP IN CITY COURT THIS MORNING.

Charged With Alleged Violation of Hack Ordinance — He Defied City Judge

Defiance of the police and the city court, resulted in a $10 fine being imposed on John E. Keely, a depot hackman, by City Judge Runyon, this morning.

Keely and another hackman, John Lynch, were charged by Patrolman Lunger with tying their horses to poles at either end of the North avenue station, thereby blocking the approaches. Lynch admitted the charge but Keely protested that he was doing what he had a right to do. The court asked that he refrain from it, and if so sentence would be suspended.

Chief Kiely asked him if he intended using the pole as a tie post again. "Yes. I do," Keely responded at which City Judge Runyon arose in all his judicial wrath and exclaimed, "All right, you are fined $10 now and the police are hereby instructed to arrest you if the matter occurs again." Then followed the lecturing such as only City Judge Runyon knows how to give. Sentence in Lynch's case was suspended.

SOCIETY AT PRIVATE DANCE AT PARK CLUB

The Hosts for the Occasion Were Wm. A. Townsend and Harry Curtis.

THOSE WHO RECEIVED.

DECORATIONS AT THE CLUBHOUSE WERE PARTICULARLY ATTRACTIVE.

Music Was Placed in a Side Room Thus Giving More Space for the Dancers—Refreshments Served—Most of Guests From Here.

One of the many delightful social events of the season was the dance given last evening at the Park Club by William A. Townsend and Harry Curtis for a number of their friends. It was the occasion for the young society folk of both the city and borough to gather and join in an attractive programme of dances, the music for which was furnished by Westervelt, of Newark.

The pretty clubhouse never looked more attractive. Through the use of Easter lilies, potted plants and palms, the cozy assembly room was transformed into a place of beauty. An innovation much appreciated by the guests was the placing the piano in a side room, thereby giving the additional room in the main hall usually occupied by the instrument. By this arrangement the musicians were out of the way and at the same time the music was just as effective in the new place.

The guests were received by Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Mrs. Frank Curtis, assisted by Mrs. William L. Saunders, Mrs. George P. Dupee and Miss Townsend, of Newark, together with William A. Townsend and Harry Curtis.

The dancing was continued until 11 o'clock, when refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed. After the intermission dancing was resumed and kept up until the early hours. There were not a few out of town guests, but the large part of the assemblage was from the city and borough.

GIFT FOR OFFICER.

Young Ladies' Missionary Society of First Baptist Church Remembered the Retiring Vice President.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, held a meeting of unusual interest yesterday afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Shreve, of Grove street. The devotional exercises were led by Miss Grace Yerkes and the roll call responded to with items of missionary interest. Miss Mary Melby, who is a missionary among the emigrants at Ellis Island, New York, then gave a most interesting and instructive talk about her work.

At the close of the address, a framed picture, "The Tenessee Madonna," was presented to Sue Woodland, who has been vice president of the society for several years and who is about to leave town. The picture was a token of the regard and esteem in which she is held by the members of the society. After the meeting chocolate was served and a social time enjoyed.

Interesting Engagement.

Older residents of the town will find interest in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Katharine Hayes Drake, youngest daughter of Simeon J. Drake, to O. EIGHT ROW IN FLAMES

Brisk Conflagration Destroyed Four of Row of Small Houses on West Front Street.

LOSS IS ABOUT $3,500.

Fire Started in a Hay Stack From Locomotive Spark and Spread to Small Houses—Was Discovered at 11:45—Was a Long Run—Burning as We Go to Press.

Fire, which started from a locomotive spark lodging in a load of straw in the rear of residence of James Wheeler, 1627 West Front street, destroyed five houses at noon today, caused a loss of $3,500. The alarm was pulled at 12:05 and the run was made in seven minutes. The occupants of the buildings were Joseph Wheeler, Mrs. Annie Cannon, Peter Reid, John Richard and John Ward. The household goods were nearly all saved though much damaged. A west wind, blowing at forty-miles an hour, at one time threatened the Industrial Home and goods were packed preparatory for removal.

At 1:50 o'clock the fire was under control. The damaged to the buildings is total and there is no insurance except on the barn of Joseph Wheeler.

TRAIN EVERY HOUR.

An Interesting Venture Which is to be Tried by Jersey Central and Reading Railroads.

Modern railroading has indeed made marvelous progress in the past few years but the latest and most noteworthy achievement is the new arrangement which goes into effect on May 18, whereby the New Jersey Central and Philadelphia and Reading Railroad will have a train between New York and Philadelphia every hour in the day from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. inclusive, daily except Sunday.

Trains will leave either city on the even hour and run direct to Reading Terminal and this service will be in addition to the Royal Blue service. New equipment, both coaches and locomotives will be used and with new parlor cars attached to every train no better service will be in operation on any railroad.

The road-bed for the whole distance between New York and Philadelphia has been greatly improved. New and heavier rails having been put in place and quantities of trap-rock ballast is also being used.

Every train is a quick one, and several will make two hours running time between the two cities. An important feature easily remembered is a train every hour on the even hour between New York and Philadelphia.

LITERARY.

The open air season of the year is ushered in by Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for May with a thoroughly out of door number, filled with stories of birds, beasts, fishes, tramps and other outdoor folk, and dedicated to sport, to nature, and to the joy of living.

C. G. D. Roberts leads off with "The Lord of the Air," a striking tale of an eagle of the north, untamable, and free as the air. Another kind of freedom is taken up in the "Philosophy of the Road," an article on tramps, by one who is really a tramp, and not merely a student of sociology, or a newspaper man seeking copy.

An extraordinary account of what is alleged to be the smallest race of horses in the world, and the history of Black Eagle, a cowboy's pony, together with "A Bit about Bass," a description of the whippet, the famous breed of coursing dogs, and an article called "Wild Bird Songs," which gives the songs of many of our birds in musical scores, round out the sporting features of this number.

That most thrilling branch of fishing, or rather, hunting, "Sealing off the Banks," is described in a dramatic and fully illustrated article, and there is also a sketch of Francis Wilson's career by a well-known theatrical critic, illustrated by a very characteristic one of the actor himself. A startling story of a coward in the Boer war is as good a piece of fiction as the south African war has yet produced, and is one of the best things among the stories in this number.

The great feature of the May McClure's is the first instalment of Miss Ellen M. Stone's account of her six months' captivity among Macedonian brigands. Miss Stone has risen splendidly to an opportunity that every writer of adventure—true or fictitious—may well envy her. She has written a rattling good story, which you will enjoy whether or not you are interested in foreign missions. In the most approved serial style the first paper is concluded with the announcement by the brigands to their captives, when the first appeal for aid has failed, that they have but nine more days to live. Every incident is narrated with enthralling vividness, and yet with no stretching after sensation. The best parts are those which relate the terrible flights across the mountains immediately after the capture, and the episode in the lonely shepherd's hut when the brigands disclosed their plot to Miss Stone and Mrs. Tsilka. It is her reticence concerning her own physical sufferings and mental anguish in all this that lends power to the narrative. The brigands themselves, ruthless and indifferent to their captives' comfort as they were, could not refrain from complimenting them on their pluck.

Of the remaining papers, that on the birth of Mrs. Tsilka's baby, and the council of the brigands to determine its fate, will be written by Mrs. Tsilka herself.

THIRD DAMAGE SUIT.

Middlesex and Somerset Company is Sued by Metuchen Woman.

Papers have been served in another suit against the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company, the third for the week. This suit has been started by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mundy, of Metuchen, and is for $2,000 damages.

Mrs. Mundy was a passenger on one of the cars on the Metuchen line of the trolley company this spring when the car collided with the wagon of Michael Fox. The tongue of the wagon crashed into the car and Mrs. Mundy was seriously hurt. She now sues for damages. G. S. Silzer is her counsel.

Shot In His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in case of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The suggestion that the American flag be displayed on Friday afternoon in honor of Arbor Day is altogether timely and appropriate, and it will doubtless be acted upon by many citizens.

Never before in the history of Jersey City will the tree planting season be more generally observed. A display of flags by the people of this city will serve as a fitting recognition of the importance of the day, and will be appreciated by the thousands of school children as they wend their way to the various city parks to dedicate the trees donated by public spirited citizens.—Jersey City Journal.

Princetons' cannon has as many troubles as Banquo's ghost. It was abandoned during the Revolution Tradition says it played a part in the battle of Princeton. History swears it didn't. It was sent to New Brunswick for use in the War of 1812, but was condemned. Twenty years later it broke down on the way back to Princeton and lay by the roadside for six years, until some students dragged it to its present position on the campus. Even then, with a smaller gun, it was long the object of dispute between Princeton and Rutgers. Since 1879 it has led a quiet life, except when the students, intoxciated with victory, made bonfires over it, or, on graduating, smashed their clay pipes against its flower-decked sides.

Alas for the big gun's dreams of a peaceful old age! Colonel Alfred A. Woodhull, being retired from the army and having nothing more pressing on hand, wants to dig up the cannon to find out where and when it was made, to examine it for possible price marks and armorial imprints and to take a photograph of its rusting muzzle. There are suggestions of post-mortems and vivisection in the colonel's proposal. No doubt history will be enriched through the investigation, even if at the expense of tradition and sentiment. No doubt the world will roll the more smoothly for knowing that John Smith, deceased, cast the field piece in 1750 for his majesty George II. But to disinter the old relic will seem like digging up grandfather's skeleton to count his teeth, and if the ghastly operation cannot be avoided, it should be done at least in vacation time. If it be true that you can't keep a good cannon down, Princeton's gun must certainly be worthy of all the nice things ever said about it.—Newark News.

THEATRICAL.

For Monday, April 28, F. C. Whitney announces a return engagement of his "Quo Vadis" Company at the Academy of Music, New York, with a strong cast. Arthur Forrest will appear as Petronius, Macrus Ford as Uinicius and Miss Carlins Rohr as Poppasa. One hundred and nine people will appear in "Quo Vadis" on the big stage of the Academy. To those who have read Sienkiswicz's masterpiece it will be found that there is no cause for disappointment in Stanislaus Stange's stage version. It depicts with even more telling effect than the book the terrible martyrdom of the Christians in the days of Pagan Rome, and supplies to the imagination what some minds may fail to grasp, even with such vividness as the great Pople gives to his descriptions. "Quo Vadis" is given in six acts and eight scenes. Among the most important of these are the gardens of Mero's palace, the burning of Rome, the emperor's box at the Amphitheatre and the Mamertine Prison. These constitute so thrilling a series of stage pictures that if not even a word was spoken they would alone tell a powerful story in tableaux. Wednesday matinees at popular prices will be given.

FARMERS NOT PLEASED AT GOVERNOR'S ACTION

Think That New Jersey's Exhibit Should Include Some Agricultural Display.

AN ACT PROVIDED FOR IT.

NO ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE, HOWEVER, TO FORCE IT.

Secretary Dye, of State Board of Agriculture, Believes That Farm and Garden Products Should be Shown to be Appreciated.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, April 26—There is no little indignation among the farmers of the State over the announcement of Governor Murphy that agricultural exhibits are to be tabooed in the New Jersey display at the St. Louis Exposition. The farmers call attention to the fact that the bill providing for the formation of the State commission and appropriating $50,000 for the display specifically mentions agriculture as one of the industries to participate.

While the bill was pending in the Legislature the executive committee of the State Board of Agriculture adopted a resolution requesting the Governor to give their body representation on the commission. It was pointed out that neither the Chicago nor Buffalo Fair commissions contained a farmer, while the agricultural industry and the schools were called upon in each instance to make the display for the State. The executive committee set forth that if the farmers were to bear the brunt of the burden they should also be represented in the board. The Governor promised to give the case of the farmers consideration, and his failure to name a representative of the State board, backed by his declaration that potatoes and corn are to be cut out altogether, has raised quite a storm of protest among the farmers.

Secretary Franklin Dye, of the State Board of Agriculture, said that while the decision not to make a farmer display would greatly relieve hi department, yet he regarded the agricultural interests of New Jersey of sufficient importance to come in for more consideration.

"The success with which our farm and garden products met at Chicago and Buffalo," siad Mr. Dye, "gave us every reason to feel encouraged that we could demonstrate more completely our superiority along these lines at St. Louis. We would have had more time to prepare for the display, and, while no actual steps have been taken, it was the intention to have special crops grown for the display. It is not likely that the horticulturists would have gone very strong on the exposition, because of the great distance and the expense and trouble incident to the transportation. But our staple farm products would undoubtedly have won for us new laurels at St. Louis.

"If New York and other States send agricultural exhibits, they have a right to expect that New Jersey, an agricultural State, will make some showing along the same line."

Asked if there was any liklihood of an independent display by the farmers, Mr. Dye replied that he thought not.

"It is almost certain," said he, "that breeders of poultry and cattle who may see an opportunity to personally benefit by the transaction will take some of their choice stock and exhibit it just as they do at State fairs. There will not, however, be any attempt at a State representation unless the commission should request it, and this seems hardly probable in view of the statement that a special effort is to be made to have a great manufacturing display and the appropriation is limited."

Mr. Dye called attention to the fact that Richard W. Herbert, of Monmouth county who was appointed to the St. Louis commission by Governor Murphy, is an extensive farmer, although in no way affiliated with the State Board of Agriculture.

A New York Gun Club Locates at Westfield and Hires Farm.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 26—The Carteret Gun Club, composed of wealthy New York City residents, has leased the Louis Hetfield farm, about a mile from Westfield, for a term of ten years.

The old farmhouse is to be remodelled and made an up-to-date country clubhouse. The shooting grounds are to be enclosed with a high fence to comply with the State law regarding live pigeon shoots.

A WAITING STRUGGLE

Strikers In Paterson Silk Mills Are Quiet.

THE FACTORIES GENERALLY CLOSED

Police Stand Guard Over Property, but Have No Trouble—Raw Silk Being Sent Out of Town to Be Dyed.

PATERSON, N. J., April 26.—The strike of the silk dyers' helpers, which began on Wednesday and immediately developed violence, has now apparently settled down to a waiting fight between the men and their employers. Four of the minor silk dyeing firms have acceded to the demands of the men, but the big firms are still a unit in refusing to sign. The dyers' helpers have no union, and the strike lacks organization, separate committees dealing with each firm.

There seems to be very little danger of a further outbreak. The police still guard the mills where there is any likelihood of trouble. They have nothing to do except keep the curious on the move and prevent gatherings. A crowd gathers quickly at times, but it is noticeable that few dyers or their helpers are in them.

Most of the big firms have shipped raw silk out of the city to be dyed wherever possible, but the places where skilled silk dyers can be found are few. Ninety per cent of the silk dyeing in this country has been done in Paterson, and should the strike last until next week it will force the closing down of most of the weaving mills, both ribbon and broad, through the country.

Several small places which dye silk and were not included in the list of those shut down were closed yesterday. One cotton dyeing establishment also closed, the men demanding more money.

The strikers have resolved to collect money to pay the fines of the men arrested and fined or sent to jail by the recorder and also to pay the medical attendance of a man who was shot by a policeman.

The dye works at Dexter & Lambert's silk mills have been closed. The shop had been kept running right along, but last night the firm directed the men to quit lest there be trouble from the rioters. The men objected to this, but the firm locked them out. It was explained at the office that the company did not wish to run the risk of damages resulting from an attack by a mob.

Carnival of Field Sports.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The eighth annual carnival of relay races, other track events and field sports will be held on Franklin field this afternoon under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania. There are twenty-nine events on the programme, and the entries include the best amateur track and field athletes in the country. In all there are more than 600 contestants, representing 131 colleges, preparatory and high schools, entered in the various events. With the exception of the two mile and the four mile events, all the relay races will be at one mile. Five additional relay championships will be decided.

Steel Trust's Plans.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The finance committee of the United States Steel corporation has issued its long expected explanation and defense of the plan to borrow $50,000,000 fresh capital on 5 per cent bonds and convert $200,000,000 of its preferred stock into an equal sum of bonds. The circular is in the form of a request for proxies to be used at the special meeting of shareholders called for May to vote on the propositions. It is signed by Charles M. Schwab, president, and Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee.

A Smallpox Scare.

UTICA, N. Y., April 26.—A wood chopper is responsible for a smallpox scare at Old Forge, in the Adirondacks, and there have been wholesale vaccinations during the last ten days. It is said the chopper had smallpox, and thirty-two people who resided in the locality were vaccinated. The affair has caused considerable excitement, but nothing serious is anticipated. The chopper is isolated, and the authorities are waiting to see if it is really smallpox from which he is ill.

War Plans Not Slackened.

LONDON, April 26.—Speaking in London, Mr. Brodrick, the secretary for war, said, "We are perhaps in sight of peace, but in the interval we are sending out men and material to carry on the war for another year or two if necessary, that being the only spirit wherein the government can interpret the will of the nation and approach the arrangements for the conclusion of peace."

Out of Prison For the Passover.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 26.—Simon Shamonsky a Jew confined at the Onondaga penitentiary for fifteen days, has been released on appeal to County Judge Ross on the ground that he cannot live on the penitentiary diet during the Passover season.

Convicts Killed by Wood Alcohol.

THOMASTON, Me., April 26.—As a result of drinking Columbian spirits, a refined grade of wood alcohol, three convicts at the Maine state prison here are dead, and four others are so seriously ill that their recovery is not expected.

Crushed by a Steel Girder.

To prove what this great Hair Beautifier will do for you, every reader of this paper who is troubled with dandruff or with the appearance of gray or faded hair or bald spots may have by mail a FREE sample bottle. (See Free Bottle Offer below.)

Don't Look Old.

A feeling of regret comes with the first gray hairs. They stand in the way of business and social advancement. Hay's Hair-Health affords a sure means of restoring to the hair the beauty of youth.

Stops Falling Hair.

"My hair is now restored to its youthful color. I have not a gray hair left. My husband says I look 20 years younger, and my hair ceases to fall, while before I was in danger of becoming bald."

A Public Boon.

Hay's Hair-Health has earned this title, and thousands are enjoying fine heads of hair produced by this preparation. It quickly cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, stops falling and breaking of the hair, and changes it if gray to its youthful color and luxuriance.

Stains Nothing.

It is not greasy or sticky; not a dye; does not rub off. Never soils anything. It is made from absolutely pure ingredients and may be safely used by old or young. Hay's Hair-Health is a clean, creamy dressing, delicately perfumed and highly desirable in every way.

In 1900-1901 this preparation was tested to the extent of over five million bottles in the United States and British possessions. It is highly endorsed by the nobility.

One Bottle Does It.

That is the expression of many who have had their gray hairs restored to youthful color and their bald spot covered with hair after using one bottle of Hay's Hair-Health.

No More Gray Hair,

should you live to advanced age, if you use Hay's Hair-Health occasionally. It is a vital hair food.

Guaranteed

TO QUICKLY RESTORE FADED, BLEACHED or WHITE HAIR to youthful color without staining the skin. An occasional application keeps the hair soft, glossy, of silken texture and disposed to remain in any desired position. Every lady needs a bottle on her dresser.

Harfina Soap.

Nothing like it for keeping the scalp free from dandruff, the hair silken, and the skin clear and rosy. Dandruff causes baldness. To keep the hair, scalp and beard in healthy condition, make a strong lather of Harfina Soap and shampoo freely. If it is desired to restore gray hair to youthful color, apply Hay's Hair-Health after shampoo. The grayness will disappear and the hair grow forth in its youthful color and beauty.

MANY PENSIONS VOTED.

House Passes One Hundred and Forty-five Private Bills.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The house yesterday passed 145 private pension bills, including bills to pension the widow of the late General William Ludlow at $50 per month and the widow of the late "Parson" Brownlow of Tennessee at $30 per month. The remainder of the day was devoted to general debate on the agricultural appropriation bill. Mr. Lessler (N. Y.) discussed the necessity for a new postoffice at New York, Mr. Cochran (Mo.) the trust question and Mr. H. C. Smith (Mich.) good roads.

Two extended speeches occupied the entire attention of the senate. Mr. McCumber (N. D.) discussed his bill to prevent the misbranding and misrepresentation of food products which enter into interstate commerce. Mr. Carmack (Tenn.), one of the minority members of the Philippines committee, spoke in opposition to the Philippine government bill now pending. His address attracted to the chamber not only many senators, but a considerable number of his former colleagues in the house. He sharply criticised the president not only for the policy he is pursuing in the Philippines, but for utterances which, the senator declares, tended to fan the flame of insurrection. He also denounced General Funston, whom he characterized as the "jayhawker brigadier from the wind swept plains, the mightiest Samson that ever wielded the jawbone of an ass as a weapon of war."

Successful Wireless Experiments.

NORFOLK, Va., April 26.—General A. W. Greely, chief of the United States signal service, passed through Norfolk yesterday en route to Washington. General Greely has been on the North Carolina cost witnessing the experiments in wireless telegraphy being conducted between Cape Henry and Roanoke island, sixty miles distant, by experts in telegraphy of the United States weather bureau. The results of these experiments, General Greely said, were eminently satisfactory, and he thinks that the corps, acting under Professor Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, have developed for the government, which obtains the benefit of their discoveries, free, a system of transmitting messages without wires superior to the Marconi system. General Greely is enthusiastic over the results achieved by Professors Fessenden and Thiessen and their assistants.

Heavy Swiss Bank Failure.

LONDON, April 26.—From Geneva the correspondent of The Daily Mail sends a dispatch in which he says a sensation has been caused there by the failure of one of the oldest banks in the country, the Basler Credit Gesellschaft. M. Grob and M. Hoeflinder, respectively the manager and the cashier of the bank, have been arrested. It is reported that $8,000,000 of the bank's funds have been lost by wild speculation at Paris and that thousands of people have been ruined.

Fatal Tornado In Missouri.

JOPLIN, Mo., April 26.—A tornado struck this city at 4:45 p. m. yesterday. Four fatalities are reported, and many persons were injured. Meager reports from Galena, Kan., and Webb City and Carterville, Mo., indicate great damage. The damage in this city is estimated at $50,000. Houses were blown away and the city strewn with the wreckage of the storm. The stores suffered heavy damage from broken plate glass and floods.

No Rain In Seven Months.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 26.—A fierce north wind, carrying clouds of dust and low temperature, has been blowing in Kansas. There is no indication of rain, and the wheatfields are drifting badly. The effect on all growing crops is unfavorable, but as the wind has been cool no particular damage has been done. A dispatch from Lyons says that no rain has fallen there for seven months.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Good rains in the northwestern states have relieved fear for the safety of crops.

SMITH BEFORE COURT

General Accused of Harsh Orders For Samar on Trial.

ADMITS INSTRUCTIONS TO WALLER.

To Kill and Burn and Make the Island a Howling Wilderness—Ten-year-old Boys as Dangerous as Their Elders.

MANILA, April 26.—The trial by court martial of General Jacob H. Smith on the charge of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline began yesterday. General Loyd Wheaton presided.

Colonel Charles A. Woodruff, counsel for the defense, said he desired to simplify the proceedings. He was willing to admit that General Smith gave instructions to Major Waller to kill and burn and make Samar a howling wilderness, that he wanted everybody killed capable of bearing arms and that he did specify all over ten years of age, as the Samar boys of that age were equally as dangerous as their elders.

Captain David D. Porter, marine corps, and Lieutenant John H. A. Day, marine corps, were the only two witnesses examined. Their testimony developed nothing new.

Major Littleton W. T. Waller, marine corps, will be the only other witness for the prosecution. He was unable to be present.

The defense will call several officers of the Ninth infantry.

Major Waller and Lieutenant Day of the marine corps, who were tried by court martial here on the charge of executing natives of the island of Samar without trial, have been acquitted.

Governor Taft's Plans.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Governor Taft left here at noon today for New York. On Tuesday he will make an address at Yale college, in which he may refer to the charges against the administration of military affairs in the Philippines. The governor will make a short visit to Watertown and on Friday will return to Washington to confer further with the president and Secretary Root respecting Philippine affairs preliminary to his return to Manila after a visit to Cincinnati to close up his private business. He will go to Manila by way of New York and the Mediterranean, stopping en route at Rome in order to confer with the authorities of the Vatican regarding the disposition of the lands held by the friars in the Philippines.

To Protect Cuban Roads.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Governor General Wood has taken radical action for the protection of the public roads in Cuba. It was shown that the continued use of the state highways by heavy carts and vehicles with narrow tires was destructive to the roads and entailed heavy expense for their repair and maintenance. To remedy this the military governor has directed that cart owners must obtain permits to use the public roads at the rate of $6 per month for each cart.

Money Also Arrested.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Senator Money of Mississippi has been arrested on information filed by Arthur B. Shaner, the street car conductor who charged the senator with assaulting him during the disturbance on Shaner's car. Senator Money, Conductor Shaner and Foreman Hooper of the fire department, who assisted the conductor, appeared in the police court, and their trial was set for next Thursday morning.

A White House Garden Party.

OMAHA, Neb., April 26.—An unusually heavy windstorm which struck this city last evening killed one person and injured a number of others, uproofed a number of buildings and broke many skylights. There was a heavy downpour of rain. Street cars were stopped for an hour. Wires and signs were blown down in all directions.

THE CONSOLIDATION PROBLEM.

On the first page of this issue will be found the famous illustration of the dividing line between Plainfield and North Plainfield. No better object lesson could be devised. It was shown at the Senate hearing and was again exhibited to Governor Murphy. It shows only too plainly how senseless is the idea of having two municipalities where the interests are so alike that it is impossible to tell one from the other.

When Plainfield was first settled, the inhabitants thereof had no idea what a city this would become. When the county line was laid out there, no one had any idea that this community would so overflow the artificial limits set for it. Such an invisible barrier as a county line was no hindrance in the way of those who located across the line from Plainfield. Then the city continued to grow. It spread to the north as well as to the south and east and west. What there was of it in Somerset county was known as North Plainfield.

Every interest of the two communities demands that the merger should be made and that without delay. It should have been made years ago. The present generation is not to blame for that. Here is an opportunity to accomplish the desired result. Let all take advantage of it. As one municipality, the community will see an equitable growth. Sectional rivalry will cease. It will work to the advantage of all parts of the greater city.

Let those, who do not favor the formation of the Greater Plainfield, carefully examine the picture on the first page. Let them enumerate the reasons they can find for objecting to this consolidation. Then let them compare these reasons with those which have long been pointed out as reasons for forming the greater city. Greater Plainfield means lower taxes on properties of actual equal value together with increased protection to life and property and additional municipal advantages. What reason is there which is of greater importance to the taxpayer and the resident? None. Don't quibble over some minor point. Just get right down to the primary facts and the question of the consolidation of city and borough is bound to come out on top.

The performance of "Patience," one of the famous Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas at the Casino Thursday evening, was one of the cleverest of its kind ever seen in Plainfield. It differed from the usual dramatic productions here in that it not only required considerable ability at acting but made well trained voices a necessity. To William Holmes great credit is due. He selected the members of the cast with keen insight and then carefully and patiently trained them. The chorus was of much excellence. Mr. Holmes demonstrated the fact that it was possible to give such a production here successfully and he thereby opened the eyes of many who had thought his undertaking must end in failure.

For the third time this season, small-pox has been discovered in the city of Plainfield. In both of the other instances, the prompt measures of the Plainfield Board of Health prevented it from spreading. There is every reason to believe that such will be the case this time. At any rate, there is no occasion for alarm and the people of Plainfield stand in no more danger of that dread disease today than they have all winter when so many of them have been frequent visitors to New York and Newark, where it has been so prevalent.

Company K, the local militia company, will this afternoon open its rifle range, which has been leased from the Independent Gun Club. It has long been the desire of the members of the company to secure such a place where they can practice target shooting. Despite the fact that the company had no practice at all last year, it made a good showing at Sea Girt. With practice, Company K should come to the front in the State at the targets.

The manager of a magazine makes a desperate effort to disprove the statement that for less money the advertiser can get better results from the Sunday newspaper than from the magazine, remarks the Philadelphia Record. However, the fact that the heaviest and most successful advertisers are giving up the magazine for the Sunday newspaper should be conclusive. They have tried both.

Another day of baseball comes today. The results of last Saturday's games were such a general surprise that everybody is now wondering what today's battles on the local diamonds will bring forth.

A GROCERY DISPLAY.

Wagon Wrecked and Contents Was Scattered About Somerset Street.

Too heavy a load and the trolley track resulted in the collapse of a rear wheel on a farm wagon, belonging to John Foss, of Stirling, at the corner of Somerset and Pearl streets, yesterday afternoon. The contents of the vehicle, consisting mainly of groceries, were scattered promiscuously about the borough's chief thoroughfare. Foss was also dislodged from his seat. He secured another wheel with which to reach home.

Grand Master There.

Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash, of the A. O. U. W., attended a large meeting of various lodges in the organization, held in Newark, Thursday evening. The affair was held under the auspices of Memorial Lodge, of that city. Addresses were made by Supreme Recorder M. W. Sackett, of Meadville, Pa., and Rev. Julius Wolff, of Newark, as well as by the distinguished representative of the order in this city.

Violet Tea.

The Benovolent Band of King's Daughters will hold a violet tea at the residence of Mrs. Josiah Browne, 1225 Watchung avenue, Tuesday, April 29, from 3 to 6 o'clock. There will also be a candy and cake sale and an exhibition of rare spoons. All persons reading this announcement can consider it in the nature of an invitation to the affair.

Purse and Presents.

A pleasant surprise was tendered to Mrs. Sarah Todd, at her home, 172 Duer street, Thursday evening. Mrs. Todd was the recipient of a purse and many presents, it being the occasion of her seventy-first birthday. Guests were present from Westfield and Plainfield.

Visited the Chief.

Captain O'Neil and Jobs, of the Jersey City fire department, were guests yesterday of Chief T. O. Doane. The latter took his guests to the Babcock building, and they expressed surprise that it was possible to save so much of the structure.

Considering Finances.

Grand Master Workman V. W. Nash, of the A. O. U. W., is in attendance at the meeting of the finance committee of the State organization at Camden today. J. W. A. Bauersachs is a member of the committee and is also present.

W. C. T. U. Plans.

The executive committee of the W. C. T. U. held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, on Elmwood place, when plans for the future were discussed.

THE EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS

WILL CONTINUE AT MONROE AVENUE M. E. CHURCH ANOTHER WEEK.

Increased Attendance and Deepening Interest Marks the First Week's Meeting.

Increased attendance and ever deepening interest have signalized the evangelstic meetings in the Monroe Avenue church during the past week. The stirring convincing appeals as they have come from the lips of the evangelist, Rev. J. R. Pratt, have reached many hearts, intensifying the faith of Christians and leading men and women to acknowledge Christ as their saviour.

These meetings will continue every afternoon and evening of next week. The first meeting will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and will be a meeting for prayer and consecration. At 11 o'clock Mr. Pratt will speak. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock another meeting will be held for the Sunday-school and those interested and at 7:45 in the evening Mr. Pratt will have charge of another evangelistic service.

At 3 o'clock every afternoon, Mr. Pratt will devote one hour to his course on Bible study and all who are interested in the deeper—more thorough knowledge of God's word will receive great help from the afternoon hour of study. Each evening at 8 o'clock Mr. Pratt will conduct evangelistic meetings.

Mr. Pratt spoke last night on the subject of "Personal Consecration" answering the questions: What is consecration? Why consecrate? When consecrate and how consecrate?

In the afternoon the theme of Bible study was the "Work of the Holy Spirit in the heart of the Christian Believer."

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

That Scotch Plains has a strong junior baseball team was proven yesterday afternoon when the team of the Westfield High School was defeated on the local diamond by the score of 7 to 6. The game was one that abounded with brilliant plays by both teams and but few errors were made during the seven innings of play. The two teams will meet in a deciding game in two weeks. As they stand now each has a victory to its credit.

Services at the Baptist church tomorrow will be Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching by the pastor, subject, "Joel's Famous Prophecy," 10:45; B. Y. P. U., 7; the evening preaching service, subject, "Making one of the Company," 7:45.

Interesting Arbor Day exercises were held yesterday afternoon by the pupils of the public school in the assembly room of the school. An entertaining programme of recitations, addresses and essays was rendered and enjoyed by the pupils and a number of their friends.

FINLAND'S TROUBLES

Russian Government Charged With Double Dealing.

RECRUITING LAW IS OBNOXIOUS.

Action of Cossacks During the Recent Riots Cruel and Atrocious. Imperial Misrule Driving Thousands From the Province.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 26.—A press representative who has just returned from Helsingfors, Finland, interviewed the patriotic leaders and others there, who declared the government was distorting every report of the disorders in Finland with the view in the near future of proclaiming martial law. This opinion is apparently borne out by an imperial rescript signed on Sunday last in which the period for recruiting is extended, and the Finns are warned against failure to obey the military regulations, which will "convince us that the administrative method which became customary in the course of the last century does not guarantee calm progress of public affairs and subordination to the authorities."

The recruiting law is the origin of the present trouble. The communes refused to co-operate in failing to select representatives for the recruiting boards, whereupon the governor arbitrarily imposed heavy fines on the communes. Tammerfors was fined 33,000 marks; Helsingfors, 30,000 marks, and six others from 14,000 marks to 22,500 marks. Then Dr. Salzmann, chairman of the state medical board, and many members resigned rather than assist in what they declared was illegal recruiting.

The reports show the unvarying failure of the recruits to take the oath, and the attitude of the populace of Winborg resulted in riots and collisions similar to those which occurred at Helsingfors. Out of 150 recruits enrolled only thirty-two appeared, and they were all rejected for physical defects. In many of the communes nobody appeared, and at Nykarleby only one man, a cripple, presented himself.

Such is the practical working of the law which General Bobrikoff, the governor, declared the people welcomed with enthusiasm.

The official report of the Helsingfors riots minimized the injuries sustained by the citizens and exaggerated the casualties of the troops. Eyewitnesses characterize the action of the Cossacks as being worse than their conduct at the time of the St. Petersburg riots in 1901. The authorities apparently gave the Cossacks free rein. They invaded private houses in many cases far from the scene of the disturbances, beating and slashing indiscriminately. They rode through the porticoes of the great Protestant church, forced a physician to jump out of a window of his home, beat women and children and cripples and nearly killed a cabman who was a mile from the scene of the riots.

The people of Helsingfors are preparing to petition the czar to withdraw the Cossacks.

Emigration from Finland is proceeding at an unprecedented rate. It exceeded 15,000 persons during 1901, and the number of emigrants now ranges from 500 to 1,500 a week.

To Become an American.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—C. E. Borchgrevink, the antarctic explorer, has made formal application at Washington to become an American citizen. Alexander Graham Bell, president of the National Geographical society, and Gilbert H. Grosnevor, editor of The National Geographical Magazine, accompanied him to the supreme court of the District of Columbia, where he renounced his allegiance to Norway. Mr. Borchgrevink's plans are yet too indefinite to announce. He will be a rover for some years, but the United States will be his home.

Fifty Hurt In London Wreck.

LONDON, April 26.—Fifty persons were injured in an accident on the Great Eastern railway near the Hackney Downs station. As a train from Walthamstow, called the "threepenny train," was crossing a bridge an axle of the car nearest the locomotive broke and the coach jumped the rails, crashed into the side of the bridge and lodged across both tracks. The train was filled with persons on their way to work.

Heavy Storm In Iowa.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., April 26.—Sioux City was in darkness after noon yesterday. Dense, greenish clouds shut out the sun. All stores used artificial light, and the business districts had the appearance of evening. For a time the wind blew seventy-two miles an hour, and considerable damage was done. A very heavy rain, which turned to snow, fell over this section and is of immense benefit to crops.

Bridge Workers' Strike Off.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 26.—A committee of the striking employees of the American Bridge company has informed General Manager Hunter that the strike had been declared off. The former employees will be reinstated, excepting those whose places have been filled, and the entire plant will resume operations next Monday.

A Suicide at Eighty-six.

BALTIMORE, April 26.—Mrs. Martha A. Fennell, aged eighty-six years, committed suicide by throwing herself from a third story window of a home for aged people in this city. Mrs. Fennell had been in ill health for a week.

Odell Starts For the West.

NEWBURG, N. Y., April 26.—Governor Odell arrived here from Charleston and started on his trip to California with his wife, his daughter, Estelle, and his sister, Miss Ophelia Odell.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Manufacturers Busy—Coffee and Silver at Low Figures.

NEW YORK, April 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Versatile weather has produced erratic fluctuations in prices and affected business very differently, according to locality. Retail distribution of merchandise has maintained a good average, losses at some points being offset by gains elsewhere. Manufacturing plants are well employed except where wage disputes interrupt. Coffee and silver touched low record prices, but the average of commodities advanced.

Most large consumers of pig iron have provided for their needs well up to the end of the year, and consequently there is little change to report in the situation except as to small orders that appear from time to time. The very high premiums paid where early delivery is desired indicates that the market has lost none of its strength, while the scarcity of available supplies has sent many urgent buyers into foreign markets.

While the prospects for a full yield of wheat are less bright than they were a week ago, the sharp rise in price must be attributed in part to skillful manipulation by interests recently prominent in the stock market.

Failures for the week numbered 212 in the United States against 215 last year and 18 in Canada against 26 a year ago.

PORTO RICO'S CONTRIBUTION.

Island's Offering to McKinley Monument Fund Puts Us to Shame.

CLEVELAND, O., April 26.—Mr. Myron T. Herrick, treasurer of the McKinley Memorial association, has just received a remittance of nearly $1,700 from Governor Hunt of Porto Rico, who as an honorary member of the association has had in his hands the work of assembling the contributions of the inhabitants of that newly acquired territory.

Nearly 40,000 of the inhabitants of the islands are registered as contributors. Their offerings were in very small amounts, being limited by Governor Hunt to 10 cents each, but the proportion of people who contributed is remarkable, and it is pointed out at the office of the association that a similar unanimity of sentiment here at home would insure the completion of the fund within a very few months.

Tillman Defends Himself.

MANNING, S. C., April 26.—Senator B. R. Tillman addressed a crowd of 1,500 people here. The editor of the Clarendon county newspaper, Louis A. Appelt, formerly an enthusiastic follower of Tillman, but more recently an ardent advocate of "commercial democracy" and supporter of Senator McLaurin, had for several months made numerous charges against Senator Tillman, claiming that he had received rebates from great whisky firms dealing with the South Carolina dispensary. The charges fell flat before Tillman's statements, and the accuser was met with a torrent of withering sarcasm which reminded some present of Tillman's fierce campaign of 1890.

A Forty Ton Stone Pillar.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The biggest monolith ever raised in New York on a building has been lifted into place on the new Hall of Records. The monster is thirty-six feet long, four feet two inches in diameter and weighs forty tons. It is the first of eight great pillars which are to ornament the front of the building on the Chambers street side. There are also to be eight on the Center street and eight on the Reade street sides. The bases for the columns are at the third story, so that the lift is a tremendous job. The stone was brought here from the quarry at Hallowell, Me.

An Illinois Life Company Fails.

CHICAGO, April 26.—The State Mutual Life Annuity Company of Illinois has been placed in the hands of a receiver Attorney Gustave E. Beerly, representing the creditors, charged the company with being another "get rich quick" concern and alleges that the stockholders have lost thousands of dollars. The company purports to have issued policies to the amount of $2,000,000.

Ohio Town In Flames.

FINDLAY, O., April 26.—An early morning dispatch from Custar, an oil town of about 500 inhabitants twenty miles northeast of here, says the town is being licked up by flames. The town has asked for aid from surrounding towns, and meager messages state that the entire village is doomed. The origin of the fire cannot be learned, but as the buildings are mostly of pine there is little hope of rescue.

Elliott Retains Wing Shot Medal.

OMAHA, Neb., April 26.—J. A. R. Elliott won from W. R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill., the hundred live bird race by a score of 97 to 91 and thus retains the cast iron medal title of championship wing shot of the world. Elliott clearly outclassed Crosby throughout the match, making several sensational shots, and each of the birds he lost fell dead outside of bounds.

Barn and Blooded Stock Burned.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The large modern stone barn on the Soapstone stock farm of Clement A. Griscom at Merion, a suburb of this city, was totally destroyed by fire, together with seven head of prize cattle, two thoroughbred calves and two thoroughbred horses. The loss is estimated at $50,000, which is partially covered by insurance.

THE PEOPLE'S LAND.

Col. Mosby Is Trying to Save It for Bona-Fide Settlers.

Famous Confederate Cavalryman Becomes a Spectacular Figure in Western Cattle War—Work Calls for High Courage.

Col. John S. Mosby, the famous confederate cavalry leader, who is now special agent of the government in charge of United States lands, has become a prominent and spectacular figure in the bitter fight for the range that is being waged by conflicting interests in the cattle and sheep country of the west.

Col. Mosby's special duty is to clear the government land of private fences—work that requires courage of high order, for the annual sacrifice of lives in the west's great range fight is estimated at 500 victims, and death by assassination is the common lot of those who dare oppose one faction or another.

Col. Mosby, whose headquarters are at Sterling, Col., the center of a great cattle country, declares that some of the cattle kings have fenced in and appropriated to their own use tracts of land larger than many German principalities. In defiance of the law, they have seized upon government land, fenced it in, forbidden settlers to touch it, and have made themselves wealthy from this illegal use of Uncle Sam's property.

Near Sterling one big cattle company built a fence which inclosed nearly 25,000 acres. It did not completely inclose the land, but extended from the Union Pacific to the Burlington railroad fences, thus forming a vast triangle. In this space thousands of head of cattle were kept, only a few cowboys being required to look after the immense herd.

When Col. Mosby ordered the company to take down the fence, the objection was raised that there had been no violation of the law because only one side of the triangle had been inclosed.

Despite the fact that the illegal fencing law had been practically a dead letter for two years, Col. Mosby is insistent in enforcing it, and he has stirred up the cattle owners from the Rio Grande to the Canadian line. The authorities at Washington are standing by him in his work, however, in view of the steady encroachments of cattle interests on public land in the last few years.

(Famous Confederate Leader Who Is Prominent in Range War.)

It is estimated that in the Alliance, Neb., districts alone there are 6,146,000 acres of government land fenced in. This land is worth nearly $10,000,000, and on it the cattlemen have nearly 400,000 head of cattle.

Few persons appreciate the strenuous fight that is being made for the possession of the range in the western country. The recent arrest of Tom Horn, noted scout and Indian fighter, served to bring the subject sharply before the public mind, however.

Horn, who fought Indians under Crook and Miles, and who had charge of the pack trains of the American forces in Cuba, is now in jail at Cheyenne, charged with the murder of Willie Nickell, son of a settler who had incurred the enmity of some big Wyoming cattle interests.

Incidentally, Horn is alleged to have made a confession in the hearing of a deputy marshal and a stenographer, in which he is said to have boasted that he had killed other settlers and that a certain cattle company paid him so much a head for every foe who was removed from the range.

Horn's trial will be bitterly contested, and it has aroused intense interest in the west, for on the outcome is thought to depend the fate of the range in Wyoming and other big cattle states.

It is the war over the government land, however, that is arousing the entire west to protest on account of its annual sacrifice of human life. Recent developments, which have tended to show that assassination is becoming a trade in the cattle country, have stirred the authorities, and have shown that the range fight is growing too red to be much longer flaunted before the eyes of the people.

Col. Mosby's determined stand against the fencing in of public lands will do much to simplify matters, if the example of the famous confederate leader is followed by other United States officials. The next step will be to bring peace between the three conflicting interests of the range country—the cattle owners, the sheep men and the small ranchers.

Until some sort of a truce is brought about, the yearly record of violent deaths on the range will more than equal the mortality of the American army in the Philippines.

WHAT TO WEAR.

Plain Shirts and Elaborate Waists. Matrons' Bonnets.

A general survey of the fashions for spring is certainly pleasing, and now the vexed question of what to wear is more easily answered. During the last month we saw so many novelties in the world of fashion that a decision was extremely difficult. Naturally the "powers that be" like to try every possible mode in order to find out the particular style that best suits their clients. There is one thing they seem to have made up their minds to forego, and that is the much trimmed skirt. Later on, of course, muslins and thin fabrics for the summer season will be much more elaborate, but the cloth and tweed skirt of the moment aims at simple elegance rather than at elaboration, added to which the embroideries that the tailors are using on the coats and the great beauty of the millinery demand that we should leave the skirt fairly plain. The upper part of a woman is heavily ornamented, but from the waist downward she is plainly and gracefully clad.

Milliners have run riot in extravagant modes. The matrons' bonnets—real bonnets, with strings!—are so exquisitely beautiful that we feel the hour of the matron has arrived. The fashion of today demands that no woman, be she young or old, should be anything but beautifully dressed, and this, after all, is a laudable desire for any woman.

Any one possessed of a small share of good taste can be well dressed today. In fact, it would be hard to find really ugly models, though some women have a peculiar genius for so doing.

COTTON DRESSES.

Lawns and Drills—Green Linen Costumes.

How charming the lawns and drills are this year! Some of them have a silky surface, but hard linen is preferable, at least for country and river wear. There is a perfect craze for having these frocks made with short sack coats and big, fanciful collars of lace, silk or embroidery, while others are made with a Russian blouse and tiny basque. The latter suits stout figures best, but the sack coat is charming on the tall, slight woman.

Do not imagine that these coats are very easy to make, either in lace or drill, because a great deal depends on the cut. Unless you have that absolutely correct leave the sack coat severely alone. It must hang from the shoulders, and the sleeves and collar must be beyond reproach. Nearly all the sleeves in these coats are loose below the elbow; in fact, some are made with undersleeves. There are a great many beautiful examples in green linen. It sounds rather daring, perhaps, but green in the summer looks charming, so long as it does not come near the face. No costume of this sort is complete without a collar of lace or embroidery.

Many of the drill skirts are being made with three deep stitched frills. Some are strapped with glace or piped with satin, but I prefer the plain ones.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"None of that, Leffingwell!" cried the sheriff. "Chase after him, that's the thing to do."

Thereupon the six of them had recourse to their spurs and quirts.

The horses of the pursuers had seen hard service that morning and were at a disadvantage. Guy's mount, on the contrary, was comparatively fresh, and he could see, by the hasty glance which he occasionally threw over his shoulder, that he was slowly increasing the distance that separated him from those behind.

There was a point where the road forked, one branch leading on to Amityville and the other turning sharply in the direction of Harmony. Pursued and pursuers were drawing close to this point. Guy's attention was taken up by those behind and Pettibone and his companions had eyes for no one but the young man in front. Thus it happened a large contingent of mounted men spurring swiftly along the Harmony road, failed to capture the notice of those on the other trail.

Realization was brought suddenly home to the Concordians by a terrific yell from the Harmonyites. Pettibone and his friends drew rein, panic-stricken, and whirled to flee.

Capt. Blue was coming at the head of his Invincibles, a score at least, and the sun shimmered upon the polished gun barrels that lay across their saddles.

Guy was between two fires. As it made little difference to him which way he went, he kept straight on.

He saw at least half a dozen of the Invincibles raise their guns to their shoulders. Instantly he threw up his hand.

"Don't shoot!" he cried, thinking the weapons were aimed at him. "I'm unarmed!"

At that precise juncture a report came from behind him and a bullet sang past his ear. He turned in his saddle to launch a threat and warning at Pettibone and his men and, just as he did so, a spiteful volley leaped from the muzzles of the leveled guns ahead.

Guy felt a sharp sting in his side as though a knife-point had pricked him.

"Stop shooting!" he cried again, and the quivering impotence of his voice amazed him. "Stop shooting or you'll kill somebody!" He had intended to make the shout a lusty one but it was scarcely more than a whisper.

Everything in his line of vision began to reel. The horsemen in front became tangled in a maze. He raised himself in his stirrups, pressed both hands over the burning spot in his side and then pitched headforemost from his saddle.

CHAPTER XV.

On the night Col. Keever guarded the county records, he took with him into the courthouse a Winchester rifle and a pint flask. Kentucky born and bred it is to be presumed that he was as familiar with one of these weapons as he was with the other. Be that as it may, however, it is certain that he fortified his courage to such an extent that he slept soundly throughout all the operations connected with the moving of the building.

So level was the road leading from the courthouse site in Concord to the vacant square in Harmony, and so skillfully did the enemy work, that Col. Keever, if he realized anything at all, could only think that the storm was most furious and that this half-finished structure was sadly in need of underpinning.

A never-to-be-forgotten picture he presented to Capt. Blue and his Invincibles, who did the work connected with the moving. In the light of an occasional lightning flash the Colonel could be viewed at leisure by any one who wished to walk along beside one of the windows and peer into the single unfinished room which the building contained.

The great man was lying upon a cot in such a way as to reveal the noble proportions of his platonic brow. Under the cot was the tin box containing the precious records and close beside the cot lay the empty flask. The Colonel's pillow partly covered the rifle, only the stock and muzzle of the weapon being in evidence. As the Colonel slept he smiled—smiled condescendingly in that superior manner which was a part of him. He was dreaming dreams, no doubt, and pleasant ones.

It was late in the morning when the awakening came. The rain had ceased, the clouds had dispelled and a burst of June sun trailed in through an eastern window. The Colonel stirred restlessly, opened his eyes and yawned. The melancholy gaze he rested on the empty flask changed to a look of pride as his eyes took in the box of records, all intact. It would have taken an army corps to separate him from those documents.

Suddenly he had a startling thought and he jerked spasmodically and blinked in his bewilderment. Then he lay quite still, thinking. What business had the morning sun shining through a western window? The courthouse, at the present stage, had only one glazed opening and nothing but a blank wall on its eastern side. What did this mean? The Colonel rubbed his forehead. Was it possible that he had slept into the afternoon and that the sun was descending instead of rising? He got up and hurriedly dressed himself. Then he walked to the window. Merciful powers! There were iron bars across the outside of it! The mystery deepened. As he stood there staring lo, the face of Dingle, of the hated Dingle, appeared and looked in at him.

THE KNOB CAME AWAY.

The Colonel staggered against the wall and caught his head in his hands. Was this a hideous dream or was it reality? Dingle remained at the window but spoke no word. All he did was to grin, in a sarcastic way and draw the lid partly down over his glass eye.

That half-wink broke the spell. With a roar the Colonel rushed to the cot and grabbed up the Winchester.

"Villain!" he cried, tossing the gun to his shoulder. "Your insolence has overshot the mark! You have dared to come into this town again and this time I've got you. Egad, we'll teach you a lesson now that you won't soon forget."

Once more Dingle drew down the left eyelid. The Winchester seemed to have no terrors for him and the Colonel's fury passed all bounds. He pulled the trigger—not with the intention to slay but merely to frighten and to arouse the town. There was a sharp click, but no report. The Colonel "pumped" the lever and tried again, but with like result. Then Dingle found his tongue. "Don't excite yourself, Keever," said he. "Capt. Blue unloaded the magazine of that gun last night."

SOME CANAL TALK.

Cabinet Discusses Propositions For Isthmian Waterway.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The cabinet held a short session, during which the relative propositions of the Colombian and Nicaraguan governments in connection with the proposed canal were discussed. Both propositions will be at once submitted to congress. The president is exceedingly anxious that, whatever determination congress may come to as to the relative merits of the two routes, in any event some decision may be reached at this session.

A comparison of the outlines of the agreements or treaties made by the state department with Colombia in relation to the Panama canal and with Nicaragua and Costa Rica as to the Nicaragua canal shows a general resemblance in the scope of the arrangements, but important differences in details. One point of resemblance is the amount of money to be paid down at once by the United States government to the country making the concession. In each case this is $7,000,000. If the Panama route is chosen, Colombia gets all of this money. If the choice falls on the Nicaragua route, Nicaragua will receive $6,000,000 and Costa Rica $1,000,000.

A good deal of the delay that has occurred in consummating the arrangements was owing to the difficulty in reaching a basis of division as between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, and this is generally fixed upon as about 6 to 1 in favor of Nicaragua.

Teller Ketchum Guilty.

RUTLAND, Vt., April 26.—After being out only thirteen minutes the jury in the case of John W. Ketchum, charged with complicity in wrecking the Farmers' National bank of Vergennes, brought in a verdict of guilty on the specific charges of "making false entries in the books and embezzlement of the funds of the bank." Sentence was deferred. The defense took several exceptions to the judge's charge. Ketchum was teller of the bank, which went into a receiver's hands a year ago this month. The cashier, D. H. Lewis, is now serving a seven years' sentence for wrecking the institution. Today Lieutenant Governor M. F. Allen, a director, was placed on trial on the charge of complicity in wrecking the bank.

Justice Leader For Hearst.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Hon. W. R. Vaughn, the founder of the new Justice party, which bears his name, says: "The party has come to stay. Justice will be our slogan for all men or women, be they white, black, yellow or red. We are not working in the interest of any particular presidential candidate. We are playing no favorites. We shall select as our standard bearer the man who comes nearest to representing our ideals and the principles enunciated in our platform. Personally, however, I am inclined very much toward William R. Hearst. If the Republicans wish to win votes in the south, they cannot do better than to nominate Theodore Roosevelt. He is half southern, and the people like his dauntless courage."

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

Manager Muir, of the Safe Works team, is preparing a schedule of good games to fill in between the league contests. He has already made deals with several crack organizations which play in the Metropolitan district.

Captain Keene, of the St. Mary's team, will give William Casey, his newest member, a try in today's game. He will cover second base and will probably be retained in that position. It is hoped an injured thumb, from which he has been suffering, will not interfere with his work.

The Hope and St. Mary teams have been out for practice every night during the past week. The members of both teams are showing up in good shape, and the chances of much better work than that shown in last week's games are very bright. The Hope men have devoted much time to batting.

The Whittier School Juniors rubbed it into the Washington Stars good and hard on the Madison avenue grounds, Thursday afternoon, the score being 40 to 9. Mallison and I. Vinwrinkle were the battery for the Whittiers, while Rogers and W. Vinwrinkle were in the points for the Stars. Rogers was a bit wild in his hitting two men with the ball, Mallison being struck in the face with a swift inshoot.

The principal event of the day will be the one-mile relay championship of the New Jersey Interscholastic Association. This will be open only to schools of the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association. A silver cup will be given each member of the winning relay team. The New Jersey Interscholastic Association rules will govern in all events. Entries will close Saturday, May 10. All applications should be addressed to W. Z. Blake, Pingry School, Elizabeth.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS TO ORGANIZE.

Union County Democrats Plan to Have a Jeffersonian League.

Preliminary steps toward the organization of the Jeffersonian League of Union County were taken at a meeting of the young Democrats, held at Elizabeth during the early part of this week. John L. Moody, of Cranston, presided, and outlined the plan which was presented and agreed upon by the county committee, when they met some time ago.

Representatives from different parts of the county who were present discussed all phases of the question of united democracy, and it was finally decided that, for the betterment of the cause, invitations should be issued to representative young blood from various towns and cities to attend a meeting to be held in the near future. At that time addresses will be deliveerd by prominent leaders of the party and a permanent organization affected.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The "oldest inhabitant" has been relating with some degree of satisfaction this week the story of the "blizzard" during the week of April 23, 1873. While the thermometer Wednesday played around the nineties and people found it hard to keep cool they recalled with pleasure and days of old when five inches of snow fell in a day and a night, back in the '70s. Trees had taken on their leaves and the fields had been prepared for the crops, when a snow squall started that was accompanied by a fierce wind that piled the flakes in small drifts. Those who had put away their sleights took them out again and brushed them up for a few hours' spin over the roads that the day previous were dry and dusty.

GOLF SEASON WAS OPENED

Beginning of Season's Schedule at Both of the Local Golf Clubs Saturday Afternoon.

A TROUBLESOME WIND.

Prevented Many Scores From Being Lower—Both Courses Were Reported in Very Good Condition—Promise of a Successful Season at Both Clubs—The Scores.

Saturday marked the formal opening of the season at the two local golf clubs. While there has been some play at both clubs before, the first competitions were held Saturday. The day was not an ideal one for the sport on account of the high wind. Both courses were reported in good condition and all things point to a very successful season at both clubs.

HILLSIDE CLUB.

The opening day for golf at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, last Saturday, was in many respects far from being an ideal one. A perfect hurricane of wind swept over the course the entire day and made good playing difficult. The course was, however, in fine condition.

There were sixteen entries for the event of the day, the Golf Committee cup, with a prize for the best gross score, and all but one handed in their cards. Howard deP. Wright won the prize for the best gross score, 88 from scratch. H. F. Baker, who scored the first three points for the cup, is a new member. With a good handicap he made a net score of 85. Second honors went to Mr. Wright, while the single point was equally divided between E. T. Newkirk and C. W. Abbott, each making 89 net.

The social features at the clubhouse were pleasant. The addition recently built gives plenty of room. Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows and Miss Maude Van Boskerck, of the house, committee, presided at the tea.

The golf committee has engaged Eugene McCarthy, formerly of the VanCourtlandt Park Golf Club, as caddy master, and he enters upon his duties today. The initial play for the Boys' cup was postponed until next Saturday.

Edward Lord, the new steward, will arrive at the clubhouse this week and by next Saturday will be prepared to serve luncheons and dinners.

Below will be found the scores for the Golf committee cup:

	G.	H.	N.
H. F. Baker	100	15	85
H. deP. Wright	88	0	88
E. T. Newkirk	109	20	89
C. W. Abbott	96	7	89
Morris J. Dumont	94	4	90
D. H. Rowland	100	10	90
Walter Peterson	106	12	94
Olaf Saugstad	104	10	94
W. F. Murray	112	15	97

Dudley H. Barrows	115	10	105
D. W. Taylor	126	20	106
G. H. Taylor	137	15	122

The standing for the Golf Committee cup is as follows:

	Points.
H. F. Baker	3
H. deP. Wright	2
E. T. Newkirk	½
C. W. Abbott	½

PARK GOLF CLUB.

A score of golfers entered for the first play of the season for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club links, Saturday afternoon. For most of them, it was the first play of the season and, in consequence, the scores were all high. The course was in good condition, although a trifle slow, but the high wind had its effect on the play.

For the first time, the new second and third holes were tried. "The Circus" was altogether a new experience while "Eastward Ho" which is 603 yards long, required good playing to keep it anywhere near bogey figures.

The President's cup, which was won last season by S. St. J. McCutchen, will be contested for this year on the same terms, the weekly competitions counting points for the first three players at handicap medal play, eighteen holes. First honors Saturday

MEDALS FOR GYMNASTICS

PRESENTED AT SPRING EXHIBITION AT Y. M. C. A. SATURDAY NIGHT.

After an Exhibition of All-Round-Work, the Medals for the Year Were Presented.

Women predominated as spectators at the gymnastic exhibition in the Y. M. C. A. building Saturday night, when the pick of the association's athletics went through various feats with dumb-bells, horizontal bars, the German horse and other paraphenalia. At the close of the evening's work die medals were presented to those who had excelled in work during the past season, and the affair was closed by a basekt ball game between scurb teams in two five-minute halfs.

While the exhibition was called the annual spring meet, Physical Director Heywood said that practice for the younger members would be continued, and that another exhibition would be held in the near future, which would be equally as interesting as that of Saturday night. The events were in the following order:

Dumb-bell drill, lead by Mr. Heywood; first year work on high bar, lead by Chas. Zimmer; first year work on low bar, led by Mr. Heywood; second year work of the same class, led by Wm. C. Neal; second year work on the German horse, led by Herbert Brokaw; tumbling, won by Heinecke and Arthur Denton; hand walk race, won by the same; parallel bar work of three grades, Percy Hand, first; William Heinecke, second; Arthur Denton, third; window diving, won by Raymond Smith; high bar, won by Walter Cahoone; high jump, won by the same.

The winners of medals for excellence in work during the season, were Walter Cahoone, who took first and second prizes for all-round athletics and for gymnastic championship for work during 1901-2; and third prize went to Arthur Denton, for all-round gymnastics covering several weeks. John Valiant made the presentation, which was followed by a maze run, led by Walter Cahoone.

SCHOOL BOYS TAKE STAND

ACTION OF "SCOUT" HAS CAUSED CONSIDERABLE CRITICISM.

Many Boroughites Believe the Youth Editors Have Not Done Well to Write as They Have.

In the current number of a monthly publication conducted by pupils of the North Plainfield High School there is an article entitled "The point of view taken by the students on the consolidation of North Plainfield and Plainfield City," which has brought forth much severe criticism from men of standing in the borough. They place censure for allowing school boys and girls to use a publication issued in the interests of the schools to mix up in weighty affairs in this nature, specially so in the manner in which the article is couched.

Attention has been called to a single paragraph in the article, which one prominent citizen declares is mere twaddle. He says that while the logic of the whole contribution is that of a small boy, yet it bears evidence of revision by an older head. This paragraph is as follows:

"There are many things to be considered before such an important step is taken. It seems to be a 'political job' on the part of the Plainfielders to induce us to join ourselves to Plainfield City, in order that her heavy debt may be paid by us. We pay for having our roads and bridges made and built as we go along, but Plainfield gives no thought to the future. She rushes in head first, has a great amount of work done throughout the city; and when the money is due, where is she going to get it, and what is she going to do? Why, simply get some of her politicians together, who by schemes and stratagems, try to induce North Plainfield to become a part of their city and pay it for them, trying to make us believe that by so doing we will be taking a wise and advisable step."

This article has particularly incensed a man who in former years has given much of his time to promote the interests of the borough, while serving as a councilman, and he feels that his contribution to the support of the publication, which by the way is called "The Scout," was money poorly invested.

FUTURE OF CASINO HANGS IN BALANCE

Will be Made Into Clubhouse or Torn Down to Make Way for New Residences.

OWNED BY CHAS. J. FISK.

MR. FISK EXPECTS TO SETTLE THE MATTER IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

Party of Plainfielders Talking of Leasing Place for a Clubhouse—Otherwise Residences Will Take Its Place.

The future of the Casino, Plainfield's well-known amusement centre, is now in the balance. Charles J. Fisk has the matter under consideration and it depends largely upon his action as to whether the building will be demolished and make room for a dwelling house or whether a club will lease the building.

A proposition is now before Mr. Fisk for leasing the place. A number of well-known men have been talking about forming a club and installing a number of popular games, such as ping-pong, shuffle boards, etc. These games together with the bowling alleys should form a pleasant centre of amusement.

If no word is received soon from those contemplating the leasing of the place the other changes proposed will be followed out. Just what disposition will be made of the hall is not known at present. It is possible that it may be left as it is and an entrance made to it at another part of Madison avenue. This would still permit dancing, entertainments, etc., while the other part could be used for residence purposes. Mr. Fisk hopes to settle the matter within a few days either one way or the other.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

Dr. Babcock's "Emancipation" Was Rendered by Choir at First Presbyterian Church Yesterday.

The singing of the late Rev. Dr. Babcock's poem, "Emancipation," recently set to music by S. Archer Gibson, by an agumented choir was the means of attracting a large congregation to the First Presbyterian church for the morning service.

The poem was inscribed to the memory of Mrs. Maria Ackerman Hoyt, an aunt of Dr. and Miss Coles, of Scotch Plains, and the music was written by S. Archer Gibson for the funeral of Dr. Babcock. Miss Coles later had the music published and selected the quartette of the First Presbyterian church to sing it. It has been rendered by only one other choir, that of the Brick church of New York.

The balance of the musical service was a tenor obligato by E. Maxwell Honeyman and the choir, a soprano solo, "Jesu, Jesu, Miserere," (Nevins) by Miss Etta M. Raybert, and a male quartette, "Crossing the Bar" (Macy). The regular male quartette consisting of Elmer D. Cutting, Sydney R. Titsworth, and R. Wilson Derby, and E. Maxwell Honeyman, was assisted by Mrs. John H. VanWinkle, Mrs. Charlotte M. Ross, contraltos and the Misses Etta M. Raybert and Julia M. Carman, sopranos. Favorable comment was made of the work of the organist, Clifford A. Braider, who arranged the service.

COMPELLED TO DESIST.

Restraining Order Granted by the Chancellor Against 'Phone Cos.

Representing the Union county Board of Freeholders, Judge W. R. Coddington appear before the Chancellor Saturday and obtained a restraining order, which prevents the two telephone companies operating in Elizabeth from continuing the work of running conduits across county bridges and roads in that city, until the consent of the board is first obtained.

Unique and Inspiring.

Most unique and inspiring will be the programme of "Illuminated Sacred Song" at Trinity Reformed church tomorrow evening. The sacred hymns will be heard in all their fullness, illustrated by special mechanical illumination producing the most realistic effect. See advertisement in another column.

Pleasingly Entertained.

Miss Kittie Whalen, of Brook avenue, entertained a number of friends, Friday evening, dancing being the feature of the affair. Arthur Sherman rendered some vocal and instrumental selections.

THE TAX RATES.

What the Difference is in Union and Somerset Counties—What Would be Saved.

The Union county tax rate is forty-seven cents on the $100. The Somerset county rate is sixty-one cents, a difference of fourteen cents, or nearly thirty per cent. in favor of Union county. This means that by simply voting to annex North Plainfield to Union county, the borough would save taxpayers fourteen cents per hundred on two and a half millions, or thirty-five hundred dollars per year.

$3,500 is the interest at five per cent. on $70,000 and would pay the entire tax on nearly $150,000. Is that worth saving? Let some one who is opposed to annexation answer.

FATAL DRINK OF SODAWATER

Louis Frentz, of Scotch Plains, Died From Supposed Ptomaine Poisoning.

BROTHER WAS AFFECTED

Both Were Working at Englewood—Drank Sodawater on Tuesday Night—Louis Became Violently Ill, Was Taken to Hospital, Where He Died Saturday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Englewood, April 28—As the result of drinking impure soda water, which was secured at some place as yet unknown to the officials, Louis Frentz, of Scotch Plains, is dead and his brother, George, is recovering from the effects of the same liquid.

Louis Frentz had been working for his father, A. L. Frentz, who is a carpenter and builder, and Tuesday night went into a drug store with his brother. A glass of soda for each was purchased, and to make his more palatable Louis had what was supposed to be lime juice added to the contents of the glass. The drink commenced to have bad effects on him soon after retiring and his groans from pain awakened his brother. Simple remedies were administered, and for a time he improved, his brother returning to his sleep.

On the following morning George left his brother in bed, thinking that because of his illness during the night additional sleep and rest would do him good. Ten o'clock arrived, however, and as Louis had shown no signs of life an investigation was made, and Louis was found unconscious. Word was at once sent to George, a doctor summoned and the sick man removed to a hospital. There he died on Saturday morning.

Today an autopsy will be made, and it is expected that signs of ptomaine poisoning will be found. Frentz was a charter member of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., at Scotch Plains and leaves a wife and three children. He was thirty-one years old.

MEETINGS FOR ALL.

Such Are the Evangelistic Services Now in Progress at Monroe Avenue M. E. Church.

The necessity of a judgment day for all men was the theme of Mr. Pratt's address last night at the Monroe Avenue church. Yesterday morning Mr. Pratt addressed Christians on the way to secure an abundant entrance into Heaven. Decision day was observed in the Sunday-school in the afternoon.

About forty persons have thus far accepted Christ as their Savior as a result of the meetings and many have lead to a fuller and clear Christian experience.

At 8 o'clock tonight Mr. Pratt will speak and at 3 o'clock each afternoon will conduct an hour's study of the Bible. These meetings though, held in the Monroe Avenue church, are not for members of that church and congregation only but for the benefit of that part of the West End which clusters about that church, and of those who have decided to become Christians, several will join other churches.

Death of Horace Holcombe.

Horace Holcombe, a carpenter living at 45 Mountain avenue, died at his home shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, from kidney trouble of long standing. He was sixty years old, and leaves a wife, two daughters and one son.

LARGEST BANK VAULT WAS MOVED SATURDAY

Sent to Scranton, Pa., From Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works by Special Train.

IT ARRIVED IN SAFETY.

SAFE WEIGHED SEVENTY-FIVE TONS, COST SCRANTON BANK $45,000.

Jersey Central Had No Cars Strong Enough to Transport It and Arrangements Were Made With Pennsy to Use Its Special Cars.

The largest bank vault ever turned out by the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Works, was shipped from the local factory, early Saturday morning. So massive was it, that the New Jersey Central Railroad would not take the contract to transport it to Scranton, Pa., and the work was undertaken by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The task was successful and the shipment arrived at its destination at 8 o'clock, Saturday night, having been on the way just seventeen hours.

In all the vault is composed of several huge pieces of specially prepared steel making a total weight of seventy-five tons. The door alone weighs six tons but is so evenly balanced that it can be moved to and fro by a child. When closed the interior of the mass is absolutely air tight. It will be erected in the First National Bank building at Scranton and when installed, will have cost the institution $45,000.

While it was being built, plans for its removal were carefully considered and adopted with much precision as these for the vault itself. The steel pieces were assembled on piers built alongside the car tracks which enter the factory. They were placed across by cranes, with just enough space beneath to allow flat cars to pass.

When inspectors from the New Jersey Central viewed the mass, they at once declared the road had no cars capable of carrying it. The Pennsylvania was communciated with and offered to take it on ordinary cars, used for carrying Governmental guns and disappearing carriages, over the Central tracks for $300. The offer was accepted.

A special engine and crew, bringing the cars, arrived in this city, Saturday morning, shortly after midnight and in almost incredible time, the vault was ready for its 100 mile journey. To prevent the engine and vault being on bridges at the same time, several flat cars were placed between them. Thus the train proceeded slowly and not the slightest accident occurred to mar the trip. On its arrival, the Hibbar-Rodman-Ely officials in this city, were wired congratulatory messages by the bank people and similar ones were sent to railroad men all over the country. By the latter the feat is regarded as one of the most important railroad engineering feats ever carried out successfully.

BADE FAREWELL.

Rev. G. Hauser Preached Last Sermon to the German Reformed Church Yesterday Morning.

In formally taking leave of the flock which he has served faithfully, Rev. G. Hauser, the retiring pastor of the German Reformed church, preached a special sermon yesterday morning.

Selecting as his text 1 Corinthians II, 1-8, he dwelt upon the spirit of his mission among these of the German Reformed faith here. He pointed out that he came not to teach wisdom, but to unfold the truths of the Gospel in simple language. He took occasion to wish success for the future of the church, which he said would always be a fond rememberance to him. At the close of the service the pastor baptised, William Albert Schorb, son of William Schorb.

COULDN'T AGREE.

No Decision Reached in Trial of Vetromile in the City Court This Morning.

Leonard Vetromile, or "John Wilson," was placed on trial before City Judge Runyon and a twelve-man jury in the Council chambers, this morning, charged with assault on George Washington, colored, and using profane and indecent language. He was represented by S. S. Swackhamer.

The case was given to the jury at 12:20 and at 2 o'clock they reported they were unable to agree and were discharged. The last ballot stood seven to five for acquittal. The case will be retried Wednesday morning.

ORGANIST FOR TWENTY YEARS

A. L. TITSWORTH CELEBRATED HIS ANNIVERSARY LAST NIGHT.

Gave a Special Musical Service at Trinity Reformed Church—Assisted by Choir.

In recognition of the services of Arthur L. Titsworth, as organist of Trinity Reformed church for twenty years, a praise service with a fine programme was given in the church last evening under the direction of Mr. Titsworth. A significant decoration was a floral harp which stood near the platform.

The choir, Miss Ethel May Derby, soprano; Miss Minnie M. Williams, alto; Horace J. Martin, tenor, and Joseph C. Martin, bass, was assisted by Mrs. Geo. W. Saums, violin and Elmer P. Wheeler, flute. The opening number was a prelude, "Largo in G," by the violin, flute and organ. The special numbers in the programme included a contralto solo, "O Rest in the Lord," by Miss Williams; an anthem, "Rock of Ages," by the choir; offertory, "The Lost Chord," by Miss Derby; anthem, "Hark! Hark! My Soul," by the choir, and the postlude, "Priest's March," from Athalian, violin, flute and organ.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., made a short address on "Music in the Sanctuary," reviewing the history of music and referring specially to the long services of Mr. Titsworth. He congratulated Mr. Titsworth on behalf of the church and consistory.

At the close of the service Mr. Titsworth was presented with a purse of $30 in gold by Dr. Schenck in behalf of the consistory and a few of his church friends. He responded feelingly.

Mr. Titsworth has been organist of the church a period within two years of its history. He served in that capacity when Dr. Raymond was its pastor. During his entire service he has missed but a very few Sundays and his service has been a most willing one.

THREE SMALL-POX CASES

TWO CHILDREN HAVE BEEN TAKEN TO THE ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

Benj. Potts, Colored, Will be Taken There Tonight—There are Two Cases Suspected.

Additional cases of small-pox have developed since last Thursday when Mrs. Joseph Crowley, of Prescott place, was pronounced ill with the disease. Her two children, Jeremiah, aged four years, and Joseph, Jr., aged nine years, have developed the disease and were removed to the isolation hospital last night.

Benjamin Potts, colored, living at 305 East Fourth street, has also developed the disease and he will be removed to the hospital tonight. There is still another case that is suspected. Alex. Brown, colored, of 1020 West Third street, has the symptoms and his home is strictly quarantined. The case will be decided today.

Miss Jonold and Miss Saterlee, nurses, are on duty at the hospital. It has not yet been definitely determined where the disease was contracted. Joseph Crowley declares he has not visited Kerwin's place during the past two months.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Brown, of Prescott place, was taken ill this morning and it is suspected she may have small-pox. The case is being watched.

DROPPED DEAD.

Sudden Death of Thomas Flynn, One of Oldest Members of St. Marys' Parish, From Heart Disease.

Frank Haffner, of Somerset street, is out after a week's illness with the grip.

LEAGUE TEAMS WERE WINNERS

Hopes Defeated Dunellen, Y. M. C. A. Won From Clinton Ave., and St. Mary's Beat.

THREE GOOD GAMES.

City High School's Opponents Telegraphed at the Last Moment That They Could Not be Here—The Changes Made in Other Teams Showed Good Results.

Hope Y. M. A., 6; Dunellen, 3. Y. M. C. A., 8; Clinton Avenue, 3. St. Mary's, 8; Rahway F. C., 3.

The surprises of a week ago were not repeated on the local diamonds Saturday afternoon. Three of the local league teams played and each scored a victory. There was a marked improvement in the play. The Plainfield High School was scheduled to meet the team from Westerley Collegiate Institute Saturday afternoon. A telegram was received at noon saying the visitors would not be here and explanations would follow. The High School boys are waiting for the explanations.

HOPES WON A GAME.

Before a crowd of several hundred enthusiastic rooters, the Dunellen baseball team went down in defeat before a fierce onslaught on the part of Hope team, on the former's grounds, Saturday afternoon. It was a remarkably cleanly played game and the members of both teams did themselves credit. Neither felt sure of the result until the last inning was over and the score stood 6 to 3, in favor of the Plainfielders.

Several changes were made in the line-up of the Hope team since the High School game and the wisdom of each was plainly apparent. Hewitt's pitching was superb. Eight men fanned and he allowed but seven hits, all of them singles.

The Dunellen team played well together, giving Ethinger excellent support. He struck out ten men and allowed five safe hits, two of them two baggers. Craig on third was noticeable for several good plays.

In the second part of the ninth, Dunellen went to the bat with the score 6 to 2 against them. One run was brought in and the basses filled. The necessary hit to bring the men in was not forthcoming, however.

The line-up and summary is as follows:

Y. M. C. A. WON GAME.

With the exception of one inning, that being the fifth, the game between the Y. M. C. A. team and the Clinton avenue nine, played on the latter's diamond, Saturday afternoon, was a keenly fought contest. The Y. M. C. A. boys won, the score being 8 to 3 in their favor.

Well hunched hits made by McKelvey, Bosterli and Hand in that inning, coupled with errors by the opposing nine, netted five runs for the winners and clinched the victory. The Clinton Avenues made a supreme effort in their half of the inning, but only succeeded in rolling up three runs.

The feature of the game was the crack battery work of the Y. M. C. A.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It is to be regretted that Arbor Day will not be more generally observed in this city by the planting of trees. It is true that in the schools the day will be remembered and a few trees will be set out by teachers and scholars as an object lesson. But Newark needs more trees. While it compares favorably with other municipalities in this section of the country in the matter of umbrageous growth, it is far behind certain cities where tree culture is carried on as a science.

In no other large city of the world is more care devoted to trees than in Paris. The French capital maintains a number of "tree schools," where invalid trees are taken and cured of their diseases, and where small ones are grown for streets and parks. The cost per year of maintaining trees in Paris is $90,000, exclusive of the treer in parks, gardens and squares. These trees are watered twice a day and are protected from injury by iron bands. A circle three yards in diameter is kept free from pavement around the base of each tree. The trees in the city number 873,930, or one to every 3.3 of the population. Newark, with its 246,070 population under the census of 1900, in order to reach the Paris standard, should have 74,567 trees in its streets, exclusive of those in public parks, gardens or back yards. That it falls far short of this is admitted, though no tree census of the city has ever been taken.

The Park Commission is doing its share toward growing new trees in the city's breathing spots, but there is room for great improvement in other directions. This is a matter in which every citizen, especially property owners, should be deeply interested. Plant trees.—Newark News.

The editor of The Unionist-Gazette is getting in quite a frame of mind over the North Plainfield annexation scheme. While we regret the present state in which the matter stands, we appreciate the fact that it is not our funeral, and we are further buoyed up by the hope that someone will manifest enough interest in the case to carry it before the courts, where the bills will most likely be declared unconstitutional—a fate which awaits nearly every Republican measure when the test is applied.

We last week published an interview with Mr. Clark and commented on it in a mild form, which seemed to meet with the disapproval of our neighbor. Mr. Clark does not "direct the policies" of The Messenger, as we owe that gentleman nothing except it be good will, but we thought our readers would be interested in learning his views as expressed by himself, and we provided the opportunity. We simply aim to publish a newspaper in the interests of ourselves, our friends and the Democratic party.

We do not select candidates in advance of the nominating conventions of our party, believing it to be to the best interests of the public, as well as the party, not to do so; but we have never been charged with deserting our party on occasions when it has been made clear to us that the enemy had the most formidable treasury, nor have we ever been called upon to designate as liars and traitors any officials whom we have assisted in placing in power.

According to The Gazette the passage of the annexation bills involves the veracity of one or the other of its party's representatives at Trenton. Senator Reed is designed as the guilty one, although the bills passed the Senate with only one dissenting voice, and then passed the House by a majority as large as the vote in opposition. It is sad that the Republican party should step down and out in this county thus under a cloud, but there is no maxim truer than that "whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."—Somerset Messenger.

BRIDGE PLANS WERE FILED

WAR DEPARTMENT MUST FIRST APPROVE OF THEIR DESIGN.

Plans for Proposed Bridge Over Raritan River, Connecting the Two Amboys.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, April 28—Plans for the proposed bridge to be built by the county between Perth and South Amboy have been filed with the War Department at Washington, D. C., by Senator Kean, at the request of the Perth Amboy advocates of the bridge. The War Department must approve of the plans before the county can go ahead with any of the work in connection with the erection of the structure.

According to the plans, which were prepared by the American Bridge Company, the bridge can be built for $150,000. The bridge is a few feet short of 4,400 feet in length. It is to be entirely of piling, with the exception of the draw, which is to be constructed of steel. The draw is to be 300 feet long. The roadway of the bridge is of boards and is to be twenty-six feet wide. There is no provision for a sidewalk.

The bridge is very plain in appearance. The abutment for the draw rests upon masonry, which is built upon piling. It is claimed that this is the only practical means of support to be had for such a bridge.

The Board of Freeholders has fixed upon June 10 as the day when a special election will be held in this county for the purpose of securing an expression of opinion as to whether the people of the county want the bridge. Since that action this plan has been considerably criticized, owing to its expense and its utter lack of binding power. It is possible that at the next meeting of the board a resolution will be introduced rescinding this action and incorporating the election with the regular fall election. The Perth Amboy members will oppose incorporating with the fall election and will endeavor to have the board act independently of any public expression of sentiment.

LITERARY.

A series which should have been named "The Enchantments of our Modern Aladdins," if considered solely from the point of view of romance, is begun in the May Cosmopolitan. But these sketches possess as well a business interest equally for clerk and capitalist, for manufacturer, farmer and merchant. The man who would understand the drift of our news in finance and business must read these lives, so full of incident, of chance, of hard labor and marvelous success. As it is, the series receives only the common-place name of "Captains of Industry." Each character is treated by a noted writer familiar with his subject.

The May Queen is fragrant with the breath of approaching summer. It is a most seasonable number. Besides several complete stories it contains numerous articles of exceptional interest to the housewife, the embroidery worker, the fashionable woman and the beauty seeker. Its front cover, by Malcolm Strauss, is most effective, and its fashion pictures—sketches of the latest, prettiest and most seasonable suits, waists and children's dresses—will prove of great service to the economical and artistic woman.

A variety of other articles includes the following: Outdoor Exercises for Young Women, The Skin in Summer, The Removal of Scars, and Practical Puddings.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cures such cases. M. B. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Changed His Plans.

Willard Vilas, of West Fourth street, has again changed his business plans. Instead of engaging in business in Liberty street, he has accepted a position with Hillier & Co., of Newark, and will enter upon his duties next week.

George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, has gone to Canada for a week's visit with relatives.

Shot In His Left Leg.

For all kind of sores, burns, bruises, or other wounds DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a sure cure. Skin diseases yield to it at once. Never fails in case of piles. Cooling and healing. None genuine but DeWitt's. Beware of counterfeits. "I suffered for many years from a sore caused by a gun shot wound in my left leg," says A. S. Fuller, English, Ind. "It would not heal and gave me much trouble. I used all kinds of remedies to no purpose until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." L. W. Randolph.

HEAVY LOSS FOR GLENS FALLS.

Fire Sweeps Away Property Valued at Half a Million.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y. April 28.—The most disastrous fire since 1864 has visited Glens Falls, entailing a property loss conservatively estimated at over half a million dollars.

The fire started in the clothing store of Webb Bros., on Glen street, and from thence spread to the large plant of the Joseph Fowler Shirt and Collar company, occupying the upper story of nearly the entire block. Then, fanned by a high wind, the flames communicated to neighboring buildings, occupied by the following firms:

Eagle Clothing company, Quinn & Co., drugs; Grand Union tea store, Wilson & Roof, gentlemen's furnishings; plant of The Daily Times, Budd Bros., bicycles; Coon's insurance office, Postal Telegraph company, Foster, Kellog & Ring, lawyers; Muldfelder's millinery store, Whipple & Robinson, hardware; B. R. Fowler, dry goods; T. Kolbfleisch, mill supplies, and W. H. Arnold, liquors.

All of those in the list sustained practically total losses. Assistance came from South Glens Falls, Sandy Hill and Fort Edward, and had it not been for this much greater loss would have followed.

The destruction of the Fowler Shirt plant throws nearly 800 operatives out of employment, and 200 more will be out of work temporarily. It is thought the insurance will nearly cover the losses. There were no casualties.

Various causes are assigned for the fire, the one most generally credited being spontaneous combustion in the cellar of Webb Bros. This cellar was not in use. An airshaft in the building was responsible for the rapid spread of the flames, and as the upper floors of nearly all the buildings in the block were connected it was impossible to stop the flames until they reached Exchange street, the limit of the burned area.

But few of those burned out will be able to resume business for months, there being no available buildings until those destroyed are rebuilt. S. T. Quinn & Co. had just moved back into their store, having been burned out last January, at which time the Fowler Shirt and Collar company barely escaped being destroyed.

Owing to gas mains and connections being broken residents are without gas illumination, and kerosene is in demand.

NEW WIRELESS SYSTEM.

United States Government Experiments Prove Successful.

ROANOKE ISLAND, N. C., April 28.—While the newspapers have been resounding with accounts of the invention of various wireless telegraph systems, all of which fall short of complete practicality in some respect, the United States government has been quietly at work for the past two years in perfecting a system of its own which it believes has overcome all the obstacles and remedied all the defects of the other systems.

The system is now essentially complete and has just been tested before experts of the navy department, who had no hesitation in pronouncing it superior to all other systems and who will recommend it to the department for adoption. Early last week General Greely, chief of the army signal service, witnessed its operation, and it is understood that he takes the same view of it.

The system is to be known as the Fessenden system. It is the invention of Professor R. A. Fessenden of the weather bureau, and it is Professor Fessenden who, under the direction of Chief Willis L. Moore of the weather bureau, has for the past two years isolated himself from the world in this remote corner of the seacoast to conduct the experiments which are now reaching a conclusion.

Governor Odell In the South.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 28.—Governor B. B. Odell, who has been resting in Atlanta two days, left for New Orleans today after calling on Governor Candler. Governor Odell expressed himself as greatly impressed with the south and said he believed the period of industrial development which this part of the country had entered upon would be lasting. Referring to his work as governor of New York, Mr. Odell said he had set out to do certain things, and he believed he had accomplished them. The arduous work and routine of the office, he said, were very exacting. He would not commit himself upon the second term question, as he had told his friends before leaving New York that he would not consider the matter until his return.

CINCINNATI, April 28.—Judge Howard Hollister and Attorney W. T. Dickinson have gone to New York to attend the dinner given by the Yale class of '78 in honor of Judge William H. Taft, governor general of the Philippines. There are 109 living members of the class of '78. Taft, Hollister and Dickinson being the only members from Cincinnati. Before returning to Manila Governor Taft will be given a dinner in Cincinnati.

GUEVARRA GIVES UP

Insurgent Chief and His Command Taken by Grant.

WAS LUKBAN'S SUCCESSOR IN SAMAR

Other Important Surrenders Reported — Acting Governor Wright Praises the American Army. Cholera Situation Bad.

MANILA, April 28.—General Frederick D. Grant has ascended the Gendara river, in the island of Samar, and has brought the insurgent leader Guevarra and his entire command down to the coast. General Grant's expedition went up the river in the gunboats Basco and Florida, several steam launches and native lighters.

Guevarra's command consists of Rafael Sebastian, Abaki and 38 other officers, 189 men and 161 rifles.

Three hundred insurgents, with 131 rifles, are expected to arrive at Catbalogan, Samar, to surrender formally to the American authorities.

Three hundred bolomen, twenty-eight of them armed with rifles, have just surrendered at Sulat, also in Samar.

Guevarra succeeded General Lukban to the command of the insurgent forces in Samar when the latter was captured last February. He announced his intention to surrender last March.

At a farewell banquet here to the officers of the Ninth infantry Acting Civil Governor Luke E. Wright paid a glowing tribute to the military forces. He said the army, under circumstances of surprising difficulty, had paved the way for the work of the civil authorities and that only a few cases of friction between the two branches of government had occurred. He said that General Chaffee, whose opinion might at times have differed from those of the civil authorities, had been a most loyal supporter of civil rule.

Replying to Civil Governor Wright, General Chaffee said that the officers of the army knew that their duty to the country demanded their utmost efforts to sustain the civil authorities and to suppress the rebellion.

Captain L. W. V. Kennon of the Sixth infantry reports from the island of Negros the surrender of the ladrone leader Rufo, with 158 officers and men of his command, together with 12 guns, 140 bolos, 7 spears and a few revolvers and daggers. Captain Kennon says this surrender means the opening up of the whole of the southern coast of the island of Negros. After Papa Isio, Rufo was the most important ladrone chief on the island. He promises to force Papa Isio and his few remaining followers to surrender. Papa Isio was appointed a colonel in the insurgent army by General Malvar one year ago.

The cholera situation in the islands does not show any improvement. Cholera cases are reported among the American soldiers in the Camarines provinces of southern Luzon and elsewhere, but so far few Americans have been attacked, and the disease is mainly confined to natives and Chinamen.

In Manila there have been 555 cases and 449 deaths from cholera, while the provinces report 1,599 cases and 1,169 deaths.

Labor Controversy Unsettled.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 28.—The climax in the labor controversy between President Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and President Gompers of the American Federation is expected to be reached today or tomorrow on the floor of the Amalgamated association convention now in session here. T. H. Flynn, national organizer of the federation, is expected to ask the privilege of the floor to answer charges said to have been made by Shaffer against Gompers, and the latter, it is believed, will be present in person and demand the same privilege. At today's session of the convention the several standing committees are to report.

Explosion Kills Five.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., April 28.—By the explosion of the upper powder mill of the Shenandoah Powder company at Kreb's Station, about four miles from here, five employees were instantly killed, and all the buildings of the plant were blown to pieces. The killed are Irvin Wolf, Amos Yarnall, W. J. Lindermuth, Elmer Stauffer and John Ruppert. The cause of the explosion will probably never be known, as all the men employed about the magazine were killed.

Troops Home From Cuba.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Ninety men belonging to the First and Third squadrons of the Second cavalry, United States army, in charge of Lieutenants Reaney and Pope, formerly stationed at Cienfuegos and Matanzas, Cuba, have arrived here on board the steamer Albis. They will proceed to Fort Ethan Allen, Vt. There are also on board 350 horses belonging to the Second cavalry.

Monastery Destroyed.

EBENSBURG, Pa., April 28.—The monastery of the Benedictine Brothers at Carrolltown has been burned to the ground with all its contents, incurring a very heavy loss. When first noticed, a small flame was coming from the roof of the main building, and owing to the high wind practically nothing could be done to check its progress. The building was partially insured.

Veteran Labor Leader Dead.

BOSTON, April 28.—Ex-State Senator Robert Howard of Fall River, the veteran labor leader and for many years the secretary of the National Spinners' union, is dead in this city. He was born in Norwich, England, in 1845.

J. STERLING MORTON

Former Secretary of Agriculture Dead In Chicago.

HAD BEEN ILL SINCE NOVEMBER.

Left Home In Nebraska For Treatment of Bronchial Difficulty Which Proved Fatal—Originator of Arbor Day.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Hon. J. Sterling Morton, former secretary of agriculture, died yesterday afternoon at Lake Forrest at the home of his son, Mark Morton. For several weeks Mr. Morton had been gradually failing. The nature of his illness had not been determined, and a week ago he was brought from his home at Nebraska City, Neb., to Lake Forrest for medical treatment. The change brought no improvement, and he failed gradually until death came.

The arrangements for the funeral are as yet incomplete, but it has been determined that services will be held at Lake Forrest at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, after which the remains will be removed to Mr. Morton's country home at Arbor Lodge, near Nebraska City, where services will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

The illness of ex-Secretary Morton dates from last November, when he contracted a severe cold while speaking at the stock show in Chicago. The cold ran into an attack of the grip, and Mr. Morton was in a hospital for some time. When he was able to do so, he returned to his home in Washington, where he suffered a relapse. After a partial recovery he left early in March for the City of Mexico, expecting to regain his health. During his stay in the southern country a disease of the bronchial arteries developed, and he returned north. He suffered severely on the return journey and reached his home with his general health much impaired. Three weeks ago Mr. Morton returned to Chicago with the hope of securing the services of a specialist. The condition of his throat again became aggravated, and a week ago he suffered an attack of apoplexy.

From this last attack he rallied but little. His death, however, according to Dr. Ginn, his local physician, was due to an inflammation of the bronchial arteries.

Julius Sterling Morton was in Washington for four years as secretary of agriculture in President Cleveland's second administration. He was a man of steadfast convictions, unswerving honesty and undoubted ability. By nature a controversialist, Mr. Morton came to the cabinet with many fixed ideas about the government service. He was a practical farmer and ran his department along practical lines, but nevertheless not without many squabbles. He regarded the distribution of seeds as paternaliste and on that subject found himself in opposition to congress.

The ex-secretary was the author of Arbor day (April 22), which began to observed generally during his incumbency as head of the department of agriculture and is now generally observed in all the states. His constant motto was, "Plant trees," having it stamped in large letters under a picture of a tree on his stationery. He was an inveterate letter writer. He found keen enjoyment in answering the communications from farmers, and it was no unusual occurrence for him to call newspaper men into his office to read the answers he was writing to farmers, often giving out portions of them for publication.

The ex-secretary was exactly seventy years old, yesterday having been the anniversary of his birthday. He was of Scotch-English descent. He was born in Jefferson county, N. Y., but his parents moved to Michigan when he was very young. He was a graduate of Union college, N. Y. Mr. Morton was connected editorially for a time with the Detroit Free Press and the Chicago Times and then located at Bellevue, Neb., in November, 1854, where in April following he issued the first number of the Nebraska City News. He was elected to the territorial legislature the same year and re-elected in 1857. He was appointed secretary of the territory in 1858 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Thomas B. Cuming and served until May, 1861, part of the time as acting governor. He was elected to congress in 1860, but was unseated as the result of a contest. He was four times nominated by his party as governor of Nebraska, but was defeated each time. He was a stalwart "gold man" and had an early falling out with W. J. Bryan, whose political aspirations he vigorously opposed. He was identified officially with many agricultural and horticultural organizations.

Killed at Church Door.

HAZLETON, Pa., April 28.—Michael Cherko, aged thirty-eight, was murdered about a hundred feet from the Greek Catholic church at Freeland yesterday morning during the progress of the Greek Easter services. George Smith is under arrest, charged with having committed the crime. It is alleged that Smith upon entering the church failed to remove his hat and when requested to do so by Cherko, one of the trustees, drew a blackjack and assaulted Cherko. The latter ran out the door, followed by Smith. Cherko had not gone far when Smith, drawing a revolver, shot him through the back, death being instantaneous.

Forty Bodies Found.

CAIRO, Ill., April 28.—Four bodies of the victims of the City of Pittsburg wreck have been recovered, making forty to date. One was identified as that of Joseph Redding, a striker engineer of Louisville. The other three were colored, two men and one woman.

SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE.

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Our Commercial Relations.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Mr. Frederic Emory, chief of the bureau of foreign commerce, made public another extract from the volume entitled "Commercial Relations of the United States During 1901," which is now in press. The extract given out deals with the trade of the United States with South America.

It is pointed out that if a line of modern steamers were operated between New York and Brazil there would be no lack of return freights in coffee, rubber and like products. American hardware also, it is stated, has earned a reputation for quality and finish which places it beyond competition. Our typewriters, sewing machines, clocks, watches and electric goods hold their own everywhere, and we are gaining a foothold in bicycles, locks, firearms, cutlery and picture frames.

Brazil recognizes the value of an education in the United States, and it is a notable fact that many young Brazilians are coming to this country to complete their careers of learning. Until recent years the better class of young Brazilians were sent to Portugal, France or Germany to acquire their literary, professional or scientific training, and it was as rare to find a Brazilian speaking English as it is to discover an American speaking Portuguese. Now English is being taught in some of the higher schools of Brazil, and many young men come to the United States to study engineering, electricity, law, medicine and dentistry.

In the Argentine Republic the American goods making the greatest headway are tools and implements, cottons and hats.

United States trade with Ecuador shows a gratifying increase, due to purchases for the Guayaquil-Quito railroad, better and quicker communication, lower freight rates and the work of American commercial travelers. "Our trade will steadily advance," it is stated, "but an isthmian canal alone can give us the vantage ground we should occupy."

Lumbering is the chief industry in the southern provinces of Chile, and practically all of the wood is cut by mills of American construction. All of the machinery used in the production of flour also goes from the United States. On account of the political disturbances in Colombia imports from the United States have increased only slightly. The imports from all other countries have remained stationary.

WORK BEFORE CONGRESS.

Opposition Talk on Philippine Bill the Chief Thing in Sight.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The plans of the senate for the week do not extend beyond the continuation of the debate on the Philippine government bill and the consideration of minor matters when there is no one prepared to speak on the Philippine bill. There is no prospect thus far for speeches in support of that measure, and consequently all the talk bids fair to continue to be on the negative side of the question. Up to the present time the speeches all have been made by minority members of the Philippine committee, but it is stated that other Democratic senators have promised to lift their voices in opposition to the bill.

There is a miscellaneous programme ahead for the house this week. Today the special rule for consideration of the omnibus public building bill is in order. Tomorrow the omnibus bill will be passed. Wednesday consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill will be resumed, and after it is disposed of the District of Columbia appropriation bill will be taken up and probably passed before the end of the week.

Big Gun Nearly Ready.

TROY, N. Y., April 28.—The authorities at the Watervliet arsenal expect to complete work on the sixteen inch gun that is to be placed at Fort Hamilton, New York harbor, by June 1. The gun, which has been in the course of construction about four years, will be first sent to Sandy Hook for proving. Last week the war department decided to mount the gun on a disappearing carriage. Its first trial is eagerly awaited by all the gunmakers of the world. It is claimed the gun will hurl a shell twenty-one miles. This is disputed by the Krupps, who claim it will not throw the shot more than fifteen miles. In order to discharge the gun it will require 1,000 pounds of powder and a 3,000 pound projectile. The gun when completed will weigh 150 tons.

Cattle Plague In Africa.

BULAWAYO, Matabeleland, April 28.—A virulent outbreak of the cattle plague has occurred here which threatens totally to paralyze the gold output by stopping the transportation of supplies to the mines. A number of transport wagons have been tied up and abandoned as a result of the outbreak.

No Trace of the Huronian.

LONDON, April 28.—The British cruiser Thames has returned to Greenock after having covered 3,300 miles in her search for the missing Allan line steamer Huronian. Her efforts were without result. The Huronian left Glasgow Feb. 1 for St. John, N. B., and has not since been reported.

Electrical Engines to Be Tried.

TROY, N. Y., April 28.—The Hudson Valley railroad has built two electrical engines. They are to be used first as an experiment in hauling freight cars. This is the first electric railroad in the state to make such an experiment.

Transport Grant Arrives.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The transport Grant has arrived from Manila with 1,610 passengers, including the Twelfth United States infantry and four companies of casuals.

ELECTION DAY IN FRANCE.

Heavy Voting In Spite of Storm For Members of Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, April 28.—The polling for the election of new members to the chamber of deputies began at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and closed at 6 o'clock in the evening. The total number of candidates was 2,515. Of this number 353 stood in the department of the Seine.

A drenching rain in Paris did not prevent the voters from going to the booths. The poll everywhere was about 20 per cent heavier than at the last elections. The rain ceased in the evening, and immense crowds gathered on the boulevards in front of the newspaper offices, where, notwithstanding the prohibition of the police, illuminated sheets were displayed upon which the results of the elections were flashed immediately they were received.

No disturbance worth mentioning occurred anywhere in the city. During the day the authorities took stringent precautions to cope with possible disorders, and strong bodies of police kept the crowds in motion. The entire Republican guard was quartered in the various public buildings.

Dense crowds composed chiefly of Nationalists assembled in front of the offices of the Libre Parole, the Gaulois and the Echo de Paris and greeted the first election announcements, which included three Nationalist victories in Paris, with tremendous cheering.

Paris has not elected a single ministerialist to the chamber of deputies. Eight Nationalists, six antiministerialist Socialists, four antiministeralist Republicans and three Conservatives were returned. It was the worst defeat the government has ever sustained in Paris. The ministerialists lost four seats, and another new constituency was won by the Nationalists. Reballoting will occur in twenty-nine districts.

The Nationalists, however, suffered a severe check in Algiers, where M. Drumont, the notorious anti-Semite, was turned out by a majority of 900.

Among the prominent deputies reelected to the chamber are Count Boni de Castellane, Progressist, from the district of Castellane, department of Basses-Alpes; M. Ribot, Republican, from the district of Saint Omer, department of Pas de Calais, and M. Meline, Progressist, from the district of Remiremont.

Visiting Southern Schools.

ATHENS, Ga., April 28.—The fifth annual conference for education in the south, which began here Thursday, was closed yesterday afternoon by a mass meeting, at which addresses were made by several members of Mr. Ogden's party. Services in the various churches were conducted by the several distinguished clergymen who are making the tour with the eastern party. Bishop McVicker of Rhode Island speaking at Emanuel church. Mr. Ogden's train left late at night over the Southern railway for Calhoun, Ala., where a short visit will be made at Pitt Dillingham's colored school. From Calhoun the party will go to Montgomery to visit the state normal colored school. Monday afternoon will be given over to a trip to the Alabama Polytechnic institute at Auburn. Tuesday will be spent at Booker T. Washington's school at Tuskegee, Ala., and a part of the day's visit there will be devoted to the dedication of the new Carnegie library just completed.

Memphis Honors Schley.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 28.—Rear Admiral and Mrs. W. S. Schley have arrived in Memphis over the Southern railway and were at once driven to the Gayoso hotel. A reception committee met the visitors at Grand Junction and escorted them to Memphis. It was the wish of Admiral and Mrs. Schley that there should be no demonstration in their honor upon their arrival, but several hundred people were at the Union station to bid them welcome. Admiral Schley will be the guest of the city until Wednesday night, when he will start for a visit to several cities in Mississippi. A parade was given this morning in honor of the admiral and his wife. In the afternoon a silver service will be presented to him, and in the evening a banquet will be tendered him.

Whole Family Hypnotized.

LASALLE, Ill., April 28.—Rudolph Bartag, his wife and their five children have been found in a comatose condition in their home at Ticona, a village near here. Leo Lenzer, an amateur hypnotist, later confessed that he put the entire family to sleep five days ago and that he had been trying to awaken them ever since. He has succeeded in arousing two of the children, but all the others are still asleep.

Street Car Strikers Win.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The strike of the street railway system of the united railroads, which went into effect a week ago, has been officially declared off. Victory rests with the employees, who are conceded all their principal demands. The united railroads have granted an advance in wages, a ten hour day and in a measure recognized the carmen's union.

Spotted Fever Spreading.

MISSOULA, Mon., April 28.—The spotted fever scourge in the Bitter Root valley has broken out with greater violence than at any time known in the history of the peculiar disease. Eight persons have died of the malady within a week, and several others are dangerously ill.

Holland's Queen Better.

THE HAGUE, April 28.—Bulletins issued at Castle Loo declare that the condition of Queen Wilhelmina continues to be satisfactory.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; light north winds, becoming variable.

STARVING MEN RIOT

Russian Peasants Pillage and Burn Estates.

WILD SCENES IN MANY PROVINCES.

The Whole Region Terrorized and Land Owners Are Fleeing For Safety—Czar Afraid to Spend Easter In Moscow.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 28.—The peasants in the Poltava and Kharkov provinces, where 18,000 are reported to be participating in riots, have already sacked eighty estates, where they destroyed everything they could not carry off. The whole region is terrorized, and land owners and stewards are fleeing for safety.

The fear is increasing that Kharkov and other towns will be attacked. Some of the authorities are showing weakness and pusillanimity, while others are cruelly vigorous and are causing wholesale floggings of persons arrested.

The agitation at Moscow is so serious that the czar has relinquished his intention of spending the Russian Easter there.

The riots in the southern provinces were primarily not of a political nature, but began in the efforts of the starving peasants to seize forcibly seed corn from the big estates. Agitators quickly took advantage of the situation, when the troops began ruthlessly repressing the disorders and incited the peasants against the authorities.

The ministers, including M. de Witte, the minister of finance, continue to receive letters threatening them with death.

The judicial inquiry into the assassination April 15 of M. Sipiaguine, the minister of the interior, has led to the arrests of many persons suspected of connection with an antigovernmental conspiracy. These include a Jewess who is the fiancee of Balschaneff, the assassin of the minister, and her father, who supplied Balschaneff with money. Upon learning of the arrest of his fiancee Balschaneff attempted to commit suicide, but was prevented from doing so by his guards.

Cuban Trade.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The insular division of the war department has prepared for publication an extract showing in comparative form the commerce of the island of Cuba for the seven months ended Jan. 31, 1902 and 1901. The total value of merchandise imported during the seven months ended Jan. 31, 1902, was $40,043,986 against $38,038,930 for the corresponding period of 1901, and the exports of merchandise against $26,970,220 for 1901 were $24,113,419. These figures show an increase of 5 per cent in the imports and a decrease of 11 per cent in the exports. The value of merchandise coming from the United States for the seven months ended Jan. 31, 1902, was $17,118,839, a slight increase over the corresponding period of 1901, while the exports for 1902 amounted to $15,174,488, a decrease of $349,742.

General Clinton Not Forgotten.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Arrangements have been practically completed for the national congress of the Sons of the American Revolution, which assembles in this city Wednesday. The sessions of the congress will be held at the new Willard hotel. While the congress does not assemble until Wednesday, a ceremony of considerable interest will be held tomorrow at Congressional cemetery, when a committee of distinguished New York delegates will visit the cemetery for the purpose of placing one of the society's markers at the grave of General George Clinton, an aid to General Washington in planning his campaigns, first governor of New York and twice vice president of the United States. He died in this city and was interred at Congressional cemetery in 1812.

Schooner Foundered: Three Lost.

CLEVELAND, O., April 28.—A special to The Plain Dealer from Sandusky says: "The schooner Barklow, from Marine City, foundered in Lake Erie half a mile from Put-in-Bay, and three persons lost their lives in consequence. The dead are Captain Robert Pardy of Marine City, his wife and his stepson, Alexander Morris, aged sixteen years. Dick Burke, a sailor of Port Huron, survived the wreck and was brought to Sandusky by the life saving crew from that port, who had tried several times during the night to reach the wreck."

Accidentally Shot Dead.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 28.—William W. Carr, aged thirty-seven years, one of the best known telegraph operators in the west, was accidentally shot and instantly killed while visiting his parents at Eudora, Kan. Carr was alighting from a buggy when he tripped, discharging his shotgun. He received the contents of both barrels over the heart. Mr. Carr had been connected with the Associated Press in Topeka since 1892 and had worked at Kansas City, Omaha, Denver and other points. He leaves a widow.

THE COUNCIL'S ACTION.

When the Borough Council meets Friday evening, it seems quite likely that the question of annexation and consolidation will be considered. Now that the Greater Plainfield bills have been passed and signed by the Governor, it devolves on the legislative body of the borough to take charge of the official machinery whereby the will of the majority may be discovered.

A special election is to be held at which, first, the question of annexation shall be put to the vote of the people of North Plainfield. It is for the Borough Council to fix the date of that election. The proposed borough improvements, now being held in abeyance until a decision shall be reached either one way or the other, demand that these questions shall be answered without unseemly delay. It is, however, imperative that there shall be time for careful and mature consideration before any formal decision shall be reached.

This is not a question which will affect the borough for the year only, it is one which concerns the future welfare of the community. As such it demands a full investigation without personal feeling. There have been several subjects, of really no bearing on the question, which have been introduced into the controversy. These must be forgotten and the decision must be made strictly on its merits. Until the people are in a mood to intelligently and without partizan feeling cast their ballots, the work of education must go on.

Let, therefore, the Borough Council move without undue haste and yet see that there is no unreasonable delay in settling this most important question.

A Noteworthy Change.

As a sign of business activity, and a demand for more commodious warerooms for the display of pianos, and the accommodation of their innumerable patrons, old and new, we note the removal of J. & C. Fischer to extensive quarters, No. 164 Fifth avenue, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets, New York City. The large increase of their business demanded this change. They are now situated within a short distance of, and can be readily reached by almost all important railroads of the city. Their new warercoms are fitted up in the most modern style. Reception rooms, sales display rooms, elegantly appointed parlors for the trying of their pianos as if in one's own home, electric lights, and elevators—everything for business facility and the pleasure of their patrons. The popularity of the Fischer Piano is the growth of years, and justly so. The sales display rooms have all the latest styles of grands and uprights, in newest designs of case-architecture and in all woods. A visit will amply repay those who contemplate the purchase of a thoroughly trustworthy piano.

DEFENDANT'S HARD LUCK.

He Was Guilty and Wanted to Acknowledge It, But They Wouldn't Let Him.

It is not unusual for persons indicted for crime to plead guilty, but very seldom does it happen that a prisoner admits that he has been rightfully accused is compelled to enter a plea of not guilty. Such an incident occurred in Washington recently.

It was desired to make a test case in order to secure a ruling from the appellate court on a knotty legal proposition. A certain colored individual who was in the toils was selected to furnish framework for the issue. He was escorted into court for arraignment. Prior to that formality, however, the prosecuting officer took the precaution to remark: "Of course, you are going to plead not guilty." Such a plea was essential in order to take the matter before the higher court.

The response was a surprise and somewhat disconcerting, for the attorneys and the court were anxious to go ahead with the test proceeding. The prisoner declared: "I'se guilty, an' I wants to be sentenced right here an' now." This disarranged the programme very decidedly.

It required the combined persuasive efforts of the prosecuting officer and the counsel assigned to represent the defendant, says the Washington Star, to induce the latter to consent to plead not guilty. As he was led from the courtroom he shook his head dubiously and murmured: "I didn't want to do it, 'cause I'se guilty, all right. Don't know what they'se up to, 'deed I don't."

DISCIPLINING CONVICTS.

Various Misdemeanors for Which the Prisoners in Georgia Camps Are Punished.

When a convict commits an infraction of the camp rules, says B. F. Blackburn, in writing of the Georgia convict camps in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly, he is punished with a leather strap on the bare body, bent over a barrel. This strap is about two inches wide and eighteen inches long, made of belting. The punishment is from one to twenty-five lashes. About 20 per cent. of the crowd require punishing each month, and 15 lashes to the subject is a rather full estimate. The offenses covered by such punishments are gambling, swearing, idling, insubordination and fighting.

His proness to gamble is as great as it is to petty theft—whether in imprisonment or enjoying freedom—and I doubt the justice of punishment for such infractions. There are some amusing incidents of gambling in the camps—craps and skin games being the rule. But a negro will bet on anything—from which toe a fly will light on first to who will be the first to catch an insect in another's woolly head. They get their money for extra work done at will, for they are paid on a free labor basis. The per capita circulation in the camps will average $3.

THE BRIDE WEARS RED.

In China a Wedding Procession Is a Mass of the One Color Throughout.

Red is the nuptial color in China. The coolies that carry the bride in her litter are dressed in red, and they bear a dwarf orange tree loaded with fruit and coin. The bird's compartments are finished in red trimmings, presents are carried on red trays, the banners borne in the procession are originally crimson, which are brightened by the rosy glow of the lanterns. Red umbrellas are carried, and illuminated signs blaze in color. The canopy itself is decorated according to the wealth and the taste of the bride's family, says Woman's Home Companion. A poor woman is carried to her wedding feast in a plain chair painted red. If the family has wealth or rank the palanquin is very ornate, decorated with dragon-heads. The Chinese skill in working silk or gold cord is displayed in an artistic manner. When the bride appears she wears a red veil, and the letters to her ancestors, whose blessing is invoked, are written on red paper. The bride generally wears a crown adorned with tinsel and mock jewels—an idea which is much more prevalent in Sweden.

HE DIDN'T LIKE THE CHECK.

Remittance of a Chicago Bankrupt's Assets That Annoyed a Bank Cashier.

"Funny things occur occasionally under the operation of the Federal bankruptcy law," said the cashier of a Chicago concern as he looked at a check for two cents he had just received in the mail, reports the Inter Ocean. "Here's one of them. This check for two cents is the firm's share of the assets of a defunct Indiana enterprise of which we were one of the creditors."

"What's funny about that?" inquired the man to whom the cashier was talking.

"Well, there's several funny things about it," answered the cashier. "Perhaps I shouldn't say funny, either; they're aggravating. You will notice that this check for two cents is drawn on a country bank in Indiana. To get it cashed will cost us 15 cents exchange, so there's a direct loss of 13 cents to start with. Then the trustee who sent it had to pay two cents in mailing it, and we are expected to pay return postage on the receipt, making an outlay of 19 cents against a credit of two cents. I've been juggling with figures a long time and been up against many queer propositions, but this stumps me. I don't know what to do with it."

"Why not tear the check up and throw away the pieces? You'd be money ahead."

"The firm would, you mean. But what about myself? Unless I get the check cashed I'll have to take two cents out of my own pocket to make my books balance, and I can't see any reason why I should use my own money for that purpose."

STOVES ARE STILL SOLD.

They Have by No Means Been Forced Out of Use by Modern Steam and Gas.

"I dare say," said a stove dealer to a New York Sun man, "that there's quite a bunch of young people, born and raised in this city, that never saw a coal-burning stove. They have lived so far in their lives in houses and flats heated by steam in which the cooking is done with gas ranges.

"For all they know, stoves have gone wholly out of use. But as a matter of fact they have not gone out by any manner of means.

"There is in New York what you might call a steamheat belt, in which practically all apartment houses are heated by steam, and where the parlor stove is a thing of the past—unknown. And in this belt the coal stove or range in the kitchen is giving way more and more before the gas range. But even in this belt you would come across now and then a flat not steam heated, and you will find plenty of flats that still have coal ranges.

"And outside of this steamheat belt there are still districts right here in the city in which the stove still prevails, where people still buy and use their own stoves, kitchen and parlor, too.

"As to smaller cities, the proportion of stoves yet used is greater than it is here. Indeed, in the great majority of homes in them you would still find mother cooking her crullers on a coal-burning kitchen stove and the children popping corn in the stove in the parlor."

PLAINT OF AN EASY "MARK."

He Says the Man Who Willingly Does Extra Work Is Always Thoroughly Worked.

"Why is it," asked a modest young bread winner, "that when I stay at the office after hours voluntarily to do an extra amount of work, somebody who is in charge pounces upon me as his justifiable victim evidently and gives me still more to do?

"That has happened to me time after time in my business, and at each repetition I have taken a vow that if I am ever in charge of an office I shall give any one of my subordinates who sits down and does work which isn't specifically required of him credit for what he does do, and let it go at that, without adding insult to injury, as it were, by giving him something further to do."

"Of course, it's an old saying," continued the young man, according to the New York Mail and Express, "that the man who does the most work is the man usually 'worked.' But it's discouraging, don't you think? Strangely enough, though, he goes ahead and lets himself be 'worked,' with only a weak objection to ease his feelings."

That of Which the Foreign Lands Are Talking

Political, Industrial and Commercial Topics of Timely Interest from Other Countries.

Mineral Production of Canada Last Year.

THE mineral production of Canada during the year 1901, according to the statement of the geological survey, was valued at $69,407,031, of which $42,824,000 was metallic and $26,282,000 nonmetallic. The growth is equivalent to about eight per cent. over that of 1900—a rather moderate increase compared with what recent years have shown. There were various causes for this; a drop in the gold product of the Yukon and protracted labor troubles in British Columbia being among the number. The following from the records of the survey show how the industry has developed:

1886	$10,221,256
1890	16,762,353
1896	22,584,513
1900	64,488,037
1901	69,407,031

Gold, as a result of Yukon discoveries, occupies the first place, with $24,462,222, or more than a third of the whole; coal, with a value of $14,721,122, comes next. The metallic minerals, aside from gold, show a comparatively small figure in the table, all coming behind building materials in the total of their production; pig iron contributing only $1,212,113 from the product of home ore. Some of the branches of the industry have been established on a large scale only during the past few years. The values of the various metallic products were:

Description.	Value.
Copper	$6,600,104
Gold:
Yukon	18,000,000
All other	6,462,222
Iron ore (exports)	762,284
Pig iron from Canadian ore	1,212,113
Lead	2,199,784
Nickel	4,594,523
Silver	2,993,668
Total	$42,824,698

In silver, while the increase in quantity is fair, there is less to record for the value on account of the lower prices.

In lead, the decrease is to be attributed to the difficulties encountered by the operators of the British Columbia mines, which produced nearly all the output. Prices were lower and trouble was found in profitably marketing the ores in the United States.

The low prices for copper, commencing as they did in the latter part of 1901, hardly affected the figures of production. The output showed a very large increase over that of 1900. In the Sudbury district of Ontario, the amount of copper contained in the shipments of matte was greater by over 25 per cent.

An increase of nearly 30 per cent. in production of nickel is recorded. The price, which from 1895 to 1898 ranged from 33 to 36 cents per pound, was quoted in the New York market throughout the year 1901 at from 50 to 60 cents per pound.

Owing to the exploitation of the large deposit of iron ore of the Helen mine at Michipicoten, in Ontario, a considerable growth is evident in the country's production of this mineral. Some of the product goes to furnaces in Ontario, but the larger part is exported. Only the exports are credited in the table under this heading, the rest appearing under the item "pig iron." Adding to the exports the 156,613 tons of Canadian ore, etc., charged to Canadian furnaces, there is shown a total production of 462,812 tons.

In the production of pig iron in Canadian furnaces an increase of over 184 per cent. in quantity is recorded, while the estimated production from Canadian ore alone increased nearly 135 per cent. These gains are due in a large measure to the completion of the furnaces of the Dominion Iron and Steel company at Sydney, Nova Scotia.

The value of the steel product is not included in the general table. There were made during the year 41,948 tons (of 2,000 pounds each) of steel ingots, etc., all of which was worked up into bars, etc.

A natural soap mine and a paint mine are two of the latest mineral discoveries in the northwest. Several soda lakes have been found in the foothills near Ashcroft, B. C. Their bottoms and shores are incrusted with a natural washing compound, containing borax and soda. No two analyses agree exactly as to the composition of the material; a New York analysis gives 26 per cent. borax, while a Montreal chemist, from the same sample, gives 16 per cent. borax. Tests prove the substance to be equal to the washing powders in common use. Trials by blacksmiths and farm workmen show that it will remove grease and dirt quicker than soap. A syndicate of British Columbia men has been formed to put the product on the market. About 275 tons of the compound have been cut and taken out of the lake. It is handled precisely as ice is handled. The blocks are more than nine inches in thickness, are sawn into pieces of 15 by 18 inches, and weigh 50 pounds each. It is estimated that this lake alone contains 20,000 tons, proving that the industry, if successful, will reach large proportions.

JOHN L. BITTINGER

Iron Ore in New Zealand.

NO IRON ore is worked in New Zealand, all attempts at forming companies having proved a failure, principally because freights on iron are so low from England to New Zealand that the English production would compete severely with colonial iron manufactures. Besides, pig iron is admitted duty free, as well as black iron sheets, which are galvanized and corrugated here, while the finished article is charged $9.72 per ton by way of protecting local manufacturers. Hematite iron ore occurs in several places in this colony. At Para Para, in the provincial district of Nelson, government reports state that 650,000,000 tons of this ore occurs on a hillside, with crystal limestone within a mile of it, and coal in close proximity, and Para Para is situated in Golden bay, in which all the navies of the world might ride at anchor.

Black titaniferous sand is also found in abundance on the west coast, principally near New Plymouth, of the Taranaki province. Attempts were made some years ago to work this, but they ended in failure. It is said that a company is being floated in London to work these black sands, but nothing definite is known.

MINING TOWN OF ROSSLAND, BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Several deposits of manganese ore occur in Whangarei, north of Auckland, at Waiheke island, close to this city, and also at Wairoa South, not far from Waiheke. Shipments of this material have been made from time to time, but the quantity sent away is small, only amounting to a few hundred tons a year. One huge deposit at Wairoa South has been slightly explored, showing a lode of rich manganese ore from 16 to 17 feet in width. FRANK DILLINGHAM.

Larger Canadian Customs Free List.

The Canadian government has recently transferred a number of articles heretofore dutiable to the free import list, with a view to increasing their manufacture in this country. These articles, which will be admitted free only when imported by manufacturers for use in their own factories, are as follows:

Hemp-bleaching compound for the manufacture of rope.
Silver tubing, for the manufacture of silverware.
Steel, for the manufacture of cutlery.
Yarn of jute, flax or hemp, for the manufacture of towels.
Steel castings in the rough, for the manufacture of scissors and hand shears.
All articles entering into the construction and forming part of cream separators.

The reason for placing these articles on the free list is that their use will enable Canadian manufacturers to produce a better quality of goods.

An order in council has also been passed providing for the payment of a drawback of the duty on imported materials used in the manufacture of machinery and structural iron and steel for use in the construction and equipment of factories for the manufacture of sugar from beet root.

By an amendment to the tariff last session, provision was made for the free entry of such machinery and structural iron and steel, and the object of this order is to place the Canadian manufacturer of these articles in as good a position as his foreign competitors. The time for the free admission of such machinery and steel expired on April 1, 1902. It is provided that the drawback regulation referred to shall apply only in respect of machinery and structural iron and steel manufactured and sold for bona fide use in the construction and equipment of factories for the manufacture of sugar from beet root, during the time when the imported machinery and structural iron and steel are exempt from customs duty.

The dominion and provincial parliaments are ready at all times to give encouragement to the upbuilding of manufacturing industries in this country.

GEN. SCHALK-BURGER.

Acting President of Transvaal Republic at Head of Movement to Bring About Peace.

Gen. Schalk-Burger, Boer officer and orator, who is visiting President Steyn under flag of truce and "safe conduct" through the British lines with a view to proposals for peace, occupies a position among the Boers hardly less important than that of President Kruger himself. At the last election before the war he was a candidate for the presidency of the Transvaal republic against Mr. Kruger, and is now a member of the executive council of the provisional government, with a tremendous popularity among his people. Gen. Schalk-Burger's proper military command is the Portuguese frontier, but his duties during the present war have been largely connected with the civil administration and as adviser to the generals in the field. He is a veteran of the memorable war of 1881, when he served as field cornet until the peace that guaranteed the integrity of the Transvaal republic in 1883. He is a fighter from fighting stock, his grandfather having been one of the great Voortrekkers, on whose head the British put a price of £300. Gen. Schalk-Burger is a self-educated man with a great gift of oratory and high standing among those who know him for his personal integrity and high character. He was born at Lydenburg in 1852.

PAUNCEFOTE TO QUIT.

British Ambassador at Washington to Be Superseded by Hon. Alfred Lyttleton.

It is current rumor in London that Lord Pauncefote is to be superseded as ambassador to the United States and that Alfred Lyttleton is to be his successor. The report has not yet been confirmed, but some credence is placed in it by those in official circles in a position to be well informed.

The Yorkshire Post says it learns that Alfred Lyttelton is likely to succeed Lord Pauncefote as British ambassador at Washington.

Mr. Lyttelton is the liberal unionist member of parliament for Leamington Warwickshire; is a bencher of the inner temple, recorder of Oxford, and was legal private secretary to Sir

ALFRED LYTTELTON.
(Lord Pauncefote's Probable Successor at Washington.)

Henry James when the latter was attorney general, 1882.

He has been captain of the Eton and Cambridge cricket 11, represented Cambridge university in cricket, football, tennis, racquets and athletic sports generally, and represented England in cricket and football matches. He was educated at Eton and Trinity college, Cambridge.

Mr. Lyttelton recently has performed several special missions for the government of Great Britain, notably in South Africa. Gen. Lyttelton, who commanded a division in Natal under Gen. Buller, is a brother of Mr. Lyttelton, who is a nephew of the late Mrs. Gladstone.

Origin of Textile Fabrics.

In 1330 in a village near Norwich, England, the first twisted double thread of wool was manufactured for sale, although the invention and the process must have been familiar to cottage weavers and spinners long before. The woolen thread was called "worsted," after the name of the village. Quingamp, a town in Brittany, gave to the world the useful material called gingham. Mussoul, a Turkish town, is responsible for muslin; Calicut, in India, famous for cotton goods, contributed calico. Figured fabrics known as damask came from the city of Damascus and cambric from Cambray, a town in Flanders. The filmy silken fabric called gauze came from the eastern city of Gaza, where the lovely flower-like women shroud themselves in transparent materials.

CHANGES IN FASHION.

Revival of Old Styles in Modified Form.

So far the predicted revival of panniers has not come to pass, but very small shaped basques appear on the new model bodices and blouses. They are cut to shape in semicircular fashion and resemble the narrow godet frills. Embroideries of silk, chenille and tinsel are quite le dernier cri, and some are really works of art.

Painted satin, muslin and lisse are used for evening toilets, but exquisite vests are prepared for wearing with taffeta day gowns. The Richelieu collars are very fashionable, and these deep collars covering the shoulders will be worn in silk incrusted with lace, in silk muslin applique at the edge, and in all lace of the heavy point type.

A NEW BLOUSE.

Nearly every hat one sees at a smart function displays a more or less complete drapery of lace. Some of the newer models are so flat that one needs must put the coil of hair quite at the back or low on the neck, as to wear it on the head or poised high at the back is absolutely impossible.

There is another attempt to revive the accordion plaited skirt, but it is not likely to be a success, as the outline of the hips is so increased and destroyed that, while tight skirts prevail, it is not in accord with the present outline. Flounces and narrow frills plaited in this style are charming on plain skirts, and the modern evening wrap demands many plisse frills of lisse, chiffon or soft texture. JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY ACCESSORIES.

Parasols, Shoes and Bons For the Summer Girl.

The new parasols are much trimmed with lace, and those of white glace or satin are almost covered with lines of black lace. The vandyked and scalloped laces, also those in waved and scroll designs, are much used on parasols, the ecru and cream lace on black.

WHITE CREPE DE CHINE.

the black chantilly and blond laces on white and pale colors. Even en-tout-cas have borders woven or printed on the silk, and very elaborate parasols have coverings of lace and frills of chiffon. Dresden handles are lovely, and the sticks are invariably enameled to match the sunshade.

Smart footgear will have moderate heels and pointed toes in which the point is graduated off by slow degrees. A very chic shoe shown in glace, patent and tan leather has three small straps to button over the instep and a simple jet buckle or stud on the toe. Gloves in white, lavender, primrose, cane and biscuit tints will be fashionably worn, and plain backs will be preferred to those with stitchings.

Flowers will be much worn during the summer season, and even the toques prepared for quite early spring are bright in color and much trimmed with foliage or blossom. The wreath of roses appears in the tiny Banksia variety and also in quite full sized crushed roses, without foliage. These latter in a blush rose tint are charming when partially draped with black.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

"Gad!" yelled the Colonel. "Blue is here, too, is he? And he came in on me last night and tampered with my rifle!" He lifted his voice to its strongest. "Up Concordians! Hello! Hey! The enemy, the enemy!"

As he finished he hurled the Winchester at Dingle and the resonant call ended in the crash of glass. Keever sprang to the door. The key had been removed from the inside of the lock and the door did not respond to his furious pull. He hurled himself upon it and struggled like a demon. So furious was the onslaught that the knob came away and the great man was precipitated to the floor. A laugh floated in from the window. Gaining his feet after an elephantine tussle, he braced himself in a corner and turned his gleaming eyes upon the barred opening. Dingle had been joined by others, whose heads were crowded together in the narrow space; and when the Colonel had recognized Capt. Blue, Mr. Boomer, Maj. Harp, Vlandingham, Barney and a few more, his brain became dizzy and he staggered to the cot. Dropping down there he buried his face in his hands.

Had it come to this? Was he finally bewitched by the spirits of Kentucky bourbon? He had been a hard drinker all his life, but so had his father been before him and he had died in his ninetieth year, of a palsy. The Colonel brought an impulsive heel down on the empty flask.

"I don't know who you are, or where I am," he said, hoarsely, peering at the grinning faces in the window, "but if there's a doctor among you, send him to me. I'm going mad—I must be."

"Eat this and you'll feel better," said Barney, pushing through the bars a pasteboard box filled with eatables.

The Colonel got up and walked unsteadily across the room.

"Liscomb," he returned, "step up to the office and tell Sampson I want him."

"Step up!" exclaimed Barney. "It's quite a step, Colonel—seven miles if it's a foot. You're in Harmony; don't you know that?"

"Harmony!" gasped the Colonel; "how can that be?"

"Well," drawled Capt. Blue, "we moved the whole shebang over last night, during the storm. As you happened to be inside, we brought you along."

That took the wind completely out of the Colonel's sails. Very humbly he received the box of luncheon out of Barney's hands, went back to the cot, turned his face from the crowd and sat down. He ate the food and as he ate he reflected.

Here was a masterpiece, indeed! Beside this that affair of the weathervane paled into utter insignificance. The Colonel had known all along that Harmony was meditating some coup. It was for the purpose of discovering what this was that he had prevailed upon Guy to come to Harmony and attend the town meeting. Although the theft of the weathervane had chagrined the Colonel, it had lulled his suspicions, for he believed that that had been the contemplated stroke. What an awakening he now had! The records were stolen, the courthouse was stolen and he himself had been carried along with the rest of the plunder.

During that forenoon all Harmony came to look into the Concord courthouse and gloat over the prisoner. Citizens, male and female, young and old, felicitated themselves and cried uncharitable things at the crushed and melancholy man who had been the head and front of all offending against them. The Colonel kept his back to the window, held his peace in the face of great provocation and waited patiently to learn what was to be done with him.

The afternoon was marked by a dearth of curiosity seekers. No one came to the window and it was possible for the prisoner to rise and pace the room, without running a gauntlet of scoffs and gibes. While he was thus wandering about the room, the key scraped in the lock and the other half of the knob—which had fallen outside—was thrust through the mechanism. The catch was turned, the door opened and Isaac Dingle stepped fearlessly in. Keever rushed at him like a whirlwind, but halted in trepidation at sight of a quickly displayed revolver. By a chance, Col. Dingle's natural eye and its artificial counterpart were both fixed on the prisoner.

"Careful!" warned the rival editor. "I have not come here in anger, Col. Keever, but as a messenger of peace. I wish to ask you to let bygones be bygones. The wheel of fortune has turned against you, but we are both editors and the art preservative is the tie that should bind us in good fellowship. I am here to extend a fraternal hand and a helpful one. Shall we bury the hatchet and smoke the pipe of peace?"

Col. Keever was astounded. There must be an ulterior purpose back of this show of friendliness. That was certain. It was equally certain, to Keever's mind, that he had everything to gain and nothing to lose by meeting Dingle half way in these amicable overtures. As Dingle switched his revolver to his left hand and extended his right Col. Keever grasped it with great show of cordiality.

"It is not my nature, sir," said the great man, "to cherish animosity. True, you behold me now at the depth of my fortunes, but always and ever you will find me suaviter in modo, fortiter in re."

No one could say a fine thing more finely, and this delicate bit, culled by the Colonel from the back of his dictionary in a leisure hour, was rendered with a voice and gesture that brought admiration into Dingle's eyes—even the glass eye. The little man put away his revolver and they both took seats on the cot.

"The uncomplaining manner in which you bear this reverse," said Dingle, "has touched me most profoundly."

"I can bear as well as forbear," returned Col. Keever.

"I see you can, Colonel, and it's that which shows your inherent nobility. You are not the only Concord man whom the Harmony people have in their midst." Being of the old school, Col. Dingle clung to some of its platitudes. "Another of your fellow townsmen has experienced the misfortunes of war."

"Another Concordian in this town!" exclaimed Keever.

"Not in town, exactly, but out at Whittaker's and being cared for by one of our men."

"To whom do you refer?"

"To Mr. Guy Herbert."

"He is not a Concord man, sir; he inclines more toward Harmony than toward his own town."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Every Samson has his Delilah," was the other's gloomy and significant response. "Herbert has deserted to you?"

"No; some of your people chased him out of Concord and pursued him into a company of Harmonyites. Shots were fired, Mr. Herbert was hit—"

"Hit! Not killed?"

"No, no; just wounded, that's all. But isn't that enough? The affair might have been infinitely worse. If any one gets killed during this squabble the governor of the territory will take a hand and it will go hard with all of us. Miss Vlandingham saw the shooting this morning and when Herbert dropped from his horse, she rode up to him, dismounted in a twinkling and raised his head. She was pale as death and how she did lecture us! She would have no violence, no bloodshed, she declared, and she would have something to say to all of us after Mr. Herbert had been attended to. The something she had on her mind was spoken only a little while ago and to nearly every man in town—all of us having been summoned to her father's house for the purpose. I can't tell you all she said, but reconciliation is the order of the day. The fight for the county seat is to continue just as vigorously but, if it can possibly be, Miss Vlandingham desires that the struggle for supremacy shall be a good natured one."

"It can't be," declared Keever, "so long as you have the courthouse."

"It's a young woman's dream, that's what it is, an unsubstantial fancy. Matters in this town, however, are run about as Miss Vlandingham desires. We wouldn't give up this courthouse, though, even if she should order us to."

"Then the bitterness will continue, sir, mark my words."

"With me that was a foregone conclusion. Nevertheless, I was told off by Miss Vlandingham to inaugurate her new policy. I have reconciled myself with you and am now to drive you back to Concord, or as near Concord as I dare to go."

"I am free?" asked Col. Keever.

"You are. My horse and gig are out in front."

"Do I take the records back with me?"

"You do not."

Col. Keever sighed.

"In accepting my liberty at your hands," said he, "understand that I make no promises."

"That is understood. Miss Vlandingham presents her compliments, however, and hopes that you will persuade your fellow citizens to accept the olive branch which she holds out to them on behalf of Harmony."

"When Miss Vlandingham sends the olive branch to Concord nailed to the courthouse, I give my word it will be accepted." This from Col. Keever, with dignity.

MRS. FORCE.

PERSONA NON GRATA

Diplomatic Agent Dickinson Ousted by Bulgarian Cabinet.

Government at Sofia Peremptorily Refuses to Recognize American Representative—Action Due to Stone Case.

Charles M. Dickinson, of New York, United States diplomatic agent at Sofia, Bulgaria, has been declared persona non grata by the Bulgarian government on account of his attitude in the case of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary who was abducted by Macedonian political and religious enthusiasts. Mr. Dickinson is now in Constantinople. In view of the declaration of Bulgaria, this government is obliged to consider his position at Sofia as vacant, and he will not return there.

The news of Mr. Dickinson's dismissal was received at the state department from John G. A. Leishman, United States minister to Turkey, who sent a brief telegram saying that the Bulgarian government had declined to recognize Mr. Dickinson. The only explanation of this action given by Minister Leishman was that it was based on dissatisfaction with Mr. Dickinson's conduct "last fall." This unquestionably refers to the activity shown by Mr. Dickinson at Sofia in seeking to secure the release from captivity of Miss Stone and her native companion, Mme. Tsilka, whose husband, a minister, was recently arrested by the Bulgarian authorities for complicity in the abduction of the two women.

Mr. Dickinson, it is understood, believed that the Bulgarian authorities had been responsible, through neglect, for the kidnaping of Miss Stone, and he was of the opinion also that they interfered with his efforts to secure her release.

In the midst of the negotiations between the abductors and Mr. Dickinson for Miss Stone's ransom, he left Sofia for Constantinople, and has remained there ever since. It is supposed that his trouble with the Bulgarian officials began at that time, and that he found it impossible to maintain relations with them. Until a full report of Bulgaria's action is received from Minister Leishman by mail the state department will probably do nothing in the matter. It is likely, however, that Bulgaria's attitude will have an important bearing on the determination by the United States of the question of responsibility for Miss Stone's abduction.

CHARLES M. DICKINSON.
(United States Consul General at Constantinople, Turkey.)

Minister Leishman is now engaged in conducting an inquiry into the circumstances of the abduction and the subsequent ransom negotiations, with a view of ascertaining whether Turkey or Bulgaria was in any measure responsible for the indignity offered to an American citizen or for causing the numerous delays in the accomplishment of the attempts of American agents, including Mr. Dickinson, to bring about Miss Stone's release. The abduction took place on Bulgarian territory. Mr. Dickinson's explanation of his difficulties with the Bulgarian officials is awaited with interest, and any accusations he may make will be given careful consideration. Should any claim for indemnity be made against Bulgaria, it will not be less in amount than the ransom paid, $72,000, for Miss Stone's release.

Mr. Dickinson was appointed consul general at Constantinople by President McKinley September 17, 1897. On April 24, 1901, he was appointed diplomatic agent at Sofia, his commission dating from July 1 of that year. He still maintains his consular position, the salary of which is $5,000.

Immense Power of Frost.

A notable quarrying feat has just been accomplished at the Rubislaw granite quarries, Aberdeen. A large stone had been drilled ready for splitting, when the thought struck the foreman that nature might aid in the object to be attained, the idea being suggested by the severe frost which prevailed. Water was poured into each of the drill holes, and it was found after a couple of days that the block of granite had completely burst open. An idea of the immense power of frost will be gathered when it is stated that the stone thus detached has a weight of six tons.

Dupee was in fine form and Eames held him well. A fly catch by Bosterli in centre field when two runners were on bases was a grand stand play. Dodd, Clinton Avenue's short stop, was conspicious in sealing bases. Towards the end of the contest McLaughlin supplanted Kelly in the box, but, although his work was an improvement. Dalley seemed unable to hold him.

ST. MARY'S CAPTURED IT.

In a game of which three innings abounded in brilliant playing the St. Mary's defeated the Rahway Field Club aggregation by a score of 8 to 3 on Pittis Field, Saturday afternoon, before a fairly good-sized crowd. To be sure, there were at times fast plays, but the greater part of the game was devoid of interest, except to watch the outfielders' attempt to have their pitcher do all the work. A strong wind, which blew across the diamond, interfered to some extent with the accurate judging of fly balls, but many poor throws at critical times were inexcusable. In the first innning three wild throws on the part of the Rahway players aided the St. Mary's to land their first man up on third, but before he could reach home the side was retired on as many foul flies that Catcher Williams gobbled knocking out all chances to score. Both pitchers at times showed good speed, Mertenes having a slow drop ball that he used to good effect. Compton, on first for Rahway's, played a rattling good game and made several difficult stops.

FIRE SHOWED NEED OF ANOTHER HYDRANT

The Nearest One to the Eight Row Was 1,500 Feet Away —Homes Similarly Placed.

TWO LIVES WERE LOST.

TWO CANINES MET DEATH IN THE FLAMES OF SATURDAY.

Narrow Escape for Foreman R. B. Rogers and Chief Doane, Who Were Caught in a Room Filled With Smoke.

All the families who were made homeless on Saturday afternoon by the destruction of their houses along the famous Eight Row, yesterday found temporary staying places with friends throughout the city. Two lives were lost in the buildings—one, a fox terrior dog belonging to James Wheeler, which was tied in the barn which was the first structure to go, and another dog, owned by Mrs. Cannon, which was too old to get out of the way of danger. He was seventeen, and his remains were found in the ruins yesterday.

It is likely as a result of the difficulties under which the fire department labored to get water to the fire that a hydrant will soon be located near the Industrial Home. It was necessary to use more than the 3,000 feet of hose to carry two streams to the flames, one hydrant being in Dunellen and the other at DeKalb avenue. From either the distance is about 1,500 feet, and as the hose wagons carry but 1,000 feet the firemen first on the scene had to wait for the other companies before water could be started. Superintendent Ten-Eyck, of the Home, said yesterday that while the house was in no very great danger on Saturday there may be a time when flames will start and because of inadequate water supply great loss of property and life must result. Those in charge at the home use every precaution to prevent a conflagration, but many of the inmates are careless and others are weak-minded and a blaze is liable to be started at any time by them, either by accident or intentionally. All the water at the home has to be pumped by hand to the large tanks in the top of the house and at no time is there enough on hand to successfully cope with flames should they get a start. Chief Doane also advocates the extension of water pipes and the erection of a hydrant in that vicinity, which has some valuable buildings nearby, all of which would be hard to reach with water under present conditions. Foreman R. B. Rogers, of No. 2 Hose Company, was rescued during the fire Saturday afternoon, by Chief Doane after the former had been overcome by smoke in the Richards house. The latter was nearly done for. Both were in a room on the second floor, when a door without a latch was shut and the smoke couldn't escape. The chief dragged Rogers to the door, and after fumbling around for a few seconds succeeded in getting the door open and pulling his comrade to the open, where he was revived. It is doubtful if the destroyed houses will be rebuilt. James Wheeler, who owned the barn and load of hay in which the fire started, succeeded in saving all his household goods through the efforts of friends, to whom he is grateful.

Settled at Last Moment

Most of the owners of property, which was to be sold for payment of delinquent taxes by Collector Brown this afternoon, called at the collector's office today and settled up, thereby saving their property.

AN AFRICAN SHRINE.

"Long Ju-Ju," Mecca of the Slaves of Fetichism.

Gruesome Place Where Hundreds of Human Lives Are Sacrificed Every Year—Mysteries of the Retreat Revealed.

Fifty human lives are sacrificed every year at the "Long Ju-Ju," one of the many fetich centers that dot the jungles of central and western Africa, in order that evil spirits may be banished from the land and the wrath of the gods appeased. The "Long Ju-Ju" is one of the most notorious and most powerful meccas of the slaves of fetichism. It is here that hundreds of the superstitious natives pile up their material offerings to the spirits and journey in resolute bands to deposit the relics of Ju-Ju rites.

Some interesting figures concerning the "Long Ju-Ju" have just come out of the interior from a correspondent with the Aro expedition. It is estimated that every year 500 pilgrims journey to the sacred spot to receive the fetich decree and advice which is vouchsafed to them by the recognized powers. To most of them it is a dear experience. About 50 of them are sacrificed annually in order that their skulls may be offered to the gods, while fully 200 people are sold into slavery. The remainder are allowed to go away free.

The "Long Ju-Ju" is one of the most fascinating spots in western Africa to the curiously inclined explorer. On account of its sacred holdings it is closely guarded by the natives, and it is by no means easy of access, even when the traveler is accompanied by an experienced and licensed guide. The utmost secrecy is observed in approaching its entrance. In addition to the difficulties the conducting of a visitor to the Ju-Ju is a somewhat lengthy process. When he arrives in the immediate vicinity of the uncanny spot he is led by a circuitous route and finally is marched in backwards.

The approach to the Ju-Ju is through dense bush, which gradually becomes thicker and thicker, until the entrance is reached. The Ju-Ju is an oval-shaped pit 70 feet deep, 60 yards long, and 50 yards wide. In entering the visitor climbs down the precipitous sides of rock into a narrow gorge and into running water. The water gushes forth from the solid rock in two large streams, which unite below a small island, on which are two altars, one made from many trade guns stuck muzzle downwards in the ground and topped with human skulls. The other is made of wood and supports more skulls, bones, feathers, blood, eggs and other votive offerings to the Ju-Ju, including the head of the last victim.

THE ISLAND ALTAR.
(Made from Many Trade Guns and Topped with Skulls.)

Over the rock from which the running water springs is a roof of human skulls with a curtain, the top part of which is composed of clothes and the lower part of native matting, screening the rock and hanging just short of the water's edge. The lower portions of the rock composing the other sides of this crater are draped with mats only.

The sacrificial functions of the Ju-Ju are performed on the left side of the entrance, opposite the island, where a flat-topped ledge has been hewn out of the rock. The waters as well as the walls and whole interior of the charnel-house abound in fetich lore. The pool is about 12 inches deep and abounds in tame, lazy-looking, gray-colored fish, about two feet in length. These fish have long suckers and glaring yellow eyes. The roof of the Ju-Ju is formed by a mass of densely intertwined creepers.

At the left of the entrance, through which the visitor is escorted, rests the greatest evidence of the devotion of the native worshipers to their belief in fetichism. There lie the skulls of scores who have been sacrificed in order that the Ju-Ju rites might be fully administered and the spirit world communicated with through material offerings.

The natives in these fetich centers of West Africa believe that by venting their wrath upon human beings, animals and even inanimate objects they are enabled to worship the gods. If they are prosperous and escape what they regard as misfortune, the objects of their devotion are petted, but if the reverse is true they minister the most excruciating punishment and cast some portion of the object in the Ju-Ju.

Bugs Eat Up a Church.

Bugs are eating the First Presbyterian church of Middletown, O. The insects are of the beetle species, and bore holes in the stones of which the edifice is composed. The stones are crumbling, and many of the holes are large enough to admit a lead pencil.

VICTIM IN WESTFIELD.

Small-Pox Contracted by Servant in Home of Edward O. Phelps.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 29—The home of Edward O. Phelps and the entire family is under strict quarantine, owing to a case of small-pox which developed there yesterday. A servant, a middle-aged colored woman is the victim.

She returned a few days ago from a visit in Brooklyn and it is believed that she contracted the disease there. The woman was removed last evening to the pest house under Dr. Cooper's supervision and a trained nurse is now in charge of the case.

As the case was discovered so quickly it is not believed that it will spread to any extent. Every member of the Phelps family was promptly vaccinated.

DISPOSAL OF THE HOSPITAL

THE PRESENT PROPERTY TO BE SOLD IF IT POSSIBLY CAN.

Decision Reached at a Meeting of the Board of Governors of Institution Last Evening.

Matters of a routine nature occupied the attention of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg hospital, at last evening's meeting held in the Public Library. The building committee having in charge plans for the new hospital, reported progress and stated the architect would shortly allow them to ask for bids for its erection.

It was decided after considerable discssion to dispose of the present hospital property in whatever way would bring the best pecuniary results. For this purpose DeWitt C. Ivins was appointed a committee of one to advertise the place and take charge of the sale.

If the place can be sold in its entirety this is preferable, but if not, Mr. Ivins was given authority to cut it up in whatever way he chose. The property is bounded by Muhlenberg place and South Second street and is encumbered by several buildings, of which the hospital itself and nurses home are the largest.

ADAM AND EVE STORY PURELY ALLEGORICAL

Harrison K. Wright Amends His Answer Concerning the Creation of Man.

LICENSED TO PREACH.

WAS EXAMINED BY THE ELIZABETH PRESBYTERY YESTERDAY.

Gilbert Lovell Did Not Appear—Rev. Dr. W. R Richards Once Looked Upon as "Suspicious Character" in Theology.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, April 29—Harrison W. Wright, a member of the Crescent Avenue church, Plainfield, was licensed to preach yesterday by the Elizabeth Presbytery. When examined several weeks ago, Wright, together with Gilbert Lovell, who is also a member of the Crescent Avenue church, surprised the Presbytery by declaring that Adam and Eve were myths. This caused an adjournment of the examinations, and yesterday Mr. Lovell was unable to appear on account of illness.

Rev. Dr. Kempshall examined the applicant on the creation and the latter stated that he believed the story to be allegorical instead of mythical.

In an expression of opinion Dr. Kempshall referred to the time when, as an Old School Presbyterian he refused to have any dealings with the New School, and to the unorthodox commentaries of Barns on the Epistle to the Romans. But the world is moving and the church is making progress, and many beliefs held in former days are not held now; though the fundamental truths are ever the same.

Dr. Kempshall referred to the very examinations he once conducted, the candidate being considered a "suspicious character," on some questions of theology. The candidate was licensed and is now doing excellent work in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church of Plainfield—Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards. Dr. Kempshall strongly favored licensing Mr. Wright, who is from Dr. Richards' church.

ADDITION TO PLANT.

A Permit Granted for Extension to Sash and Blind Factory.

Permission to erect an extension, forty by one hundred and fifteen feet, to the sash and blind factory on North avenue, between Richmond street and Filmore avenue, has been granted to G. T. Paine, of Providence, R. I., by Building Inspector Doane. The addition will be of brick, one story high, and cost about $1,600. Ambrose Smalley will do the carpentering and C. C. Smith the masonry work.

NO BIG CUT.

Local Meat Dealers Deny Stories Regarding Big Reduction in Price.

Local meat dealers declare that there is no truth in published stories to the effect that all kinds of meat have been restored to their original prices by a cut of one to six cents per pound by the so-called trust. At no time here has there been an advance of more than two cents per pound of any quality of meat. On account of that advance, however, trade has fallen off about twenty-five per cent.

Going Abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dalrymple Percival have given up their house at 515 Belvidere avenue, Netherwood, and will stay at 326 Central avenue until their departure for England and the Continent later in the summer. H. Hand will sell at auction tomorrow the contents of their late residence.

Stopped Runaway.

Frightened by a steam automobile yesterday afternoon two horses attached to a delivery cart, belonging to the Standard Oil Company, started on a run down Park avenue. They were stopped by Wm. G. DeMeza at Second street before much damage had been done.

To Prepare the Charge.

A PLAIN STATEMENT.

Another Point in Annexation Argument Show a Difference in Improvements.

It is said that Union county intends building a new court house. Somerset county also contemplates building a new court house. The total taxable valuation of Somerset is about $21,500,000 of which North Plainfield furnishes about $2,500,000 or nearly one-eighth. The total taxable valuation of Union county is nearly $43,000,000. Add to this North Plainfield, and it will be over $45,000,000, of which North Plainfield's share will be about one-eighteenth. If North Plainfield remains in Somerset, she will have to pay about one-eighth of the cost of the new court house. If she comes into Union, she will have to pay for only one-eighteenth of the court house. Is that plain?

STORM BREWS, MAY BE STRIKE

Building Trades Not Willing To Agree to the Proposed Compromise.

MEETING THIS EVENING.

Condition Affects Various Trades—A Strike Possible Thursday—What the Journeymen Demand—To Meet in Trades' Council Rooms.

The trouble which has been brewing among the various building trades in this city for several weeks past presents a serious aspect today. That there is likely to be a general strike on Thursday is not denied. It was believed generally that when the bosses and journeymen considered a compromise of a twenty-cent increase in a day's pay this would be accepted and all further trouble averted. Such is not the case, however, for some of the trades are not willing to argee to the compromise. Some trades want an increase of fifty cents a day, while others are willing to accept twenty-five cents.

Another phase of the situation is that the journeymen want the new schedule to be put in operation May 1, while most of the bosses want the time for the change fixed at June 1. These differences it seems cannot be amicably adjusted, although several conferences have been held. This evening there will be another meeting, when an effort will be made to avert a strike.

One boss in speaking to a Daily Press representative this morning said that he cannot see how a strike can be averted, and if a strike follows he believes that the various trades will not recover from the trouble for some time to come. There is plenty of building in prospect, but it is believed that prospective builders will change their plans and put off their work until some future time. In case this is done the bosses and journeymen will suffer and there may be an enforced idleness on the part of all.

TWO FOR ONE.

Bantam Hen Lays Two Eggs at Once, One Within the Other—Viewed by Board of Education.

A two-pound black Spanish bantam hen owned by Louis C. Wyckoff, a painter at 26 Howard street, has for three days laid a doubled-shelled egg which weighs three pounds.

Last night members of the borough board of education witnessed the opening of the outside shell, and found within another perfectly shaped egg the size of the common product of any every day hen. The outside shell of the big egg is about the size and thickness of a duck's egg, but is imperfectly shapped.

HEBREW COMBATANTS TELL THEIR STORY

Warring Families Air Their Woes in the Police Court This Morning.

CONGREGATION TO PAY.

THE DAMAGE WILL PROBABLY BE SETTLED AMICABLY.

Case Continued Until Monday Morning, When Fines Will be Imposed if Differences are Not Arranged.

West Enders in the vicinity of West Third street and Spooner avenue were treated to a battle royal, Sunday noon, such as only two embittered rival families are capable of taking part in. The combatants were Sam Klein and Lena Klein, husband and wife, who live in the lower part of the house at 682 West Third street, and Abraham Friedman, Lena Friedman and Anna Friedman, who occupy the upper apartments. Weapons of offense and defense included stove lifters, pokers, flatirons, pails, rocks and sundry missiles made of iron and other metals. There were no casualties but the house looks as if it had passed through a Kansas cyclone and came out second best.

In the city court this morning where all five participants were made defendants, it was impossible to fix the responsibility from the mass of excited English-Yiddish testimony offered. It was some time before City Judge Runyon impressed on the minds of the quintette that all five shouldn't talk at once and then the tangle was partly straightened out.

The Friedmans said the Kleins were no good and that they were continually making trouble. This consisted of calling names and now and then smiting Mrs. Friedman who is well along in years. Klein and his spouse said the Friedmans had a reputation for fighting, especially the daughter, who is a widow and learned something about the manly art of self defense from her husband, a descendant of some of the most famous of Ireland's sons. It was she, they said, who originated the whole fracas and who wrecked the house. Womanlike, she took a poor aim, and when she couldn't fight at close range Sunday, she gathered ammunition and prepared to annihilate the Kleins in their apartments.

A carefully poised flatiron aimed at Sam's head, went through the front door panel. A stove lifter intended to put Mrs. Klein hors de combat demolished several panes of glass and a sash, while a large rock hurled blindlessly fetced up against the ball wall and gouged out three feet of plastering.

The Kleins, from inside, returned the fusilade and sundry kitchen utensils hurled through the broken door and rained about the heads of the Friedmans. Some of them clipped off hall balustrades on the way and the few whole panes of glass on the west side of the house disappeared amid a confused jingling. When Patrolmen Higgins and McCue arrived on the scene, both sides were resting from sheer exhaustion and offered no resistance to the invading force.

This is the story as near as could be gleaned by the court and as City Judge Runyon said, it is a case where imposing a fine would be no check on similar occurrences. After much reflection he stated he would continue the case until Monday, but if in the meantime either one or the other of the families would move out, nothing would be done. It was declared by an outsider that the damage to the house would be paid by the Jewish congregation, to which both the Friedmans and Kleins belong, in order to preserve peace in the Synagogue. It is the opinion of the police that hostilities will be renewed as each tenant claims to have a lease on the premises and each wants the whole house.

To Advance Cause.

The Retail Clerks' Mutual Aid Association met last evening and decided to hold a public entertainment for the members of the association and all clerks not members Monday evening, May 26, in the rooms on West Front street.

THE GARRET SMITH RECITALS.

Excellent Programmes Have Been Arranged for Musical Events.

In the Garret Smith recital, to be given on the evenings of May 8 and 20 at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Plainfield has the unusual opportunity of hearing artists of the first rank without going to New York. Dr. Smith is the well-known organist and composer of the South church, Madison avenue, New York, where cantata "King David" was given at the vesper service there last Sunday. The account of his visit to Grieg in Norway that summer is full of interest to the admirer of that famous composer.

Mr. Krowold makes of the cello an almost human instrument. He is a familiar figure to the habitues of the Philharmonic concerts. Mrs. Smith's voice is one of the most beautiful on the concert stage today. Her singing is the perfection of ease with a suggestion of reserve power at once restful and satisfying. These things combined with a charming personality makes a delightful evening.

Among the patronesses are: Mrs. J. Kirkland Myers, Mrs. D. F. Ginna, Mrs. A. C. Baldwin, Mrs. W. L. Saunders, Mrs. George A. Strong, Mrs. C. W. McCutchen, Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, Mrs. Stephen Cahoone, Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, Miss Jessie Munger and Miss Elizabeth Stewart.

LOOKING FOR FIGHT.

Wilson Was Knocked Down—Later Arrested and Fined.

Imbibing too much "red eye" caused Theodore Wilson to start in quest of pugilistic honors last night. He took several falls out of a man on North avenue and wandered into Park avenue and at West Second street, playfully tapped George Ruggles, a cripple, on the side of the head.

A friend of Ruggle's knocked Wilson in the gutter and when he got up he challenged everybody in sight. Patrolman Overbaugh took him in custody. This morning City Judge Runyon fined the scrapper $5, or twenty days.

SEWER BONDS TO BE SOLD

An Adjourned Meeting of the Council Arranges for the Disposal of Bonds.

SESSION NOT IMPORTANT

Councilmen Mellick and van Herwerden Named as Members of Board of School Estimate—Petitions on Various Other Matters.

It was shortly after 8:30 o'clock when the members of the Common Council got together for their adjourned meeting last evening. There was no special business, hence the seeming reluctance in calling the session. Councilmen Daniel, van Herwerden, Pray and Murphy were absent.

A petition was received from the residents of West Sixth tsreet, between Monroe and Grant avenues, asking for an improvement of that thoroughfare. As the matter has already been attended to, no action was taken with the petition other than refer it to the proper committee. Another matter that has already been attended was brought to the attention of the Council through a communication from the Board of Education. This referred to the appointment of two members from the Council to Board of School Estimate and notifying the members that the Board of Education had already appointed two members. Councilmen Mellick and vanHerwerden were appointed by President Coriell at the last meeting.

The S. D. Drake Realty Company, in a communication, asked the Council to accept certain streets in the vicinity of Evergreen and Hillside avenues, which have been properly macadamized and curbed. The matter was referred.

Charlee Thiers, it appeared paid the tax on a property at 704 South avenue, the day that C. F. Fullmer paid the same tax. He asked to have his money returned as Mr. Fullmer was the person liable. Accompanying the petition was a letter from Mr. Fullmer substantiating Mr. Thiers' statement. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mayor Jenkins appointed Daniel V. Force a call man in the fire department, to take the place of Bert Frazee, who was made a regular fireman. Mr. Lee asked to have the appointment referred to his committee, explaining that Mr. Force was previously a call man and had resigned. It will be reported upon later.

Mr. Mellick offered a resolution fixing Monday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock, as the time when bids will be received for the $41,000 sewer bonds to be issued by the Council for sewer improvements. The resolution provided that the clerk must insert the proper advertisement in the official papers of the city and in one financial paper to be selected by him.

This concluded the business of the evening and the Council adjourned. The tax ordinance which many believed would be adopted on its third reading, did not come up. The ordinance will be brought up at the next regular meeting, Monday evening, May 5.

CUT HIS HAND.

Wound Nearly Proved a Serious One for Harry Bretnell.

In running a small truck along the floor at the Pond Tool Works, Saturday morning, Harry Bretnell, of the West End, accidentally struck his hand against the sharp corner of a casting. A gash was made in his wrist which bled profusely. But for a troniquet placed about it, it would have resulted seriously. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where the injury was properly dressed.

A Spring Rendezvous.

There is something invigorating and relaxing in new scenes and new conditions, and when one can take himself to such a marvelous resort as Atlantic City, there is a most marked change in his mental and physical being. First of course is the entire change of surroundings, then an exhilarating and healthful atmosphere, and last but not least a delightful social life. There is a variety of scenes on the board walk, the rolling chairs, the dress parade, the bazars, and then the piers upon which every diversion has its following. The beach and its ponies, donkeys, sand modelers, to say nothing of its wonderful surf, is in itself a grand attraction. Hundreds of hotels cater to the wants of the visitor in a manner befitting the metropolitan hostelry, and with such superb train service as the New Jersey Central offers between New York and Atlantic City in its double daily three hour service, there is little reason why this famous resort should not have a great spring throng. A liniment may relieve, but can't cure.

Backache comes from the inside, from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills get inside.

They cure sick kidneys.

Here is Plainfield proof that this is so:

¶ Mr. C. E. Hepburn, of 123 Duer street, formerly of Canada where he first heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have my endorsement for they cured me of a long standing case of backache which annoyed me very much especially if I took cold for at such times I was in pretty bad shape. I heard different people speak very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills, concluded to try them, got a box from my druggist, Mr. L. W. Randolph, and used them according to directions with the above results. I do not hesitate to give my endorsement of a preparation like Doan's Kidney Pills."

Bradley, superintendent of the New York division of the railway mail service. This committee will act in conjunction with the postmasters of the following cities, which heretofore have been recommended by the department as places where the pneumatic service should be established: New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and Washington.

Girl Shot by Schoolmate.

KINGSTON, Ont., April 29.—Just as school was being dismissed at Frontenac school a shot rang through the building, and Beatrice Helland, aged fourteen, fell over dead. The bullet pierced her temple. Eric Sharp, aged fifteen, a schoolmate, fired the fatal shot. The boy fled, but later gave himself up to the police. He says he threatened to shoot the girl because she tipped his hat in the cloakroom, but when he pulled the revolver it went off accidentally. The lad is a son of Henry Sharp, a Princess street grocer.

Boer Leaders Favor Peace.

LONDON, April 29.—Wiring from Pretoria, under date of April 27, the correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that General Botha, with other Boer leaders, attended meetings of the Utrecht and Vryheid commandos last week. At these meetings strong opinions in favor of peace were expressed. The tacit truce in the Utrecht and Vryheid districts, concludes the correspondent, will expire today.

RELIEF FOR BALDWIN

Auxiliary Expedition to Start Soon For Far North.

NOTED ARCTIC EXPLORERS IN CHARGE

Pole Seeker Baldwin Now Supposed to Be Pressing Northward and Expected to Reach Highest Point In June.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Plans for the auxiliary Baldwin-Ziegler expedition to northern polar regions have been completed, and the men who have been intrusted with its direction and management will shortly leave for Europe. The steamer Frithjof, which, with the America, conveyed the Baldwin party to Franz Josef Land, has been chartered for the work and will depart from Tromso on July 1. The auxiliary expedition will be in charge of W. S. Champ, secretary to William Ziegler, who will sail for Europe on the steamship Cymric on May 23, and the remainder of the party will leave on the steamship Pretoria on June 9.

Mr. Champ and all of his assistants have had experience in the arctic regions, and their special fitness for the work before them was the test in their selection. The Frithjof is now in drydock being made ready for the northern cruise. She will again be commanded by Captain Kjeldsen, whose work in the arctics has been conspicuous.

The Frithjof will go from Tromso to Camp Ziegler, on Alger island, which is in 80:24 north, and there secure the last instructions left by Baldwin. It is believed here that Baldwin has worked to the northward of Alger island and that the America is fast in the ice. When the America is found, an effort will be made to refill her bunkers with coal and work her out of the ice pack. It is thought that Baldwin used the America for winter headquarters and worked north with sledges, establishing caches preparatory for the dash to the pole. Baldwin's associates here are of the opinion that Baldwin began his northern movement for the pole about the middle of February and that he will reach the highest point about the middle of June, and the Frithjof expedition is timed to meet him.

Baldwin has always believed that he would find a drift that would take him out by way of Greenland, but his associates are of the opinion that his return will be across the ice toward Franz Josef Land. Mr. Champ's plan after releasing the America will be to establish a patrol with the hope of picking up the Baldwin party. It is planned to cover a stretch of 150 miles east and west across the route most likely to be taken by Baldwin. It is thought that the patrol can be kept up without danger of imprisoning the America and Frithjof until Sept. 1.

If Baldwin is not found by that time or is not reported from other sources, a party of six men will be left in a winter camp to be established on the west coast of Franz Josef Land for the purpose of patrolling that coast.

New York Shockingly Decent.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Alfred Moseley, the multimillionaire sociologist, who is at the Waldorf-Astoria, says that New York is the cleanest city morally of any city in the world, leaving London away down in the list. He was accompanied through the toughest parts of New York by James B. Reynolds and Detective Sergeant Funston from police headquarters. He desired to see the very worst, and his guides attempted to show him sights the indecency of which has shocked the municipal purists. "I was shocked by their decency in comparison to what exists in London and other large cities," he said.

Admiral Crowninshield's New Post.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Rear Admiral Crowninshield has surrendered the direction of affairs in the bureau of navigation to Rear Admiral Taylor, the new chief, and left Washington for New York to hoist his flag on the battleship Illinois, which will be the flagship of the European squadron and which will sail from New York next Thursday, probably bound for Gibraltar.

Famous Preacher Ill.

LONDON, April 29.—The Rev. Joseph Parker, minister of the City temple, is seriously ill. Dr. Parker was seventy-one years old on April 9 and up to a few days ago was one of the busiest men in all England, being besieged with requests for articles from all sorts of editors. He never writes a sermon, and most of his famous discourses in the City temple have been thought out after he has entered the pulpit.

Boy Wanted to Go to Prison.

MERIDEN, Conn., April 29.—For the second time in two months an incendiary fire broke out in the chair department at the State School For Boys late in the afternoon, but was quickly extinguished by the fire department. Sanford Lockwood, aged eighteen years, confessed to firing the building. When asked for his reason, he said he wanted to go to state prison. Lockwood was arrested.

OLEO BILL AGREED TO

Senate Accepts Amendments. Butter Trust Tax Fails.

CONFEREES AGREE ON EXCLUSION.

Representative Sibley Creates a Sensation In the House by Bitterly Denouncing General Smith, Now on Trial at Manila.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—After a brief discussion the senate agreed to the house amendments to the oleo bill as passed by the senate. The measure now goes to the president for his signature. An effort was made by Mr. Teller (Colo.) to amend the measure so as to levy a tax of 10 per cent on the capital or assets of any butter trust that might be formed, but it was defeated.

Mr. Simmons (N. C.) addressed the senate in opposition to the Philippine government bill. He urged that the Philippines ought to be turned over to the inhabitants of the islands. He denounced the "cruelties and barbarities" alleged to have been committed on the Filipinos by the American army and said that he felt "like calling upon the great, brave and humane man now in the White House to probe these things to the bottom and at least to make them odious."

The conferees on the Chinese exclusion bill have reached a complete agreement on the bill. It strikes out that portion of the senate bill limiting the extension of all existing laws to the life of the present treaty and re-enacts them so far as not inconsistent with treaty obligations until otherwise provided by law and extends the laws to our island territories so far as applicable. It allows Chinese to enter for exposition purposes and retains the provisions regarding certification in the Philippine Islands.

Representative Sibley (Pa.) created something of a sensaton in the house during the general debate on the agricultural appropriation bill by severely denouncing General Jacob H. Smith for the orders he issued in the Samar campaign. He declared that General Smith was a disgrace to the uniform he wore and expressed the hope that the president would strip him of his uniform within forty-eight hours. Mr. Sibley's speech was enthusiastically applauded by the Democrats and was received with some evidences of approval on the Republican side. The speech was considered the more remarkable in that it came from a Republican who left the Democratic party on the issues raised by the Spanish war and who since has been an ardent expansionist. Mr. Williams (Dem. Miss.) indorsed what Mr. Sibley had said.

Upon the conclusion of the general debate slow progress was made with the bill, only twenty-five of the forty-nine pages being disposed of.

A Buffalo Bank Absorbed.

BUFFALO, April 29.—The Manufacturers and Traders' National bank of this city has absorbed the Merchants' bank of Buffalo. The papers have been signed and all arrangements made, and the transfer took place this morning. The Manufacturers and Traders' bank but recently entered the national banking system, increasing its capital stock at that time to $1,000,000. The Merchants' bank was established in 1882 with a capital of $300,000. Its deposits at this time amount to about $1,200,000.

German Hog on the Wane.

BERLIN, April 29.—A compilation of statistics from forty-eight of the leading cities of Germany shows that 361,284 fewer hogs were slaughtered in these cities during the year ended March 31 than in the preceding year. The Butchers' Gazette uses these figures to disprove the statement made before the tariff committee of the reichstag by Count von Posadowsky-Wehner, the imperial secretary of state for the interior, that Germany is fully able to supply the home demand for meat.

The Prodigals Return.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Putnam Bradlee Strong and May Yohe (Lady Francis Hope), whose travels have been interesting chronicles for their friends since they left San Francisco together last July, have completed their tour of the world and arrived, still in company, in this port on the steamship Kaiserin Maria Theresa. They were booked as "Herr Strong" and "Frau Strong." Young Strong refused to answer questions as to his marriage; but hinted at future sensations.

A Banquet to Schley.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 29.—At 9 o'clock last night a banquet of 300 covers was spread in the new Gayoso in honor of Admiral Schley. The guest of the evening was introduced by Hon. William J. Crawford, and in a happy response he congratulated the people of Memphis and the south upon the great progress they were making in recent years. The admiral was cheered to the echo when he resumed his seat.

Burned to Death In His Home.

ROME, N. Y., April 29.—John M. Griffiths, aged fifty-seven, a carpenter, born in Brooklyn, has been burned to death in his home here. Griffiths went to the wood shed and, it is supposed, dropped a lamp. The house was a mass of flames before an alarm was sounded. The body was not found until after the place had been gutted.

Centenarian Under the Knife.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 29.—Mrs. Mary Shepherd, aged 101 years last Christmas, has been successfully operated on at Vassar hospital for a cancer on the back of her hand. She is a widow and has lived in this city over fifty years.

FAST MAIL SAVED.

Towerman Saw Broken Axle and Signaled Train.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 29.—The sharp eye of a signal towerman at Glenwood-on-the-Hudson prevented a possible bad wreck on the New York Central railroad. While the fast mail train No. 43, consisting of eleven cars and bound for the west, was running through Glenwood the axle on one of the big mail cars snapped in the journal box, and the car careened, but did not leave the track.

The operator in tower No. 13 saw fire and wood flying from beneath the train and, noticing that the car had a swerving motion, threw a red flag at the engineer and after wildly waving his hands set the signal in the next block at danger.

The train was stopped after it had run more than a mile. The broken axle smashed several hundred ties into kindling wood and split several rails.

American Jackies In Trouble.

VENICE, Italy, April 29.—Members of the crew of the United States cruiser Chicago, arrested for disorderly conduct here, have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from three to four months each. At their trial in the San Marco police court the prisoners admitted they were intoxicated when the disorders occurred and pleaded that they acted in self defense when mobbed by the crowd. The public prosecutor demanded a sentence of seven months' imprisonment for Assistant Surgeon Ledbetter and sentences of six months' imprisonment for the others. It is understood the prisoners will pay the costs of the trial and compensate the persons who sustained injuries as a result of their disorderly conduct. Two of the injured persons claim $800 each.

Arbitration For Five Years.

CHICAGO, April 29.—The American Newspaper Publishers' association, embracing a large majority of the leading newspapers of the country, has executed agreements for industrial arbitration with the International Typographical union and the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants to continue in force for a period of five years from May 1, 1902. All the mechanical departments of the offices are thus covered. The agreements are confined to the members of the association, and the chief advantage is that industrial peace is secured not only for the term of any local contract, but also for the period between the termination of an old contract and the formation of a new one.

A Mysterious Shooting.

M'COOK, Neb., April 29.—Dr. Walter Rowland of Hermon, Kan., was shot and killed by an unknown person in a small room adjoining the store of G. W. Dull. He had been talking with Mr. Dull, who stepped out of the room. Hearing revolver shots, Mr. Dull returned and found Dr. Rowland dead, shot through the head and stomach. Suicide is declared to have been an impossibility, and the authorities are entirely at sea. Dr. Rowland was widely known in southwestern Nebraska and northern Kansas, where he had lived for years. He was a prominent Mason.

President Palma's Movements.

HAVANA, April 29.—President Elect Estrada Palma has left Bayamo for Manzanillo. At Yara he met General Bartolome Maso, the candidate of the Democratic party for the presidency of Cuba, who withdrew from the campaign, and received an affectionate greeting from him. General Maso pledged his support to the president elect. The reception accorded Senor Estrada Palma at Manzanillo outdid any thus far tendered him. The entire Spanish colony there turned out in his honor.

Sol Smith Russell Dead.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Sol Smith Russell, the actor, is dead here. Mr. Russell had been in poor health for several years. In 1900 he was taken very ill in Chicago, and his physician warned him that he must leave the stage if he expected to regain his health. He retired from a theatrical life, but never fully recovered. Mr. Russell was born at Brunswick, Mo., in 1845. While on the stage he achieved much success in comedy roles of a quaint character.

Lord Beresford's First Move.

LONDON, April 29.—The first official act of Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford (Conservative) after taking the oath in the house of commons was to give notice that he would present a motion to reduce the salaries of Mr. Brodrick, the secretary of state for war, and the Earl of Selborne, first lord of the admiralty, in order to call attention to the lack of direct responsibility in the administration of both the army and the navy.

Cold Wave In Europe.

VIENNA, April 29.—There is an extraordinarily cold wave over the western part of Hungary, the whole of Austria, Bohemia and Galicia. Continuous heavy snowstorms are reported from Galicia, and it is feared that widespread damage will result from the severe weather. The wheat, the vines and the fruit orchards were everywhere in full bloom.

NORTH RIVER TUNNEL.

Work Abandoned Nine Years Since Being Carried Forward.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The work of cleaning away debris in the completed part of the North river tunnel, which was abandoned nine years ago, has been finished, and drillers will be put to work in a few days to complete the tunnel for the New York and New Jersey Railroad company.

The recent survey of the work shows that the entire tunnel will be 5,800 feet long and that 4,200 feet on the New Jersey side and 140 feet on the New York side were completed when the work was abandoned. This leaves but one-quarter of the work to be done.

The New York terminal will be at Greenwich and Christopher streets, where a block of property has been acquired for a union depot for New Jersey trolley companies.

Congressman Cummings Worse.

BALTIMORE, April 29.—The seriousness of the condition of Congressman Amos J. Cummings of New York, who is a patient at the Church home and infirmary in this city, has been augmented by the development of double pneumonia. Several days ago pneumonia developed in one lung, and an examination yesterday by the physicians revealed the fact that the other had become slightly affected. Mr. Cummings is slightly delirious at times, but he is still able to take considerable nourishment, and he rests well. The attending physicians have by no means lost hope of his recovery. The latest complication has, however, given his illness a very serious aspect.

Kidnaped Girl Found.

COLUMBUS, O., April 29.—In regard to the discovery of the whereabouts of little Margaret Taylor, for the kidnaping of whom two women are under sentence in the penitentiary, Governor Nash stated that a friend of his had accidentally discovered the little girl. The governor declined to say where she is, because that would possibly prevent the return of the child to Cincinnati. He said, however, that she was a long way from Columbus when seen two weeks ago. He further stated that there is no understanding in regard to a pardon for the women in consideration for the return of the child so far as he was concerned.

Educational Company Organized.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The senate has passed a bill "to incorporate the general education board to promote education in the United States." The incorporators are William H. Baldwin, Jr.; J. L. H. Curry, Frederick T. Gates, Daniel C. Gilman, Morris K. Jesup, Robert C. Ogden, Walter H. Page, George Foster Peabody and Albert Shaw. The object of the incorporators is the promotion of education in the United States. The bill gives the board power to acquire property, obtain grants, gifts, etc. The principal offices are to be in the District of Columbia.

Another Petty Revolution.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, April 29.—Advices received here from Porto Plata, a seaport on the north coast of Santo Domingo, say Santiago is the center of the revolutionary disturbance which is directed by Vice President Horatio Vasquez. It is believed here that the revolution will probably be suppressed by the Dominican government forces.

Wage Scale Adopted by the Amalgamated Association.

FEW CHANGES FROM LAST YEAR.

New Scale Will Be In Force Until July 1, 1903—Convention's Progress Indicates an Early Adjournment.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 29.—The Amalgamated association has witnessed two interesting events. One was the partial ratification of the wage scale committee's report, and the other was the return of Thomas H. Flynn, the Federation of Labor organizer, to renew his request to be allowed the privilege of replying to President Shaffer's attack upon the organization of which Samuel Gompers is the head.

The convention assembled at 9 o'clock in the morning and at once took up the report of the wage committee. Good progress was made throughout the morning, and before the hour came for the noon recess over half the wage scale had been disposed of. After dinner its consideration was resumed, and by 4 o'clock the entire report was disposed of. The report of the committee on presidents and other officers' reports was then taken up, and the convention was still on it when it adjourned for the day.

The official report given out by the press committee was that the entire scale as reported by the wage committee had been ratified with a few "slight alterations." What the "slight alterations" were the press committee refused to divulge. They did say, however, that on the whole the consideration of the report was harmonious and that it was disposed of in one day. This, they said, showed that it was entirely acceptable to the great majority of the delegates. The ratification of scales is another victory for President Shaffer and his policy.

The new scales as ratified are practically the same as those effective last year. They will be in force until July 1, 1903. No conference with manufacturers will be necessary after the conventions. The scales with the independent mills will be signed by the district vice presidents. The convention's progress indicates that it will clean up its business by tomorrow.

Drought Stricken Farmers Need Aid.

KANSAS CITY, April 29.—The Star prints an appeal for money, food, clothing or feed for stock from the drought stricken farmers of Fulton county, Ark., on the Missouri line. The appeal is from Pilot, Ark., and is signed by J. A. Martin, president of the Myatt Relief society, who asks that all donations be addressed to that association at Manimoth Springs, Ark. The farmers who lost their crops during last year's terrific heat passed a strenuous winter, spring finding them practically destitute, and now they appeal for aid to tide them over till their spring crops shall be gathered.

More Boers Out of Action.

LONDON, April 29.—The war office has made public the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener, at Pretoria: "Since April 21, twenty-five Boers have been killed, seventy-eight have been taken prisoners and twenty-five surrendered. There has been desultory fighting in various sections of the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony. The garrison at O'okiep, Cape Colony, successfully held out until it was relieved by the columns."

The Ogden Party's Tour.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 29.—Robert C. Ogden and party arrived here from Calhoun, Ala., twenty-seven miles south of here. A committee of business men met the party at the railway station. The visitors were driven direct to the state capitol, where they were welcomed by Governor Jelks. The party was taken to the State Normal School For Negroes, an institution which has a thousand pupils and is maintained by the state.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Ellen M. Stone, the missionary who was for weeks the captive of Bulgarian brigands, lectured last night in the Broadway Tabernacle. This is the last meeting which will ever be held in this old church. Preparations had been made to start the work of demolishment yesterday, but it was postponed to enable Miss Stone to lecture.

Large Cargo of Seals.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 29.—The sealing steamer Wairus has returned here from the icefields with 17,000 seals on board. This is one of the heaviest cargoes brought in this season. Four other sealing steamers still remain out, but should return here by the end of the week. The total catch of seals this year should reach 270,000.

Twelve Hotels Burned.

NEW YORK, April 29.—A fire at South Beach, Staten Island, has destroyed twelve hotels and other houses. South Beach is a summer resort, and the houses destroyed extended along the beach of lower New York bay for a distance of 1,200 feet. The first estimates of the loss place it at $150,000.

FIRST FIRE ALARM.

Twenty-five years ago tonight, at 8:25, the first fire alarm ever sent over a wire was pulled from box 7 in Boston. Charles Carlton Coffin, who made a reputation as a war correspondent and writer of histories, received the strokes at fire headquarters and then sent them along the bells in the towers throughout the city; today there is not a city or town of any size in this country or Europe that does not depend on the telegraph system to announce the location of a blaze.

Dr. William F. Channing was the inventor of the new system, in 1839, when the success of Prof. S. M. B. Morse's invention of telegraphy became established. Associated with him was Prof. Moses G. Farmer, of Salem, Mass., the inventor of most of the machines and appliances used, and the electrician who put it into operation and made it successful. Prof. Farmer devised a machine in 1847 for striking fire alarms on tower bells by applying electrical attachments to a tower clock striking apparatus. This was the first machine ever devised for striking fire alarms by electricity.

It required a year to construct the first system, owing to the few electricians who were skilled workmen and experiments that has to be made with much of the machinery used. The signal boxes had to be rebuilt before they could be used at all. Its entire cost was about $15,000, the original estimate being $7,596.60. Prof. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph, received $800 for a license to use his patents.

The management of the Plainfield High School baseball nine has been particularly unfortunate this spring in having two teams call off their games at the last moment. Both were from reputable schools and the local management can in no way be blamed for this failure on the part of the opposing team to show up. It was an unfortunate circumstance but one which the friends of the team will have to forgive as it would be manifestly unfair to make the local school team suffer for that for which it is in no way to blame.

The local Young Men's Chrisian Association has been a powerful factor in encouraging the young men of the city to develop their bodies as well as their minds. The gymnasium there has been the means of leading hundreds to better health and strength. The award of medals for the various gymnastic and indoor athletic contests held during the winter is a very commendable plan in that it offers some tangible reward for careful and conscientious training.

In all the local churches, there has been no more faithful organist than Arthur L. Titsworth, who has just celebrated the completion of twenty years of service at the Trinity Reformed church. There have been few Sundays during that time that he has been missing from his accustomed place in front of the organ. His services have earned for him the deserved praise of the members of that congregation as well as his other friends.

After the rather disastrous opening of the season for the local baseball league clubs, the nines, which are to eventually contest for the championship of the city, made a better showing. After a few more weeks of play, the crack teams will steady down into their old form and some good baseball will be the result.

In another column of this issue will be found an appeal for donaions for the spring sale of the Plainfield Relief Association. These sales are nothing more or less than small rummage sales and they deserve the hearty support and co-operation of the people of Plainfield.

The golf season has opened in Plainfield. The day was not an auspicious one for the sport but much interest was taken and there is every prospect that the coming season will be a very successful one.

There was a generous response, indeed, when the call was made for the "rummage sale" and this call should receive equally as much attention.

In a hotly contested game on the Arlington avenue grounds, yesterday afternoon, the Washington Stars were badly defeated by the Whittier School Juniors. The score was close for the first few innings but the Juniors drew ahead by superior batting and made it 18 to 5 at the close.

Irving VanWinkle was in the box for the Juniors and put up a great game, letting only three men walk. He was caught in great shape by Lawrence Mallinson. The Star's battery was composed of VanWinkle and Thickstun, pitchers, and Rogers, catcher. Features of the game were seven home runs, four of which were made by Junior men and three by the Stars.

Mehler, proprietor of the Union Bottling Works, Erie, Pa., "and tried all kinds of remedies, went to several doctors and spent considerable money trying to get a moment's peace. Finally I read of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have been taking it to my great satisfaction. I never found its equal for stomach trouble and gladly recommend it in hope that I may help other sufferers." COUNTY TEACHERS' MEETING.

Somerset County Association Will Meet at Bernardsville, May 17.

The Somerset County Teachers' Association will meet Saturday, May 17, at Bernardsville. The programme will be commenced at 11 o'clock, and will be as follows:

Diagraming as a means of language instruction, its forms explained and illustrated, by Willett Near, Basking Ridge; discussion and questions; reading and the preparation for it. (Treated from point of view of teacher who has many classes and very limited time); discussion and questions; intermission and meeting of nominating committee; how teachers can keep themselves fit, by Gaius Hoffman; discussion and questions. If time permits there will be a general discussion on "What to Omit in Arithmetic," unless some other questions are submitted at the meeting, Report of nominating committee; report of treasurer.

A. G. Balcolm, principal of the Franklin school at Newark, will address the meeting. FEW GOT HIS AUTOGRAPH.

Prince Henry Disappointed Many of the Fiends Who Tried to Get His Signature.

Prince Henry while here was naturally asked often for his autograph, but it is estimated that not more than 100 persons succeeded in getting it. Most of the requests came by mail.

The prince, who had met the autograph fiends on the other side, decided to give his autograph only to certain individuals. These were the president of the society or club of which he was the guest and one or two of those nearest him at table. To this rule he persistently adhered, states the New York Sun.

At all the dinners at which the prince was a guest in this city, and elsewhere requests for his autograph were sent to him in large numbers, most of them in notes addressed to him through the presiding officer. Not a few of these requests were made personally.

The prince always took pains to inform those who presided at the dinner of the rule he had made, and left it to him to explain it to the applicants. In accordance with the rule he made for himself he always wrote his autograph on the menu card of the presiding officer and of those nearest him at table, sometimes extending it so that perhaps five or six persons had the favor shown to them at the head table.

Had he complied with all the requests made of him, it was said by a person who was with him and knew about his mail, he would not have had time to do anything else throughout his visit but write his signature.

SUFFERER SETTLES FOR FIRE

In Europe the Law Holds to Account, Persons Whose Carelessness Is the Cause.

Fire Chief Dutton, of Washington, was seated in his office a few days ago when he received a report of a fire. The blaze had been a disastrous one and the chief was naturally interested in the matter of its origin.

"Does the report state that an overheated stove caused the fire?" he inquired.

"I think it does," he was informed.

"It's a pretty good thing for the owner of the property that he lives in the United States," added the chief, "and not in one of the foreign countries. If he lived in Germany, for instance, the fire would prove rather expensive for him."

"Why so?" he was asked.

"He would have to pay the expense of the run made by the fire department," the chief explained, says the Washington Star, "and unless he paid the money the amount would be charged as a lien against his property. Such is the law in several countries. The law holds to account in this way all persons whose carelessness or negligence causes work for the fire department."

RED CAPE IN LION HOUSE.

Something That Always Causes the Keeper a Great Deal of Uneasiness.

Waving a red rag at a bull, according to a keeper at the Philadelphia zoological gardens, is no more likely to make trouble than exhibiting a red rag to a hungry lion. The keeper explained his grievance to a Record reporter.

"I shall be glad when that youngster gets out of here," he said. "Notice how uneasy the animals are? It's that red cape she's wearing. Feeding-time is a long way off, but that cape looks enough like a piece of raw meat to get the animals excited.

"Watch that old lioness follow the youngster along the front of the cage. You would think she was going to jump through the bars. That girl has been all along the row and has got the whole house worked up. Whenever the animals are hungry a red object sets them going. Listen to the snarling! If that red cape hadn't come along they'd be taking things easy, waiting for dinner-time, but now they'll chafe and fret and work themselves into a fit.

"It's always that way when people wearing something red come through the house."

—Frank McDonald's new home on Watchung avenue is nearing completion. He expects to occupy it in the near future.

What Is Said and Done in the World of Sports and Athletes

WESTERN COLLEGE outdoor rowing work began this season two weeks earlier than usual. The Badger candidates, under the direction of Coach Andy O'Dea, actually broke the ice in the lake at Madison, Wis., to get their pair-oared boats into the long stretches of clear water. There was too much ice for the regular eight-oared shells, and in order not to be blamed for many duckings which certainly would have followed the "Washington-crossing-the-Delaware" experiences of the shells in the floating floes, the coach began outdoor work with the small boats.

Why this haste in getting college boys out in scanty clothing and thin sweaters? Wisconsin is one of the western universities that will send crews east this year, and with fair hopes of success. The eastern crews have an advantage over the western eights. The former gets at least six weeks the best of the start in open water work. According to Coach O'Dea, the Badgers this season by their close application to work on the stationary glycerin machines in the gymnasium have succeeded in surmounting many difficulties, and have made up for the handicap of the late start.

"It does not hurt a candidate for the crew to row among ice floes," laughingly remarked O'Dea, while discussing the work of his oarsmen. "Before I came to this country I made a trip to the shores of Siberia and watched the young natives learning to paddle their skin-covered kyacks. The latter would have been punctured easily by the ice but for the dexterity of the youths in warding off floating ice. In my opinion, if an undergraduate of a university takes enough interest in his alma mater to get out in the spring, as they did at Madison, row in icy waters and against biting north winds, he attains certain heights in character that will distinguish him in after life when battling against the world. In short, it takes nerve, stamina, grit and determination together with a big supply of loyalty, to undergo the rigorous training required in early spring work for crew honors."

MEMORIES of billiards of 30 years ago were revived recently in the storeroom of a big billiard supply house when workmen rescued from the dark corner, a billiard table that had lain there covered with dust for three decades.

"What shall we do with this old table?" asked an employe.

"Oh, break it up and save the mahogany for veneers," was the reply. "Don't you want to see what a billiard crank of many years ago spent his money on?" the foreman asked. I was glad of the opportunity to do some investigating.

The table was brought out into the light. The material was as good as ever, but the cloth had long since faded and become threadbare. Built as near round as the expert cabinet makers of that day could do the work, and equipped with a cushion that had to be made expressly for this style of table, it looked every inch a "veteran."

"Some time after the war," ventured the foreman, "a billiard student became possessed of the idea that great sport might be had with a circular table and cushion. Doubtless he was dreaming of some such thing as balk line. He pressed his idea on the players of that time, but they all decried the plan. 'There'll be no angles,' said one expert. 'You would never-be able to make the same shot twice alike,' was the criticism of another. 'What's the matter with the four-cornered table?' asked another.

But the crank was not to be rebuffed that easily. He ordered the round table, and this house agreed to furnish it equipped as well as any table turned out. Everything used in the circular table had to be made to order, and of course that brought the price up to a fancy figure. But with the persistence of a man who expounds the Baconian theory, this billiard genius footed the bills and impatiently called for haste in getting the table ready for the exposition game.

"Well, the table was set up in the store and elegantly-printed invitations were sent out to all the leading billiard men and writers to attend the 'trial.' The latter, needless to say, was a failure. No one could make a good shot. There were no angles of incidence and deflection—that is, none that any ordinary man could see, and the ball had the habit of richochetting about the green cloth as if possessed of magic powers.

"To the good name of the forgotten crank it must be said that he paid all of the bills and, disheartened and subdued, left the city. The table was stored, 'to be called for.' But as 30 years have passed, and no one has called for the table, it will be broken up."

A few minutes later the workman with a chisel and a mallet and with no sentiment in his soul, had torn off the moldings and was speedily dismantling the strange creation of wood, slate, rubber, etc.

IN THE great outdoor athletic meet of the best college athletes of the west there is to be a struggle for points in the pole vault that will cause little surprise if it results in a world's record. Jerome Magee, the wonderful vaulter of the University of Chicago, who recently dislocated his shoulder which may prevent his competing at the time, and Charles Dvorak, of Michigan, stand without equals in the western college world, say the critics. Each has his eye on the high mark set by Clapp, of Yale. Each athlete is credited with marks considerably over 11 feet in practice. Magee recently startled his fellow athletes by clearing the bar at 11 feet five inches. Dvorak was one of the athletes who went to Paris to compete in the Olympian games, and it is said of him that one reason for his great success in pole vaulting is that his heart is able to keep thumping under the increasing pressure of numerous trials without becoming troublesome.

Those who have watched Dvorak's work over the bar in outdoor meets say he has the strength of wrist that gives him an advantage just as he is clearing the bar. Keene Fitzpatrick the Michigan trainer, they say, developed this requisite in the sturdy little fellow.

But Magee does not depend upon that slight, quick and jerky movement while the body is partially suspended over the bar. He has a style that seems to be distinctively his own. About six feet tall, he weighs when in fine training, about 145 pounds. He has an extremely well developed chest and great strength in his arms. Taking a long run before the take-off, he really is going much faster toward the uprights than the spectators think. Then, raising the pole slightly from the waist-high position, he plants it near the line of the uprights, and swinging up, throws his feet far above his head. As if for a moment, he seems to be poised in midair. Then the feet start downward, and a wonderful twitch of the trunk occurs. This side motion, given with the regularity of clockwork, raised the body the extra distance needed to clear the bar without striking it.

When the conference meet causes the greatest outpouring of college athletes the west has ever known, many will miss the treat of the meet—the pole vault—because of the constant trials over the bar at all sorts of ridiculous heights, necessitating monotonous work. All efforts to get the authorities who govern the annual college carnival to start the vault at, say ten feet, have failed. True this would shut out all but the best, but after all, it is only the man who succeeds in clearing the bar at the best marks that is considered in the records. The followers of athletics cheer the winner and have scant time for the "also rans." On the other hand, there are none so willing to extend congratulations to the "dark horse" from some comparatively unknown team who succeeds in lowering the colors of the crack athletes, as the followers of college sports.

SAVED BY RED COAT.

Engineer Mistook Baby's Cloak for Danger Signal and Stopped Train Just in Time.

Engineer David Whitsell was bringing Burlington train No. 186, Conductor Everett Dyer, from Lyons to Denver, Col., the other afternoon. It was a heavy freight carrying stone and coal. At a rapid pace the engineer was guiding it to Lafayette. The grade permits of big speed and No. 186 was making time, dashing past nine buildings and a few houses scattered on the outskirts of the town.

Rounding a curve, W. J. Fickler, who was acting as brakeman and was riding in the cab, grabbed Whitsell's arm.

MOTHER SEIZED HER BABY.

From the cab window Fickler had seen a red flag, the signal of danger, waving down the track. The distance was probably 800 feet. The engineer with all haste applied the air and reversed the lever. The heavy train responded with a jar and rumble, and, sliding with ever-decreasing speed, came to a stop within 20 feet of a little child, a girl of about two years of age, wearing a red cloak with a lace collar.

The child was standing between the rails as if rooted there, gazing at the locomotive with the liveliest curiosity. It was the color of the cloak, a mere speck of red in the converging lines of steel, that had saved her from death under the wheels. As the train was slowing up, Whitsell gave the whistle leeway and with hoarse screams and the bell tried to frighten the child into a realization of her danger. There was a horrible fear in the hearts of both men that the train would not stop in time.

The whistle attracted the attention of the inmates of a miner's house near the track. A woman ran swiftly to the track, seized the child in the red cloak, kissed it as she hugged it to her breast, burst into weeping as she carried her lustily crying burden down the slight embankment. She forgot to thank the train crew, but that didn't matter. They were used to stopping at danger signals.

SWAIN WAS BASHFUL.

Young Missourian Informs Preacher That He Was Bent on "Committing Matrimony."

"I want to commit matrimony!" Dr. E. L. Powell, in the Louisville Courier Journal, tells the story of a bashful Missouri swain who blurted out this sentence in one of his mad endeavors to make his desires known. It was in the early years of the ministry of Dr. Powell, when he had a charge in Missouri in the good old days before every Missourian had to be "shown." There came to his home one morning a gawky individual, who disjointed, so to speak, as he bowed himself into the presence of the preacher.

"I-er-er-want er-er-er—" and he took a big swallow at the lump in his throat, but, like Banquo's ghost, it would not down.

Dr. Powell knew what was coming, but he gave his tall caller no encouragement.

The more the fellow tried to get out of the scrape the more entangled he became. He would lead up to the subject and would be on the verge of imparting the momentous information, when a break would come in his voice and he would shift his talk to weather. Finally in sheer desperation he managed to jerk out the words:

"Parson, I want to commit matrimony."

The teeth came together with a gnash, as he bit off the last word. The sentence came as a life preserver.

A kindly twinkle in Dr. Powell's eye brought the Missourian back to earth and arrangements for the ceremony were forthwith made.

Dr. Powell says he has heard of committing murder, but committing matrimony was a new one on him.

EXPENSE OF DRESSING.

Are Blouses Out of Style?—Boned Waistbands.

Waistbands are mostly wide, but boned and fashioned so that they form a corselet, a very pretty fashion when the bolero or blouse comes full above it.

On every side it is asked if the blouse will ever be considered out of style. This garment will live as long as fashion herself. While the corset continues as soft and comfortable as it is at present, we may be quite certain that we shall never care for boned, stiff linings, and is not a soft, graceful, uncompressed appearance much more generally becoming?

What a luxury loving nation we are getting, especially we women. I suppose this is the reason why we so often fail to make both ends of a dress allowance meet. It is not the actual frocks themselves, but the hundred and one accessories, which seem so difficult to obtain without a goodly supply of ready money. Apart from the fancy for white or pale gray gloves, which are de rigueur at the moment, there are all sorts of fascinating little dress fads.

For instance, the white tulle bow (which is another thing which never goes out of fashion), the ethereal ruffles with rose petals flung thereon, the white spotted veil, the many dainty chiffon blouses and white lawn shirts, not to speak of such trifles as silk petticoats, up to date coiffures, manicure and aides de beaute in general, cost more, far more, than the mere casual observer would imagine.

We require at least $500 per annum for the accessories of the toilet before we begin to think of the necessities.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PICTURE HATS.

The Latest Innovations In Sleeves. New Embroideries.

The picture hats are quite the most beautiful in mode has ever seen. The extraordinary predominance of lace may account for this. For the moment flowers are a little more popular than feathers, but that is always the case when we are anxious to welcome the first signs of spring, though in reality the perfect picture hat is incomplete without its ostrich plumes.

Of great interest to the ardent student of fashion are the alterations that sleeves are undergoing. There seems to be a charming impartiality regarding the manipulation of the same. Some dressmakers are making them full at the top, sometimes full all the way down, while other leading authorities declare they should be as plain and as flat as possible at the top and very puffing below the elbow. A happy compromise is the prettiest. In light materials it is a charming idea to insert lace or embroidery down the sleeve but it is never best to cut up the arm into several pieces and thereby ruin its shape.

A good many tailor made gowns are showing lovely embroideries in very delicate shades, with a touch here and there of gold and silver. Particularly do we note this in the Russian blouse with the new short basque. Pale green and mauve in pastel tones are distinctly de rigueur for cloth frocks, but for morning wear the mixed snowflake tweeds predominate. Glace looks better on the latter, whereas embroideries are more suited to cloths.

Dingle wagged his head decidedly and led the way out of the building. Two minutes later the red wheeled gig was making record time in the direction of Concord.

CHAPTER XVI.

Of all life's mystery the mystery of pain is the most profound and baffling. Men on the battlefield have been wounded most horribly and have yet thought, at the first of it, that they were injured only slightly, if at all.

It was so with Guy. When the bullet entered his side his suffering was no more than would have come from a pin prick and great was his surprise to feel the quick weakness, the sudden sapping of his stength, the dizzy whirl of everything about him. As he plunged headlong to the ground the darkness closed in and left not the faintest ray of reason.

This status was not of long duration and for some time before he opened his eyes he was conscious of a gentle forward motion as though he was being carried. Voices were borne to him, too—the sturdy voices of men with another, soft and musical in spite of its undertone of indignation and reproof. The softer voice thrilled him to his heart's core. He did not mind the pain so much, although it was steady and intense. The realization that Miss Betty was near was as a balm to him, body and soul. Looking out from between his partly opened lids he discovered that he was being carried on a blanket by six men. Others of the company rode and led the horses of those who were acting as bearers. A little to the left rode Capt. Blue with Miss Betty, mounted on a fine spirited horse, at his side.

"What right had you," Miss Betty was saying, "to ride out of Concord with these armed men? What is your excuse for doing that, Capt. Blue?"

"We feared reprisals on account of the courthouse," answered the captain, stiffly, for to be taken to task by Miss Betty was sorely against the grain. "We were scouting, that's all. Just scouting."

"The moment I heard that you had trooped out along the Concord road I galloped after you," went on Miss Betty. "Oh, I wish, I wish, I had come up with you in time to prevent this terrible meeting!" She looked toward Guy, poignant regret showing in every line of her face. "He would not have been hurt if I had. I have felt all along that something terrible would happen before we secured our rights in this county seat fight. I have tried my best to keep you from violence and you, Capt. Blue, have disregarded my expressed wish, my strongest command. Who was it fired the shot that wounded Mr. Herbert?"

"The other side fired the first shot," replied the captain, evasively.

"I know that, for I was close enough to see it. But that shot did no harm, and was no excuse for the fusillade which you returned. You were three times the number of the other side and they were fleeing as fast as their horses could carry them. My question was not answered, Capt. Blue. Can you tell me whose bullet struck Mr. Herbert?"

"No one could tell you that, Miss Vlandingham. A dozen shots were fired simultaneously and it would be impossible to tell which did the work."

"We will inquire into that later. I am going to push on so as to have the doctor at our house and to make ready for Mr. Herbert. See that you bring him as quickly and as easily as you can."

She darted from the captain's side at top speed and was quickly lost to sight.

"How is he getting along?" asked Capt. Blue riding close to the men who were carrying Guy.

"He hasn't fliezed an eyelid," replied Barney, who was one of the six and who imagined that he had been watching Guy very closely.

"You're mistaken, Barney," spoke up Guy, his eyes wide open.

"How do you feel, Herbert?" inquired the captain in tones of inexpressible relief.

"As well as can be expected, captain." Guy lifted himself slightly and saw that his coat and vest were unbottoned and that, tight across his wound and over his blood-stained shirt had been bound a scarf of silk. "Whose house is that over there?" he asked, pointing.

"That's Sile Whittaker's place," answered the captain.

"Take me there, please," said Guy, dropping back on the blanket.

"We've got orders to carry you to Harmony, to the squire's," returned the captain.

"It seems to me that I am the one who ought to be consulted," murmured Guy, weakly.

He was in much pain but he could probably have weathered out the longer journey to the squire's had circumstances been different. Just now he preferred any other haven than Willowview.

"See here, Herbert," demurred the captain, his brow wrinkled perplexedly, "Miss Vlandingham has gone on to make things ready for your reception at the house. She's going to have a doctor there, too. If I don't bring you I'll be raked over the coals and I think I've had more than my share of that already. Put yourself in my place, can't you?"

"Put yourself in mine, captain," said Guy, his eyes closed and his face twitching with pain.

The captain felt that he understood then. Herbert was not able to be carried farther than Whittaker's.

"Major," said the captain to a man who reared above the saddle like Don Quixote over the back of Rozinante, "ride on to the squire's and tell Miss Betty that Herbert gave out and we couldn't get him past Whittaker's. Bring the doctor post haste."

"Correct, cap'n," was the response which the major shook out of himself. Relinquishing to a companion the horse he was leading, he rattled his spurs and was off at speed.

Only a few minutes were required to carry Guy to Whittaker's shack. Whittaker was a bachelor and immediately came forth to welcome the Invincibles.

"What you got there, Blue?" he asked, nodding his head toward Guy.

"A wounded man, Whittaker."

"I heard shootin' off south, a spell ago. Did he get in the way of it?"

"Yes. We had orders to take him on to the squire's but he doesn't feel able to travel any further. Will you take him in?"

"Not if he's one of your folks," blustered Whittaker, whose house was just then on the Concord side of the farm.

"Well, he's a Concord man," said the captain, grimly.

"All rigth, then. Sile Whittaker is with the under dog every time, and if he's from Concord he's welcome to the best I've got. Bring him in, bring him right in."

Sile Whittaker's shack was small and its furniture, what there was of it, was very primitive, but the young man could not have been made more of had the house been a palace and Sile Whittaker a grandee.

After seeing that Guy was as comfortable as possible, Capt. Blue and his Invincibles galloped away, leaving Barney behind to be of what assistance he could.

They had not been gone long before Miss Betty came, accompanied by her father and a sober-appearing gentleman who carried a medicine case under his arm. Miss Betty was first in the room where Guy lay.

"Are you better, Mr. Herbert?" she asked, halting beside the bed and looking down at him.

"I shall do well enough, Miss Vlandingham, thank you," answered Guy.

"I hope so," she said, formally, after bending her blue eyes on him for a space. Then she turned to her father and his companion, who were just entering. "Mr. Herbert says he thinks he will get along all right, father," she added.

"Glad to hear that," responded Mr. Vlandingham, heartily. Stepping up to the bed he reached down and pressed Guy's hand. "I'm sorry, confoundedly sorry, this has happened, Herbert," he went on. "Our people were getting carried away but I guess this little incident will bring them up with a round turn. Too bad, though, that you had to be the victim." Vlandingham addressed himself to the man who had entered the room with him. "Dr. Larkin, this is Mr. Herbert. Please tell us what you think of his wound."

If one might judge from the way he went about his work, Dr. Larkin knew his business thoroughly.

"You're worth a dozen dead men, Mr. Herbert," smiled the doctor, turning away to open his medicine case and draw out some lint and bandages and a polished probe. "You'll have to lie still for a few days and take life quietly for some time after you get up and around." He laid the lint and bandages to one side and drew a chair close to the bedside. "I'm going to hurt you now," he resumed, leaning

"ARE YOU BETTER, MR. HERBERT?"

over. "I know exactly where that bullet is and it's got to come out, you know."

"Go ahead," said Guy.

FRIEND OF AMERICA.

New Chilian Minister Is Persona Grata at Washington.

Senor Walker-Martinez, Cleverest of South American Diplomats, Began His Public Career as a Journalist.

The Chilian legation has long been a notable one at the American capital. The little republic, besides its mines and cattle, is rich in great men, and some of its most eminent sons have been sent as representatives to that greater republic which all the nations of South America are coming to regard as a kind of sympathetic older sister. The new Chilian minister, Don Joaquin Walker-Martinez, is one of the most noted statesmen of the country which he represents, and at the recent Pan-American congress in Mexico, to which he was a delegate, added to his reputation as a shrewd and sound legislator that of a brilliant debater.

Mr. Walker-Martinez began life, like so many of the successful politicians of the day, as a journalist, and by the vigor of his work, his high ideals, the stand he took on current questions, attracted the attention of his party, and he was asked to stand as a delegate to the house of deputies, where, in 1891, he was one of the most active and devoted workers in the fight between President Balmaceda and the congress. For this efficient service he was appointed minister of finance of the recently created government board, which portfolio he later on exchanged for that of minister of war, being present at the hotly contested battles of Concon and Placilla, where his party triumphed.

Victory being assured, Mr. Walker-Martinez was one of the first of the ministers to return to the capital, where he assumed charge of the cabinet until the return of his colleagues from the seat of hostilities, and in the reestablishing and reorganizing of the government took an active and intelligent part. No official worked more zealously or with greater devotion for the credit of his party than Mr. Walker-Martinez at this crucial time, and his service was abundantly recognized by the grateful people, who presented the young statesman with a country home near the capital, whither he retired to enjoy a well deserved rest and to recuperate from the exacting work and the strain he had been under during the civil trouble.

Mr. Walker-Martinez finally abandoned his retreat to establish a daily paper, El Constitutional, through w ose columns he criticised the methods, policy and some of the acts of his former party associates, further marking his disapproval of their course by an alliance with the independent party. His diplomatic career began in 1896 with his appointment as minister to Brazil, a delicate post, since between the country to which he was accredited and that which he represented there had existed a coolness, owing to the fact that Chili was supposed to sympathize with the dethroned emperor, Dom Pedro. With the tact and astuteness which had marked his whole official career, the new minister succeeded in reestablishing friendly relations between the two republics, and for this signal service was transferred to Argentina, where a like duty awaited him, the relations between Chili and that country having been strained almost to breaking.

His mission accomplished inBuenos Ayres, Mr. Walker-Martinez returned to his own country to become a candidate of the independent party for member of the house of deputies, to which place he was elected by an overwhelming majority. In that body his former successes were repeated, and shortly after his inauguration President Riesco appointed Mr. Walker-Martinez to the vacant post at Washington, naming him at the same time a delegate to the Pan-American congress, where he played a most important role, joining his colleagues in supporting the policy of the United States, and contributing to the passing of the most satisfactory resolution regarding arbitration. The new minister from Chili is a handsome man of the Spanish type, between 40 and 50 years old. His bearing is gracious, his manner genial and he has a fluent knowledge, which will add to his usefulness in his work here. Mme. Walker-Martinez, a woman of many agreeable qualities, and his four children accompanied the minister to Washington, where he will shortly establish a legation.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

Saturday's game for the Plainfield High School will probably be with Hasbrouck Institute, of Jersey City.

Tomorrow afternoon the Plainfield High School team will go against the Vacqueu nine from Princeton University.

The Cuban Giants will play Hope Chapel on the latter's grounds, Saturday afternoon. Manager P. J. Simmons, of the Giants, has a stronger team this year than before, and would be glad to fill in a few open dates with good teams.

The Westfield Baseball Club will open the season Saturday with the strong Cuban Giant team. The local management expect a big crowd to be in attendance. A game has been arranged with the Y. M. C. A. team, of Plainfield, to be played on the local grounds Saturday, May 31.

Manager Muir, of the Safe Works aggregation, has received several applications for a game Saturday, but so far has made no choice. The Fort Wadsworth Soldiers' team is anxious to come and state they will bring a detachment of soldiers with them if a match can be arranged. The Somerville A. C. is also clamoring for a date, the game to be played either in this city or on the home grounds.

Manager Nomer, of the Plainfield High School baseball team, is somewhat puzzled by the actions of the manager of the team from Westerleigh Institute, with whom a game was arranged for last Saturday. Soon after noon a telegram was received saying that it was desired to call the game off, and that a letter would explain the action. Thus far no additional word has been received from him.

GOLF.

There is sure to be much interest throughout the season in the weekly competition for the Boys cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. Play will begin next Saturday.

Eugene McCarthy, the new caddy master for the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, arrived yesterday from New York, and took charge at once. Edward Lord, the steward, will have everything in readiness this week for next Saturday.

Miss Minnie Zimmerman, of New Brunswick, who recently completed her musical studies in Germany, will be piano soloist at the sacred concert to be given by the Willing Workers in the Trinity Reformed church this evening.

Funeral of Jacob Gaub Largely Attended Yesterday — The Floral Tributes.

Representatives of the Gesang and Turn Verein, as well as the A. O. U. W., besides many friends, yesterday afternoon attended the funeral of Jacob Gaub, at his late home, 169 Duer street. Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, assisted by the Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, of the Congregational society, conducted the services, which were simple but impressive.

There was an elaborate display of floral pieces, chief among which was a large tribute by the A. O. U. W., which represented the shield of the order with their emblem worked in immortelles, and a piece of like kind from the German Society. The family's offering was a magnificent piece of roses, smilax, violets and carnations, with "father" worked in the centre.

Singing was furnished by the societies of which the deceased had been a member, led by Prof. Eichorn, of Elizabeth, and the eight bearers were selected from the same organizations. At the grave in Evergreen M. E. cemetery Rev. Mr. Hauser offered prayer.

DASHED ACROSS FIELDS.

Runaway of Spirited Team Which Wrecked the Wagon.

A spirited team of horses, owned and driven by Fred Bettman, of Willow avenue, ran away from him yesterday morning, on East Front street, near Coles' hill. They galloped toward this city and near Johnston avenue took to the fields.

The horses were stopped on the steps of the front porch of Peter Wahl's house. The wagon was left behind, with the shafts broken and damaged otherwise. Bettman retained his seat and was uninjured.

Injured at Work.

While handling a heavy steel rail at the Pond Machine Tool Works, this morning, Michael Gartland, of South avenue, suffered a severe injury to his foot. The rail fell on his foot and crushed several toes. The man was taken to the hospital in a carriage.

AN ENTHUSISTIC EVANGELIST

MR. PRATT CONTINUES THE GOOD WORK AT MONROE AVE. CHURCH.

Services Yesterday Afternoon and Last Night—His Topics on Each Occasion—Was Assisted.

Speaking, last night, from the text "He saved others Himself He cannot save," Mr. Pratt at the Monroe Avenue church said that this sneer of the Jewish persecutors was true.

Christ saved others Himself He would not save. No man who seeks to spare himself can ever save others. The worldly man says: "Take good care of yourself." Christ said: "Take good care of others." He did it while living. He did by His death.

"We must give ourselves up for others. That is the law of nature. The old sun shining day after day is wearing himself out to furnish life for the vegetable and animal world."

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Pratt continued the Bible study on the subject of "The Work of the Holy Spirit in the life of the Believer."

"The Holy spirit enables us to consecrate—then cleanses, fills and renders us fit for service—and we receive the first blessing and the second blessing as we seek to be a blessing to others. Mr. Pratt spoke again at 8 o'clock.

The mineral kingdom surrenders itself to sustain vegetable life. The grasses, the grains give themselves up to furnish food for the animal kingdom. The animals give themselves for the use of man. No man ought to take in everything and give forth nothing.

How little capacity has the thoroughly mean and selfish man for enjoyment. In one of the cities of Italy there is a place where birds are blinded, put in cages, hung up in trees, the limbs of trees covered with tar, the doleful singing of the cage birds draws other birds, they become fastened in the tar, are captured, killed and their wings used to furnish ornaments for women's hats. These birds give up their lives for the benefit of others.

Rev. W. C. Nelson offered the prayer.

SMALL-POX CONDITION.

Alexander Brown Removed to Isolation Hospital—There are Five There Now.

So far Alex. Brown, colored, is the only additional case of small-pox reported since yesterday. The Board of Health decided yesterday afternoon that Brown has the disease. This makes five in all at the hospital.

The Board of Health determined yesterday that Miss Agnes Brown, who lives opposite the Crowley house has not small-pox. Her illness is due to ivy poisoning.

Splinters struck the eyeball and were imbedded in the flesh. He was hurried to Muhlenberg hospital where Dr. Ard performed an operation but the outcome is not certain.

NEW GRADE IN THE SCHOOLS

BOROUGH BOARD OF EDUCATION MAKES ADDITION.

Arrangements for Commencement —Unique Programme for Day—New Teacher.

Commencement day of the North Plainfield High School was set for Friday, June 20, and the place of the exercises the Y. M. C. A. Hall, by the borough school board at its regular meeting held last night. Outside of the appointment of two new teachers and the re-establishment of a new grade at the Somerset street school, there was little business transacted.

Almon L. Clark, a graduate of Cortlandt Normal school and Amherst College, was selected to take charge of elementary mathmetics at the High School and Miss Addie Hanna chosen to take a mixed class in connection with the Somerset street school. This grade was established three years ago, but after two years' existence was abandoned because of lack of accommodations. Quarters in Spencer Hall having been secured by the school board it was decided to commence the grade again at the beginning of the next school year.

The balance of the meeting was taken up by the discussion of matters pertaining to Commencement day. The programme on that day will be mostly musical, of which Charles Lewis will have charge, and as nearly all of the seventeen graduates are musicians of some merit the exercises will undoubtedly be extremely interesting. There was also a brief discussion of the supply list of books for next year, but decisive action in the matter was postponed until the next meeting. It was reported that the entire staff of present teachers had been engaged for next year.

Mosquitoes in Formosa

The Japanese soldiers in Formosa have discovered that the bite of the mosquitoes in that island inoculated them with malaria. The troops who occupied Formosa were severely afflicted with malaria every summer, and it was thought, in view of the new theory of fevers in Europe and America, that the mosquito was the active agent in disseminating the disease germs. An experiment was made last summer to arrive at some definite conclusion. The Kielun regiment was supplied with appliances that completely protected the men from mosquito bites. None of these soldiers had malaria during the summer. The other troops on the island, however, were afflicted with malarial diseases, as usual. These had no protection from the bites of the insects. The government will now furnish all the Formosa troops with means of protection, and the result will be watched with great interest this summer.—London Mail.

Water Purification.

Ozone is oxygen in a highly active condition, and it occurs in small quantities in the air of the sea and the mountains. Near Berlin an establishment has been erected for the purpose of experimenting on the effects of ozone in ridding water of the microbes it contains. Ozonized air, containing from two to three grams per cubic meter (a cubic meter equals 220.09 gallons, and a gram is about 15 grains English) is passed upward into a tower which is filled with flints, and in its passage meets the water coming down, and thus acts upon it. It has been shown that, as regards water from the Spree, the number of microbes was decreased from 600,000 per cubic centimeter (0.061 of a cubic inch) to 10, which is practically nil. British medical journals of high authority insist that ozone can be artificially produced at reasonable expense to purify the air in tunnels, sewers and other places in London.—Science.

Smallest of All Vertebrates.

Hitherto the United States has had the distinction of possessing both the remains of the largest land vertebrates ever known to have existed, the giant dinosaurs of the west, and the smallest living vertebrates of either land or sea, certain cyprinodont fishes of the Florida and South Carolina coast. But lately the United States fish commission has received from the Philippine islands specimens of a new species of fish, belonging o the goby family, which are smaller than any vertebrate animals yet known. They vary from less than ten up to about 15 millimeters in length. Their numbers are so enormous that they form an important article of diet for some of the natives, who catch them in close-woven nets. It is proposed to call this new fish mystichthys, from two Greek words meaning smallest fish.—Nature.

Another Curiosity of Sound.

Mr. A. G. Webster reported to the American Physical society in New York recently the results of experiments on a singular difference in the audibility of sound when passing over water and over grass. Under similar conditions of quietness it was found that a given sound could be heard almost exactly four times as far over water as over grass. The assumption that water is a perfect reflector and grass a complete absorber of sound-waves is not, Mr. Webster says, sufficient to explain the phenomenon. The practical importance of knowing this peculiarity, where sound may have to be sent across a grassy plain, is evident.—Youth's Companion.

CHARMING WEDDING OF LOCAL YOUNG PEOPLE

Miss H. Elizabeth Allis Became the Wife of Nathan E. Lewis Last Evening.

A PRETTY CEREMONY.

IT WAS PERFORMED AT THE SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST CHURCH.

Officiating Clergyman Was Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis—Those Who Made Up the Bridal Party—Pretty Gowns—To Reside Here.

Charming in every particular was the nuptial ceremony, held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church last evening, when Miss H. Elizabeth Allis, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerrie P. Allis, of West Fifth street, became the wife of Nathan Earle Lewis, of West Eighth street. A host of relatives and friends of the young couple filled the sanctuary. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of Plainfield, formerly pastor of that church, officiated.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock, the four bridemaids entered from the church parlors, passing across the front of the church to the left side aisle which they ascended. They were Miss Abbie L. Lewis, of Plainfield, a sister of the groom; Miss Grace Daggett, of Montclair; Miss Mildred Greene and Miss Mary A. St. John, of this city. Their gowns were of white organdie trimmed with insertion and lace and nile green ribbons. They carried bouquets of white carnations and maiden hair fern.

As the bridemaids passed the entrance to the ante-room at the left, the bride emerged preceded by the flower girls, Miss Evalois St. John and Miss Helen M. Rogers, and the maid-of-honor, Miss Isabel Frances St. John, of Simsbury, Conn. The bride's gown was of white peau de soie silk, entrain, trimmed with point lace. Her veil was caught up with a diamond engagement ring. She carried bride roses. The flower girls were gowned in white organdie and carried bouquets of marguerites. The maid of honor wore white organdie, trimmed with lace and insertion. Her bouquet was of white sweet peas and maiden hair fern.

As the bride entered, the ushers started from the main doorway and advanced along the right side aisle. At the same time the organ which, under the skilled touch of Miss Jessie M. Utter, had been playing softly, began the familiar wedding march from "Lohengrin." Howard Taylor Lewis, of Ashaway, R. I., younger brother of the groom, acted as chief usher. The other ushers were Fredeick William Armitage and Clifford Ficht Hutchings, both of Montclair; George L. Babcock, a cousin of the groom, and Charles Burdette Morse, of this city. Messrs. Armitage and Hutchings are fraternity brothers of Mr. Lewis at Stevens Institute. Their boutonnieres were white carnations.

When the ushers reached the right central aisle they turned toward the front of the church, the bridemaids, the bride and her other attendants following. As they reached the front of the church, they were met by the groom and his best man, Sydney Ross Titsworth, of Plainfield, and Rev. Dr. Lewis, who entered from the parlors. The bridal party spread out in a semi-circle before a huge bank of potted plants and flowers which took the place of the pulpit. The color scheme was green and white.

To a soft undertone of organ music, the impressive Episcopal marriage service was performed, the bride being given away by her father. When it was all over, the triumphant notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march were heard and the happy young couple led the way up the left central aisle, followed by the remainder of the bridal party, the best man and ushers escorting the maid-of-honor and the bridemaids.

After the ceremony the bridal party and the immediate relatives assembled at the bride's home where there were showers of congratulations and eventually rice for Mr. and Mrs. Lewis. The wedding supper was served to the merry party.

Later in the evening, the young couple departed on their honeymoon. They will go to Washington and Old Point Comfort and expect to return in the course of a week when they will take up their residence at their new home, 822 Arlington avenue.

There was a host of gifts of great variety which crowded a room at the bride's home. The groom's gift to

HALF HOLIDAY FOR HORSESHOERS.

The men have been working for it for some time and nearly every shop has signed. The following shops will close Saturday at noon: Michael Quinn, Frank Hand, Thomas J. Maher, Horace J. WHAT THE SCHOOLS COST DIFFERENCE IN FIGURES TO BE FOUND IN CITY AND BOROUGH.

Much Larger System of the City Costs Less Proportionately Than Does the Borough System.

Last year the special school tax rate in the city was seventy-two cents on the $100. In the borough the special school tax rate was seventy-eight cents, a difference in favor of the city of six cents. The State school tax rate is the same in both places.

This year the borough school authorities have arranged for raising an additional $2,500, which will increase the special school tax rate in the borough to eighty-eight cents, or sixteen cents higher than the city rate. This difference multiplied by the assessed valuation of the borough ($2,500,000) will raise $4,000. This means that the borough schools will cost $4,000 per year more in proportion than the city schools. In other words, if the city schools cost as much in proportion as the borough schools, and the city school tax were raised accordingly sixteen points, the city Board of Education would have $13,900 more money to spend than at present.

It will hardly be claimed that the borough schools are better than those of the city, while they may be just as good, and it must be admitted that if the city Board of Education can, by working on a larger scale, run the borough schools $4,000 per year cheaper than the borough board can run them, and keep the standard just as high, then the sooner the borough is consolidated with the city, the better it will be for the borough taxpayers.

THE WESTFIELD CAMP.

Talk Concerning Arrangements for the Coming Season at the Fresh Air Institution.

It is expected that within a short time work on the improvements of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp will soon be begun and that by June 1 everything will be in readiness for the reception of the first party of mothers and children from the slums of New York.

As during previous seasons each party will be kept two weeks. Miss Sara Curry, the missionary from the eastside in New York, will again be in charge of the camp. It has been planned for the various young people's societies throughout the county to hold special serices at the camp every Sunday and an innovation will be an orchestra furnished by the Epworth League.

PLAINFIELDERS ON LIST.

The Misses Tennant Were Granted Licenses to Teach in New York.

The Board of Examiners in New York has announced the list of eligible persons to whom temporary licenses as kindegarten teachers, have been granted. Among the list are Miss Charlotte E. Tennant and Miss E. May Tennant, both of whom reside in this city and teach in the public schools.

Work of Commission.

Not until the St. Louis Exposition Commission, of New Jersey, meets will the duties be known. City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, of this city, and Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth, are the two members from this county. It is expected that Mr. Voorhees, who is chairman of the Commission, will call a meeting in the near future, when the work will be outlined.

Musicale Invitations.

The invitations for the musicale to be given at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Tuesday evening, May 6, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, have been issued. They are limited to the seating capacity of the church.

To Be Ordained.

Michael Glennon, of this city, will be ordained as a Catholic priest by Bishop O'Connor at St. Patrick's cathedral, Newark, on May 24. He is a graduate of Seton Hall College.

CURIOUS SPOONS FROM MANY DIFFERENT LANDS

Remarkable Collection at the Violet Tea of Benevolent Band, King's Daughters.

THOSE WHO ASSISTED.

GIVEN AT RESIDENCE OF MRS. JOSIAH BROWNE, OF WATCHUNG AVENUE.

Sold Cakes and Candy and Fancy Articles—Then There Was the Collection of Spoons Which Was Examined With Interest.

Members of the Benevolent Band of King's Daughters, yesterday afternoon, braved the rain in order that they might atend for sweet charity's sake the violet tea given by Mrs. Josiah Browne at her home, 1225 Watchung avenue, for the benefit of the city nurse. The guests admired tables heavily laden with the handicraft of woman, from fine cakes and confections to dainty pieces of embroidery and hand-painted silks and satins.

For the first time in Plainfield there was a spoon collection that would make even a king open his eyes in wonderment, more than 200 pieces being displayed that had been obtained in different parts of the world by members of the society, and which represented every age and historical event since the early centuries.

Undoubtedly the most pretentious collection was that of Mrs. Evarts Tracy, who showed one made by F. E. Elwell, the famous New York sculptor, and an antique salician of the ninth century. The latter was found in a monastery wall in Germany about nine years ago, and was secured by Mrs. Tracy during a recent trip abroad. Another shown by her was of Italian make of the thirteenth century, an Austrian coin bowl made in the early part of the sixteenth century, and a Rocco spoon of the eighteenth century.

Mrs. S. Hunn showed a William Penn spoon which attracted considerable notice because of its peculiar shade of color. Probably the most unique spoon shown was that contributed by Mrs. Shalley, which was secured by her in Utah some years ago. It was hand made of silver and the workmanship was by an old Mormon who himself mined the silver from the mountains in that State. Mrs. J. K. Myers showed twelve spoons representative of the twelve Apostles, the handle of each spoon being carved in the shape of some attitude significant to the life of the Apostle as depicted in the Scriptures. Mrs. Myers also had on exhibition two Washington spoons. Miss Lucy B. Otterson loaned a large collection of modern American and Canadian spoons, and Miss Susan E. Negus, of Madison avenue, exhibited a collection of Italian and German modern spoons.

The spoon that attracted more than passing examination was that representing the Iron Virgin, made during the period of torture in the fourteenth century, and was secured in Nurumberg. The Dresden china spoons of Mrs. Browne's were much admired, as were the Norwegian enamel spoons with transparent bowls, also loaned by her.

The committees in charge of the tea were as follows: Cake, Mrs. E. S. Craft, Mrs. F. Underhill, Mrs. William W. Myers, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, Mrs. William Hobbie, Mrs. Arthur Peterson, Mrs. Webber, Mrs. Rhinehart, Mrs. Samuel F. Kimball, and Miss Mary Storrs; candy, Mrs. A. B. Fredericks, Mrs. DeWitt C. Ivins, Mrs. Budlong, Mrs. Elmer E. Runyon, Mrs. Charles W. King, Mrs. Joseph Lapsley, Mrs. C. A. Marsh, Miss Ella Martine and Miss Mary K. Jobs; spoons, Mrs. R. Henry Depew, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. Isaac Field and Miss Susan E. Negus; flowers, Mrs. William F. Malloy, Mrs. Harry V. Borden, Mrs. Shoemaker and Mrs. Ivins.

More than $80 was realized from the affair, which, considering the weather, was most gratifying.

Temporary Residence.

For the present Mrs. A. M. Cannon, whose home on West Front street whose home was burned down last Saturday, is staying with her brother, W. V. Mundy, 418 West Sixth street. Her son, Percy Cannon, is stopping with Rev. N. J. Sproul, of Dunellen.

In the Quaker City.

It has been decided to hold the New England Baptist Convention in Philadelphia in June. There was some talk of holding the convention in the Mt. Olive Baptist church.

CRISIS WILL SURELY COME

A General Tieup in the Building Trades is Probable if No Adjustment is Reached.

OVER THE WAGE SCALE.

Bosses and Journeymen Have Not All Yet Been Able to Come to the Terms—In Some Cases It Has Been Granted—More Time is Asked for in the Others.

From present conditions a general strike is within the rage of possibilities in trades circles, and in fact from the feeling today the prophecy has been made by well informed men that the journeymen generally will strick tomorrow morning. The wage scale is the bone of contention, the majority of trades having asked for a twenty-five cent increase to start tomorrow, while two unions, it is understood request an increase of fifty cents per day.

The journeymen masons and the plumbers demand fifty cents. A notification has been sent to the boss painters by the journeymen that they will not wait until June 1 for an increase of twenty-five cents, but that the demand must be granted to commence tomorrow morning. The probabilities are that there will be a refusal of this demand. As for the carpenters, they also desire the same increase as the painters. A meeting has been set by the master mechanics for this evening and the whole question will be settled then and there.

The moulders are working for an increase. They want a nine-hour day with ten hours pay. With them the question is attended to by the National association, which holds meetings in New York weekly, it is understood.

A delegate from the local union of moulders attend these meetings and keeps the Plainfielders in the trade informed as to the condition of affairs. It is said that an arbitration committee of the employes and the moulders is endeavoring to settle the contention.

Notwithstanding that the bosses in the various trades are well supplied with contracts, there seems to be a determination in many quarters to defer the increase until June. On the other hand the journeymen are persistent in their demands, and declare that the demands must be met at once. What the outcome will be can not be said until after the meetings this evening.

HORSEMEN ARRANGE MEET

THE RACES ARE TO BE HELD ON THE FAIR ACRES TRACK.

Take Place on Independence Day—The Guideless Wonder to be There—The Feature.

J. Wesley Johnson, David C. Smalley, Newton B. Smalley and William A. Coddington went to Westfield and have arranged with Robert Fairbairn, J. W. Arkell, J. S. Irving and other members of the Fair Acres Driving Club to hold a big race meet July 4. It will take place on the track at Fair Acres.

It is announced that "Guideless Wonder," who has trotted a mile in 2:08 all alone, has been engaged for the meet to give an exhibition. This horse trots alone with nothing but a bridle. It was also arranged to have three races for prizes, open to all, and there will be a number of entries from this city. It was at first the purpose to have a meet in this city, but the Plainfield fraternity decided to give way this time and hold a meet later in the season.

Cars Overhauled.

All of the summer cars for use this season on the local trolley lines have been put in first-class condition. The running gears, wheels and other mechanism has been overhauled and they are likely to please the traveling public. Next fall new cars are promised for all the lines. Some of the cars now in use will not appear on the road again after being taken off this summer.

To Discuss Mormonism.

The Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, will meet Friday afternoon and consider the subject of "Mormonism."

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CLASS GIVES ENTERTAINMENT

Willing Workers of Trinity Reformed Church Gave the Novel Affair.

ILLUSTRATED THE SONGS

QUARTETTE RENDERED THE SACRED TUNES LAST NIGHT.

Miss May Zimmerman, of New Brunswick, Gave Appropriate Piano Selections—J. F. Billett and C. E. Vail Assisted.

A novel feature of entertainment in the form of sacred songs illustrated attracted a large number of people to Trinity Reformed church last evening. The affair was given under the auspices of the Willing Workers, composed of Horace J. Martin's Sunday-school class and the proceeds will be used for general church purposes.

The illustrated hymns were given by Charles E. Vail, under the direction of James F. Billett, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Vail operated the lantern and the slides most successfully. The rendition was by a quartette composed of Miss Ethel May Derby, Miss Bessie Martin, Horace J. Martin and Jospeh C. Martin, while Miss Lillian A. Force presided at the piano.

The hymns given included "Onward Christioan Soldiers," "Abide With Me," "There Were Ninety and Nine," "Lead, Kindly Light," "Fade, Fade Each Earthly Joy," "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone," "Rock of Ages." There were three solos. Miss Derby sang "The Holy City," and H. J. Martin sang "There Were Ninety and Nine," while "Rock of Ages," was given by Miss Edna Cole, all of which was very effective and instructive.

In opening the programme and during the intermissions, Miss May Zimmerman, of New Brunswick, rendered appropriate piano selections, which were greatly enjoyed. Other features were the recitations, "Rock of Ages," and "Nearer My God to Thee," by Miss Bessie Martin, and "Jesus Lover of My Soul," by Miss Nettie Krietling. The whole programme was impressive and many favorable expressions concerning this form of entertainment were heard at the close. Too much cannot be said in praise of the pictures. Each set of slides beautifully portrayed and interpreted the subject and impressed vividly upon the mind of each the true meaning of the various hymns. There is some talk of repeating the entertainment, when if the weather is favorable no doubt the attendance will be even still greater.

POSTPONED THE SALE.

Officers of Plainfield Relief Association Honor Request of Board of Health.

In accordance with a suggestion from the Board of Health, the sale at the relief rooms, advertised for May 7, 8 and 9, will be postponed owing to the recent outbreak of small-pox in the city. It must be remembered, however, that the articles sent for this sale are from the homes of wealthy families.

In addition there is a room in the relief building fitted up with fumigating apparatus where everything can be thoroughly fumigated; but the association does not wish to do anything that would subject it to criticism.

The postponement of this sale embarrasses the association financially this spring especially, as owing to heavy demands for relief and work through the winter months it is in debt several hundred dollars. In this emergency it is hoped the friends of the association will assist in liquadating the debt.

The Millet Lecture.

Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., secretary of Yale University, in speaking of Mr. Irvine's illustrated lecture on "Millet" says: "It gives me much pleasure to say that I have heard the Millet lecture and found it most interesting and helpful." The lecture will be given in the supplemental course of the Y. M. C. A., Monday evening next. Tickets of admission may be obtained at the drug stores. A silver offering will be received.

Acting Examiner.

Prof. Homer J. Wightman will conduct the examination of teachers at the coming county meeting in Somerville, because of the illness of Rev. J. H. Metz, who is chairman of the board of examiners and who is now ill in a hospital.

WANT PROTECTION.

The Undertakers of the State to Organize for Mutual Benefit.

The funeral directors and embalmers of the State are arranging to form themselves into a body at a meeting which will be held in Masonic Temple, Trenton, on May 9.

The object of the organization is to protect and uphold the standard of the business, urge the enactment of such laws as will prove beneficial, and provide for the examination and licensing of those qualified to practice embalming within the limits of New Jersey.

COMPARISON OF TAX RATES

WHAT EQUAL PRIVILEGES COST IN CITY AND BOROUGH.

Some Interesting Comparisons That Will Enlighten Anti-Consolidationists Regarding It.

For the sake of argument leave out of consideration the fact that borough property is assessed at a much higher valuation than is city property, and compare the tax bills of the two municipalities. The borough has no sewers, and no public library, so those items must also be left out of the city tax bill, and the items which are common to both city and borough compared. The result is as follows:

City Tax Bill.

County tax rate	.47	on $100
State school rate	.17	on $100
Fire department rate	.24½	on $100
City and light	.66	on $100
Poor	.04	on $100
Special school	.72	on $100
Total rate	2.30	on $100

Borough Tax Bill.

County tax rate	.61	on $100
State school rate	.17	on $100
Borough tax	.84	on $100
Board of Health	.02	on $100
Special school	.73	on $100
Total rate	2.42	on $100

The other items on the city tax bill, .07 for principal of sewer bonds, .08 for interest on sewer bonds, and .04½ for public library, making a total of .19½, pay for benefits which the borough does not receive, and it is certainly fair to the opposition to say that it would cost the borough taxpayer at least .19½ on the $100 if sewers were built in the borough. Therefore the city tax rate is really at least .11½ on the $100 less than that of the borough for the same benefits.

JUNIOR WORKERS.

Superintendents of Junior Endeavor Societies Held a Conference Here Yesterday.

The Junior Christian Endeavor superintendents of Union county met yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building for the purpose of discussing ways and means for the coming season. Miss Bogart, of Roselle, presided at the meeting. There was a good attendance of superintendents, including representatives from Rahway, Roselle, Phillipsburg and other places, as well as the local societies.

The superintendents discussed informally a number of plans for the future as to the best way to advance the Junior work. One thing decided upon was plans for a large meeting to be held in Elizabeth in May. There will be three meetings, morning, afternoon and evening and an agressive campaign will be formed at that time. Yesterday's meeting was an enthusiastic and helpful one.

DISPOSAL PLANT.

New Hospital Will Have a Sewage Disposal Plant Similar to the One Owned by the City.

In connection with the building of a new hospital on Park avenue and Randolph road, it is proposed to adopt a system of sewage disposal similar to the one in use for the city, that is, there will be a septic tank installed. The solids will be disposed of there, while the liquid will probably be run into a cesspool, where it will soon disappear.

This system is considered the best for the hospital and will be cheaper than laying pipes to connect with the city system.

—The Scandanavian Thule Society will meet Saturday evening next in Coward's building, 109 Park avenue, for special business.

—H. C. Squires, at present living in New York city, will again take up his residence in Plainfield about June 1, for the summer at least. Mr. Squires will reside at 662 West Seventh street.

TEN-YEAR-OLD LAD CHARGED WITH THEFT

Arthur VanNest Locked Up Charged With Taking $50 From Miss Vaughn's.

THEORY OF THE POLICE.

LAD SEEMS TO REGARD THE WHOLE AFFAIR AS A HUGE JOKE.

Will be Arraigned Before Justice Nash—Police Will Attempt to Have Him Put in Charge of the Probation Officer.

Totally indifferent as to the probable outcome of his latest escapade, Arthur VanNest, a ten-year-old boy confined in a cell at police headquarters, laughs and winks his eye at the police when they tell him he is charged with stealing jewelry valued at $50. He was arrested last evening on complaint of Miss E. Frances Vaughan, of West Seventh street, and sixteen hours behand the bars has failed to convince him the whole affair isn't a huge joke. The police regard him as the most deparaved lad they have ever dealt with.

Monday noon Arthur went to Miss Vaughan's home and finding the front door open, walked in, and, it is alleged, ascended the stairs to te second floor where he ransacked bureaus and pressers, securing a gold watch, a diamond ring and other pieces of jewelry. He then returned to the porch, rang the doorbell and asked for the week's wash to take home to his mother. Soon after Miss Vaughan missed the articles and knowing the boy's reputation and that he was around the place, preferred the complaint.

When Patrolmen Higgins and McCarthy went to get him, his mother said he was out and a close watch was kept on the house but he failed to appear. In the meantime the articles were returned to the owner, the police say, by Mrs. VanNest. The boy was caught at his home last night.

It was intended to have him arraigned before Justice Nash today but at the request of his sister, Mrs. Daniel Galbraith, he was held. She informed the police she wished to engage counsel for him. In the meantime the police will take steps to have the boy placed in the care of the county probation officer as they claim he is incorrigible. He has been in the police court on a number of occasions.

HACKMEN'S DAY.

Six of Them Were Lined Up in the City Court This Morning and Fined $2 Each.

Today was hackmen's day in the city court. Six of the depot Jehus lined up in front of City Judge Runyon while Patrolman Lunger rattled off the "soliciting away from their horses' heads" charge, which he can do with his eyes shut.

Peter Seader, William Kennedy, John Kennedy and Charles Barry promptly pleaded guilty to the charge and showed great relief when a $2 fine was imposed on each. Paul Meissner and Con Guinee disputed the officer's testimony, and Con insisted the bluecoat sometimes wandered from the truth for personal reasons. When Chief Kiely backed up Lunger, Guinee and Meissner were asked to make the sum total from the hackmen an even $12.

EFFICIENT WORK.

Was One of the Factors That Secured Endowment for Institution.

A New York man, whose name is withheld, has for some time past been maintaining the Frances Dana Walcott Kindergarten, in memory of his daughter, has now given $40,000 to the New York Kindergarten Association as an endowment to secure a permanent continuance of the work. This is the first New York kindergarten to be thus endowed and the action on the part of the benefactor is said to have been hastened by the efficent work of the kindergarters in charge, one of whom is Miss Grace Crane, a graduate of Plainfield High School.

Mr. Wright to be Ordained.

IN TWO HOURS.

Fast Trains Between New York and Philadelphia on New Jersey Central System.

The New Jersey Central and Reading Railroads have gained a name as leaders in railroading through the placing in effect of an hourly service between the cities of New York and Philadelphia. These new fast trains leave on the even hour from 7 in the morning to 6 o'clock in the evening inclusive, and better equipped trains were never operated. The standard of excellence was long since established by these roads and all others follow. All trains run direct to Reading Terminal, Philadelphia, and no change of cars will be necessary. The Reading Route is a most picturesque one, and the roadbed is such that fast time can be made between the two cities without fail. A number of the trains will make the trip in two hours, and this Philadelphia service will be in addition to the Royal Blue service operated between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. The new locomotives and coaches are up-to-date, having been built especially for this service, and the Pullman parlor cars are from the latest models.

BRINGS SUMMER BOARDERS.

A Large Metropolitan Newspaper Which is Helping the Summer Resorts.

The Brooklyn Eagle several years ago established a Bureau of Information in Brooklyn, where the public could, free of charge, secure details of hotels and boarding houses for the summer. The idea at once became popular, and branch bureaus were opened in Manhattan and other cities. Country hotels and boarding houses by sending to this Bureau can secure a listing blank, fill it out and return it and then be represented free of cost, and send their circulars and cards for free disribution.

The Brooklyn Eagle has also been considered for years the best medium for summer boarders in New York City.

The Rocky Point Inn, in the Adirondacks, said: "We are giving the Eagle a larger share of advertising than most other papers, as experience has demonstrated its value to us in past seasons."

Chauncey B. Newkirk, of Wurtsboro, Sullivan, county, said: "Last season one small ad brought me five guests."

La Rue Bros., proprietors of the American Hotel of Sharon Springs, N. Y., wrote: "Our house is full and mostly by Brooklyn people. Daily we recieve applications for rooms, and all on account of our standing ad. in the Eagle."

THEATRICAL.

"The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" continues its run at the Broadway Theatre but a short time longer. Everyone who misses seeing this marvelous spectacle will fail to witness one of the greatest contributions to stage art that has ever been presented in this country—a production that provides more real enjoyable amusement than any musical project ever conceived either by foreign or American management. Its coming withdrawal from the Broadway stage will mark the retirement of the most pronounced success New York has ever known. "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" pleases all. While artistic in very sense, it attracts both the eye and the ear and caters strongly to the humorous side of human nature by a plentiful display of clever and wholesome comical situations. In company and production it presents the very best that a most prodical outlay of money could provide.

Neglect Means Danger.

Don't neglect biliousness and constipation. Your health will suffer permanently if you do. DeWitt's Little Early Risers cures such cases. M. B. Smith, Butternut, Mich., says: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most satisfactory pills I ever took. Never gripe or cause nausea." L. W. Randolph.

Testimony Before Smith Court Martial Brings Out Queer Facts.

MANILA, April 30.—When the trial by court martial of General Jacob H. Smith was resumed yesterday, Pedro Bella, a boy "mascot" of Company E of the Ninth infantry, commanded by Captain Thomas W. Connell (massacred by the Samar natives at Balangiga), testified that he saw Captain Connell's death wound given by a boy of fifteen.

The witness saw several other boys of the same age among the natives who took part in the massacre and thought he could himself use a bolo against a soldier.

Captain Waldo E. Ayer, General Smith's adjutant general, said he had been closely in touch with all the movements and knew General Smith's plans and purposes.

He added that on the general's arrival the coast was deserted, and he saw the same towns filled with people when he left, but so far as the people of Samar were concerned he met only one man worthy of respect, who was sincere, patriotic and honorable. He must admit, however, that the man with this qualification was born at Marinduque of Tagalog ancestry.

First Lieutenant Van Deman of the Twenty-first infantry, who had charge of the military information bureau, described, from the records, the treachery of the natives of Samar.

Roosevelt Will Attend Games.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—President Roosevelt will attend the opening of the international Olympian games which are to be held in Chicago during the months of September and October in 1904. He made this promise to Messrs. Henry J. Furber, Jr., the president, and Benjamin J. Rosenthal, the chairman of the committee on finance of the games, who spent an hour with him at the White House discussing the contest it is proposed to hold. Mr. Roosevelt indicated a disposition to do all in his power to further the efforts of the Olympian association.

Smelting Works Closed by Strike.

HELENA, Mon., April 30.—The works of the American Smelting and Reduction company have been closed because of a strike order issued by Mill and Smelter Men's union No. 146, which affiliates with the Western Federation of Miners. The strike was called because the company will not recognize the union. No question of wages, hours of labor or other grievance is involved. About 400 men are thrown out of employment.

United States Dangerous.

VIENNA, April 30.—In the course of the debate on the budget in the reichsrath Herr Kolischer, a prominent Polish member and a large manufacturer, declared the Austrian tariff must be prohibitive unless the empire was willing to be devoured by the United States, whose "McKinley" and "Dingley" policies had been followed by an imperialism which enabled her to oppress the rest of the world.

HARD DAY FOR SMITH

Senate Again Discusses the Samar Incident.

SENATOR TELLER SCORES GENERAL.

House Passes the Omnibus Building Bill Appropriating $17,405,450. No Opportunity For an Amendment.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—A spirited discussion of the Philippine situation occurred in the senate yesterday. It revolved around the order alleged to have been issued by General Jacob H. Smith to make the island of Samar a howling wilderness and to kill all male inhabitants over the age of ten years. The debate took a wide range, however, and many other points were discussed.

When the Philippine bill was laid before the senate, no one was prepared to deliver a set speech on it. Mr. Lodge (Mass.), in charge of the measure, said he felt compelled to press it for consideration. His remarks drew the fire of Mr. Teller (Colo.), who criticised the Republicans for not participating in the discussion. This precipitated the debate, and for more than two hours it continued. Mr. Teller declared that General Smith, if he issued such an order as had been attributed to him, ought to be dismissed from the service, as it was a disgrace to the American army and to the American people.

Mr. Lodge said that, while he knew little of the circumstances surrounding the alleged order, he did not approve of cruel methods in warfare, and every right minded person must regret General Smith's order. To him it was revolting. He defended the administration, however, saying as soon as knowledge of the order had come to Washington the president had directed that General Smith be court martialed.

Under a special order which allowed three hours for debate, but which cut off all opportunity of amendment, the house passed an omnibus public building bill which will distribute $17,405,450 among 174 cities. As the bill covers into the treasury $1,585,000, the total amount carried by the bill is reduced to that extent. The bill provides for seventy-seven new buildings and sites, six buildings on sites already purchased, seventeen buildings on donated sites and fifty-eight increases in appropriations for buildings already authorized. It also provides for the purchase of sixteen sites.

The majority for the bill was so overwhelming that only nine members backed a demand for the yeas and nays on the passage of the bill. There was some criticism of the method by which it was proposed to pass the bill without opportunity for amendment, which Mr. Mercer, chairman of the committee, answered by stating that if the bill had been subject to amendment the appropriations carried by it would have been increased to $60,000,000.

The consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill was resumed, but only a few pages were disposed of.

Exclusion Bill Signed.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—President Roosevelt has signed the Chinese exclusion bill. The pen used was given to Representative Kahn of California, who has taken a deep interest in the bill.

A Colonial Sensation.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 30.—Assistant Justice Donald Morison of the colonial supreme court will resign his seat on the bench to re-enter politics. It is understood that Mr. Morison advocates the union of Newfoundland with Canada and that he will undertake to lead a party pledged to this idea. This announcement is the most startling that has been made in colonial politics for many years past. Mr. Morison is an influential chief, and his present action forces the question of union into the very forefront of politics.

American Gets China Medal.

BERLIN, April 30.—Emperor William has conferred the so called China medal, which has hitherto been given to combatants only, upon Joseph Herring, the correspondent of a New York newspaper who was wounded on board the German gunboat Iltis at Taku, China. Mr. Herring, it will be remembered, is the naturalized American citizen who was ordered expelled from Germany last September because of his alleged evasion of military service. This order was afterward rescinded.

What Next For Morgan?

NEW YORK, April 30.—Representatives in this city of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company admit that one of the purposes of President Morgan's visit to Europe is connected with the probable purchase of German potash works. The statement that the chemical company contemplates establishing branches in Germany could not be confirmed.

No More Second Class Tickets.

UTICA, N. Y., April 30.—Commencing May 1 the Central Hudson railroad will discontinue the sale of second class tickets over its lines. It is reported here that an agreement has been reached with other lines and that second class tickets to all points east of Chicago are to be withdrawn.

Falling Mine Roof Kills Two.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 30.—Daniel Collins and John Ruane were killed and William Boland was fatally injured by a fall of the roof in the Paradise mine of the Pennsylvania company, Pittston. The men were barring down coal when the roof fell without warning.

DERAILEDON A CURVE

Five Killed and Twenty-three Injured In Missouri Wreck.

TRAIN WAS RUNNING AT GREAT SPEED

California Limited on the Santa Fe Route Ditched—The Coaches Are Smashed to Kindling Wood.

KEOKUK, Ia., April 30.—The California limited on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, eastbound, was derailed on a curve at Cama, a switch five miles west of Medill, Mo., yesterday while going at tremendous speed. Five persons were killed and twenty-three injured.

The dead are: S. T. French, Chicago; Mr. Wertheimer, San Diego, Cal.; a son of Henry C. Gates of Australia, five years old, and two others whose names are not obtainable.

The injured include the conductor, Charles Sargent, and a twin sister of the Gates boy. The parents of the twins were also badly bruised.

Mr. and Mrs. Gates were en route from Australia and were, with their children, eating in the dining car when the wreck occurred. The train was over an hour late and passed Wyaconda, the last station west, at the rate of sixty-five miles an hour. When the heavy train struck the curve at Cama, the rails spread.

The train consisted of two mail cars, seven Pullmans and one dining car. The mail car, the dining car and the two forward sleepers went into the ditch. The tender was ditched, but the engine remained on the track. The derailed coaches were smashed to kindling wood, even the axles being bent out of shape.

The conductor went to a farmhouse and telephoned a report of the wreck. The railroad officials then hurried a relief train from Fort Madison.

The trainmen worked nobly, assisted by unhurt passengers and neighboring farmers. The place of the wreck is distant from all communication. Every effort is being made to complete the list of dead and wounded, but most of the latter are in the railroad hospital at Fort Madison, and those in charge refuse information.

Germans In Brazil.

BERLIN, April 30.—The Hanseatic Colonization company, which holds a concession to 1,600,000 acres of land in southern Brazil, says in its annual report that the total number of colonists of German origin who have settled on the company's concessions in seven years is 1,300. Among these colonists are several hundred from the United States who found land there to be too expensive. The emigration of Germans for the quarter ending March 31 was three times as great as that which occurred during the corresponding quarter of 1901, and the number of inquiries received indicate that this increase will continue to grow.

Eight Cyclone Victims.

DALLAS, Tex., April 30.—A special from Granbury, Tex., confirms the report of damage caused at Glen Rose by a tornado. One additional death has occurred, making a total of eight. It is thought that three of the number injured probably will die. There were fifty-seven persons injured, but with the exception of the three mentioned as fatally hurt it is thought that all will recover. In Glen Rose thirty-three buildings were totally destroyed.

Train Tickets Good on Boats.

CLEVELAND, O., April 30.—The Cleveland and Buffalo boat line and the Lake Shore railroad have entered into an agreement whereby tickets on the Lake Shore, in either direction, are good between Buffalo and Cleveland on the boats without extra charge. Eastbound passengers can make train connections at Buffalo and westbound passengers at Cleveland.

Secretary Root Returns.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Secretary Root, Mrs. Root and Miss Root have arrived here from their trip to Cuba. Having given up their house on Connecticut avenue, they took up their quarters temporarily at the Arlington hotel. Secretary Root spent considerable time in consultation with Adjutant General Corbin in disposing of accumulated business.

Railroad Car Thieves.

TROY, N. Y., April 30.—New York Central detectives have discovered that railroad cars in this section are being robbed by an organized band of thieves. For some time the company has been missing brass valves off its cars, and it is believed the thefts have cost the company thousands of dollars.

Cummings' Condition Unchanged.

BALTIMORE, April 30.—There is no decided change in the condition of Congressman Amos J. Cummings of New York, who is suffering from an attack of double pneumonia at the Church home in this city. He takes nourishment at regular intervals and has periods of restful sleep.

Wealthy Woman Dies.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—Mrs. Susan Sanders Tevis, widow of the late Lloyd Tevis, has passed away at her home in this city after a long and severe illness. Mrs. Tevis was one of the wealthiest and best known women in this state.

Died at Friend's Funeral.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 30.—Dr. Philip F. Fulmer of Dingmans Ferry, Pa., aged eighty years, died suddenly while attending the funeral of a lifelong friend, the Hon. J. B. Westbrook. Death was due to heart disease, aggravated by excessive grief.

A HISTORIC STRUCTURE.

New York Hall of Records Threatened With Destruction.

NEW YORK, April 30.—In view of the recent intimations of the possible destruction of the old hall of records the trustees of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation society have appointed Charles F. Wingate, Albert Ulmann and Edward Hagaman Hall a committee to call public attention to the fact that the removal of this building would be an irreparable loss to the city.

The hall of records was originally built prior to the Revolution as a debtors' jail and during the war was used by the British as a prison, in which were incarcerated many officers and soldiers of the Continental army. After the capture of Fort Washington, on Manhattan Island, Nov. 16, 1776, the prison was crowded with the unfortunate captives of that bloody battle. The story of their inhuman treatment under the notorious Provost Marshal Cunningham and of the many deaths that ensued is one of the most tragic in the history of the Revolution and is only equaled by that of the prison ship martyrs.

Among the notable prisoners confined within its walls was Ethan Allen of Fort Ticonderoga fame.

The hall of records is the oldest municipal building in the city. Although its exterior appearance has been changed somewhat by the addition of the portico, the building is well preserved, and the old dungeons can readily be recognized in the basement.

Shaffer on Top.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 30.—It is now practically certain that President Theodore Shaffer is the big man of the Amalgamated association. The convention, with few dissenting voices, has indorsed in toto his annual report. The committee on president's and other officers' reports reported favorably on the statements intrusted to it, and its recommendations were ratified by the convention. The most important of the reports was that of Mr. Shaffer. In many respects it was the most interesting document ever issued by an Amalgamated president. It gave the history of the strike and his explanation of every one of his many acts which aroused criticism during the momentous struggle. The president based his hopes upon his report, and it proved that he judged wisely. The action of the convention is a vindication of his entire course. It is not likely now that there will be much opposition to Mr. Shaffer's re-election.

Schley In Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 30.—The second day of the celebration in honor of Admiral and Mrs. Winfield Scott Schley was a success, and the distinguished visitors were received with marked enthusiasm everywhere they appeared. The parade was composed of military and civic organizations of Memphis and the Green Light guards of Arkansas. Along the line of march the city's guests were received with enthusiastic acclaim. In Court Square park Mayor Williams delivered an address of welcome, which elicited a graceful response from the admiral.

STEAMSHIP CAPTAIN DEAD.

Albers of the Deutschland Falls on Shipboard.

BERLIN, April 30.—Captain A. Albers of the Hamburg-American steamer Deutschland fell dead of heart failure in the charthouse of his vessel as she was approaching the port of Cuxhaven. He expired in the arms of his first officer, who caught him as he fell. The long hours spent by Captain Albers on the bridge of the vessel after the loss of her rudder at sea, which occurred before the Deutschland reached Plymouth and during the passage of the North sea, probably hastened the captain's collapse.

As the senior captain of the Hamburg-American Steam Packet company Captain Albers expected to retire after a few more trips. Emperor William has sent a telegram to the Hamburg-American company, in which he expresses his sorrow at the loss of so excellent and capable an officer, who "brought my brother from the United States. The steering of the rudderless Deutschland with her screws on her last homeward trip was a master stroke of seamanship. Honor to his memory."

THE COURT RETURNS.

Great Ceremony on Entrance to Peking of Royal Train.

PEKING, April 30.—The court's return to the Forbidden City was a repetition of its return in January. It passed through the same gate, with the same cortege, officials and soldiery and with the foreigners on the wall. The emperor and dowager empress offered sacrifices at the temple gate, and the dowager greeted her personal acquaintances among the foreign ladies on the wall with a wave of her hand, asking, "Are you all well?" Some of the ladies understanding Chinese replied in the affirmative, and the dowager exchanged with them a few commonplace remarks.

There were noticeable signs of the dowager's supremacy. All the officials prostrated themselves before her temple entrance and remained standing in the presence of the emperor. The dowager had a magnificent entourage, and the emperor was shabbily dressed and looked bored.

The pilgrimage to the eastern tombs cost over 1,000,000 taels.

College Class Secedes.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 30.—Sixty-nine of the seventy-four members of the sophomore class of Clemson, the state agricultural college, on the site of Calhoun's home, have quit and gone home. Two of the remaining five obtained discharges and also left, and it is understood that the remaining three will leave today. The action of the students is due to the faculty suspending Cadet Thornwell, a grandson of the great Presbyterian theologian, a few days ago for taking four glass test tubes from the chemical laboratory without permission. The members of the faculty say they have been troubled a great deal by actions of this kind, and notice was given that the next offender caught would be severely dealt with. The faculty refused the request of his fellows that Thornwell be reinstated, and hence the exodus of the sophomores.

Too Much Castellane.

PARIS, April 30.—Considerable interest socially and politically has been aroused by the election to the chamber of deputies of Counts Boni, Jean and Stanilas de Castellane as the first time when three brothers have simultaneously been returned. There have been several cases where two brothers have been elected to the chamber of deputies, and of this the case of the brothers Robespierre is the earliest instance. A ministerial organ, commenting on the elections of the three De Castellanes, remarks, "We are overflowing with Castellanes."

Consul General Osborne Dead.

LONDON, April 30.—William McKinley Osborne, United States consul general at London, is dead here after a long illness. Mrs. Osborne, his daughter Margaret and son Charles were at the bedside when the end came. The funeral will take place on Saturday. The body will be cremated in England. Mrs. Osborne will remain in England for an indefinite period, so that her children's education may be completed. Mr. Osborne was a cousin of the late President McKinley. He was born at Girard, O., April 26, 1842

Paris Salon Opened.

PARIS, April 30.—President Loubet has inaugurated the old salon in the Grand palais. There were 1,680 exhibits compared with 2,092 last year, resulting in an improved aspect and a higher level of merit. Chatran's portraits of Mrs. and Miss Roosevelt attracted a large share of attention and received high praise from the critics. The Temps says, "The artist has rendered well the features, sober elegance and charm of the two ladies." The American artists were represented by many meritorious works.

Steel Plant Wrecked.

ST. LOUIS, April 30.—The plant of the Hager Steel company at Madison, Ill., employing 400 men, is reported destroyed by fire, which resulted from an explosion. The damage is estimated at $250,000, with an insurance of $100,000. The fire companies of Venice, Madison and Granite City are making efforts to prevent a general conflagration.

Rains Revive India.

LONDON, April 30.—The viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, telegraphs that heavy beneficial rains have fallen in Bengal and Assam and that there have been local showers in Burma and parts of Madras. The prices of grain are generally stationary.

UPRISING IS FEARED

Inflammatory Socialist Documents Afloat In Russia.

A MAY DAY EXPLOSION POSSIBLE.

Factory and Workshop Employees Have a Long List of Grievances Against Government and Capitalists.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 30.—May day is awaited with considerable misgiving. In consequence of the anticipations of disturbances the factories and workshops have been thoroughly canvassed with the object of promoting general observation, and the men have been supplied with Social Democratic literature of all kinds, much of which is couched in markedly temperate language, though the illustrations are somewhat inflammatory. Among the latter is a factory surrounded by a graveyard, while a picture of the winter palace is taken to mean an invitation to assemble there May 1. These pamphlets were printed in Germany.

A sketch history of Labor day in Russia and other countries recounts how the workmen's movement in Russia is becoming a force which promises to establish liberty, equality and justice in place of the present oppression of the government and capitalists. "We have learned how to fight," says one document in capital letters, and it proceeds to formulate demands, including a ten hour day, with the same pay as at present, a half holiday on Saturdays, the prohibition of the employment of children under fifteen years of age, the abolition of overtime, obligatory insurance, the responsibility of employers for injuries and deaths, the extension of factory and workshop inspection, freedom to strike, organize unions, hold meetings and control their own funds, the establishment of arbitration courts and trial in open court instead of arbitrary arrests and banishment.

The demands also include the re-establishment of the holidays which the workmen were deprived of by the law of June 2, 1897.

Relief For Russia's Starving.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—An idea of the tremendous effort making by the Russian government to relieve its famine sufferers is contained in a report to the state department from Consul General Holloway at St. Petersburg showing that last year the government expended $13,370,270 in this relief work. It now has on hand a half million pounds of grain, but must make further extensive purchases and will require cattle, horses and seed to the value of an additional $6,000,000.

A Long Island Wireless Station.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The apparatus for the new Marconi wireless telegraph station at Sagaponeck, on Long Island, two miles from Bridgehampton, has arrived. It consists of a mast 185 feet high, a one horsepower gasoline engine and a dynamo. The station will be connected with New York by the Western Union wires. The instruments are gauged for sixty miles, the same as the Sandy Hook station, so these two stations may communicate direct. The apparatus came from Cape Cod. The present operator at Nantucket lightship will conduct the station. The station is about to be used also as a school for operators learning the new system. It is expected that it will be in operation next week.

Taft Speaks at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 30.—Governor General William H. Taft of the Philippine Islands was well received last evening when he addressed about 2,000 persons in College Street hall at Yale. He was introduced by President A. T. Hadley, who facetiously referred to their college days. Judge Taft in turn complimented President Hadley upon being the man chosen to succeed Dr. Timothy Dwight to the presidency.

Trouble Along the Nile.

BRUSSELS, April 30.—The Vingtieme Siecle reports a serious situation on the Nile. Several Belgian posts have been attacked by rebel natives from Uganda, says the paper, and British troops have established themselves on Belgian territory. Difficulties have arisen between the Belgians and the British in the Lado enclave. A fresh revolt has also broken out on the upper Ubanghi river, French Kongo.

Morton's Paper to Suspend.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., April 30.—It is announced that with this week's issue of The Conservative the paper will suspend publication. The Conservative is a weekly journal established four years ago by the late J. Sterling Morton, and its columns were given up to comments on current, political and other events, which reflected directly the views of the former secretary of agriculture.

Compass Pointed Wrong.

DULUTH, Minn., April 30.—Because of a deflection in their compasses, caused by a magnetic deposit on the north shore of Lake Superior, the steamer Tampa and schooner Aurora, coal laden, went ashore twenty miles from this city. The boats are lying on a rocky shore. There was no wind when they struck, but heavy fog prevailed.

Explosion on Submarine Boat.

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—Five men were injured in an explosion aboard the submarine boat Fulton just as she was rounding Delaware Breakwater yesterday. The Fulton was making an ocean trip from New York to Norfolk and thence to Washington, the most remarkable test yet applied to craft of its kind.

THE NEW HOSPITAL.

For two or three years, the movement to secure new quarters for Muhlenberg Hospital has been under way. Month after month it has grown in strength until now there is every reason to believe that the new hospital buildings will be erected before the snow flies. As a further step toward the desired end, the Board of Governors of the hospital, at its meeting Monday evening, appointed a committee to dispose of the old property as soon as the new home is ready for the hospital.

For some reasons the passing of the hospital from the western end of the city will be regretted. A great majority of those who have taken advantage of the dispensary have come from that section of the city. Then its close proximity to the principal local factories has been very convenient in case of accident. The nearness of the railroad with its almost constant noise has, however, been a decidedly annoying feature, especially in cases of serious accident or illness where quiet is demanded for the patients.

If the city was large enough to support two hospitals, one for general cases and the other for accident and emergency patients, it might be advisable to continue the latter in the West End. The present conditions of things, however, makes it most advisible to locate at the site which has been seleeted and approved by the governors of the hospital. This question has been discussed so many times that it is not necessary to review it again here. The general concensus of opinion of those who have investigated the subject is that the new site is an almost ideal one.

The site was settled some time ago. The plans for the new buildings have been approved. All that is lacked now is the building of them. The board of governors has sufficient funds on hand to start the work but every additional subscription, large or small, will enable the board to add more necessities and conveniences which will bring the hospital up to a high standard. Then, too, the current expenses of the institution continue and must be met and an additional expenditure will be brought about when the time for moving comes.

The proprietor of a weekly newspaper of large circulation has discontinued much of his magazine advertising in order to buy more space in Sunday newspapers which he regards as more valuable. He notes that the older and more experienced advertisers are droping out of the monthlies and making large displays in the Sunday newspapers, and that most of the magazines advertisers are beginners.

It is interesting to note that no less a person than the pastor of the Cres cent Avenue church caused some members of the Presbytery some worry before they decided to license him. And today, he is one of the most able and prominent divines in the Presbtyerian denomination.

Even if the Legislature did fail to assist financially in the work of exterminating the mosquito, Governor Murphy has won general approval by his decision to assist the work from the emergency fund. If there is any way to exterminate them by all means let it be discovered.

Both of the local golf clubs have now announced their schedules which promise to be full of attraction for the local golfer.

There isn't anything much more enjoyable on a Sunday afternoon, after attending church, then a ride with a good team. The light rain of yesterday laid the dust along the country roads in good shape, putting the thoroughfares in excellent condition for bicycling. No larger or better display of fruits and vegetables is to be found in the city, than that at Neuman Brothers, the Watchung avenue grocers. This firm makes a specialty of this department and at all seasons of the year keep every delicacy on hand that it is possible to get. At present they receive fresh daily Jersey asparagus, North Carolina strawberries and many other tempting edibles.

Lumber Arm for a Bank.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, April 30—While preparing the body of Peter J. Barras for burial the undertaker found five $10 bills hidden in the cavity of the man's wooden arm. Barras was a Swiss and was drowned in the Raritan canal after falling from a boat on which he was employed.

Westfield, April 30—Isaac H. Lambert, who was arrested a few weeks ago on the complaint of his wife, who charged non-support, was tried yesterday before Justice Toucey and a jury and was adjudged guilty of the charge. It took two hours to obtain a jury. W. S. Angleman, of Plainfield, represented the defendant, while Paul Q. Oliver, of this place, looked after the interests of Mrs. Lambert.

Mr. Lambert was formerly a prosperous feed merchant in this place. He failed several months ago and finally resumed business at Elizabeth. It is said that he asked his wife to go to Elizabeth, where he said he had a home for her. It is said she went there taking her children with her. She claimed that he did not have a home and she was oblighed to return to her father's home. Because he did not suppport her she made a complaint before the overseer of the poor. The latter caused the arrest of Mr. Lambert and the trial followed as stated above.

ABRAM AND LOT COMPARED

THESE MEN PRESENT OPPOSITE POLES OF CHRISTIAN LIVING.

Strong Sermon by Evangelist Pratt in Course of Meetings at the Monroe Avenue Church.

"Abram and Lot represent the two distinctly opposite poles of Christian living" said Evangelist J. R. Pratt last night at the Monroe Avenue church. Abram was obedient to the voice of God, erecting an altar wherever he went for His worship, showing a Christlike, unselfish spirit in giving. Lot was the first choice in the matter of pasturage and yet after all receiving the promise that all the land should belong to Him and to His seed forever.

Lot sought worldly advantage, wanted to be numbered among the four hundred of Sodom, probably bought up real estate for speculation, gained political influence and was elected to high office, was in for all he could get out of it in the way of wealth and honor and political power yet lost it all and escaped barely with his own life.

The afternoon meeting was devoted to a thorough presentation of the "Guiding Power of the Holy Spirit in the Life of the Christian believer." As many as are led by the Spirit they are the sons of God." Christ was led by the Spirit. The ancient Israelites in the wilderness were led by God's presence as seen in a cloud which rested over the Tabernacle day and night and indicated when and whether they should journey.

Each afternoon at 3 o'clock and every evening at 8 Mr. Pratt will speak. His series of meetings will close Sunday night and have thus far been fruitful of great good to Christian people and in the conversion of many who have hitherto been Christless.

Mr. Richard Mansfield in Monsieur Beaucaire

The Play Is a Disappointment to Those Who Have Read the Unusually Strong Story.

MBEAUCAIRE, the play, is not nearly so good as M. Beaucaire, the novel. In the endeavor to have everything turn out pleasantly for the virtuous and see to it that all the evil meet their just desserts, according to stage orthodoxy, we have a very good story weakened and are given a very lame ending. But perhaps folks would not attend in such numbers otherwise, so probably Mr. Mansfield and his manager understand their business better than we do, and it is presumptuous for us to criticise.

The play certainly is interesting, and Mr. Mansfield is given an opportunity to be, not the bright particular star of a group of planets, but the whole thing, the central sun in a solar system that has revolve about it no stellar objects of special magnitude. "M. Beaucaire is Beaucaire, as surely as "Hamlet" is Hamlet.

"M. Beaucaire" is divided into, or built up of, five acts. In the first act we are introduced to the pompadour room at Bath, that place where for generations the beauty and fashion of England were wont to congregate. Here we see Beaucaire, in reality a member of the royal family of France, but at present traveling incognito. Beaucaire had fled from France and come to England, leaving his native land for the reason that he had incurred his sovereign's displeasure by refusing to marry a lady the sovereign had kindly chosen to be his bride. And the only excuse he had been able to offer was the paltry one that he did not love the girl. The idea of royalty listening to such nonsense!

The English, you know, are not given to overvaluation of things foreign, and when Beaucaire lands on their shores he is dubbed barber, and barber he lets it stand for awhile; long enough to allow of many amusing situations, and some daring adventures. The prince-barber, who, of course, is very well educated, astonishes the fashionables in the pumproom by his knowledge of the world, by his wit and repartee. They look on amazed, among them Lady Mary Carlisle, the proudest, haughtiest, most unapproachable beauty in all England. But what impudence, a barber to presume to consort with the nobility, to attempt to meet them on equal footing. So, Mr. Barber is publicly expelled from the pumproom. He adds still further to his impertinences by assuring the gentlemen if they wish to meet him at cards at any time, his lodgings are open to them.

And the swells do resort to the barber's lodgings. In the second act we find them there, trying to shun recognition, but eager to try their luck with the clever, if humble, newcomer, and to win his money. Among them is the duke of Winterset, the villain of "M. Beaucaire." He and Beaucaire have no love for each other, and the latter lays a trap to ensnare the man he distrusts and dislikes. He leaves the room for a short time, giving Winterset an opportunity to arrange the cards, which he does, conveying some to that time-honored repository, a sleeve. The playing proceeds, and presently Beaucaire accuses the duke of cheating. The latter rages around, but finding Beaucaire insists in his accusation, asserts that no one will believe the barber's word against his own. Opportunity stand forth at this juncture, Beaucaire's two faithful friends; a gentleman of unquestioned reputation in the social world and a trusted servant. They have witnessed the whole scene, and the duke realizes he is caught.

Winterset asks Beaucaire what bribe he will accept. The barber replies he wants the duke to take him to Lady Mary's ball, introduce him as his friend, and thereby procure for him entrance to the gay society of which he obtained a glimpse in the pumproom scene. Of course Winterset storms and tries to rebel, but in the end is forced to give in. The third scene shows us the ball-room filled with gentlemen with rich costumes and powdered wigs and ladies in gorgeous trappings. The last arrivals are the duke of Winterset and the duke of Chateaurien (Beaucaire). The duke of Chateaurien makes a most favorable impression, even Lady Mary approves and dances the minuet with him. Winterset, who has an eye on Lady Mary, endeavors to make way with the bothersome barber by getting him engaged in a duel with a crack swordsman. As might nave been expected of so wonderful an adventurer, Chateaurien wins, and is more of a hero than ever to Lady Mary.

The fourth act has for setting a garden at Squire Bantison's country-seat, where Chateaurien and Lady Mary disport themselves in love-like manner. Lady Mary's coach, her cousin within, drives up and just as the two ladies are about to depart, out from ambush rushes a party of men and fall upon Chateaurien, about whom the duke has told the story that he is none other than the despised barber. Beaucaire gets in some dexterous sword-play, but receives a wound. His friend and the servant appear in time to save him further hurt, and he tries to conceal the injury he has suffered. The Lady Mary recognizes and denounces the cowards that have set upon him, but when the duke of Winterset tells her she is defending an impostor, the presumptuous barber, she seems no longer concerned in Beaucaire's welfare. She drives away, leaving him grief-stricken at her apparent unfaithfulness and pride. (The play presents Lady Mary as a more worthy woman than the novel; representing her as scornful, not of the barber, but of the deceit practiced upon her).

In the last act, which discloses the assembly room at Bath, everything gets straightened out. Some noble French visitors, who are to be given a royal welcome by the English, at sight of Beaucaire kneel at his feet, kiss his hand, and show in act and word the homage they consider due him, and their feelings of rejoicing at the discovery of his presence. Lady Mary looks on amazed, as do the rest of that society from which he was excluded. He magnanimously takes her by the hand, and introduces her as his future wife. And thus endeth "M. Beaucaire."

Frank Moulan, as Kiram, in the Sultan of Sulu, at the Studebaker, in Chicago, is providing mirth for all of that city by his humorous portrayal of the part. Mr. Beane, who played the part when the opera was first put on, is now filling the responsible position of stage manner, and shows quite as much ability in this as he did before the foootlights.

TALK WITH MENELIK.

American Traveler Has an Interesting Social Half Hour with the King of Abyssinia.

Oscar T. Crosby contributes to the Century his "Personal Impressions of Menelik." Here is a resume of one of his conversations with the king:

He has never been outside of his own kingdom; has probably never seen a boat, save one of Marchand's, which lies in front of the palace, in sections, as borne there by porters; has never seen a wheeled vehicle, save a few small mountain guns; speaks no European language; and must devote most of his time to internal affairs. Such an expansive body of water as the ocean, I fancy, he cannot conceive; the rotundity of the earth has been explained to him, but was not grasped. He marveled when I told him of the difference in time between New York and Addis Abeba. Of New York he seemed not to have heard when I referred to it as the big city of my country. Pictures of great commercial buildings and views of cities made, I thought, rather a faint impression on him. The Brooklyn bridge was more effective, and he marveled at its height, though just how the interpreter translated figures and distances I do not know, since in ordinary transactions with Abyssinians no unit of length was discovered. The capitol at Washington, which was described as corresponding to his residence, made some impression on him when its size was explained.

When the books were put aside, a new magazine pistol which I had picked up in Paris came in for minute examination, and then took its place in a collection of small arms which must now be well-nigh complete.

Among the illustrations shown were some of the big New England cotton-mills. These I tried to identify to Menelik as the places in which were manufactured nearly all of the cotton goods which his subjects wore, a fact that I had learned with surprise and pleasure while on the coast. In other ways, also, I tried to make clear my nationality; but in the end he dictated, or his secretary wrote: "Mr. Crosby, the Englishman, has permission to go down the Blue Nile."

PRINCES OF CHURCH.

Entire College of Cardinals to Be Present at Jubilee Function at Rome Next June.

Cardinals Gibbons and Martinelli are to be invited to repair simultaneously to Rome to be present at a grandiose function in honor of the papal jubilee of Leo XIII. The event is to take place in the end of June, and is to consist of a gathering of the entire college of cardinals around the pope to offer in a body their congratulations and their hearty wishes ad multos annos.

The movement was started by the cardinals resident in Cura, those who live in Rome and are at the head of the sacred Roman congregations. They decided to invite all their non-resident brother princes of the church to convene in the eternal city as a symbol of the unity of the Catholic hierarchy and their devotion to the supreme pontiff.

MGR. OTTAVIO DE AVEZELO.
(Major Domo of the Pope's Household, in Charge of Conclave.)

The gathering will be almost unique in the history of the church. The cardinals heretofore have been convoked only for the holding of an ecumenical council or for a conclave on the death of a pope. The conclave is often held hurriedly, and cardinals residing at long distances from Rome have rarely any hope of being in time to personally cast their vote for the election of the new pope.

Alone of all members of the Catholic church the Cardinal Camerlingo is permitted to make provision before a reigning pope's death for the holding of the next conclave—the meeting of the college of cardinals to elect a pope, and such provision must be only of a material kind.

At the gathering of the cardinals next June no discussion of the subject will, of course, be made among those directly interested.

SILK GOWNS AND COATS.

The Effect of the Fashionable Straight Front Corset.

The fashionable figure seen en profile is undeniably large, but this is due to the straight fronted corsets now so generally worn by those who dress smartly. The Parisian corset, with straight front, is perfectly rigid, and the lower part of the figure disappears in a marvelous manner. A soft busk is perfectly useless with this type of corset and simply increases the size by standing out where it should draw in. Some of the best French corsetieres will not take an order unless they can rectify the corset once or twice during the first weeks of wear. So strangely is the figure influenced by the shape that the corset has to be reduced more than once.

Complete gowns of taffeta glace will be worn all spring, and those who require a useful black gown which is at the same time smart and adaptable should select taffeta with a bright glace finish and have it lined with merve or nun's veiling to lengthen its days. For trimming there are handsome scrolls of silken gimp applique with velvet, or a combination of black lace and velvet laid over white or heliotrope glace gives a handsome finish.

UP TO DATE MILLINERY.

All Black Hats Are Always Popular. Green Shades Liked.

Hats occupy the most important part in our toilets, and how vastly millinery has improved of late years! In fact, women of fashion today can tolerate nothing but headgear of the highest order, which is perfectly superb in its dashing designs and brilliant coloring.

The all black hat is always popular and far too becoming and useful to be utterly disregarded, but in spite of this colors are much to the fore, emerald green being de rigueur in Paris. Here, too, many of our burnt straws are trimmed with various shades of green glace ribbon and lilies of the valley with their own foliage. Very pretty are those toques the foundation of which is composed entirely of blue covered with a trellis work of tiny green leaves. In fact, I think we might almost say that green is the color of the moment.

There are all kinds of new straws, the prettiest being of a light, coarse make and very soft and pliable. A light hat is a necessity in these days, when many women of fashion spend the greater part of the twelve hours in their headgear. The tuscan straws to wear with tailor made and country frocks are simply delightful, trimmed with loops of glace or velvet ribbon and fantastic knots or bows.

JUDIC CHOLLET

His Friend, The Enemy

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK,

Author of "Rogers of Butte," "The Spur of Necessity," "Mr. Fitt, Astrologer," etc.

(Copyright, 1901, by the S. S. McClure Co.)

The doctor "went ahead" with a vengeance. His bright probe sank into the wound, the blood flowed afresh and Guy stiffened out as he lay, ground his teeth together and clutched the side of the bed with his fingers. Miss Betty voiced a little cry and left the room. In a little time the doctor raised up with his ensanguined instrument in his hand and dropped the bullet on a table that had been placed at his elbow.

"Good for you, Herbert!" he exclaimed. "That is about as painful a thing as a doctor can do for a man."

"He never groaned once," murmured the admiring Barney, who had come in with Silas Whittaker.

"You're all right, Mr. Herbert," averred Whittaker. "I couldn't have stood it better myself."

The wound was then dressed, and Guy, thankful to have the ordeal over, released his tense muscles and fell back, white, trembling and numb with the shock.

"You're a Concordman with Harmony grit, Herbert," smiled Vlandingham.

His daughter reappeared just in time to hear the words. Coming near the bed, she pushed her hands through her father's arm and directed her blue eyes at Guy. He returned her gaze steadily.

Did he read sympathy in her look? And was there nothing else in it but sympathy? He was no weakling and never had been. He did not want pity from anyone, especially from this fair girl whom he—loved! For some time he had hesitated to acknowledge in his own heart the depth of his esteem for Miss Betty. Their meetings had been few, and, for the most part, under stress of peril to one or the other. And behold, this was Guy's first experience with the tender passion! A first love springs like Minerva from the head of Zeus; or, better still, like Aphrodite from the sea. These callow beginnings of the old, old tale are for the most part as substantial as a child's bubble—just about; yet occasionally, be it known, men and women have ideals and will strike their colors the very moment the ideal comes into their lives. Guy had met his ideal and had surrendered his heart. He was not doubtful of himself; if he had any doubt at all it was of Miss Betty. All at once he remembered the happenings at Lake Elizabeth and of the sorry plight in which they had left him in Miss Betty's mind. When he began to talk with the view of leading up to an explanation, he was frowned down by the doctor.

"Don't converse," interrupted the medical gentleman; "don't move, either. Simply lie as comfortably as you can and rest. I'll come out and see you again this evening."

Closing his medicine case with a decisive snap, the doctor tucked it under his arm and went out.

"As soon as you can, Mr. Herbert," said Miss Betty, "you are to come to Willowview."

"I shall do well enough here, Miss Vlandingham," retorted Guy, "but I thank you for the invitation."

"People must not say that the Harmony people almost killed a Concordian and then left him to shift for himself in a bare little shack like this."

Silo Whittaker had left the room with the doctor or Miss Betty would never have made this remark.

"This shack will answer the Concordian's purpose very well," answered Guy. It nettled him to be referred to in such a generic manner.

"My dove," interposed the squire, "when you're able to come to Willowview you're going to come, even if I have to order out the Invincibles."

Miss Betty turned on her father in a flash.

"The Invincibles have already had their orders to disband," she exclaimed. "Haven't they done mischief enough? From now on I shall do my utmost to conciliate the Concord people, and you are to help me, father. I have a plan which we will discuss on our way back."

The squire cast a half-humorous glance at Guy and bowed humbly.

"Of course, Betty, of course," said he, and they started out.

Before she had reached the door Miss Betty halted and faced Guy once more.

"You will hear from us again, Mr. Herbert," she observed. "Barney will stay here to help care for you."

"You are very considerate," said Guy, "but I can manage to struggle along without Barney."

"Nevertheless he stays!" declared the squire. "Good by, my boy, for the present."

They left then and Miss Betty did not give the young man a parting word, a backward glance or even a smile. Guy thought of this gloomily, for naturally he could not know how absorbed Miss Betty had become in the plan she had suddenly evolved and which she was going to talk over with her father. This plan had to do with the policy of reconciliation and with the release of Col. Keever. The latter, as Miss Betty was planning the matter, should be freed and presented with an olive branch for delivery to the people of Concord.

Guy heard the hoofbeats of the horses die suddenly away in the distance and he imagined that even so was Miss Betty passing out of his life. He would lose her and he would lose the county seat. Before his vision passed a host of migratory structures, stores and dwellings, mounted upon broad-tired wheels and drawn by innumerable teams of horses. Col. Keever was on the roof of the Blizzard building with a spyglass laying the courses for the long caravan that bobbed behind. Pettibone and little Alec drove their own domicile with the high stepper between the shafts and, as this home drifted past, the sheriff winked derisively. One by one the buildings rolled by, in dreamy review, and the spot where Concord had been was desolated as by some comprehensive cyclone. Guy saw himself, forlorn and utterly alone, wandering among his vacant lots, bewailing the loss of the county seat, and of the girl he loved, and then—

And then merciful oblivion blotted out the vision and he slept dreamlessly and the slumber did him more good than all the medicines in the world.

CHAPTER XVII.

For a week after Guy had taken refuge at Sile Whittaker's nothing of moment happened. The doctor came regularly and Mr. Vlandingham occasionally came with him. The squire was at all times his jovial self, although Guy fancied that an undercurrent of restraint permeated his good nature, at times. During those seven days the young man neither saw nor heard anything of Miss Betty. Her father avoided mention of her—studiously, as Guy imagined—and pride restrained the inquiries which Guy often had at the end of his tongue.

This reticence and seeming neglect hurt him, for he yearned to set Miss Betty right concerning that fateful meeting on the shore of Lake Elizabeth. While Guy fretted much over the devious course his true love was taking, yet this did not interfere with his rapid improvement.

The following Saturday found him able to sit up and walk with a cane about the house and out of doors, where Whittaker always had a comfortable chair ready in the shade of the house. Barney was gone, by this time, and Whittaker himself was attending to the wants of his guest.

On this particular Saturday two incidents occurred which effectually relieved the tedium of Guy's convalescence and took his brooding thoughts from Miss Betty.

The first of these incidents had to do with Abe Landy, of Amityville. Mr. Landy was a cousin of Sile Whittaker's and drove over regularly once a week to argue the political question.

Mr. Landy was a florid man with a fringe of carroty whiskers about his plump face. Guy and Whittaker were seated out of doors when he drove along in his two-wheeled cart.

"Howdy, Sile?" said Mr. Landy.

"Same to you, Abe," answered Whittaker.

"Came over to see if you weren't about ready to live on the other side of the farm, Sile."

"If that's all you came for don't stop; just keep movin'."

"No, sir," said Landy, jumping down and tying his horse. "I think too much of you, Sile, to abandon you to your foolishness."

Landy came forward, was introduced to Guy and another chair was brought from the house. In vain did Whittaker seek to divert the conversation to the weather, the crops, the doings of the territorial legislature, or what not; Landy always swerved back to the county question.

COLONEL KEPT VOW.

How Gen. Wilson Cured a Bibulous Fellow Officer.

Charming Story Told About the Gallant Soldier Who Will Represent the Army at King Edward's Coronation.

When the late Charles A. Dana was assistant secretary of war he was commissioned to go to the front and, in semiofficial letters, to give his impressions of the officers of Grant's army for the purpose of assisting President Lincoln and Secretary Stanton in forming their judgment of military leaders.

Of Gen. James H. Wilson, one of the commissioners appointed by President Roosevelt to represent the United States at the coronation of King Edward, Mr. Dana wrote, under date of Cairo, Ill., July 13, 1863:

Lieut. Col. Wilson, inspector general, is a captain of engineers in the regular army, and has rendered valuable services in that capacity. . . . He has remarkable talents and uncommon executive power, and will be heard from hereafter.

"Gen. Wilson abundantly fulfilled that prediction," said Brig. Gen. John P. Weston, commissary general of the army. "I had the honor," continued Gen. Weston, "to serve on Gen. Wilson's staff during his famous cavalry campaign. In the opinion of his men and in the estimate of Grant himself, Gen. Wilson was a remarkably brilliant soldier. Gen. Wilson was very young when made a cavalry commander. In fact, he was but 27 years of age when he assisted in the final triumphs of the war."

An officer in the war department at Washington, in the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post, tells of an incident in which the youth and the still more youthful appearance of Gen. Wilson during the civil war almost led a distinguished colonel to send in his resignation. "It is an interesting bit of unwritten history," said the officer who relates the story.

"Shortly after Grant had put Gen. Wilson in charge of a large force of cavalry and while his brilliant exploits were being heralded throughout the country, Col. —— was transferred from the army of the Potomac and assigned to duty under Gen. Wilson. The colonel knew a number of Wilson's officers personally and was popular among them. He was a stern and brave soldier on the battlefield, but in social hours was something of a Bohemian. On the night of his arrival at Gen. Wilson's camp the general was temporarily absent and the colonel and his old friends celebrated their reunion.

"The next morning the colonel went to the general's headquarters to report for duty. It was in August, and the general, in white duck, entirely divested of military emblems, was keeping cool in a hammock where he was diligently studying a topographical map. Somehow the colonel, who had never met Wilson, got it into his head that this youth was a newspaper correspondent and, so believing, he did not hesitate to address him familiarly, saying that he had arrived only the night before and had, he feared, tarried too long at the wassail bowl.

"'I understand,' added the colonel, 'that Gen. Wilson is very strict about that sort of thing.'

"'The general,' replied Gen. Wilson, suppressing his amusement over the colonel's unwitting confession, 'seeks to impress his officers with the necessity of keeping their faculties clear for possible emergencies at any hour.'

"'Do you think,' persisted the hapless colonel, 'that my appearance would betray me?'

"'Only to the practiced eye,' responded the general, 'but I should advise you to walk around a little while before reporting.'

"The colonel took his advice and after awhile returned. When he discovered that the youth he had seen in the hammock was in reality the dashing cavalry leader, the colonel was in a worse condition than he had been the night before, but the general put him at his ease after exacting a pledge that he would not drink again, except on a physician's order, while the war lasted."

The vow was rigidly kept.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Whittier Eagles and the Underwoods will cross bats tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The game will be played on the old golf grounds.

The St. Mary field is now in better shape than ever since it was recently ploughed. It has been thoroughly rolled and is level from one end to the other. The change will be greatly appreciated by the players.

Manager Monahan, of the St. Mary team, has arranged a game with the strong Raritan baseball team for next Saturday. It will take place on the St. Mary grounds and will be an exciting contest as the Raritans have been playing for some weeks and are in good shape.

Without doubt, Frad Dixon will be retained on first for the Hope team. The way he covered the ground in Saturday's game was a delightful surprise to everyone except the Dunellen team and rooters. His batting work was also timely and demonstrated what he is capable of.

William Dodd, the well known baseball player, is shortly to join forces with the Safe Works people. He has been playing with the Clinton Avenue team and his work attracted the attention of Manager Muir, who is on the alert for good men. He will probably be placed in the outfield.

But for Doyle's agreeing to pitch Saturday, it was the intention of Manager Monahan, of the St. Mary team, to place John Galvin in the box. The latter pitched for several seasons on a college team in New York City and needs only a little practice to attain his old form. At present he is using his arm for an hour or two each afternoon.

Hereafter the Hope rooters will be easily distinguished among the spectators when the team plays. Nearly every member of the Y. M. A., the sponsor of the nine, has procured a cap with the letter H on a field of blue. Blue and red are the association colors and as the organization is one hundred strong, the members will be much in evidence.

The game, which the North Plainfield High School nine was to play with the Battin High School, of Elizabeth, at that place today, has been declared off for some reason not quite plain to the local boys. On Saturday morning the High School team will go up against Rutgers Preparatory School, of New Brunswick, on the latter's grounds, and a return game will played here on the afternoon of May 10.

The children rendered "The Holy City" and Becker's "Spring Soug," as sung by Madame Sembrich. Mr. Lenox paid a high compliment to the children concerning their vocal ability.

Two Plainfielders Badly Hurt, the Horses Knocked Down—One of Hand's Vans Struck in Newark.

Unable to get from in front of a trolley car in Newark, late last night, Andre Dominick and Gordon Parsons, in charge of a van load of household goods, were butted into and are now in the hospital in that city. Both men are employed by William Hand & Son, of this city, and were fetching a load of goods from Hackensack to Plainfield, for George F. Ulcom, who is to occupy a house on East Front street. Coming through the streets of Newark shortly before midnight the men attempted to cross the trolley track in front of a car, with the result already mentioned. One of the horses was badly injured. Dominick and Parsons landed on their heads, resulting in many cuts and bruises. They may have internal injuries. The police took charge of the van, called an ambulance, and the men were removed to the city hospital. Then they notified William Hand, in this city, who this morning sent his son Frank and Mrs. Hand to Newark to render such aid as they could to the injured men. The load of goods was not much damaged.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

"Five years ago farmers around here were feeding their white potatoes to cattle rather than sell them at fifteen cents a bushel," said a vegetable vender from Dunellen, yesterday. "Now those who are fortunate enough to have any are getting as high as seventy-five cents a bushel."

A penknife which had been missing for fifteen ears has just been returned to its owner, T. F. VanHorn, of the borough, in a most perculiar way. The knife was given to Mr. VanHorn fifteen years ago when he lived in Ohio, and one one side of it beneath a piece of celluoid was the owners name inscribed Not long afterward Mr. VanHorn went to Hunterdon county, this State, and while engaged in some farming work there lost the knife. He hunted persistently for it but it could not be found. A few days ago Mr. VanHorn was greatly surprise to receive the knife from a friend, who is now living in the place where the knife was lost. In explanation the finder stated that he was in the woods at work and accidentally picked up the knife. He noticed the name on it and at onee communicated with the owner. It is in an excellent state of preservation and the owner is very glad to once more possess that which he prized highly.

the bride was a gold monogram locket. She gave her maid-of-honor a sash pin and the bridemaids brooch pins of Roman gold. The gifts to the flower girls were gold true lover's knot rings. The best man received gold cuff-links from the groom while the ushers were remembered with gold stick pins of pansy design with a pearl in the centre.

Both bride and groom are well-known in this city and have a host of friends here. The groom graduated from Stevens Institute in 1901 and is now a mechanical engineer in the employ of the Babcock and Wilcox Tubular Boiler Company, of New York.
